Progress of Better Homes Campaign

There is every indication that the 1927 Better Homes campaign will be the most extensive ever held in Fulton. It is a national educational movement and Mrs. R. B. Beadles is chairman of the local work. The Mayor has issued his proclamation for a general clean-up and paint up, April 24 to May 1. Chamber of Commerce, all civic organizations, Woman's club, Boy Scouts, T. P. A's, Board of Education and citizens generally have been asked to cooperate in making Fulton the "City Beautiful."

We printed an outline of the purposes of the campaign last week and again want to remind you of its importance and some things the campaign does.

Streets and alleys are cleaned up, repaired and thereafter kept in good condition.

Fire losses are reduced thru the removal of waste and rubbish. Fire traps are razed and often are replaced by modern buildings.

This campaign has been endorsed by the nation's fire chiefs and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States gives cities credit for Clean Up and Paint Up campaigns thru its grading committee of the National Fire Waste Council.

Vacant grounds are improved, mowed, cleared of rubbish and converted into playgrounds or thrift gardens, thus preventing their return to disorderliness.

Public buildings are renovated. Landscaping is renewed. Trees are planted.

Homes are cleaned and beautified, inside and out. Grounds front and back, alleys and out-buildings are cleaned up. Garages and fences are painted and repaired.

This campaign saves human lives. Breeding places of disease are destroyed. Flies, mosquitoes, rats, roaches and other pests are eliminated.

Property values are restored or increased. Warehouses and factory buildings are cleaned up and painted up to an extent that visibly improves the morale and efficiency of the workers.

It advertises the city. Many communities have shown a more rapid growth in population after they inaugurated these campaigns than they had ever hoped to enjoy.

This campaign helps business. It starts repairs and building activity. It creates a lively demand upon local dealers for everything needed in making homes clean and attractive and safe from fire, disease and the weather. It stabilizes, restores and increases the value of real estate and helps the bankers and the borrowers.

It develops good citizenship and builds character.

DISTRICT W. M. U. MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Western District of Kentucky convened with the First Baptist Church of Fulton on Tuesday of this week. Although the weather was inclement quite a good crowd was in attendance and various Baptist churches in the District were represented.

Mrs. M. F. Gray, president of the District W. M. U., made the address of welcome for the occasion. The morning session was taken up mainly by songs, prayer and short talks by various members of the union on organized mission work and the reading of the various reports.

At the noon hour the ladies of the Fulton church extended a most substantial and enjoyable welcome to the visitors and all present in the form of a bountiful dinner served in the basement of the church.

In the afternoon a very forceful and timely address on mission work was delivered by Miss Mather, of Alabama, a Southland Mission worker, also an address by Miss Bright, of Louisville.

At the evening hour special quartet music given by Miss Cantrell, Mr. Bailey, Rev. Warren and Mr. Benedict, was enjoyed. Then followed a play—"The 1927 Missionary Program," given by members of the local Y. W. A.

The evening program was concluded by a very impressive address by Miss Mather, who most vividly depicted the condition in many foreign lands, and the great need of foreign mission workers.

Youngsters to Hunt For Easter Eggs

Sunday Afternoon At Fair Grounds at 2:30.

Every youngster in Fulton is anxious for Easter Sunday to arrive so he may take part in the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Lions' Club.

The hunt will be staged at the Fair grounds as usual, beginning at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

A pleasing feature of this year's program will be white rabbits given as prizes in addition to numerous cash prizes.

The annual Easter egg hunt has always been enjoyed by the little ones as well as the grown-ups, who delight in seeing the children romping over the fair grounds in eager anticipation of finding the "golden egg." The addition of white rabbits to the cash prize list this year will make it all the more interesting for the hunters and spectators.

High School Notes

The preliminary contests for the scholastic representatives of Fulton High school in the coming meet will be chosen next week. These contests will be in piano, declamation, spelling and dramatics.

Coch Hughes reports that much interest is being shown in the track work by those who have entered these events.

The baseball team will make the trip to Mayfield to engage the team of that high school, April 14. This will be the opening game of the season. Mayfield will play a return game here April 29. The game scheduled for Saturday with Union City has been postponed.

The grade cards for the fifth term were given out Tuesday of this week.

Practice will begin of the Senior play Wednesday night. The play "Bab, a Sub-Deb," will be given May 13. It is an adaptation of the Mary Roberts Rhinehart story of the same name.

The one act play, "Indian Summer," will be presented by the representatives of the Fulton High school at the inter-high school dramatic contest to be held here May 4.

Home Room Group Six presented a pantomime called the Battle of Bunker Hill a chapel, recently. The presentation was much enjoyed.

New Methodist Church as it Will Look When Completed---Spence & Phillips, Architects

Work Started On Church Building

J. H. Sharp, Superintendent for Walker Bros., Contractors, On the Job

Appropriate Ceremonies Held Tuesday Afternoon, Conducted by Rev. J. V. Freeman

Work on the construction of the First Methodist Church Building, corner Second and Carr streets, is in progress with J. H. Sharp, superintendent, and R. B. King, assistant manager, of Walker Brothers, contractors of Birmingham, Ala., in charge of construction.

Tuesday afternoon a large crowd assembled on the building lot where appropriate services were held, conducted by Rev. J. V. Freeman, pastor of the church. After opening with prayer, the choir sang, "I Love Thy Church, Oh, God," followed by a brief talk and reading by Rev. Freeman. An interesting feature of ceremonies was lifting of the first shovels of dirt by Mrs. Ella Anderson, only living charter member of the church residing in Fulton, Mrs. Mary Bullock, oldest continuous resident member, Mrs. George Alley, daughter of the late Dr. W. T. Bolling, former pastor, Mrs. Mary Collins, widow of Rev. J. T. C.

Collins, first pastor of church, Miss Rachael Hunter, youngest member of the church and pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Baldrige.

Rev. A. N. Walker, pastor of Fulton Circuit, dismissed with prayer.

The members of the church and especially the building committee, composed of Messrs. Joe Browder, T. M. Franklin and T. J. Kramer, are delighted that work has started on the structure and Superintendent J. H. Sharp tells us that he hopes to complete the structural work within five months.

The First Methodist Church was organized in 1870 in the old Seminary building, a two story frame which stood about where Albert Smith's Cafe is now located and which was used for church services, school, and by the lodges of the city. The church has had some of the best men and most able ministers of the Memphis Conference as pastors since 1870: Revs. J. T. C. Collins, J. M. Spence, J. S. Renshaw, F. Bynum, J. W. Knott, W. H. Armstrong, O. B. Whitten, C. F. Moore, A. E. Scott, J. R. Bell, H. B. Johnston, W. C. Sellers, G. W. Wilson, E. K. Bransford, J. M. Scott, J. G. Clark, E. B. Ramsey, W. G. Hefley, W. A. Freeman, H. B. Brooks, Dr. W. T. Bolling, A. J. Meadows, W. W. Adams, J. W. Blackard, J. W. Waters, W. A. Russell, H. G. Ryan, W. F. Maxedon, R. W. Hood, J. V. Freeman, present pastor, who has the distinction of serving the Fulton church longer than any other pastor, and is due much credit with his building committee, for his zealous work in pushing the new church building program to a successful conclusion. He is now serving his fourth year as pastor.

Of the 18 charter members there survive to this time only one, Mrs. Ella Anderson.

The first church house erected was by the Methodists in 1871 and stood on State Line St., near where Dr. Alexander's Sanatorium is now located.

The congregation moved into it that year, but it was not completed until 1873.

The present structure on the corner of State Line and Plain streets was erected under the pastorate of Rev. H. B. Johnson in 1889.

A Sunday school was started even before the church was organized and prospered under the leadership of Rev. J. T. C. Collins and Dr. S. G. Patterson. It is estimated when completed that the new church building and furnishings will cost around $100,000.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Malphurs announce the birth of a son, Preston, born Saturday, April 9, at their home, 221 Fourth street.

Council Proceedings

The city council met in adjourned session Monday night with all councilmen present and Mayor Shankle presiding.

The street improvement ordinance which was to have been acted upon at this meeting was deferred until the regular meeting in May, giving the engineers more time in which to complete the work necessary for outlining the ordinance.

Other routine business was transacted and everything was running smoothly until a complaint was filed against L. P. Needham, one of the bonded plumbers working on installing sewer connections, by G. G. Payne, 166 Jefferson street.

After hearing Mr. Payne's complaint a general discussion followed in which councilmen, city attorney and citizens took part. Mr. Needham was present and given an opportunity to explain matters, and after assuring the councilmen that he would positively refuse to make connections or work on plumbing where the material was not furnished by him, the city attorney advised the council to revoke his plumbing license, so on motion of DeMyer, seconded by Atkins, the mayor put the question which was unanimously voted to revoke Needham's license and cancel bond.

As only bonded plumbers can contract for sewer connections, Mr. Needham can make no more contracts for said work in Fulton.

Expressions brought out by the various discussions did not approve of any one having the right to dictate to citizens contracting for plumbing and sewer connections from whom material should be purchased, notwithstanding the fact that plumbers carry stock themselves.

CENTRAL CHURCH TO REMODEL BUILDING

The building committee of the Church of Christ met Monday afternoon to accept or reject proposed plans for remodeling the meeting house of the Church of Christ. The plans were drawn by an architect in Union City, and were accepted by the committee as drawn by him. They call for an increased seating capacity of one-third of the present auditorium, seven large class rooms, basement, porch, etc. The floor of the old part is to be worked over to harmonize with the new addition.

As soon as the blueprints and specifications are completed, bids will be accepted. The work should start within two or three weeks. Dr. Jones, J. A. Colley and J. G. Malphurs compose the building committee. Contractors out of town will have a chance to bid on the work, but all things being equal, preference will be shown to home forces.

Residents at Hickman are again battling with high water. The stores and streets in the business section are again flooded and conditions point to the highest water mark on record. The new highway between Fulton and Hickman, finished from Hickman to Cayce, is again under water at two or three different places, with more than a mile under the water. This highway was just finished last fall and two weeks ago was the first time it had been flooded. Many wondered what effect the water would have on it but after the water fell several days ago it was found to be unhurt. It is now again covered and from indications today will be covered for ten days or more yet.

Do You Know

A better plan for success than the systematic accumulation of a portion of your earnings? Life is either a series of stepping stones or a treadmill. Some get on and some stand still. "Thrift" is a broader word than merely "saving." It involves an intelligent and profitable use of your savings. To get the highest earning power, consistent with absolute safety, you should buy stock in the FULTON BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

AT EASTER

The promise of eternal spring
Is with us strong today,
We see it in the budding tree,
In every walk and way;
The earth is blossoming again,
With newborn beauty bright,
And winter's gloom has vanished
In sunlight warm and bright.

The trees that stood so stark and bare
With bursting buds are filled,
The little brook is singing now
The song that long was stilled;
New verdure springs in every field,
The violets shyly peep
And all the earth in joy awakes
From its long winter sleep.

How meet it is that Eastertime
Should greet us with the spring,
When newborn hope and life and breath
Is filling everything;
When all the earth and sky proclaim
The truth He gave to men,
That after death's encircling sleep
They, too, would rise again.

YOUR SPRING SUIT NEEDS THE WRINKLES TAKEN OUT

You know what a beauty shop can do for faces—how it can remove wrinkles from cheeks and crow's feet from eyes. But did you ever visit a "beauty shop for suits"—a modern dry cleaning and sanitary pressing establishment? Here, again, is a "fountain of youth"—this time for clothes.

For example, take one of your own suits to the O. K. Steam Laundry—one you've worn often. If it's a light suit, the grime is plainly visible at collar and cuffs; perhaps there is a bit of grease on it from your car. If the suit is dark, the dirt may not show—but it's there. One cannot ride in automobiles and taxis, and not gather dirt.

But see what your dry cleaner, the O. K. Laundry, can do for this suit.

First, it is tumbled in warm, drying air; the moisture is removed, the dust shaken out, obstinate spots loosened. An expert "spotter" then goes over the garment by hand—stains and spots vanish before his skill. Next, the suit is soured gently, thoroughly, back and forth, in the purest of cleaning fluids. Soil embedded in the fabric is filtered out; grime and grease are dissolved away. After most of the moisture has been whirled out, the suit is carefully dried in a breeze of fresh, warm, sterile air, then with the warm air sifting thru it, it is fluffed softly. The nap comes to life, the cloth becomes fresh and smart again.

Nor is this dry cleaning "magic" limited to men's suits and overcoats. Hats and gloves, women's coats, suits, dresses and blouses, children's clothes—almost every article of wearing apparel can be given this same renewing, refreshing treatment. And how much longer clothes wear when they receive it. Truly dry cleaning pays its own bills.

Of course, we make a specialty of dry cleaning draperies, rugs, etc. Don't overlook this when you begin your Spring housecleaning—just phone 130 and we will do the rest.

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON
The Wagon That is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skein of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skein is set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skeins there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling.

Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the loads. And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy mal-leable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kingbolt—better does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool box. Let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

Community Building

"Fresh Pastures" Best for Dissatisfied Man

Many living in the large centers of population long for the freedom and quiet of the countryside. They want to be away from the din, the tension and the nervous strain incident to life in the cities where the per capita per city block is far too high. And to large numbers living in small communities and the sparsely populated rural country, city life has a fascination that is well nigh irresistible—that leads some to violate the law in order to enjoy the intoxication of the crowd.

But the truth is that being satisfied with the place where you live does not depend upon the place so much as upon the individual himself. If he makes an honest effort to adjust himself to the conditions in the community, be it large or small, in which he lives, he will grow to be satisfied, to be comfortable and happy. If he is making the most of his talents there, he cannot ask for more. If he is dissatisfied, he is doing himself an injustice. Those who nurse a grievance against their communities should find new locations. They are harming themselves and the place they call home.—Rushville (Ind.) Republican.

Wardens Employed to Protect Roadside Trees

The roadside tree law, passed by the 1914 legislature in Maryland, was the result of the complaint of many citizens concerning the abuses chargeable to pole line companies. Under this law the services of a warden are required to supervise the work of tree trimming by any pole line company when the trees are within the right-of-way of any public road. The administration of the law lies with the state forestry department. Compensation to the wardens is paid by the forestry department, which, in turn, is authorized to collect from persons or corporations requesting assistance in roadside tree planting.

The Maryland Court of Appeals extended the constitutionality of this law at the time of a telephone company's suit on April 9, 1915, and at present there are about 50 wardens assigned to tree work, most of them supervising the work of the different pole line companies.

The Maryland forestry department is to be congratulated on the large number of cities and towns in the state which, through the department's work, now have tree census information and improvement plans for their streets.—Kansas City Times.

Planting the Home

There is an old saying to the effect that "it's not a home until it's planted." A house may have cost thousands of dollars, but if it stands stark and bare, with nothing to tie it to its surroundings, as the landscapers put it, it lacks the atmosphere of conformity, of "homeliness." Therefore, in the planning for a home the lawn should be considered as a most important feature, for it forms, as it were, a setting for the picture. The planting of the trees and the shrubbery must be done with the idea of bringing out the best in the surroundings and of hiding any defects that may exist. A portion of the grounds should be reserved for an unbroken stretch of green grass to be kept clean and well mowed, with no shrubbery scattered over it to mar the effect of velvety smoothness. Where short walks are necessary, stepping stones are now regarded as preferable to solid cement.

Benefit of Zoning System

With the zoning system becoming general there is a brighter outlook for American cities, most of which have grown in rather haphazard fashion. The comparative benefits to these cities will depend largely on the intelligence, the taste and the courage of the zoning authorities. Some of these authorities will have much larger vision than others; they will plan for the indefinite future; they will make changes and adjustments as time and conditions direct. While in some instances they will prevent selfish exploitation, and make impossible certain profits that selfish indulgence might produce, the great result will be city-wide gain, materially and culturally.

Good in Civic Pride

Pride in the home is a very beautiful and withal, a very common virtue in American life, but civic pride is this and much more. Civic pride is one that sets the high standards both for the individual and for the community. And when civic pride has succeeded in beautifying the community a very forward step has been taken toward beautifying the lives of those who dwell in that community.

Up to the Citizens

No city can be beautiful, no matter what its building regulations may be, if its people are slovenly in keeping their places of business and residence, and if the administrative forces are ineffective in enforcing the regulations that may be had in spite of this individual indifference.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for April 17

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16: 13-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Pleases Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Confessing Our Faith in Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing Christ Openly.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What think ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and witnessed His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of Him. In order to help them into the right conception, He provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

1. Peter's Confession (vs. 13-16).
1. How provoked.

Two questions of Christ put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

(1) Whom do men say I, the Son of Man, am (v. 13)?

1. He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning Him. As a wise teacher He knew that this would help crystallize the view of the disciples. The people recognized Jesus as a teacher or a prophet, with more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. The multitudes today recognize Jesus as an unique personality and as having been a great teacher, but that which offends them is His deity.

(2) "Whom say ye that I am?" (v. 15).

This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough. There must be definite, correct and personal belief in Him. Personal belief is worth infinitely more than the knowledge of what others think, for upon personal belief hinges character and destiny.

2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16).

Two vital things, the Messiahship and deity of Jesus. That which Jesus called forth from Peter is the burning question of today. "What think ye of Christ?" is the question that must be answered by everyone.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17).

He pronounced him blessed. Truly he was blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vs. 18-20).

Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body, to the members of which He will give eternal life and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Christ declared that Peter should be the foundation stone in His church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter and on this rock (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vs. 21-23).

From that time Jesus began to show unto the disciples how that He must go unto Jerusalem and suffer many things, be killed and raised again the third day. This (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (v. 24).

To follow Christ means to suffer. It means to turn one's back upon the world.

1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and the denial of self.

2. Take up His cross.

This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God.

3. Follow Christ.

This means to have the mind of Christ; to be like Christ. Christ will come in glory to reward all such.

The Power of God

Many a battle has been won by the arrival of reinforcements. When a man is fighting a battle against his evil tendencies, the coming of the power of God into his soul often means victory. The human reinforced by the divine assures us of heaven—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Nature has a power to show what is inside of a man that responds to God on the outside.—Eckers.

The Flivver and the Flapper

By WALTER ARNOLD

(Copyright)

JACK BANCROFT left his car by the curb and went into the apothecary shop to get some cigarettes. When he came out he found a remarkably pretty girl sitting on the back seat.

"I am Miss Rolands—Amy Rolands," she said. "You have evidently forgotten me, but won't you please hurry and drive me home? I have some medicine for my aunt who is ill—and I must get home as soon as possible."

"Only too pleased to be of service," replied Jack, and, jumping in, started the car. "Er—which way, Miss Rolands?" asked the gallant Jack. "Straight ahead," was the reply—and straight ahead they went.

Jack was perfectly sure that he never had met the girl before. The thing was very mysterious. But she was a pretty girl.

They had driven for two miles out into the country leaving the little town behind them, when the girl, leaning over, touched Jack on the shoulder and said: "There is where I live. Stop at the gate, will you please. You need not drive in."

Jack stopped; his passenger sprang lightly out and entering the grounds of a large house, disappeared in the shrubbery which fringed a side path.

"The plot thickens," thought Jack, and, starting up again, drove down the road a bit and then into the same grounds by a side gate, and up to a large garage which stood back of the mansion to the left. Then, jumping out, he ran around to the front of the house to where the path the unknown girl had taken came out upon a little lawn before the shaded piazza.

"What's up, Jack?" asked some one sitting on the piazza.

"Did a young lady, a remarkably pretty young lady, just come up the path here?" asked Jack.

No, no one had seen any young lady, pretty or otherwise.

And that was chapter one of the adventure of the young lady and the automobile—an adventure which Jack could not keep out of his mind.

Two months later he happened to be stopping at a seaside hotel and his friend, Tom Cranshaw, said to him:

"Jack, I will introduce you to one of the prettiest girls you ever saw. She arrived last night with her rich old aunt, Miss Matilda Fagus. There comes Margaret now."

Jack had heard of Matilda Fagus, the eccentric old maid who lived about ten miles below his own town in isolation and state. Jack looked—and there, walking slowly toward them, was the mysterious beauty of his adventure. The introduction was made. Neither Margaret nor Jack "batted an eye," as the vulgar would say. Jack was awfully tempted to say: "I believe we have met once before, Miss Clifford." But he repressed the desire.

He stood it for a whole week, and then, one night, as they sat looking at the moonlit ocean and listening to the hotel orchestra, he said:

"Miss Clifford, did you ever know a girl by the name of Amy Rolands?"

"Yes, indeed," replied Margaret. "I know her very well. And, do you know, she and I are said to look very like each other? I expect her down here tomorrow night. So you have met her. What did you think of her?"

"I thought her very charming," said Jack. He was just a trifle bewildered.

Was it possible that the girl beside him was the same girl he had found sitting in his car that day? He had not had time to study the face of his stowaway passenger, but still—well, in fact, he did not know what to think. Tomorrow he would meet Amy Rolands and then he would know.

The following night, as they sat in the same place, Margaret said: "By the way, Amy Rolands is here."

"Here is she?" cried Jack.

"Sitting beside you," laughed Margaret.

Jack was a little huffed and showed it; the girl had been mystifying him long enough.

"Now, don't be angry," said Margaret. "The story is a very simple one. I didn't explain before because I was not sure, until you asked me last night if I knew Amy Rolands, that you remembered me. You see, I thought I was in love with a young man named Guy Carden. My parents didn't want me to marry him, and sent me to aunt's for safekeeping. I ran away to meet him and got as far as your village. There I saw Aunt Matilda, who had come in pursuit, looking for me, and jumped into your machine to hide. You know the rest. I have learned that the house I told you to leave me at was your own. The joke was on me."

"As your name is still Miss Clifford, I take it that you did not marry Mr. Carden, after all," said Jack.

"No," replied Margaret gravely. "I did not marry him. I walked back to the town, found auntie, and went home with her."

It was three months later, after they had become engaged, that Jack said to Margaret: "Why was it that you did not marry Guy Carden after you had run away from your aunt to meet him?"

"Because," replied Margaret, "on the way to meet him I met somebody I thought I might like better."

Wonderful Country Surrounding Fulton

Much has been said about the good things we have in Fulton, but little has been said about the real backbone of the community—the country surrounding us.

Tobacco, corn, wheat, oats, rye, cotton, grasses and every variety and kind of fruits grown in the temperate zone yield abundant crops in the Kentucky and Tennessee sections of country tributary to Fulton. Hogs, cattle, horses, mules and poultry are raised, but not to the extent we would like to see. Alfalfa, whippoorwill peas, cow peas, soy beans, etc., should be raised more generally than at present. Diversified farming, instead of planting an entire farm to tobacco or any other one crop, will mean a surer and better living for the farmer and more ready money at different times throughout the year. Along with diversified crops, more livestock should be raised. Cows, pigs and chickens will be a great help.

Dairying. Several dairies are now in operation near Fulton, and a number of pure-bred Jerseys were added to the dairying interests this week. There are splendid openings for operating the business on a more extensive scale and we hope to see dairying extended to the paying production of butter and cheese in large quantities. Creameries should be established, for they are profitable and furnish a market for practically all the milk and cream that can be produced. At present the local demand for good, pure milk and for cream and butter is greater than the supply.

Poultry Raising. This is a great section of country for poultry. While there are only a few distinctive poultry farms, thousands of pounds of all kinds of poultry, principally chickens, are raised as an adjunct to general farming, and there is a good market here in Fulton for all that is raised. Poultry as a specialty offers splendid inducements for those who will prepare for the business and carry it on properly.

Live Stock. The live stock industry is growing in extent and interest all over this section. Many fine horses, beef and dairy cattle, mules and hogs are now raised, but not to the extent circumstances warrant. There never was a time in the history of the South when there was a better outlook than at present for making lots of money in livestock. Kentucky mules and horses sell on the market better than any raised elsewhere—the home of thoroughbreds.

Welcome, Farmers We want more farmers to come to this section and can assure them not only a hearty welcome but unusual opportunities to make money. We have the land, the soil, the climate, the water, the law-abiding, good neighbors, the schools, churches, transportation facilities and the best markets in the world close by for the purchase of all kinds of agricultural and horticultural products, poultry, dairy products, livestock, etc.

Today the Kentucky stock man is probably the most independent man in any of the allied agricultural pursuits. It is not to be wondered at that this field of industry is winning over more recruits every year in Fulton county, the land of opportunity.

FULTON

"Not the oldest, nor yet the youngest; not the richest, nor yet the poorest; not the largest nor yet the least; but take it all in all, for men and women, for flocks and herds, for fields and skies, for happy homes and loving hearts, the best place outside of Heaven the Good Lord ever made."

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

OLD STUFF

IT WAS Robert the Bruce, as I remember, who first made it clear to the world that you can't discourage a spider. I recall, also, that it is the female of the species who does the work. She always has a comeback.

I was lying in the breakfast room contentedly reading the morning paper. "I wish you'd take the broom," Nancy said, "and clean out those spider webs between the windows and screens. Janey can't reach them." I knew then that the semi-annual housecleaning was under way and I might as well submit.

I unfastened the screen and swept down the offending death trap. The spider, wary, alert and quick at the get-away, had darted into a friendly crevice and I have no doubt was eyeing me shrewdly from her vantage ground. I was ahead of her, I felt, for her cunningly devised trap had been destroyed.

"Didn't I ask you to sweep down those spider webs?" Nancy asked me at breakfast the next morning. I recalled that she had and cleared my reputation by admitting that I had followed her dictates as a well-trained husband should, but the web was there more intricate and extensive, if possible, than before. After breakfast I eliminated it for the second time.

But this was not the end of the incident. No matter how persistent I was, Mrs. Spider stayed on the job, eluded my broom, kept up her courage, and beat me to it every morning. No matter how many of her friends told her that she had failed and had better give up the job, she didn't believe it. She was like an Englishman in a fight—you may lick him, but he'd never give up.

She dropped in to see me the other day.

"How are you coming on with your job?" I asked.

"Rotten," was his reply. "It's too much for me. I've bitten off more than I can masticate. I'm leaving it."

"Do you know anything about the habits of spiders?" I asked. He looked at me in a semi-idiotic way, but did not answer. Evidently he didn't get me.

IT'S IN THE AIR

Warm days and a bright sun
bring thoughts of cleaning up.
The winter accumulation of debris is unsightly and all out of keeping with the color scheme that spring puts on the landscape.

Many years ago every householder felt an individual responsibility in the matter and with the coming of spring always tidied up his premises and endeavored to improve the appearance of his home.

The responsibility still rests upon the householders, but more recently organized cleanup campaigns have been used as a means of stimulating interest in the movement to brighten up communities and make them look inviting.

The organized way is undoubtedly the best way. It carries the spring clean-up message to everyone and it moves many to act who might not otherwise do anything in this direction.

The customary proclamation has been issued by the Mayor for week of April 24 to May 1, but you don't have to wait until then to start the work.

4-H CLUB WORK

Government figures show that about eleven million boys and girls live on the farms of America. This means approximately half of them are engaged in some form of club work which will enable them to be better farmers and better farmers' wives when they reach maturity.

It also means that there is room for expansion of this type of work among young people on the farm. It is the best means to keep the ambitious boys and girls on the farm because its program is designed to show them some better practice on the farm, in the home or the community.

Typical lines of club work are: Growing an acre or more of corn in accordance with directions, raising a sow and litter of pigs according to instructions, growing fruit and vegetables in accordance with the dietary needs of the family, canning the surplus in the most approved ways, and other phases of farm and home work that especially appeal to young people.

The particular value of club work is that it gets hold of young people while their minds are plastic and gives them guidance when they need it, teaches them some of the inspiring things in agriculture, and gives them visions of its possibilities as a life job. It provides opportunity for them to share home responsibilities in keeping with their ability and gives them a part in solving the problems of rural communities. It influences the farm and home practices of the members' families. It develops rural leadership.

In short, 4-H club boys and girls are doers. They are taught high ideals and standards. They meet together, work together, play together, cooperate, achieve. They play the game fairly. They demonstrate, work, earn money, and acquire property. They learn and teach the better way—on the farm, in the home, and in the community. They build up their bodies and their health through right living. They train their hands to be useful,
their minds to think clearly,
and their hearts to be kind.
This work is being developed and encouraged in the Fulton community.

MONEY NOT EVERYTHING

Henry Ford, more than once a billionaire and said to be the richest man in the world, was crowded off the road near his home in Detroit while driving a coupe which he manufactures.

Although injured, he went home, and later was removed to his hospital in Detroit for treatment. He had a six room suite in the hospital and a big staff of doctors and nurses caring for him. Everything that money could buy was his, of course, because he has the largest collection of coin known on earth.

There is nothing unusual about this. It is to be expected that a man of his wealth would be given the best treatment possible.

But a time will come when all the money in the world is of no value. Private hospitals and medical skill are of no avail.
The time will come, not alone to Henry Ford, but to every man.

It is the end of existence here on earth. Money will not buy any preferred positions when we depart from this life—for some unknown destination.

Money is convenient in supplying the comfort of the body, and some of the luxuries modern times offer, but it is scarcely necessary in such abundance as some men have it.

VACATIONITIS.

Vacationitis, a recurring malady, is reported to be epidemic in this vicinity.

Symptoms are restlessness and a "far away" look in the eyes.
Other symptoms are yawning from lying awake at night trying to reason out the best place to go.

A sure diagnosis can be made when the "patient" begins to study road maps. This is regarded as an unfailing sign that the afflicted one is in the last stages and is on the verge of "succumbing."

The disease is invariably fatal.
It attacks the imaginary centers and causes them to expand to such a degree that a dollar bill looks like a ten when the "patient" leaves home. It all but paralyzes the muscles of the body and all control over them is lost.

Advance reports from the lake regions, wooded places, fishing grounds and mountain retreats are to the effect that the malady is much more serious and far reaching this season than ever before in the history of the world.

Once the "patient" is thoroughly under the influence of the ailment, it is impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy as to what turn the disease will take.

A study of "vacationitis" cases through a long period of years by students of the disease reveals that few if any ever recover completely. Once one is infected, he is almost certain to have it annually about this season.

The most serious after effect is the flattening of the bank role.
The "patient" recovers from all save this; it is lasting and hangs on forever.

PULL TOGETHER.

If every business man in this city would resolve that he would speak only in terms of commendation of every other business man in the city and live up to the resolution for a period of three months, the effect would be a revolution in conditions, because people cannot talk in terms of good feeling and of good fellowship without manifesting a spirit that will break up the talk indulged in. That is what is so much needed in this city now.
A pull-together will bring to pass all that we need to make this community flourish as it has never flourished before. But this can not be accomplished by any spirit of spleenventing, or of getting even with the other fellow, or of taking unfair advantage to gain a point for one-self,

but it can be brought about by translating into everyday life of the business men some of the lofty principles which you frequently hear preached but so seldom see practiced.

LISTEN, HOMESEEKERS!

Are you not making a mistake in not moving to Western Kentucky?

Why spend your days where the winters are so long and severe?

Why live where winter consumes all that summer produce?

Why live in the crowded, unsympathetic cities?

Why not get closer to the soil and to nature?

Why not sell your high-priced land and come to this genial climate where fertile lands are yet cheap?

If you make this move your children will be much more prosperous and far happier by and bye.

The lands around Fulton are fine for small farmers, truckers and dairymen.

Five years hence they will be worth vastly more than now.

They are the best investment in the United States today.

They will make your children rich.

They are capable of producing a much greater variety of crops than land farther up the country.

They will grow all kinds of crops very cheaply and rapidly.
You can grow rich here on less than half the effort you expend in fighting the battle of life in northern latitudes.

WEAKLEY COUNTY COURT VOTES ROADS
AND SCHOOL BONDS

The quarterly session of the Weakley county court met in Dresden April 4, with only a few members absent, and a representative crowd there from all over the county.

This was perhaps the most eventful session of the court ever held for at this time the long, hard bitter road fight that has been waged among the magistrates was settled and the court approved resolutions asking for bond issue of $644,000 to finish the highway between Dresden and the Obion county line; to build a hard surface road from the Gibson county line at the river through Weakley county to the Kentucky line via Greenfield, Sharon, Martin and McConnell, and to build a gravelled road from Greenfield through Dresden and Boydsville to join the highway at the Kentucky line. These roads, when finished will give the county the start of a net work of roads that will eventually cover the county everywhere needed. The contract for the building of the road to join up with the Obion county road has been let for some time and the work has been in progress for several months. Up to the session Monday the county court had made no provision to pay for building this road, but it was included in with the other two projects. One of the requirements of the state highway should be donated free of charge. This, for awhile caused a hitch in the proceedings, but now as the state highway will have charge of the work, the routes as surveyed will be used, condemnation for the land being made where necessary.

The $644,000 bond issue was bought by Caldwell & Company of Nashville at 4 1-2 per cent at par and all expenses.

At this session the court also favored the resolution providing for the issuance by the county of $100,000 bonds to be used in the building and extension of the Hall-Moody school properties at Martin in the establishment of a branch agricultural department of the state university at Knoxville. This department of the university at Martin will naturally mean a big thing for that place, but at the same time Weakley county West Tennessee and all the surrounding territory will also be benefited by its location there.

POULTRY FACTS

USING LIGHTS IN WINTER HOUSES

It is wise to be thinking about the lighting of the poultry house for the winter. There is no longer any question that for the short days, many of which are cloudy, the egg production can be very definitely increased by supplying artificial light to the laying flock. This has been tried out at many experiment stations and by thousands of practical poultrymen.

The idea is perfectly simple. The hen eats only when it is light, if the days are short she eats only a short time. She eats all her crop will hold, but when she stays on the roost from early afternoon, all night and until late in the morning in the winter, she has not been able to eat enough food to last her the whole time. Therefore, she is idle for several hours when she could just as well be eating more food and manufacturing more eggs.

The method of using the lights is to turn them on for 20 minutes to half an hour in the evening perhaps about nine o'clock, or near bedtime. The hens soon learn what it means when the lights go on, and they hop off the roost immediately and begin to eat scratch feed. As soon as they get their crops full they start back onto the roosts and in half an hour they are all back and the lights can go out, and the day has been made just that much longer for them.

In the case of acetylene lights, which have often been used, some arrangement of a pilot light is necessary which turns on the bright lights when wanted. In the case of electric lights these can be turned on by hand from the house or from the door of the poultry house or in some cases they are operated by clockwork, being turned on at a certain time and automatically turned off after a certain time.

Fattening Ration Urged for All Market Fowls

The common practice of hastily catching up a lot of cockerels, culs, hens or turkeys, ducks or geese, without first making some assurance that they are in proper market condition, is sure to bring dissatisfaction to the producer, dealer and consumer alike.

Cockerels confined closely and fed a wet mash of the consistency of pancake batter for from ten days to two weeks should gain from 20 to 35 per cent in weight and at the same time they are a better market product, plumper bodied, with softer and more tender flesh, and they make a more pleasing appearance, hence command a higher price.

Equal quantities (measure) of wheat, oats and corn, or wheat, oats and barley ground fine and wet with either buttermilk or sour milk make a good fattening ration. Use two pounds of milk to one pound of ground feed. If the milk is not available, add 15 or 20 per cent of meat scraps or tankage to the ground feed and wet with water, using one and one-half pounds of water to one pound of ground feed.

Feed three times daily, but only what will be consumed in ten to fifteen minutes.—O. A. Barton, North Dakota Agricultural College.

Poultry Facts

The big fat yellow-legged hens seem to be doing anything but laying eggs.

There is no cure for tuberculosis in fowls and it is known that the disease will spread to swine.

If each bird has four square feet of floor space all the litter should be removed once a month.

Houses should protect the fowls from severe cold but they should not be too warm even in winter.

Some breeders will find it practical to install trap nests in the poultry house and know which hens are laying during the winter.

There is one absolute rule in poultry sanitation and disease control—prevention first, last and always the aim.

Exercise generates heat and promotes health. Make the poultry flock work for the grain by feeding it in a deep, clean litter of straw.

The laying quarters should always be as comfortable as it is possible to make them, but making a house warm at the expense of dryness is never a wise thing to do.

Disease control and sanitation are of greater importance in poultry raising than trying to cure the disease if the flock becomes affected.

Spray the poultry houses with kerosene. Get it into every crack and crevice, for a few mites left today will be a million next week.

Mash feeding throughout the year not only increases egg production but gives a higher average weight when the hens are culled and marketed and the scattering death losses reduced.

Its Spring Pressure Feature Insures Better Disking

We have in stock, ready for your inspection and use, a supply of disc harrows that are noted for doing a better job of diskings their entire width, when going over ridges or depressions, or on side hills, as well as on level land. Come in and inspect the

JOHN DEERE Model "B" Disc Harrow

By means of the third lever, spring and John Deere pivoted yoke, this harrow can be given the required pressure to penetrate at even depth its full width under all the above conditions.

It is a really flexible harrow—penetrates, pulverizes and packs in conditions where rigid harrows fail to work all the soil. Each gang works independently, like separate harrows, and both can be given the proper angle to pulverize under varying conditions.

It is strong—will last years longer than ordinary harrows because of its all-steel main frame and double-bar, riveted gang frames. It has oscillating scrapers with lock down and lock-off features, and the most convenient grease cups—easy to fill and out of the dust and dirt.

We can furnish the John Deere Model "B" with rear gang and hitch to convert it into a double-action, horse- or tractor-drawn harrow—a good way to save money and yet get good results.

FAKE AUCTIONS GET YOUR MONEY

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association
(This is one of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)

Nearly everyone is ready "to take a fling" at getting something for nothing or at least for less than it is worth. Because of this many are duped into paying more than regular market prices for things they buy. This class of people is especially susceptible to the appeal of anything resembling an auction. Fake auctions with the cards stacked against the buyer are very common. They rank high among the fraudulent schemes of the country.

W. R. MOREHOUSE

The "here today and gone tomorrow" auction faker rents a fine looking house in some high-class section of the city in which he plans to operate. He furnishes this house with the cheapest imitations of high-class furnishings, with here and there a fine piece which is to serve for bait. Certain pieces are alleged antiques with a thread of glorious history behind them. Of others it is claimed that they have been handed down for generations, originating with some person noted in history or with some famous Southern family. Of other pieces it is maintained that they are made of rare and precious woods imported from far across the sea. The overstuffed furniture, it is claimed, is all high grade of standard manufacture.

Regardless of its superiority and antiquity, the furniture must be sold at once, for the owner is compelled to take an extended trip, the family physician having ordered travel and a change of climate as a means of saving his life. Nothing is to be spared and the deep slashings of the auctioneer's axe must go on with no price too low. Individual pre-auction sales, of course, will be arranged for persons who are unable to attend the auction.

The day of the sale is here. Purchasers are arriving. They are met at the door by the woman member of the outfit—a dramatic person who knows when to shed tears at the thought of having her happy home broken up and her valuable furnishings torn from her. She tells her sad story—how she must leave her home and go to distant lands with her husband whose health is broken and life in danger. But she is resigned to her "awful calamity" and will sell all her lovely furniture even at a great sacrifice.

As she directs attention to certain pieces of furniture her voice quavers. She almost sobs aloud as she names the price she is forced to accept. "Less than half the original cost, but price no object. We must take the train tomorrow," and she wipes a tear from her eye. Fully convinced the sale is genuine, and sympathizing with the unfortunate woman, buyers clamor for the furniture.

But no sooner are the articles transferred from their setting in the slightly darkened rooms of their original owner and displayed in the sunlight of the purchaser's home, than the truth about the sale begins to dawn in the mind of each new owner. Close examination reveals that evidently this wonderful collection of furniture was but odds and ends and unsalable pieces picked up from second-hand stores by these fly-by-night fakers. Some prove to be the rankest of imitations of the cheapest grade, and the overstuffed is so poorly constructed that it squeaks and weaves under the lightest weight.

TRUST COMPANIES RANK NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING HIGHEST

The outstanding trust institutions of the United States are those that were pioneers in using advertising as a means of selling their services, a speaker told a conference of trust companies held in New York recently. He presented the results of a questionnaire sent out by the Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association, making an inquiry into the advertising practices of institutions doing a trust business. Three out of every four trust companies and banks engaged in extending trust services were found to be advertising. The opinion was expressed by the speaker that their growth would closely follow the amounts spent each year for advertising.

The local newspaper is the most highly regarded advertising medium, it was disclosed. In all, 929 companies answering the questionnaire used the local papers and 733 did not. The institutions buying space in local papers are evenly divided among all sections of the country. Comparing six media for selling personal trust services and considering their effectiveness from the standpoint of producing results, the speaker declared that the local newspapers should head the list. Folders and booklets can reach a limited audience, he observed, but the newspaper is the best medium for acquiring prestige and mass circulation. It should never be omitted, he urged

REVELS MARKED EARLY EASTER

Relaxation Allowed After Rigors of Long Lent.

Many of the early customs of Easter time were of pre-Christian origin, but were in some way symbolic of joy and, therefore, were kept up as late as the Seventeenth century.

In France and Germany handball was one of the Easter amusements. The ball was supposed to represent the sun, which was believed to take three leaps in rising on Easter morning. Bishops, priests and monks, after the strict discipline of Lent, used to play ball during Easter week. The ball game was also connected with a dance and was performed in the church to the strains of the "Victime Paschale." England also observed Easter with the game of ball, and there the municipal corporation engaged with due parade and dignity. We are told that at Bury St. Edmunds, in recent years, this Easter sport was kept up by twelve old women. After the game a banquet was held and a homily on the feast was read.

Odd Customs.

A peculiar custom was observed on Easter Monday when the women had a right to strike their husbands, and on Tuesday the men were allowed to return the compliment. We read of another peculiar custom in northern England. On Easter Sunday the men paraded the streets and claimed the privilege of lifting each woman three times from the ground, receiving in payment a kiss or sixpence. The next day the women were allowed the same privilege. In Germany the men were not so gentle, for it was the custom of the men servants to whip the maid servants with switches on Easter, and on Monday the maids were allowed to whip the men. They could, however, secure their release with Easter eggs.

Easter Fire.

The Easter fire is perhaps more familiar to us because the Catholic church has adopted the observance into its Easter ceremonies. The Easter fire, in the early times, was lit on the top of mountains and was kindled from a new fire drawn from wood by friction. This custom was of pagan origin, signifying the victory of spring over winter, for in some places a figure was thrown into the fire symbolizing winter, but to the Christians on the Rhine, in Tyrol and Bohemia, it signified Judas the traitor.

At Constantinople the Greeks gathered in the cemetery of Peru, where a festival was held. A custom that still prevails among some of the foreign born of our own country is that of blessing the homes and also the food which was prohibited during Lent.

Though we think these customs are quaint, perhaps peculiar, we have one of our own when on Easter Monday the children gather on the lawn of the White House in Washington for the annual "egg rolling" contest.—Kansas City Star.

Easter Gift for Pope

An English lady once sent the pope an egg of ivory lined with white satin. Inside the golden yolk of the egg was a ruby set with diamonds.

Several Reasons Why One Should Own Home

There are many reasons why people should own their own homes. The purchase of a home is the most important investment you will make, and, probably, the largest purchase you will ever make. If you are in ordinary circumstances, it is the one which will have the most influence on your well-being, comfort and happiness.

To own your own home gives one a feeling of deep personal pride and satisfaction, besides reflecting the personal preference and taste of the owner. Your home becomes the center of your most cherished memories and associations, the center of your life's interest. Therefore, it means more than money can buy.

Evolution Derange Young Man's Mind.

E. S. Holland, of Newbern, Tenn., young medical student,
who arrived in the city from the north Tuesday night became violently insane after being assigned to his room at the Usona Hotel and created quite a disturbance among the guests.

For awhile he paced up and down the hall crying. Sympathetic guests attempted to quiet him and he finally entered his room and locked the door. About 10 o'clock, it is said, he proceeded to wreck the furnishings in his room and cause a general disturbance. Officers Hart and Dunn answered the call from the hotel and had to force in the door, as they did officer Hart was given a severe punch on the mouth by the insane man. However the officers took him in charge and locked him up. Medical attention was given and his relatives at Newbern notified.
They arrived in the city on first train and returned home with the unfortunate man.

Passengers who arrived in the city on the same train with Holland said he acted queerly on the train and seemed to have Darrow and evolution on his mind. One passenger out of Chicago said he was considerably annoyed by Holland and thought all along the route how to avoid a difficulty. He even pleaded with the conductor for protection and moved to another car.

CHURCH WORKERS ACTIVE

With recent additions added to the First Christian church building, the handsome First Baptist church edifice completed, with work now in progress on the new Methodist church and contracts soon to be let for remodeling and adding additional Sunday school rooms to Central Church of Christ, shows that Fulton folk are active in church affairs, which reflects great credit to our city.

The church organizations are leading factors in our community life and in this enlightened age the first thing a stranger notes in his survey of the city should be the desire to locate here, is the church buildings and next, the school advantages. Therefore, it should be gratifying indeed to every home loving citizen to see the good work progressing in such a substantial way, as it has been in recent years. Nothing can speak better for the town than attractive houses of worship.

C. T. BONDURANT, HICKMAN, DIES

Wealthiest Land Owner in Fulton County Dies in Memphis Hospital

Hickman, Ky., April 12 — Chester T. Bondurant, one of the best known men of western Tennessee and western Kentucky, died this morning at the Gartley-Ramsay hospital in Memphis after an illness lasting over three months. He had been in declining health for the past year. Mr. Bondurant was an outstanding figure in Hickman, being the largest land owner and operator here, owning and managing five thousand acres of land. He had owned and operated a number of cotton gins in this county and Hickman county the past fifteen years and was a cotton and grain buyer with many business associates in Memphis.

Mr. Bondurant was forty-four years old and since a young man had operated on a large scale, starting at the bottom of the ladder and climbing fast. He was well known over the state and in Memphis.
He is survived by his widow,
who was Miss Kate Reid of Hickman, and one son, Reid Bondurant, four sisters and four brothers. His wife, son, and one sister, Mrs. C. P. Mabry, were with him when death came. They will arrive tonight with the body.

TOO MANY SHOWS

Councilman Hanneppin, of the amusement committee, announced at the council meeting Monday night that Fulton was being overrun with various amusements showing in the city under the auspices of various organizations and suggested that only one show during the year be allowed any one organization as a benefit. The regular license is $250 per week for tented shows and carnivals, but to avoid paying said license they are smooth enough to show under the auspices of some organization, giving them a small percentage, and after the organization pays their part of the expense there is nothing left to divide with the city.

There is an ordinance covering traveling shows and amusements and the councilmen leave it up to Mr. Hanneppin to handle as he thinks best.

Mr. Hanneppin is very conscientious in the matter of trying to please the public, but believes that the show people who are permanently located here and who pay a yearly tax for the privilege should be giving due consideration and some protection from being unjustly encroached upon by traveling aggregations.

HICKMAN SEEKING PROTECTION FROM MISSISSIPPI

Reports from Hickman during the week are not encouraging regarding the high water situation, and from all indications the flooded district will suffer the highest flood stage on record for the year.

Business has been paralyzed and some are wondering when the next business house on Clinton street will collapse. Opinions are divided as to whether the three-story building occupied by S. M. Naifeh department store collapsed last week was due from flood waters, or struck by lightning. The building is a mass of ruins and the $20,000 stock of merchandise is in the water beneath the mass of brick except that which washed away and was removed.

The Cowgill building adjoining the building destroyed is also damaged, but may remain standing.

It is reported that boats going upstream are having a hard time making the bend in front of Hickman because of the swift current. It is said that the current in the business section of the town is annoyingly swift, too. Because of this,
there is no telling what will be the next disaster.

A movement is now on, looking to the construction by the government of a "sea wall" to protect Hickman from menacing flood waters of the Mississippi river in the future.

Among those who are taking active part in the work are included Senator Alben Barkley, and Congressman Voris Gregory, of Kentucky, Congressman Finis Garrett of Tennessee, Mayor Donald P. Connolly, of the U. S. engineer's office at Memphis, and representatives of the Illinois Central Railroad and the N. C. & St. L. Railway.

The citizens of Hickman claim that before the government levees were built in that section, a river stage equal to that of the present would not have flooded the business section of the city. The completion of the government levees in the farming sections has thrown the water several feet higher and exposed Hickman to flood danger, it is said, therefore, protection should be given the town.

The river was stationary Monday, after an eight-inch fall. Rain has fallen intermittently since and it may cause another record-breaking rise.
