With At Least One Sensation-Deeper, Hartnett and Frero

New York, Nov. 11.—Announcement of an enterprising new and interesting river expedition was made in this city yesterday by John H. Hartnett, chairman of the Tammany committee on river and har-ber, when it was reported that a party of mayors and dealers would visit the Arkansas and Mississippi rivers, which it is expected will afford new and interesting experiences. The party will depart from this port on the 14th instant, and will return in about four weeks. The officers of the committee expect to visit all the points of interest along the river, including the sites of the proposed new York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and the great southern plantations. The trip is expected to be of great value to the city, and will be a great addition to the nautical lore of the country.

Municipal Ownership and Poltics.

The question of municipal ownership is one of the most important now confronting the American people. In many cities the municipal corporation has grown out of the old corporation, and in some cases, from within the city itself. The city today is a place where the people live and work, and the city government is charged with the responsibility of seeing that the people are taken care of. This is not a new problem, but it has been given new urgency by the recent economic depression.

The City of New York, for example, has been on their backs. A city cannot function without a functioning government. On the other hand, it can be somewhat worse than the Tammany number of voting machines that were used in the recent election in Chicago without being counted. A city's government is more than the mere administration of laws; it is a reflection of the will of the people. The city government must be responsive to the needs of the people. It must be accountable to the people. It must be able to function effectively. The city government must be able to raise the necessary funds to operate. The city government must be able to invest these funds wisely. The city government must be able to perpetuate itself.

Investing to the City. No city should give away the franchises and the control of public utilities. There is nothing, corporate or political, that is more dangerous than the weakening of the old order. The corporations and the politicians shall continue to rule the people if the old order is not preserved.

The failure to invest the necessary capital to perpetuate the government is a failure to invest the necessary capital to perpetuate the government. The perpetual system, which is an extension of the old order, is a danger to the people. The perpetual system is a danger to the city. Any city that does not have the perpetual system is in danger.

The City of New York, for example, has been on their backs. A city cannot function without a functioning government. FAMILY IN AMERICA HAS MANY FAMOUS MEN.

Our great-great-great-grandfather was George IV. of England, and his great-great-great-great-grandson, James Ord, has been in America for over 100 years and is the second son of Judge James Ord of Chicago. James Ord was the third son of Judge James Ord, son of George IV. and the first to become a major of the Furth regiment.

Judge James Ord was a jurist and practiced law in several states. He was the second son of Judge James Ord, who was a leading figure in the history of this family. The family has maintained its primogeniture and is still followed by the firstborn.

Perhaps the most romantic career of the family was that of Prince George, who fell at the battle of the Pyrenees. His eldest son, Lord Holland, was married to a very devout princess and was later divorced by the pope. The family has always been inclined to the Catholic church in this country.

The family has had many famous men, including General Custer, who was killed at the battle of Little Bighorn. Another family member, Dr. Ord, was a major in the Furth regiment and has been in America for over 100 years.

The family has always been known for its reticence, and the name Ord is still associated with the name of Judge James Ord, who was a jurist and practiced law in several states.

The family has maintained its primogeniture and is still followed by the firstborn. The family has always been inclined to the Catholic church in this country.
