FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1933

NUMBER THIRTY-FOUR

PEOPLE TO DECIDE FATE OF KENTUCKY DISTILLERIES NOV. 5

Louisville, Ky.—Kentucky distilleries are employing more and more people every day, according to a statement issued today by Oswald Brown, chairman of the Distillers' Executive Committee. With over 30,000 Kentucky men and women already employed by the distilling and allied industries in Kentucky, more than five thousand additional employees will be required alone by the more than 100 distilleries which will locate in Kentucky if the State votes for repeal on November 5th, Mr. Brown said.

If the people of Kentucky vote "Yes" to repeal the old State Prohibition amendment, these two new distilleries alone, plus a half-dozen smaller ones now nearing completion, will take more than 10,000 more Kentucky people—2500 families—off the relief rolls, it is said. "The distilling industry directly affects Kentucky employment in many ways," Mr. Brown said. "For instance, aside from direct distillery employees, over 2000 Kentucky miners worked one full month last year to supply Kentucky distilleries with coal. Thousands of men were required to cut the 30,000,000 feet of white oak lumber required for barrels—several hundred skilled coopers to make the barrels, thousands of railway employees helped to haul the coal, the grain, the lumber, the barrels and the whiskey itself."

Kentucky distilleries bought over 9,000,000 bushels of grain last year alone, and this year it will be much more. This grain brought ten million dollars to farmers' pockets and helped raise the prices received by farmers for all the grain grown in Kentucky.

Even with all these benefits being received daily by hundreds of thousands of Kentuckians," Mr. Brown said, "it is surprising indeed that few people realize that the fate of the distilling industry in Kentucky is to be decided at the polls on November 5. A vote for repeal in November is not a vote to repeal the State Inebriate Control Act now in effect. It is simply a vote to put an end to Constitutional Prohibition in Kentucky, and to replace it with a system by which each city, town, county or precinct may determine for itself whether or not alcoholic beverages may be sold therein."

W. C. T. U. MEETING HELD WEDNESDAY

The local Union held its October meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lon Berninger on Eddings-st. An interesting and helpful Bible lesson was given by Mrs. Berninger using Acts 20:20-31.

NEW WHEAT CONTRACTS READY FOR PRODUCERS

The wheat contracts have been received by the County Agent and two meetings will be held at the court house at Hickman Saturday morning at ten o'clock and at the city hall at Fulton Saturday afternoon at 1:30 to explain the new four year contract.

FULTON BULLDOGS FACE MARTIN FRIDAY

Fulton Bulldogs are prepared to face the strong Martin football team in a game at Fairfield here Friday afternoon. Coach Lee Powell's boys are determined to win over the Tennesseans, continuing their aggressive drive of last week when they defeated Sharon 25 to 0. Much interest is being manifested in the game Friday afternoon, and a number of Fulton business firms have co-operated in boosting the Bulldogs. Turn to an inside page and read the special advertisement on the Martin-Fulton game.

PROBABLE LINEUPS FOR GAME

FULTON	POS	MARTIN
CARVER	LE	IVIE
WILLIAMS	LT	GARNER
L. H. COOKE	LG	WALKER
PEEPLES	C	VOWELL
SNOW	RG	BUXTON
CAMPBELL	RT	KENDALL
WRATHER	RE	GIBBS
EDWARDS (c)	Q	HURT
BEADLES	LH	POYNTER
BOYD	RH	J. HARRIS
COOKE	FB	WHIGHT

In the game last Friday night Roy Edwards ran wild in the second period for three touchdowns, one extra point, and gained 135 yards for the period. One of his wild hikes was a punt he received on his own 45 yard line and skirted through the Sharon eleven, and down the east side line for the marker.

In the first three minutes of play Fulton scored when Sharon's center over threw and Beadles raced to recover ball behind the goal. Edwards crashed through left tackle for eleven yards and scored a touchdown when the second period was only six minutes old. And then about four minutes later he made his third and last of the Bulldogs' touchdowns from the five yard line on a line buck.

CORN-HOG MEETINGS TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Instruction meetings regarding the voting on the corn-hog program for 1936 will be held at the court house in Hickman Saturday morning at ten o'clock, and at the city hall in Fulton Saturday afternoon at 1:30. The Secretary of Agriculture is very anxious that the farmers express their opinion of the program as there is some chance of the corn-hog program not being continued for 1936.

All farmers who have produced corn or hogs are eligible to vote at this time. Ballots will be available at these meetings for those who wish to mail the ballots to the county office. Voting places will be established the following Saturday at the County Agent's office at Hickman and at the School house at Cayce and the new Chamber of Commerce building at Fulton.

FOX HUNT ATTRACTED HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

The annual fox hunt sponsored by the West Kentucky Fox Hunters Association at Mobley's Camp Ground, north of Fulton, last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, proved to be one of the most interesting sporting events ever held in the purchase in recent years. Hundreds of lovers of the sport attended and participated, with forty-seven dogs in the contest.

J. D. Yopp of Paducah won first prize, a silver loving cup, for speed, drive and endurance in the hunt. J. M. Medley of Paducah took second prize; J. M. Kimbell of Water Valley took third place. J. M. Kimbell Sr., of Water Valley won first and second money for the best litter of male and female pups, and J. M. Benton of Bardwell took first money for the best all-age bitch.

Dr. Mason of Murray extended an invitation for the association to hold its next annual chase at Murray, and it was accepted. Plans are being made, however, to hold an annual hunt at Mobley's, where a club house will probably be built. "Black Gal" a fox hound belonging to T. G. Martin of Fulton, caught the fox in the annual hunt last week.

CHANDLER SPEAKS AND BANQUETS WITH FRIENDS IN FULTON

A B. "Happy" Chandler, Democratic nominee for governor of Kentucky, was welcomed to Fulton Friday night by a large body of Democrats. After a hard day's grind in a speaking tour in West Kentucky, he arrived in Fulton in time to banquet with precinct committeemen of Fulton county and their friends, at the Usona Hotel at 6:30 o'clock.

Following the banquet he proceeded to the City Hall where he spoke before an enthusiastic gathering of Democrats, with the court room overflowing and crowds on the streets listening at his talk coming through an amplifying system on a sound truck stationed outside the city hall. From the city hall Chandler went to the football field at which place he was met enthusiastically by another crowd.

Chandler stated in his talk that he considers those who voted against him in the primary just as good Democrats and just as much his friends as those who stood by him through his campaign. But he called upon the Democrats to support all the Democratic nominees when they go to the polls on November 5.

CHESTNUT GLADE TO HOLD CONTESTS FRIDAY NIGHT

The Chestnut Glade High School is giving a community program tonight (Friday), in which an old fiddlers' contest and other interesting numbers will be featured.

Many prizes have been arranged which will be awarded to winners in the various contests. And as a special added attraction, a real live "baby" will be given away.

HENDON WRIGHT INJURED

Hendon Wright of this city, state highway patrolman, was injured early Monday night at Paducah, when his motorcycle collided with an auto driven by W. T. Rodgers of LaCenter, Ky., at the intersection of 13th and Madison streets. The patrolman had started to pass the car when Rodgers pulled to center of street to pass another car. Wright was thrown from his bike through the air striking the pavement. He was taken to the I. C. hospital where severe lacerations about the face and body were given attention. His injuries are said to be serious.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL

Hattie Lou Stubblefield, Reporter, Honor Roll for the upper six grades follows: First Honor Roll—Iris Sanford, Irene Todd, Sharon Murphy, Mildred Cook, and Louise Jones. Second Honor Roll—George Lancaster, Harry McKinney, Catherine Morris, Edith Robey, Katie Margaret Allen, James Donald Hall, Robert Lee McKinney, Virginia Roach, James Thomas Welch, Eva Williams, Everett Jolley, Huseell Paisgrove, Anna Lou Caldwell, Dorothy Edwards, Pauline Rogers, Opal Williams, Dorothy Nell Brown, Dorothy Cook, Velma Taylor, Wilma Allen, John Owen, Charles Cannon. For seventh and eighth grades: First Honor Roll—Ruth Vaughan, Bodie Paisgrove, Rosetta Burrow, Ruby Conner. Second Honor Roll—Lucille Allen, Frances Hutchins, Gwynell Willhawk, Eva Anderson, Dorothy Arnold, Warren Payne.

The Sophomore Class is glad to welcome Mary Lou Averett from Jackson, Miss., as a member of the class. Mary Lou's father moved to Mississippi nineteen years ago but recently returned to the old family place near Chapel Hill.

Mr. Andy Holt, state high school visitor, made an inspection of the school last week. He found everything in good order and was especially pleased with the great improvement made on the building by workmen during the summer. Mr. Holt spoke at the County Teachers' meeting Saturday. Teachers from South Fulton present at the county meeting were: Prof. and Mrs. H. J. Priestley, Prof. Cecil Kent, Mrs. J. C. Thomson, Miss Sarah Pickle, Miss Viola Smith, Miss Lena Stokes, Mrs. J. W. Davis, Mrs. Malcolm Smith, Mrs. Elbert Lowery.

Rev. Woodrow Fuller was in chapel Thursday morning and conducted the devotional. Bro. Fuller also told some interesting things about James Whitcomb Riley and read very effectively the poem "The Old Sweetheart of Mine."

A. L. A. PAGEANT AT WOMAN'S CLUB PROVES SUCCESS

The pageant presented by the local American Legion Auxiliary at the Woman's Club building Tuesday night at eight o'clock, was attended by about two hundred people. An old fashioned living room was the attractive stage setting where the grandmother, Mrs. Don Gerling, was seated, showing her grandchildren, Billy Murphy and Shirley Houston, all her collection of quilts and with each quilt an appropriate song or musical number was rendered. As the story of each quilt was told Misses Beulah Cheyne and Carlene Caldwell held which they were placed at the back of the stage.

Those appearing on the program were Richard Williams, Dick Hill, Paul Hornbeak, Buddy Parham, Joseph Omar, Maurine Ketchum, Miss Knibb, Mrs. Ralph Penn, Miss Agatha Gayle, Willy brothers, Joe Treas, Annie Lee Cochran and Wallis Koelling. Accompanists were the Misses Sara Butt, Martha Norman Lowe and Ivora Cantrell. A class of small children, directed by Miss Mary Frances Spear, presented a very colorful "Butterfly Dance".

As the last quilt, the "wedding ring," was shown, "I Love You Truly" was sung by Miss Agatha Gayle, followed by a wedding march with the bride and groom. Annie Lee Cochran and Wallis Koelling, marching across the stage making a very colorful ending. At the end of the program the quilt which was given away was drawn by Mrs. I. H. Reid.

SATURDAY TAG DAY FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

This Saturday, October 19 will be Tag Day in Fulton to obtain funds for the Kentucky Children's Home Society, Raymond Peoples, County Chairman, stated here today. The governor of Kentucky will issue a proclamation asking every man, woman and child to become a member of the Kentucky Children's Home Society during the week of October 21-26, when a membership drive will be conducted.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society received 302 children last year, considerably over 60 children per month. 974 children were placed in family homes. There are now 2925 children under supervision in the State. The Home keeps its doors open to the appeal of any dependent white child within the confines of the State and has never refused help to any child.

The Society is endorsed by the Louisville Department of Public Welfare, the Round Table, the Kentucky Educational Association and the Louisville Board of Trade, and the commendation of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers, the State Federation of Women's Clubs and virtually all of the Civic and Luncheon Clubs throughout the State. This Society receives some State aid which is supplemented by appropriations of various Fiscal Courts and these have also been supplemented by private contributions.

RED CROSS IN MEETING

A called meeting of the Fulton Chapter of Red Cross was held at the Woman's Club, Tuesday, with J. D. Davis, local chairman, presiding. Plans were made for the annual roll call which starts Nov. 11 and continues until Thanksgiving. Mrs. Mansfield Martin was appointed Roll Call Chairman for 1936, and will hold a meeting of her committee next week.

In interest of organizing a live roll call committee in Fulton and to overcome inactivity here, J. A. L. Sayer, national Red Cross representative of Washington, D. C. was present and assisted in the organization work. Fulton has been falling far below its quota which is 500 members this year, and an effort will be made to improve the membership here.

An annual meeting of the stockholders of the Woodlawn Land Co., and the Fulton County Club, was held Tuesday night at the Fulton Country Club. G. G. Bard was re-elected as president. Other officers are as follows: Joe Browder, vice-president; L. O. Carter, secretary; Ward McClellan, treasurer of Woodlawn Land Co.; Bud Davis, treasurer of the Country Club.

Mr. Bard made a good report on the past year's work. The total income of the club was $2,029, with 93 members enrolled. $300 has been paid on the funded debt of the club, back taxes paid, and the $4,300 debt refunded at 5% instead of 10 1/2%.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MET HERE LAST WEEK

A meeting and banquet was held by the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday night at the First Methodist church, with R. T. Moore, president, Rev. E. N. Mathis offered the invocation. Paul Hornbeak, chairman of the program committee, reviewed the work done by the organization during the past year. Arch Huddleston Jr., secretary, reported that sixty-five persons had paid in their membership, and approximately $700 in dues collected.

A report was given by E. N. DeMyer on the project for widening of Lake-st, in which he pointed out that everything had been done to push forward this plan, and that papers are now in the hands of President Downs of the Illinois Central System obtaining right-of-way for construction of a wider street. The state highway department has agreed to co-operate.

Several WPA projects were discussed by T. T. Boaz of the city council. These improvements include work at the city cemetery, paving of Meers-st, building of a new bridge on Highway 45 in Missionary Bottom. Paul DeMyer gave an interesting report on the recent purchase of pure-bred bulls which have been placed in this section for building up better dairy herds.

Gas Bard expressed satisfaction with the results of the trade day campaign being conducted by Fulton merchants. J. A. Colley, whose business carries him into the rural communities, commended the benefit derive from the good-will trips made by the Fulton Chamber of Commerce, stating he would like to see more of them.

Two road projects were discussed by Joe Browder, in which he stated that efforts are being made to improve the Middle Road and the Enon Road. Steve Wiley and Bailey Huddleston also spoke on the road situation.

The need of closer organization and co-operation between the various departments of the Chamber of Commerce was brought out by Clyde Williams, in which he stated many important matters were neglected. Discussion of factory possibilities was taken up.

HALLOWEEN SHOW TO FEATURE CONTESTS

Plans for the annual Halloween Carnival to be held in the gymnasium of South Fulton School this year have been completed. There is to be a departure this year from the usual type of program that is held in connection with the fun on that occasion. There will be the usual booths, spoons, costumes and decorations and in addition a varied program of contests will be held from the stage. Musicians of all sorts are invited to attend and compete for the prizes. Merchandise and money will be given for first, second and third places in most of the contests and the only qualification necessary for entry is that the person who wishes to try for a reward be present.

Among the events on program will be: Best Fiddler, any tune; Best Hog Caller, Ugliest Man, Best Vocal Solo (lady), Best Harmonica Player, Best Vocal Solo (man), Best Jig Dancer, Best Instrumental Seller, Best Quartet, Best Whistler (lady), Best Chicken Caller (lady), Best String Band. A large cake baked by Hornbeak Bakery will be given to the girl who is chosen Queen of the Carnival. Various prizes are offered by Fulton business firms.

MRS. N. L. RICE

Mrs. N. L. Rice, age 76, of Hickman, died Wednesday night, at six o'clock at the I. C. hospital in Paducah. Mrs. Rice fell at her home about two weeks ago and suffered a broken hip. She was thought to be recovering nicely, and her death came suddenly. Funeral services will be held today (Friday) at 2:30 p. m. at the home in Hickman. Mrs. Rice is survived by two daughters, Mrs. C. L. Newton and one sister, Mrs. A. T. Bynum and three daughters and three sons of Hickman.

NEW THEATRE MANAGER

The Strand Theatre, which is one of a chain operated by G. W. Haynes of Ridgely, Tenn., is now under the management of Tommie Marshall of Ridgely. Mr. Marshall has had many years experience in management of theatres, having opened the West Memphis theatre and managed the Strand at Union City for some time. He announces the showing of a great picture, "She Couldn't Take It," Sunday and Monday, featuring George Raft, Joan Bennett and Walter Connolly.

SWOPE HEADS STATE REPUBLICAN TICKET IN NOVEMBER

Louisville, Ky.—The Republican party is extremely fortunate in its choice of candidates for all State offices. Particular attention is now being given the candidates for the two leading positions on the ticket—Judge King Swope, of Lexington, the nominee for Governor, is claimed by Republican party leaders to have a decisive advantage over the democratic nominee, for those who demand economy, efficiency and reforms, a housecleaning at Frankfort. His record is unblemished and in importance overshadows that of the Democratic leader in matters of public service. Judge Swope is a jurist with an enviable record.

No ableer man has ever been presented for the important office of Lieutenant Governor than Judge J. J. Kavanagh of Louisville. Judge Kavanagh was born in Louisville 53 years ago. His ancestors for three generations have lived in Kentucky and he is of truly pioneer stock. Judge Kavanagh received his education in the Louisville public schools and the Louisville Male High School, and is a graduate of the University of Louisville. He received the highest honors in each of his classes, and is in every sense a true Kentucky product.

JERRY FORTNER DIES

Little Jerry Fortner, three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fortner, died Sunday morning at their home in Harris, Tenn. Funeral services were held Monday morning at eleven o'clock at Harris, conducted by the Rev. Charles Fry. Burial followed at the Chapel Hill cemetery in charge of Lowe's Undertaking Company.

WEST FULTON P. T. A.

The West Fulton P. T. A. met on Tuesday afternoon in a most enthusiastic meeting at the Junior High School auditorium. The president, Mrs. John T. Price presided over the meeting. A lengthy business session was held during which delegates were elected to represent the local group at the District Conference held in Smithland last week. They are Mesdames W. O. Shankle and Smith Atkins with Mesdames J. O. Lewis and Theodore Kramer, alternates. Financial reports were made at which time it was voted that in order to pay for a set of books already purchased $25 to be paid this year and $25 next year.

At the close of the business session the program was turned over to Mrs. Eldridge Grymes, Program Chairman. An interesting devotional was read by Rev. Woodrow Fuller. A reading by Jack Cooper and a piano solo by Miss Carlene Caldwell were much enjoyed. The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Clarence Reed, who is an accomplished writer. She had as her topic, "Children's Books." A library exhibit of children's books and a story sketch of each one was presented by the librarian, Mrs. Wilmon Boyd.

At the end of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The next meeting will be Tuesday, November 19.

VOTE IN STRAW POLL.

Millions of persons throughout the nation await with interest the outcome of the pre-convention straw vote on presidential choices which has been launched by 2,000 weekly newspapers.

Coming at this time, when the policies of the administration are under thoughtful scrutiny by every man in the street as well as by politicians and governmental experts, the trends of opinion revealed in the unofficial vote should reveal significant information concerning sentiment in different sections of the country.

The poll is nation-wide and the participating newspapers represent various shades of political opinion. Most of them, we think it safe to say, follow the center path of political independence. The great majority are published in small towns and have their largest circulation in rural areas, but most weekly newspapers also have a very considerable circulation in larger urban areas. In view of this, we think the results of this poll should prove fairly well representative of opinion throughout the nation.

WILL WAR TOUCH US?

We don't believe that there is much chance of the United States being seriously affected by the war between Italy and Ethiopia. There is no such emotional reaction, so far as we can see, as there was in the beginnings of the Great War, when everybody in America was taking sides vehemently.

If the war is confined to a conflict between the Italians and the Ethiopians, it is difficult to see how any American interests would be seriously imperiled. All the trade that we have with Ethiopia you could put in your hat. Our exports to Italy have been steadily declining for years and there is no occasion to worry about them.

The real possible danger to the United States would be another general European war. That is not outside the realm of possibility.

KY. UTILITIES TO SPEND $333,800 ON POWER SERVICE BETTERMENT

Lexington, Ky., October 17.—To better electric service facilities and meet the needs of increased business, Kentucky Utilities Company and subsidiaries will immediately spend an estimated $333,800 for transmission and distribution line extensions and improvements, Robert M. Watt, president, reported this week.

Work already begun, or to be started at once, includes building fifty-one miles of 66,000-volt line between Pineville and Somerset, and eleven miles of 33,000 volt line between Hodgenville and New Haven.

The former will serve as an additional tie-line between the steam electric power plant near Pineville and Dix Dam hydro-electric plant providing "loop" service for Williamsburg, Corbin, Somerset, Stanford and intermediate points, Mr. Watt explained. The latter will give Bardstown, Elizabethtown, Glasgow, Hodgenville, Horse Cave and New Haven "loop" service.

Important line extensions and accessory installations also will be made near Carrollton, Springfield, Winchester, Cynthia, Versailles, Lawrenceburg, Johnsville and Dix Dam, Mr. Watt said.

It may not come as a direct result of the present exchange of belligerent gestures between Italy and Great Britain, but all of the folk who make a study of international relations seem to think that, sooner or later, some incident will set off the fireworks and involve all of the Great Powers in another catastrophic conflict.

The thing that brought us into the last war was the assumption by belligerent powers of the right to dictate to us where our ships might and might not navigate the free seas, an assumption which culminated in Germany's declaration of unrestricted warfare. It is conceivable that a situation might develop in which the free passage of American commerce through the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal would be threatened or prohibited by some other nation. It would not take very many incidents, such as the deliberate sinking of American ships, to stir the American people to the point of going to war again.

We hope nothing of the sort will happen. We do not think it likely to happen. But we must not lose sight of the fact that no nation can remain completely isolated from all the other nations of the world, and that anything which upsets the international situation may easily affect us, too.

HAZARDS OF HOME LIFE

It was Mark Twain, we believe, who used to say that the most dangerous place for anybody to be was in bed, because he had learned from statistics that more people died in bed than anywhere else.

Admiral Carey T. Grayson, head of the Red Cross, has just given out some similar statistics, which are to be taken a little more seriously than Mark Twain's humorous remark. More people are killed every year by accidents in their own homes than are killed on the highways in automobile accidents, the Red Cross has discovered. Last year more than 34,000 lives were lost by such things as falling downstairs, fires, accidental poisoning—usually from taking the wrong pills out of the bath room medicine closet in the dark—and such hazards as lightning, forgetting to turn off the gas, and standing on top of wobbly step ladders.

The Red Cross is starting a campaign for safety in the home. We will do our part by trying not to step on the soap the next time we get out of the bathtub.

Leaf tobacco being sold to highest bidder

From 1900 up to 1934 the leaf tobacco used for cigarettes increased from

13,084,037 lbs. to 326,093,357 lbs.; an increase of 2392%

It takes mild ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

United States Treasury Building

During the year ending June 30, 1900, the Government collected from cigarette taxes $3,969,191

For the year ending June 30, 1934, the same taxes were $350,299,442

an increase of 8725% —a lot of money.

Cigarettes give a lot of pleasure to a lot of people.

More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised. But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos. Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.

SOCIAL EVENTS of the WEEK

MISS NOLA MAE (Book) WEAVER Editor Home Phone 511; Office Phone 470.

MRS. TAYLOR ENTERTAINS

Mrs. W. L. Taylor delightfully entertained a number of her friends with a well planned bridge party Friday night at her home in Fair Heights. The home was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers tastefully arranged in baskets and vases. The Hallow'en motif was cleverly carried out. Six tables of guests were present and participated in games of progressive contract throughout the evening. At the end of the games high score was held by Mrs. Clyde Hill who was presented lingerie. Mrs. Lester Newton of Union City held second high score and received perfume.

The hostess served a delicious salad course to the following guests: Mesdames Felix Segui, Don Hill, Clyde Hill, Wade Joyner, Robert Burrow, Macon Batts, Joe Bennett Jr., Johnnie Cook, Alex Inman, Frank Wiggins, Reginald Johnson, Misses Lucille McCampbell, Lucille Green, Avanelle Green, Lena Evelyn Taylor, Mildred Graham, Mildred Gibbs and the following out-of-town guests: Mrs. Harry Barry, Miss Calista Johnson, Mrs. Nora Alexander, Miss Isabel Bondurant, and Miss Christine Watson, all of Hickman and Mrs. Lester Newton of Union City.

THURSDAY NIGHT CLUB

Miss Eunice Rogers entertained her bridge club and several visitors Thursday night at her home on Central-av. Four tables of guests were present which included regular club members and the following seven visitors: Mesdames Frank Brady, Jimmie Cochran, W. R. Donigan, Ben Davis, N. T. Morse, C. D. McIntosh, and Yvonne Homra. At the end of several games of progressive contract high score for the evening was held by Miss Ruby V. Yarbro among the club members and received perfume. Mrs. Ardelx Sams held second high and was presented a beautiful handkerchief. Mrs. W. R. Donigan held visitor high score and received a lovely scarf. At a late hour the hostess served a delicious salad course.

UNEEDUS CIRCLE MEETING

The Uneedus Circle of the First Methodist church met Monday night October 14, with Mrs. Harvey D. Bondurant at her home on Park-av with Mrs. Ben Ragland as joint hostess.

The meeting was opened with a Scripture lesson and prayer by the president, Mrs. Wallis Koelling. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Lucille McCampbell. The treasurer's report was given by Miss Martha Taylor. During the lengthy business session plans were completed for a baby show to be held October 29 at three o'clock at the First Methodist church. A nominating committee was appointed to elect new officers for the coming year. This committee is composed of Mrs. Frank Wiggins, Mrs. Milton Exum and Miss Mildred Graham.

At the close of the business session delightful refreshments were served by the hostesses to nineteen regular members, two new members Mrs. Herschel Seat and Martha Moore and three visitors, Mrs. Johnnie Cook, Margaret Hamilton of Rives and Martha Dunn of Wingo.

PARTY THURSDAY NIGHT

Mrs. C. C. McCollum delightfully entertained a number of her friends Thursday night with a bridge party at her home on Walnut-st. The home was beautifully decorated with a profusion of autumn flowers and the Hallow'en motif was cleverly carried out. Eight tables of guests were present and enjoyed games of progressive contract at the end of which high score for the evening was held by Miss Marie Campbell who received a lovely bracelet. Mrs. Mike Sullivan held second high score and was presented powder. Mrs. Ernest McCollum received an attractive bon-bon dish as consolation prize.

Late in the evening the hostess served a delicious salad course. Mrs. M. F. Riggs of Martin was the only out-of-town guest.

SATURDAY NIGHT CLUB

Mrs. Livingston Read was hostess to her bridge club Saturday night at her home on Green-st. Two tables of guests were present including regular club members and these visitors: Mesdames Arch Huddleston Jr., Hendon Wright and Ralph Penn.

After several games of progressive contract high score was held by Mrs. Vernon Owen among the club members and Mrs. Arch Huddleston Jr., among the visitors.

THURSDAY NIGHT CLUB

Mrs. John Bowers was hostess to her bridge club Thursday night at her home on Fourth-st. Two tables of players were present and enjoyed games of contract. Mesdames Charles Murphy Jr., Wallis Koelling, John Daniels and Wilburn Holloway were visitors for the evening. At the end of the games Mrs. Henry Ford held high score among the members and Mrs. Wallis Koelling held visitors' high. Both were presented lovely prizes.

The hostess served a delicious salad course at a late hour.

RODGERS-OLIVE

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Olive of Jackson-st announce the marriage of their son, Uel, to Miss Elizabeth Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rodgers of Union City. The ceremony was performed Friday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of the bride in Union City with the Rev. F. B. Jones of the First Methodist church officiating. They were accompanied by a few intimate relatives and friends.

The groom is a graduate of Fulton High School, having finished in the class of 1928. He has for the past seven years been employed at the O. K. Laundry. He has a wide circle of friends here who wish him much happiness. The bride is an employee of the Tennessee Gas Co. of Union City and is a very popular member of the social group there. Immediately after wedding the couple left for an unannounced wedding trip after which they will be at home to their many friends in Union City.

CLUB FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Don Hill delightfully entertained her Wednesday afternoon bridge club Friday afternoon at her home on Walnut-st. Two tables of guests were present including club members and these visitors: Mesdames Bernard Houston, B. O. Copeland and U. G. DeMyc.

At the end of several games of progressive contract high score for the afternoon was held by Mrs. Mansfield Martin among the club members and Mrs. Copeland held visitors' high. Both received lovely prizes. Late in the afternoon a delicious salad course was served.

MRS. RAY BRADY HONORED

Mesdames A. G. Baldrige and Guy Gingles delightfully entertained the old sewing club Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Baldrige on Fourth-st, honoring Mrs. Ray Brady of Long Beach, Calif. who is a former member of the club.

A lovely luncheon was served at one o'clock after which the afternoon was spent in informal entertainment. The out-of-town guests were Mesdames Ira Seay of Paris, Tenn., and G. H. Dickey of Milan, Tenn. The only member of this club not present was Mrs. T. D. Clark of New Orleans.

PARTY FRIDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Lynn Phipps was the charming hostess to a well planned bridge party Friday night at her home on Jackson-st. Garden flowers with their autumn beauty were the decorations throughout the rooms. Five tables of guests were present and enjoyed several games of progressive contract. At the conclusion of the games high score for the evening was held by Mrs. Buddy Thomason, among Fultonians, and Mrs. Ed Mammen of Paducah held high score among the out-of-town guests. Miss Mary Swann Bushart held second high and Mrs. Muriel Neal of Paducah received the travel prize. All were presented lovely prizes.

A delicious salad course was served to the following guests: Mesdames Burgess Waltmon, Frank Beadles, Glynn Wiseman, Joe Hall, Wilburn Holloway, Harry Bushart, Glynn Bushart, Buddy Thomason, Jean Moon, Marshall Roberts, Charles Murphy Jr., Bob Binford, Misses Mary Hill, Margaret Curlin, Cordelia Brann, Mary Swann Bushart. Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Greatness Will Out Don't be anxious about it. If you are a somebody, it will be discovered.

Italians Invade Ethiopia and Capture Aduwa

MAKING good on his threats and promises, Benito Mussolini sent his armies crashing across the border of Ethiopia, starting a war that gave all Europe the jitters.

Under the command of Gen. Emilio De Bono, chief of the Italian colonial armies, the Italian troops laboriously advanced from Eritrea, crossing the Mareb river frontier and capturing Adigrat and other towns that had already been practically razed by bombardment from planes.

The immediate objective was Aduwa, the scene of the terrific Italian defeat 20 years ago. After several days of hard fighting against the defending Ethiopians, who lost probably 2,000 killed, the invaders marched into Aduwa, and considered that the disgrace of 1893 had been avenged. The Italian soldiers of General Marivigna's command entered first, carrying to the principal square and there erecting a big stone monument inscribed "To the fallen heroes of Aduwa." There was a report that Mussolini would fly to Aduwa to unveil this memorial.

Italy officially announced that all of Tigré province was in Italian hands, and at the same time her columns were advancing into Ethiopia from the south and east, with the city of Harrar and the country's one railway as their objective. Squadrons of bombing planes were flying here and there, destroying towns and killing many of the inhabitants. In the northern sector the Italian forces were moving toward Makale and Aksum, where the Ethiopians were reported ready to offer stiff resistance.

Emperor Haile Selassie was said to be about to go to the northern front. He and his advisers were apparently quite satisfied with the showing already made by his armies and spoke contemptuously of the Italian victories.

Meanwhile, in Geneva, the League of Nations council, after hearing the report of a committee of six, found that Italy had resorted to war in violation of the league covenant. This automatically meant that sanctions, beginning with the severance of all trade and financial relations with the aggressor nation, probably Italy could not long endure. Geneva was full of rumors that Mussolini was disposed to talk peace with Emperor Haile Selassie after the taking of Aduwa. Premier Laval of France, it was said, proposed to Baron Aotisi that the Duce accept an immediate cessation of hostilities and the creation of a neutral zone in Ethiopia. The peace rumors also were heard in Addis Ababa and one of the emperor's advisers, asked whether the reports were true, replied "almost." It was believed Haile Selassie would insist, in case an armistice were declared, that all Italian troops withdraw from the empire. Italian officials in Rome said they were not thinking of peace terms and that their campaign had just started.

Mussolini's Defiance to All Other Nations

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the opening of hostilities in Ethiopia, Mussolini gave the signal for tremendous mass gatherings of all Fascists in Italy. Millions of Black Shirts in all the cities dropped everything and assembled to cheer for the Duce and his African adventure. From the balcony of the Venezia palace in Rome the premier shouted the words that committred his nation to a policy that meant either victory or ruin. He reiterated his determination to seize territory from Ethiopia but declared he would do everything possible to prevent the campaign from bringing on a European war. But he warned the League of Nations and all nations to keep their hands off, saying:

"To sanctions of an economic character we reply with our discipline, our sobriety, and our spirit of sacrifice. To sanctions of a military character we will reply with measures of military character. To acts of war we will reply with acts of war."

Embargo Is Proclaimed and Travelers Warned

FURST giving assurance, in his speech at San Diego, that the United States would not be drawn into any foreign war, President Roosevelt issued two important proclamations. One proclaimed the embargo on all shipments of war material to the belligerent nations. The other warned Americans that travel on Italian or Ethiopian vessels would be at their own risk. Since Ethiopia has no shipping, the latter proclamation was directed solely against Italy. In yet another statement the President reversed our national policy by declaring that Americans who engage in "transactions of any character" with either of the warring nations "will do so at their own risk." In the past the United States has argued for the right of neu-

Gen. Malin Craig Named Chief of Staff

MAJ. GEN. MALIN CRAIG, a veteran of two wars and commander of the war college, was appointed chief of staff of the American army by President Roosevelt.

He took office immediately, succeeding Gen. Douglas MacArthur who is on his way to the Philippines to be military adviser to the new island commonwealth. Craig is advanced to full generalship.

Born in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1875, Craig was graduated from West Point in 1898.

Immediately afterward he saw service in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, and in June, 1900, participated in the China relief expedition made necessary by the Boxer outbreak. After service in various army posts in this country, Craig, upon American entrance into the World war in 1917, was assigned as chief of staff of the Forty-first division.

Later he became chief of staff of the First army corps, serving in that position until the armistice was signed. Then he marched into Germany as chief of staff of the army of occupation.

Twelve Persons Killed in Air Liner Crash

TWELVE persons met sudden death when an eastbound plane of the United Air Lines crashed about fifteen miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., in the early morning hours. The plane apparently struck the peak of a small hill and bounced, nose first, against the top of another hill. Fire did not break out but the impact was fatal to the nine passengers, two pilots and stewardess.

Supreme Court Occupies Its New Building

QUITE without ceremony, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and the eight associate justices of the Supreme court of the United States took possession of their new ten million dollar home which on the outside resembles a Corinthian temple.

Everything in the handsome building was new except the nine chairs of the eminent jurists occupy, and these would have been replaced if the architects and decorators had had their way.

There was a big crowd present to see the justices open the first term of court in the palatial structure but only a few spectators could get inside. The first business was the admission of more than 150 lawyers to practice before the court. Then the calendar was read. On this calendar are six cases which hold the fate of the New Deal. The most important of these is one which will determine the validity of the agricultural adjustment act. That ruling may rank with the Dred Scott decision in its political consequences.

Other important cases are those challenging the Bankhead cotton control act, the Tennessee Valley authority, the right of the Public Works administration to acquire land for housing projects, the corporation reorganization act, and the right of states to tax the property of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

A. F. of L. Report Says Preserve Basic Law

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR opened its annual convention in Atlantic City with many problems up for discussion. In its report the executive council advocated preservation of the national constitution, without amendment for the present, as best for industrial recovery. It said: "That some control must be exerted over the former system of laissez faire cannot be denied."

"The experiment," the report added, "which has been concluded, has helped to point the way to the goal which we must seek. How is congress to acquire that control over the industry and trade of our country which will make possible the necessary reforms?"

"Until exhaustive studies have been made with respect to attaining this great objective, under our present constitution, we cannot recommend just what steps should be taken in connection with this particular problem."

The report urged vigorous action to drive Reds out of the federation, and recommend the continuation of a strict labor boycott on German goods and services until the Nazis gave "adequate recognition and protection to the rights of minority groups."

Propaganda To Influence Men Very Cheap Empire Good Airplane News

The learned Doctor Lorge, of Teachers' college, Columbia university, has been studying laws governing propaganda that influence human minds, experimenting on 99 "educated" adults from the list of unemployed, from twenty to sixty-nine years old. These were asked to express their views of "some opinions" uttered by Lincoln, Roosevelt, Hoover, Thomas (the Socialist candidate), Coolidge, Hearst, and Karl Marx. Many that reacted favorably to the name of "Lincoln" did not approve Lincoln's statement: "Capital is the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not existed."

Those that "objected" had sound reason on their side. Capital is not the fruit of labor any more than labor is the fruit of capital. Capital and labor are both the fruit of human intelligence.

The intelligence of Thomas A. Edison supplied labor, jobs employing millions of men and paying billions in wages, and that Edison intelligence alone supplied capital to those that knew how to use Edison's ideas on a big scale.

The great element in "propaganda," "persuasion," in advertising, is repetition. Say a thing often enough and the average man believes it, not asking why. Of all human convictions, none is more firmly fixed, immovable, than those based on superstition, ignorance, falsehood and preposterous credulity.

Encouraging news:

"An aviation program of more than 1,000 new planes to cost approximately $60,000,000 has been mapped by the Army, Navy and Marine corps for 1935."

If we can afford five thousand million dollars to prevent the depression killing two million Americans we may well spend sixty million dollars to keep foreigners from shooting at all of us.

The Van Sweringen brothers had railroad properties that financial writers called a "three billion dollar empire."

Perhaps "three billion" referred to bonds, watered stocks and other "securities" of the "empire." In any case, the Van Sweringens borrowed forty-eight million dollars on that "empire," largely from J. P. Morgan & Co. They did not pay the forty-eight million dollars, the whole thing was put up at auction, the Van Sweringens bought back control of the "three billion dollar empire" for three million dollars, one-tenth of 1 per cent of the three billions and forty-five million dollars less than the amount borrowed on it.

The hurricane that spread destruction over Jamaica and Cuba obeyed the suggestion of Miami's weather bureau and went 200 miles out to sea. Florida, much obliged to that hurricane, wonders whether anybody has any definite plan to control destructive hurricanes.

William J. Cameron, broadcasting from Detroit, able to interpret Henry Ford's views better than anybody else, finds economic signs "already changed for the better." More important, the "American mind has made a remarkable recovery of equilibrium."

Ethiopia's king has "about" 2,000,000 men massed on three fronts, all facing Italians, and ready for anything to happen. Under those conditions something probably will happen. Whatever starts must go to the end. It is not likely, with Hitler preparing for revenge, that France will sever her present relations with Italy for the sake of distressed Ethiopia.

If dear old England should sally forth and find herself all alone, she would probably "sally" back again without firing that first deciding shot. Mussolini knows that.

In Nebraska President Roosevelt addressed his first speech of the campaign of 1936 to 15,000 farmers gathered around the rear end of his car and 20,000,000 other farmers by radio. He talked earnestly, with jesting; he understands the silence of farmers who applaud little while expressing no disapproval.

The farmer, who lives and thinks by himself, is not a demonstrative being.

Explaining and defending AAA, an administration device that tells farmers what, where, how much they may plant, what animals they may raise, what prices they must charge, the President chose this convincing statement:

"Three years ago I visited farms in this state and saw farmers thrashing 30-cent wheat and sheeling 30-cent corn."

With farmers, facts count. There is no 30-cent wheat or 30-cent corn now.

They did not pay the forty-eight million dollars, the whole thing was put up at auction, the Van Sweringens bought back control of the "three billion dollar empire" for three million dollars, one-tenth of 1 per cent of the three billions and forty-five million dollars less than the amount borrowed on it.

The hurricane that spread destruction over Jamaica and Cuba obeyed the suggestion of Miami's weather bureau and went 200 miles out to sea. Florida, much obliged to that hurricane, wonders whether anybody has any definite plan to control destructive hurricanes.

William J. Cameron, broadcasting from Detroit, able to interpret Henry Ford's views better than anybody else, finds economic signs "already changed for the better." More important, the "American mind has made a remarkable recovery of equilibrium."

Ethiopia's king has "about" 2,000,000 men massed on three fronts, all facing Italians, and ready for anything to happen. Under those conditions something probably will happen. Whatever starts must go to the end. It is not likely, with Hitler preparing for revenge, that France will sever her present relations with Italy for the sake of distressed Ethiopia.

If dear old England should sally forth and find herself all alone, she would probably "sally" back again without firing that first deciding shot. Mussolini knows that.

In Nebraska President Roosevelt addressed his first speech of the campaign of 1936 to 15,000 farmers gathered around the rear end of his car and 20,000,000 other farmers by radio. He talked earnestly, with jesting; he understands the silence of farmers who applaud little while expressing no disapproval.

The farmer, who lives and thinks by himself, is not a demonstrative being.

Explaining and defending AAA, an administration device that tells farmers what, where, how much they may plant, what animals they may raise, what prices they must charge, the President chose this convincing statement:

"Three years ago I visited farms in this state and saw farmers thrashing 30-cent wheat and sheeling 30-cent corn."

With farmers, facts count. There is no 30-cent wheat or 30-cent corn now.

SPRINGBOK KILLS COW

Springboks, which appear in 110 film pictures and to most people of Africa seem to be very demure animals, have their likes and dislikes. This was demonstrated by one during a stock sale in Nigel, South Africa, recently. As soon as it sighted a new cow the springbok broke away from its owner and drove its horns into the side of the bossy until the domestic animal was dead.

If you feel tired, run-down, nervous and out of sorts

—there is usually a definite reason for this

Now let's reason sensibly. Don't try to get well in a day... this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

But there is a certain scientific way you can assist by starting those digestive juices in the stomach to flowing more freely and at the same time supply a balanced mineral deficiency the body needs.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired and run-down... a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic.

Much more could be said—a trial will thoroughly convince you that this way, in the absence of any organic trouble, will start you on the road of feeling like yourself again.

RAISES SHEEP FOR FUR, NOT FOR WOOL

Texas Rancher Makes Success of Karakul Specie.

Dunder, Texas.—Raising sheep that bear fur, not wool, constitutes the hobby of Alex Albright, seventy-three-year-old Archer county stock breeder, who owns the only herd of karakul sheep of commercial consequence in the whole United States. And from that herd of Asiatic sheep he each year sends to Eastern markets thousands of dollars' worth of fine fur.

The history of this unusual industry dates back thousands of years. The karakul-fur bearer is an ancient member of the sheep family. History recounts that conquering tribes came into the independent kingdom of Bokhara, bordering on old Russia, thousands of years ago, bringing their sheep with them. Archeologists have dug up mummies buried for 3,000 years that were found to be wearing this lamb's fur—in perfect condition.

Regard Sheep as Sacred.

The breed takes its name from the little town of Karakul, not far from the Aral sea, in Turkestan, Asia. For centuries the fur of the sheep grown in this little primitive community was known to traders and furriners the world over as the finest to be obtained. The pure karakulis were found only on the ranches of the Bokharan noblemen. Mixed breeds are found throughout that part of Asia, the Afghans, the Astrachans and the Krimmers. The Mahomatan tribes of Bokhara have a sacred regard for these full-blooded karakuls. They guard them zealously, and this fact, together with the knowledge that the karakul breed is rapidly becoming extinct in their domain, caused extraordinary difficulties when it was first proposed to transplant a flock of the sheep to America.

The flock which Dr. C. C. Young brought to Texas in 1908 was the first full-blooded karakul sheep ever taken out of the Province of Bokhara and out of Russia. That flock of 15 head was brought to Holliday, Texas, also in Archer county, not far from Mr. Albright's present ranch. Doctor Young's personal knowledge of the people with whom he was dealing went a great way toward his ultimate success in carrying out his plans.

Albright Takes Hold.

Dr. Young did not continue his experiment long and Mr. Albright took up the project of raising the fur-bearing sheep. It was 25 years ago that Alex Albright made his first effort to import karakul stock into the United States in order to bring new blood to his then small flock. He, too, found that he must overcome the import laws of his own country first, then break down the shyness of the herdsmen of Bokhara, who recoiled from the idea of allowing their sheep to be taken to foreign lands.

"When I say that raising karakul sheep is the most profitable industry the stockmen could enter I have only to state a few facts," Mr. Albright said. "Ordinary wool is now bringing around 20 cents a pound, and has not greatly varied from that figure in a year. As my invoice shows, last June 15, I sold on the New York market fur pelts from 280 karakul sheep at $2,346.12 net to me. That alone clearly substantiates my claim that 100 good fur-producing ewes can show more profit than a thousand head of any other breed of sheep. Karakul lamb pelts for fur must be taken the first three or four days after birth."

Germany's Latest Naval Weapon Is "Death Boat"

Kiel, Germany.—Germany's latest naval war weapon—the "death boat"—made its first public appearance here during the maneuvers of the Reich's fast-growing navy.

The "death boats," so named because they not only can deal death rapidly but also because their crews brave death with little chance of escape, are combination torpedo-speedboats recently perfected and reported capable of reaching a speed of more than 60 knots.

Each of the small speedboats is equipped with a deadly torpedo and all are based on a "mother ship" filled with torpedoes and fuel. The naval strategy of the "death boats" in warfare is to rush right up to enemy warships, discharge their torpedoes point blank and then speed away—if they can—from under the guns of the attacked craft.

Beautiful Island

Formosa, or Taiwan, as the Japanese call it, is an island nearly half the size of Ireland, situated where the Pacific ocean emerges into the China sea. It is one of the most attractive islands of the Far East, and was named Ilha Formosa, or Beautiful Island, by early Portuguese explorers.

Beware of These Fish

Needle fish, which are shaped like their name, have been known to dart clear through human bodies.

EXECUTION CHAMBER USES TWO METHODS

North Carolina Will Use Gas and Electricity.

Raleigh, N. C.—Newer than the gas-electric railway car is the gas-electric death chamber soon to be completed in North Carolina's central prison here.

The combination death house was designed by engineers of the state highway and public works commission. The new chamber is being installed within the present octagonal death chamber at the prison.

There will be a panel about 3 feet high and 9 feet long, in front of double, shatter-proof plate glass, through which witnesses may watch the execution. The interior will be of bolted and welded steel plates.

The exterior will be covered with terra-cotta tile except for the glass observation windows.

A special walkway will connect the chamber with "death row." Two heavy doors, like refrigerator doors in this walkway will form an air lock and one door cannot be opened unless the other is closed.

A prisoner will be strapped into the chair, as in electrocutions, and a jar filled with hydrochloric acid will be placed under the jar.

Directly above the jar will be a rack containing five pellets of cyanide of potassium. After the doors are locked and sealed an electric button will spill the pellets into the acid.

The first inhalations of the resulting cyanide-hydrochloric acid gas will cause unconsciousness and death will follow almost immediately. Then an exhaust fan will drive the gas out through a special flue through the prison roof. The doors cannot be opened until the gas is exhausted.

Frist Chronometers Are Shown in London Museum

London.—Four of the famous chronometers made by John Harrison, which were the first instruments invented to solve the mariner's problem of "finding the longitude" are on view at the Science museum at Kensington. They have been lent by the British admiralty.

Harrison, according to the museum, was the first to make an instrument capable of keeping sufficiently accurate time at sea, and it was with these same chronometers that he won $100,000 offered by the British government in 1714 for a method of determining a vessel's longitude to within an accuracy of 30 miles, at the end of a voyage to the West Indies.

In 1761 Harrison was successful. His fourth chronometer had aided in the navigation of a boat to Jamaica, and at the end of the voyage it was found to be in error by only five seconds, which corresponds to an error in longitude of one mile. He won the $100,000 the final installment of the award being paid him in 1773.

The first three of Harrison's chronometers, which were valuable contributions to the science of navigation, were large clocks, each weighing 50 pounds. The one which won the prize, however, was smaller, resembling a large watch of about five inches diameter.

Farmer Rents Turkeys to Eat Grasshoppers

Gypsum, Kan.—Victor Van Meter of this town has one of the most unusual money-making schemes ever tried in this vicinity.

He owns 700 turkey gobblers which he rents out at $2.50 per day to farmers whose farms are infested with grasshoppers and locusts. The gobblers gobble the insects and Van Meter moves on to another farm. He provides portable roosts in the fields for the young turkeys. Van Meter pitches a tent near by, personally supervises the work and sees to it that no harm comes to his turkeys. Sometimes it requires three or four days to rid one farm completely of the insects but the farmers say it is well worth the price. When the gobblers are thoroughly fattened Van Meter will sell them and raise another flock.

"Hell" and "Damn" on List of Good Words

Fairhaven, N. J.—"Hell" and "damn" aren't swear words, Police Recorder Harry B. Kurtis has ruled. Neighbors testified that Mrs. Theresa Mount made frequent use of the words.

The recorder said that the words appeared frequently in newspapers and magazines, that they were used casually on the stage and screen and commonly by the public. Therefore, he held, they were not illegal and dismissed the charges.

IN FOUR INSTALMENTS

SYNOPSIS: Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and drifter from the Pennsylvania field, drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where live an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece, pretty Betty Durham—Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben and while he eats he learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil well. Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her—A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish" for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away—Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects—Betty insists and overrules Maddox so Furlong fashions a tool which he has just lowered into the well, hoping to fish out the bolt—NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SECOND INSTALMENT

Furlong himself handled the rig during this operation, and even Maddox could find no fault with the way he did it. When, after what seemed an interminable time, the wire cable began to stream up out of the depths and wind itself in smooth, black layers upon the drum the two women pressed in upon the derrick floor.

Out of the well-mouth finally slip the fishing tool; it stopped, hung motionless with the lower end at the level of their eyes. The teeth had been bent inward, jammed together by the blows from above; inside the basket thus formed and tightly bitten between two of those prongs was a battered six-inch piece of steel.

When Furlong had finished washing up he found Betty Durham waiting for him.

"Come over to the house," she said. "You must be tired."

"I told you I was lucky," the young man declared, with a grin.

"Lucky, nothing. You've got sense."

"Simple, wasn't it? I wonder Maddox never thought of it."

Betty stirred; impatiently she exclaimed, "Oh, he's too busy thinking about something—! Say! We've Remember "Mr. and Mrs." of "Flirtation Walk"? They're reunited again in their first co-starring picture of a whole year. A continuous show starting at 1 p. m. during the engagement has been announced by the management so that everyone may see this outstanding program.

got an extra room, but Aunt Mary says it wouldn't look right for you to sleep there. Don't that make you sick?"

"How about the bath?"

"That's what she proposed. Come on. We'll fix it somehow."

It was dark; the trail through the cactus and the mesquite was dim, but Betty knew it by heart, and where its meanderings were indistinguishable she took Furlong's hand and guided him.

"I suppose you think Aunt Mary's crazy, risking all her money like this," she said.

"I sure do," the man admitted.

"This thing will show you the chances she's taking. Suppose that bolt had been something else, something we couldn't get hold of? There's a thousand things can happen to a well."

"I know. But she's—greedy. She always was. Tiller talked her into it after Uncle Joe died, and she wouldn't listen to me."

"It's a lot safer let the big companies do the drilling, and be satisfied," the girl said, quietly. Then after a moment "Uncle Joe never intended to leave the whole farm to her. They didn't hitch very well. He said he was going to leave part of it to me, but—I guess he never got around to it. I'll bet Aunt Mary is sorry by this time that she listened to Tiller; there's so many things a driller can do to a well."

"Pshaw! Is he that kind of a man?"

"What kind of a man. Men are all alike, aren't they—when they've got reason to be?"

"She'd better him."

"I guess she can't, or dassent—Funny my taking this way to you and not knowing you only a few hours. I'd better mind my own business. Here we are. You wait while I get a light."

They had arrived at the house, and the girl left her companion outside. She reappeared in a few minutes with a lantern and a couple of patchwork comforters. These latter she surrendered to Ben, then led the way to the barn.

Like most farms in the oil country, this one had been allowed to run down, and with the exception of some chickens and a few dispirited cattle there was no live stock left upon it. There still remained, however, some old fodder; it was dusty and musty, but suitable enough for a bed, and Furlong announced that he was delighted with these sleeping arrangements. He set the lantern down and walked to the door with Betty. There he said:

"You've been mighty nice to me. I wish that fishing job had been harder."

"Why?"

"It would have taken longer."

The girl's face was dimly illuminated as she smiled up at Furlong. She was the prettiest girl he had ever known and he felt a great liking, a great sympathy for her.

"Why did you do that?"

"I don't know. I—I couldn't help it, I guess. I didn't intend to, but—"

Ben floundered; he felt his face burning hotly.

"Tiller tried that and I slapped him. I've known him a long time, too—!" Miss Durham shook her head, appearing more perplexed at her own lack of resentment than surprised at Furlong's boldness. "I must like you pretty well."

"I wish you would—did I—think you're wonderful."

"Queer!" Betty turned to go. A moment later she called back thru the gloom, "I'll call you when breakfast is ready."

Furlong was not altogether surprised when, on the following morning, Tiller Maddox offered him a job. Maddox, it was plain, was acting upon orders, and he took no pains to conceal his dislike for the new hand; nevertheless, Ben accepted the proffer. Aside from the fact that he needed work, his interest in Betty Durham was now sufficient to make almost any sacrifice worth while.

In the days thereafter he tried to fathom the peculiar relationship existing between Maddox and the two women, but he did not succeed very well. The driller, it was evident, had his heart set upon Betty, and in his attempt to win her Mrs. Durham was his ally; nevertheless, for some unknown reason the aunt disliked and distrusted the man. About all that Ben could make sure of was the fact that in some manner not readily apparent the oil well was being used by Maddox as a weapon; that somehow it had become the stake in a three-cornered game.

Furlong and Betty meanwhile managed to see a good deal of each other, but they met clandestinely. Neither of them opened referred to this fact, and although the girl pretended that it was her aunt whom she feared, Ben very well knew that it was Maddox. No longer by the way, did he apologize when he kissed her, and their stolen moments together had become very sweet.

Work on the well progressed as rapidly as could be expected. Inch by inch, foot by foot, the heavy steel bits cut through the rock; length after length was added to level of the oil-bearing structure the casing, and as it neared the "indications" became evident; occasional sighs and gurgles issued from the well mouth as gas gathered and released itself. Its odor was at times quite strong.

It was at this time that Maddox and Furlong clashed.

Some new tackle was being slung and Ben had been sent up aloft while the foreman issued directions from below. It was heavy work. Ben was forced to cling to the derrick timbers or to balance himself on a narrow plank, and his progress at times did not suit the elder man. Maddox was in a surly mood, anyhow, and he became profane. Furlong was hot and irritable. He answered back, whereupon the man below flared out angrily: "You do like I tell you an' don't argue, or I'll come up there an' give you a darn' good beating!"

"The rigging was finally secured in place and Maddox was occupying himself with something else when Mrs. Durham was rocking upon the little front porch, and of her the man inquired:

"Where's Betty?"

"Her and Ben have gone to town," Maddox scowled. "I allowed they had."

"He's gone in to buy himself some clothes and she took the car--"

"He won't need no more clothes than he's got, on this job," asserted the driller. "He's all through an' washed up."

"What's happened, Tiller?"

"We had a row. I was a fool to put him on, in the first place, but his week's up Friday."

Mrs. Durham ceased rocking; her sallow face became more yellow. With an effort she said:

"He's a right smart hand, Tiller. He turned to find Furlong at his side. The latter's eyes were blazing. In a voice ominously harsh and vibrant with fury he said:

"I came down to get that beating I want it now."

The other members of the crew froze in various attitudes of startled suspense. The two men stared at each other.

Furlong was a burly, thick-necked youth; he was as hard as iron and in his gaze at this moment was an evil quality quite unexpected. His enmity for the driller had finally flamed over. In proximity to this flaming passion Maddox's smoldering dislike gave off no heat; nor at short notice could he fan its embers into a blaze. After a brief survey, pregnant with possibilities, he turned his head and winked at the other men. In a feeble effort at jocularity he said:

"I told you 'I'd come up there and give it to you I never ast you to come down here an' get it." He guffawed loudly at his own humor and walked away. Furlong stood shaking in his tracks.

That evening Maddox went over to the farmhouse. Evenings in this thirsty land, like evenings upon the desert, were cool, refreshing, beautiful. The brazen sky cooled, a blessed breeze played through the scrubby bush and brought faint fragrances unnoted at other hours, the harsh outlines of unlovely objects were softened; birds twittered. Nature filled her lungs and took on new vigor.

"I'd rather you didn't fire him."

"The hell you'd rather!" Maddox exclaimed angrily. "What you got to say about it?"

"Y--You know what I mean. He's smart, I tell you. Didn't he fish that bolt?"

"Sure! An' didn't you hire him straight off, so's to spy on me?"

"Tiller! It's no such thing. Why should I spy on you? What you been doin' that you need spyin'--"

"Shut up an' listen to me. He's fired Friday night an' he gets off this place the next mornin'." So that is that! Saturday, sometime, the powder wagon'll be here an' early Monday the men are comin' to shoot the well. We got a big one; I'll bet my life on that. I can tell!

Why, she's makin' gas an' trying her best to let go, but--the speaker paused, then finished slowly, distinctly--"there ain't nothin' to be no well whatever until I'm took care of."

The widow's colorless eyes fixed themselves hypnotically upon the swarthy face of the man before her. He continued:

"There's ways to make a girl marry. You got to make her marry me before that well comes in, or it's just like I said--it ain't comin' in!"

"Tiller!" gasped the woman. "You darsent do--anything to it. Not now!"

"Oh, darsent I? Who'll stop me? You won't. That little old bolt made a lot of trouble, didn't it? Well, that's nothin'. It just shows how easy it is to--"

THE UBQUITOUS TUBERCLE AND ITS RELATION TO MAN

According to a report just issued by the National Tuberculosis Association of New York city, the tuberculosis death rate in the United States ranks seventh among the 30 countries listed. New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, Australia, Ceylon, Denmark and the Netherlands are the countries that have lower tuberculosis death rates. These figures are for 1928-1932. The listing for 1934 is not available yet because it takes time to tabulate the enormous amount of data.

Tuberculosis is one of the most prevalent of all contagious diseases. It is rightly called the white plague. It is spread over much of the known world.

And it is different from most of our other contagious diseases, which are what we call acute. If any one has typhoid fever, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, mumps or whooping cough, he has a period of a few days to three weeks when he is confined to bed. But recovery takes place promptly after the fever stage is over. Tuberculosis, on the contrary, is a chronic disease. It can extend over a period of years. In the beginning stages patients may hardly be aware that they have it.

It isn't only the human race that has tuberculosis. Animals also can get it. Fish, turtles and frogs have tuberculosis. Birds, chickens and turkeys have tuberculosis. Cows have tuberculosis. The cold-blooded animals are infected with a tubercle bacillus that grows only at a low temperature, and hence cannot grow in man. Birds have a higher temperature than man, consequently it is hard to infect us with their tubercle bacillus. Some human cases have been reported, but avian tuberculosis in man is extremely rare. The tubercle bacilli that cows have, however, can grow in man and cause tuberculosis. But the disease is different from the true human type, as the lungs are seldom involved in bovine or cattle tuberculosis in man. Tuberculosis of the bones, joints and glands in children, however, are often times caused by this particular kind of tubercle bacillus.

Most of us have breathed in or swallowed living tubercle bacilli many times before we reach adolescent age. When the bacilli enter the body, they either are killed off quickly or else they find lodgment in some organ, usually the lungs, and there they grow in a small local spot of tissue. When the growth is very slow, as it is in a healthy person, then the surrounding tissues can wall off the infected area. It is as if a few thousand soldiers of an enemy country had succeeded in entering the center of some state, and then the defense soldiers of that state, who could not drive them out, had walled them up in a tight-walled enclosure. Now if these invaders were able to live on the water, air and food that permeated through the wall, then you would have the same situation as exists in a walled-in tubercle foe. The invaders are harmless so long as the wall holds them prisoners, but if the wall gives away, we find an invading army right in our midst. Undernourishment and lung fevers, such as undulant fever, rabbit fever and parrot fever, and whooping cough, mumps, diabetes and anemia, all tend to lower the body resistance and open up holes in the walls enclosing the germ prisoners. The bacilli swarm out of the opening, and spread rapidly through the adjoining tissues.

The best way to prevent tuberculosis is to prevent the tubercle bacilli from getting into our bodies. But this is almost impossible to do in the present conditions of modern civilization. We have to mix with too many different people. Did you ever count the number of persons you talk with daily, shake hands with, or stand or sit next to in a movie theater, church, restaurant, store, street car or bus? Some of them are certain to have tuberculosis. Children, too, come in contact with persons impregnated with this disease.

One should almost have to live on a desert island with absolutely no contact with the outside world, to be safe from infection.

Consequently, since we can hardly prevent tubercle bacilli from coming into our bodies, the next best thing to do is to keep our bodily health in such daily good condition that we can destroy the germs that do get in, or, if the dose is beyond our ability to destroy, that we can imprison them in the capsule form just described. Then our chances are very good for going through life without being invaded by this disease.

But in medical science is conquering the disease. We are learning that hospitalization or isolation in the home of active cases is the way to protect well people. If we could isolate every single active case, we could in a generation or two have tuberculosis as much of a rarity as smallpox now is. But even with matters as they are, there are fewer and fewer deaths from tuberculosis every year. Physicians can offer a consumptive patient more help than ever before.

"Spy" Photographs Fail to Excite Us

Visitors May Take Pictures of Spans and Tunnels.

Washington. — What the United States does not consider military secrets was illustrated a few days since with the release of five Japanese tourists arrested by police in New Jersey when seen making photographs in the Holland tunnel. They were released promptly on their explanation they were there making records of a recreational tour.

In most countries strangers taking photographs are under suspicion as possible spies. This applies not merely to fortifications, but to structures or localities which have no direct military significance.

Tunnels, bridges, highways and everything connected with transportation are deemed of more or less strategic importance in the event of war, as they are necessary to rapid mobilization. An invading army, for instance, would cut off the water supply of a city; the making of photographs of an aqueduct therefore might be regarded by some nations as an act of espionage.

The Government View. The attitude of the United States War department seems remarkably lenient to foreign visitors, accustomed to the strict regulations of home. Photographing of fortifications is permitted here under certain conditions. Prints may be bought openly and many are reproduced in newspapers and magazines or on souvenir postal cards. Not infrequently even aerial views of fortifications are published.

In Her Fall Dress

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is here shown in her first autumn afternoon dress, selected from Milgrina. The dress is fashioned of Jacquard satin crepe in a beautiful tone of chamberlain red. A soft cascade of drapery falls down the side of the skirt, which is ankle length. The drapery and pleating over the shoulders are caught with a rhinestone and ruby tone clip.

at any American military post or fort depends largely upon the decision of the commandant, who is guided by the War department.

Civilian tourists of all nationalities appear at military posts of the United States. They are required if admitted, however, to check cameras.

Photographs can be taken by accredited representatives of the press at the option of the officer in charge. They are made under his supervision so that they reveal no technical secrets.

Invite Photographers. The army may even invite press photographers to be present at the testing of huge sea defense guns at Sandy Hook, but it prefers to issue photographs made for publication by its own signal corps.

News photographers who attended the recent army maneuvers were pledged not to make any plates of a new type of tank in use there. It was designated a "restricted project."

A restricted project is usually in the experimental or research stage. It may be studied for months before it is finally adopted. Severe penalties would be imposed on any officer releasing the facts concerning it or permitting pictures to be made of it.

Strange Fishes Sold; Museum in Mourning

Honolulu.—Enterprising Chinese fish merchants broke the scientific hearts of Bishop museum researchers when they peddled specks from two strange fish of a species never seen before in Hawaii.

The anonymous specimens, weighing 44 and 23 pounds, respectively, were caught off the Kona coast, island of Hawaii. The fish had stubby tails and blunt snouts which made them strangely resemble hogs. Museum experts determined from photographs luckily taken of the specimens that they slightly resembled fish of the Labridae family known as the Wrasse.

DO YOUR BEST
By LEONARD A. BARRETT

In his little book, "Kathrina," John Holland writes:
Of all dull, dread thoughts man ever bore,
Sure, none can wear the soul with discontent
Like consciousness of power unused.

Instinctively we want to attain our goal in life. We shun failure. No sacrifice is too great and no effort too difficult when we ardently seek possession of a coveted prize. When we honestly want to realize an ideal, all our powers are taxed to the very utmost. In our strivings sometimes we fail where we least expect to do so. Some unsurmountable obstacle, not of our own making, and for which we are not responsible, obstructs our pathway. We falter and, as Theodore Roosevelt used to say, "get our second wind"; then go on. But try as we will, we just do not attain the goal. Perhaps it was not intended that we should reach it. It may be a question whether our ideals were ever intended to be realized. Browning wrote, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for." Perhaps we were in error in setting up

C., won the world's professional five-mile swim championship for women in Lake Ontario's cold and choppy waters in a field of 15; and with the title, and purse of $1,000, she also won the distinction of being the first Canadian girl to win the event in its eight years' history.

an abstract ideal in place of a definite and burning purpose as the motivating incentive of our lives. If the expression of a great and commanding purpose be our supreme ideal, what higher purpose could there be than "to do our best" under all circumstances and conditions regardless of consequences.

That man who does his best need never fear failure, remorse or defeat. He will never know, "The discontent of power unused."

A man today holds a responsible position in the government because of the thoroughness with which he did his work. He rose to this position not through influence or "pull" but because he always did his best. Early in life he was taught "to do his best" even though the task seemed menial and unimportant. Doing our best means that under all circumstances, as far as we are able, we should live in the environment of the best. Hear the best music and see the best art; choose the best companions and read the best literature. Think the best thoughts. Give to the world your best, live in the environment of the best, and life to you will never lose its meaning but will bring to you deserved contentment, joy and true success.

The Household
By Lydia Le Baron Walker

BUNDLE teas are the latest idea for raising money with the smallest possible outlay. Bazaars and fairs often cost so much to get up, that the net proceeds are by no means commensurate with the amount of work involved, and the actual money expended in preparations. With a bundle tea the outlay is trifling. Nothing is sold at it except perhaps the afternoon tea and this is often free. The only thing required is that each person attending the tea brings a bundle and leaves it for a rummage sale, or a white elephant sale, or a thrift sale, by whatever name the sale is called.

The bundles are not opened but go as they are, direct to some place where, in a short time, the articles contained in the bundles will be displayed, priced and sold. Interest in the sale is created by the bundle tea, and many of the persons who attend it, will also attend the sale.

What is in the bundles is entirely a matter for the person who contributes it to decide. It may be that she has oddments in the house that she cares very little for, yet which she realizes are actually worth-while things. She may be willing to let them represent her contribution to the good cause for which the tea is given. The bundles may contain shoes, frocks, hats, scarfs, trinkets, pictures, ornaments, etc. Whatever one has to give, the tea offers the chance to dispose of, and whatever the articles sell for are exactly the same as a contribution of cash to the cause. If she wishes the woman can have new things in her bundle.

Bundle Tea.

A bundle tea may be given by some person who is greatly interested in the charity for which the money is to be raised, and the cost of the tea be defrayed by her as well as the house or the lawn being open for the occasion. In summer bundle teas are frequently on the grounds of some estate. The person who throws open the house or grounds for the tea generally supplies the tea and refreshments as her contribution to the worthy cause. Sometimes there are several who supply the food while one opens her home and supplies the service.

When a group of women decide to hold a bundle tea, it can be arranged to have no one be at actual expense. These women may finance it by buying the foods and the tea for which they get repaid, for costs only, from the proceeds of the contents of the bundles, the remainder going to the charity.

Bundle teas have been given as society events because women who have beautiful estates have thrown them open for the events. The fashion is set, and has been proven excellent, with good financial returns for the modest outlays.

White in Decoration.

White is favored in decoration, sometimes to the extent of this being a color scheme. White is said to be the absence of all color, yet for convenience of expression, it is termed color. Consequently I shall consider it to have such a significance, and also that shades of white such as cream, oyster white, etc. come under the one general term of white. This color has long been the one above all others for woodwork in rooms, a tint being added to accord with that of the wall paper. White is seldom lacking, totally, from a decorative scheme, and occasionally becomes the dominant one, so that white rooms are spoken of, as are red rooms, blue rooms, etc. This designating of rooms by their major color feature was once the vogue, and today there is the tendency to return to the style.

White, in comparatively recent years, has been featured more in bathrooms and kitchens than in any other rooms of a house. But it became monotonous as carried out to the extreme, and, since this period, both these rooms have become glowing exponents of vivid hues. Now they are garish rather than of pristine pureness, making a return to the simplicity of former years seem a welcome change. However, white rooms as developed today permit of gay notes of color, and this compromise adds beauty to decoration. In the modern white rooms, this addition interrupts monotony, and brings the type of decoration from the more mundane rooms to main rooms, especially to dining rooms.

Sprinkle with the cheese and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) until bread is light brown and the cheese is melted.

To Remove Mildew

If mildew is present on a surface to be repainted, be careful to remove all trace of it before proceeding with the work. This can be done by washing with a strong soap solution to which a little household ammonia is added. Flush the surface with clean water and allow several days to dry. The use of a specially prepared paint to resist mildew is recommended.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKERT
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—The Republican party leadership has made its first moves for the 1936 campaign. The executive committee of the Republican national committee has held a meeting here, a session that started and ended with enthusiasm bubbling over. The reason the members gave for all of their joy was, as expressed by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, that "the tide has definitely turned and we are going out to defeat President Roosevelt for reelection."

Whether all of this joy is justified, no one can tell, but certainly the Republican wheelhorses for the first time in almost five years have shown signs of genuine fight. They are convinced that Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal are in a tail-spin and they are committed now to help the present administration to continue until it crashes—help it by calling attention to every shortcoming and every mistake it has made.

While, as I said, the executive committee meeting simply bubbled over with enthusiasm, unbiased observers could not help reaching the conclusion after they watched the situation that the committee did very little of a constructive nature. It may be that this group was not intended to map out many plans, but if it did not have that purpose, one is inclined to rise and inquire: Why hold a meeting?

The one outstanding action taken was the authorization given Chairman Fletcher to establish a young Republican club division in the national committee headquarters here. The rest of the session that lasted all day apparently was given over to the exchange of ideas. All politicians and observers as well recognize the necessity for the exchange of ideas but the question is being asked around Washington what they are going to do with these ideas.

Rank and file Republicans may take heart in the circumstances that brought their party leadership to headquarters four months earlier than they ordinarily meet. It is a good sign, from the Republican standpoint. It ought to mean that they are all set to do business and to keep doing business until they have elected a candidate to the Presidency in November, 1936. But still, none of the Washington writers was able to determine exactly what is going to be done. The Washington writers can hardly be blamed, if inside information that leaks out is correct, because the executive committee really did not get very far with any plans. I said above that the wheelhorses appeared to be full of fight. There was every evidence of this. There was also evidence of possibilities, at least, that there may be family fights. There is no doubt that many members of the national committee do not like Chairman Fletcher. Likewise, Chairman Fletcher is not enthusiastic about certain members of the committee over which he presides. It is made to appear, therefore, that there may be some mud slinging before the machine is attuned for the campaign next year. If there is much of it, the Republican party may as well save the money it is preparing to spend, as money always is spent in a campaign, to defeat Mr. Roosevelt. It won't have a chance if it is going to fight without a united front against such opposition as the President and his party set-up is prepared to give.

It may have been by coincidence or it may have been by design but whatever the reason, the action of Robert H. Lucas, former executive head of the Republican national committee, in filing a libel suit against one of the party members is not going to help either Mr. Lucas or Charles D. Hillis, national committeeman from New York. Mr. Lucas has sued Mr. Hillis and Frank R. Kent, Baltimore newspaper columnist and political commentator, for $200,000 libel. He charged in a suit filed on the same day that the executive committee met here that Mr. Hillis and Mr. Kent were "conspiring" to destroy him politically. It is unlikely that Mr. Lucas can sustain his charges in court but whether he can or cannot sustain them, the court action against a prominent member of his own party, a man with whom he was associated in party leadership, naturally will have a disrupting influence. It will go far beyond the personalities involved because obviously the names of other party leaders will be dragged in.

Mr. Kent said after learning of the libel action that Mr. Lucas was acting "silly" and he was not alarmed at all. The comment here among observers who know both Mr. Lucas and Mr. Kent seem to think that the action was brought by Mr. Lucas in order to upset Mr. Hillis. Mr. Lucas has disliked Mr. Hillis for years and so, in the opinion of many astute political writers, Mr. Lucas is seeking to wreck any political aspirations Mr. Hillis has by joining him as a defendant in a suit against Mr. Kent.

Mr. Lucas, it will be remembered, is the individual who got mixed up in a rather sour mess in the effort to beat Senator George W. Norris in Nebraska. Senator Norris has bolted the Republican party and supported Democratic nominees through the last eight years, meanwhile continuing to claim Republican affiliations when he sought election to the senate. While it was never proved how much Mr. Lucas had to do with it, the "stief" has always prevailed that it was Mr. Lucas who conceived the idea of persuading George W. Norris, an obscure grocery store proprietor in Nebraska, to file for the United States senate against Senator George W. Norris who was then seeking reelection. Punishment was meted out to the Groceriesman Norris who, it appeared after the thing was over, was more or less of an innocent bystander who was willing to lend the use of his name.

Thus, when a few weeks ago, Mr. Lucas personally sent a questionnaire to the hundreds of Republican state and county chairmen, seeking their views as to a Presidential nominee for the party, those who remembered his services with the Republican national committee immediately wondered what his object was. I have tried to ascertain what the purpose might be and have thus far had no success other than the statement which Mr. Lucas made to me.

He told me at the time of his poll that he wanted to discover exactly what the sentiment was of those party chairmen far removed from the hot bed of party control. It was his conviction, he said, that the method he was employing would bring to the attention of those in control of the Republican party facts that should awaken them and keep them from allowing the party machine to be subordinated to the wishes of a few. He declined to name those few.

Now, however, he is in the limelight in a new fashion. If he has been damaged, as he claims, by the conspiring of Mr. Hillis and others, then he ought to collect and those who conspired ought to be exposed. Nevertheless, unbiased observers remain without a conviction that Mr. Lucas has been the victim of such a conspiracy.

Let us turn from a discussion of political rows and personal enmities to learn something about one of the most calm and comely women who has ever served in a public capacity. I refer to Miss Mary M. O'Reilly. It is probable that few of those who read my observation on Washington affairs ever have heard of Miss O'Reilly, nor is it strange that they have not heard of her for I do not believe there is any individual more retiring and less desirous of publicity than she is.

For 32 years, Miss O'Reilly has graced an office in the treasury. Starting as a minor clerk she continued as a servant of the public in the office of the director of the mint. She did a job at once so faithful and so efficient that promotions continued to come until eight or ten years ago she was made assistant director of the United States mints. Administrations came and went through all of those years and Miss O'Reilly continued to do her job, to do it so faithfully that no one ever thought of what her political affiliations may have been.

A few days ago, there came from the White House an executive order which said that the treasury might continue to keep Miss O'Reilly on the pay roll for a year after November 1—she will be seventy years old on that date and under the law would be forced to retire. Secretary Morgenthau, however, recognized the unique capacity and quality which Miss O'Reilly possesses and has extended her term of service.

GERMAN WOMEN LABOR

In Germany, women are gradually being taken out of the factory and office to make more jobs for men. Stenographers, salesgirls, servant girls, factory workers are being placed in labor camps to drain marshes, build roads, cultivate the land and harvest crops. Also they are required to do a helpful kind of work calculated to strengthen the potential mother of the new Germany.

Calumet Baking Powder... in a big, new 10¢ can!

"WHAT'S THE SENSE in taking chances with second-bests when you can get a good, big can of Calumet for a dime?" asks Mrs. Tobin.

"I've never had a baking failure with Calumet," Mrs. Tobin said. And judging by the expectant faces of Richard and Patricia, Mrs. Tobin is not the only member of her family who knows how delicious Calumet cakes always are!

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken finger-nails!

WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl. A slower one for the oven... and Calumet's double-action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in history... the regular price of Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And be sure to see the new, big 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime, with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

THE MESSAGE OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:1-26. GOLDEN TEXT—Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people, Jeremiah 1:23. PRIMARY TOPIC—What Jeremiah Said. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jeremiah's Stirring Message. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Doing What God Commands. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Will of God for Our Times.

The prophet stood in the gate of the temple in order that the multitudes might hear him. The occasion was the coming together of the people from all over the country to attend a feast. From this place of prominence Jeremiah called the people to obedience.

I. What God Requires (vv. 1-7).
1. Amend your ways (v. 3). This means that their course of living should be reformed by exchanging bad deeds for good ones. On the basis of this change God would permit them to remain in their city and country. Failure to comply with this demand would eventuate in their expulsion.

2. Personal experience (v. 4). The people regarded the temple as a charm against evil, irrespective of the condition of their hearts. Without a heart experience, the most sacred institution and ordinances are valueless. Trusting in religious forms while lacking a vital experience is the height of folly.

3. Social justice (v. 5). The proof of their having reformed was the execution of justice between man and his neighbor. The evidence of one's being in touch with God is his fair dealing with his fellow men.

4. Not to oppress the helpless (v. 6). The stranger would likely be ignorant of the laws of the land. The widows and orphans would usually be imposed upon. Protection and defense of the weak is a sure sign of godliness.

5. Not walk after other gods (v. 6). The worship of idols and conformity to heathen customs go hand in hand. True morality is determined by the individual's attitude toward God.

II. Some Solemn Warnings (vv. 8-15).
1. The teachings of false prophets (vv. 8-11). These false prophets taught the people that attention to ceremony and observance of religious form exempted them from strict attention to morals. Those who heeded the words of the lying prophets did not hesitate to steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, and practice idolatry. They would even come into the Lord's house and claim freedom to practice such abominations. The sacred temple itself, filled with such worshippers, would be a den of robbers.

2. By the destruction of Shiloh (vv. 12-15). God caused his tabernacle to be set up in Shiloh, but in Eli's time he gave it into the hands of the idolatrous people (Ps. 78:59-60). The prophet declared that God would do even so with the temple, the city and the whole country. This he had already done with Israel and the northern kingdom.

III. The Hopeless Condition of the People (vv. 16-20).
Their propensity to do evil was so strong that all efforts at reclamation were futile.

1. Pray not for them (v. 16). There is such a thing as sinning into death, in which case prayer is useless (v. 16; cf. I John 5:16).

2. Entire families devoted their energies to that which provoked God's anger (vv. 17-19). This was done by young and old, men and women. They did it with the definite purpose to provoke God's anger. The prophet assured them that the outcome of such conduct would be their utter confusion.

IV. Judgment Sure to Fall (v. 20).
Because the people poured out their offerings to idols, the furious anger and wrath of God would be poured out upon men, beasts, trees and the fruit of the ground. How this has been fulfilled the history of the Jews makes clear.

V. Obedience to God Better than Sacrifice (vv. 21-26).

The prophet appealed to history to show that God requires heart service rather than the observance of religious forms. Blessings came to Israel through obedience, while cursings followed disobedience. On condition of obedience to his requirements God promised to own them as his people and to bless them.

The Seventh Wave

The man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land, will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the roadside until someone comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth or influence.—J. B. Gough.

Conciliation

The essence of all fine breeding is in the gift of conciliation. A man who possesses every other title to our respect, except that of courtesy, is in danger of forfeiting them all. A roommate renders its owner always liable to affront. He is never with a dignity who avails wounding the dignity of others.—Lytton.

He who in questions of right, virtue or duty sets himself above all ridicule is truly great.—Lavater.

week with the political fortune of favorite candidates daily swinging this way and that.

It is yet too early to attempt to accurately define the exact trend of the political mind of the nation-wide voter. One fact, however, stands out in bold relief. That is that indications are the 1936 political race will be one of the most desperately exciting national campaigns this generation has known.

A total of 9948 ballots from 23 states have been received and tabulated at national headquarters at the end of last week.

Those favoring the renomination of President Roosevelt are 4704. Those favoring the nomination of some other Democrat other than President Roosevelt, total 671. Those opposed to the present administration and favoring a Republican President are 4288. While those who favored a third party candidate are 288.

Summed up, the total national Democratic ballots at the end of the past week of balloting are 5,375; the total national Republican ballots are 4288; and for the Third Party choices, 285.

A new type of carpet sweeper is on display at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago. It has a joint in the handle to simplify sweeping under bureaus and other furniture. The "knee-action" avoids the necessity of bending over in sweeping.

Another convenience is an electric cord that is fastened to the wall plug with a ball and socket joint, letting the cord turn perfectly freely without knotting or kinking.

And they're even showing an air-conditioned bed—with a simple little de-humidifier that works even though all your outside windows are open.

VALUE OF SOIL TREATMENT

Results obtained on the soil experiment field which the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Stations maintains near Mayfield, Graves County, show the value of soil treatment. Established in 1913 a total of 4 1-2 tons of limestone per acre has been used on the limed part of the field and with the lime there has been used an average of approximately 150 pounds of 16 per cent super phosphate per acre per year. In 22 years this treatment on four acres in the four year rotation has produced a total increase of 230 bushels of corn, 169 bushels of wheat and 36 tons of hay. At 50 cents for corn, 75 cents for wheat and $10 for hay, these increases produced by limestone and superphosphate have been worth $600 for the four acres or $150 per acre. At $2 per ton for limestone and $1 per hundred for superphosphate the treatment has cost $42 per acre for the 22 years, leaving a net over cost of lime and fertilizer of $108 per acre or nearly $5 per acre per year.

There is enough reserve phosphorus from fertilizer stored up in the soil to decidedly increase crop yields for several years. On part of the above land the fertilizer was left off since 1930 and was continued on part of it. The yields were practically as good where the fertilizer was left off. When crop prices are high large applications of phosphate can be used at a profit and provide a reserve in the soil for periods of low crop prices. For example, if 200 pounds of phosphate produced an increase of ten bushels of corn per acre and 200 pounds more would produce just a little more than enough to pay for it, most of the extra application would become a reserve in the soil for future crops. Particularly is it possible to make heavy fertilization of tobacco at good prices a means of storing up a reserve of phosphorus for the other crops. Heavy fertilization of small grain and grass can be made to pay for fertilization for the corn crop.

SOME TERRIBLE FIGURES

By courtesy of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association I am in receipt of some statistics with permission to hand a part to my readers for whatever they may be worth. The cost of venereal diseases to one large city ranges from $2,071,000 to half a million more than that. Annual costs. These diseases, two of them, are a causative factor in many more serious afflictions of mankind and womankind. The cost of first-year treatment of syphilis is much in excess of sums available for health expenditures in the budgets of working men's families. From these diseases come hundreds, yea thousands of cases of rheumatism, neuritis, heart diseases and congenital afflictions in the offspring. It is appalling. All from just two so-called "major venereal diseases."

What a world of affliction and suffering. It is the penalty for vicious, lustful appetites. I dare not mention certain of the ultimate, loathsome conditions suffered by careless victims of human lust! The picture would be too disgusting. Isn't it enough to justify warnings, shouted from every house-top? Your physician knows. Ask him for information. Millions of dollars are paid annually to drug stores for so-called "specifics." There is no way of finding out the actual sums spent. A volume could be written and yet the greater half would remain untold. One would think a warning such as this would be sufficient.

Murray, Ky.—Miss Helen Bennett, Union City, Tenn., who received her Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Latin in August, 1935, has been employed by the Elbridge, Tenn. consolidated school as language instructor. Miss Bennett was vice-president of the English Club in 1934 at Murray State College, and that same year she was president of the Classical club. In 1932, she was vice president of the Classical club. She was a member of the Wilsonian Society of the Les Camarades French Club, and was treasurer of the Les Savants

Beware The Cough

From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies, such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac effect, fluid extract of Casarea for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results. Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Millions in Grain, Coal and Lumber

LAST year, Kentucky distilleries bought nine million bushels of grain—worth $10,000,000—enough money to give $30.00 to every farmer in the State. . . Kentucky distilleries used 800,000 Kentucky-made barrels—manufactured from 3,000 solid carloads of white oak lumber, a native Kentucky product. . . Kentucky distilleries used 200,000 truckloads of coal, which had taken 2000 Kentucky miners one entire month to produce. . . All this work and income may be lost to you and Kentucky unless you vote "Yes" to repeal the State Prohibition Amendment on November 5.

Why It Is Necessary to Vote on November 5

Prior to 1933, Kentucky was dry under both the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, and a State Constitutional Prohibition Amendment.

In 1933, national repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment legalized the distilling industry only so far as the Federal Government was concerned.

National Repeal still left Kentucky with State prohibition laws which, under our State Constitution, could not be repealed until the November election of 1935.

Pending that date, the Legislature in 1934 passed an act known as the Liquor Control Act, which now permits (as an emergency measure) the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The Liquor Control Act, which is merely an emergency measure enacted pending the repeal vote, must not be confused with the State Constitution's Prohibition Amendment.

The Prohibition Amendment is a permanent part of our State Constitution unless the people of Kentucky vote to repeal it on November 5.

A vote for Repeal in November is NOT a vote to repeal the Liquor Control Act now in effect. It is simply a vote to put an end to Constitutional Prohibition in Kentucky, and to replace it with a system by which each county, city, town or precinct may determine for itself whether or not alcoholic beverages may be sold therein.

If you wish to keep PROSPERITY in Kentucky—if you do NOT wish to go back to the hard times of 1932—

The Junior Music Club of Fulton held the first meeting of the season Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Carlene Caldwell on State Line Road, with Misses Martha Neil Houston and Elizabeth Butt, club director, joint hostesses.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Paschall, president, presided over the meeting. The roll was called to which twenty-two regular members answered. In the future the roll will be answered with musical current events. Two new members were present, Pauline Davis and Betty Lou McClellan.

At the close of the business session the program was turned over to Mary "Jozelle" Crafton, who read an interesting article on the program topic, "The Story of the Pianoforte and Some of Its Masters." The following musical numbers were rendered:

"Two Guitars" by Rob Roy Perry—Sara Nell Alexander; "Parade of the Grasshoppers" by Wallace Johnson—Betty Lou McClellan; "Iris" by Renard—Sarah Mae Evans; "Pomponette" by Durand, Martha Ellen Duley; "Crescendo" by Per Lassen, Charlotte Terry; "Impromptu in F Flat" by Schubert, Carlene Caldwell; "Lanterns" by Brazeleton, Mary Mozelle Crafton.

At the conclusion of the meeting the group enjoyed a weiner roast on the front lawn. Miss Mary Neil Bowden and Mrs. Virgil Davis were visitors for the afternoon.

FAST FULTON CIRCLE MEETS

The East Fulton Circle of the First Methodist Woman's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at three o'clock with Mrs. S. N. Matthews at her home on Vine-st. Thirteen members were present. The chairman, Mrs. Dick Bard, presided over the business session during which plans were made for various entertainments in order to raise funds. Next month is to be quite a busy month for this circle as they have completed plans for a candy sale, a rummage sale and their annual birthday party.

A very interesting Bible lesson was read by Mrs. E. M. Mathis. The meeting was dismissed in prayer and a delightful social hour was enjoyed.

CIRCLE A OF M. E. WMS

Circle A of the First Methodist Woman's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Will Holman on Paschal-st. with Miss Jennie Gibbs, joint hostesses. The president, Mrs. Warren Graham, presided over the meeting. During the business session a report was made of the recent banquet which was a success. An announcement was made of the opening of a Bethlehem House, an educational and helping school for the negroes in Memphis, Tenn. This Home is to be supported by the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Methodist church. As a means of raising funds for this support, the local Missionary Society will save Octagon coupons which are valuable, and ask that all Fulton people, who are using Octagon products, help them in making a great collection.

At the close of the business session an interesting Bible lesson was read by Mrs. R. H. McCampbell. After the meeting a delightful social hour was enjoyed during which the joint hostesses served a delicious salad course to fifteen regular members and one new member.

GROUP B OF WMS

Group B of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Kelly Wood at her home on Maple-av with Mrs. J. H. Robertson, joint hostess. The chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Scelton, presided over the meeting. A business session was held during which plans were discussed for various things to be done by this group in the coming month. At the close of the business session the Bible lesson was read by Mrs. Robert Bard.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and the hostesses served delicious refreshments to twenty-eight regular members, two new members and one visitor.
