And Family Have Returned to Washington, and He is Now Hard at Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7. President Cleveland never worked harder since he became president than he has done since his return to Washington: 'In addition to his desk work, of itself a task for an ordinary man, he has held important conferences with every member of his cabinet upon matters pertaining to their several departments: with numerous senators on the outlook for the passage of the silver repeal bill, and with Chairman Wilson, of the house ways and means committee, upon the new tariff bill, public hearings upon which were begun Monday by that committee, to be continued until the 20th inst. In short, Mr. Cleveland has, after his vacation, taken up his n'umerous public duties with the vigor which has always characterized his adminishim and talk with him two minutes will convince any man that the talk about his health being undermined and broken is arrant nonsense. He was overworked; needed rest; and now that he has had it is all right again.
