New surgery offers hope to the impotent

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a physician who reads your column in the Houston Post. A 40-year-old woman wrote to say that after four months of marriage she was still a virgin due to impotence on the part of her husband.

Your answer: "If it's physical, you have two holese continue in a marriage without are your answer.

From your answer, you obviously are not aware of the fact that recently a small device has been developed that can be surgically implanted into the male organ of men who are unable to effect an erection. With this device, the patient (or his partner) is able to pump fluid into the penis, thus producing an erection at will and for as long as desired.

Although the majority of our cases are men who are impotent due to physical reasons, we have also treated men whose impotence was due to psychological reasons.

This work is presently being done at various medical centers in the U.S. as well as in Europe, although it was initiated at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston, Texas. Because this is such a new development, I realize why it has not become a part of your knowledge.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to first cousins who wish to marry an apparently could not do so legally in the state where they lived, such marriages are permitted by the laws of New York—and many other states.

A more curious question: "Can an uncle marry a niece, or an aunt marry a nephew?" A few Latin American countries permit such marriages, and in the U.S.A., the laws of Georgia provide that any marriage permitted by the law of the Levites (Leviticus XVIII) is legal in that state.

Under the law of the Levites, a marriage between a man and the daughter of his sister is permitted. However, the marriage of a man with the daughter of his brother, and a marriage between a woman and her nephew are prohibited.

H.N.N. (N.Y. ATTORNEY)

DEAR ATTORNEY: What you are saying is that a man may marry his niece, but a woman may not marry her nephew: a law which had its origin in the Old Testament.

DEAR ABBY: You have had letters about illegitimate children. May I add my two cents worth?

My parents were adults, well over the age of consent, when they entered into a love afair that would eventually produce me. My father was in the Navy and due to ship out when he learned of my impending arrival. He felt that under the circumstances he didn't want the responsibility of a wife and child, so he boarded the ship and was never heard from

I sincerely hope that the years have been kind to him, and have given him a family to love. I will not look for him, as his mistake is now over 30 years old, and I don't want to cause him any embarrassment.

When I was 18, mother told me the circumstances surrounding my birth, which I consider of little importance. I feel no guilt about the mistake of my parents. I was given a life, and what I do with that life is far more important to me than how I got here.

Now that Carroll is seeking a full term as governor the situation is not quite the me, at least on the part of Sen. Ford.

Ford's conspicuous absence 10 days ago at the huge Carroll for Governor rally here caused puzzlement among Democrats, especially since an erroneous Carroll press release said the senator would be on

But Ford was in Washington, on his wife's birthday, and his people say he did not know how his schedule that day would turn out.

Anyway the Carroll camp really did not expect Ford to join the political VIPs who showed up at the rally.

Is the apparent contin between Carroll and Ford exaggerated or does Ford plan to sit out the primary or perhaps subtly oppose Carroll?

At the moment, both sides seem unsure. What seems certain, though many devoted Democrats preferred not to dwell on it at the time, is that Carroll as lieutenant governor and Ford as governor conducted a correct but frosty relationship and really did not like each other.

You might not have detected it when Carroll extolled Ford at political rallies. Then again you might have caught several jesting barbs Ford threw at Carroll during those public love feasts.

If this background is understood the apparent dedication of Carroll to Ford's ele tion and lukewarm response for Ford to Carroll's election makes more sen

Criticizes Electric System

The purpose of this letter is threefold and I hope that the residents of Murray gree with at least two-thirds of my

The first part of my letter concerns my utter disbelief at receiving an $82.16 electric bill on March 1, 1975. I am single and live in a three-room apartment with two electric heaters. I so absolutely no cooking and send my laundry out. My employment causes me to be out of town for at least two days a week and sometimes three days. Last month my bill was $1.63. Naturally I figured that a mistake had been made and I would pick up the tab later. I did not dream of an $82.00 bill for the two month period. My bill is just another example of inflation and I realize that I should support my electric company and the city of Murray. I also realize that we are in the middle of a "roomer shortage." power shortage.

However, I have become aware of the fact that "our" electric company is not really "ours." Murray Electric Co. is a special institution governed by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Our elected city officials do not direct the Murray Electric Company. T.V.A. sets our rates and ntrols all the profits from the Murray Electric Co. Our city gets no money from electric company.

This brings us to a question. After the employees are paid and the expenses are met, what happens to all the profits? These profits must surely be quite exorbitant.

To combat this situation, the city fathers have come up with a plan called combined billing. Instead of having separate water, electric and gas bills, we would have one large bill at the end of each month. This would put all the money in one large account and then be divided between the Murray Electric Co. and the city owned utilities. Unfortunately this plan is still in the embryonic stage and the chances of it

A. has the city "over a barrel" and seems that they will have their desires.

To add insult to injury, the Superin tendent of the Murray Electric Co., Mr. William Barker, has told us that the city had a power shortage and this winter out electric rates were raised. Now it seems to me that several street lights are back on and there is no current "shortage" being experienced. It should now be time to lower our rates. Is the power shortage over, or was there really ever a shortage to

Mr. Barker "checks the meters" in a new luxury sedan. Luxury cars such as this, I think, get notoriously poor gas mileage and the maintenance is very expensive. The city does not own the car, wever the money for such a luxury car is taken from the profits of Murray Electric. This car is an official car and not owned by Mr. Barker. When we pay our electric bills we are in a sense, paying for this meter checking car. It seems that Mr. Barker could drive a much more economical car. If there is enough money left over from our electric bills to enable Mr. Barker to drive his automobile then it is time to lower our electricity rates. The most ironic part of the auto story is the bumper sticker which Mr. Barker has on his auto. You guessed it, it says "conserve energy. Is there an energy shortage or not? Hopefully we can re-evaluate our Electric System and some of the expenditures that it makes and consequently lower our electricity rates. If enough people are tired of the outrageous bills they receive and want the utilities to be operated as a public service and not as a large money-making enterprise for someone, then we might be able to change the system.

Sincerely, Charles R. Sheeks 5031/2 North 16th

United States Industrial Council

TODAY'S TOPIC: The Anti-Defense Lobby

The hope the American people were urged to place in detente with the Soviet Union has been largely shattered by the of powerful missiles with giant warheads. Increasingly, thoughtful citizens realize that, in the Soviet view, detente is but the cold war pursued under another name

Not all Americans will admit to the reality of Soviet power drives, however. Influential elements in Congress and the academic-metropolitan media complex are determined to push for unilateral disarmament by the United States. They oppose development of new weapons or the replacement of ships and aircrafts worn out as a result of many years of hard service. Together, these elements form a powerful antidefense lobby.

In the structure of this influential lobby no organization plays a more significant role than the Center For Defense Information headed by former Rear Adm. Gene R. La Rocque known to many as the "Ralph Nader of the Pentagon." The Center itself is financed in part by the Fund for Peace, an organization which has been active in promoting anti-defense groups and cause

The Center's role has come under close scrutiny in a recently published public report by Allan C. Brownfeld, Washington correspondent of To The Point International and a frequent contributor to Human Events Magazine.

Writing in the report issued by the United States Industrial Council, Mr. Brownfield challenges the anti-defense positions of the Center. He observes that 'The Center For Defense Information has rejected the findings of most defense authorities in almost every area of its consideration." He states that "it is in opposition to almost all informed opinion on defense matters. Mr. Brownfeld points out that "While the Center calls for dramatic cuts in U. S. ng, arguing that it will h ease our current rate of inflation. Adm. La Rocque completely ignores the fact that the Soviet Union devotes more than three times as much money to military research and development as the U.S. does, or over $25 billion annually to $8 billion for the U

Mr. Brownfield also notes that: "While La Rocque discusses 'detente' and urges American withdrawal from its world commitments as well as dramatic cuts in defense spending, the Soviet Union pursues only a rhetorical 'detente' while pushing ahead in all major weapons systems and armaments. The U. S. Navy, Admiral La Rocque does not tell hi audiences, has been cut almost in half within the past six years." The public report by Mr. Brownfeld is frank and hard-hitting. Mr. Brownfeld, a veteran observer of the national scene, concludes:

'With its quasi-objective format, the Center for Defense Information has distorted much of the reality of America's military posture vis a vis that of the Soviet Union. This is not a question of philosophy, not even a question of whether or not one views the Soviet Union as an aggressive force in the world. It is, rather, a question of exactly what the relative strengths of the two nations are."

Adm. La Rocque is frequently quoted in urnals opposed to strengthening of U.S. defenses. He has testified against defense spending before House and Senate com-mittees. It is terribly important, therefore, that Congress and the public recognize that the findings of Adm. La Rocque and the Center For Defense Information are not in accord with the facts developed by defense authorities in the free world. The built-in bias of the Center against a strong defense posture should be clearly com-

National Federation of Independent siness by Faculty Associates, headed by Joseph Fee. The research team is supervised by Dr. William Bailey of the University of California at Berkeley, and Dr. William Dunkelberg of Stanford.

Data gathered from a selective sample of the NFIB membership in January shows that 31.1 per cent of the responder expect improved business conditions in the next six months as against 19 per cent who felt that way in October, 22 per cent who looked to better times last July and slightly higher than the flat 31 per cent who looked for a better six months last April.

Of the total who anticipate an improved six months, 2.7 per cent expect a much greater business condition as compared to only one per cent who had that hope in October. In January, also 28.4 per cent looked for somewhat improved conditions as compared to 18 per cent in October.

On the pessimistic side only 2.1 per cent expect conditions to get much worse. This is the smallest percentage of dyed-in-the-wool pessimists registered in the past 18 months. In October, 7 per cent looked for the worst to happen

This surge of optimism is registered in all fields, but is especially pronounced among independent retailers. Of the respondents in this category, 30 per cent see better times ahead, or almost double the number who felt that way in October.

Perhaps a part of this new found in dependent retailer optimism is due to the widely publicized collapse of many of the nation's big corporate discount chains plus the troubles being encountered by other corporate entities. This condition presumably channels a greater share of consumer trade to independent outlets. As perhaps to be expected when optimism increases among independent retailers this is also reflected among independent wholesalers with 38 per cent of these respondents in January expecting happier times ahead compared to 21 per cent who were in that mood in October.

Even independent builders are more optimistic, with 32.3 per cent looking for better times as compared to 23 per cent who felt that way in October.

The only pessimistic cloud at present is among the agriculturally-oriented businesses where only 21.2 per cent see better times ahead as compared to 22 per cent in October.

Any analysis of the NFIB surveys has to take into consideration that approximately 70 per cent of the respondents are located in non-metropolitan areas and thus the majority do not reflect the experiences of the huge cities.

The data also shows that a very small percentage of the business enterprises operate under union contracts and thus employers are permitted to shift workers to other types of work than their usual

While there is almost no demand from this segment for unskilled workers, there are still openings for the skilled worker with many employers reporting they cannot fill jobs they have open.

was the typical Murray High-Calloway County game. At halftime, the two teams were separated by just four points in the battle Saturday night for the Fourth District championship in the Murray State Sports

And then it happened. The Tigers began by missing a couple of long range shots. Then they missed a couple of close range shots. Then they missed a couple more here and there and suddenly, they'd just missed their chance to repeat as the District champs as Calloway County walked off with an mpressive 58-44 win.

Fourteen times in the third period, the Tigers jacked up field goal attempts. And 14 times, the ball failed to go in. It was at the 1:50 mark when

Joe Hall Happy 'Cats Aren't Headed For West

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) -Kentucky Coach Joe Hall says he's elated that his Wildcats won't be going to the West Region in the NCAA basketball tournament.

UK stormed to a 118-80 victory over Mississippi State on Saturday and the win, combined with Alabama's 76-70 loss to Auburn, qualified Kentucky as the Southeastern Conference's No. 1 representative.

The Wildcats, who finished with a 22-4 season record, will independent Marquette (21-3) next Saturday in Tuscaosa as regional play begins. Alabama, after losing twice to Kentucky during the season drew the No. 2 spot and travels to Tempe, Ariz., to face Arizona State.

"We didn't want to go out there," Hall said. "Tuscaloosa has been good to us. I think we'll play well there again. It will be predominantly an SEC crowd.

A win Saturday would send Kentucky to Dayton in the next stage of the Mideast, Hall

"If we get to Dayton, we have to think of Indiana - we have to think of that opportunity," he said. "If we get to Indiana, I think we'll play good basketball." Kevin Grevey led Kentucky from freshman center Mike Phillips, who came off the bench in the first half to get Kentucky moving. "Early in the first half, when

Congress Virtually Certain To OK Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is virtually certain to approve a tax cut of at least $21 billion within two or three weeks, but the final version could differ sharply from the bill passed by the House.

Several senators are pointing to the high unemployment rate and urging a tax cut in the range of $26 billion to $35 billion, compared with the $21.3 billion approved by the House. The Senate Finance Committee resumes hearings on the tax cut today.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation" that he hopes action can be completed on the tax cut by the start of the scheduled Easter recess on March 21. If action hasn't been completed by then, there should be no recess, Humphrey said.

Some conservatives are using the Ford administration's argument that the House tax cut plan aims comparatively too much tax relief for families making under $10,000 a year. They say any tax cut designed to fight recession must provide more relief to families in the $10,000-to-$40,000 range - the families that would spend their rebate checks on cars and appliances to stimulate the economy.

The House-passed bill provides a $200 maximum on 1974-tax rebates, which gradually diminish in higher tax brackets. In addition, the bill would reduce 1975 taxes through lower withholding rates.
Ford's proposed rebate would be a flat 12 per cent with a ceiling of $1,000, which would be reached by taxpayers in the $40,000-plus bracket of adjusted gross in-

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the tax-writing Finance Committee, challenges the whole concept of rebates Instead of mailing out tax rebates to almost everyone, it might be better to concentrate the money where it would do the most good, Long argues.

The Louisiana Democrat suggests that instead of spending $8.1 billion for rebates, the government should provide a tax credit of 5 or 10 per cent to families that buy homes or new cars.

Such a move would provide dramatic aid to two of the nation's most depressed in dustries, and the effect could be a quick shot-in-the-arm for the entire economy,

Ford has proposed a $16-billion tax cut and has not stated whether he would accept a bigger one. Presidential Assistant Donald H. Rumsfeld, appearing Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," also declined to speculate on whether Ford would approve a larger tax cut. Ford would have to weigh the size of the cut against any actions taken by Congress toward controlling federal spending, Rumsfeld said.

How quickly the bill is passed and the effects felt by American businesses and families likely will depend on how persistent congressional liberals will be in their effort to take away a tax break enjoyed by the oil companies.

When the House passed the tax cut, it attached an amendment repealing the oil depletion allowance retroactive to Jan. 1. Senate conservatives have promised an extensive fight to retain the depletion
