ERNEST FALL HEADS CHAMBER COMMERCE

A meeting of the recently elected board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held here this week, and J. E. Fall, head of Fall & Fall, was named president of the commercial body. Bob White, local automobile dealer, was chosen vice president and L. Kestner, department store operator, as secretary.

Plans were discussed for the year's activities, and it was decided to hold regular luncheon meetings on each third Monday night of the month. The first meeting is to be held the third Monday night in March. The Rotary and Lions clubs are to sponsor attendance, to see which can dispose of the most tickets.

The March meeting committee will be appointed and announced. A drive will be made to bring the membership of the body to 100 this year.

Fourth Sunday Singing
The largest crowd for months gathered at the courthouse in Dresden last Sunday afternoon for a county-wide singing. The square was completely covered with cars just like a first Monday crowd. C. E. Sandifer who has sponsored this event for the past 15 years on every Fourth Sunday afternoon stated that it was the best singing they had had in a long time. There were people present from Fulton, Mayfield, Union City, McKenzies and other places.

Walter Murphy Dies of Pneumonia
After suffering a week with pneumonia, Walter A. Murphy died at his home near Ore Springs last Friday. He was 58 years old. He was buried at the New Valley Methodist church near Gleason Saturday with funeral services conducted by Rev. Baker of Gleason.

Mr. Murphy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Pate Murphy, and seven children. He was one of the outstanding farmers of the Ore Springs community. We extend sincere sympathy to the family.

Clarence A. Wilson Buried
Clarence A. Wilson, 57, died at his home two miles west of Dresden last Saturday morning of a sudden heart attack. He was sitting by the fire after eating breakfast when the attack came. He had not been ill. The funeral services were conducted at West Union Christian church Sunday by Elder Fred Church of Henry, Tenn. He was an active member of the Christian church. Besides his widow, Mrs. Neva Wilson, he is survived by five children: Jack, Clarence, Charles, and Raymond Wilson, and Miss Eileen Wilson; three brothers, Dallas and Jesse of Dresden, and William Wilson of Memphis; three sisters, Mrs. Ed Atkinson and Mrs. Will James of Dresden, and Mrs. Leland Reavis of Somerville, Tenn.

GRAVES COUNTY NEWS

Norman Cross has filed suit in circuit court against the L. C. Railroad company alleging he was damaged to the extent of $400 when a locomotive and cars of the railroad company struck a pair of mules.

Due to heavy deliveries most of last week, the wholesale price of tobacco sold and offered in the Western district will total 50 percent, tobaccoists state. Mayfield sales for last week totaled 455,700 pounds, paying the growers $20, 370.21.

A war on slot machine operation was started this week in Graves county, where warrants were issued by the county court for alleged operators of the machines.

Appearance cases for the spring term of Graves circuit court opened Monday, March 2. Thirty-eight equity, twenty-three common law cases. The docket for the March session will also include the following continuances: 134 drainage and commonwealth cases, 69 common law cases, 163 indictments and 157 equity cases.

The interscholastic contests for Graves county school will be held in the Lowe's high school building Saturday, Feb. 29. The county champions in debating, oratory, public discussion and music will be selected. The contests will open at 10 A. M. and continue until about 10 P. M.

No announcement has been made for the relief garden program in Graves county for 1936. Last season there were approximately 500 relief gardens in Graves county, while the total of gardens in the county the previous year was more than 1,000.

A district rally of Democrats was held at the gym of the Legion Hall in Mayfield Monday night, with visitors attending from eight counties.

Ben Kilgore, Louisville, Executive Secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, is to be invited to Mayfield to assist in a series of Graves County Farm Bureau community meetings.

Chicken thieves have been active in Graves County during the past few weeks, and concerted action is being taken by authorities to apprehend thieves and stop this stealing in the rural sections. Merchants are asked to co-operate by being careful in the purchase of chickens.

POULTRY AND TURKEY MEETINGS WEDNESDAY

J. E. Humphrey, Poultry Specialist from the College of Agriculture, will be in Fulton County on Wednesday, March 4, for two meetings. Mr. Humphrey will have a meeting at the Woman's Club building at Fulton, Wednesday morning at 9:00 to talk on brooding chicks and raising turkeys. Then at 1:30 P. M. a meeting of the same kind will be held at the County Agent's office at Hickman, and then those who wish to visit some brooders that are in operation.

A questionnaire prepared by the pastor and filled out by the students of both Fulton High and South Fulton High, will be an interesting feature. The answers to the questions concerning this general theme will be compiled and the results used in the sermons. The sermons next Sunday night at 7:30 will be "We Want to Get Married." All visitors are welcome. The young people are invited to be special guests.

It is the opinion of the pastor that life has been more tragically neglected. Therefore this will be an effort to assist our young men and women in thinking sanely and positively about these matters.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Jackie and Carolyn Sue Gambill, who passed away one year ago, Feb. 28, 1935. Little darlings we cannot forget you; Even if it has been one year ago. There are things to remind us, As you sleep in your graves so low. There are the little shoes with laces tangled, There are the little clothes, so to say, Toys, everything to remind us, Of the day you two dear ones passed away. Tho it's been one year ago, Still for them we are lonesome, With a longing in our hearts, To see them again and never part. Jesus came and took them from us; Now they rest from play and pain. Sleep on dear children in heavenly peace, Until you meet father and mother again. —Loving Parents.

16TH DISTRICT WARS ON SLOT MACHINES

War was declared on slot machines operating in the 16th Civil District of Obion County this week and officials are taking definite steps to rid the district of these machines as soon as possible. The first gun in fight was fired Saturday night when J. H. Stubblefield, deputy sheriff, and L. W. Cunningham, chief of police of South Fulton, seized three machines at Oakwood Tourist Camp, located about one mile south of Fulton.

Bill Ledbetter and Roy Jones who were apparently in charge of the night club when raid was made, were arrested and taken to jail for trial before Squire G. W. Robey. They waived preliminary hearing and made bond to await trial before grand jury.

After stating at time of raid that he was not manager of Oakwood, Jones later appeared at South Fulton police station and stated he was the owner of machines and wanted to get them. But he failed. On Monday morning, Sheriff Charlie Brown of Union City came here with a replevin warrant and took machines back to Oakwood. It is alleged that afternoon Deputy Sheriff Stubblefield and Chief Cunningham, and a group of South Fulton citizens swooped down upon Oakwood and took the machines again, but minus about $400, which it is estimated they contained.

Jesse Nichols, local attorney, has been retained by South Fulton as prosecuting attorney. He will endeavor to obtain a discharge of the replevin warrant issued by Squire McDade, on ground that he had no authority to issue it. The court will then be asked to destroy machines, and Roy Jones and Sheriff Brush to turn over money taken from them.

South Fulton authorities are taking steps to padlock the night club and to bring an end to slot machine operations in the 16th Civil District of Obion County.

DENTAL CLINICS HELD IN FULTON COUNTY

Dr. Arthur M. Laird, State Department of Health, Bureau of Dental Health, has been in Fulton County from February 19-25. The purpose of his visit was to teach the children of Fulton County better care of their teeth. The following schools were visited by him: Sassafras Ridge, West Hickman, East Hickman, Carr Institute at Fulton, Terry Norman at Fulton, Milton Colwell School at Fulton, Sylvan Shade. At these schools Dr. Laird either talked to the children or showed a motion picture describing the best methods for brushing teeth, and the foods to eat to build and keep good teeth. He examined 1095 children in these schools giving them cards to take home to their parents, showing the condition of their children's teeth.

Medical authorities state at this time that 80 percent of the diseases affecting children have their beginning in the mouth. These diseases are caused by germs gaining entrance into the body by way of the blood stream from abscess teeth, dead teeth, and unhealthy gum conditions causing diseased conditions in various parts of the body.

The mouth is the gateway to the stomach and through it should go clean food and not food contaminated by unclean teeth, or teeth with cavities in them." Dr. Laird pointed out "If your child is to have good health and good looks, it is important that these mouth conditions be corrected at once."

P. T. A. To Sponsor Safety Council Here

The Parent-Teachers Association of West and East Fulton plan to organize a safety council here for the purpose of teaching children the fundamental rules of safety in walking and in driving. As soon as the council is perfected, meetings will be held when children will be instructed in safety methods which should be adopted while walking or driving.

IN MEMORY

In fondest memory of our dear mother, Cora Browder, who passed away fifteen years ago, Feb. 28, 1921.

Now fifteen years have passed and gone, Since your soul took its flight; To that heavenly home up yonder, Where God's glory is the light. Precious Mother! Oh, how we miss you, And our hearts are full of pain; Because you have gone from our presence, Never to return again.

Way down deep within our hearts we are lonesome, Far within our secret parts, we are lonesome; Makes no difference how we smile, how we live, or what our style; Once in every little while, for Mama we are lonesome. Words cannot express our sorrow; Of all the words that any one could say, For our thoughts are all about you, Fifteen years ago today. —Her Loving Children.

Baptist Church To Hold Special Series Services

A special series of Evening Sermons will be presented at the First Baptist church during the month of March, according to announcement by Rev. W. L. Fuller, pastor. These sermons will deal with the general theme of "Love, Marriage and Home."

A questionnaire prepared by the pastor and filled out by the students of both Fulton High and South Fulton High, will be an interesting feature. The answers to the questions concerning this general theme will be compiled and the results used in the sermons. The sermons next Sunday night at 7:30 will be "We Want to Get Married." All visitors are welcome. The young people are invited to be special guests.

It is the opinion of the pastor that life has been more tragically neglected. Therefore this will be an effort to assist our young men and women in thinking sanely and positively about these matters.

DEATHS

DAWSON H. SKEEN

Dawson H. Skeen, age 40, died suddenly of heart failure, Saturday night, Feb. 22, at his home in Chicago. Mr. Skeen was formerly a resident of Fulton, and from 1913 to 1917 he was district manager of the public utility interests of Fulton and Hickman, now owned by the Kentucky Utilities. The funeral party arrived here from Chicago Tuesday morning and the remains were taken to the home of Judge and Mrs. Herbert Carr, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Chas. E. Wulf, rector of the Episcopal church of Fulton. Interment followed at Fairview cemetery in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

Mr. Skeen is survived by his wife; two children, Drake and Nancy; two sisters, Mrs. Herbert Carr of this city; Mrs. S. W. Booth of Charlotte, N. C. He was born at Bell Buckle, Tenn., in 1897, and graduated from Webb School at that place in 1912. He was appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, graduating in this class in 1910. When the United States entered the World War in April, 1917, Mr. Skeen was assigned to duty as an officer in the Naval Department at Washington, where he served until the end of the war. He then removed to Chicago, and has been engaged in business there until his death. Engineer by profession, he was head of the engineering firm of D. H. Skeen & Co. of Chicago.

Friends of the family extend sympathy.

J. H. BROWN

J. H. Brown, age 84, died early Monday morning at the home of his son, L. C. Brown, on Paschall street, following a short illness. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, with interment at Fairview cemetery in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

Mr. Brown is survived by five sons, H. C. Brown, Crutcher; Roy L. Brown, Fulton; J. H. Brown, Jr., of Memphis; Leonard C. Brown of Fulton; three daughters, Mrs. A. Z. Boaz, Hernando, Miss. Mrs. Oscar James, Mrs. J. B. Dolhite, Mrs. C. R. Carter, Memphis; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Gamble, Fulton; Mrs. George Fowler, of California.

Mr. Brown was born and reared near Fulton, and had been in business of shoe repairing and harness making for many years. He was well known and had many friends who will miss him.

DUDLEY M. OUTLAND

Dudley M. Outland, age 52, died at the home of Mrs. A. R. Tarver in Clinton, early Sunday morning of pneumonia. He was ill only a few days, having taken only while attending the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Tarver. Mr. Outland never recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home in Fulton.

Mr. Outland was formerly an employee of the Illinois Central System here, but for the past few years had been on the local police force as an extra officer. He had many friends in this community. He was a member of the Baptist church at Mt. Pleasant.

He is survived by his wife; one step-daughter, Mrs. J. E. Bailey, Detroit, Mich.; his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Parker of Calloway county; one brother, A. B. Outland, Rector, Ark.; one half-brother, Harry Bushart, Murray; one half-sister, Mrs. Ella Smith of Murray; one granddaughter.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Croley church three miles east of Clinton, with burial following at Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Rev. Southers and Rev. Newsome conducted the services.

Chicken Thieves Are Caught In Fulton

Two Water Valley youths, Jewell Wiggins, age 20, and Darrell Wray, age 17, who were arrested here last week on a charge of grand larceny for chicken stealing, were taken into the Hickman County jail at Clinton early this week to await trial. They were picked up here as they attempted to sell chickens.

Suspicious of the story told by the boys, Chief Bailey Huddleston went to Water Valley to investigate whether their parents had sent them to sell the chickens as the boys contended, where he learned their tale was false. Some forty chickens of the Water Valley section reported theft of chickens. Mrs. O. E. Nanney, two miles north-east of Fulton in Hickman county, is said to have identified four of the chickens offered for sale by the boys.

LODGESTON 4-H CLUB

Lodgeston 4-H Club met Monday, Feb. 24, at Lodgeston School. Mrs. James Dawes and Miss Jeanette Inman, leaders, were present. The first lesson of the 4-H work was given all members present. —Joan Collier, President.

PRAYER MEETING

Attendance at the regular Wednesday night prayer meeting at the First Baptist church was 70 this week. A goal of 100 present has been set for next Wednesday night. Everybody is invited to attend.

CHARITY DRIVE FOR COMMUNITY CHEST

The charity drive which is being conducted throughout this community by committees appointed by directors of the Community Chest is making steady progress. All civic organizations of Fulton have joined together to carry on here. Up to Thursday morning, Feb. 27, $790 had been collected in cash, with $350.35 pledged but not collected, which makes a total of $1,140.35 subscribed.

A goal of $2,000 for charity work has been set for the Community Chest. The closing date for the subscription drive will be Monday night, March 2nd. Raising of funds for charity work is a most worthy movement, and the citizenry should rally to the cause, as every dime will be used locally for some charitable purpose. Have you made your contribution?

W. C. T. U. IN MEETING HERE WEDNESDAY

The February meeting of the W. C. T. U. was entertained by Mrs. Lon Berninger at her home on Edgington Wednesday, in charge of the president, Mrs. J. J. Owen. Singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and prayer led by Mrs. M. J. Matheny opened the meeting, which was followed by a business session. Report of previous months were read, inspiring members to greater faith and determination to stand for and work out the aims and principals of this prayer-born organization. This session was closed with prayer by Mrs. Ed Bondurant. Non-time prayer was led by Mrs. Matheny and after a delightful social hour, during which lunch was served, the meeting came to order and afternoon session was given by a Francis Willard memorial program.

A soul stirring talk on the sacrifices of Miss Willard for the cause of temperance was given by Mrs. Owen, and the interesting and touching as well as inspirational program followed the subject of which was, "The Many-Sided Character of Frances Willard."

Song "How Firm a Foundation" Devotional by the Union Evangelists. Mrs. Lora Horton, using the scripture, Jesus 1:1-3, and stressed the need of the consecrated life that we may advance and take as these verses state "That I have given unto you Readings."

Frances Willard, the Ardent Patriot, by Mrs. Lon Berninger; Frances Willard, the Temperance Worker, by Mrs. Luke Mooneyham; Frances Willard, the Matchless Orator, by Mrs. J. E. Harvey; Frances Willard, the Organizer of a Great Army, by Mrs. Lora Horton; Frances Willard, Servant of God.

Short talks were made by Mrs. Matheny, Mrs. W. Morris and others after which a Memorial fund and the meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Owen.

ASTAIRE AND ROGERS IN FIFTH BIG SHOW

"Follow the Fleet," RKO Radio musical, which came to the Orpheum theatre Sunday and Monday, March 8-9, is the fifth screen feature teaming Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. It's the fourth co-starring the dancing duo, the third in which they have Mark Sandrich as director, and the second of their films featuring a complete musical score by Irving Berlin.

ADVERTISING RACKETS

Every so often this community, like any other community, becomes afflicted with some high-pressure, meanly-mouthed racketeer, selling so-called "advertising."

All publishers of country or small town newspapers have been confronted with various forms of "advertising rackets" and the reason is that the publishers and a large number of small-town merchants have been easy prey. Each publisher is afraid that if he turns down an order that his competitor or a printer in a neighboring town will get the business. Each merchant is afraid that his competitor will be listed and that he will be branded as a slacker if he doesn't take part in the scheme.

One of the duties of the newspaper should be to protect the people of its community from being exploited by outside promoters whose only interest lies in putting over their schemes, collecting as much money as possible and getting out of town as quickly as they can without regard to possible aftermaths and their effect upon the community.

The methods of practically all the promoters of advertising rackets are the same. They come in and either get some organization to sponsor the scheme, or else get local girls to help sell the advertising. The rate of advertising is always higher than regular newspaper advertising, and the girls are allowed only a small amount of every dollar collected.

These so-called advertising ideas which are nothing more than schemes, have been worked time and time again in Fulton by "drifting" promoters whose business is to

WHAT CIRCULATION MEANS TO FULTON

Have you ever stopped to think what benefit comes to Fulton from the regular publication of a newspaper with wide circulation in the adjoining trade territory? Being newspapermen, we have been alert to changing times and conditions, and have endeavored to extend the circulation of THE NEWS into virgin territory, that has been untouched by a newspaper published in Fulton for many years. Considerable money and untiring efforts have brought us just rewards.

A vigorous campaign to add 500 new readers to our large list of subscribers has been underway during the past few weeks. In a little over three weeks, over three subscriptions have been turned in, and we are highly pleased with the results being attained. The goal of 500 more readers will be passed in a short while, and when the campaign is over, THE NEWS will have the outstanding coverage of any medium published in Fulton County.

The more homes reached by THE NEWS, and the wider the territory covered, the greater the pulling power of Fulton, which has long needed to extend its trade territory. Every issue of THE NEWS going into homes of this city and the surrounding community should exert a definite influence and benefit for the general good of this vicinity. We hope to be able to promote the steady growth of the community, and shall strive to encourage any movement or effort that means improvement to our home territory.

Steadily we are adding many new features to our news department, such as securing correspondents in adjoining communities like Water Valley, Crutchfield, Cayce, Hickman, Beelerton, Enon, Palestine, Jordan, Moscow, Dukedom, McConnell, Pierce, etc. Among other features are weekly markets, articles on poultry raising, dairying for the farmers, and naturally a full coverage of local and county news. You as a reader and citizen of this community can render valuable assistance in getting "all the news" published, by reporting any news happenings to THE NEWS. Vital news of importance from this community is sent to outside papers, which reacts as valuable publicity for Fulton. Staff writers on this paper are correspondents for big city papers and press services, and all news should be reported promptly.

Help us to help Fulton grow!

put the job over and go on to another community, and do it over again. The local community must suffer.

Business men of Fulton, it behooves you to put your foot down on this kind of monkey business which drains your coffers of hundreds of dollars each year. Think it over.

Get-Together

IN A MIDDLE WESTERN OFFICE a chairman addressed a meeting of directors. "Our box business needs more outlets."

In a southern city a veneer manufacturer called for his sales manager. "There's business somewhere. Let's find it!"

In the depths of a Mississippi forest a timber operator pondered. "Sure, we can handle more business. But where's it coming from?"

Three industries turned to the Illinois Central. Markets were located, needs were matched with needs. Today several hundred workers owe their jobs to the arrangements which this railroad made.

THERE is more to railroading than carrying passengers and freight. A railroad must serve the territory it covers, and its function as a clearing-house for industrial information is frequently a preliminary to the running of its trains.

PROMENADE DECK

by Ishbel Ross

SYNOPSIS: A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marechal" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romance, entertainment—and tragedy. Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls. These characters are aboard this ship: Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a disappointed flapper; Jenny, run-away wife; and Peter, Captain Baring, master of the ship—and his soul. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

TENTH INSTALLMENT

They dined together, Angela in the highest spirits. Her wit flashed at the tip of her tongue; her laughter rang like the thin chiming of bells.

"You're very bright tonight," Macduff told her.

"Yes, I've had news from home today."

"Oh, that's it!" His manner was dashed. "It must have been cheerful."

She laughed behind her champagne glass. "It was something I didn't expect," she said.

They strolled out of the dining-room and took two rickshaws to Jade Street. At last they went into the tiniest and blackest of all the shops, and a wrinkled old Chinese came forward to ask in a squeaky voice, what they wanted. She explained that she wanted a jade bracelet, very rare, very choice. The man studied her with attention; then he closed his shutters and bolted his door.

"I show you something very rare, missie," he said, moving majestically through the small square of a lacquer chest which sprang open and revealed an inner compartment. Angela fancied she caught a gleam in the whites of his eyes. His fingers moved mysteriously at the back of the chest, pressing on secret springs till he reached a long black case. From its velvet folds, which seemed to hold the dust and dead odor of centuries, he drew out a bracelet and suspended it with a clasp before her eyes.

"Ah," she exclaimed, in admiration. "That's it!"

Macduff was impressed. He took the bracelet in his hand and passed it through his fingers, blantly, without the caressing fondness of the Chinese. Five carved Buddhas of dark jade were strung together on an intricate silver chain. An elegant bracelet, a bracelet one would remember. She could not have dreamed of a better choice. The merchant named his price. It was absurdly high and twice the value of the trinket. She did not care. "I want it," she said to Macduff, "and I won't haggle at all!"

"Are you glad to be homeward bound?" Macduff enquired. She did not answer.

"Angela, I asked you a question. I know, Macduff. Forgive me, but I'm wondering whether I'm glad or not."

"What happened, Angela? I know that something hit you hard."

"I'm not going back to my husband!" She spoke as calmly as if she were flicking a speck of dust from her clothes.

Macduff looked at her suddenly and dropped his pipe from his mouth. "You're not going back to your husband?" he repeated, stupidly.

"He doesn't want me back. He wants a divorce."

"And you're going to give it to him?" His voice rose from its deep rumble to a peak of surprise.

"Why not? You see, he's fallen in love with a girl of seventeen and youth must be served."

"Well, I'm damned!" Gently he touched the back of her head.

"I'm double damned!" The swine! "Hush, Macduff!" Her fingers covered his lips.

"The bracelet, then? I'm sure it had something to do with your news."

"Yes," said Angela simply. "Lovat wanted the bracelet for the girl he loves."

"Angela, you're a fool!" said Macduff, suddenly.

"Yes, I'm afraid I am, a miserable fool. But let's move on."

It was one of the red-letter days in Miss Mudge's life. When they were back on the "Marechal," she looked up Mr. Charlton, feeling that her pleasure was something she must share with him.

"I wonder if I shall be able to settle down when I get home," she was saying. "I've always thought it better to feel planted in one spot."

"I shouldn't suspect that from knowing you, Miss Mudge."

His voice was teasing, but it passed over her like a caressing wind.

"Why not?"

"I can't believe you'd bang the door shut on adventure. If you were that sort, you wouldn't have come on this trip around the world."

"I think you're discovering many things about me that I didn't know myself. But you see, there hasn't been much chance for me to do anything but stay put."

She leaned against his sleeve her quaint, small face thrust up into his. Dick feared that she wanted to be kissed; that she wanted very badly to be kissed by him, yet did not know it. He held her hand felt it burning in his cool clasp.

Miss Mudge caught fire under his touch until all of a sudden he was holding her, shaking in his arms. O God! he thought. Though he hated tears he was moved by the desperate note of hysteria in her voice. She shuddered and clung to him. He was shocked by the fervor of her embrace.

"I'm so ashamed!" she murmured into his ear.

"Ah, don't say that. It's stupid for a woman to be ashamed of her feelings. They're really the most charming things about her."

"But I wouldn't do this in Ohionio," Miss Mudge went on. "I would be so abandoned."

Dick laughed. "You must forget about Ohionio. You're very far from there now, and you must know by this time that there's a broader, freer world than that."

Miss Mudge listened, entranced. Perhaps it was true. His words sank sweetly into her unconsciousness. Suddenly she buried her face in his collar.

"Mr. Charlton!" she mumbled.

"My dear!" said Dick, catching her in a firm and sustaining grip and laughing at himself for a fool. He turned her face up, dripping with tears. He saw her drenched eyes and the eager, tremulous curve of her lips. Bending over, he kissed her so slowly and thoroughly that she fainted against his chest. With a quick surge of concern he put her back in her chair and bent over her, wondering what he could do to revive her, but he saw that her hysteria had been wiped out in a deadly wave of inertia.

After a while she got up and scuttled along deck without a word—a ridiculous figure, with ridiculous skirts, flying towards the companionway. She had called him Mr. Charlton, even when he had kissed her! Dick wiped the sweat from his brow. Never again! He regretted everything that had happened, everything from the very beginning. This had been different from all his other experiences; it left him with a self-disgust. He was strangely touched, thinking of Miss Mudge's lonely pillow.

The "Marechal" was steaming across the Pacific with her homeward-bound pennant flying from the mast. Captain Baring was having a cocktail party in his quarters.

Miss Mudge was talking to Dick Charlton. Her sparrow face was aglow, and she was drawing on a cigarette in the ridiculous, inadequate way she had. The chief officer seemed to be rather embarrassed for once in his life. The For-cocktail after cocktail with her attention fastened on him, was revolving over in their direction now. Her expression was glassy and determined. Angela saw her step between them and catch Miss Mudge by the shoulder. "Haven't you been going to make a scene?" She was drunk enough for anything. Suddenly Joan's voice rose, strident and hysterical, over the babel of tongues arresting the attention of everyone in the room. Miss Mudge was blinking at her, not knowing what it was all about. Joan, a blazing fury of red locks and dishevelment, was bending over her and shouting things that made Angela's heart stand still.

"You think Dick loves you, you poor little simp!" she cried. "Well, you're mistaken. He loves me. Do you understand? He loves me. He's laughing at you. Yes, I saw him kiss you on the deck at Yokohama, after you had thrown yourself into his arms. I saw you faint, you silly little crow. You didn't see me in the beach chair, did you? Why did you ever leave Ohionio, or wherever it is you come from? Why did you ever think you could come around the world and behave like anyone else? Don't you know you're a sketch? Take a look at yourself!" Joan threw back her head and laughed. "They tried to marry me, but she pushed him off and took him back. Miss Mudge, on whose face a slow realization was dawning.

"You think because Dick dances with you, that he's in love with you and not with me. Well, he's laughing at you up his sleeve. Everybody knows he's making fun of you, but you're too simple to know it. He knows you're forty-three and never had another man in your life. (Stop her, stop her, some one!) Angela was murmuring through pale lips, but everyone seemed to be rooted to the spot.

"He knows you say your prayers at night and help to support the mission. He knows you're a Dry. He knows you're a silly little school teacher trying to be a sport, smoking cigarettes, painting your face like a harlot, swinging at a drink—yes, and no doubt sleeping with him too."

"Stop it, Joan! You're mad!" Dick was towering over her in a fury. He caught her by the arms. She pulled herself free and slapped his face.

"Don't speak to me! I haven't finished with her yet. She wears cotton nightgowns with necks like this (Joan gestured from shoulder to chin). She sleeps with curlers in her hair. I've seen her, on her way to the bath. Won't wear her glasses, for fear they might spoil her appearance. Bumps into chairs, falls over tables. Chatters, chatters to everyone who will listen to her. All about Ohionio and the wonderful children she teaches. 'Wonderful! Think the world is full of glamor—Oh, I've heard her by the hour. Loses her money at Monte Carlo. Thinks, 'Dick's Sir Galahad! Why is Dick good to her? Dick's good to her because everyone on the boat knows she's used up her savings and can't go ashore. Dick's sorry for her. Dick's mad with me—Little school teachers should stay at home and keep their pennies in their cotton stockings—Shouldn't be a nuisance to grown-ups—Shouldn't think that a Spanish shawl will make them fit to kiss—Poor little Miss Mudge!'

Everyone tried not to look at Miss Mudge. At first her cheeks had burned. Now they were ghastly pale, except for the dots of rouge, high up on her cheeks, that made her look like a wax model. Once she had raised her hand to protest. Then it had fallen limply. What was the use? Captain Baring stood in appalled silence. No one whistled or took, but Miss Mudge herself took hold of the situation. Ignoring them all, she put her arm around Joan's drooping shoulders and said in a clear, high voice: "Come on, you foolish child. Come down with me."

To Help You Keep Abreast of the Times

So much is happening every day in the world of government that affects your living, income and buying power. What is Congress doing? For what is money to be spent? How will they raise it? Who is to administer the spending? What does this business improvement mean? Will it continue? Why is there another side to so many questions? This takes you as yourself—How can I go ahead of the times, understand what events mean, discuss national affairs intelligently?

The United States News

Every week you find in the United States News, a complete, accurate report of national affairs from Washington. News is grouped together in departments for your convenience. Simplified for quick reading. Connected for clearness and perspective. Authoritative, concise, usable.

Here you find why it happened, what it means and what is likely to happen next. The United States News is truly the news magazine of national affairs.

Subscribe today! Congress is in session. A presidential campaign is warming up. Party platforms are to be written. More of the questions of national policy will be discussed this year than ever before. Be posted. Know the facts. Make your own decisions. Back them up with a clear-cut understanding of what is going on.
