BE A GOOD CITIZEN

A good citizen is one who does his duty, who has the courage to do so. He feels the need of honesty, of honesty in business, and of honesty in personal relations. A good citizen is one who has a sense of responsibility, of responsibility for the welfare of the community. He is one who has a sense of duty, of duty to his country, and of duty to his fellow citizens.

A good citizen is one who is willing to work. He does not wait for something to happen, but he is willing to do his part, to contribute his share to the welfare of the community.

A good citizen is one who is willing to think. He does not accept things as they are, but he is willing to think, to reason, to question, and to criticize.

A good citizen is one who is willing to vote. He does not take for granted that things are right, but he is willing to think, to reason, to question, and to criticize.

A good citizen is one who is willing to stand up for what is right. He does not accept the status quo, but he is willing to stand up for what is right, to fight against injustice, to fight for the rights of the common man.

A good citizen is one who is willing to give. He does not expect to get everything for nothing, but he is willing to give, to give of his time, his money, his energy, to help those in need.

A good citizen is one who is willing to die. He does not fear death, but he is willing to die, if necessary, to stand up for what is right, to fight for the rights of the common man.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be different. He does not accept the masses, but he is willing to be different, to stand out, to be a leader, to be a pioneer.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be true to himself. He does not accept the facile generalizations of the masses, but he is willing to be true to himself, to stand up for what he believes, to fight for what he believes.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be a custodian of history. He does not accept the past as it is, but he is willing to be a custodian of history, to preserve what is good, to destroy what is bad.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be a custodian of the future. He does not accept the future as it may be, but he is willing to be a custodian of the future, to plan for the future, to prepare for the future.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be a custodian of the present. He does not accept the present as it is, but he is willing to be a custodian of the present, to make the present better, to improve the present.

A good citizen is one who is willing to be a custodian of the past. He does not accept the past as it is, but he is willing to be a custodian of the past, to preserve what is good, to destroy what is bad.
