Quiet July 4th Due Here; Lake to Draw Big Crowds

Benton citizens were all set today - Thursday - to observe July Fourth. It will be a quiet holiday here as no special program has been arranged. Business houses will be closed almost 100 per cent, including the banks. The postoffice will be closed and there will be no residential delivery.

Courthouse and city hall workers and officials will take a holiday. The Rotary club will not hold its regular meeting Friday night. Many persons are planning out-of-town trips. Others have out-of-town visitors for the long weekend. Picnics, swimming parties and family gatherings will occupy most people. Some, because of the heat wave, plan to stay home and rest.

The Kentucky Lake parks at Gilbertsville and Aurora are expecting capacity crowds. Motels in the Kentucky Lake area report heavy demand for rooms. Most of the motels expect to operate at full capacity during the weekend.

Halt In Sprinkling Is Requested by Mayor

New Officers of Benton Lions Club

Supply of Water is Pretty Low

In a proclamation issued Monday, Mayor Jim Kinney asked the citizens of Benton to please refrain from using water for sprinkling their yards and gardens. The city's water supply is getting dangerously low, Mayor Kinney said. He pointed out that the supply in one of the city's two wells already is nearly exhausted. "We must try to conserve enough water for drinking and emergency use," Kinney said, "and we must have the full cooperation of the citizens in this matter." The current heat wave has caused heavy demands on the water supply, the mayor said, and unless some curbs are established the city soon might have an acute water problem. The curb on sprinkling is a voluntary measure but Mayor Kinney stressed the fact the city wants the full cooperation of the citizens. A dangerously low water supply would be a great handicap in case of fire, or some other such emergency.

Farmers Urged To Act On Soil Tests And Wheat Loans

Marshall County farmers are invited to come to the PMA office in Benton for information of 1952 wheat loans, Everett Treas, chairman of the Marshall County PMA announced Tuesday. Wheat must grade U. S. No. 1. Support price is $2.37 per bushel, delivered by truck to Cairo, Ill. Mr. Treas also urged farmers requests for soil testing. The cost is eight cents per acre of cropland on the entire farm. Mr. Treas said farmers interested in soil testing should file their requests at once because fall seeding time is drawing near.

Farm Bureau, REA To Hold Joint Picnic

The Marshall County Farm Bureau and the West Kentucky REA will have a joint picnic Saturday, July 12, at the Kentucky Lake State Park. The Farm Bureau did not have a county-wide picnic last year as its picnic was held in connection with that of the district Farm Bureau. It seemed that something was lacking from the summer's pleasure, so the two groups are planning a big picnic this year. The Farm Bureau has planned its part of the program for the morning and, after a bountiful barbecue lunch, the REA will have its business session and entertainment. All Farm Bureau and REA members are urged to attend. Ed Thomasson of Route 6 was a business visitor in Benton Saturday.

GIVE 'EM A HAND

The Summer Theatre, being staged in the auditorium of Kentucky Dam State Park, Gilbertsville, is a brand new project in West Kentucky.

The shows are staged each weekend (Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays) by the drama department of Murray State College and are under the direction of Prof. W. J. Robertson.

Heretofore the shows have been presented during the regular season at the college auditorium and have enjoyed excellent reception.

But this is the first time West Kentucky has had a Summer Theatre.

Most of the big cities have some type of summer theatre project. St. Louis, Cincinnati and Dallas to name a few, have had great success with their summer operettas.

But not many small cities can boast of a summer theatre project. We were in the audience Friday night and found "Papa Is All" excellent entertainment.

Professor Robertson, students and other faculty members of Murray State have worked hard and produced entertainment usually found only in the bigger cities.

We see no reason why the good citizens of Benton and Marshall County should not give this fine project their support. We recommend it highly and hope that the Summer Theatre finds a permanent place in our field of recreation.

SPIRIT OF 1976

Leaders in all lines of activity are increasing efforts to maintain the highest levels of integrity in the operation of business and industry. They are aware of the peril to the moral standards of the country as a whole which has accompanied revelations of widespread corruption in government. Their first concern is for young people from whose ranks must come tomorrow's leaders.

William H. Miller, an official of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in speaking of the responsibilities of business men, points out that "Today's office boy may be president of your company when the U. S. celebrates its second centennial in 1976 — the training of executives begins with the young people who walk into your business out of high school or college. If business men and fathers are not going to make it clear to youngsters that practically all business is moral and ethical, who is?"

Mr. Miller suggests three ways in which business men can help children: "Give our own youngsters and others something money can't buy—our time. Be a good citizen. Be a good church member."

SOIL CONSERVATION

By Herbert Anderson

W. L. Frazier and Rastus Lowery report a good stand of sericea lespedeza from the seeding made last spring. Frazier clipped the weeds off his last month.

Edmond Sledd reports that he did not get a real good stand of sericea which he sowed last spring. Sledd used thirty pounds of seed per acre while Lowery and Frazier sowed forty to fifty pounds per acre.

Sericea is growing during the dry weather and furnishing pasture and hay while the other pasture and hay crops in the county are ready to burn.

The following farmers dug farm ponds last month which were checked by the Soil Conservation Service:

Roy Vasseur, Lake View Church Road Howard Matheny, Calvert City; Mrs. Maple Sargent and H. W. Peters, Sharpe; Reed Heath, Briensburg; W. J. Brien, Draffen; and W. H. Phelps, north of Palma.

Only two of these ponds met the minimum requirements for a good safe pond. They were Roy Vasseur and W. H. Phelps. These will be certified for payment from the P. M. A. Committee at a credit rate of ten cents per cubic yard of earth moved in building the dams.

The two main reasons the other ponds do not qualify are the dams were not built high enough and adequate spillways were not cut. Some did not have the three to one slope on the wet side of the dam and some were not the required six feet deep.

The dams for many of these ponds were only one-half foot higher than the spillway. Unless this is corrected, these dams will wash out. A difference in elevation of one and one-half to two feet between the bottom of the spillway and the top of the dam is considered safe when the spillway is wide enough.

Livestock, Grass Pay Best In Marshall, Survey Shows

Producing livestock, grass and hay was the most profitable way to farm the upland and ridges of Marshall County in 1951. So found University of Kentucky research workers in a survey made in cooperation with 30 upland Marshall County farmers.

The report of the university showed that Marshall County upland farmers with over $3,000 invested in forage production and breeding stock tended to have gross incomes higher than $3,800 in 1951. Farmers with less than $3,000 in livestock and forage production tended to have gross incomes lower than $3,800. Well organized farms having investments comparable to those in the better farming areas of the United States were producing incomes which compared favorably with incomes in those better areas. The average Marshall County farm is too small to support heavy investments in machinery and labor without additional investments in forage and livestock production. Returns on machinery investments and labor used were low in 1951 except in the case of large farms on which forage and livestock investments increased the efficiency of both labor and machinery.

The study indicated that the best bet for the average upland farmer in Marshall County was first to invest in grass and hay production and then raise livestock to consume the hay and grass. After such investments made labor productive, it then became profitable to save labor with machinery. As undeveloped Marshall County upland is not very productive, it paid, when money was limited, to use the money to develop forage and livestock production before buying additional land. However, as most Marshall county farms are small, it will be necessary eventually to increase farm sizes before farm earnings will become large enough to support standards of living comparable with those attainable from work in nearby industries.

Management is especially important. The study indicated, for instance, that good managers were often getting as much as $3,000 extra income from what they had to work with, as compared with poor managers.

The report, called "Sources of Incomes on Upland Marshall County Farms," was written by Dr. Glenn L. Johnson of the Department of Farm Economics at the Agricultural Experiment station in cooperation with the TVA.

Attorney Walter Prince, known as "Judge" to most of the old-timers of the county because he once served as county judge of Marshall County, is missing out on Republican Party conventions this year for the first time in many years.

Mr. Prince came to Benton in 1913, and in 1916 he attended the county, state and national conventions. Since that time Mr. Prince has been attending the conventions regularly.

But this year, he hasn't attended a single convention and
