Desperate Fight against flood Waters at New Orleans

Flood Relief Well Organized

Red Cross Director Establishes Quarters at Memphis

Henry N. Baker Directing Relief Operations.

Marshalling forces for one of the greatest relief expeditions in recent years, Henry N. Baker, disaster relief director of the American National Red Cross, established headquarters of the organization in Memphis and is directing relief operations in the eight states affected by the floods of the Mississippi Valley.

Headquarters were established on the third floor of the Chamber of Commerce at Memphis.

Mr. Baker went into the relief work in the flood area with the greatest backing ever given the Red Cross—the resources of the United States government—and full authority to act as he deems best.

The resources of the army and navy, Department of Commerce, Public Health Service and coast guard have been turned over to him by orders of the special committee from the cabinet named by President Coolidge. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and General Edgar Jadwin, chief engineer of the United States Army, arrived in Memphis to confer with Mr. Baker regarding the relief. Their departments can offer. Other governmental officers were sent to Memphis for this same purpose.

With all the forces of the government at their command the Red Cross officials have asked the people of America to contribute $5,000,000 to be used exclusively in relief work.

"Not one penny of the money will be used for any purpose other than the relief of people in the stricken area," Mr. Baker said.

"We plan two kinds of relief—emergency relief and rehabilitation work."

"Under the head of emergency work we expect to furnish food, shelter, clothing and medical attention to the refugees."

"Machinery for the prevention of disease in concentration camps and throughout the entire flooded area is in operation. A systematic vaccination and inoculation program is in force in the flooded area to prevent a spread of disease."

"Sanitary units are established to control drinking water, and sanitary conditions during and after the flood."

"Under the rehabilitation feature, if funds are sufficient, each family will be furnished with the minimum articles of furniture to set up housekeeping and assist in other ways in getting them started in their homes."

No American disaster has more quickly touched the sympathy of the masses than the present one. Every city, village and hamlet has been prompt and generous in responding to appeals for funds to relieve the Mississippi flood sufferers, and long before President Coolidge issued his proclamation asking for subscriptions to the American Red Cross fund of $5,000,000, money, clothing and food were pouring into refugee camps in charge of local committees, and local Red Cross chapters were active from the very start.

The good people of Hickman were first to open their doors and establish a camp for the unfortunate and suffering notwithstanding practically every business house in the town was flooded with water at the time. All the neighboring towns were quick in lending assistance and rushed food, clothing and cash promptly to the unfortunate, and the good work continues uninterrupted.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ARE GENEROUS

Employees of the Tennessee Division of the Illinois Central have responded to the American Red Cross appeal for flood relief funds most generously around $1,000 in cash, clothing and other supplies. It is characteristic of railroad folk that they never fail to give with a free hand and big heart when shown there is a genuine opportunity to aid unfortunates. And there has never been a greater need for liberality in giving than to the hundred thousand persons driven from their homes by the flood waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries. The flood has rendered most of them absolute, destitute, not only depriving them of food and shelter, but destroying the crops that the majority of them had planted to provide a living for the remainder of the year.

FULTON RESPONDS CHEERFULLY

Our loyal citizen, W. S. Gayle, who went to Columbus last week to take bedding, clothing and money and to help in the relief of the suffering refugees from the Mississippi flood, brought back to Fulton, five motherless children, all under 12 years of age. A number of the ladies of Fulton who had been making garments for the refugees at Hickman, also made numerous garments Sunday afternoon, as an emergency for the five children that were brought to Fulton by Mr. Gayle. Various merchants also donated ready made clothing for their immediate need. A free will offering in the sum of ten dollars or more was taken at the First Baptist church Sunday night to further supply the needs of these orphan children, and a very substantial sum of money and a very large quantity of clothing were given by the Fulton people and sent by Mr. Gayle to the refugees at Columbus, and the people there expressed their sincere appreciation of this timely assistance.

The following persons volunteered to take into their homes the five children which were brought to Fulton and provide for them until they can be taken to their home: Mrs. W. S. Gayle, 1; Mrs. Rudd, 1; Mrs. Malcolm Chambers, 1; Mrs. W. C. Porter, 2. They are the children of Hardy Johnson and were rescued out of a flooded section from a place called Pin Hook, on the Missouri side of the river.

These worthy deeds are ample evidence of the true Christian spirit and tender feeling of sympathy for the distressed, and it is gratifying to know that the good people of Fulton are ready at all times to respond to the distress call, and nothing can be more commendable. We read in the Holy Book that "Whoso stoppeth his ear at the cries of the poor, he, himself shall cry also, but shall not be heard."

At the Door

Let's All Go To Sunday School

The campaign being waged by the Lions Club—"Let's all go to Sunday School May 1," is one in which every citizen can join wholeheartedly. It is a movement that can not be overdone, and it is indeed commendable in the Lions Club to boost the movement with a vim.

The lesson for Sunday is unusually interesting—"Peter's Denial and Repentance."

Lesson Text—Mark 14:53, 54, 66, 71; Luke 22:61, 62.

Golden Text—"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

Teachers in the various Sunday Schools throughout the city will be prepared to lecture the lesson in an interesting way, and all who attend Sunday School will be enlightened on a very important subject.

Kentucky Club Women to Meet in Paducah May 3 to 6.

Approximately 250 delegates, representing every federated club in Kentucky, are expected to attend the Convention sessions which will be held in the auditorium of the Woman's Club at Paducah May 3 to 6.

A complete program has just been announced which includes conferences of the various committees and business meetings; talks to be given by men and women of national prominence, and various social courtesies to be extended the guests by the seven Paducah federated clubs.

Mrs. Allie Smith Dickson, state president, will preside over the convention program which will open Tuesday morning, May 3, at nine o'clock.

Other state officers who will be in attendance will be: First vice president, Mrs. D. W. Payne; second vice president, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds; third vice president, Mrs. R. L. Johnson; fourth vice president, Mrs. W. H. Worsham; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Kiser; treasurer, Mrs. T. F. Cleaver; endowment fund chairman, Mrs. John M. Grayot; general Secretary, Mrs. B. W. Gayless.

The convention proper will not be opened until Wednesday morning when Mrs. T. E. Elgin, president of the Woman's Club, will give the address of welcome from the host club and Mrs. W. T. Lafferty will give the response from the Kentucky federation. Luncheon will be served in the dining room of the club.

POULTRY SPECIALISTS TO TALK TO FULTON COUNTY FARMERS SATURDAY

The Chamber of Commerce has arranged with Mr. C. M. Rhoades to talk to Fulton county farmers at the Chamber of Commerce quarters Saturday at 1:30 p. m. We understand that there are quite a few obstacles now in the way of the poultry game and it is necessary that our poultry farmers should avail themselves of every possible opportunity to combat the many little drawbacks which hinder their success.

From all indication based upon the available information as regards the poultry producers. The excessive rainfall and a very backward spring points to a material reduction of this year's poultry production and the price will no doubt be unusually attractive and it therefore behooves us to do all we can to make a record production for this year.

Don't forget the date, Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

Fulton Chamber of Commerce.

ACTIVITIES FOR "BETTER HOMES WEEK"

The Woman's Club presents two features for Better Homes Week. The Home Economic Department secured from the G. F. W. C. the film, "Home, Sweet Home," which was shown first on Wednesday at the Grand Theater, at 2 p. m. Friday the club will present Miss Washington, who will discuss "Interior Decoration" at the Chamber of Commerce. The president of the Woman's Club, Mrs. Fal, will preside. Miss Washington has recently returned to her home in Paducah, having completed her course in Interior Decoration in

Fulton's Beauty Spot

One of the most attractive spots in Fulton today is the grounds surrounding the superintendent's office of the Tennessee Division of the Illinois Central railroad. The thousands of people who pass thru the city daily on the 38 trains in and out of town invariably refresh their eyes and get a good look at Fulton's beauty spot which has been developed into one of the loveliest parks and flower gardens on the entire system of the Illinois Central.

The division office building stands at the main railroad crossing facing the prominent business street of the city. Flower boxes are hung beneath the window sills. The grounds are laid out with an eye to artistic beauty and the white rock and cement walks are all in conformity with the plan of adornment. Ornamental trees, shrubs and flowering plants add to the picture, and the ensemble makes a vivid testimony to the skill and good taste of the railroad company's horticulturist and landscape gardener.

A large crew, under the supervision of the landscape gardener, is kept busy throughout the year caring for the several parks surrounding the division office building and along the railroad property in the city.

STREET IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE AT WORK

The street improvement committee of the city council and Chamber of Commerce held an important meeting Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce. A. P. Learned, representing Black & Veatch, consulting engineers, who have the street improvement program in charge, was in attendance with blue prints, plans and specifications of the contemplated work. The committee was busy for several hours with Mr. Learned studying the plans and specifications and thoroughly familiarizing themselves with every feature of the work. Mayor Shankle and all members of the council, Carr & Carr, legal advisors, and E. W. Hopkins, resident engineer, were present.

The various types of street building material were discussed but no preference was expressed by any member of the committee as to what type of material will be used. Bids will be asked for on six standard types, and after all bids are received, then the committee will recommend to the city council what they think is the best to be adopted.

The street improvement committee has been active in the work for several weeks, various cities have been visited in their research of procuring first hand information regarding the various materials and street building construction and our citizens may rest assured that the committee is fully alive to the interests of all concerned and the best for Fulton will be adopted.

The street improvement program is progressing nicely and the ordinance will come up for its first reading at the regular meeting of the council, Monday night, May 2.

There was a very large at-music. The pastor preacher

one of his best sermons since he has been here. His subject was

"Come and See; Go and Tell."

He held attention of the large crowd to the end.

The choir was assisted in the music by Mesdames Beadles and Williams. The members of the church hope that this will be the last Easter held in the old church and the next one will be held in the new building. Of course, this one will always be remembered as the best one in the old church.

The evening service was well attended also, and Mrs. Arm-

all, and was listened to with marked attention and all hope to have her cross our path

The Kate Luten Circle met

at the home of Mrs. Pomp Bin-

Cayce, as joint hostesses, with

Mrs. Binford. Mrs. M. V. Hardin, chairman, conducted the business session. Mrs. Butt

gave some items from the Bul-

Mrs. Binford gave the Bible

lesson, followed with prayer

by Mrs. Freeman.

Mrs. W. W. Morris was lead-

Early Communion, a rather lengthy program of the Church

School and Communion at the morning service made Easter a rather full day for Dr. Boyd.

The Mite Boxes of the Church School seemed to have established a record: almost 100 percent of the boxes returned and the contents larger than usual.

The decorations for Easter

Service were specially attractive and appropriate and showed the care and earnestness of the Altar Guild which had charge of the work.

The Good Friday service, extending from 12:00, noon until 3:00 p. m. was well attended. While, at no time were there many present, the aggregate was gratifying.

The music of the choir Easter Sunday was very good and was thoroughly enjoyed by the congregation. Many laudatory comments were made by those present.

Dr. Boyd has received word that the organ and furniture of the Church at Columbus were removed to a safe place before the water rose sufficiently to damage them.

Clara Elizabeth, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Boyd underwent an operation on Monday to remove a fistula and ul-

jaw. The trouble had become so acute that running sore had started and it was necessary to have operation. The little girl is already improving and hopes soon to be entirely recovered.

A gymnasium class was started last week in the Parish

House as a part of the work of the Young People's League

work. The young people seemed to enjoy the exercise thoroughly, and expressed a desire to have at least two classes a week.

The many friends of Mr. R.

Importance of Paint

Hard to Overestimate

Nothing freshens and beautifies the countryside more than paint. An improved road generally is the forerunner of a larger use of paint. And paint applied to the farm dwelling is just in the lead of better agricultural methods without, and a happier and better educated family within. A good coat of white paint has been known to raise the standard of living in an entire countryside.

A farsighted banker in southern Arkansas, Carl Hollis, vice president of the Merchants & Planters Trust & Savings bank of Warren, has earned the title of "White Paint Hollis," because he refused a small loan to a farmer, but agreed to loan a larger sum provided the borrower would paint his house white. The farmer took him up. The example has been catching, and now there are many white-painted houses in that county.

Our cities are growing at the expense of the country. The best way to keep the boys and girls on the farms is to make things there more attractive for them. Many a farm wife and mother has been praying for better things—more comforts and labor savers and education for her children—and maybe for herself. God has sometimes answered such prayers through the husband and father—and the banker—with a coat of paint as a starter. Paint preserves and brightens all it touches. New paint awakens a new spirit, new aspirations, stronger determination and fresh courage.

Front Yard Reveals

Character of Owner

The planting in the front yard of a city or suburban home occupying a rectangular lot of ordinary size is as much a part of the public street as is the highway. It should be developed with this in mind.

While fault has been found with the American method of discarding walls and fences and setting their homes where all may see, no defense is needed other than the example of the beautiful results which this practice has achieved in our garden suburbs.

But these results depend upon the extent to which the planting in front yards is in keeping with the nature of our front yards. The planting should harmonize with that in adjoining grounds. It should enhance the merits and screen the faults of the house architecture. And it should express the occupant's of the home as their clothes should express them. The public aspect of the home grounds should not be out of keeping with the character of its occupants.

Attractive Small Homes

It is a common sight in residential sections of our cities to see unsightly rows of houses of the type which are built by the mile and sold by the foot. They are identical in design, planning and setting, if careful attention had been given to the fundamental principles of good planning and designing, these same dwellings could have been built with far more pleasing results, and at no greater expense. Those who build small houses become responsible not only for creating the desire to build attractively and economically, but also for preserving the ideals which lead people to build beautiful homes with loving hands and eager hearts.

Guarding Against Fire

One of the most useful safeguards against fire hazards in dwelling construction is the fire stopping of walls, partitions and floors. Fire tends to spread upward. Hollow walls and partitions, hollow spaces back of fire ring on masonry walls, and even hollow floors offer inviting runways for the rapid communication of fire from cellar to attic and from side to side. The remedy lies in adequate fire stopping, which will make an all-lumber residence considerably safer against the spread of fire than masonry wall and the lumber floor construction without fire stops.

Shingle That's Attractive

To those who desire an unusual roof treatment, the shingle that offers many attractions. It has become very popular for use on country houses, club houses, mountain camps, etc., as well as city residences. It produces a remarkably effective reproduction of the old-fashioned straw thatch and is often stained the color of weathered straw.

The Good Newspaper

A good newspaper is the community father; it advises, criticizes and compels. The editors are teachers, preachers and statesmen combined, and my hope is they will exercise their great power as justly as possible.—E. W. Howe's Monthly

Community Co-operation

Instead of feeling the pulse of the community, feel your own pulse. If in these days when there is so much to be done, it does not beat in response to society's wants and needs there's something the matter with you and with no one else.—Griff.

Dealing With Indolent Arthur

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

THERE was no one in the entire set, called society of Newdean but looked on with varying shades of interest at the growing attachment between Eva Winter and Arthur Tompkins.

"I can't see what you find so attractive in a man who cares more for his pipe and dog and a walk through the muddy fields than he does for a good day's business. I think he's indolent. If you ask me," said members of her own family.

"Perhaps Arthur's body is indolent but his mind is not," Eva once remarked, "and besides, I'm neither engaged nor married to him yet." It was which saying she proved that she was at least considering Arthur as a future life companion.

Arthur himself was a quiet, stolidly built young man with eyes that were too often aglow with dreams to be really successful in the world of filthy lucre.

But there was no slightest doubt that business acumen, ambition and some of material responsibility were sadly lacking. He had, however, a strongly developed sense of moral responsibility and could never be persuaded that the outer needs of the body were half so important as a decently clothed mind.

Eva sometimes laughed at herself and wondered just where her association with Arthur might lead her.

Most likely to a five-room house in the suburbs and the state commonly called "Love in a cottage," she told herself.

Meanwhile Arthur wasn't worrying about anything. He wasn't the worrying kind and usually had a head too full of happy-go-lucky thoughts to ponder darkly on supposed troubles. The world was a good place to live in if one just realized it.

Fortunately Arthur had a slight income, the result, no doubt, of a more money-making relative somewhere in the past. It enabled him to lose, quite happily, most positions he succeeded in getting.

When Eva raved at him for his indifference, in a perfectly ladylike but none the less irritated manner, Arthur only grinned at her.

"Eva, you can't be beautiful and lose your temper that way—and if I'm not annoyed at losing my job, I don't see why you—"

"But how do you ever expect to get anywhere in life?"

"By 'anywhere' I suppose you mean money, motors, one or two country houses and continual chasing after amusement. It's you, Eva, who will never get anywhere in life. You are straining after something to be got through external conditions—while I, well, I have found life to be full of joy and a happiness that loss of material things will not rob me of."

"Am I a material thing?" questioned Eva.

"Sometimes," said Arthur promptly, "and sometimes you touch the fringe of that other world where love and honesty and the soul of things count—you are adorable when the spirit takes possession and at those moments I want you for my wife and life companion more than I have ever wanted anything."

"And when I'm material?"

"Then I'm not so sure," said Arthur. "Pots of money and one who's always seeking happiness in external things, would never make me happy—I would not want to subject what I know to be my higher and better self to continual conflict."

"Yes, but that higher self of yours couldn't even support me comfortably."

"Oh yes, it could. I would have no respect for myself if I loved a woman whom I could not take proper care of. There would be no flock of motors, nor variety of homes scattered about all corners of the earth but the very type of the love I have for you would make up for the lack of them. I doubt if any of the men who say they love you would be happy with you if they had to live in a log cabin all their days with you."

"And you?" Eva knew Arthur to be quite right about her men friends. Certainly they would not take kindly to poverty.

"If you were slant-eyed and had scraggy hair and lived in a tenement I should still realize that I had found the kingdom—if the real you—loved me."

"Arthur," said Eva slowly, "I'm beginning to see real happiness as you interpret it. I have been absorbed lately in some exquisite essays on 'Friendship,' 'Love' and 'The Inner Life' that have just come out in book form. They ran in the newspaper first and I saved them all in a scrap book. They have made me do a lot of thinking and perhaps—she looked into Arthur's eyes and wanted not to hurt him, but added: "I should like to meet the writer of those essays before I make up my mind about marrying you. Something—a great force has spoken to me through them and lifted me up into a realm I did not realize existed. It seems to me when soul speaks to soul like that there must be some powerful kinship." Eva looked for the expression she feared to see in his eyes but there was only a tremendous glow.

"Eva, darling," he questioned softly, "don't you ever read the dedication in books? Read that one and you will get some idea of the author's love—for you."

And Arthur blinked at the swift light in Eva's eyes.

A FARM WAGON THAT IS GUARANTEED

The amount of satisfactory service that a wagon will give depends entirely upon the material and skill the manufacturer puts into it. We want to show you a wagon that is built of the best materials by men who know how—

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON The Wagon That is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skinn of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skinn is set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skinn there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling. Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the John Deere Wagon, and every piece of wood is air-seasoned under cover in our own yards for at least two years. The tires are set hot under hydraulic pressure and under a gauge that assures proper dish—the load is always carried on plumb spokes.

And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy malleable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kingbolt—bolster does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool box. Let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

Seven Rooms and Wash Room Are Included in Compact House Plan

First Floor Plan.

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1937 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, for reply.

A broad porch for summer and a good-sized living room for winter are two features of a home that are most desirable. They are included in this design for a seven-room house. The porch is 8 feet deep and 24 feet 6 inches long. The porch walls and pillars are constructed so that the porch may be screened. The entrance door leads into the living room, which has an open fireplace at one end and the stairs to the second floor at the other. The dining room, too, is rather large, 12 by 15 feet, and is connected with the living room by a casual opening. A small bedroom, the kitchen and a good-sized washroom and lavatory complete the room arrangement on the first floor. Upstairs there are three bedrooms, bathroom and a number of good-sized closets. A basement, of course, extends under the whole house and is of the same dimensions, 30 by 24 feet 6 inches.

This is an attractive home, comfortable and convenient. It is of frame construction and is set on a concrete foundation. The long sloping roof line is broken by a gabled dormer window at the front, with the same type of window at the back. The house is suited to the needs of a rather large family, it having four bedrooms, as well as the customary living and dining rooms and kitchen. How the rooms are arranged and their sizes are indicated on the floor plans shown above.

AMERICAN RAILWAY ASSN. Safety Section

Rules for Essay Contest

Concerned over the increase that took place in 1926 compared with 1925 in the number of highway grade crossing accidents and believing that more care should be exercised by all those crossing railroad tracks, the American Railway Association today announced plans for a nation-wide essay contest among school and college students with three cash prizes of $250 each, to be awarded the authors of essays containing an outstanding, readily available suggestion for preventing such accidents.

One prize of $250 will be awarded by the American Railway Association for the best essay by a grammar student, a similar prize for the best essay by a high school student and a like amount for the best essay by a college student.

Under the rules prescribed by the American Railway Association, the subject of the essay is to be "Cross Crossings Cautiously," and each essay is to be limited to 250 words.

The essays must be terse, logical and constructive and must stress the need for greater care in approaching and passing over railroad crossings.

The essays are to be sent to J. C. Caviston, Secretary of the Safety Section of the American Railway Association, at 30 Vesey street, New York City, by not later than June 1. Three persons of national reputation to be selected later, will act as judges.

Under the plan, class teachers in both grammar and high schools will select the best essays from their classes and transmit them to their principal who will then select the best one from that school and send it to the superintendent of schools for the county or an equivalent officer. The county superintendent will then select the best essay written by a grammar student and the best one written by a high school student in his county and will transmit them to the American Railway Association. Colleges may follow the same procedure except that each college or university, through its proper officer, may select one essay and transmit direct to the American Railway Association.

In 1926 there were 5,921 highway grade crossing accidents in which 2,492 persons were killed and 6,991 injured. In 1925 there were 5,479 accidents in which 2,206 persons were killed and 6,555 injured. Owing to the increase that is constantly taking place in the number of automobiles in use, the hazard from such accidents is annually becoming greater. Only through the cooperation of the public and the railroads can a reduction in such accidents be brought about, in view of the fact the complete elimination of highway grade crossings is impossible, not only because of the time that would be involved, but also because of the prohibitive cost which ultimately falls on the public.

PETER'S DENIAL AND REPENTANCE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:52, 54, 66-71; Luke 22:54, 62.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter grieves Jesus and is sorry.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Peter's Denial.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Is Denied Today.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Danger of Sudden Temptations.

1. Peter's Downfall (Mark 14:29-71).
This began when he refused to hear about the cross and ended when he, with a foul oath, declared: "I know not the man." When the disciples would no longer hear Christ's message about the cross, they not only ceased to grow in knowledge, but they began to deteriorate in moral discernment and were exposed to the possibility of the shameful denial of their Lord. Steps in Peter's backsliding:

1. Overweening self-confidence (vv. 29-31).
His unwillingness to face the cross alienated him from Jesus and when apprized of the fact that the disciples would all forsake Jesus, Peter declared that Jesus was certainly taken, saying: "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I." Our condition is most perilous when we are most sure of our safety.

2. Sleeping at the post of duty (v. 37).
In one short hour the very one who was so confident of his self-sufficiency had fallen asleep instead of watching. The only way to escape from backsliding is to watch.

3. Lack of prayer (v. 38).
The legitimate inference from the Lord's words "watch and pray" is that He had commanded them to pray as well as to watch. The reason there is so little prayer is due to the lack of the sense of need of God's help.

4. Misguided zeal (v. 47).
Peter drew a sword and cut off an ear of a servant of the high priest (John 18:10) when they came to arrest Jesus. He was thus zealous for the Lord. He was trying to make up in outward service his conscious lack of communion.

5. Followed Jesus afar off (v. 54).
Christ's rebuke for making the sword and the awkward position in which he had placed him, caused him to follow afar off. He keenly felt Christ's reprimand. Following Jesus afar off got him into trouble.

6. Warned himself at the enemy's fire (v. 67).
This fire was built by those who had come unsympathetically to witness the crucifixion and even to mock in this tragic hour. For Christ's disciples to try to get comfort from the things prepared for the satisfaction of His enemies is sinful. Many professing Christians are living a life of compromise, even attempting to get pleasures out of the things which the enemies of Christ have prepared for themselves.

7. Open denial (vv. 69-71).
Step by step downward Peter went until the words of a servant girl provoked open and blasphemous denial. This even by one who had said: "If I should die with thee I will not deny thee in any wise." Peter's trouble began when he shrank from the cross. It was that shunning which separated him from contact with God. It should be remembered that there can be no backsliding until there can be no position from which to slip. Many of the so-called backsliders have never been born again.

8. The Repentance of Peter (Luke 22:62).
The look of Jesus (v. 61).
This was a most wondrous look. It was doubtless filled with pity and pain. Christ knew the trials through which Peter and the other disciples would pass and He prayed for them. This look brought to Peter the full consciousness of his cowardice and disloyalty and his blasphemous words of denial, and yet it displayed His pity and forgiving love.

9. Peter's bitter tears (v. 62).
The look of Jesus brought conviction of sin. It called to mind his boastfulness and cowardice. How awful must have been his condition as he went out that night into the darkness, little suspecting that there would be found a way to get back into communion with his Lord. Doubtless the message from the women as they came from the tomb brought the first good cheer to his heart. Christ said to them: "Go and tell my disciples and Peter." This encouraged him, no doubt, as it indicated Christ's particular consideration and love for him.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN

A good citizen is a man whom you like to have as your neighbor.

He does not throw tin cans,
brush, papers or rubbish in alleys or on vacant lots, but places waste material in boxes or baskets, convenient for the city
clean-up wagons.

He does not scatter lawn cuttings in the streets or alleys,
but sacks them, and hangs them
on the back fence.

He does not burn leaves
against curbs or on paved streets, knowing that this ruins cement and asphalt and means added costs for repairs—to himself and you.

A good citizen knows that uncleanliness and carelessness are the obsequious footmen of disease.

He does not leave his garbage pail uncovered to breed flies. The less he leaves rotting, the less he is swatting.

He does not allow stagnant
water to stand about his place and breed typhoid nor invite alley rats to be his guests.

A good citizen knows that over sixty-five per cent of all fires start in the homes—that over eighty per cent of those burned to death yearly are women and children. The next time it may be his wife or his child.

He does not use the roof of garage or outhouse as a junk yard, nor pile his basement and attic with rubbish. These things are prolific causes of fire.

The good housewife does not keep oil floor mops in a corner, or closets, but places them in metal containers.

She does not clean with gasoline, but uses non-inflammable cleaners, of which many are on the market.

A good citizen thinks of public property and public premises, as well as his private property—for he is part owner of the street and alleys. He knows that he must help pay for all damages.

A good citizen is constructive. He knows that every sweep of the paint brush spreads sanitation, beauty and content.

He knows that a well kept place attracts, but a neglected place detracts. That paint and varnish are natural guardians of property.

He plants flowers in his garden, and cultivates roses in the cheeks of his children.

He plants a tree—and takes care of it after it has been planted; He makes a home out of a house by planting shrubs
and vines and flowers about it.

SOUTHERN LUMBER INDUS- TRY HARD HIT

An industry hard hit in the flooded area of Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri and Louisiana is the lumber business. Reports indicate that more than two hundred mills are closed down at the present time in the southern producing territory on account of the flood waters of the Mississippi River and its tributaries. The majority of mills reported down will be unable to operate for at least 60 days and many report that it will be as long as six months before they can again start operation. There will be no logging in said territory for 30 or 60 days.

Railroads Suffer Heavy Losses

What the railroads in the flooded area have suffered in losses and will continue to suffer for some time cannot be estimated at this time. But we know it will go into big figures.
The damage to property can soon be repaired but months
and even years will be required to recover the demoralizing effect on business.

All Lines of Industry Will Feel Effects of Flood

The farming interests, the backbone of the country, the greatest sufferers of all in the flooded area, will suffer millions and millions of dollars in losses and in many instances will have no recourse of recovering a penny of them. Therefore, the country as a whole may rest assured that every industry will feel the effect of the 1927 flood disaster.

CONCRETE FOR PERMANENCE

At the meeting of the street
committee of the City Council and paving committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday evening, Judge J. E. Boltz, of the Portland Cement Company, gave an interesting talk on street paving, telling of developments in Kentucky.

It is interesting to the citizens of Fulton to learn that within the past ten days, the city of Lexington, in the heart of the blue grass of Kentucky,
awarded contracts for the removal of worn out brick, wood block and asphalt paving, and the resurfacing of Main Street with reinforced concrete.

This decision by the Lexington city officials was caused by the superior concrete streets constructed there during the past ten years, together with the low cost of construction, and the extremely low cost of maintenance on streets paved with concrete.

Concrete streets are slip proof, free from dust and high places. The cost of flushing and cleaning concrete streets in Lexington is about half of cost of cleaning other types of paving.

The citizens and owners of abutting property on Main street in Lexington were practically unanimously for concrete paving, notwithstanding that other types bid on were cheaper in first cost.

We feel the same as Judge Boltz, that "Concrete for Permanence" is a good slogan to keep in mind while thinking of street construction.

FLOOD SITUATION

This has been an eventful week in the flood area of the Mississippi and its tributaries.

Death stalked in the wake of the flood near Leland, Miss., when it was reported that approximately 25 people, white and negroes, were drowned
when they jumped from a burning building into the water.

While the upper river is falling and some of the refugees returning to their desolate homes
to start life anew, great suffering is being encountered in the Mississippi delta country, in Louisiana and Arkansas as the waters were weaving their destructive path. New areas were inundated, lives sacrificed and property damage ran into the millions.

As United States Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover
viewed the situation on his trip down the Mississippi from Memphis, he feelingly said,
"This is certainly a great national calamity." But Mr. Hoover did not come South to grieve. He came here to work and work he did.

The river is falling fast at Hickman now and water is out of several of the flooded business houses. Paying off the 1,500 men who worked night and day to save Reelfoot levee was in progress during the week. Approximately 200,000 sand bags were used in the work. It is estimated that the cost of repairing the levee will be in the neighborhood of $50,- 000. The cost of protecting the levee during the flood will be around $30,000. Most of the crew that worked on Reelfoot levee has been dismissed after a desperate and successful effort to save it. Cars are now going through to Hickman over the new highway which was flooded for two or three miles.
With each day of sunshine conditions are rapidly improving in the lower end of Fulton county and farmers are active in their work.

LIONESS FIGHTS TO SAVE TAMER

Rescues Man Who Was Kind
to Her Cubs.

London.—How a lioness successfully defended the life of a man who had administered medical attention to her sick cubs when he was attacked by a huge African lion was recounted in dispatches received here from Leicester.

Capt. Fred Wombwell, a lion tamer with a circus showing at Leicester entered the cage of the lioness and her cubs after a performance, and was attending to the sick cubs when the lion broke through a partition from an adjoining section of the cage, and sprang on the tamer.

The defenseless man was pinned in a corner of the cage, struggling with the enraged beast, when the mother lioness savagely sprang upon the back of the lion, biting and tearing the beast with her claws. Her efforts were successful, and after a fierce and savage struggle she dragged the lion off Captain Wombwell. His back and shoulders bleeding profusely from innumerable wounds, Wombwell succeeded in dragging himself from the cage. His strength was practically gone, but he latched the door before falling unconscious.

In the meantime, the lion turned to defend himself from the mother of the cubs, and the two beasts engaged in a fierce fight.

Wombwell was found near the cage by an attendant who was attracted to the scene by the noise of the conflict.

In connection with the rescue by the lioness, it is pointed out that Captain Wombwell was saved from almost certain death under practically identical circumstances three years ago.

First "Miss America" Unearthed in Georgia

Atlanta, Ga.—With hair cropped to the vanishing point, ear lobes pierced for whimsical gossamer and dress abbreviated, Miss America the first or thereabouts, retains her figure while secretly numbering her years by centuries and defying any modern man to reveal her past.

Blonde or brunette, gentlemen's preferences matter not a whit with her, whose heart is of stone. She thrills archeologists and ethnologists who gaze on her wild grace and ponder over the mystery of her place and age in a race long gone in Georgia.

Imprisoned for countless moons beneath the henna clay of Etowah Indian mounds in northwest Georgia, she was found by a plowman, who straightway sent her to the state museum at Atlanta to resume her reign.

So famous has she now become, she already has made two trips northward, one to New York and the other to Washington, where she was studied and replicas made of her for use by scientists. These now are on display in New York, Phillips academy Andover, Mass.; the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, and Oglethorpe university, Atlanta.

Despite the fact archeologists and others of their kind are "simply crazy" about her, the idol has large, lustreless eyes, a defiant mouth, with a beaming tongue slightly protruding and squatty forehead. She is in a state of good preservation, although her left arm is missing. Fifteen and three-fourths inches in height, she weighs 33½ pounds.

"Serve" Dancers to Women in Berlin

Berlin.—"Waiter, a dinner, please!" In this categorical way, women in fashionable dancing places or hotels may "order" a gentleman dancer hired by the management, just as they would order ice cream or a bottle of champagne, and they usually tip the dancer just as they would the waiter.

Owing to the daily growing variety of modern society dances women found out that it was hard for them to keep up-to-date. So, some Berlin gayety places created the new profession of "drill dancer," for whom a stylish dinner jacket, stainless linen, a pair of patent leather shoes and a monocle are the indispensable requisites. Of course, good manners are required, too, and a lot of patience.

Oakland Finds June Bad Month for Cats

Oakland, Calif.—Down-and-outers of the feline world in California offer themselves to the world of hard knocks—and no food—in greater numbers during June than in any other month in the year, if figures compiled by the Animal Shelter league here are any indication. Cats receiving care that month totaled 488.

Since the inception of the organization in August, 1925, no less than 2,883 cats have obtained shelter at the organization. Homes were found for some of these—others are listed under the suggestive caption: Cats Dispatcher. These numbered 2,778.

John Deere-Syracuse Slat Moldboard Plow—1471 Series

This plow works well in soils where any solid moldboard—chilled or steel—cannot be made to shed. It does good work in practically all conditions.

Plows of this series are exceptionally strong. The high-arched, double-beaded beams of high-carbon steel are guaranteed not to bend or break. Here's another big feature: the malleable standards are die-dropped, which insures the uniform shaping of each standard—the moldboard, shin, landside and share assembled on this standard, are held rigidly together; repair parts fit perfectly.

Syracuse chilled iron is the hardest metal used in plow bottoms—one deep-chilled Syracuse share will outlast two similar shares of other makes.

Come in and see this better plow and let us explain the interchangeability of parts that means long life and uninterrupted good service.
