Freshman Week
Opens Sept. 16
For Fall Term

MURRAY STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

MURRAY, KENTUCKY, August 15, 1932.

NUMBER SIXTEEN

210 Classes Listed For New Term, September 16

Large Enrollment
Anticipated by Officials.

Two hundred and ten classes are scheduled for the fall term at Murray State College which opens on Friday, September 16, with Freshman Week. In view of the fact that the registration for last September was the largest in the history of the college, Murray officials are expecting a large enrollment next month at the beginning of the tenth year of its existence.

On September 16 and 17 instructions and registration for all college freshmen who have not previously entered the institution, and entrance examinations for students from non-accredited schools will be held. Registration of regular college students will be held on Monday, September 19. Classwork begins on Tuesday, September 20.

The college catalog, recently published, further states that the last day to register for maximum credit will be on Monday, September 26, and the last day to enroll for credit will be on Tuesday, October 11.

Murray State College, in closing its ninth year, has provided an education for more than five thousand young men and women who have enrolled in the different courses of the institution. The August graduating class is the largest in the history of the college, with 73 applicants for the baccalaureate degrees.

High school principals and superintendents have supplied lists of their graduates and approximately 1800 letters have already been mailed to these students. According to the college catalog, the total necessary expense for attending college at Murray per semester is $135.

Library Receives Rebound Volumes

"A shipment of books has been received from Marshall & Bruce Company," stated Miss Margaret Bailey, librarian at Murray State College, Thursday, August 11.

These books, numbering 214, were sent to the bookbinding company a short time ago to be overhauled and rebound. The books are placed in new covers, and the name of the library is stamped upon them. Not all of the books are sent away to be rebound, as three students of this college do that kind of work. The books are bound in "library buckram" because it is the longest wearing of the various coverings.

These books are unpacked and ready for the shelves. Among them are books by Porter, Tarkington, Poe, and other well known writers.

"Quite a few of these books are from the reserve shelves, as they get a lot of use. The others are fiction, reference and class books," stated Miss Bailey in an interview with a reporter of the College News.

To Graduate

One of the August graduating class in Murray State College is Miss Pauline Tyree, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Tyree of Benton, Ky. Miss Tyree graduated from the Benton High School in 1929. She entered Murray State College in the fall of 1929 and will take her B. S. degree from the college August 26.

She chose primary education as her first minor, and mathematics as her second minor.

As a student in Murray College, Miss Tyree is a member of the Allenian Literary Society, Chemistry Club, and has been vice-president of the Library Science Club. She is now secretary of the Student Council. After the graduation exercises in August, Miss Tyree will spend her vacation with her sister, Mrs. J. T. Smith of Chicago, Ill.

Miss Routon Visits Miss Geneva Belt at Murray College

Miss Helen Routon, Paris, Tenn., former student and teacher of Murray State College, was a visitor in Murray last week. During her stay on the campus she was the guest of Miss Geneva Belt, senior in the college.

Miss Routon was graduated from Murray State College in 1930. For the past two years she has been teaching English and doing library work in the Corbin High School, Corbin, Ky. Miss Routon taught English for six weeks of the summer session of the college in 1931.

Miss Lucille Throgmorton, a graduate of Murray State College, taught history and coached basketball in Corbin High School last year. Her team won the championship of the district tournament which entitled them to enter the tournament in Lexington.

Both Miss Routon and Miss Throgmorton were reelected for the coming year.

Faculty Members of Murray State Make Plans For Summer Vacation

Many Will Leave for Visits With Relatives

The vacation plans of most of the faculty of Murray State College are very indefinite, according to information obtained in a series of interviews by College News reporters. Many will leave Murray for brief visits with their friends and relatives in this state and in other communities.

Dr. Charles Hire, head of the department of physical science, does not know where he will spend his vacation, but wherever it is, he will "spend it working."

Miss Evelyn Linn, college instructor, has not definitely decided, but will probably go to Memphis and Nashville during the three weeks intermission.

Prof. and Mrs. L. J. Hortin will spend their vacation with Mrs. Hortin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Scott of West Paducah, and with Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hortin, Albion, Ill.

Prof. R. A. Johnston, chemistry instructor, stated that he does not know when or how he would spend the vacation.

Miss Grace Post, of the Training School staff, will leave immediately after school closes to go to Marion, N. C., where she has accepted the position as principal of the grammar school in Marion.

DR. HIRE ASKS FOR SPECIAL ASSEMBLY TO AID EDUCATION

Physicist Suggests State Legislature Could Transfer
Part of School Funds

URGES WARRANTS BE MADE UNNECESSARY

By H. L. Waterfield
Eager students and many visitors heard Dr. Charles Hire, physicist, speak in chapel Thursday morning, August 4. In the address, Dr. Hire urged legislative steps to make the use of interest-bearing warrants unnecessary, and discussed the general economic and financial condition prevailing in the state of Kentucky. He suggested that a special session of the state legislature be called to transfer a part of the road fund to the common school fund.

"These are times of changes and adjustments. The machinery of all organizations is being subjected to new stresses which are revealing their weaknesses and pointing out places where adjustments are necessary.

"The decreases of revenues have been brought about, in the main, by depreciation in the assessed values of properties of all kinds. The number of the tax-payers who are unable to pay is alarming. In Calloway County alone, there were 250 farms sold for taxes in April.

"The cash in the common school fund on June 30, as shown by the auditor's report of that date, amounted to $327,427.70. Dr. Hire showed that funds could not, without a special law, be transferred from one department to another. "Whenever a part of one of these various items becomes due for payment, the auditor of the state issues a warrant to the person authorized to receive this payment."

"Whenever the general fund is exhausted, the treasurer places on the warrant a notation to the effect that no funds are available for its payment, and that from that date on it bears interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, until redeemed, he explained.

"State warrants do not sell for their face value today," he said. "I frequently see press accounts inferring that warrants sell for 90 cents on the dollar, but I have positive knowledge that brokers are offering but 80 cents. This means that whenever a warrant for $10,000 is sold, only $8,000 can be used by the state for its business. The other 20 per cent is lost so far as the activities of the state are concerned.

"It is evident that the tax-payers cannot permit interest-bearing warrants to increase at the rate of nearly two and a half million dollars per year, with their interest, and in addition stand an annual discount of nearly one-half million dollars."

Ireland to Debate Murray December 6

Auchmuty and Gill
to Represent Dublin.

The University of Dublin, Ireland, has selected two of its outstanding graduates to debate against Murray State College at Murray, Ky., on December 6. The two Irish orators selected for the first debate between the two institutions are: James Johnston Auchmuty, scholar, moderator and bachelor of arts of Dublin University, and auditor of the College Historical Society; and Garrett E. Gill, B. A., L. L. B., barrister-at-law, ex-record secretary of the College Historical Society.

The forensic clash with the University of Dublin will mark the third international debate by Murray State in the past three years. Murray has previously met Oxford and Cambridge Universities of England.

Murray will select one of the following five questions submitted by the Irish debaters, through the National Student Federation of New York:

1. Resolved that Ireland's true interests lie in association with America rather than with England. (Ireland takes the affirmative)
2. Resolved that nationalism is a bar to peace and progress. (Ireland takes the affirmative)
3. Resolved that capitalism has broken down. (Ireland takes affirmative)
4. Resolved that the various nations should cancel their international war debts and reparations. (Ireland on affirmative)
5. Resolved that the British Commonwealth of Nations has no future. (Ireland on Negative)

J. J. Auchmuty

Mr. Auchmuty, who will be one of the team to oppose Murray, was born in 1909 in Longford, Ireland. He was educated at Armagh Royal and was a prefect and member of the cricket team and the rugby football team. He entered Trinity College in October, 1927, and was awarded a scholarship in modern history in June 1929, becoming a first-class moderator in the same subject, when graduating Bachelor of Arts with honors in October, 1931. Since then he has been engaged in research in Irish history and in ancient and ecclesiastical history.

His career in Trinity College has been remarkable for the fact that he has been elected head of three college societies. He has been in turn chairman of the Dublin University Student Christian Movement, president of the Dublin University League of Nations Society, and finally auditor of the College Historical Society, the latter being the highest position open to an undergraduate and corresponding to the presidency of the Oxford and Cambridge Unions.

Mr. Auchmuty holds the Gold

Medal of the College Historical Society for history, and is the author of a pamphlet dealing with the activities of Irishmen abroad, of which subject he is considered an authority. He has been a delegate to inter-debates at Manchester and Durham Universities.

Garrett E. Gill

The other member of the team, Garrett Gill, was born in Dublin in 1909 and was educated at Kingstown Grammar School and the Dublin High School. He entered Trinity College in October, 1926, and took honors in English literature, gaining first place on several occasions and also being successful in securing many term essay prizes. He graduated in June 1930, with honors in legal and political science, and took his L. L. B. degree in the following year.

His legal studies have also been carried on at the King's Inn, Dublin. Mr. Gill expects to be called to the bar during the forthcoming autumn, and will probably be a practicing barrister before the debating tour begins.

As a second-year student, Mr. Gill was elected to the editor's chair of the students' magazine, "T. C. D.", and has been both secretary and Chairman of the T. C. D. Publishing Company, being re-elected twice to these important offices. His record in the oratorical field has been equally distinguished. He is a silver medalist in oratory of the College Historical Society and is the holder of the Gold Medal for Essay. He has filled the post of record secretary with marked distinction, and was defeated by one vote for the highest distinction in the Society—the post of Auditor. For the American debating tour, he was selected by the unanimous vote of the society.

Mr. Gill's merits are not unknown to the literary leaders of the city of Dublin—he has had the high honor of being requested to read papers before the Dublin Literary Society, of which W. B. Yeats, George Russell (AE), and other prominent Irish writers are members. His paper read at last year's session received the award of a medal for meritorious work.

He will also attend the meeting of the Union County teachers at Morganfield, Ky., on August 26, and the Ballard County meet at Wickliffe, Ky., on August 27.

Dr. Charles Hire, science instructor, will go to Camden, Tenn., on August 13 to address the Gibson County teachers.

WHAT SHALL I DO? IS SUPREME QUERY AVERS PRESIDENT

Dr. Rainey T. Wells Addresses Student Body in Chapel August 8

DISCUSSES TRAINING OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, president of Murray State College, addressed the student body on Monday, August 8, on the subject, "What Shall I Do?", using as a background for his discussion, the story of Christ and His relation with the disciples.

Throughout his discussion, the president pointed out that the young people of today have more opportunities from which to choose, yet they are surrounded by many problems and emergencies which are difficult to overcome. He stressed the importance of early training and the need for strong intellect so that the proper decision might result.

Quoting the words of Peter, Dr. Wells took as his text, Acts 2:37: "What Shall We Do?" The speaker traced the latter part of the life of Christ as he trained his disciples. He showed how these disciples, even though they had every opportunity to follow Jesus, failed to be loyal to their Master in an emergency.

"I believe young people are stronger as a class than they were 40 years ago," asserted the Murray executive as he explained that college students will constantly be faced with the problem of "what must I do?"

Addressing the graduates directly, President Wells urged that they train themselves to make correct and prompt decisions. The power to think, he pointed out, is of utmost importance. The facts of history and economics are not so important to a student as the ability to ascertain the cause and effect, he added.

Correct living and proper training will enable a man or woman to answer the question, "What Shall I Do?" as it should be answered, averred the speaker.

The best answer to the question, according to Dr. Wells, is "Relay implicitly upon the teachings of this little book (the Bible)." He concluded with an exhortation to the students to live uprightly and to make correct decisions in emergencies.

The funeral services and burial rites were conducted at Pleasant Grove church.

Orchestra Is Re-Organized

Largest Class Will Be Graduated
at Murray.

CONN LINN HUMPHREYS

Conn Linn Humphreys has reorganized the Kentucky Stomper Orchestra which made its initial appearance as a new organization last Friday night at the National Hotel.

The old orchestra disbanded in order that three of its members might play with Jack Staulcup's orchestra at the Hotel Irvin Cobb in Paducah. In this way Harrison, Humphreys, and Williams have gained some valuable experience.

Mr. Humphreys states that he has a large number of new arrangements, and this fact was proved to merry-makers Friday night. Practically all of these arrangements have been made by Mr. Humphreys himself.

The members of the new orchestra are as follows: first saxophone, Conn Linn Humphreys; second saxophone, Yewell Harrison; third saxophone, Boyd Harrison; first trumpet, Don Phillips; second trumpet, Joe English; piano, Paul Payne Bryant; trombone, Dean Dowdy; and drums, Robert Mills Williams.

There is only one new member in the present orchestra. The others are members of the old Kentucky Stomper that gained so much fame in West Kentucky during the last two years. Their picture was printed in "Musical Truths" which rated them along with Duke Ellington and other nationally famous orchestras. Mr. Humphreys believes that he now has the best orchestra that he ever directed.

One of Atlanta's leading citizens at an elvix dinner given in honor of Dr. Sutton at East Lake Club, said: "He is a big, courageous and forceful man, unafraid of carping critics, generous to a fault with a heart that holds a thousand confidences, with a hand outstretched in friendship, with a smile that knows no dimming. Meet him, know him, love him."

Dr. Barr's present home is in Clarksville, Tenn. He was former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New Orleans. He has traveled extensively in the major countries of Europe and other foreign countries.

Miss Davis was graduated from Murray State College last year, receiving an A. B. degree. She attended Vanderbilt last term and now has her M. A. degree. She was a Latin major. The thesis was written under the supervision of Prof. Frederick Santee and Dr. Clyde Pharr. It was the longest in the department this year and was accepted without revision. Miss Davis is a member of the Eta Sigma Phi and the Nashville Classical Club.

While at Murray State College, she was editor-in-chief of the college news. Nine Years

This issue of the College News marks the close of the ninth year of existence of Murray State College. Nine years have passed since this institution, the pride of West Kentucky, first opened its doors as a mecca of learning and culture.

The past year, in many ways has been the most trying of them all. Decreased appropriations have made more difficult the administration of Murray State. Political and economic disturbances, world-wide in extent, have exacted their toll in hardships on Kentucky teachers. Truly, the way has been hard and stony.

But there is a ray of hope. Probably the worst has passed. The crisis appears to be over. The stock market is better. Prices are going up. Factories are beginning to give employment to thousands of jobless men and women. Education in due time may receive indirect benefits of a business recovery.

"Hope, endeavor, achievement"—these are the tokens inscribed within the three stars in the Murray College Shield. On each building, the student and teacher may see this shield with the three stars carved in stone and marble.

May each student catch a new vision from this triad of stars. May he carve it indelibly upon his heart so that Murray State may stride courageously on September 16 into the completion of a decade of progress.

On Time

It has been a practice of the senior class to wait until the beginning of the spring semester to start planning on the college yearbook, and as a result by frantic rushing and haste the yearbook perhaps would be presented to the student body on the last day of the semester or possibly a day or two later when all the students have gone home.

A publication of this kind is not to be worked up with little planning or in a week or two of time. The material, which is historic in nature should be collected all through the school year; that is, during the fall and spring semesters and perhaps the preceding summer term. When the time comes then for the publication to go to press, the material is collected and in the hands of the printers without the last minute rush, which inevitably results in numerous errors.

As soon as it is organized in the fall term, the senior class should at that time take steps in appointing the annual staff, and start on a plan of procedure for the yearbook so that the "Shield" will be distributed to the student body at the proper time.

Since the students, officials, and patrons of the college have started defending the institution from the numerous criticisms given in the Point-Of-View Column of the Courier-Journal, it is noticed that these articles are no longer appearing. This goes to show that as long as you won't defend yourself and stand up for your rights, you will be the tool of the crew of destruction.

Re-elected

Miss Frances B. Westernman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Westernman of Henderson, Ky., has been re-elected to teach English in the Hobbsville High School, Henderson County, for the coming year.

Miss Westernman is a member of the August graduating class of Murray State College. She will receive her bachelor of arts degree in library science. She is a member of the Allentown Society, the Henry Clay Debating Club, and is vice-president of the Christian Association.

Miss Westernman plans to enter the University of Chicago next summer to work on her master's degree.

COLLEGE RELIGION IS VESPER THEME

Joseph Glover Speaks at Meet of Christian Association Sunday, August 6.

Joseph Glover, Paducah, spoke to the Christian Association at Murray State College Sunday evening, August 6, on "Religion in a College." Mr. Glover is a junior in Murray State and a member of the Allentown Society, and Chemistry Club.

"There are those who believe that the atmosphere and general life of a college is detrimental to religion. Those of us who know, this line of thinking is readily seen to be fallacious. Those who teach in lecture halls and in laboratories are for the most part tolerant, honest, and wise. Unless these teachers are false to the very purpose of the college, such a conception of college can not be so.

"Truth may indeed destroy dogma, but it must, in the nature of the case, be the foundation, and the great truths which the scientific achievements of the past century have disclosed to us, revealing as they do, the essential unity of all things and holding out the promise of limitless advancement in knowledge, constitute it seems to me, a sounder basis of true religion than mankind has ever known before."

These were the opening statements made by Mr. Glover. "In the college there is but one danger to religion. That danger is that the truth may be so narrowly, or irreverently taught, as not only to break down a particular religious belief which the student brings to college, but to send him forth cynical of human virtues and indifferent to the things of the spirit. Such teachings are destructive and are being avoided in the American colleges today.

"Though this Christian Association should become famous, it will not fulfill its purpose unless from week to week and from year to year we learn, hear lessons so intellectually honest and morally courageous, so free from intolerance and superstition, so harmonious with our knowledge of life, so radiant with love, as to draw the youth of this college to its meetings and to send them forth with that understanding which makes men obedient to the laws that govern their lives."

In his closing statements, he said, "As we dedicate these meetings to the cause of religion, may we dedicate ourselves afresh to the faithful service of truth, highly resolving that these meetings shall not have been held in vain but that the youth of this college shall be here enabled to lay broad and deep the foundation upon which to build useful and happy lives."

The program followed: Song by the audience; prayer by E. F. Mellen; song by women's quartet; scriptural reading by Miss Eliza Nall of Princeton, Ky.; prayer by Glenn Morrow of Madisonville, Ky.; talk by Joseph Glover of Paducah; and song by the audience.

The Christian Association is making plans to meet one more time this summer, according to Milburn Cooper of Hollow Rock, Tenn., president of the organization. The last program, Sunday evening, will be given by graduating seniors, and the election of officers for the fall semester will be held.

1000 Chimney Swifts Gather About Administration Building of College

By Ellick Owen

Every evening the chimney swifts that have their summer abode in the right chimney of the administration building gather to roost for the night. It took over 45 minutes for these birds to go down to mouth of the chimney last Sunday evening.

According to Mr. Parker, night watchman of Murray State College, there were close to 1,000 birds in the air at 7 o'clock. These birds circled in broad maneuvers before they could drop into the mouth of the chimney. At times they would change the direction of their flight and fly aimlessly around for some time before descending.

After a flight of over 45 minutes the last bird dropped into the mouth of the chimney at exactly 7:30 o'clock, Sunday evening.

These friendly birds spend their time darting through the air on swift wings, seeking and destroying the insects which are loos to us and our crops. However, it is safe to assume that they are not thinking of us as they skim above our meadows and ponds, hawking our tiny foes; for they are simply intent upon getting a living. Would that we could perform this necessary duty as gracefully as they.

The chimney swift belongs to the same group of birds as the cave or cliff-swallow, the barn swallow, the bank swallow, the tree swallow, and the purple martin. The bird should not be confused with the swallows, for when flying, its tail seems simply a sharp point, making the whole body cigar-shaped. This character alone distinguishes it from the long tailed swallows. In color it is sooty brown, with a gray throat and breasts. The wings are long and narrow and apparently curved. The manner of its flight and appearance in the air make it resemble the bat more than it does the swallow.

WAR DEBT POLICY DEBATED BY CLUB

Austin, Glover Win, Opposing Cancellation of World Obligations

The United States should not cancel World War debts, according to an audience decision reached in the Henry Clay Debating Club of Murray State College, Tuesday, August 9. Acree Austin of Mayfield, Ky., and Joseph Glover of Paducah, were winners of the negative. Glenn Morrow of Madisonville, Ky., and Milburn Cooper of Hollow Rock, Tenn., upheld the affirmative.

Acree Austin, freshman of Murray State College, stated, "If the nations of the world do not pay the World War debt, the taxpayer will have to stand an increase in taxes to pay the debt that the government owes him."

The money we, the United States people, loaned to the United States government to loan to foreign countries will have to be paid back. The countries which borrowed the money, in good faith, intended to pay back, but now they bring a pitiful tale to the World Conference and say, "We cannot pay."

"Some one must pay. It cannot be canceled. If the countries do not pay, it will mean an increase in the taxes that are almost unbearable."

Milburn Cooper, senior in the college, attempted to show his audience that it was morally wrong to ask the nations of the world to pay the debt when they fought for four years in behalf of the other nations that were not in the war at that time.

His first argument was: Just what is the war debt? He quoted Charles Robinson: "In April, 1917, when we first resolved to defend our rights against Germany's aggression, we began to loan the allies vast sums of money to hold the line of defense for us until we could get ready to bear our share of the fighting."

We loaned them $11,000,000,000 to fight our battles, and now are asking them $21,000,000,000 in return."

Cooper stated that it is morally wrong to collect the debt, if we can call it a debt. It is legally unjust to collect it; it is politically bad business to collect it; and economically unsound judgment to try to collect it.

Joseph Glover, junior, asked, "Who started this war?" Of course, the answer was that Europe started the war years before the United States entered. Glover said that the debt should be collected, and that the statement that they had to buy from the United States was incorrect.

Glenn Morrow, junior, brought out the fact that if Europe could not pay the war debts, why not cancel them and give them a chance to build up prosperity in the nation.

In correcting the statement just made by his opponent, Morrow stated that the United States extended bills of credit to the nations of Europe. Would it not be better to cancel the war debts and receive shipments of goods and have a field for our products than to hold the debts and expect to receive goods in payment for the debts?

Acree Austin stated that the amount that France loaned to Japan so they could finance the Manchuria drive was $0,000,000,000. Why couldn't they have paid some of the war debt that they owe to the United States?

Miss Frances Westernman of Henderson, Ky., presided in the absence of Paul Morgan, chairman.

Misses Marguerite Willard, Maurine Cobb, and Mary Franklin Story accompanied Miss Edna Peary to her home in Murfreesboro, Tenn., Saturday, July 30. Miss Peary was a visitor of Miss Willard.

DAY ADDRESSES VESPER SOCIETY

Junior President Speaks on "The Wise Master Builder" Sunday, July 31

Charles Day, Metropolis, Ill., Allentown and president of the junior class of Murray State College, delivered an address before the Christian Association on the auditorium steps Sunday evening, July 31.

For the past three summers Mr. Day has attended Murray College and returns to his regular duties in the fall at Metropolis, Ill. He has four churches for which he preaches and also works for the government in the postoffice at Metropolis.

Mr. Day's speech was given the title, "The Wise Master Builder." In the beginning he compared the foundation of human life with the wonderful structure of the world, showing that it was built upon the same principles as those magnificent structures. He further pointed out that like one of the great buildings, a life has three distinct parts, which must be dealt with separately.

"Our very lives were given to us," he said. "Our instincts were given to us. Our environment was given to us. Our opportunities were given to us. Our native abilities were given to us. This results in the sub-structure of life."

The foundation of our life was compared with that of Paul's. Mr. Day pointed out those whose help we have in laying our foundations: Our mothers, fathers, playmates, teachers, friends, our human hands, and Jesus Christ. "Every life must have a three-fold development: Physical, mental, and spiritual. If you haven't built your foundation around Christ, it is not as firm as it should be."

The third distinct part of life, as Mr. Day indicated, was the super-structure of life. He said, "Some sort building here and begin drifting. These have forgotten their costly foundation. Some will pursue one work and some another. Whatever your calling may be, you must have a purpose. The architect of those skyscrapers had a purpose. They were built for strength, service, and beauty. Well might we build our lives to be strong, serviceable, and beautiful."

In conclusion he stated, "We should strive to make our lives clean, spotless, virtuous, beautiful, strong, and serviceable. You have sub-structure given by God, builder of the universe. You have your foundation. I hope it is built around Jesus Christ, the chief Cornerstone."

The program of the evening consisted of: Scripture reading by Collings Miller of Sacramento, Ky.; prayer by Prof. L. R. Putnam; and a vocal solo by Miss Margaret Lewis, Fairfield, Iowa, accompanied by Carl Neumeier, Arthur, Ill., trombone, and Professor Putnam at the piano.

MY SCHOOL CHILDREN

My bottle is empty
Save for the lees;
My fiddle is silent
Here on my knees.

My children are absent,
Gone far apart;
And here I sit lonesome,
Hugging my heart.

An hour ago merry
They drank my old wine;
We reasoned, and fiddled some Lyrics divine.

Then suddenly springing
Up from their seats,
My children departed
For distant retreats.

Young faces and gestures,
A humorous tone—
Now memories—I am
Wholly alone.

Right gaily they shouted
Cheery good-byes—
A light a bit dewy
Shone in some eyes.

The bright stars are blinking
As pure as the sun;
Soft lights they are sending
All to each one.

My love is now winging
To breasts far apart—
Oh, would that their loves would
Nest in my heart!

The cardinal bravely
In myrtle or vine,
Spits at birds, is singing
Carols divine.

My bottle is empty
Save for the lees;
My fiddle is silent
Here on my knees.

Two Young Rats Die Here of Indigestion

J. B. Grubbs Visits Father at Hazel, Ky.

John Brent Grubbs, son of Dr. W. F. Grubbs of Hazel, Ky., now an employee of the Lewis Furniture Company of Huntington, W. Va., is spending his vacation at Hazel with his father. He visits the Murray State College campus most every day and says that many students that he has seen were here when he last attended the institution seven years ago.

Mr. Grubbs entered Murray State College in 1923 and had completed three years' work when he obtained a position with the Lewis Furniture Company in Logan, W. Va. He has been with the company since that time and is now floor manager of the branch store in Logan.

While attending this institution, Mr. Grubbs was a member of the Allentown Society and various other clubs.

He has recently married and his wife is visiting with him in Murray and Hazel. Mr. Grubbs said that he would probably be here about 10 more days.

Cage Captain Is Campus Visitor

Miss Cleo Long, junior in Murray State College, visited on the campus for a short time Thursday, August 11.

Miss Long was captain of the women's varsity basketball team last fall, and was selected on the all-American team in the tournament which was held in Dallas, Texas, in 1930-31.

Miss Long is planning on re-entering school at Murray at the beginning of the fall semester.

CLUB DISCUSSES WORLDLY TOPICS

Sanders, Hall, and Cox Are Speakers for World's Affair Club

The World's Affair Club of Murray State College, holding its last meeting of the summer semester, heard talks on worldly topics given by students of the college, August 9. James Sanders of Oran, Mo., the first speaker, gave a discussion of the "British Conference" at Ottawa, Canada. Floyd Hall of Hazel, Ky., followed with the "Significance of the German Election."

W. D. Cox of Murray, gave some readings from a diary which he kept while in the service of "Uncle Sam" during the World War. Later slides were shown of some of the interesting places he visited while in the service.

Mr. Sanders explained that the conference was called by England in effort to correct the "unbalance of trade" between England and her colonies. England formerly kept the trade balanced by exporting products to equal the imports from her colonies. At the present time, Mr. Sanders explained, England's imports greatly exceeded her exports. England is suffering from this lack of balance of trade. She is asking that her colonies set up certain trade policies to correct this condition. He pointed out two things that might be done to improve these conditions: First, England might set up a tariff on imports to equalize trade, or second, she might adopt an import quota. The outcome of the conference is doubtful, as it has but two weeks to run and is more or less a secret conference, not desiring publicity.

Mr. Hall summed up the significance of the German election as follows: The majority of the people do not want Van Pape as a dictator for they have a taste for Republicanism, but they are willing to be led by the Nazis who have for their ultimate plan the restoration of the Hohenzollerns back to the throne. This, "no doubt, would be under a constitutional monarchy."

Mr. Hall said, "I shall venture to predict that Van Pape will attempt to control, despite the fact that his influence has been reduced to zero, because as I said, before he was notably stupid." Another reason he will hold on if he can, is that he belongs to the Junker class which will cling until the last.

Mr. Cox read notes from his diary, telling of his visit to Russia and of being in the "Land of the Midnight Sun," or northern lights. He showed lantern slides of places of interest that he had visited.

Miss Mabelle Johnson, a graduate of Murray State College, was a visitor on the campus Thursday morning, August 4. She received her master's degree from the University of Tennessee, took her master's degree at Columbia University, and has done post-graduate work in New York.

Miss Lida Muse, formerly head of the home economics department of Murray State College, visited with Miss Gwendolyn Haynes, instructor in public school music in the Murray Training School and City School, at the Murray National Hotel, July 30 to August 2.

Miss Muse has returned to Memphis, Tenn., to stay until fall. She received her B. S. degree from the University of Tennessee, took her master's degree at Columbia University, and has done post-graduate work in New York.

Mrs. Norman McKenzie, secretary of the Training School, has been absent from her work on account of illness.

Prof. G. B. Pennebaker Keeps Rodents For Laboratory

By Harry Lee Waterfield

Indigestion probably caused the death of two young rats belonging to Prof. G. B. Pennebaker, instructor of zoology at Murray State College.

These young animals were prized very highly by Mr. Pennebaker as they were to be of much use to him in experiments later to be performed. After finding the rats dead and not knowing the nature of the death, Mr. Pennebaker performed a post-mortem and found that the stomach of each rat was filled with fermented food which was giving off a considerable amount of gas. He immediately attributed the death of each to indigestion.

The rats were only about one month old. The mother rats were obtained from the home economics department. Miss Mortensen, instructor in that department, had bought the rats to demonstrate the action of certain vitamins on tissue and after completing the experiment, turned them over to the biology department.

One morning upon entering the biology room, Mr. Pennebaker discovered two baby rats in a cage with one of the mothers and nine in the cage with the other mother.

The young rats were given the best of care but stomach trouble cannot be prevented at times. Mr. Pennebaker is giving special attention to the remaining nine hoping that he will be able to keep the others in healthy condition until he is able to dispose of them through scientific experiments.

The question arises, "Who does more for the future development of science and the promotion of health, etc., the experimentalists or the individual being experimented upon?"

DR. WELLS URGES TEACHERS TO ASK FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

Says Education Has Not Been Given Recognition
by Officials

PRESIDENT IS HEARD IN CHAPEL JULY 25

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, president of Murray State College, in a chapel address Monday, July 25, urged teachers of Kentucky to demand the same consideration as that given in the payment of state officials.

Declaring that political officeholders of the state of Kentucky and Tennessee have been receiving their salaries "in cash" at the end of each month, President Wells asserted that school teachers are being forced to accept script, and salary reductions.

He cautioned teachers against demanding their salaries, but advised them to ask for payment on the same basis as those working in the capital.

"It's time for teachers in Kentucky and Tennessee to assume leadership," exclaimed the educator.

As president of the First District Education Association, Dr. Wells plans to inaugurate a system whereby the school teachers may demand that they receive their proper recognition.

One of the evils of the government today, according to the speaker, is the fact that everyone is seeking a political office. Every reformer thinks that what this country needs is another officer. The fact that Kentucky has so many "colonels" is not due to the wishes of the governor so much as it is a reflection of the desire of people themselves to be called "Colonel".

The president took his text from the Biblical account of the leadership of Moses. When Pharaoh told Moses to "Go in Peace," he made a statement that more people should make in encouraging their leaders, averred Dr. Wells.

In conclusion, President Wells announced that Dr. Hise would next week explain how the state of Kentucky could solve the problem of paying its teachers.

Miss Turner Is Murray Student

In an interview with a College News reporter, Miss Louise Turner, Paris, Tenn., student of Murray State College, remarked, "I received my A. B. degree from Randolph-Macon Women's College in 1931 with psychology and philosophy as a major, and have been doing graduate work in Vanderbilt for the past year."

When asked why she chose this major, Miss Turner replied, "I first became interested in this line of work when I took a course in psychology under Prof. C. P. Poole in the summer of 1928". Mr. Poole is professor of philosophy and psychology at Murray State College.

"My thesis," Miss Turner said, "is based on some original research on sub-normal children, in which a great deal of mental testing has been done. I examined at least 100 children with the Stanford Revision of the Binet Tests as a part of the project."

Miss Turner's work at Randolph-Macon and her experience in psychology generally entitled her to the scholarship which she received from Vanderbilt University.

Miss Turner is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi Woman's Fraternity and the Eta Sigma Phi, Greek and Latin honorary fraternities at Vanderbilt University.

For the last half of the summer school Miss Turner is at residence in Wells Hall. Her work this summer will complete requirements for a professional high school certificate.

Miss Louise Turner is the sister of Miss Mary Agnes Turner, a former student of Randolph-Macon Women's College and a student of Murray State College for the spring semester.

Juniors Plan For Pine Bluff Picnic

The Junior class of Murray State College met after chapel Monday, July 25, to make arrangements for a picnic that has been looked forward to since the meeting about five weeks ago, when they agreed to give a play to raise funds for an outing.

Charles Day of Metropolis, Ill., president of the junior class, took the vote of the class as to when and where the picnic would be held.

On Friday afternoon, August 7, the juniors will motor to Pine Bluff for the outing. Food and transportation will be taken care of with the proceeds of the play, "The Kentucky Belle," staged by the Junior class in chapel Thursday, July 14.

Miss Giles Will Teach in Ballard

Miss Virginia Giles, senior in Murray State College, has been elected to teach at Old Salem, a rural school in Ballard County. Miss Frances Kendall, also a student in Murray State College, has taught at Old Salem for the last two years, and has been elected to teach at Bethlehem in Ballard County.

Miss Giles is a member of the Wilsonian Society, Physical Education Club, and the Christian Association. She received her standard certificate last February and is planning to continue her work in Murray State College next April.

Miss Giles is the daughter of Mrs. Mattie Giles of Wickliffe, Ky.

Miss Kendall is a member of the Allentown Society and the Christian Association. She is a graduate of Bardwell High School and was a member of the basketball team for four years. She made the All-State basketball team at Lexington in 1928.

MISS BURCH GIVES COLLEGE PROGRAM

Paducah Instructor Entertains
With Readings During Chapel
at Murray State.

Miss Inez Burch of Paris, Tenn., instructor in public speaking and expression in the school system of Paducah and former faculty member of Murray State College, entertained the Murray College faculty and students in chapel Friday morning, July 22, with four selected readings.

In the summer of 1928, Miss Burch was a member of the faculty of Murray State College. She is a graduate of the Conner School of Dramatics, a student of the Columbia College of Expression, Chicago, and of Columbia University, New York. She has also been a pupil of leading dramatists and artists of the nation.

Explaining that her first number, "Formality at Sitwash" by Fitch, had its setting in midwinter, Miss Burch interpreted the trials of two young college men in their first society venture.

When the laughter of the audience had subsided, the artist announced her second reading, "Buddy and Waffles". This reading concerned the mutual devotion of a lad, "Buddy", and his trained dog, "Waffles". A mixture of pathos and humor, the reading held the attention of the audience from the beginning to the climactic conclusion. The third number, "Courtship Under Difficulties", was likewise presented.

"A Day on the Beach" was Miss Burch's final reading. Cleverly imitating the hysterical and agitated expressions and antics of a society matron who was "guarding" her children on the beach, Miss Burch again demonstrated her extraordinary talent in expression.

President Wells, at the conclusion of the program, thanked Miss Burch for her program and praised her for the excellence of her performance.

Prof. E. H. Smith, director of the extension department in Murray State College, and Dr. G. C. Foret, education instructor, attended a meeting of Trigg County teachers at Cadiz, Ky., Friday, July 8.

Bert Smith, assistant director of extension work of Western State Teachers College at Bowling Green, Ky., was also present. Mr. Smith spoke on "Economy."

J. N. Holland, graduate of Murray State College, is superintendent of the Trigg County Schools.

Prof. E. H. Smith spoke on "Extension Work and Problems Confronting Teachers of Today."

In the afternoon, Dr. Foret delivered an address on "The Objectives and Aims of the Course of Study." He stated that some 100 teachers were present.

Visits Mrs. Murdock

Miss Margaret Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Lowe of Lowes, Ky., former student of Murray State College, spent the week of July 24-31, with Mrs. Leslie Murdock of Murray, Ky., formerly Miss Thelma Flint, a graduate of Murray State College. Miss Lowe has been teaching in the Lowes High School for seven years and will teach there again this fall.

While a student in Murray State College, Miss Lowe was a member of the Wilsonian Society, World's Affairs Club, and the English Club.

Miss Pauline Hilliard, Clinton, Ky., former student of Murray State College, was the guest of Miss Grace Perdue at Wells Hall during the week of July 19.

FROSH GRID SQUAD TO BE FORMIDABLE

Coach John Miller Expects Outstanding Players to Enlist for Team.

"We are expecting a good freshman football team this fall," Prof. John Miller, the freshman coach at Murray State College stated recently.

Mr. Miller is expecting several outstanding players from the various high schools in Western Kentucky. He said that he and Mr. Cutchin, the varsity coach, are sure of getting some good material from Corbin, Marion, Morganfield, Mayfield, and Madisonville. They are expecting about 30 or 40 "good freshmen" to report for practice this fall.

"We will not introduce a new system, but we will modify our old system to meet the changes in the rules, and to meet our needs. There will be a change in the kickoff, and a few other minor changes," Mr. Miller said.

Coach Miller thinks the new rules will affect the game very little, but they will eliminate some of the danger.

The freshmen's schedule for this season will include five games with the following colleges:

Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, Ky.
Freed-Hardeman Junior College, Henderson, Tenn.
Union University Freshmen, Jackson, Tenn.

Middle Tennessee Teachers, Murfreesboro, Tenn.
Austin-Peay Normal, Clarksville, Tenn.

Two of the five games will be played on the home field. The opening game, which will be with Freed-Hardeman Junior College, will be played at Murray, also the game with Middle Tennessee Teachers.

When asked if he thought this season's team would excel last year's record, Mr. Miller said that he and Coach Cutchin are expecting this year's team to be as good, but no better than last season's team, which was an exceptional team, winning five games out of the six played. The sixth was a scoreless tie. The season's record was Murray 217, opponents 0.

DEAN AUSTIN HAS EXTENSION DUTIES

Instructor Assists Prof. E. H.
Smith During Last Six Weeks of Summer Term.

Prof. A. B. Austin, dean of men at Murray State College, and instructor in the department of social science, is for the last six weeks of the summer term working with Prof. E. H. Smith, head of the extension department of the college.

During the summer term there are many teachers who attend school, and it is necessary that they drop out at the end of the first six weeks in order to resume their teaching, making it necessary that double courses be offered during that time in order that they may finish the course before leaving. All of Mr. Austin's classes were of this nature during the first six weeks and there was not a demand for these classes during the last six weeks, making it unnecessary for the classes to continue.

Dean Austin's work is so arranged that he is able to be in Murray at night. However, he is doing most of the traveling for Mr. Smith, which makes it possible for Mr. Smith to be in his office most of the time.

The fact that Mr. Austin is out most all of the day will not eliminate his association with the men of the college entirely. He has arranged special hours at which conferences may be had.

Miss Bartley To Resume Position

Miss Juanita Bartley, junior in Murray State College who has been teaching in the junior high department in Hopkinsville High School for the past six years, will return this fall to resume her work there.

Miss Bartley has done all her college work in summer school and has been teaching during the regular school months. Other places she taught before going to Hopkinsville were Jacksonville, Fla., and in the high school at Pembroke, Ky., and Crofton, Ky.

Miss Bartley has an outstanding record of all "A's" since she entered Murray State College during the summer of 1927. She is majoring in primary education and her minor is mathematics. She is a member of the Allentown Society.

She is the daughter of T. E. Bartley of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Miss Marie Mortensen, instructor in the home economics department in Murray State College, was unable to meet her classes Monday, July 18, on account of illness.

Miss Wyman Gives Lawn Party

A lawn party was given at the home of Miss Nellie Mae Wyman Thursday afternoon, July 21. Miss Wyman is an education instructor in Murray State College.

The party was planned and sponsored by the class of Education 209, and was given in honor of Miss Wyman's nephew, James Edward, and two nieces, Laura Mae and Jean Fisher, who are visiting her.

The afternoon was spent in playing games. A story of the "Four Musicians" was shown in pictures as Mrs. Robert Chambers told the story aloud to the guests.

Among those present were: Misses Rose Mary Jeffrey, Mary Elizabeth Day, Nancy Dolly Wolfson, Billie Jo Caudill, Margaret Kelly, Martha Ellen Pennebaker, Elvora Hise, Louise Putnam, Lucille Kelly, Mary Frances McElrath, and Stanley Poole, and Marion McElrath.

BIOLOGIST RETURNS TO MURRAY STAFF

Prof. G. B. Pennebaker Has Done Work Toward Doctor's Degree.

Prof. G. B. Pennebaker, instructor in the zoology department of Murray College returned to the college this summer to resume his instruction after a year's absence while doing work on his doctor's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Pennebaker received his master's degree from the University of Kentucky majoring in the department of genetics and minoring in zoology.

During the last year he conducted two research problems. One was on the "Parabiosis of Pigeons" and the other on "The Effects of Light Periodicity on the Laying Cycle of Doves." In the procedure of this experiment he correlated their migration habits, showing that birds migrate north to the point where the length of daylight is equivalent to the need of the particular bird. Here they stop and lay their eggs. He found a definite correlation between the length of light periods (artificially) and the time in which the birds begin laying. He also found that doves having 10 hours of light per day would not lay at all.

Mr. Pennebaker is now making plans to conduct experiments at Murray College on the uropygial gland. This research is to be done under the supervision of Dr. L. J. Cole, department of genetics, University of Wisconsin. He further plans to experiment with rats, which are now being properly cared for at Murray College. This experiment is to deal with the oestrous cycle of the rat.

These rats are also to be used by the genetics class to be opened next fall.

Mr. Pennebaker asserted, "These experiments will be conducted openly, that is, with the assistance of the students working in the biology department and the majors of the zoology department." He further stated, "In the near future I hope to have an animal house located at some convenient place so that these experiments may be conducted in an orderly manner and so that the zoology majors of the college will be able to derive some benefits from them as well as myself."

"Students majoring in fields that require research problems need to be more thoroughly acquainted with technique along their respective line before entering the school that offer advanced degrees," was Mr. Pennebaker's closing statement.

College Crest O. K., Says Professor

"Everything at College Crest is O. K.," stated Prof. J. S. Pullen, head of the department of agriculture in Murray State College. "Especially after the gathering of the faculty and friends of the college there three evenings last week to eat red raspberries and College Crest ice cream."

Even though the ice cream was very soothing last week, Mr. Pullen says it is still warm enough out there for him.

"We have very favorable prospects for the coming year," affirmed Professor Pullen, "for we have a fine herd of cattle and a large flock of chickens. Every division of the farm seems to show signs of progress."

During the vacation of three weeks the closing of the summer semester and the opening of the fall semester, Mr. Pullen and his family plan to visit relatives in Cincinnati.

Miss Mary Agnes Vaughn, Paducah, Ky., and Miss Virginia Vaughn, Springfield, Mo., sister of Miss Mary Charles Vaughn, senior in Murray State College, were visitors on the campus July 19.

PROF. R. K. EDEN PRESENTS BAND

Students and Faculty of Murray
State College Hear
Chapel Program.

The student body and faculty members of Murray State College were entertained by the college band Wednesday morning, July 20, at the chapel hour. Prof. R. K. Eden is director of the organization.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

"The Southerner" by Alexander; "Land of Romance" by Frazer; "The Rosary" by Nevin, a cornet solo by Don Phillips of Decatur, Ill., accompanied by the band; "Atlantis Suite" by Sofia; and "The Kentuckian" composed by the band director, Prof. R. K. Eden, dedicated to President Wells. The clashing of the cymbals represented the sound of the feet of running horses, the Thoroughbreds.

Dr. Wells commended the band members after the program, on their ability and on the type of music they played.

This was the second appearance of the band in chapel during the summer term.

Professor Eden stated that the prospects for the band for the fall term are good.

Miss Brown Selected To Teach in Linton

Miss Linnie Jo Brown was recently selected as elementary teacher in the Linton School, Linton, Ky.

Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Brown near Murray, Ky., and a graduate of Murray State College. She received her bachelor of science degree in 1929 and has finished one-half year of her master's work at Lexington, Ky. She has two years' experience as a teacher, one in Trigg County and one in Calloway County.

While in college at Murray, Miss Brown was a member of the Wilsonian Literary Society and the French Club.

Visitors Surprise Mr., Mrs. Kennedy

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kennedy of Murray were pleasantly surprised Sunday, July 16, when Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barker, and children, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wilson and family; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Johnson, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Rooney Barker, and family, all visited them. They brought their lunches with them and motored out the east highway near Egner's Ferry and spent the day.

Former Regent Is State Appointee

J. F. Wilson, Mayfield drugist, and a member of the first board of regents of Murray State College, has recently been appointed drug member of the state board of health of Kentucky, according to an announcement made by Governor Laffoon. This is Mr. Wilson's second appointment to this board. He is succeeding Addison Dimmitt.

Mr. Wilson, who served as Murray College regent for two terms, is interested in higher education. He has written two articles defending the accusations against Murray State College and public education in general.

Both of these articles have recently appeared in the Point-of-View column in the Courier-Journal. Mr. Wilson was a visitor in Murray last week, securing exact figures for the second article, which was published recently.

F. F. MELLETTALKS FOR SUNDAY MEET

President of Christian Association
Announces That Interest
Is Increasing.

Fredrick F. Mellen, son of Professor Mellen, instructor and head of the public speaking department of Murray State College, spoke to the Christian Association of Murray State College Sunday evening. Mr. Mellen is a senior of the college. He came to Murray from A. and M. College, Starkville, Miss.

"As a result of the extended publicity and effort being extended by the officers and committees, appointed by the president of the Christian Association, to increase the attendance of the organization, the results were gratifying," according to Milburn Cooper, president of the society.

"Many new faces were seen at the meeting, and as our programs for the summer are so outstanding we believe that our cause is gradually filtering into the minds of the student body," continued Mr. Cooper.

Mr. Mellen's talk was centered around "The World of Science and Christianity." He said, "Liberal thought gives rise to normal, healthy, skepticism. Education acts as a poison to faith: sometimes a mild distemper of skepticism; sometimes like an acid. Our God of miracles falls before us, and in such a case ministers cannot remain Christian. They cannot keep Him and keep the loyalty of the educated people."

He continued, using himself to illustrate his point, "Had there been no religious life in the community I would now be an atheist; had there been no plant of culture, I would now be in the seminary training for ministry. Despite the laws of my commonwealth, Mississippi, that prevent the theory of evolution being taught in the schools, and despite religious objections to the same, no student I have known, who was interested in finding out truth, has ever emerged from Mississippi colleges without being an evolutionist. This applies to recent years."

"This fact shows that people will occasionally think for themselves, and that there is something critically lacking in religion. What is it we do not know yet? It has to do with the harmony of the spirit. Breaches between religious faith and knowledge must be filled as soon as possible to preserve the unity of life. Toleration of beliefs must be maintained as each belief is sacred and perhaps uncertain to the individual. No radical break from faith in the God of our fathers should be promulgated; and it is doubtless that there is an Existence greater than we, finite beings that we are. When there are perplexing questions, observation from remote distances will unite God and the faculties of man once more."

Alverson Enters As Special Student

Having decided to continue his education after a year and a half spent in the University of Kentucky, Ted Alverson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Alverson of Greenville, and a graduate of Greenville High School, came to Murray State College, for the first time, at the beginning of the summer term. He enrolled as a special student.

Mr. Alverson plans to enter the University of Kentucky again in the fall of 1932 but will return to Murray College in the summer of 1933. He is majoring in commerce and is, at the present, taking a course in science.

His sister, Miss Sarah Alverson, enrolled as a freshman in Murray State College at the beginning of the last six weeks of the summer term. She was graduated from Greenville High School in May, 1932.

Last Half Begins July 18; Only Few Leaving College

The first day of registration for the second six weeks term of the summer session at Murray State College revealed Monday, July 18, that only a few of those previously enrolled had "dropped out" at the close of the preceding six weeks term which ended Friday, July 15.

The total summer's registration is over the 900-mark, according to an unofficial summary made by college officials. The last half of the summer term opened Monday, July 18, and will close August 26 with the conclusion of commencement exercises. Students were permitted to enroll for maximum credit up to and including July 20, and limited credit may be obtained with registration as late as July 23.

Approximately 50 seniors are scheduled to be graduated with the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degrees at the August commencement. Murray State College will close its ninth year of existence at that time with the record number of more than 100 graduates for the entire year.

The fall semester begins September 19, according to the college bulletin. A full program of intra-mural and intercollegiate activities has been planned for the coming year. Murray opens its football season with a trip to Danville, there to engage the famous Colonels in the first grid-clash ever staged by these two S. I. A. A. institutions. In debating the college likewise is preparing an outstanding program, beginning with an international debate with the University of Dublin from Ireland.

GRID PROSPECTS ARE GOOD, AVERS MURRAY MENTOR

Coach Cutchin Receives
Many Letters From Students
Desiring Training

COACH MILLER IS HOPEFUL FOR 1932

Every year the name of Murray State College is reaching into new fields, according to Coach Carlisle Cutchin in an interview with a reporter from the College News.

According to Coach Cutchin, director of athletics in Murray State College, the prospects for athletics in Murray State College for the coming year will be as good as, or better, than they have been in the past.

Each week the coach receives letters from students in many states expressing their desire to enter Murray State College.

He stated that these students have made records in their high schools, and will add to the athletic records of Murray State College. Each week brings letters from students in Kentucky, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Georgia, stating that they have heard the name of Murray State College and wish to enroll in the fall.

Coach Miller, John Miller, coach of the freshman grid team, stated that the team will be strong and hard to handle this fall. Although an exact statement cannot be made at this time, it is supposed that the team will be composed of players mainly from Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri, with a few coming from Southern Illinois.

Five games have been scheduled for Coach Miller's gridmen.

SELFISHNESS IS CAUSE OF ILLS, SAYS EDUCATOR

President Rainey T. Wells Gives Address in Chapel on July 18

SAYS TEACHERS SHOULD NOT SEEK NEW WEALTH

Selfishness and jealousy are the chief causes of the distress, suffering, and disappointment in the world, according to Dr. Rainey T. Wells in a chapel address delivered at Murray State College Monday morning, July 18.

Basing his address on the biblical account of Jesus' changing water into wine, President Wells told the students and teachers present: "You may not be able to convert and change water into wine for the occasion of a marriage feast, but you can administer cold water to a feverish brow."

School teachers should not desire the acquisition of material things, averred the educator, but rather they should busy themselves with the welfare, happiness and comforts of others.

Madame Curie's discovery of radium was an example of unselfish service, explained Dr. Wells.

"The discovery was made by an individual who gave to the world without money and without price, all of her wisdom and her talent, all that she could discover—gave unselfishly to the world—and now she is one of the happiest women in the world."

Sir Isaac Newton, Einstein, and the country doctor who developed the cure for smallpox were pointed to by the president as examples of leaders who gave unselfish service to the world.

"It is really an inspiration if we will study the history of men and women who have given of themselves unselfishly to mankind. There are some people that would not give anything they thought would be of benefit to anyone else."

"If there is anything in the world today above everything else, in my judgment, that is bringing distress, that is bringing disappointment and depriving us of the comforts of life, it is the selfishness in human nature, the lack of an altruistic spirit," he added.

Although he held out little hope for material wealth to be derived from the teaching profession, the president declared that it is an "opportunity and a blessing to be a teacher." "You haven't much encouragement for the material things of life, but you have an opportunity for the development of human souls and bringing happiness to the world."

In conclusion, Dr. Wells thanked the student body for their presence in college. He urged that they consecrate themselves to the development and upbuilding of every child in Kentucky and in other states.

Hut Managed by Rayburn, Redden

The Hut, familiar "hang-out" for the students of Murray State College, located just east of the liberal arts building, is now under new managers: Waylon Rayburn, a graduate of the 1930 class of Murray State College, and Thomas Redden, a former student of the same institution.

The Hut has been under the management of Mrs. O. J. Jennings.

The new managers stated that they would change the interior decoration and make slight changes in the building and grounds.

The new managers took possession of the business place Saturday afternoon, July 23.

HOUSEHOLD ARTS CLUB HOLDS MEET

The Household Arts Club of Murray State College held its last meeting of the summer term Tuesday morning, July 26, in the liberal arts building.

Miss Vienna Holland, president of the club, presided over the meeting. The minutes of the meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Frances Bichon, and were approved.

Plans for a picnic were made for Tuesday evening, August 2. The program consisted of: "Talks on Home Projects," Miss Geneva Belt, Marion, Ky., and Miss Carolyn Graham, LaCater; Reading, Miss Pauline Glidwell, State Line, Ky.; "Suggestions of What to Eat in Hot Weather," Miss Esther Lawrence, Greenville, Ill.; and Reading, Miss Elizabeth Williamson, Fulton, Ky.

This was the last meeting of the club for the summer term.

Miss Opal Wofford, senior in Murray State College, spent the week-end of July 23, with Miss Elizabeth Howard, junior in the college, at her home in Calvert City, Ky.

Refrigerator Is Added to Store

A new electric refrigeration unit was added Wednesday, July 27, for the purpose of cold refreshments. Mr. Clark, manager of the book store, stated he would have ice cream and other cold refreshments for the students.

MRS. G. T. HICKS TALKS IN CHAPEL

"Mental Health of Teacher" Is Subject Discussed by Educator.

"A task, a plan and freedom will insure mental health of the teacher," declared Mrs. G. T. Hicks in a chapel address to the students of Murray State College July 29.

Mrs. Hicks received her master's degree from the University of Colorado and is now working on her doctor's degree at the George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn. She is doing research work on the subject of Mental Hygiene.

Mrs. Hicks' subject was "Mental Health of the Teacher." "Hospitals are filled with more patients, victims of mental illness than with any other disease," asserted Mrs. Hicks.

Mrs. Hicks explained that mental health of teachers is influenced by the nervous strain under which they must labor.

"Older teachers are more successful than are the younger ones due to the fact that they have learned to make adjustments while the younger ones are inclined to dream of the future," she further asserted. Mrs. Hicks further pointed out that the nervous difficulties are twice as prevalent among women as among men.

In conclusion Mrs. Hicks stated: "The teacher herself can do more than anyone to prevent nerve fatigue which is not a disease but a disorder. Take hints in time and avoid mental disorders. Make associates with all kinds of people. Take life more calmly. Be a kettle drum, not an E string on the violin."

FRESHMEN OFFER PLAY IN CHAPEL

"Pater Noster" Is Given by Class in Assembly Exercise on July 28.

The freshman class of Murray State College, presented the one-act play "Pater Noster," or "The Lord's Prayer," in chapel Thursday, July 28. The play was written by Francois Copper. Professor Mellen sponsored the play.

The cast consisted of the following:

Rose, sister of the young priest slain in an uprising in Paris in 1871, Mrs. Harold Caplinger of Murray; Blanche, her housekeeper, Miss La Rue Morris of Bruceton, Tenn.; Zelee, a neighbor woman, Miss Catherine Lankford of Henry, Tenn.; Cure, the priest, Prof. F. D. Mellen; alias William Perry, the fugitive, a leader of the mob, though not responsible for the brother's death, Loren Putnam of Fairfield, Iowa; captain of soldiers, Virgil Stewart of Lexington, Tenn.; assistant manager, Miss Betty Shemwell of Benton, Ky.

J. D. Rayburn of Wheatcroft, Ky., president of the freshman class, announced the program.

A synopsis of the play follows: A much beloved young priest, having been taken as a hostage by a Paris mob, was slain. His sister, eight years his senior who had been for years as a mother to him, was heart-broken. She was unable to understand how God would suffer the righteous to be slain in their youth. She lost all faith and proclaimed that there was no God. At this point the old Cure entered and told her that the God she defied was the same God her brother worshipped, and having touched her heart, advised her to pray.

When the leader of the mob had sought refuge in her house, she saved him from arrest by soldiers and from death. She remembered the Cure's advice and prayed, "Father forgive us as we forgive our enemies."

Teachers Need To Command Respect, Declares Director

"Through the public schools, public education must command respect. The schools must show in money that they are worth more money than they cost," emphasized Prof. E. H. Smith, director of the extension department of Murray State College, in an address before the general teachers' meeting of Caldwell County at Princeton, Ky., Friday and Saturday, July 22-23.

Mr. Smith stated that the public schools must show that they are raising standards of culture, and that the service cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. He showed that for over 2,000 years the avowed purpose of education has been to build character.

According to the extension head, first, "The public schools must stress more such subjects as history and political science." In this an effort was made to show that political science in the life of today is about as antiquated as the wheat cradle on the farm. "Secondly, that the sciences of economics and sociology bear little relation to present and social economic conditions," Mr. Smith explained to the teachers. "For this reason physical science has so far out-reached political, economic, and social sciences as to throw the whole social structure into disorder."

"Finally, public educators must make their influence felt in politics. So long has this been neglected, the average politician has no fear whatever of the influence of 18,000 school teachers in Kentucky," stated Mr. Smith. "He would rather risk his chance of re-election by robbing the school fund to add to the fund to take care of newly created offices, even though he be forced to make young people with a college education work in the school room for $50 a month, than to risk his chance against one or two vote getters with all the school teachers feeling kindly toward him."

In his closing statement Mr. Smith forcefully explained, that if the public attitude towards public education is to be changed it must be changed by the school teachers. This was the challenge left the Princeton teachers by the educator, in his address at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, July 22. Mr. Smith explained that his one object was to stir up a sentiment in favor of public education so that at least the children in later years might reap the benefit of it.

R. B. Chrisman of Henry, Tenn., former student of Murray State College, was a visitor on the campus July 25.

John Richardson Jr., principal of Puryear High School in Tennessee, visited on the campus July 27. He has been re-elected for next year.

"School executives from nearly every Southern state were present," stated Dr. Poret. "The main topics discussed dealt with problems of equality of opportunity, non-political organization of school systems, and economy in school administration," said Dr. Poret.

Among those present were Dr. Sutton of Atlanta, Ga., former president of the N. E. A.; Dr. Nolen Irby, of the Department of Education of Arkansas; Dr. Dennis H. Cook and Dr. U. W. Leavell, of Peabody College, and President McAllister of the Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway, Ark.

BAND TO GIVE LAST PROGRAM AUGUST 3

Prof. R. K. Eden to Present Musicians in Chapel.

For the last time this semester, the Murray State College band, under the direction of Prof. Royal K. Eden, will appear in chapel Wednesday morning, August 3, in a short concert. According to Professor Eden, the band has prepared several difficult numbers, considering the size of the band, and the program will be one of the best of the summer concerts.

Three of the numbers to be used on the program were prepared last semester when the band was approximately twice as large as it is today, and it has been necessary for the organization to work extremely hard in preparing for the final program.

The following numbers will be played: "American Patrol" by F. W. Meeham; "Wedding of the Winds" by John T. Hall; "The Glow-worm" by Paul Lincke; and "Euryanthe" by C. M. Von Weber.

Miss Geneva Belt of Marion, Ky., a senior in Murray State College, spent the week-end of July 22 with Miss Helen Routon at Miss Routon's home in Paris, Tenn.

PITCHER WINS OWN GAME OVER PARIS

May Hits Home Run And Murray Is Victorious By 4-1.

Pitcher Hugh May's home run in the seventh inning broke up a 1-1 tie and gave the Murray Independents three wins out of four starts against the Paris Apex. Others in their 4-1 victory on the college field Thursday, July 28.

The battle was a long drawn out affair until the seventh when the Murray crew fell upon Walters for three hits, and with a walk, made three runs. May, second man up, hit a long homerun into deep center. Wilburth, next man up, followed with a homer into left. Shaw walked, went to third on Wells' double and scored on an outfield out.

The only interesting play of the long lifeless game was the scoring of Jim Miller in the sixth from first. Reaching first on a single, Miller stole second and then came home as the throw to second hit him and went into the outfield.

The Oilers scored in the fourth inning on a walk and two singles. Walters of Paris pitched a nice game, allowing only six hits but was wild, walking nine men.

Not only did May pitch a 6 hit game, but he led his team in hitting, getting three of the six Murray hits. Only once was May in any kind of trouble.

The spectacular player of the afternoon was King, who went to bat three times and got three hits. Two of these were three-baggers and the third was a double. King scored two of the five runs made by the Juniors.

CHRISTIAN SOCIETY MAKES PROGRESS

Herace Berry Speaks on "Our Present Day Need for Christian Education"

That the Christian Association of Murray State College is growing in attendance, increasing through the executive interest of each member, was shown Sunday evening, July 24. The organization met at its usual place and at its usual time, although President M. N. Cooper, Hollow Rock, Tenn., Vice-President Frances Westerman of Henderson, Ky., and Secretary Gladys Day of Madisonville, Ky., were absent. These officers had gone home over the week-end and were unable to return for the meeting Sunday evening. Albert Thacker of Fulton, Ky., took charge of the program, and Horace Berry of Paducah was the main speaker of the evening.

Mr. Berry's speech was centered around "Our Present Day Need for Christian Education."

"Christian education is needed to correct and counterbalance the false philosophies of human life. It is needed to establish the true philosophy of life which is to serve and help others," Mr. Berry stated. "Christian education is the only thorough education obtainable because it is the only education that includes the whole man, that is, the body, the mind and the spirit," he added.

In closing, Mr. Berry pointed out that Christian education is needed to maintain organized Christianity. He said that Christian education may be viewed in relation with the home, church, and school.

"Christian education is obtained through our Christian colleges for higher education. Now do not misunderstand me. I said, Christian colleges and not just denominational schools to the exclusion of all others. State schools cannot be denominational, as they are supported by the tax-paying people of all denominations, but they can be Christian colleges as well as an individual can be Christian and not belong to any denomination."

"I consider any school where the Christian influence is present, a Christian school, and surely Murray is one when the reading of the Holy Book of God and prayer are parts of the daily exercise, when the college as a whole supports and urges its students to attend church on Sunday and when it permits an organization of this nature to meet on the campus."

"I do not think the world is going to the devil. I have been trying to show the present day needs of a Christian education and urge that all of us receive, if possible, a thorough education, bodily, mentally, and spiritually."

The program follows: Song by assembly; prayer; vocal solo by Miss Robbie Mae Broach of Murray, accompanied by Prof. Leslie R. Putnam; scripture read by Glenn Morrow of Madisonville, Ky.; violin selection by Loren Putnam of Fairfield, Iowa; talk by Horace Berry of Paducah; benediction.
