Women's Literary Society of the Methodist Church held its annual ball on Friday evening. The affair was well attended and everyone enjoyed the evening.

The event was hosted by Mrs. J. D. Lewis, president of the society, and her committee. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Brown, who graciously invited all members and friends.

The evening started with a reception, where members and guests were greeted by the hosts. The reception was followed by a delicious buffet dinner, which included a variety of dishes.

Following dinner, the guests moved to the dance floor, where music from the live band provided a pleasant atmosphere. The dance floor was lively and everyone enjoyed the dancing.

At midnight, the party came to a close, but the memories of the evening will remain with everyone. The Women's Literary Society of the Methodist Church looks forward to hosting another successful event in the future.

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste.

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident.

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the weatherman who sells it at auction to the cigar-smoking man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it's when mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

$3,600,000 IN STATE TAXES

The revenue from taxes on alcoholic beverages is now the State of Kentucky's fourth-largest single source of income. In addition to eight forms of taxes paid to the State, the distilling industry in Kentucky now pays seven forms of taxes to the Federal Government, four forms to counties, and four to cities within the State. Unless you vote "Yes" on November 5, all this revenue will be lost, and the taxpayers of the State will be forced to make up the deficit.

What the Distilling Industry Does for Kentucky

Coal... Kentucky distillers bought over 200,000 tons of Kentucky coal last year. The saving of this coal provided an annual saving of over $2,000,000 for our own Kentucky mines which may be lost forever if you vote "No" in November.

Grain... Kentucky distillers purchased $30,000,000 of grain last year, at a cost of over $40,000,000. This means that grain will be lost to Kentucky farmers if the distilling industry is driven from Kentucky.

Lumber and Cooperage... Kentucky lumber manufacturers and coopers purchased $8,000,000 worth of Kentucky lumber last year. These barrels were made from 80,000,000 feet of white oak lumber—enough to make several million more barrels if the industry is allowed to continue.

OTHER INDUSTRIES... In addition to those mentioned above, dozens of other industries and occupations in Kentucky derive some or all of their business and income from the distilling industry in Kentucky. Railroads, hotels, equipment manufacturers, bottle makers, printing houses, newspapers, merchants of all sorts, everybody in Kentucky owes some benefit to this $300,000,000 industry.

If you want the State to continue collecting $3,600,000 per year in taxes from the distilling industry instead of from you and your neighbors—if you want the State to retain all the other benefits of this $100,000,000 industry—

SYNOPSIS

MARThA OSTENSO

SILVER and the others decided that they needed to make a move. They didn't want to stay in the same place for too long. They packed up their belongings and set off on their journey. Silver was excited to be on the move again, but he was also a little bit nervous. He didn't know what was waiting for them around the corner.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

...and so they set off. Silver led the way, followed by the others. They walked for hours, not stopping for anything. Silver was tired, but he didn't want to slow down. He was determined to get where he was going.

Silver came to a stop suddenly. He looked around, but he didn't see anything.

"I'll have to talk to him when I go to the open doorway," Silver said, "I'm not sure what he'll say, but I need to talk to him."

Silver's heart raced as he approached the doorway. He was nervous, but he knew he had to do it. He couldn't just walk away and leave everything behind.

"I'm not sure what you're talking about," the man said, "but I'm not going to help you."

Silver turned to go, but the man grabbed him. Silver struggled, but he couldn't free himself.

"You can't just walk away," the man said, "you have to help me."

Silver looked at him, but he didn't know what to do. He didn't know if he could help the man, but he didn't want to leave him either.

"I'll do what I can," Silver said, "but I can't promise anything."

The man let go of Silver and Silver ran off. He didn't know what was waiting for him next, but he knew he had to keep moving. He had to find out what was going on.

CHAPTER XIV

Silver followed Silver, and she was right behind him. They walked for miles, not stopping for anything. Silver was tired, but he was determined to get where he was going.
