Farm Bureau To Hold Picnic Here On September 4-5

Chas. E. Wright, President, releases details of the two day meet to be held at the Old Fair Grounds Fulton, Ky., on September 4 and 5, on which he states the regular annual picnic will be on the first day, with the 4-H Club girls display, 4-H Club Baby Beef and the Fulton Junior Dairy Show to be shown and judged the next day (in the morning.) Added this year, as shown above, is a new feature promoted by W. P. Burnett and co-sponsored by the Farm Bureau and that is the Fulton Junior Dairy Show.

To give the public an idea just how much the Farm Bureau is doing toward the promotion and the education of our 4-H Club boys and girls to encourage outstanding accomplishments of their labor, an appropriation was made amounting to $215 to be given to them as awards, (which included $15 to go to the six County District show) for this year. Similar amounts according to participation have been appropriated each year.

Each Farm Bureau member will be sent two complimentary tickets for the big Barbecue dinner, and if for some reason the mail did not bring those tickets, those parties should come to the Secretary on the grounds that day and state so. The public is cordially invited to these features and only a nominal charge is made for plates to non-members. Fifty sheep will be barbecued to feed the people and it is estimated that 2000 will be present the first day at 12 o'clock, and you will be entertained in the afternoon with some real good speaking, in which Hon. Harry Lee Waterfield, of Clinton, will be the principal speaker. J. E. Stanford, our State Executive Sec'y and John H. Cox, our District Organization Director have been invited and will also be on the program.

The following Committees have charge of their respective Departments: Ground Committee: Roy D. Taylor, Chairman, and J. S. Dawes. Meat Committee: Hugh E. Garrigan Sr., Chairman, C. A. Binford and A. G. Campbell. Wood Committee: R. E. Brasfield, Chairman, to work with Meat Committee. Housing Committee: E. W. Yates, Chairman, and Allen King. Serving Committee: Roy Bard, Chairman, L. N. Brown, Percy King and Margaret Adams. Home Demonstration Agent. Cold Drink Committee: Robert Thompson, Chairman, Samuel E. Holly and Guy Barnett. The second day's operations will be carried on by committees from all the six counties: McCracken, Ballard, Graves, Carlisle, Hickman and Fulton, with all county agents in charge. The Fulton Cooperative will finance the calf sale. The Fulton County Homemakers will serve barbecue lunch at noon.

Mr. Wright stated that he hoped every farmer, whether a member or not, would be present and he wants to take this means of inviting all the public so they could see for themselves, these 4-H Club boys and girls achievements.

INDIANS CAN'T AGREE

For many years the plight of the Indians has been attributed to the sordid machinations of the evil British Empire.

Recently, the British Government proposed an interim form of government, pending the establishment of a permanent government in that overpopulated area. Immediately, the age-old enmity between Hindus and Moslems flared into the open and newspapers dispatches tell us that the police of Calcutta needed aid to halt the bloodiest rioting in the City's history.

When the British made their proposal for a constitutional regime the Congress party, including Ghandi, seemed somewhat hesitant and the Moslems seemed somewhat receptive. However, in the course of discussion the Congress group interpreted the temporary provision in its own fashion but not to the liking of the Moslems who continue to demand autonomy for Pakistan.

There is no way to predict what will happen in India before the unhappy people of that area attempt self-government. Not only is there a bitter enmity between Moslem and Hindu but millions of untouchables create a problem and other millions are under the rule of various native states and hence not subject to decisions made by the British in regard to a new form of government.

MYSTERIOUS MISSILES OVER SWEDEN

The people of Sweden and officials of many countries are greatly interested in mysterious missiles which have been flying over that country. The Swedish General Staff is reported concerned over possible violations of Swedish neutrality and is busy checking reports of rocket bombs flying overhead. On one night received more than one thousand reports.

Descriptions of the mysterious projectiles vary, with some observers reporting a fireball instead of a torpedo-shaped missile, but all agree that small fire-balls shoot out from the tail of the projectile. One astronomer, who caught a glimpse while studying the clouds, estimates that the torpedo-shaped thing was metal and at least ninety feet long.

Despite reports and accounts of eye witnesses, the Swedish military authorities have been able to get no tangible proof that the phenomena result from foreign experiments with aerial missiles. Nothing has been found to enable Swedish experts to study the mysterious visitors or to explain what they are. Some believe that the black metal objects, similar to coal clinkers, which have fallen to the earth after explosions in the air, are fragments of the explosives used to propel them rather than a part of the missile itself. These are supposedly radio-directed back to their landing sites after flying overhead.

The reports that come from Sweden have been followed by one from Denmark, which says that a night watchman in West Jutland observed a speeding rocket, approaching from the northeast explode with a roar and illuminate the sky with a blinding flash. However, most of the reports of the "ghost" rockets come from Sweden, where there is much concern, with newspapers suggesting that Sweden is being systematically dotted on a Russian artillery man or being used as an object of demonstration, directed to the world in general.

TO LEND JAPAN $30,000,000

It will surprise some people to hear that the United States is arranging to lend Japan about $30,000,000 for the purchase of transportation, road-building and communication equipment.

The loan was arranged upon the request of General MacArthur for the purpose of preventing disease and unrest in attaining the objectives of Allied occupation.

There is nothing wrong with such a loan which, according to officials, involves equipment which would be loaned to the Japanese to help them clean up debris and restore communication. Obviously, this is necessary if the Japanese are to take care of their country. Occupation costs are now paid by the United States and represent, in themselves, something of a loan to the defeated enemy nation.

If the cleaning up of destroyed areas and the restoration of essential transportation facilities will assist in the rehabilitation of Japanese economy, it will probably save this nation some money in connection with occupation expenses. Moreover, as Japan's economy improves, there will be a lessening demand for assistance.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A Tennessee hillbilly discovered a mirror which had been left behind by a tourist.

"Well, if it ain't my old pappy, I never knowed he had had his picture took."

He sneaked the mirror home and went up to the attic to hide it. But his wife spied him and that night while he slept she slipped up to the attic and found the mirror.

"Hummmmm," she exclaimed, looking into the glass, "so that's the old hag he's been running around with."

NEW INDUSTRY

A nationwide trend in today's big business is the construction of large factories in the smaller towns, bringing resources nearer the production line. Paper mills, furniture factories, and other industries utilizing abundant lumber are rapidly moving to areas where the supply is unlimited and readily available.

New industries in the smaller towns increase the pay-roll and stimulate business. It is heartening to see a town, long lazy in appearance spring to life with new industry. The smaller towns should seek larger payrolls for their communities and most of them do, but there are some points involved where the line should be drawn—even though business men may profit.

Some of the bigger mills involved in certain processes consuming lumber are dependent on a water supply—lakes in most cases. They dump their refuse from the mill into the lakes. Some mills process the dumpage to safeguard fish and other game, but some dump poisonous waste material into the water and the wild life dies off at a rapid pace.

It should not be a choice between mills or game. It should be either the game and the mill or the game. In that manner, mills which kill animal and bird life on the lakes will not find new territory open to industry at any price. The mills will come just the same, but they will provide adequate protection to the state's natural resources.

The army has been wondering what the new P-80 could do. They might be used on Balkan transport escort.

HOW SELF-REGULATION WORKS

Kentucky brewers are determined that their products shall be sold only by reputable dealers.

To insure a high standard of operation among licensees, this Committee's field men inspect retail outlets regularly. They observe whether or not all laws and regulations are being observed, and whether malt beverages are being sold on the high plane demanded by the brewing industry.

Dealers are reminded constantly of the necessity for strict compliance with the law. The vast majority of them realize the far-reaching value of Self-Regulation, and applaud its progressive objectives. They know that their own welfare is linked inextricably with the public good.

SOME VETERANS

General Omar N. Bradley performs a public service in calling attention to "a certain number" of veterans, who are collecting unemployment compensation without seeking employment.

Under the GI bill a veteran may collect $20 a week for a maximum of 52 weeks while unemployed. It is a matter of common knowledge, which we have heard discussed locally, that a number of veterans are drawing unemployment compensation with out making any effort whatever to secure a job. There has been instances where veterans refused employment because they drew the $20 a week.

The Veterans Administration says that about 1,700,000 veterans are receiving allowances at the rate of $135,000,000 a month. With excellent employment opportunities, the number is considered excessive and General Bradley points out that if veterans waste their unemployment compensation advantage now, they may find themselves in trouble later when employment might not be available.

NATIONS CLASH WITH CHURCHES

The history of the world is filled with instances of conflict between various church organization and existing governments. For many centuries, there has been a tie-up between certain organization and political regimes in many countries. Inevitably, there are occasions that result in the dissolution of the doubtful alliance and sometimes open persecution of various religious groups.

In recent years, there has been something of an open enmity between the Roman Catholic Church and the Soviet Government of Russia. This contest is being felt keenly in Eastern Europe but it is a rather difficult from the news available, to figure out exactly what is going on.

Russia has been denounced as anti-religious and there have been statements that Christian churches are tabooed by the Soviet Government. A recent dispatch from Moscow, by the Associated Press, however, quotes Dr. Louie Newton, Baptist preacher of Atlanta, Ga., as saying that his personal investigation in three Russian cities has convinced him that a member of his church can practice his faith as openly in the Soviet Union as anywhere in the world.

Moreover, in Geneva, Hans Broger, a member of the board of the Rumanian Evangelical church, says that communist elements in Rumania are "unfriendly" toward the church but have not taken a militant stand against religion. He points out that Methodists and other Protestant groups, forbidden to function during Nazi occupation, are permitted to operate freely.

In Poland, there is tension between the Roman Catholic Church and the government, with retaliatory measures predicted against church leaders. Hungary is debating the question of church schools, with Leftist groups opposing their continuance and the teaching of religion in state schools.

From Yugoslavia come reports of strong measures taken against some members of the Roman Catholic clergy and such officials say that more than 400 priests have been accused of "Fascist activities" and that 200 of them have been executed.

PRIVATE HEALTH AID PLANS EXPANDING FAST

More than 21,000,000 persons now are covered by voluntary plans for hospital protection and these plans are being extended to include medical costs. Many others are covered by group hospital and surgical insurances, group accident and sickness benefit plans and by mutual benefit associations.

This tremendous growth of voluntary health protection plans was pointed out by Andrew T. Court, of the Labor Corporation, testifying before a congressional committee against proposed government-sponsored compulsory health insurance.

Business has taken the initiative to extend voluntary health insurance programs. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States is urging voluntary group effort to provide adequate medical services for all the people.

HOURLY WAGE RATES REACH RECORD HIGH

American industry is paying record-breaking hourly wage rates.

Average hourly earnings for workers in manufacturing industry reached a record high of $1.06 an hour in April and a further rise to $1.07 was indicated for May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported. The April average was one cent above the wartime peak set in January, 1945.

Rising wage rates since the end of the war have off-set in part the decline in "take home" pay caused by shortening of the work week. Average weekly earnings in April were $42.92, down 4.50 from the wartime top.

MUST U. S. CONSIDER CONQUEST?

Many Americans will be surprised at the conclusion of Dr. Harold C. Urey, noted scientist, who says that the United States faces a choice of waging war to control the world before other nations get the atomic bomb or of forming some effective machinery of international control to protect all nations from the bomb.

Dr. Urey bases his thinking upon the fact that (1) there is no military development against the bomb, (2) it is impossible to prevent others from discovering its secret, (3) the bombs can be made cheaply and in large numbers, and (4) if war breaks out they will be used and will destroy our civilization.

The idea expressed by the distinguished chemist is not altogether new because there have been suggestions from other sources that the atomic bomb will be the means of giving the United States control over the world.

He finds no solution to the problem except "the abolition of war" and, if this proves impossible, hints that the United States should wage a war of world conquest and subsequently police and control the world. This alternative, he admits, is one that he does not "contemplate with any pleasure" but he adds that it is one "which may be a strict necessity."

A little bit of "haymaking while the sun shines" will provide more feed than any amount of regretting this winter.

●Silo Simpkins Says

Corn land is too valuable to waste away during winter—keep it under cover.

One early corn harvest practice is positively shocking; another is cutting for silage.

The farmer who harvests corn early enough to seed small grains doesn't usually sigh for silage.

Not many growers will be "drunk with success" whose cotton fouls up the gin.

The farmer who relies upon the cot too much at this time of year may wake up after the insects have taken the ton from from his cotton.

It takes several weeks for Nature and good cultivation to put quality into cotton, but poor picking or ginning can take it out quickly.

A feeder calf bought this fall will not be one you wish you could buy next spring.

BURLEY SITUATION

The following information on the current production and marketing situation of burley tobacco has been received from the U. S. Department of Agriculture by M. D. Royse, Kentucky State Director, Production and Marketing Administration, and is released for the information of growers who are looking ahead toward plans for their 1947 crops.

"The supply of Burley tobacco for the 1946-47 marketing year has attained the record level of 1,425,000,000 pounds, 88 millions pounds more than for 1945-46 and 182 million pounds more than for 1944-45. Carry-over on October 1, 1946, is estimated to total 865 million pounds more than on the same date two years ago. This rapid rise in carry-over and total supply results from the large crops grown in 1944-45, and another large crop not forecast for 1946. If the 1946 crop yields 560 million pounds, it will exceed estimated consumption and exports during the coming marketing year by 85 million pounds and increase stocks on hand October 1, 1947, by a like amount. Because of this rapid increase in stocks the supply of Burley tobacco is considerably in excess of the reserve supply level and a surplus situation has developed. Disappearance for each of these years is estimated at a fairly stable level of around 470 to 480 million pounds.

"Although individual acreage allotments for 1946 were reduced 10 percent the estimated 1946 acreage of 499,000 acres is only 3 1-2 percent less than were harvested in 1945 and production now is estimated to be nearly as large as last year.

"If exports continue at current levels, total disappearance for the 1946-47 marketing year will amount to about 475 million pounds. Domestic consumption for the 1946-47 marketing year is estimated at 450 million pounds and is based upon a continuation of a level of cigarette output near the current annual rate of 340 billions and some increase in production of smoking tobacco which reached a low of only 50 million pounds during the first six months of 1946 compared with 87 million pounds for the same period a year ago. Production of chewing tobacco, while relatively unimportant in the Burley situation, decreased nearly 6 million pounds during the first six months of this calendar year compared with the same period in 1945. Exports during the current year are now estimated to be nearly double the pre-war level of about 12 million pounds. Despite the marked increase in exports, this outlet still accounts for a relatively small percentage of the crop."

GOLDEN GLEAMS

The only reward to be expected from the cultivation of literature is contempt if one fails and hatred if one succeeds.—Voltaire.

Literature is an avenue of glory ever open for those ingenious men who are deprived of honors or of wealth.—D'Israeli.

Literature is a kind of intellectual light which, like the sun, may sometimes enable us to see what we do not like.—Samuel Johnson.

Our high respect for a well-read man is praise enough of literature.—Emerson.

RUPTURE
SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Irvin Cobb Hotel, Paducah, Sunday and Monday only, September 8 and 9, from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly no matter the size or location but it will increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, and thereby close the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments. Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge 6509 N. Artesian Ave., Chicago 45. Large incisional hernia or rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

BARS
DOWN

The press of the country has devoted a good deal of space to the President's economy plan. Some of the comments are even so enthusiastic as to express the belief and opinion that there will be a balanced budget this year. The only way to balance the budget is to sell a lot of post-war bonds. That is "borrowing from Peter to pay Paul."

The States are burdened with welfare programs that include the aged, the blind, dependent children, etc., etc. Nearly three million persons are receiving aid under three State programs. Just how the Federal Government is going to help them out has not been explained. Every indication is: The budget will not be balanced, and most of such talk is merely political propaganda.

While our politicians at home are bungling through cloudy skies of super-confusion, the United States "holds everything" and takes time off to hold elections that are based on winning political advantages for the most upset officials that ever managed the two old political parties. Some of the Senators and Representatives should be re-elected—notice, this writer said: "Some." The U. S. Government has not shown a disposition, or desire, to control or stop strikes, and its leaders have left most tasks undone that should have been done.

Veterans proved their faith in Americanism during the war. They fought and many died to support the idea that Americanism, a thing difficult to define but precious in this free land, connotes a form of Government superior to anything we know.

The Americanism which veterans fought to preserve carries over into their peace time life. It is found, for instance, as a vigorous program in the American Legion, largest of all veterans organizations. Paradoxically, the strongest criticisms ever leveled at the American Legion, have been launched because that organization has opposed Communism.

Soviet dictatorship was created in an underworld of planning, strategy, secrecy and violence. Too much of the technique of the revolution carries over into their governmental operations today make it difficult for the friendship of the Western World to be acceptable. It is unwise for us to substitute Communism for Hitlerism. We have everything to lose by permitting the spread of Communism here.

Almost every day there are items of news about "surplus war property" that has been picked up by men who have "pull" that works in some mysterious way its mysteries to perform.

The Comptroller General is investigating a lot of cases and he says the results will show the waste of billions of dollars. There's "dirt" being dug up and was scandals are brewing. You may be sure to expect that a lot of crooks and tricksters will be exposed.

Before the war there were 887,400 Federal employees and this shot up to more than three million on the Government payrolls. Senator Byrd of Virginia and a few other statesmen raised quite a row in Congress about the way that brass hats and bureaucrats were being put on the Federal payroll. As a result the number of persons employed by the Government is now 2,320,000.

Despite the angry denials of government clerks, there seems to be little doubt that the Federal Bureaucracy is a haven for thousands of workers, who, because of their incompetence and lack of know-how, cannot qualify for jobs in private business. Businessmen who came to Washington during the war were shocked by the inefficiency they found in the average government office. It is not unusual to have a letter retyped four and five times in a stenographic "pool" before it is mailed out. In some government agencies a letter or document sent to the general files is lost forever.

There is no more eloquent testimony to these facts than the recent stenographic examinations given by the Civil Service Commission to 32,000 contestants in and around Washington, all but 1,000 of whom were government workers.

The exam was an ordinary school test on typing and shorthand, plus a few simple questions on general office intelligence. There was nothing tricky about it. The girls either knew their stuff or they didn't. When the papers were graded it developed that less than 50 percent of the contestants passed.

Will those who failed be fired and replaced by more efficient help? No, says the Civil Service Commission, they will remain in their jobs and be given another test sometime in the future.

In the meantime, the Federal employee unions are planning a drive for another substantial wage increase.

I like America because here we can disagree. We can kick over the traces when we feel like it. We can dislike a President and not get shot for it. And we do not have to get in lockstep or get lockup.

But in Communism land, a "party" of 2 or 3 million rule almost 200 million. If you don't comply you're liquidated. Collectivism is not for "all the people." Here we can dissent. But in the land of revolution, you can't.

Why, here in America we can even disagree with our employers—sometimes even with our employees!

America was built by optimists—darn fools who didn't know it couldn't be done. They did it.

Business men are optimists. They start things. They take risks. They see bright futures.

But in recent years there has arisen in America a crowd of pessimists—radicals and sadicals. They paint things darkly—knock bustness—sell discouragement—and want to take over.

Business men said during the war that there would be 55 million jobs within a year after the war. But gloom peddlers and political grippers said there'd be 15 million unemployed by spring of 1946.

The U. S. Census Bureau now says that, in spite of strikes and shortages, there were 55,320,000 jobs in May—570,000 more than the wartime peak!

Optimists are right—in America!

REDDY HAS THOSE "SHORTAGE" BLUES

THE service extension portion of Kentucky Utilities Company's $10,000,000 expansion program has run into a briar patch of snags. Factory shutdowns, strikes and shipping shortages in copper, steel and coal industries, manpower shortages in the great forests in which poles are cut—all have delayed manufacture and delivery of equipment vital to electric extensions.

Deliveries of transformers, meters, poles, wire, line hardware and the like are snail slow. Much of the dribble of supplies that does come in is necessary to maintain existing lines. Orders have become back orders, and back orders are being shipped short. That's why your distracted friend Reddy Kilowatt has those "shortage" blues.

Our goal is to get immediate service to the hundreds of farmers in the areas we serve. Most of them have signed applications; they need the electricity so that Reddy can help do the chores and make living easier and brighter. We are doing everything in our power to achieve this goal. None of our equipment goes into stock bins. "From the packing case to the service truck" is our motto. As soon as we get it, you get service.

For instance, there have been cases where all the equipment was available except meters. Did that keep us from running service? IT DID NOT. K. U.'s president, R. M. Watt, told his managers: "Our farm customers want electricity. If meters are the only thing holding you up, run the lines in without meters. Get service to these farms the quickest way you know how."

When equipment deliveries are speeded up so Reddy gets rid of those "shortage blues," you can be sure K. U. will be in there pitching, putting up lines and extending service. And insofar as possible, farm lines will be built in each community in the order applications are received.

THIS vital equipment shortage exists with all utilities and other suppliers of electricity in Kentucky, and in all other states. When this bottleneck is broken, K. U. will be among the first to get going at full speed.

"INFORMATION PLEASE"

Kentucky's returned service men and women are seeking answers to questions that affect their future welfare.

They want to know where to get a job, how to obtain a loan, what to do so that they can go back to school, and many, many other things.

Local organizations, both public and private, are attempting to advise our veterans. However, there is generally little coordination between groups and we sometimes find that a man has to consult several organizations before he is able to find the solution to his particular problem.

The Postwar Advisory Planning Commission of Kentucky recommends that all local groups that are sincere in their desire to assist returned service people organize themselves into a Veterans Clearing House; the Clearing House would refer the veteran directly to the member agency best suited to answer his problem.

REPPRESSED COUNTRY BOYS

It is a custom to bewail the monotonous and secluded life of boys of a half century ago. According to some authorities, nobody ever came, work was incessant from daylight till dark, there were no diversions, and even food was plain and practically repulsive. I suspect that people who write thus have poor memories or deliberately fool themselves into believing their their early lives dull and monotonous. Sometimes I, too, have let my voice falter and have seen some of my elderly listeners develop nose-blowing when I mention the hard lot of the poor country boy.
If I had had political ambitions, I am sure that I could have secured the votes of some of these sniffing old fellows. I will not promise to reform. for I am a human being and have all the cussedness of the breed; it is possible that I will again talk hoarsely and try my arts on hardened old fellows in the audience.

But it is a relief to know that one boy's life was certainly not lacking in events. My old diary for 1905, when I was sixteen-going-on-seventeen, is voluminous in its accounts of where I went, whom I saw, what I heard, what I read, not to mention plain daily farm work.
Suppose we look at the single composition book that records my life from June 9 to August 20, 1905. I am sure that most other healthy boys lived just such busy lives and probably thought them humdrum.

Bear in mind that this particular period was no more active than other. First of all, I attended Sunday School at Sulphur Springs church every Sunday except one, when an inopportune shower kept me at home. But I made up for this hiatus in my religious life by attending church services on the regular church day and then went nearly every night to a protracted meeting for two weeks. Company came every weekend, sometimes eight or ten people at a time. Some of them were plain, commonplace relatives that everybody has too many of, but some were rather charming young people around my own age. In between weekends there was seldom a day when some one did not eat dinner with us, for father's being a doctor insured that there would always be visitors, and usually hungry ones at that. One weekend some of our guests ate too much and remained for several days, unable to be taken home. A big family and its guests in a small house, with every bed taken, including the one in the front room, are hardly conducive to a fellow's pining for excitement. An exciting primary election came on, too, when representatives to the General Assembly were to be chosen.
That meant candidate speaking,
one of which occurred at the picnic at Sulphur Springs. And the excitement got more and more intense as the fatal day approached.

My candidate, the young lawyer,
now of Corbin, lost, but he put up a good fight. One Sunday afternoon
I drove far up the creek to Macedonia and helped conduct a singing school. My copy of Comfort came, and no doubt I wept on the installment of St. Elmo, for it occupied twenty-two numbers along about that time. The annual wheat-threshing and its accompanying big neighborhood working came along, and my diary states specifically, down to the pecks, just how much grain I helped thresh. A tent show came along, with actual motion pictures and a graphophone to furnish music for some colored slides. I worked in a stand at a picnic and ice-cream supper given to raise funds for our church at Sulphur Springs. And then Fidelity School started, and I entered on July 24. Day by day I wrote down happenings of note at the school, the intercepting of love notes, the comic pranks of the little boy whose big sister I sighed over for weeks, and all memorable lessons in our brand-new books. I even took time out to have a migraine headache or two, a lifelong habit of mine. Who says that any boy's life was monotonous with events coming so thick and fast? I hardly see how I managed to live through it all.

NO SINGLE COMMAND IN PACIFIC

Hanson W. Baldwin, military writer for The New York Times, calls attention to the mixed command situation in Hawaii, where neither Army nor Navy is supreme, but points out that the defense of the islands depends upon coordination, not joint command.

Mr. Baldwin says that "General MacArthur and his staff are believed to be opposed to placing

Army groups under Navy or Marine command, but, in Japan, naval forces act under his command."

This brings to mind the situation that existed in the Pacific theatre of war during the struggle with Japan, when there was no unity of command in that area. Admiral Nimitz was in charge of naval forces and General MacArthur was in command of Army troops, but there was no single commander, as in the European theatre. Obviously, if the theory of a single command is sound, it should have been in effect in the Pacific area during the war with Japan.

Congressmen and other experts, interested in the defense of the interests of this country in the Pacific in future wars, might make a start in solving the problem by conducting an investigation to ascertain why divided command was deemed advantageous during the late struggle.

"Retonga Priceless To Me," Says Mr. Repass

Felt Too Weakened To Attend To Business. Distress From Nervous Indigestion Promptly Relieved, Poultry Dealer Declares "Retonga Put Me Back On My Feet."

MR. W. E. REPASS
"I lost thirty-five pounds while suffering from nervous indigestion and could not look after my business. Retonga promptly brought back my appetite and I have again reached my normal 165 pounds weight and feel fine," gratefully states Mr. W. E. Repass, 417 West Front St., Knoxville, Tenn., widely known poultry dealer.

"I lost my appetite and no matter how careful I was about the little I forced down gas and sour stomach tortured me unmercifully," continued Mr. Repass. "I felt too restless to sleep soundly and so weakened I could hardly walk around the block. I was thirty-five pounds underweight and whenever I looked in the mirror I felt like I saw a stranger. Headaches from constipation would almost knock me out and harsh laxatives became a habit with me. I couldn't help being alarmed because I seemed to keep going downhill."

"Retonga promptly brought me priceless relief. My appetite soon returned, I regained thirty-five pounds and now work ten to twelve hours daily without tiring. Nights I get plenty of refreshing sleep. Constipation and indigestion distress are relieved, and I feel fine. Retonga surely put me back on my feet."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency and constipation. Accept no substitute. Retonga maybe obtained at DeMyer Drug Co.
