FULTON, KY., JANUARY 21, 1927

Good Work Is Accomplished

While former city administrations have made splendid records of which the people are keenly appreciative, the 1926 accomplishments of the present administration is due pleasing recognition and the citizenship should congratulate themselves on having a set of officials who are working overtime to serve them faithfully and loyally.

The one big project of the year worthy of special attention was installing the sewer system. To the average citizen it looked easy, but when one stops to consider the small bond issue voted for the work, great care and economy must have been exercised to make every cent count for its full value. It is now up to the citizens of Fulton to make it one of the most successful projects ever undertaken here by complying promptly with the ordinance soon to be adopted and published for connections, so we may get in shape to beautify our city and build good streets. Bear in mind at all times that Fulton is just as good as the citizens want to make it, and that it is the duty of every individual to cooperate with the city officials in every project undertaken to make it a success.

The records in the city clerk's office will show that many improvements were made during 1926 with the usual routine of city work carried on with care and economy.

Repairs were made on Second and Fourth street bridges; the City Hall was beautified on the first floor with a coat of paint; some new water mains were installed; a lot of new water hose, fire truck repairs and equipment purchased to maintain an up-to-date fire department; modern traffic guide system installed; building at water plant repaired and painted; new street truck purchased and other minor improvements made, and after paying off $9,000.00 in notes due and all bills paid, the cash balance in the bank, December 31, 1926, was $8,484.96 against cash bank balance of $5,649.36, December 31, 1925.

The clerk's records also show that $22,927.34 had been collected for taxes during 1926 against $22,575.43 collected for 1925.

City's Valuable Asset
Fulton cannot only boast of the best water in the country, but the plant is one of the best managed properties in the state, and a valuable asset to the city, and just here we will add that our water rates are as cheap as you find anywhere. (We tip our hat to W. P. Murrell, chairman of the water works committee, and his valuable assistants for the efficient services rendered).

Below we quote the water collections taken from the records for a few years back so the public may more fully realize that it is a big man's job to handle the business successfully as it has been.

1918 Collections	$16,649.89
1919 Collections	17,620.87
1920 Collections	19,735.45
1921 Collections	20,578.68
1922 Collections	24,199.34
1923 Collections	23,263.55
1924 Collections	25,238.69
1925 Collections	24,491.64
1926 Collections	25,380.95

The variations in the collections during the past five years was due to the fact that more water was used at various periods, families moving in and out, etc.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL TO HAVE FARM TRAIN HERE JANUARY 27

The Illinois Central System will operate an agricultural college on wheels, over its Southern lines, from January 22 to February 4, inclusive. This train will make various stops in Tennessee and Kentucky.

The train will consist of exhibit cars, where demonstrations will be given in poultry raising, dairying, vegetable and fruit growing, permanent pastures and various other subjects of interest to the farmers and business men. There will also be lecture cars, in which agricultural short courses will be held. The entire train will be given over to aid in solving the farmers' problems.

The train will be in Fulton, Thursday, January 27, arriving at 5:15 p. m. A night meeting will be held and all should avail themselves of this opportunity of getting first hand instructions from experts employed to give it. It is absolutely free.

CIRCUIT COURT IN FULTON NEXT WEEK

The January term of Fulton Circuit Court is in session this week at Hickman and will adjourn tomorrow to convene in Fulton next week.

The corner room in the Morris building, upper Lake street, is being remodeled and prepared for the White Way Barber Shop, occupying a room now on Fourth street. As soon as the move is made the Parisian Dry Cleaners will occupy the place vacated on Fourth.

Shortening the Long Winter Nights

Fulton Girl Found Hanging

A fatal step may end the most happy life. The most cultured, refined, beautiful and best loved are no exception to the same fate. A father's devotion, a mother's fond care and love or a brother's or sister's companionship will not shield them when they desire to take the step.

Such was the illustration last evening when one of the highest educated, most refined and vivacious girls was found hanging in the home parlor, surrounded by all the luxuries that go to make a happy life. Late in the evening she was missed and careful search failed to reveal her whereabouts.

The telephone was used without results. Her friends were called to help search for her. Finally the almost heartbroken mother returned to the parlor and there to her horror and surprise, she found her beloved girl hanging.

How must that mother been affected by what met her gaze. There was her daughter hanging to her sweetheart's neck begging him to take out membership in the Chamber of Commerce in order that he may be recognized as a loyal citizen of the community and lend his assistance in making Fulton a better place in which to live.

SHANKS IN RING FOR GOVERNOR

First Guns Boom in the Kentucky Campaign

Launching of the Kentucky campaign for governor came this week with the formal announcement of William H. Shanks, of Lincoln county, who is the first candidate to shy his castor in the ring. Mr. Shanks is the present state auditor and is no novice in politics.

SNOW-WHITE MOTOR CO. BANQUETS ITS EMPLOYEES

All who attended the Snow-White Motor Company banquet at the Usona Hotel Wednesday evening, January 12, pronounce it one of the most enjoyable events of the new year. It was an innovation with this establishment and was a great incentive for the proprietors and working force to become more closely united in their endeavors. It was just like a big family sitting around the festive board exchanging expressions and ideas in which to render better service if possible, to the public, characteristic of this well organized firm—"Service with a Smile" is their motto.

Among those present were: R. H. White, one of the proprietors who acted as toastmaster; Percy Barnes, battery expert; Arnold Mullins, shop foreman; Will Stubblefield, field salesman; Claud Vaden, tractor expert; Melvin Rhodes, assistant manager and parts man; Mrs. Lee Roberts, bookkeeper; Lee Roberts and W. M. Blackman, guests.

FORMER FULTON COUNTY TAX ASSESSOR DEAD

Charles Beadles Passes Away at His Home in Louisiana

Charles Beadles, well known by nearly every man, woman and child in the county, died at the home of his son, Charles Beadles, Jr., in Monroe, La., Sunday, January 12. The remains were brought to Fulton Monday and conveyed to the home of Allie Browder, west of the city. Funeral service was held Tuesday at Palestine church, conducted by the Rev. A. N. Walker, interment following in the church cemetery.

The death of Mr. Beadles resided for many years in Fulton. The death of Mr. Beadles brought general regrets to his wide circle of Fulton friends. Mr. Beadles resided for many years in Fulton. It was here that his best days were spent. He loved the people and the people admired him. He served the county as tax collector and made a good and loyal official.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Boyd Browder and two sons, Charles and Harrison and other relatives.

GET-TOGETHER MEETING

The Kentucky Utilities Company inaugurated a District Public Relations campaign on last Tuesday, when the employees of the company in the Fulton District met in the Lake street office of the company at 2 p. m.

District Manager, E. C. Hardesty, presided, and the following employees were present: W. A. Moore, manager at Hickman, Ky., and S. Leach, Joe Poole, Mr. Corum and Miss Mary Moore. B. E. Cunningham, manager at Clinton, Ky., G. W. Browder and M. L. Grause.

The Fulton force was represented by Manager E. C. Hardesty, F. J. Hardesty, R. M. Wheelis, Clifford Roberts, Clarence Cunningham, D. C. Williams, T. E. Austin, H. S. Stansbury and Mrs. Hattie A. Wood.

Manager Hardesty stated that this meeting was the first of the regular yearly program of the company, and that the meetings would be held every two months. The object of these meetings is to make the employees better acquainted with the policies and methods of the company so that they can, in turn, explain these things to the public in an intelligent manner, and thereby establish more cordial relations between the public and the company.

The following program was rendered:

Why Lighting Has a Part in This Program—Miss Mary Moore, Hickman.

Fundamentals of Lighting—B. E. Cunningham, Clinton.

Job Discussion—"Chip" Roberts, Fulton.

Early History of the Ice Business—G. W. Browder, Clinton.

A Sales Skit—F. J. Hardesty, H. A. Wood, H. S. Stansbury and Clarence Cunningham.

Development of Speakers—E. C. Hardesty.

Hoyt Moore, of the Leader, was present and made a short talk on public service.

As stated above, these meetings will be held every two months, and the employees will be encouraged to become more thoroughly acquainted with not only their own particular jobs, but also the work of other employees, so as to become more valuable to themselves and correspondingly so to the company.

Ladies! Now is the time to get real bargains in hats. Regardless of former price, $1.00, $2.35, $3.95. The regular price up to $15.00.

Browder Milling Co.

ONE OF THE MAIN ARTERIES OF FULTON'S INDUSTRIAL LIFE

Standing on the threshold of what may prove the most prosperous year in Fulton's history, our thoughts are directed to some of our industrial institutions and the men who conduct them. Men who have worked untiringly for the community's best interests in the past and who are today exerting their best endeavors to make Fulton stand out prominently on the map of progress with a red ring around it.

On our rounds during the week we stopped in at the Browder Milling Company's plant. We found them busy, just as busy as a big milling plant could be, but not too busy to give us a warm welcome. Truly this is one of the main arteries of Fulton's industrial life. Thousands and thousands of dollars are paid out annually here for farm products to enter the financial channels of business.

The Browder Milling Company has created here in Fulton one of the liveliest markets in this section of country and by paying the highest market prices for grain, linked with fair dealings and courteous treatment, has been an incentive for farmers to come here from quite a distance to market their surplus crops.

Last season more than 125,000 bushels of corn was purchased. Already this season more than 35,000 bushels of corn has been marketed at this plant, and corn is just one item.

Well, to watch them paying out the cash at this mill would remind one of a bank run such as Jackson, Tennessee, experienced last week. Often State Line street is blocked for some distance with wagons loaded with corn waiting for their turn to unload, and a wagon can be unloaded in the twinkling of an eye. Nothing slow around this mill. They are running capacity. Truckers are kept busy loading cars with their well-known brands of flour headed for points throughout the south.

They also do an extensive feed business, handling the well known Purina products in connection with their own manufacture. This line of their business has increased wonderfully in recent years due to diversification on the farm and the rapid development of dairying and poultry industries in this vicinity.

The Browder Milling Company enters its twentieth year of successful milling business. Messrs. Joe and Enoch Browder, the proprietors, are to be congratulated on contributing their part to the industrial life of Fulton.

SEWER CONTRACT TO BE LET IN SOUTH FULTON, FEBRUARY 15

South Fulton, Tenn., will award its sewer contract on February 15, when bids received will be opened.

Friends of Contractor Hartig are hoping that he may be the best bidder since he successfully completed his sewer contract with the Kentucky side.

From all accounts Mr. Hartig did splendid work for Fulton, Ky., and lived up to the specifications and contract to the letter, and before he finally retires from the job we believe every effort will be made to get the streets and alleys traversed by the sewer in good condition for traffic.

Mr. Hartig is a thorough going business man, honest in his work, fair in his dealings and has a pleasing personality.

During his brief stay here he has made many friends.

UNITED EFFORT IS NECESSARY

Fulton's progress during 1927 depends solely on United Effort. No limited number of citizens should be expected to or will shoulder all the necessary work to be done. If we expect to prosper it's everybody's business, everybody's obligation, and everybody's gain when public efforts are brought to a successful conclusion.

Leaving public work to some one else is an easy way out for the individual slacker but the town would never get anywhere if everyone followed the same course.

Before you are too free with criticism—if you do criticize—look carefully into your own record as a performer in the interest of public welfare.

Here in Fulton there is too much to be done for any of us to waste time in fault finding. The thing to do is to get together on a program covering Fulton's most pressing needs, every one of us put their shoulder to the wheel and with united effort attain all those things that will make us a prosperous, healthy, happy and contented people.

The reorganization of our Chamber of Commerce with sufficient funds for it to successfully function is a start in the right direction. The value of cooperation and intelligent work for civic progress has been demonstrated here at home as well as in countless other cities that have organized and worked for industrial and civic advancement. The needs of cities, just like the needs of individuals, are not attained without sustained effort. Hard work is required and the spirit of everlastingly sticking to it is necessary before any city can gain the heights that modern civilization offers progressive communities. We have a bright future before us, let's all join hands, unite our efforts and grasp our opportunities and make Fulton the "City of Achievement."

BUSINESS CONFIDENCE

Confidence is the one big asset of the optimist. It is confidence that moves mountains, drives off fear and enlarges the vision of the future.

Without confidence, the whole business structure would fall. When people deposit money in the bank, they have confidence in the banker, else they would keep their money hidden at home. When merchandise is sold, the purchaser believes that it is as represented, or he would buy elsewhere.

Confidence is the basis of every business transaction. Any act that destroys confidence is a backward step. The business man who does not keep his word is a dangerous element in our social structure. If he misrepresents the goods he sells, he damages not alone his own interests, but the future of business.

Dishonesty in business is more to be deplored because of its far-reaching evil effect. Like the ripple on the surface of a placid lake caused by a boat, a dishonest business act makes an ever-widening circle and injures honest business.

Business confidence can be maintained and strengthened only by honest dealings. Mistakes may be made, but they may always be rectified.

Thus, men engaged in business have a deep responsibility. They alone do not suffer from their misdeeds. In their dealings they should remember that they have a double obligation—to their customers and to their fellow business men.

Honesty in business is the first requirement for business confidence. That it is being practiced as a general rule by business is revealed by the growing confidence in business,

A SOUND PROPOSITION

Banks were probably never rendering a greater service to the public than they are today. Within recent years they have been emphasizing the value of properly safeguarding the interest of a wife and mother, in estates which are left to them in the shape of insurance payments or other assets. The average woman who is left money to invest has a big problem. Her business has been running the home and raising the family. In 99 cases out of 100 she cannot be expected to know the difference between good and bad investments. The result is, that savings left for her protection are too often acquired by the smooth stock salesman who offers her a glittering proposition which "promises" large returns.

An insurance trust, administered by the modern bank, eliminates the danger of lost capital and assures a steady income. It is the height of folly for dependent persons to attempt to speculate with or invest funds upon which their future living depends. There would be less need for charitable institutions, if the insurance trust idea were better understood and more extensively followed.

Our idea of one exciting night is to be invited by a friend to hear the new radio he got for Christmas, and then for the battery to go dead.

Money is fickle and soon makes friends away from home if you don't keep a close watch on it. Money has a better circulation at home and therefore is healthier—and so is the home community when it has a chance to work.

You go broke, but run into debt. The comeback is at a snail's pace. The detours on the "going broke" highway are all marked but people traveling it wear colored glasses.

Another Big Reduction In Prices.

All remaining Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats for men and boys enter into this sale. The merchandise is the same fine, dependable sort that we have made our reputation on, and just the kind the men and boys of Fulton and vicinity want to buy.

We might enlarge on the fact that the prices we have placed on our men's and boys' clothes are especially low, for even a store of extraordinary value. We might say that never in our existence have our values merited the term "Extraordinary" so much as they do in this sale. We might affirm and reaffirm this, but proof would still be necessary to convince the average buyer. A visit here will give you that proof—positive, irrefutable proof—that seasonable wearing apparel may be bought here at great savings.

It is an opportunity that many men have been waiting for and will be quick to take advantage of.

About this time of year a boy's clothes begin show signs of wear. This sale makes it possible to outfit him completely at a minimum cost.

When a Fellow Has a Friend

FARMERS MUST DEMAND THAT THEIR INTERESTS BE PROTECTED AT MUSCLE SHOALS

CONGRESS AT LAST HAS BEFORE IT A GUARANTEED FARMERS' BILL, CARRYING BONA FIDE GUARANTEE OF LOW-PRICE FERTILIZER.

Sponsored by Farm Leaders—"Write Your Senators and Representatives" Is Suggestion—No Longer Any Excuse For Delaying Proper Action.

The farmers of America must rise at once and demand that Congress guarantee the right to low-price fertilizer. Unless they do, there is grave danger that this great project on the Tennessee River in Alabama, which already has cost approximately $150,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, will be sold out for a song to the power and fertilizer trusts.

This warning is sounded by John W. Newman of Versailles, Ky., one of the incorporators of the proposed Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation, an organization, headed by farm leaders, that has just submitted a "farmers' proposal" for the leasing of Muscle Shoals.

The outstanding feature of this new bill is a guarantee that fertilizer will be manufactured and sold at absolute cost of production.

Mr. Newman points out that although Congress for more than four years has refused to approve the power trust's bid, a final showdown is likely to come at the present session of Congress and the farmers of the country should be on their guard to see to it that the attempted "grab" of the Muscle Shoals is again defeated. "The strongest sort of political pressure is being brought to bear," he declares, "to slip over the power companies' outrageous leasing proposal, and shut the farmers out of their right to get cheaper fertilizer, as was promised them when their tax dollars were dumped into Muscle Shoals. The farmers cannot afford to relax vigilance; in fact, it is necessary that they let Congress know at once that they will not stand for any disposition of this project that does not provide in a genuine way for fertilizer production.

"If every farmer who wants to force down the price of fertilizer would write to his Senators and Congressmen demanding his rights in the Muscle Shoals matter, the problem would be solved before Congress adjourns in March, and fertilizer prices would tumble. Congress at last has before it a proposal fully protecting the farmers' rights, and there is no longer any excuse for delaying proper action if the farmers will simply force the issue."

Mr. Newman is a Kentucky farmer and was formerly commissioner of agriculture of his State. He has been prominent in farm movements for years. Association with him in the Farmers corporation offer to Congress are A. P. Sandies, of Ottawa, Ohio, and A. L. Spooner, of Hutchinson, Kansas, each, likewise, a former agricultural director of his State.

These men have submitted the first genuine farmers' bill on Muscle Shoals

—the only one that carries a bona fide guarantee of fertilizer production. Heretofore, lack of adequate financing has been the chief stumbling block in the way of farmers' bill. This difficulty has now been overcome, and a reputable New York engineering firm has agreed to finance operation of Muscle Shoals for the production of low-price fertilizer, provided the company be allowed to take a fair profit out of the sale of by-products and the excess electrical power. The financier of the proposition does not profess to be a philanthropist, but they have satisfied themselves that they can make fertilizer and sell it to the farmers at a cost and at the same time obtain an 8 per cent return on their investment. They could not, however, take more than an 8 per cent profit. Under the bill, if their earnings at any time should mount above that figure on half of the additional income above 8 per cent would be turned into the fertilizer fund and a proportionate reduction made in the price of fertilizer.

Sponsors of the Farmers corporation say that if their offer is accepted by Congress it will mean a reduction of millions of dollars in the annual fertilizer bill of the American farmer and thus will strike a decisive blow at one of the main causes of existing agricultural depression. At the same time, the great plants on the Tennessee River in Alabama would be operated upon such a basis that they could overnight be converted to the manufacture of nitrates and other ammonium bases in time of war. Thus, both the peace-time and war-time purposes of Muscle Shoals would be safeguarded. The project was established by the Government with two primary objectives—low-price fertilizer for the farmers in time of peace, and munitions for the Government in time of war.

Neither of the other two leasing bills before Congress carries anything like a satisfactory and genuine fertilizer guarantee; but, on the contrary, each so hedges this phase of plant operation with provisos and ambiguous clauses that it is extremely doubtful if any fertilizer at all would be produced, or, that if it were produced, the price would not be just as high as that asked in the commercial fertilizer market.

In any event, the power and cyanide corporations seeking control of Muscle Shoals would, under their proposals, obtain a profit of 8 per cent on any fertilizer they manufactured and with the corporations themselves deciding what the "cost" amounted to. Under the Farmers corporation bill, the manufacture and sale of fertilizer at cost is not only guaranteed, but the cost figure would be determined by a farmers board in no way connected with the corporation. This board would be composed of the Secretary of Agriculture, as chairman, and representatives of the leading national farm organizations.

A comparison of the three proposals will prove to any one that beyond question of a doubt the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation offer is the only one providing any genuine prospect of relief to the farmers from present exorbitant fertilizer prices. The Farmers corporation estimates it can cut $20 a ton from the commercial price of fertilizer. Individual farmers could order the ingredients in concentrated form, if they desired, have them laid down at the front door by parcel post, and do their own mixing.

From the Government's standpoint also, the Farmers corporation offer is far superior to others in practically every important particular. If the lease is made on the basis of existing water facilities, the Farmers proposal would pay the Government a total of $156,546,493 for the fifty-year period, as compared with $83,800,000 under the bid of the associated power companies. If headwater storage is provided, the Farmers corporation agrees to pay the Government $214,597,693 as compared with $131,800,000 offered by the power companies. For the completed project, the Farmers bill offers the Government $221,226,000 income, as against $148,728,000 under the power bid, and $155,188,341 under the Cyanamid bid. The Cyanamid corporation did not make a bid based on anything but the completed project.

The rate of interest offered the Government by the Farmers corporation is 6.771 per cent as compared with 4.422 per cent by the power companies and 2.828 by the Cyanamid corporation.

Right in line with this wide advantage offered the Government or interest rates, is the provision in the Farmers bill that if the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation refuse or fails to make good on its contract the entire plant is to revert, bag and baggage, to the Government, with the corporation standing the loss of its entire investment. The other bidders demand that in case they fall down on their contract and the Government takes over the plants, the Government must reimburse them for the entire amount of their investment. Not only that, but the other bidders demand bonuses as they go along for carrying out their contractual duties. These bonuses take the form of a gradual reduction in the price the bidders must pay for electrical power, and thus would amount in the end to an increase in the price of fertilizer and a penalty to the farmers, while at the same time constituting an element in favor of sellers and users of electric power. These and other differences show plainly that the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation proposal is the only one submitted in the interests of the farmers.

The farmers, staggering under the necessity of raising larger and better crops without any increase in the cost of operating their farms, at last have a weapon with which they can fight their battle to secure the rights at Muscle Shoals to which they are entitled. The Government established the plant for the making of cheap fertilizer, and now for the first time a sincere proposal for bringing this about has been presented. The farmers of America should see to it that Congress delays no further, but takes the proper action at the present session.

POULTRY

POINTS MARKING PROFITABLE HENS

Characters that mark the best producing hens are most in evidence during the fall of the year.

Hens molting during July, August, or September, are poor layers as a rule. Early molters are slow molters, their production period being of only short duration. The late molter is a quick molter; she has a long period of production.

A hen to lay well must have a sound body. The first consideration, then, must be vigor and health.

Good layers of yellow-shanked breeds usually show well-faded beaks, legs, and toes at this time of year; while the poor layer will have the yellow beak and shanks.

The laying hen has good width of back and depth of body, and a large abdominal region. The skin is soft and pliable; the vent large and moist. The pelvic bones are spread well apart and are thin and pliable. There is usually three or four finger widths between the pelvic bones and the end of the keel bone. The hen that has stopped laying will show a collection of fat in the abdominal region. The skin will lack pliability and the pelvic bones will show but very little space between them.

When laying, or getting ready to lay, the comb and wattles are well developed and bright red. When not laying the comb and wattles shrink and become covered with a white scale.

Hens of the heavier breeds that persist in broodiness should be culled. Mark the broody hen with a colored leg band every time she is found broody. Cull all those that become broody more than once. Always cull a broody hen of the lighter breeds.—O. C. Ufford, Assistant Professor in Animal Husbandry, Colorado Agricultural College.

Plenty of Green Feed for Hens Is Important

The importance of plenty of green feed for hens has long been known and appreciated, but the average farmer who keeps perhaps 100 hens has been slow to make much of an effort to provide anything like an adequate supply for his hens during the winter months. The poultry experts at Ohio state experiment station, realizing that a regular supply of green feed is difficult to obtain, at least for a great many farmers, set out to find a substitute.

Alfalfa, red clover, and soy bean hay were tested out and all gave excellent results. Almost every farmer can easily provide some one of these feeds for his hens, and he will find it greatly to his advantage to do so. The hay should be cut green and well cured, and it will be palatable to the hens only if it retains its green color.

The hens will eat more of it if the hay is cut into short lengths, but they will eat a large amount of uncut hay. It has been customary on some farms to feed the leafy scatterings of alfalfa and clover hays that accumulate on the barn floor, indicating that some people have appreciated the value of this feed for a long time.

Poultry Notes

Keep the ventilator at work so that the air will be fresh and pure.

Gather the eggs often and do not let freeze. Market at least once a week during the cold months.

Success in getting a good egg yield depends to a great extent upon the proper selection of the laying stock.

You simply cannot make a first-class meat fowl out of a Leghorn any more than you can produce beef that will top the market from a dairy cow. Leghorns, as a rule, have to be sold to a cheap trade.

If any birds in the flock develop colds, put as much potassium permanganate as will remain on the surface of a dime into a gallon of water and keep this mixture in their drinking water for several days.

Have plenty of ventilation in the poultry houses and let as much sunlight in as is possible, but do not allow drafts to exist.

Put aside a few bales of fourth-cutting alfalfa for the hens to pick at this winter. Do not bother to remove the wires as there will be less waste if bales remain tied.

Fortunately, feeds such as milk, mash, green food and minerals, that produce winter eggs, also help in producing good hatching eggs.

During the winter the hens will need a larger proportion of grain because some of it must be used for body heat.

Sodium fluoride is safe to use on hens to kill lice and seems to be the most generally recommended of all the house-killing materials.

Lime builds bones, and one glass of milk contains as much lime as a loaf and a half of white bread, or nine potatoes, or five and one-third pounds of beef, or eight eggs.

A FARM WAGON THAT IS GUARANTEED

The amount of satisfactory service that a wagon will give depends entirely upon the material and skill the manufacturer puts into it. We want to show you a wagon that is built of the best materials by men who know how—

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON The Wagon That Is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skids of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skids are set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skids there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling.

Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the John Deere Wagon, and every piece of wood is air-seasoned under cover in our own yards for at least two years. The tires are set hot under hydraulic pressure and under a gauge that assures proper dish—the load is always carried on plumb spokes.

And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy melicable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kingbolt—bolster does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool box. Let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

Comfortable House of Many Rooms Meets One of Real Needs of Today

First Floor Plan.
By W. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, for reply.

The home shown in the illustration contains seven bedrooms, one on the first floor and six on the second. To accommodate this large number of people the architect has provided three stairways, one downstairs and two upstairs.

The home contains ten rooms in addition to a large reception hall, or room and a washroom 12 by 10 feet 6 inches. Two stairways lead to the second floor, one running up from the reception room and the other from the kitchen.

This home is 24 feet wide by 50 feet deep. The large porch running across the front and around on one side gives it an attractive exterior appearance. The dormer set in the roof provides light and ventilation for the large attic.

Floor plans that accompany the exterior view of the home, show how the rooms are arranged, and their sizes. Aside from the rooms mentioned, there is a good-sized living room and an extra large dining room. Thus the large family is provided with plenty of room.

One exceptionally good feature of this home is the artistic and attractive manner in which the planting of shrubs and flowers have been made. Banks of shrubs along the porch conceal the wall, while vines are trained on trellis alongside the porch pillars.

Common Brick Defies

Exposure to Elements
There are probably few if any of the ancient buildings that so effectively stir the imagination of the modern reader as does the famous old Colosseum of Rome. It has stood for centuries as a monument to the quality of building and of the materials that were used in ancient days. Travelers returning from Rome have reported that bricks were being taken from this great theater of the rulers of the ancient Roman empire to be used in the construction of new homes.

It is pleasing to learn that the dictator, Mussolini, has passed a decree forbidding the Italian people to disturb any part of the Colosseum. The bricks in that building are more than 2,000 years old, and are in such good condition that they can still be used after all these centuries. There was a grave danger that the structure in which early Christian martyrs were sacrificed to the lions and where the old gladiatorial combats were held would be destroyed. Whatever we may think of Mussolini's policies, we must certainly commend him in the stand which he has taken.

The use of these 2,000-year-old bricks is of particular interest at this time, when so much stress is being placed on permanent construction. They were manufactured of the same materials and under practically the same methods that are used in the manufacture of present-day common-burned clay bricks. It is possible that 2,000 years hence some equally ruthless despoilers will be tearing down our old landmarks to build houses out of the present-day bricks.

Ceilings Should Be Lighter Than Walls

In the great out-of-doors we find the sky lighter than the shadows under the trees. This is our natural everyday background, and if we want to suggest the great and wonderful open atmosphere we must paint the ceilings lighter than the walls and the walls lighter than the floor. For instance, were we to make the ceiling the darkest, that would unconsciously suggest a catastrophe, a storm approaching, as does the darkened sky. We might feel that the ceiling was collapsing—that it was so heavy the light floor would be unable to hold it—and the result would be disorder! In other words, unless we follow the example set by nature we would be missing much of her loveliness.

Draw Shades Half Way to Keep Tone of Room

Two much daylight is as trying on the eyes as the glare of artificial lights.

Not only for beauty and restfulness in a room but for actual and practical use daylight should be localized. Rather it should be controlled and directed by shades to secure the most light where light is needed and to exclude the glare and shine of light coming from above the eyes.

Most people crave barren glaring windows, then wonder why, after an hour of reading in a room flooded with white light, their eyes are heavy and their nerves irritated.

One of the bitterest mistakes of modern builders is the use of a strong inverted light against the ceiling which attracts the eye upward. The gaze is "pulled" up when naturally it should rest upon and be attracted on the eye level or below, as in the case of reading.

This pulling results unconsciously in a feeling of instability and finally in nervousness and irritability. Daylight pouring through full-length windows has the same ultimate effect.

Eliminating the glare and producing a soft, mellow light is one of the greatest merits of tinted cambric shade cloth.

Decorator Uses Paint With Skill of Artist

Pure, brilliant color—shaded, tinted, mottled, splattered, color effects in as many different tones as one wishes; striking patterns, borders, panels—if you want these for your home, use paint. Prominent decorators have long made use of the variety and flexibility of the medium. The decorator uses paint as the artist uses it. Instead of a palette, of course, he has a pot and the walls are his canvases, but aside from a few superficial differences it is fundamentally all part of the same scheme of things. The painter makes a beautiful picture; the decorator creates a beautiful room.

Placing Telephone

Locate your telephone, whenever possible, where it can be used with privacy and yet where it is not too far removed from the center of activity of the household. A hall closet well lighted and conveniently arranged within for comfortable conversation, is an almost ideal location.

The Flivver and the Flapper

By WALTER ARNOLD

JACK BANCROFT left his car by the curb and went into the motherly shop to get some cigarettes. When he came out he found a remarkably pretty girl sitting on the back seat.

"I am Miss Rolands—Amy Rolands," she said. "You have evidently forgotten me—but won't you please hurry and drive me home? I have some medicine for my aunt who is ill—and I must get home as soon as possible."

"Only too pleased to be of service," replied Jack and, jumping in, started the car. "By which way, Miss Rolands?" asked the gallant Jack.

"Straight ahead," was the reply—and straight ahead they went.

Jack was perfectly sure that he never had met the girl before. The thing was very mysterious. But she was a pretty girl.

They had driven for two miles out into the country leaving the little town behind them, when the girl, leaning over, touched Jack on the shoulder and said: "There is where I live. Stop at the gate, will you please. You need not drive in."

Jack stopped; his passenger sprang lightly out and entering the grounds of a large house, disappeared in the shrubbery which fringed a side-path.

"The plot thickens," thought Jack and, starting up again, drove down the road a bit and then into the same grounds by a side gate, and up to a large garage which stood back of the mansion to the left. Then, jumping out, he ran around to the front of the house to where the path the unknown girl had taken came out upon a little lawn before the shaded piazza.

"What's up, Jack?" asked one one sitting on the piazza.

"Did a young lady, a remarkably pretty young lady, just come up the path here?" asked Jack.

No, no one had seen any young lady, pretty or otherwise.

And that was chapter one of the adventure of the young lady and the automobile—an adventure which Jack could not keep out of his mind.

Two months later he happened to be stopping at a seaside hotel and his friend, Tom Cranshaw, said to him: "Jack, I will introduce you to one of the prettiest girls you ever saw. She arrived last night with her rich old aunt, Miss Matilda Fagus. There comes Margaret now."

Jack had heard of Matilda Fagus, the eccentric old maid who lived about ten miles below his own town in isolation and state. Jack looked—and there, walking slowly toward them, was the mysterious beauty of his adventure. The introduction was made.

"Neither Margaret nor Jack," "batted an eye," as the vulgar would say. "Jack was awfully tempted to say: 'I believe we have met once before, Miss Clifford.' But he repressed the desire."

He stood it for a whole week, and then, one night, as they sat looking at the moonlit ocean and listening to the hotel orchestra, he said: "Miss Clifford, did you ever know a girl by the name of Amy Rolands?"

"Yes, indeed," replied Margaret. "I know her very well. And, do you know, she and I are said to look very like each other? I expect her down here tomorrow night. So you have met her. What did you think of her?"

"I thought her very charming," said Jack. "He was just a trifle bewildered. Was it possible that the girl beside him was the same girl he had found sitting in his car that day? He had not had time to study the face of his stowaway passenger, but still—well, in fact, he did not know what to think. Tomorrow he would meet Amy Rolands and then he would know."

The following night, as they sat in the same place, Margaret said: "By the way, Amy Rolands is here."

"Where is she?" cried Jack.

"Sitting beside you," laughed Margaret.

Jack was a little huffed and showed it; the girl had been mystifying him long enough.

"Now, don't be angry," said Margaret. "The story is a very simple one. I didn't explain before because I was not sure, until you asked me last night if I knew Amy Rolands, that you remembered me. You see, I thought I was in love with a young man named Guy Carden. My parents didn't want me to marry him, and sent me to aunt's for safekeeping. I ran away to meet him and got as far as your village. There I saw Aunt Matilda, who had come in pursuit, looking for me, and jumped into my machine to hide. You know the rest. I have learned that the house I told you to leave me at was your own. The joke was on me."

"As your name is still Miss Clifford, I take it that you did not marry Mr. Carden, after all," said Jack.

"No," replied Margaret gravely. "I did not marry him. I walked back to the town, found auntie, and went home with her."

It was three months later, after they had become engaged, that Jack said to Margaret: "Why was it that you did not marry Guy Carden after you had run away from your aunt to meet him?"

"Because," replied Margaret, "on the way to meet him I met somebody I thought I might like better."

WE SHALL BE VELVET-HATTED, IS THE MILLINER'S STYLE MESSAGE

IT IS a gay velvet vogue which the mode is leading this season. As the midwinter styles continue to arrive from across seas, it is more and more evident that velvet has completely cast its spell of enchantment over the world of fashion. The "last word" from Paris declares that we shall be velvet gowned, velvet cloaked and velvet hatted.

By way of adding emphasis to this style message, French milliners are creating bewitching toques and close-fitting hats, conjured in limitless fashion, all of velvet. Every hat in this picture is a Paris creation, and each is of velvet.

For the model of arresting design shown first in this collection, the fashionist chooses three tones of golden brown velvet worked in checkered effect with pendant ornament of gold and silver.

Two tones of narrow (brown) velvet worked in alternating rows achieve the brim and crown of the hat at the top to the right. It is banded with a loop of gold metal cording. This, as well as the stunning model pictured in the lower left corner of this illustration, came from the atelier of Mar guerite and Leonie. The latter clever chapeau somewhat observes the tan influence. It is one of the very fashionable soft and crushable types, such as can be folded up, and taken from one's overnight bag looking as perfect as before. It is achieved of brown velvet, its sole decoration being a gallehith buckle which clasps the downturned top above the right ear.

Another interesting millinery creation, as pictured at the bottom of this group to the right, owes its attractiveness to the employment of blue velvet in its development. This is stitched in loop effect with band of king's blue ribbon and silver buckle.

In the combination of toque and shoulder capelet of black velvet which centers this group, Louise Marcy achieves something out of the ordinary in the way of an ensemble. There is an embroidery of mystic crescents and other conventional motifs done in gold with old rose.

SHORT JACKET VELVET SUIT IS LATEST ENTHUSIASM IN PARIS

AN ENTHUSIASM for velvet of short jacket styling is overruling the French capital. Fashioned couturiers are giving emphasis to this mode by creating youthful models which have either the skirt wrap-around skirt or probably a fan-shaped plaiting at the front. These they top with boyish looking coats, hip-length or just below, either double-breasted tuxedo or buttoning down the front.

Not only is the black velvet tailor smartly Parisian, but handsome colors are just as much so. It is Lucien Lelong who creates a youthful tailored two-piece suit of marine blue velvet, as pictured here to the left. It is cunningly collared anduffed with ermine. The buttons are of sparkling steel. There is a matching hat of the velvet trimmed with a wide band of grosgrain. In some instances the velvet hat accompanying the velvet suit blends rather than matches, which is an outcome of fashion's latest caprice—two-toned velvet effects. That is, the hat may be a darker or a lighter er color tone than that of the suit. From Jenny comes a fetching version of the black velvet tailleur. It is shown to the right in the picture. There is a poplin braided binding and the two-button fastening to the left front. Underneath is a lovely gay blouse of cloth of gold. Indeed that is always and ever a part of the velvet ensemble—a metal fabric or embroidered blouse. The enticing thing about the short jacket velvet tailleur is that the suit always impresses one with its youthful aspect, also its correct appearance for daytime and outdoor wear. Yet in an instant it may be transformed into the dressiest of effects, charmingly tuned to bridge party or afternoon tea by removing the coat and revealing a blouse of pronounced elaboration.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for January 23

PRAYER IN CHRISTIAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:35; 14:32-42

GOLDEN TEXT—Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Talking to God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaches Us How to Pray.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning From Jesus How to Pray.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Jesus Taught by Prayer.

I. Jesus Praying in a Solitary Place (Mark 1:35).

After a series of most strenuous efforts Jesus retired to a lonely place to pray. He who the day before had shown His mighty power in casting out devils and banishing disease now needed to be alone with God. In order to do this He arose a long time before daylight. The very best time to pray is in the morning when our physical powers have been renewed. If the Son of God needed this time for prayer, this renewal of spiritual strength in communion with the Heavenly Father, how much more should we seek help by retiring to the solitary place.

II. Jesus Praying in Gethsemane (Mark 14:32-42).

In this time of crisis He took with Him Peter, James and John.

1. The first prayer (vv. 35-38).

(1) His posture (v. 35).

He fell on his face prostrate on the ground. In the hour of great need we naturally prostrate ourselves before God.

(2) His petition (v. 36).

"Take away this cup from me." By the cup is meant His death on the cross. No doubt it was most grievous for Him to face this shame, but He pressed on, knowing that for this cause He had come into the world (John 12:27, 28; cf. Heb. 2:14).

(3) His resignation (v. 36).

His will was in subjection to the Father. He knew that His death on the cross was the will of God, the Father, for He was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

(4) The disciples rebuked (v. 37).

He singled out Peter since he had been the most conspicuous in proclaiming his loyalty (John 13:38).

(5) Exhortation to the disciples (v. 38).

"Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation." The only way to be able to stand in the time of trial is to be watching and praying.

2. The second prayer (vv. 39, 40).

He withdrew the second time from the disciples and uttered the same words in prayer. This was not vain repetition. It is proper to repeat our requests. He found the disciples asleep again. Their shame and confusion were more marked than at first.

3. The third prayer (vv. 41, 42).

He uttered the same words in the third prayer (Matt. 26:44).

He tells the disciples to sleep on and take their rest as the hour had now come for His betrayal. There is such a thing as being asleep when wanted and awakening when it is too late. If the disciples had been praying they would not have fallen asleep.

III. Jesus Giving a Model Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13).

This model was given in response to the disciples' request that the Lord would teach them how to pray (Luke 11:10). It is not therefore the Lord's prayer, but the model prayer for the disciples. It involves:

1. A right relationship (v. 9).

"Our Father." Only those who become children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26) can pray aright. One must be a child of God before he can be in communion with God.

2. A right attitude (vv. 9, 10).

"Hallowed be Thy name." When one realizes that he has been delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of His Son (Col. 1:13) by being made a child of God, he cannot help pouring out his soul in gratitude and praise, intensely longing for the kingdom, the righteous rule of Christ to come on the earth.

3. A right spirit (vv. 11-13).

(1) That of trust which looks to God for the supply of daily bread. We are dependent upon Him for our daily food. With all man's boasted progress he cannot make a harvest. The marvels of modern chemistry are insufficient for this.

(2) That of love which results in forgiveness of others. God will not listen to the prayer of one who has an unforgiving spirit.

(3) That of holiness which moves one to pray not to be led into temptation and longs to be delivered from the evil one.

FOOD LIKE YOU GET AT HOME

This is truly a home-like restaurant because it has endeavored to break down the prejudice based on the theory that restaurants could not serve food like you get at home. Many patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they come here so frequently to eat. Years of catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve appetizing meals.

The next time you want to eat away from home, bring your family here.

Obion County

DEFICIT OF $18,812.70
FOUND IN OBION CO.,
TENN. TRUSTEE'S OFFICE

The Obion County Quarterly Court at Union City in extraordinary session, January 10, at which time a report from the auditing company, employed to audit the books of county trustee, was a feature of the business. The report read by the chairman of the auditing committee, showed the total withdrawals to be $34,743.40 from which was deducted the salary and credits due of $15,930.70, leaving a balance of $18,812.70 actual deficit, to which of course is to be added the statutory interest and penalty.

J. F. Gregory was appointed deputy trustee to take charge of the office with his bond fixed at $40,000.00, to succeed W. E. Jackson.

The following highway commissioners were elected: Districts 16 and 1, Frank Sellers; Districts 4 and 7, Knox Harper; 8 and 11, R. B. Gray; 2 and 10, A. L. Burrus; 3 and 12, A. S. Hayes; 5 and 5, H. D. Smith; 6, 14 and 15, Cannon Moore.

The following were elected commissioners—S. R. Bratton, Dr. J. J. Wells and S. A. McDade.

Following were elected jail, court house and workhouse commissioners—S. R. Bratton, J. F. Gregory, S. A. McDade. J. R. Hinson was elected constable for the 7th district to fill a vacancy.

The salary of the county judge was raised from $500 to $1,000.

G. L. Cleland was chosen to succeed himself as County Farm Agent at the same salary of $2,000.

The finance committee reported the sale of lands amounting to $78,637.23 to pay the county's part of the expense of grading and draining of the federal and state highways between Union City and Weakley county line and between Troy and Obion.

The court requested the legislative representatives to prepare and pass a bill to allow Obion county to issue bonds without election to liquidate the floating indebtedness of the county schools and roads as of January 1, 1927.

GETTING OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT

NO ONE had expected Wallace to win the half-mile. It was true he had practiced regularly and long, he had frequently been among those who "also ran," but he had neither the prestige nor the physique of Hunter nor the experience of Root. We were all surprised, then, when he got first in the meet.

"How did you ever do it, Bob?" I asked him after I had congratulated him and we were talking it over. "You upset all the dope going."

"Well, I don't quite know," he said, "excepting that I got off on the right foot, and that gave me courage. There's nothing helps so much to win a race as getting a good start."

It is true in everything we attempt. There was Gregory. He was a hard worker, it is true, steady and reliable, but not brilliant. He forged ahead rapidly until at forty he was the general manager of the great business house of which he was a member.

"It was the start I got which did it," he explained to me once. "I did my best from the outset; I finished every job I began, and I never put off until tomorrow a thing which should have been done today."

Years ago I read a story of a little boy from the mountains of Georgia. He was pitifully poor, ill fed and half naked; but he was ambitious. He wanted very much to learn to read, but he had no teacher.

"I reckon a feller could learn himself at the beginnin'," he said to a friend. "It must be easy at the start, and then after it got hard I might get somebody to help me."

But he was wrong. The start is the most difficult in any enterprise in any business. In any new undertaking. Well begun is usually much more than half done. It is part of the optimism of youth to feel that time and opportunity lost in the beginning may easily be made up in the end, but it isn't true. There's nothing like getting off on the right foot.

Community Building

Home Owner Leader in Community Life

How the ownership of a home has become the best way known to obtain a full enjoyment of the many comforts and conveniences offered by modern civilization, was discussed recently at a meeting of real estate men at Detroit. Among opinions expressed was the following:

"Both urban and suburban life offers finer attractions than in older times. Cities are ceaselessly spreading out and absorbing adjacent districts, giving city life and city conveniences to ever-widening areas. The services and sanitary benefits modern communities provide to home owners are vastly more than in former periods. The many devices now incorporated in the construction of homes, such as heat and electric refrigeration, insure greater comforts."

"Yet, even long before the home was much more than a primitive shelter, land had acquired such a value as to bring about the long era of its control by the rich and noble. Long before America instituted its liberal methods of functioning, ownership of land gave the right to vote and was the sign of the freeman."

"Only the home-owner can today feel himself a true part of the progress of his locality because, in all forms of social advancement, community life always has been the leader."

House Not Real Home

Without Its Setting

Those who include a bit of the outdoors in their premises come closest to making their homes ideal. Too many builders ignore this feature of the home, erecting great, expensive houses on small lots which afford no possibility of proper treatment.

Every house should have grounds surrounding it, and they should correspond in extent to the size of the house, for the grounds are the setting of the house. Often a new house has a bare, forbidding appearance when the workmen left it complete and perfect in every detail, but a lawn and a few well-chosen and properly placed trees and shrubs change the entire effect and give the place an attractive and inviting aspect.

The setting must be thought of constantly. It must be in mind when choosing the lot, planning the house and in deciding what part of the lot the house will be on. A fine old tree and wild bush are valuable assets. They should be preserved and they add beauty and comfort to the house.

Duties of Civic Bodies

Through our civic bodies and local governments we should assure protection for residential districts from waste intrusion by means of sane, comprehensive city planning and good zoning ordinances, playgrounds within easy walking distance of children in closely built districts, parks for breathing spaces, safety on the streets, and effective public health measures. Well-drawn and enforced housing laws requiring light, air, privacy, and sanitary facilities can do much to prevent the growth of slums.

High standards of business dealing among those who build and sell houses, and adequate, reasonable financing for home seekers, also help to advance home ownership. The services of public utilities may be extended over a great number of homes by sound policies worked out in friendly co-operation with local officials.—Herbert Hoover.

City and Town "Homes"

He who feels that nature has included him "in her program," must also feel that he is part—insignificant it may be—of the cosmic process. Stability and "rootedness" in a life clothe it with a dignity that it can hardly have without those qualities. The old Aeneas myth is everlastingly true. The dwellers in great cities, even for the most part to be content, and yet many of them must be conscious of missing something, though they may not know what it is, which is perhaps just as well. There are, of course, homes, and real ones, in the cities, even in the big ones. But conditions certainly are not favorable to their creation and maintenance.

Watch for Deterioration

The man who raises an awful "howl" if he thinks he is being "done" out of a little money, often does not realize that necessary repairs on his property may soon cause him really big losses. There is only one way to eliminate these expensive repairs, and that is to keep your property protected through painting before repairs are necessary. Property should be regularly inspected. Paint should be applied to all places that appear worn and not delayed until the appearance of rust or decay when repairs become unavoidable.

Keep Up Property

Keep your property well painted and you will have mighty few repair bills. Paint is far cheaper than new wood or metal replacements. Watch the less obvious vulnerable points, such as roof, eaves and down spouts, porch columns, etc. The trim is usually the first to suffer.—Exchange.

MORE MILLIONS for your service

THE continued growth of Kentucky will require an estimated expenditure of more than two and a quarter million dollars during 1927 for additions, extensions and replacements to the Bell Telephone System throughout the State.

This is one of the largest telephone construction programs ever undertaken in Kentucky during one year and follows a gross expenditure of more than $2,900,000 last year.

It is now estimated that more than 2,380 new telephones will be added to the Bell System in Kentucky this year.

These large additions are a part of our policy of building in advance to keep pace with the anticipated growth and progress of the State.

The expansion of the service makes it more valuable to every user and provides the entire State with an unequalled, modern system of quick communication.

AIR DRIED CLOTHES

Do you realize what it means to receive a bundle of thoroughly washed and air dried clothes from a modern power laundry?

It means that at last the only remaining barrier between the housewife and the laundryman has been broken down. Because, now the modern laundry not only washes clean whatever you choose to send, but also duplicates in every respect the method of drying that the housewife has employed for time immortal, namely, the hanging of the washing on the old-fashioned clothes line, to bask and dry in the glorious sunshine.

The greatest development in years and years, comes to this steadily growing industry in the perfection of a natural drying process. This new method of drying by air eliminates for all time that unmistakable odor which has branded the work of the power laundry in the past.

Thousands and Thousands of Cubic Feet of Concentrated Sunshine

The scientific application of air as a drying agent in the power laundry is accomplished by the perfection of the Vorclone Drying Tumbler. This most wonderful machine harnesses clean fresh air in such great volumes that it almost entirely eliminates the necessity of heat to dry clothes with. It dries clothes by air, evenly and gently, ventilating them thoroughly, freeing them entirely of all lint, leaving them soft, fluffy and perfectly odorless. Clothes dried in this manner are never shrunk, discolored or left with a harsh feel.

The Vorclone Tumbler used in our laundry is the only drying tumbler that does not depend solely on heat to dry clothes; it is the missing link in an otherwise perfect laundering process. It puts the work of the power laundry on par with that of the housewife's own private laundry.

Be sure to see this wonder machine in our laundry anytime, feel and smell the clothes it dries, notice how fresh and sweet smelling they are.

NEW PAPER FOR WESTERN KENTUCKY

The Bulletin published at Dawson Springs, official organ of the West Kentucky Development Association, Will P. Scott, managing editor, made its initial appearance in our sanctum on January 15, and was a welcome visitor. It is a 3-column, 4-page paper filled with choice reading of a very interesting nature, both for the man at home and the man abroad. It is calculated to point out the right road for the man at home to properly develop his wealth of resources, while the man abroad, should he grasp his opportunity, will not be slow in lending his assistance to the development and finally become one of us.

The Bulletin is the youngest "booster" in the State and it promises to be a giant in strength. We look for much good to be accomplished for Western Kentucky through its columns. Editor Scott is not only a forceful speaker, but a brilliant writer. Long live The Bulletin, may it enjoy the richest blessings of a united West Kentucky.

A NEW YEAR VISION

Let a handsome, sprightly and stylishly garbed woman walk down the street and every eye will be turned upon her. It is our instinctive recognition of that which appeals to us. The eye but obeys the will of the brain and of the mind.

And as we gaze in admiration upon the wonders of womanhood, so it is when the brightest and the cleanest of nature and the works of man are opened up to us. We see, we admire, and we retain our impressions throughout the years to come.

Our community may be like the woman. It may be clean, spotless, sanitary and a thing of beauty, or it may wither and decay through neglect and indifference. It may be garbed in the beauties of the handicraft of man, or it may drift along in tatters and obscurity. It may compel the admiration of other peoples and draw them to our fold, or it may be a place to be seen, and shunned, and forgotten. It is for us to say, for us to write the verdict of our future.

The birth of a new year should see the dawn of a new order of things. It should see every man and every woman striving to make this the brightest and the most attractive spot in this whole section of the state. It should see us striving with might and determination to convert a pleasant country town into a garden spot of beauty, with health, happiness and prosperity, as the heritage of our daily life. It can be done if we want to do it.

Federal prohibition agents found bootleg wine in the basement of an Indianapolis undertaking establishment. Business promotion is commendable, but it can be overdone.

Most communities, including Fulton, are going into 1927 with the parking problem unsolved. This is one that won't solve itself. The far-sighted community will take care of its automobile visitors and in a few years will be far ahead of its neighbors.

They say the holiday liquor was either so weak that only the price made you stagger or was so strong that those who partook were for peace at any price.

IT DRIVES OUT WORMS

The surest sign of worms in children is paleness, lack of interest in play, fretfulness, variable appetite, picking at the nose and sudden starting to sleep. When these symptoms appear it is time to give White's Cream Vermifuge. A few doses drives out the worms and puts the little one on the road to health again. White's Cream Vermifuge has a record of fifty years of successful use. Price 35c. Sold by Bennett's Drug Store, Fulton, Ky.

KENTUCKY HIGHWAY PROGRAM OUTLINED

Montgomery Says Work Will Be on "Cash" Basis.

Frankfort, Ky.—With plans to be on a "cash" basis by the middle of February, the state highway commission is going forward this year with a determination to take Kentucky out of the mud, W. C. Montgomery, chairman of the state road commission, said in outlining the plans of the commission for the coming year.

Outstanding warrants now exceed the cash in the treasury to the extent of $3,500,000, Mr. Montgomery said, adding that the revenues now coming in would put the commission on a cash basis by the middle of the next month.

Motor licenses collected during December and January will amount to approximately $2,500,000, while ad valorem taxes, now being settled by sheriffs, would amount to approximately $700,000 and the gasoline tax for January approximately $400,000, the commissioner estimated. This, he stated, would place the commission in good shape and that they intend staying on a cash basis until fall, when some warrants might be issued in anticipation of the 1928 motor licenses.

The commission will lay particular stress on putting Kentucky's through highways in good shape this year, and will also work on a good hard surfaced road for Western Kentucky from Mayfield via Russellville, Hopkinsville, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown and Louisville.

Railroad Notes.

How a Kentucky school boy whose only security was a sincere desire to get ahead and a willingness to work hard borrowed $45 to buy his first calf and realized $500 from his 2-year venture in cattle raising is told in the current number of the Illinois Central Magazine. The boy is Lee Evans, of Fordville, a small town on the Kentucky lines of the Illinois Central System.

Lee wasn't able to negotiate a loan to pay for the purebred calf he needed to join the calf club that was organized in the spring of 1925 among the boys studying agriculture at the local high school, but the stockman who provided the calves, learning of his desire, took his note without security. Lee had to walk six miles to school, but he spent two hours a day taking care of his calf, and the following December he shipped it to the fat stock show at Louisville, weighing 640 pounds. There it brought a fancy price, and the buyers made up a purse for the boy. All told he realized $374.

The next year Lee got another calf, cared for it carefully and sent it to the show at Louisville weighing 800 pounds. It took several prizes and also sold for a fancy price, bringing in altogether $282. The net profit on the two calves was around $500, which will help Lee get a start at the state university, where he expects to work his way through.

Two trains on the Illinois

Central System between Evansville, Ind., and Princeton, Ky., are manned by a crew of which three men are real veterans of the service. The conductor, M. K. Keirce, has been employed by the Illinois Central System forty years; the engineer, James Feeney, has been employed forty-one years, and the baggageman, Edward Dyer, has been employed thirty-seven years. The crew to which they belong makes a round trip from Evansville to Princeton and back again the same day.

There was an attendance of more than 400 at the annual convention held recently of the surgeons on the staff of the Illinois Central System. The doctors held a 2-day meeting at Biloxi, Miss., and discussed problems related to their work of looking after the health of the 60,000 employees of the railroad they serve.

The two girls who tied for first place in the recent annual health contest of the boys' and girls' club congress at Chicago are both from counties on the lines of the Illinois Central System. They are Janette Rushing, 14 years old, of Sunflower county, Mississippi, and Alberta Hoppe, 16 years old, of Linn County, Iowa. This is the third time in four years that a girl from Sunflower county, Mississippi, has won first place in these contests to select the healthiest girl in the United States.

What is the Chamber of Commerce?

The Chamber of Commerce is the voice of the city. It reflects the ideals of the community.

It expresses the aspirations of the people.

It gives direction to the aims of the citizenship.

It combines the efforts of those who think in terms of helpfulness.

It reduces unorganized elements to an organized unit.

It speaks in defense of the good name of the city.

It defends the city against the traducer.

It is the spotlight that reveals activities that are worthy.

It pleads in behalf of the voiceless.

It is the center of worth while enterprise.

It is the magnet that draws the outside world to your midst.

It is the clearing house of civic pride.

It is the power house of progress.

It is a composite picture of a city as its citizenship would have it.

BARKLEY SAYS REPUBLICAN "ECONOMY" FABLE

Republicans were assailed as perpetrators of unprecedented "orgy of corruption" in a Jackson day address at Springfield, Mo., Saturday night by Representative Alben W. Barkley, Democratic United States senator-elect.

He referred to the present tariff as "the boldest example of legislative inequity ever crystallized into law" as result of which "the cost of living still mounts."

"An effort is being made and will be made to blind the people to their misfortune and to the misdeeds of some of their leaders, by building up a myth around the talk of fabulous economy practiced by the Coolidge administration."

He declared the cost of government had increased and "at the White House itself, which has been heralded as the fountain of all economy, the increase has been greatest of all," increasing from $200,000 the first Harding year, to $483,000 for the last Coolidge year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Melton gave the young folks a party last Saturday evening. Friday last, Joe Harris gave one in honor of his niece, Christine Taylor.

Miss McGehee has quite a large class of pupils taking piano, voice and expression. She is giving the orchestra lessons once a week. The indications are now that she will prove to be a most valuable acquisition to our community and a worthy successor of Miss Hooper.

We sympathize greatly with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Brundige, in the loss of their house and outbuildings by fire, last Wednesday. The house caught in the roof and was almost ready to fall in when discovered.

Only a few things were saved. Practically everything was destroyed except the stock barn and scales. Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Brundige lost their household effects, too, being stored upstairs. There was on-ly about $900 insurance.

Mrs. Morgan seems to be much improved for the last few weeks.

Mrs. T. D. Butts is steadily improving. Her mother, Mrs. Brown, returned to her home in St. Louis last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Finch have both been on the sick list. Mr. Finch with indigestion and rheumatic complications, and Mrs. Finch with a cold which just escaped pneumonia.

The Ladies' Club met with Mrs. Davis Thomas, January 6. Not being able to go, can't make a full report of meeting. Meets January 27 with Mrs. L. B. Temple.

The health program will be continued; also work on quilt. First aid, broken bones and dislocations—Mrs. Mart Reed; Hemorrhages or bleeding—Mrs. A. J. Lowe; Burns—Mrs. Irvine Brundige; Artificial Respiration—Mrs. Estes Rogers; Contagious Diseases, Cause, Prevention and Treatment, Typhoid and Malaria—Mrs. Jim Burke; Small Pox—Mrs. Davis Thomas; Tuberculosis—Mrs. Robt. Rhodes.

This is rather an interesting program. Let us all be on hand promptly at one-thirty.

The literary society of C. G. H. S. had its regular semi-monthly meeting, Friday afternoon, January 14, 1927. The following program rendered, all entering wholeheartedly in the work:

SAYS POOLERS MUST DELIVER

Garrison Says Members Are Bound To Dispose of Their Crops Through Assn.

Members of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Cooperative association who are of the opinion that it is optional whether they deliver their 1926 crops to the association or dispose of them over the independent market are in "grave error," D. W. Whaley, manager of the western district of the association, has been advised by Roy G. Garrison, general counsel for the association.

In a letter from Hopkinsville, Ky., Mr. Whaley, K. Garrison states:

"The association is expecting each and every member to deliver tobacco to it, under existing contracts, and will hold accountable all members who do not do that.

"The only order entered in the federal suit was an order denying the appointment of a receiver.

"It is not optional with the grower as to whether or not he will deliver his tobacco but he is bound to do so under his contract, and the association intends to make every effort to enforce this contract."—Paducah News-Democrat.

Efficient and Economical Home Heating

The Enterprise Automatic circulating warm air Heater will heat the entire home with a constant circulation of clean, warm air, insuring the same comfortable warmth in every room.

Finished in dark grained Mahogany enamel, it is in harmony with the other furnishings of the most refined taste. The fire door, ash door and all mechanical parts are concealed when the cabinet is closed.

The powerful heating unit makes it most economical in fuel consumption. The wide deep air ways from top to bottom of the cabinet permit free passage of air, which is quickly heated in passing over the heating unit, and out the top to circulate through the entire house.

BEAUTIFUL DINNER IN HONOR OF MR. McNISH

The following was clipped from the society columns of Sunday's Paducah News-Democrat which is only a part of the original article. Mr. McNish was formerly manager of the Fulton Exchange and has many friends here who rejoice in his success.

"Very simple, but beautiful in every detail was the dinner given at six o'clock last evening as a farewell tribute in honor of Kelly McNish, who,
with Mrs. McNish and their son David, is leaving this morning for Ashland, Ky., where he has accepted a position as General Manager of the Ashland Home
Telephone Company.

"The dinner was given in the club rooms of the Business and Professional Women's club.
The rooms were beautifully decorated, the Bell colors, blue and white, being effectively carried out. A number of out-of-town employes throughout the Paducah district were present, among these being Gus
Rudy, manager Mayfield; Dee Mitchell, Manager Fulton and
P. H. Haley, Manager Princeton."

MACE McDADE CELE- BRATES 75TH BIRTH- DAY SUNDAY

Sunday was a day of celebrating and feasting at the Mc-Dade home on Maple avenue,
where thirty or more of Mr.
Mace McDade's nieces, nephews and friends with well filled baskets gathered to surprise him with a big birthday dinner, it being his 75th birthday.
We all know Mr. McDade as being one of the youngest old men in Fulton and from his actions no one would think he was over 25 years old. In fact, he is as active today as he was fifty years ago and always jolly and in a good humor. He is a native Tennessean, coming to Fulton vicinity the 12th day of February, 1881 with his parents from Carroll county, Tenn.

Monday night twenty-four pupils from the Junior High school, Prof. J. W. DeVault, principal, received diplomas promoting them to the High school.

As is the custom, the class presented a play, the one selected this year was, "Ghosts In the House," under the direction of Miss Vera Mae Elliott, to whom much credit is due for the training of the cast. The boys and girls proved to be good actors and brought forth much laughter and applause from the large audience.

Members of the class are,

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE CENTRAL CHURCH

Two large and interested audiences heard the new minister,
J. G. Malphurs, at the Central Church of Christ last Lord's day. The subject for the morning was the question the Lord
asked Peter, "Lovest Thou Me
More Than These?" (Jn. 21: 15). Each of the first three words were used for the principal parts of body of the discourse. First, the moving power in our work and devotion to God should be love, having grown from the lower impulse of fear, for "he that feareth is not made perfect in love,"

(1 Jno. 4:18) 2nd. The question is personal, one that father, mother, sister, brother, preacher or priest cannot settle you.

Third. In our religious activities we must be sure that Christ is the one we love, and not popularity, praises of men, not even "our doctrine." Christians must love Christ more than their nets, boats and fish—more than their professions.

For the evening sermon Mr.
Malphurs used Paul's charge to Timothy, as found in the second letter, 4:1-2, "preach the word." Gospel preachers must seek opportunities to "preach the word," they must be "urgent in season, out of season," and they must do this preaching, as Paul says, by reproving, rebuking, exhortation and teaching "with all longsuffering."

The reason, said the minister, why Paul insists on all preachers to "preach the word, be urgent in season, out of season" is because "the time will come when they will not endure the sound doctrine. Mr. Malphurs gave his audience and the members to understand that certain doctrines are questionable, that they are either opinions of men, or are of a speculative nature, but that during his ministry to the church he would devote his time to issues which all religious bodies say to be sound, and which make men better fathers, better citizens and better church workers.

Services for the week at the church of Christ are as follows:

MARRIED IN FULTON

At the home of Esq. S. A. Mc-Dade on State Line street, the following couples were happily united in marriage by the gen-

SIX SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Unprecedented Three Hour Record Made in Fulton Circuit Court

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 18.—Fulton county circuit court made an unprecedented record here this morning when six men were sentenced to the penitentiary from 9 o'clock to 12 o'clock. Two of the sentences were for life.

Eli Jackson, negro, who was tried just one year ago here for the murder of Eli Flowers, negro, and given the death sentence, was retried and given a life sentence. At his first trial he pleaded self-defense and the jury sentenced him in an hour.
Today he pleaded guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

Bob Davis, negro, who murdered his wife three months ago, was given a life sentence.
The others were negroes also and were Joe Carn, given two years; James Adkison, two years; Willie Morris, five years and Jesse William, five years, all on robbery charges. All plead guilty.

The afternoon was devoted to another trial, that of Will Eschridge for the murder of Ertha Perry, two years ago. All witnesses were heard and Judge W. H. Hester will instruct the jury tomorrow morning.
