Mourners give Arafat emotional farewell

By The Associated Press
RAMALLAH, West Bank (AP) — Yasser Arafat was laid to rest in a marble-and-stone grave today after his flag-draped coffin was borne through a sea of emotional Palestinians who swarmed the helicopter that brought him from a state funeral in Egypt.

Arafat

Police fired wildly into the air to keep back the surging crowd at the West Bank compound known as the Muqata, where Arafat spent his last years as a virtual prisoner.

After Arafat's body was lowered into the ground, Muslim clerics read Quranic verses and the late leader's bodyguards wept and embraced each other.

Officials tried for 25 minutes to open the helicopter door to remove the coffin onto a jeep that had plowed through the crowd to clear a path.

As the coffin was carried toward the gravesite, police jumped on top of it, waved their arms and flashed the victory sign. People chanted, "With our blood and our soul we will redeem you Yasser Arafat!"

Stretchers carried away two people who were trampled in the melee.

Mahmoud Abbas, the new head of the PLO, and Omar Suleiman, Egypt's director of intelligence, tried to emerge from the helicopter, but were kept back by the huge, chaotic crowd.

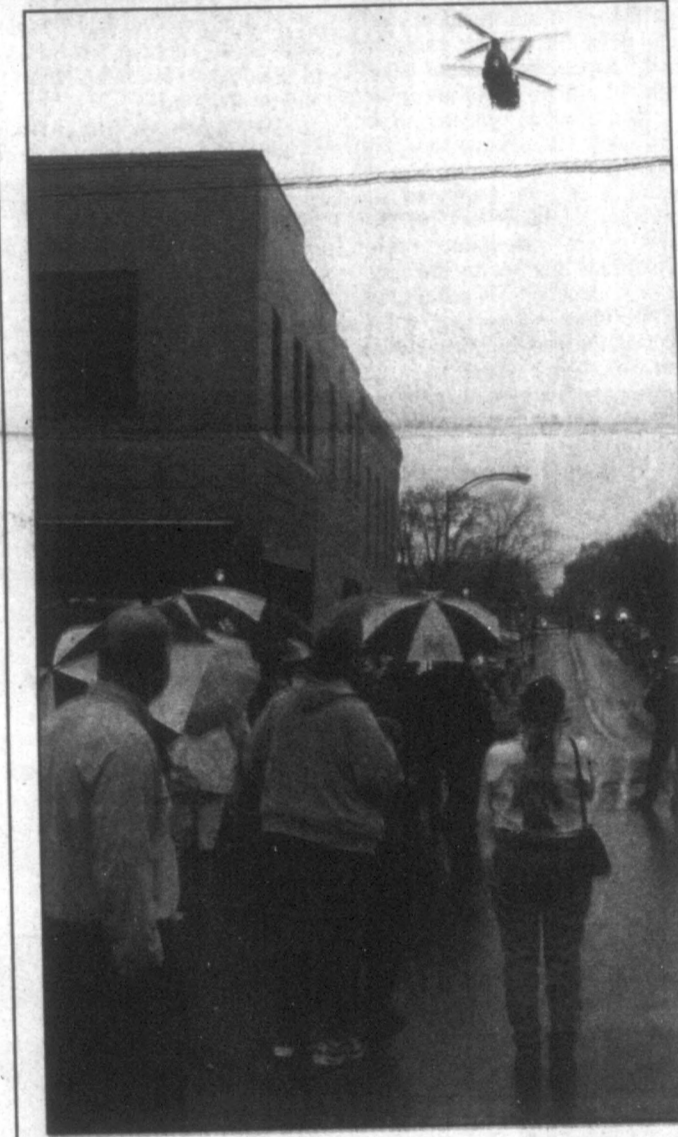

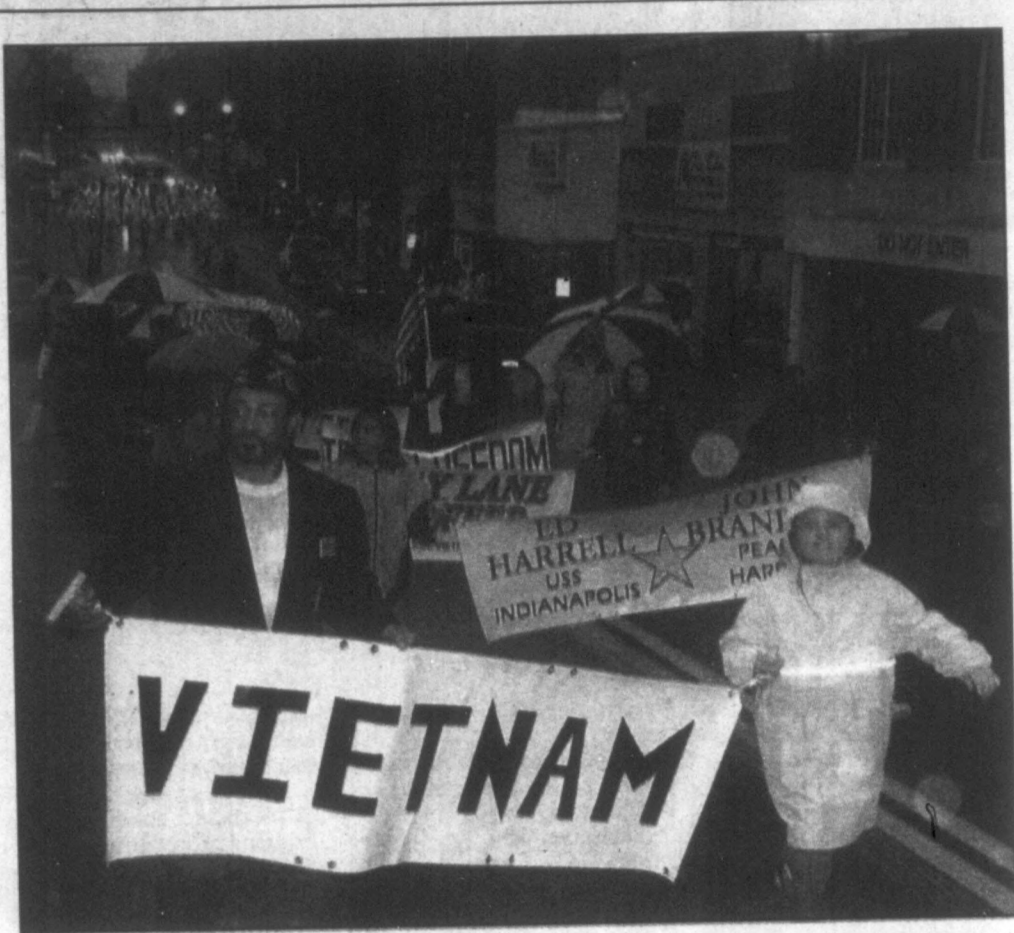

"It is not what we expected," said Palestinian Cabinet minister Saeb Erekat, who traveled in the Egyptian military helicopter with Arafat's coffin. "At the same time, we had to do the burial before sunset in Islamic tradition. ... I expected much better, more organized, but things got out of hand, unfortunately."

The red, white, green and black flag was ripped off the casket as it was carried through the crowd.

The failure of police to control the pandemonium augured poorly for Palestinian hopes to maintain calm and order in the wake of Arafat's death.

Earlier, people burst through gates of the Muqata and climbed over walls to pay their final

Third-grader tells of siren importance to City Council

By KRISTIN TAYLOR
Staff Writer

Eight-year-old Jake Maness begs to differ that Murray is a storm-ready community.

The Southwest Calloway Elementary third-grader told the Murray City Council on Thursday night that the lack of an emergency siren in the southwest part of the city where he lives creates a safety concern.

Maness lives with his grandmother, mother, aunt and four other children in a Plainview Drive home. He showed the council a color-coded map illustrating the strength of the existing sirens' reach. He said only one-fourth of his street is covered in the yellow area, which designates the area that hears the faintest siren.

"We have a poster in city hall that says we are a storm-ready community," Maness said, "but the poster really isn't telling the truth."

Maness proposed locating a new siren at the corner of Doran and Wiswell roads. Council member Bill Wells ask how much a siren would cost, and Maness said $25,000.

"I know those sirens aren't cheap, but one life is worth the cost of 100 sirens," Maness said in his presentation.

The city could probably get an outdoor weather siren cheaper because on donated in-kind labor that is often used, said Jeff Steen, the director of local emergency management office. He estimated the city could buy an additional siren for $12,500.

"You could spend that much money on one," Steen said of the $25,000 figure. "When you buy the high-end ones, they are the high-maintenance one."

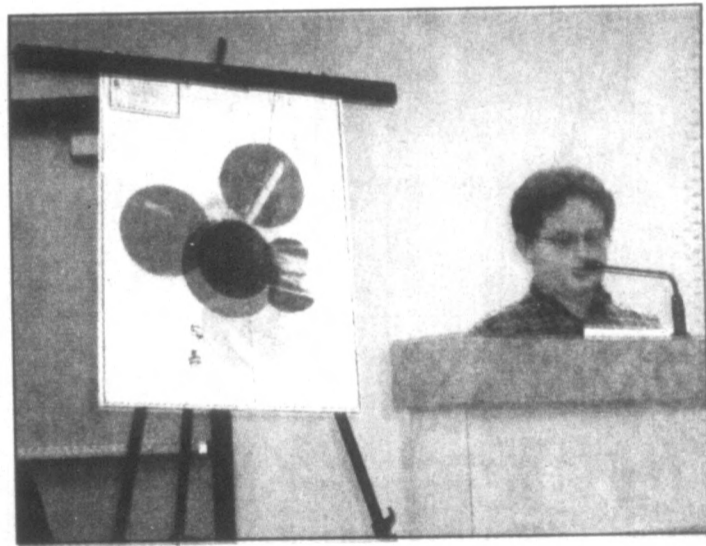

Emergency sirens have a history in Murray. Steen said this morning. In the 1950s, city hall had its first siren that mainly alerted volunteer firefighters of fires. In the 1960s, Murray State added two sirens on campus that alerted the public of tornados.

"Sirens are usually used to warn people who are outside of structures," Steen said.

Murray State then added a third siren in the 1990s. Five years ago or so, Steen said, MSU added a fourth siren at its West Farm and the city added its second siren outside the Murray Ledger & Times office, aimed at warning pedestrian traffic going in and out of stores. Last year, Steen secured city money to add a siren north of town, targeting mobile home residents.

"The city knows they need one in the southwest part," Steen said. "But sirens are aimed at

Parent mentions tuition assistance to Murray board

By KRIS ADAMS

A school choice advocate addressed the Murray Independent School Board Thursday night on the matter of a possible tuition assistance program.

John Crofton, a physics professor at Murray State University, spoke briefly on behalf of Advocates for School Choice about the possibility of a tuition assistance program should the district have to go to a tuition-based system for students living outside the district who wish to attend Murray City Schools.

As an employee of MSU, his son receives a tuition credit to

Calloway OKs chairback seat plan at Jeffrey

By JOHN WRIGHT
Staff Writer

Basketball enthusiasts should prepare themselves for a new look to Jeffrey Gymnasium by the 2005-06 season. Thursday night, the Calloway County Board of Education approved a proposal by the CCHS Backboard Club to have chairback seats installed within the east portion of the facility.

Backboard Club President Bob Hargrove, who presented the case for chair seats on behalf of that organization, said it is hoping to obtain between 280 and 290 chair seats for that section, and believes community discussion justifies the move.

"Initial talks we've had show that there is lots of support for it," he told the board during its monthly meeting at Calloway Middle School. "The bleachers now in place have lived out their life expectancy and then some. We feel like these improvements would eventually pay for themselves and be worth an increase in revenue."

"(CCHS programs) have come by leaps and bounds, particularly in the last few years. Obviously, the time to do this is when you do have high interest in a program."

Calloway High swept the girls and boys First Region titles in 2003 and the boys played for the region title last season.

No concrete plans are in place, but it appears parents of players and cheerleaders would be given first crack at obtaining a seat before persons outside those programs. Athletic Director Bill Cowan said around 200 people are annually purchasing season tickets for Laker and Lady Laker contests, meaning 80 to 90 more not purchasing those tickets now would have to become involved.

"I don't think that would be a problem," Cowan said.

Hargrove has talked with a company from Louisville about estimates for such a project. He said the firm told him that just to replace the current bleachers would cost $50,000 to $60,000.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. and both events begin at 9 a.m. All proceeds will go to United Way. MSU has designated it United Way Day for their football game Saturday against UT-Martin. The game begins at 1:30 p.m. Donations will be taken for United Way.

USS Indianapolis survivor tells tale at Glendale

By KRIS ADAMS
Staff Writer

Every year, on Nov. 11, veterans are recognized for their courage and devotion to America.

Not often enough do we hear the stories of those veterans — how they served, how they fought, what they saw, and what they went through. Thursday was different. Ed Harrell, a veteran of World War II, spoke to a crowd at Glendale Place telling stories of how he swam for nearly five days after the sinking of the USS Indianapolis.

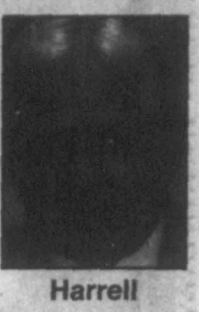

Nearly 1,200 sailors and Marines were aboard the ship when it was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine July 30, 1945. The ship sank in 12 minutes in the Pacific Ocean between Guam and the Philippines. Roughly 900 survived the initial blasts, but only 317 remained 4 1/2 days later when they were finally rescued.

Harrell told of seeing his comrades being killed by sharks, friends deranged after drinking saltwater and spending days under the grueling sun. He spoke of how his ship was supposed to dock the July 31, 1945, in the Philippines and how those aboard thought they would be rescued when the ship didn't report. But they weren't and it wasn't until they were accidentally spotted by a pilot of an American plane searching for submarines that they were finally rescued.

"It's hard to say what you're thinking," he said. "You're seeing your buddies go every little bit — even from the first day when the sharks were taking some and those that were injured succumbed. I guess I've tried to think different times about what I was thinking then."

"People have asked me 'What do you think about?' Well you think about trying to survive."

While you're thinking about trying to survive, you've got a buddy that's in distress and you've got someone that momentarily swam out thinking he's going to an oasis and you need to give help to that," Harrell recalled. "Not that I'm giving help to everyone. There comes a time that you begin to think 'I can't help someone, I've got to think of myself.'"

Harrell

Harrell had to think of himself because he had seen delirious comrades kill his peers. He spoke of watching a shipmate stab another for a canteen of water that was hidden under his life jacket. He spoke of another shipmate who thought one of his comrades was a Japanese fighter and a group ganged up on him and he drowned.

"Their minds were bad and there comes a time when you can't help everyone who comes along," he said. "I don't know what you're thinking about. You're thinking of surviving. You're thinking of doing anything you can to survive."

Harrell knows that by the grace of God he was one of the 317 survivors. He admits he doesn't know why, but suspects it so he can travel and tell his story — a story he tells every couple weeks in various locations across the United States.

"I just praise the Lord that in His providence He spared my life," Harrell said. "Why did He spare mine and not my buddies, I don't know. I do feel that He spared my life for a purpose."

Harrell is in the process of writing a book about his ordeal, called "Out of the Depths." He expects it to be published after the first of the year.

Tuition ...

the university. However, he mentioned the possibility of that credit being used to attend Murray City Schools since his son is not yet in college. He also mentioned the possibility of Murray Schools offering a tuition credit to its employees and local businesses and industry helping with a scholarship fund.

"We don't want Murray Independent School to be a school just for those who can afford it," Crofton said.

No comments were made after he spoke.

ASC was formed earlier this month when more than 200 parents and concerned citizens came together to see if there was a solution to the school choice issue among Murray and Calloway County school district. Currently, 433 students who reside in the Calloway County school district go to Murray Independent Schools while 241 Murray-district students are attending Calloway County schools. Calloway County wants to close the gap on those numbers so it will be more balanced.

After its first meeting Nov. 1, ASC decided to leave the situation alone so the two boards could work out an agreement.

In other activity at Thursday nights board meeting:

- Dale Reid, superintendent of Murray schools, gave an update on the construction at Murray Middle School. The project continues to be ahead of schedule; however Reid noted that he did not know what effect the recent rain will have on the progress.

- The school board agreed to purchase a new bus under a program of the Kentucky Interlocal School Transportation Association. KISTA reimburses school systems for the cost of a bus over a ten-year period.

- Recent testing has shown that the school district is closing the achievement gap. The district showed improvement in all area of testing.

Seat ...

From Front

Replacing them with chair seats would have a price tag of $80,000 to $90,000.

Superintendent Steve Hoskins gave a report on the ongoing issue between Calloway and the Murray Independent Schools district pertaining to non-resident average daily attendance contracts. In a change from recent developments, he talked of progress.

"Since our last meeting (Oct. 23), some of us have met with some members of the Murray board, and I am happy to say that they've been very positive meetings," Hoskins said, explaining that future meetings have been scheduled. "Hopefully, sooner or later, we'll get something worked out that we can live with."

Hoskins cautioned, though, that both sides have to reach an agreement by Feb. 1.

Calloway technology coordinator Susan Taylor summarized the MUNIS Kentucky Education Technology System Activity Report for 2004 and told how state funds are not coming to the district with as much kick as past years.

This year, with the technology the district hopes to purchase bringing a total price tag of $650,000, the KETS funding amounts to just $37,500 and the district has to match that.

"And technology needs are never going to go away," Taylor said, noting there may be one bit of good news to all this. 2004 is an unusual year.

"Every year, we don't have to do all this support for our work stations, and 2000 is the last time we did that," she said. "Still, every course our teachers are teaching our students requires new technology, because our students are using PowerPoint, researching online and doing all kinds of experiments."

In other developments:

- Board member Steve Grogan was elected to serve on the 2005-06 Calendar Committee.

- Glenn Grubbs, district maintenance director, said a surplus sale held recently resulted in a take of $5,500 to $5,800.

He also reported that it appears humidity that has been present in the high school, in relation to the campus geothermal system, seems to have been lowered significantly.

• Director of Pupil Personnel Dennis Fisher also reported that, through two months, the district is holding a mid-90s percentage when it comes to daily attendance.

• CCMS students Brandon Orr and Candace Chambers giving speech and acting poem performances.

In relation to the speech program, the school participated in a high school event last weekend and finished sixth out of 12 teams.

• Also it was learned that during the evening's NewsChannel 6 6 p.m. broadcast, CCMS Student Council members were at the Paducah studio to claim the first-place prize in the Cal's Coats for Kids School Challenge for amassing the largest amount of coats of any school in the area.

Wiswell section closed Monday

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's Department of Highways will close Wiswell Road (Ky. 1550) at mile marker 3.51 in Calloway County near Oaks Country Club Road on Monday.

The road will be closed from about 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Work will start immediately after the morning bus route and is expected to finish in time for bus traffic in the afternoon. The closure is required to replace a cross drain.

All appropriate barricades, signs, barrels, and other traffic control devices will be used to mark this closure. There will be no marked detour.

covering people outside their homes. Inside the homes, we have always encouraged people to use weather radios."

Steen also said the Hazel siren has been repaired in the last couple of months and now works well for that part of the county.

Sophisticated weather radios called specific area message encoder radios are the best in-home solution, Steen said. They provide the weather forecast with the push of a button, but they also can be programmed to come on automatically with an alarm feature when there are emergencies. They broadcast National Weather Service information out of Paducah.

Steen said such radio can be bought at electronic stores, including Radio Shack and Wal-Mart, and range in price up to $80.

In other business, the council:

- Designated three properties off Ky. 94 West on Lawrence Road as "non-participating parcels" in relation to a Murray Natural Gas System project. The developers of Racer Villa Subdivision on property owned by Hugh Massey and Larry Ryan want access to city gas services and will pay for the 1942-foot line.

The gas line costs about $3.10 per foot, bringing the total project to $6,026.

Three pieces of property owned by Max Gene Rogers, Mildred Robertson and Conrad H. Jones did want to participate in the gas line project so designating them as non-participating parcels creates a record they didn't want to share in the initial cost.

In the next 10 years, should those property owners want to hook into the gas line, they would pay a prorated costs with 7 percent annum interest in addition to the regular tap fee, said David Roberts, the city's director of planning and engineering. Should they want to join the gas line, their prorated prices would be based on the amount of frontage property.

After 10 years, these property owners would just pay the regular tap fee.

The non-participating parcel designation is recorded on the deed, should the property be sold.

- Approved appointments to the newly created City of Murray Code Enforcement Board.

Five board members and one alternate will serve three-year terms, but they are staggered initially. Sam Underwood was appointed to a one-year term. Mitzi Key and Bill Adams will initially serve two years. Mike Lovins, Charles Chilcutt and alternate Kim Oatman were appointed to three-year terms. These members were required to have five years experience related to the building industry.

The board will hear matters concerning compliance with the city's building and fire inspection codes as well as property maintenance requirements. It consolidates three existing, little-used boards that separately deal with these issues.

Spilled mercury forces school closing

HODGENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Larue County schools canceled classes Thursday so officials could clean up a liquid mercury spill at the high school.

Superintendent Sam Sanders said a student brought a container of liquid mercury to school with him Wednesday morning. Sanders said the student spilled some of the mercury on the bus and in the high school cafeteria.

At least one student came into contact with the mercury, the school said in a statement. Officials checked other schools for the substance, but found none, Sanders said.

Arafat ...

respects to the man who embodied their dreams of statehood.

As Arafat's helicopter landed, the crowd cried out "Welcome, welcome Abu Ammar!" using his nom de guerre. "Welcome, welcome old man!"

Armed policemen had tried for several hours to keep people back, but mourners, eager to get close to the gravesite, pushed their way through. Police scrambled to keep people off the landing pad.

Buildings and windshields in the West Bank and Gaza were plastered with Arafat's photo and people waved black and white scarves, the colors of the late leader's Fatah movement.

In Gaza City, hundreds gathered on rooftops, streets and apartment balconies in hopes of catching a glimpse of Arafat's helicopter. Barred from attending the burial, tens of thousands of Gaza residents held rallies and symbolic funerals across the strip.

A small group of masked gunmen marched into the Mūqatā, ignoring calls from official Palestine TV not to carry arms or mask faces, as is common in Palestinian funerals during times of crisis. However, the gunmen calmly submitted to inspection by plainclothes security personnel who ensured there were no bullets in the chambers.

The cooperation between militants and policemen was a likely reflection of Palestinians' desire for consensus in the wake of Arafat's death.

The 75-year-old Arafat, who led the Palestinians for four decades, died Thursday at a Paris hospital from an undisclosed illness that had plunged him into a weeklong coma. He had spent his final three years confined to his Ramallah headquarters never leaving out of fear the Israelis wouldn't allow him back in.

On Friday, teenage boys climbed onto the walls of the compound chanting "Whoever poisoned Arafat, we will drink his blood." Others cried out, "Allahu akbar," Arabic for "God is great," and "We want to see Abu Ammar."

Top Arafat aide Tayeb Abdel Rahim emerged from the compound and asked the crowd to stop chanting.

"The whole world is watching us now on television and we have to reflect our real picture," he said.

In Jerusalem, hundreds of Palestinian youths scuffled with Israeli police outside the al-Aqsa mosque — the third holiest site in Islam — after police barred them from prayers amid fear of riots and unrest during Arafat's funeral.

Israeli police, ordered to stay on the sidelines of the burial, were on their highest state of alert and canceled all leaves, worried that the prayers for the last Friday of the holy month of Ramadan, together with mourning for Arafat, would get out of control.

Egypt gave Arafat a state funeral in Cairo, even though he never realized his dream of Palestinian statehood.

The service began amid heavy security with humble prayers at a mosque in a military compound and ended with a procession, his flag-draped wooden casket set on a horse-drawn gun carriage and followed by a crowd of presidents and kings.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, Saudi Crown Prince Abdullah as well as Abbas and Farouk Kaddoumi, the newly chosen leader of the Fatah organization, were among the dignitaries who marched behind the casket on a residential street a short distance toward a military airfield.

Doors and shutters of homes along the route were closed, and the street was cut off to the public.

Arafat's veiled widow, Suha, and their rarely seen 9-year-old daughter, Zahwa, wept as the Palestinian and Egyptian national anthems were played by a band before the casket was loaded aboard an Egyptian military plane.

Among the dignitaries who attended the Cairo ceremony were Syrian President Bashar Assad, Sultan Hasanah Bolkhiah of Brunei, South African President Thabo Mbeki, European Union Foreign Policy chief Javier Solana and Pope Shenouda III, head of Egypt's Coptic Orthodox Church.

The United States, which had labeled Arafat an obstacle to peace, sent Assistant Secretary of State William Burns. Israel sent no delegation.

"Yasser Arafat was more important for Palestinian identity than their flag and their national anthem," said Terje Røed-Larsen, U.N. envoy for the Middle East and a key player in the talks that led to the 1993 Oslo peace accord, in an interview to The Associated Press at the funeral service.

He said he hoped the new Palestinian leadership would return to peace negotiations with Israel.

An Opening for Peace

By BARRY SCHWEID

AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says he hopes Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's death will clear the way for successful Mideast peace negotiations with new Palestinian leaders.

"The death of Yasser Arafat is a significant moment in Palestinian history," Bush said Wednesday after Arafat's death in a Paris hospital.

"We express our condolences to the Palestinian people. For the Palestinian people, we hope that the future will bring peace and the fulfillment of their aspirations for an independent, democratic Palestine that is at peace with its neighbors."

Secretary of State Colin Powell paid tribute to Arafat as "a significant figure in the history of the region and the world, and, we know, in the eyes of the Palestinian people."

He said in a statement the United States would do all that it can to further Palestinian statehood. Powell conveyed his condolences to Arafat's family and to the Palestinian people.

The State Department, meanwhile, issued a warning to Americans in the Middle East and North Africa that Arafat's death "has the potential to produce demonstrations and unrest throughout the region."

The statement urged Americans to "maintain a high level of vigilance."

Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., said the Palestinians now had an opportunity to elect new leaders to be peace partners with Israel and the United States and to fight terror.

Rep. Gary Ackerman, D-N.Y., senior Democrat on the House International Relations Committee, said in a separate statement that Arafat had advanced the Palestinians' "legitimate aspirations for an independent state" but missed key opportunities to reach that goal.

The first U.S. president to explicitly endorse establishment of a Palestinian state on land now held by Israel, Bush renewed that pledge immediately after his re-election last week.

Bush shunned Arafat from the outset of his administration, refusing to invite him to the White House.

He sent Powell to talk to Arafat on the West Bank, but those contacts dwindled and eventually were cut off when the Bush administration concluded Arafat was inept and had not done enough to stop attacks on Israel.

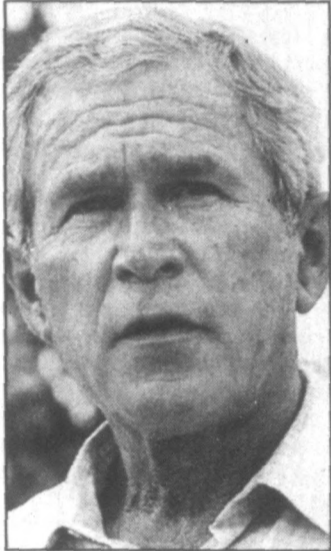

In June 2002, Bush urged the Palestinians to replace Arafat with leaders "not compromised by terror."

Plans are being made for an Arafat funeral in Cairo and burial in Ramallah, on the West Bank, where Arafat made his headquarters.

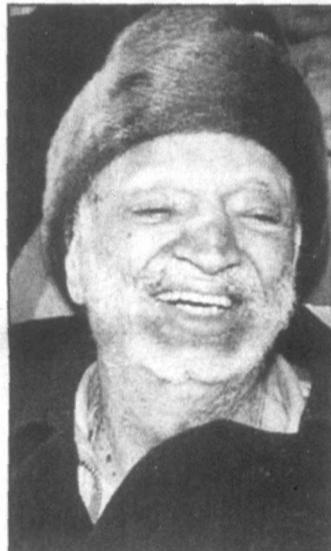

William Burns, an assistant secretary of state, will represent the United States at the funeral in Cairo, administration and Palestinian officials said Thursday.

Burns is the top State Department official for Mideast issues and has been in the Persian Gulf for talks with government leaders there.

In the statement issued after Arafat's death, Bush said, "During the period of transition that is ahead, we urge all in the region and throughout the world to join in helping make progress toward ... the ultimate goal of peace.

In remarks made earlier Wednesday in anticipation of Arafat's death, Bush said:

"There will be an opening for peace when leadership of the Palestinian people steps forward and says, 'Help us build a democratic society.'

"And when that happens — and I believe it's going to happen because I believe all people desire to live in freedom — the United States of America will be more than willing to help build the institutions necessary for a free society to emerge so that the Palestinians can have their own state."

He spoke after a White House meeting with Jaap de Hoop Scheffer, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

After his own meeting with the former Dutch foreign minister, Powell stressed that Mideast peace prospects rest heavily on whether a new PLO leadership makes clear it will fight terrorism and "will not in any way give any kind of support to terrorist activities."

Also, Powell said, the new leaders must be able to "mobilize the Palestinian people to bring them together to the realization that terrorism is not helping them achieve their desire for a state of their own, a desire that all of us share."

"If that kind of leadership emerges," Powell said, "then we stand ready to work with them."

Gearing up for new Palestinian leadership, the United States has conveyed its strong support for elections within 60 days of Arafat's death.

The elections, which are called for under Palestinian law, are viewed by Washington as a way of ensuring a legitimate transfer of authority to new leaders with the hope they would take charge of maintaining order and nurturing a nascent Palestinian government.

Thank you.

Race for the Top Spots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jockeying for the top job at the Democratic Party is under way after Election Day losses, with former presidential hopeful Howard Dean indicating an interest in the post while other names are circulating.

Washington Today
By Tom Raum
Associated Press Writer

Republicans may reward a GOP operative who helped engineer President Bush's re-election.

With the presidential election over, both parties are expected to pick new national committee chiefs early next year, with the Democrats replacing Terry McAuliffe and the Republicans finding a successor to Ed Gillespie.

For the GOP, the choice is easy: whomever President Bush recommends. Republican activists said a likely candidate is Ken Mehlman, the former White House political director who served as campaign manager for the Bush-Cheney team.

Democrats face a much tougher challenge. The next leader of the Democratic National Committee will be responsible for rebuilding a party battered by two straight presidential election losses, finding a way to stanch the flow of voters away from its ranks and picking up seats in congressional elections in 2006.

Democrats agree that the party needs an aggressive activist to replace McAuliffe, whose term is ending. But finding the party's next leader could trigger another internal battle about the future direction of the party, which has now lost seven of the last 10 presidential elections and is the minority party in both the House and the Senate.

"The most important thing we can do is get our message right," said Al From, head of the centrist Democratic Leadership Council.

Meeting with Democratic leaders in Congress on Tuesday, Kerry said, "We need to be unified and we have a very clear agenda. I'm going to be fighting for that agenda with all my energy and all the passion that I brought to the campaign." Kerry met with House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., and Senate Minority Whip Harry Reid, D-Nev.

Dean, the former Vermont governor who waged an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination, told associates earlier this week that he is considering running for the job. Although his own campaign fizzled, Dean's Internet-fueled campaign and his willingness to take on the president on the Iraq war tapped into a deep anger among many voters.

His activism would help energize the party's liberal base, but some Democrats question whether he is the right person to broaden the party's appeal to mainstream voters.

Also mentioned for the DNC post are Govs. Tom Vilsack of Iowa and Mark Warner of Virginia, and former Gov. Roy Barnes of Georgia.

Harold Ickes, a New York lawyer who was a White House aide in the Clinton administration and has close ties to Sen.

Hillary Rodham Clinton, D-N.Y., has a large following, especially in the Clinton wing of the party. Ickes is a passionate advocate and successful fund-raiser, but his Clinton ties might work against him among Democrats backing other candidates.

Other names being circulated: Inez Tenenbaum, South Carolina's education superintendent and unsuccessful Senate candidate; and Simon Rosenberg, founder and president of the centrist New Democrat Network.

Of course, the party's real boss will be chosen in 2008 when a nominee is selected. But the next party leader will be responsible for trying to build support for Democratic candidates in the midterm elections.

Some Democratic activists would like a black party chief, such as Donna Brazile, who ran Al Gore's campaign in 2000; former Dallas Mayor Ron Kirk, former Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and former Denver Mayor Wellington Webb.

It's a job that nobody at this point wants to say they are seeking.

Dean said he still hadn't made up his mind and Brazile said Tuesday, "I haven't tossed my hat in the ring for that job. It should be somebody from outside Washington. I'm not ready to take on that task, but I want to help whoever will."

Among Hispanics, Antonio Villaraigosa, former speaker of the California Assembly and now a Los Angeles city councilman, is getting some attention.

Several party activists suggested Sen. John Edwards of North Carolina, the Democratic vice presidential nominee who decided not to seek another term in the Senate. Edwards seems like an ideal choice: telegenic, son of the South and in need of a platform if he's to launch a bid for the 2008 presidential nomination. However, Edwards' representatives discouraged the notion.

Still to be decided is whether there should be a single party chief to run the day-to-day operation and be the party's public face, as McAuliffe has done, or whether the job should be split between a chairman and chief operating officer, a model also used in the past.

The tenure of the post also remains to be decided — two years or four, with a possible promise not to seek the presidency.

Although the job won't be filled until early February, campaigning is expected to begin in earnest when several preliminary meetings are held in December.

Among Republicans, Gillespie is widely admired and has Bush's support, but he has indicated he does not intend to serve another term.

Tom Rath, New Hampshire National Republican committeeman, said, "there is no way we will not take who the White House suggests."

Charles Black, a longtime GOP consultant, said the new party chief "needs to focus on the races for '06," noting that historically the party holding the White House loses seats in midterm elections.

Bush honors fallen soldiers in ceremony

By The Associated Press ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — President Bush paused on Veterans Day to honor the "hidden heroes" in America's military who have fought in Iraq and Afghanistan during his presidency and in wars past. He also paid tribute to soldiers he said are waging a winning battle against insurgents west of Baghdad.

"Some of tomorrow's veterans are in combat in Iraq at this hour," Bush said Thursday at Arlington National Cemetery, where he laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns.

"They have a clear mission: to defeat the terrorists and aid the rise of a free government that can defend itself. They are making us proud," Bush added. "They are winning."

As Bush spoke, U.S. soldiers and Marines opened a second phase in an offensive against insurgents in the southern half of Fallujah that has sent a stream of American wounded to the U.S. military's main hospital in Europe. Planes carrying around 90 injured troops were expected Thursday at Landstuhl Regional Medical Center in Germany. They join 125 wounded soldiers flown there already this week.

The military, which is trying to squeeze Sunni Muslim fighters into a smaller cordon of the city, estimated that 600 insurgents have been killed in the assault thus far, but acknowledged success in the city won't break Iraq's insurgency.

There are about 142,000 U.S. troops in Iraq, up several thousand from a few weeks ago. As the Iraq war nears the two-year mark, the U.S. military death toll there stands at more than 1,140. Joining Bush at the ceremony were his wife, Laura, and several members of his Cabinet. His motorcade entered the grounds of the vast cemetery, where more than 260,000 military dead are buried, through a phalanx of bayonet-wielding honor guard members and to the sounds of cannon blasts.

Fallujah fighters try to escape U.S. cordon

By The Associated Press FALLUJAH, Iraq (AP) — American forces pushed deeper into the southern reaches of Fallujah, cornering militants backed into smaller pockets of the city. Hundreds of men trying to flee were turned back by U.S. troops.

In Mosul, Iraq's third largest city, guerrillas launched mass attacks against police stations and political party offices in what could be a bid to relieve pressure on their allies here.

On Friday, Army and Marine units moved to tighten their security cordon around the besieged city, backed by FA-18s and AC-130 gunships.

Some three to four dozen militants tried to break out towards the south and east late Thursday but were repelled by U.S. troops, the military said.

west near key bridges, blocking rebels from crossing the Euphrates River with patrol boats.

Troops have cut off all roads and bridges leading out of the city and have turned back hundreds of men who have tried to flee the city during the assault. Only women, children and the elderly are being allowed to leave.

The military says keeping men aged 15 to 55 from leaving is key to the mission's success.

"If they're not carrying a weapon, you can't tell who's who," said one officer with the 1st Cavalry Division.

A U.S. soldier was killed Thursday night when his tank rolled over near Fallujah, the military said.

Another American soldier was killed in northern Mosul during "combat operations" there Thursday, the military said.

In Iraq's third-largest city, guerrillas assaulted nine police stations on Thursday, overwhelming several, and battled U.S. and Iraqi troops around bridges across the Tigris River in the city, where a curfew had been imposed a day earlier.

By Jo Burkeen
Community Editor

Auditions for the "Playhouse Sketch Project," an adult improv/comedy sports/sketch comedy troupe, will be Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Playhouse in the Park, located in the back of Central Park in Murray.

The time commitment is minimal - two hours of weekly rehearsal time on Sundays or Saturdays from 2 to 4 p.m. and one monthly improv/sketch show at 9 p.m. on Saturdays.

"If you are funny and creative, can think fast on your feet or annoy your friends with silly characters and voices, this is the audition for you," a spokesperson of Playhouse in the Park said.

Thanksgiving meal is scheduled

A community Thanksgiving meal for those spending the holiday alone will be at the Weaks Community Center on Thanksgiving day. Senior citizens couples are also invited. Seating will be limited, so please call 753-0929 to make your reservation. Donations will be accepted for the meal. Doors will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the meal being served around noon. For more information call 753-0929.

CCMS to give away coats Saturday

Calloway County Middle School will be distributing coats in cooperation with "Cal's Coats for Kids" in the school cafeteria Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. There are about 500 coats to be given away. The event is open to the general public.

Need Line donations being taken

Donations for Need Line are being taken by Fashion Bug in the Shoppes Shopping Center through Sunday. This is to help with the canned food and other supplies for the clients for the coming holiday. The store is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and from 12 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Hunters breakfast on Saturday

Blood River Baptist Church will have its second annual Hunters Breakfast on Saturday starting at 4:30 a.m. On the menu will be biscuits, white gravy, chocolate gravy, eggs, bacon, sausage, ham and pancakes. This is sponsored by the Youth of Blood River. Donations will be accepted. For information call Becky Shields at 436-2410. The church is located on Highway 444 at the 5-mile marker.

Classes in Microsoft Word and Microsoft Excel are currently being offered by Murray State University's Center for Continuing Education.

The classes are open to the public and are designed to help the beginning user become more confident with important, everyday computer applications.

Introduction to Microsoft Word will help participants learn to use Microsoft's widely used word processing program. The class will meet for three consecutive Mondays, Nov. 22 and 29 and Dec. 6 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Introduction to Microsoft Excel will help participants learn

Microsoft's spreadsheet program. The class will meet for three consecutive Tuesdays, Nov. 23 and 30 and Dec. 7 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Both classes will meet in room 209 of the Collins Industry and Technology building on the Murray State campus. The registration fee for each class is $65 which includes a manual, floppy disc files and other learning materials.

Registrations are currently being taken, but space is limited.

For more information or to register contact the center at 762-3659 or (800) 669-7654, ext. 3659.

Music Department of MWC meets

Photos provided

"Recruitment Night" was held at the October meeting of the Murray Woman's Club. Members of all departments were invited to bring guests for a salad supper and to learn more about the Woman's Club. A Halloween theme encouraged members to attend in costume. In left photo, Jeanie Mae Key entertained with a trip through a by-gone Murray, illustrated with decades-old artifacts. Pictured with Key are Kay Ray, Rebecca Landolt, Margie Shown and Martha Broach. In the top right photo are Gale Vinson, Lea Yates, Martha Crafton, Bobbie Weatherly and Donna Herndon. The department will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the club house.

Newman House plans promotion

MSU Newman House Catholic Campus Ministry is selling whole BBQ chickens for $6 each. Tickets may be purchased from Newman House students or by contacting Bill Duffield, campus minister at bill@stleoky.org or 753-1391. The chickens will be ready for pick-up Saturday from noon to 6 p.m. in the north parking lot of St. Leo Catholic Church, North 12th and Payne Streets. All proceeds will benefit the Newman House Spring Break mission and World Youth Day trips.

Salvation Army needs bell ringers

Kerry Lambert, chairman of the local unit of the Salvation Army, needs volunteers to help with the ringing of the bell at Wal-Mart. Ringers are needed for Nov. 26 and 27, Dec. 17, 18, 22, 23 and 24. For questions or to sign up for ringing, call Lambert at 762-1274 or 753-7265.

Red Cross CPR Class planned

Calloway County Chapter of American Red Cross will offer its monthly second Saturday "Community First Aid & Safety" class from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Calloway Public Library. Course fee is $5 which includes all books and materials, and certifications in adult, child and infant CPR, as well as First Aid. Preregistration is required by today at the Red Cross office in the Weaks Community Center. For information call Holly Webb, director, at 753-1421.

Christmas in the Park planned for holidays

The Murray-Calloway County Parks invites all businesses, organizations, individuals and families to be a part of this year's Festival of Lights.

The event will begin Nov. 28 and continue through Dec. 26 during the hours of 6 to 9 p.m. at Central Park.

Each business, organization, individual or family who would like to participate is expected to provide a lighted display.

The park will provide each sponsor with a lighted sign distinguishing the sponsorship of each display.

If interested, call the Murray-Calloway County Parks Office at 762-0344 or you may pick up form at the parks office located at 900 Payne St., Murray. The deadline for the sponsorship registration forms will be today (Friday) at 4 p.m.

Merryman House requests help

Merryman House, Domestic Crisis Center of Women Aware, Inc., has requested help to be able to help children have a pleasant Christmas morning. Last year the organization had Christmas for almost 100 children in the eight counties served by the group. Anyone interested in sponsoring a child for Christmas who is a survivor of domestic violence by contributing new toys, new clothing and other special need items, call 1-270-443-6001 or 1-800-585-2686 by Dec. 1 and ask for

Ordinary People - Serving Others

Throughout the Bible, our Lord was always using ordinary people in His ministry. Peter and his brother Andrew were fishermen from Galilee. John and James were also fishermen, and Matthew was a tax collector. These ordinary people were very special to our Lord, and He is still using ordinary people to do His will today. To God there is no class distinction between a well-to-do person or someone who is poor. Our status in life or our attractiveness mean little to God. Our Lord and Savior looks into our hearts and He knows our innermost thoughts and desires. He knows the true motives for our every action, and although we have all sinned, He loves and accepts us just as we are. We should return God's merciful love by serving Him with all our heart. As ordinary people, perhaps someday we may hear our Lord say to us; "Well done my good and faithful servant, come in and share my happiness!"

Jesus called the Twelve and said, "If anyone desires to be first, he must be the very last, and the servant of all."

Reed to cut curly hair when church reaches goal

Reed

On Oct. 31, the Rev. Joey Reed, pastor of South Pleasant Grove United Methodist Church, said he would have his head of black curly hair cut if the church could raise $500 in items for the flood victims.

The church raised the items. Heather Grogan from The Crew in Murray provided the hair cut, and Amanda Chadwick, photography student at Murray State University, took the photograph of Reed after the hair cut.

The church is still taking donations for the flood victims. Anyone wishing to make a donation may call the church office.

Bethel Fellowship will hear Young at revival

Bethel Fellowship Pentecostal Church of God is holding revival services through Saturday.

Darrell Young, evangelist from Versailles, is ministering at the services at 7 p.m. nightly.

A homecoming will be Sunday at the church. Evangelist Young will be the speaker.

Pastor Shelby Underhill invites the public to attend the services and homecoming at the church, located on Highway 94 East, 10 miles from Murray.

Gay-marriage defeat puts legalities in question

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Gays and lesbians fear that last week's passage of a constitutional amendment banning same-sex marriages and civil unions may be the first step toward a gradual erosion of their legal rights.

Leaders on both sides of the amendment fight have said same-sex couples shouldn't be worried, because laws governing contracts and similar legal documents are separate from laws about marriage.

But legal observers and advocates on both sides also say the courts ultimately may decide what's affected by the amendment.

"People sort of make assumptions that once they have an arrangement in place, once they've signed papers, once they've talked a lawyer, that they're safe," said Sam Marcossion, a professor of constitutional law at the University of Louisville and an advocate for gay legal rights. "That's not a safe assumption now."

Joan Callahan and Jennifer Crossen have signed documents giving each other some of the legal rights that married couples receive automatically.

Crossen has named Callahan as guardian of her son in the event of her death. They have put all of their property in both names, including their Lexington horse farm, and have signed powers of attorney enabling each to make medical and health-care decisions for the other.

Last week, after voters approved an amendment banning same-sex marriages and civil unions, Callahan and Crossen made an appointment with their lawyer to make sure their documents are still valid.

"We're scared to death," Crossen said. "We need to see if we need anything new in light of the amendment."

Marcossion said unmarried couples "ought to look at their documents and make sure the rights are not phrased in a way that references marital rights," such as referring to each other as spouse, husband or wife.

The amendment approved by Kentucky voters states "that only a marriage between one man and one woman shall be a marriage in Kentucky, and that a legal status identical to or similar to marriage for unmarried individuals shall not be valid or recognized."

Kent Ostrander, who led a pro-amendment coalition and helped draft the amendment, said that language should not affect individuals' contracts. He said amendment advocates "don't plan on tracking things down."

Homeland security local phone number is changing

Staff Report

Murray Ledger & Times

As part of a friendlier communication system, the telephone number for a local homeland security program is changing.

Calloway County's Retired Senior Volunteer Homeland Security Program announced a change in its local office phone number. It is now 759-5653.

The office is located in the Weak's Center at 607 Poplar St. in suite C.

Volunteers 55 and older are encouraged to apply for various community agencies that are in need of assistance. Any person or organization interested in giving a few hours of their month to community projects should call the county coordinator, Venita Loranger, at the new number.

RSVP-Homeland Security is part of West Kentucky Allied Services.

MPD encourages tips from public

How often have you been somewhere and observed an activity which is either criminal or at the least a traffic offense and wondered where are the police when you need them? While efforts at vigorous patrolling and public visibility do have a reducing effect on crime, the police cannot be all places at all times. It is very rare that law enforcement is in the exact spot to witness crimes as they occur.

One of the strongest supplements to law enforcement's efforts is citizens with a heightened awareness who are willing to cooperate with the police.

If you ask law enforcement officers, they will tell you that it is much easier for them to observe criminal activity when they are off duty in their own vehicles than it is when they are in a marked patrol car. It is safe to say that most people will not intentionally commit an offense in front of law enforcement officers.

So how do we work together to curb criminal activity in our community? It is vital that the police receive citizen tips so they can then target the criminal offenders. You as a citizen have the vital information that police need to do their jobs. Law enforcement officers across the country will tell you that without citizen information in the form of tips they cannot perform their job adequately.

There are several options available for citizens to share information with law enforcement in our community. Locally, Crimestoppers is the most publicized forum for anonymous communication. By contacting Crimestoppers, you will remain anonymous and will not be asked for any of your personal information.

When you contact Crimestoppers you will simply be asked for your tip information and will then be given a personal identification number so that you can call back in the future if you have any more information. Throughout the process you will remain anonymous. In many instances rewards are offered for this type of information.

Crimestoppers of Murray and Calloway County is a top-notch organization with the public's safety in mind. You will not be pressured to give your name and no efforts will be made to find out your identity.

The local Crimestoppers phone number is 753-9500. This phone is answered 24 hours a day and if for some reason the operator is busy you will receive a recorded message giving you instructions as to how to leave your tip anonymously.

If for some reason you are more comfortable speaking to a law enforcement officer then please contact your local agency directly. It does not matter what jurisdiction you reside in. The local law enforcement agency will provide the information you give to the proper agency involved in the investigation.

As law enforcement officers we need your help. Many times the information that you think may be unimportant could be the piece of information we need to solve a crime. As officers, we love Murray and Calloway County and enjoy making it a safer place to live and work.

The next time you wonder "Where are the police?" please call us and tell us what you know. We encourage your support and look forward to working with you in the future.

Vanderbilt, Kentucky try to avoid SEC cellar

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Like so many other Vanderbilt-Kentucky football games of recent years, it's come down to this: the winner of the game between the perennial Southeastern Conference outsiders can avoid the league cellar.

Neither team enters Saturday's game riding any positive momentum. Kentucky (1-8, 0-6 SEC) has lost seven straight games and is coming off its worst league loss at home in 11 years, 62-17 to Georgia.

Vanderbilt (2-7, 1-5) has lost four of its last five games, with its only win during that stretch coming against NCAA Division I-AA Eastern Kentucky, and the Commodores have been outscored 40-0 in the fourth quarter of their last six games.

It would also appear to be both teams' last, best chance for a win, since both close their seasons against No. 15 Tennessee during the next two weeks.

"It's not easy to get the attention of all the guys on any given week," Kentucky coach Rich Brooks said, "but certainly this is a week that gives a better opportunity to do something good, as opposed to last week or the Auburn game."

If either team has an edge in confidence, it's probably Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt's lone SEC win came over Mississippi State, a team that beat Kentucky 22-7 two weeks ago. Plus, the Commodores dominated Kentucky last season en route to a 28-17 win in Nashville, Tenn.

"It was a great lift for our program," Vanderbilt coach Bobby Johnson said. "We know what's possible if we play well and execute. The thing about that game is that we played pretty well for us. We just didn't fluke into that game. We executed when we had to, and that meant a lot to us."

Both teams' quarterback situations are in flux. Vanderbilt starter Jay Cutler missed most of last week's 34-17 loss to Florida with an ankle injury, but the junior returned to practice Tuesday and he'll probably start against the Wildcats. His backup, Steven Bright, helped the Commodores roll up 254 rushing yards against Florida.

Brooks said early this week that red-shirt freshman Andre Woodson, who led three scoring drives against Georgia, would replace senior Shane Boyd as the starter if Woodson's injured ankle would allow it. But even though Woodson returned to practice Tuesday, Brooks reversed course Wednesday and declared that Boyd would start.

Hayes poised to be Kentucky's leader

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — If you're looking for a vocal, rah-rah type of leader, Chuck Hayes isn't your man. But if you want someone to lead by example, then you'll love Kentucky's senior forward.

"We already have three or four coaches, and I don't want to be another coach," Hayes said. "I do what I can."

Coaches who have worked with the 6-6, 242-pound forward from Modesto, Calif., have praised Hayes' toughness, tenacity and grit, qualities which have turned Hayes into a fan favorite at basketball-crazed Kentucky, one who drew the loudest cheers when his name was announced at the Wildcats' annual Big Blue Madness practice in October.

It doesn't hurt, either, that Hayes has been consistently productive.

He's started the Wildcats' last 76 games, and last season, averaged 10.7 points and 8.1 rebounds per game, blocked 45 shots and shot 53.3 percent from the field as Kentucky finished 27-5. He also played on the U.S. Pan American Games team in 2003 and helped the Wildcats earn No. 1 seeds in the NCAA tournament each of the past two seasons.

Hayes attributes his success in coach Tubby Smith's system to longevity.

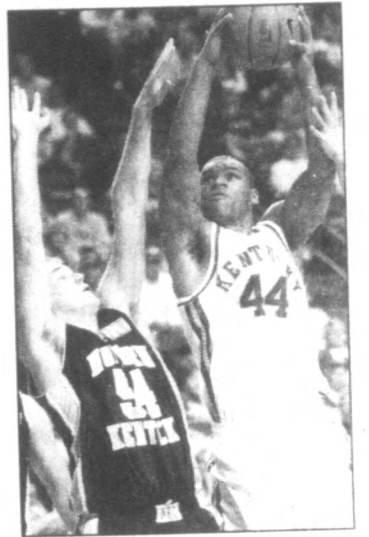

"I get it now," he said. "After you've been here for so long, you know personnel, you know the scouting report, you know what you can do and what you can't do, you know when to take a risk and when not to."

In previous seasons, the well-spoken Hayes — a broadcast journalism major — deferred leadership roles to his older teammates. But now, as one of only two seniors on the Wildcats' roster, he is the older teammate.

On a squad that features four heralded freshmen and only two returning starters, Hayes understands the team will need his off-the-court qualities as much as his playing abilities.

"As a senior with a lot of experience, expectations rise, responsibilities get a little bit tougher, tasks become a challenge," Hayes said.

Smith has an obvious affection for Hayes, noting last year that "it would be tough" to get Hayes out of the Wildcats' lineup, because of all Hayes does on the court. At times, Smith almost seems to take Hayes' consistency for granted, but the coach acknowledges that Hayes will be the Wildcats' leader this season.

"Chuck is always going to do what he does," Smith said. "I don't think there's any added pressure to be a leader on his part."

"But he will be the guy who, in the heat of things, will have to speak up, and in the heat of things, have to calm guys down."

Hayes' teammates share that opinion and appreciate Hayes' example. Center Randolph Morris, one of the highly touted freshmen, said Hayes willingly takes him aside, offers suggestions on how to improve and is "pushing me to be the best player I can be."

Senior guard Josh Carrier puts it more succinctly: "He goes out and he works his tail off."

Hayes said personal goals aren't exceptionally important to him, but that doesn't mean he doesn't have any for this season.

"Honestly, I feel like I can be a first-team All-American," said Hayes, a third-team All-Southeastern Conference selection as a junior. "I see the guys out there. I see my competition. I've seen what's out there and I know that I can give it. That's my goal."

MURRAY STATE 84, MEMPHIS CHRISTIAN BROTHERS 51 Cronin plays tough judge

Second-year Murray State head coach only slightly upgraded his Racers' grade following exhibition win over D-II Buccaneers

By SCOTT NANNEY
 Sports Editor

The jury's still out on how successful the 2004-05 edition of the Murray State men's basketball team will eventually be.

However, there's little doubt the Racers have one tough judge of their progress.

Just days after labeling his squad's first exhibition effort a "C", MSU head coach Mick Cronin only slightly upgraded his ruling after the Racers' decisive 84-51 decision over visiting Division II Christian Brothers in Thursday's final preseason outing at the Regional Special Events Center.

"I'd say it was a C-plus," noted the second-year Murray head coach.

Buccaneers' head coach Mike Nienabar was a little more generous when it came to grading his opponent.

"It got ugly early," said Nienabar, whose squad led Memphis at halftime last week before coming up 11 points short of the highly-regarded Tigers (81-70), but folded under intense defensive pressure from the Racers last night. "Obviously, there's a great deal of difference in the athleticism of these two teams."

"(MSU) was clearly the better team. I don't think you can say that they couldn't play with Memphis. I'd say those two teams would be evenly matched."

The Racers suffocated CBU from the opening tip with full-court pressure, keeping the Buccaneers offense off-stride the entire evening.

Christian Brothers finished the contest shooting just 30 percent (18-of-60) from the floor, including a dismal first half in which it recorded only 17 points and hit a dismal 25 percent (8-of-32) of its attempts. The Racers recorded 44 deflections — an important stat to Cronin and his staff.

Meanwhile, Murray shot a blistering 50 percent (16-of-32) in the first 20 minutes to take a commanding 41-17 lead into the intermission, and capped the evening with a 53-percent effort in the second half to end the night at 51 percent (33-of-64).

"Our goal is to take everybody out of everything they want to do," Cronin explained. "We want to make our opponent shoot quick shots and get them out of any kind of rhythm, and I think we did that. I don't believe they had much of a chance to run their offense at all."

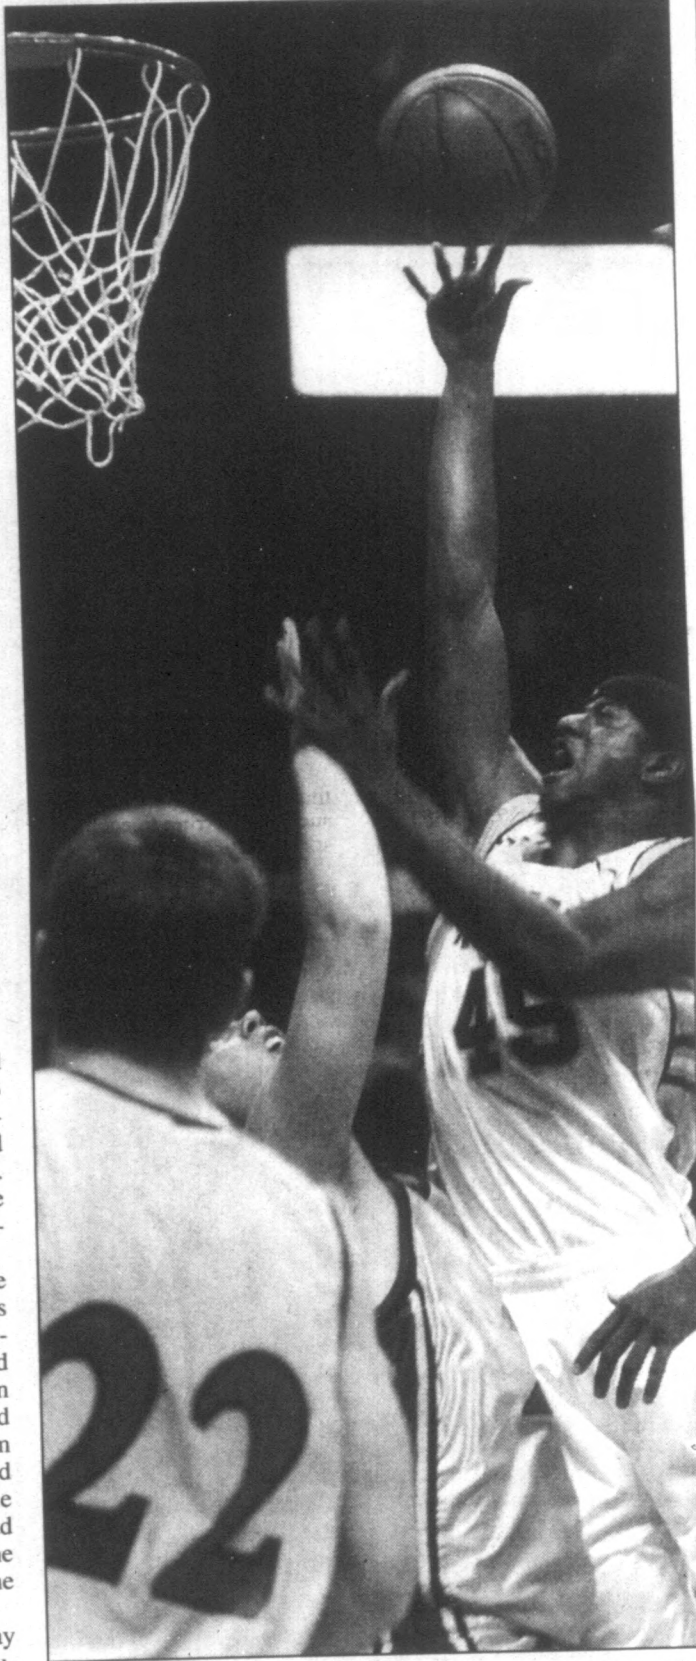

After shooting so well against Memphis last week, the Bucs' shooters produced next to nothing against the Racers. The CBU starters were just 11-of-44 from the field for the game. As a team, the Bucs managed to connect on only 4-of-16 3-point attempts.

"Two of our guys just didn't miss against Memphis, but we got nothing out of them (Thursday)," Nienabar said. "We didn't have some of the greatest looks (at the basket), but we had some open shots. We just didn't them."

Adam Brock paced Christian Brothers with 13 points. Jordon Jeffries followed with 12 points, but did so on just 4-of-16 shooting. Kevin Weybright was the Bucs' other double-figure scorer with 11.

Junior center Reggie Jackson led three MSU players in double figures with a game-high 15 points. Junior forward Issian Redding tossed in 13 on 6-of-9 shooting, while guard Keith Jenifer was 5-of-11 from the floor for 12. Redding and freshman forward Shane Dansby tied for the team lead in rebounds with eight, as the Racers won the battle of the boards 51-35.

MSU now has a nine-day break before opening its regular-season schedule on Nov. 20 at home against another Division II program — SIU-Edwardsville. The Racers also host D-II Arkansas Tech on Nov. 23 before traveling to Missouri on Nov. 28.

Louisville's Dean on slow road to recovery

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As he recovered from surgery this summer, Louisville guard Taquan Dean couldn't even pick up a basketball, let alone dribble or shoot one.

When a game came on the television, Dean would change the channel. And watching others play on the asphalt courts near his home in New Jersey was out of the question.

"I tried to stay away from it as much as possible," said the 6-foot-3 junior. "I knew, how determined I am, I would try to go out there and do something crazy."

But whenever the urge to play struck, Dean would remember the deep, searing pain from that plagued him throughout the second half of last season.

"I didn't want to feel that again," he said. "I couldn't do anything stupid."

The Cardinals were ranked fifth and riding a 13-game winning streak last January when Dean first got hurt in practice. The next night, Dean had 21 points and seven rebounds in a 93-66 win over Cincinnati.

But Dean, the team's third-leading scorer and one of its best individual defenders, was never that effective again. The Cardinals dropped nine of their last 13 games and lost 80-70 to Xavier in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

Dean is still haunted by that game. He scored 19 points, but his point-guard counterpart, Lionel Chalmers preyed on his limited mobility and had 25 points and six assists.

"That hasn't left my mind. I really lost that game," he said.

Dejected, Dean went home to Neptune, N.J. immediately after the season. For a while, doctors weren't able to help him and Dean began wondering whether he'd ever again be the player he was.

"It was tough," he said. "It put doubts in my head. I tried everything and they still weren't able to fix it."

Finally, Dean got the correct diagnosis of an abdominal tear — an astonishing one considering he played in all but two of Louisville's final 15 games.

"The doctor was amazed not only that he had the pain threshold, but the ability to play," said Louisville coach Rick Pitino.

Anchored to his home after surgery in early June, Dean killed time watching DVDs. The longer he stayed inactive, the more he started to worry. He got daily uplifting calls from his best friend on the team, Francisco Garcia, but before Dean knew it, he'd lost 15 pounds.

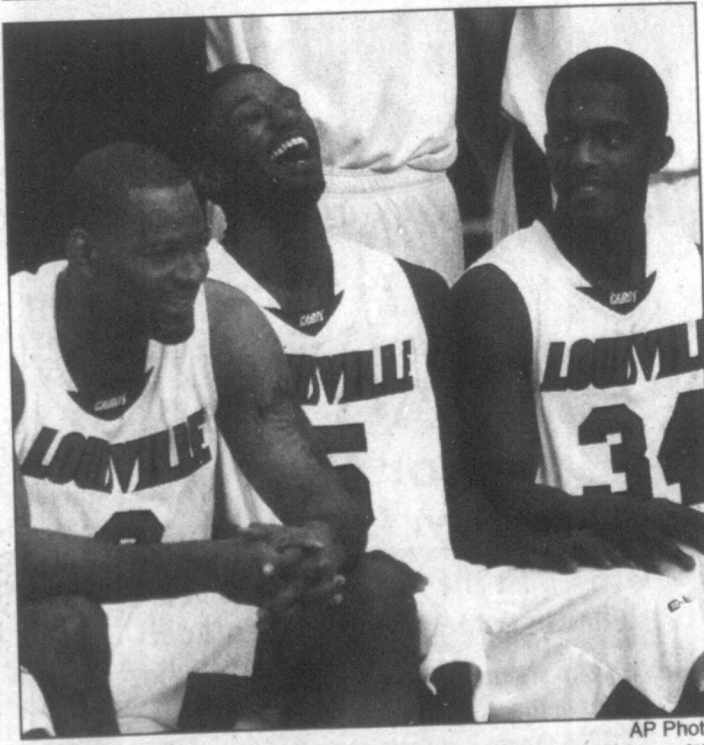

"It did break me down for a while," he said. "I was so stressed out."

He made 90-minute drives to New York City for agonizing rehab sessions and he finally started to feel like himself again a few weeks later. He realized when he returned to Louisville how far he still had to go.

Dean led the team with 71 3-pointers last season, but his first shots in over a month clanged badly off the rim at the team's practice facility.

"The ball was going all over the place," Dean said with an easy smile. "but it was fun to get back."

At Louisville's media day on Oct. 19, Dean said he was 85 percent healthy. He said the injury is healed, but he's hurting in other places as he tries to condition himself back to basketball shape.

Griffin has Skyhawks on upswing

By SCOTT NANNEY
Sports Editor

Matt Griffin knew reviving Tennessee-Martin's struggling football program would be an uphill climb when he signed on to coach the Skyhawks before the 2003 season.

Now, that climb is a little steeper, thanks to a season-ending injury to starting quarterback Brady Wahlberg, who suffered a broken collarbone earlier in the year.

Due to last in part to Wahlberg's injury, the Skyhawks (2-8, 1-6 Ohio Valley Valley Conference) are last in the league in total offense (303.3 yards per game) and are once again mired in last place in the standings.

"We're just not doing a lot on the offensive side of the ball right now," said Griffin, who is just 4-18 in his second year at the UTM helm heading into Saturday's 1:30 p.m. matchup with Murray State at Roy

Griffin

Stewart Stadium. "It all starts up front, and we've not played well in the offensive line."

Making matters worse is the fact that Martin is reduced to starting true freshman Drew Jackson under center.

Jackson threw his first career touchdown pass in last week's 41-14 loss at Eastern Kentucky, finishing the day with 95 yards on 10-of-25 passing. But, like any true freshman, he had his share of struggles, getting sacked six times by the Colonels while throwing two interceptions and losing two of four fumbles in his second career start.

"Drew's a talented kid, but he's only a freshman. Sometimes you forget that he was playing high school football at this time last year," Griffin explained. "It's just going to take time for him to get some experience."

One bright spot for the Skyhawks in an otherwise tough year has been the play of another freshman — tailback Don Chapman, who ran for 76 yards on 20 carries at Eastern Kentucky and stands just 20 yards away from becoming UTM's first 1,000-yard rusher since 1988. He is currently ranked fourth in the league in rushing with an average of 108.9 yards per game.

"He's a tough kid who plays with a lot of enthusiasm," Griffin said of Chapman. "That's why he's been so successful this year."

Martin will likely need another good day from Chapman, plus a solid defensive effort, if it hopes to spring an upset on the rejuvenated Racers (5-4, 4-2), who have rebounded from a 1-2 start with two straight wins and three in four games to forge a second-place tie with EKV.

A banged up Murray unit was given a chance to heal some during last week's bye week after playing for seven consecutive weeks.

Griffin said stopping the Racers' second-ranked running game (209.4 ypg.) will be a key to tomorrow's contest.

"(MSU) has an outstanding football team," he noted. "And it all starts with their running game. Those guys are tough to stop. But that will definitely be our first goal. We have to take away what they do best."

Twins' Santana unanimous winner

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Johan Santana's season started slowly, with the scars on his left elbow still fresh from surgery and his fastballs sailing outside the strike zone.

When the Minnesota Twins' left-hander finally found his groove in early June, opposing batters were in big trouble.

Santana was simply spectacular in his last 22 starts, a span of dominance that made the 25-year-old pitcher a unanimous choice Thursday for the AL Cy Young Award — and the first winner from his native Venezuela.

"He became almost unhittable," Twins manager Ron Gardenhire said. "He made good hitters look bad."

After having bone chips removed from his elbow, Santana struggled through the spring as he began his first season as a full-time member of Minnesota's rotation. Before beating the New York Mets at the Metrodome on June 9, Santana was just 2-4 with a 5.51 ERA in 12 outings — hardly the promise he showed in spot starts and stretches as an injury fill-in the previous two years.

But that night, everything clicked. He threw his fastball where he wanted it, which set up his wicked changeup. The slider started to come around, too. The ERA began to plummet and his strikeout total soared.

"Just make sure that you get better and better as the season goes," was how Santana explained his strategy.

Boy, did he. By finishing 20-6 with a league-leading 2.61 ERA and 265 strikeouts, Santana pitched the Twins to their third straight division title. He beat the Yankees in the opener of their first-round playoff series and, throwing on three days' rest, left Game 4 with a 5-1 lead before New York rallied against the bullpen.

After the All-Star break, Santana went 13-0 with a 1.21 ERA in 15 starts.

"We thought he was going to be pretty special," Gardenhire said.

For his efforts, Santana received all 28 first-place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America and became the first unanimous Cy Young winner in the AL since Boston's Pedro Martinez in 2000. Santana is the 18th unanimous winner overall.

Curt Schilling, 21-6 with a 3.26 ERA in his first season with the Red Sox, received 27 second-place votes and one third for 82 points. Mariano Rivera of the New York Yankees, who led the majors with a career-high 53 saves, received the other second-place vote and 24 thirds for 27 points.

CCMS eighth grade remains perfect on young season

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times
PADUCAH, Ky. — The Calloway County eighth grade boys' basketball team rallied from 12 points down early in the fourth quarter, going on a 16-0 run to pull away for a 39-35 victory over Paducah Middle School Thursday night.

Calloway (2-0) was led in scoring by Jamey Gream's 23 points. Tyrrell Willis also reached double figures, netting 11 points. Chris Dobbins and Jordan Bumpus each had two points, while Casey Brockman tacked on a free throw.

Paducah Middle opened the game with a 10-3 lead, but Calloway was able to take a one-point lead at intermission, 15-14. Paducah again pulled away in the third to close out the quarter with a 27-23 lead.

In seventh grade action, Calloway fell by one point, 52-51, for its first loss of the year (1-1).

Willis led all scorers with a game-high 22 points. Austin Lilly and Josh Humphreys finished with 12 points apiece. Justin Hill, along with Austin Hargrove, finished with two points. Wes Hounshell had one point.

Calloway jumped out to a 14-12 first-quarter lead, but fell behind 28-25 at the intermission. Paducah upped its lead by 10, leading 44-34 at the end of the third.

Calloway made a comeback late in the fourth quarter, taking a brief 51-50 lead. But the Lakers fouled Paducah with 17 seconds remaining. The opposition made both of its free throw attempts to win by one.

Mississippi State shows struggles on opening night

By The Associated Press

Two of the three ranked teams playing on the opening night of the college basketball season cruised to easy wins. Then there was Mississippi State.

The 12th-ranked Bulldogs, playing without preseason All-America Lawrence Roberts, beat Fairfield 53-49 on Thursday night in the Coaches vs. Cancer Classic.

In the other games involving ranked teams, also both openers in the Coaches vs. Cancer Classic, No. 6 Syracuse beat Northern Colorado 104-54 and No. 24 Memphis crushed Savannah State 102-40.

Mississippi State coach Rick Stansbury wouldn't use Roberts' absence as an excuse for the close call.

"It's very obvious that we're not quite as good without Lawrence Roberts," Stansbury said. "But we knew coming into this game that we didn't have him, so we can't make any excuse."

Roberts, a senior forward, sat out because of a one-game suspension from the NCAA over his expenses to attend a tryout before the NBA draft.

Reserve Ontario Harper scored 17 points for the Bulldogs, who trailed by as many as eight points in the first half.

Mississippi State will play Birmingham-Southern in the second round Friday night. Birmingham-Southern beat Alabama A&M 79-69 on Thursday.

Winsome Frazier and Gary Ervin hit consecutive 3-pointers to give the Bulldogs a 47-39 lead with 1:44 to play. Frazier and Ervin both finished with nine points.

Deng Gai had 14 points and eight rebounds for Fairfield. "Even without Roberts, Mississippi State is a really, really good team," Fairfield coach Tim O'Toole said. "We tried to play a perfect game and slow it down, but they beat us on the boards and made us shoot poorly."

No. 6 Syracuse 104, N. Colorado 54

At Syracuse, N.Y., Hakim Warrick had 19 points, 10 rebounds and five assists for the Orange, who scored the first 24 points of the game.

Syracuse will play Princeton in the second round Friday night. The Tigers beat Bucknell 61-48 in the Carrier Dome earlier Thursday.

Sean Taibi had 16 points and seven rebounds for Northern Colorado, beginning its second season back in Division I.

No. 24 Memphis 102, Savannah St. 40

At Memphis, Tenn., Rodney Carney scored 21 points and two freshmen had outstanding debuts for the Tigers.

The Racer passing game needs to have a good afternoon against a Tennessee-Martin defense that will no doubt line up to stop Murray State's potent rushing attack.

MSU's running game is ranked second behind league leader Jacksonville State at 209.4 yards per game, thanks to the tailback trio of Nick Turner, Ron Lane and Chad Cook. Cook (6th) and Turner (10th) both rank in the Top 10 among individual rushers in the OVC.

In contrast, the Racer passing attack is last in the nine-team conference at a mere 165.3 yards per outing. QB Adam Fisher has thrown for a pedestrian 1,128 yards with only four touchdowns and five interceptions.

Murray is ranked fifth overall in total offense in the league with 374.8 ypg.

Junior QB Adam Fisher, shown here during an Oct. 16 loss at Eastern Illinois, could play an important role in the Racers' fortunes against visiting Tennessee-Martin on Saturday. Fisher has completed 97-of-180 pass attempts for 1,128 yards, four touchdowns and five interceptions on the season.

Murray State still has an outside shot at capturing at least a share of the Ohio Valley Conference championship heading into this weekend's home contest with rival Tennessee-Martin.

To earn a share of the crown, the Racers must win their last two games against the Skyhawks and Tennessee State, and hope that league leader Jacksonville State stumbles against either Eastern Illinois or Southeast Missouri State in the final two weeks of the season.

Regardless of what transpires with JSU, Murray can wrap up second place in the standings with two more victories.

Meanwhile at Martin, the Skyhawks are still searching for respect in head coach Matt Griffin's second year at the helm. UTM has won just two games this season, but has been competitive in most of its seven OVC games.

Claiming a win over the Racers, whom they haven't beaten since 1992, would no doubt be another positive sign for the Skyhawks.

Last Time vs. UTM ...

The Racers are currently on an 11-year winning streak against their OVC rivals from the Volunteer state, having extended that streak with a 41-27 thumping of the Skyhawks last November at Martin.

Murray rebounded from an early 7-0 deficit and a 13-13 halftime tie to outscore UTM 28-14 in the second half for the 14-point victory.

Skyhawk quarterback Brady Wahlberg broke the scoring ice in the first quarter with a 1-yard run. Wahlberg also had a 53-yard touchdown pass in the first half. MSU countered with a 10-yard Stephen Hatchell-to-Deandre Green scoring strike and a 12-yard run by tailback Ulysses Odoms to knot the contest at the intermission.

The Series ...

Murray State leads the all-time series between the two schools by a 30-9-1 margin. The Racers lead the series by an 15-4-1 count at Roy Stewart Stadium. MSU also leads the series in games played at Hardy Graham Stadium, 15-5.

Game Notes

MSU OFFENSE: For the first time since their season opener, the Racers enter the week with all of their primary offensive skill-position players available. ... Top WR Daniel Rumley (50.0 ypg.) and junior TE Jimmy St. Louis return after being hampered with knee injuries. ... The Racers' rushing offense, ranked second in the league (209.4 ypg.) and led by the backfield triple-threat of sophomore Chad Cook (80.1 ypg.) and juniors Ron Lane (62.4) and Nick Turner (62.0), has been allowed by nagging injuries over the last few games but should be also running full tilt following a bye week.

UTM DEFENSE: The Skyhawks boast the OVC's top passing defense, limiting opponents to 185.8 yards per game. ... Junior Jason Coleman ranks among league leaders with four interceptions for 73 yards this season. ... Sophomore LB Markeseo Jackson leads the OVC with 101 total tackles and is tied for 12th nationally with 6.9 solo stops per game.

MSU DEFENSE: After giving up 181.8 yards on the ground each time out last season, the 2004 version of the Racer defense is limiting opponents to just 119.7 rushing yards a game this season. ... Overall, MSU ranks third in the league in total defense (329.0 ypg.) and fourth in defending both the rush and the pass (209.3). ... Senior CB Onsha Whitaker leads the OVC and ranks fourth nationally with six interceptions this season. He has broken up 10 passes and is second in the league with 16 passes defended. ... Senior LB Rohan Godson is tied for 10th nationally in solo tackles per game.

UTM OFFENSE: With senior QB Brady Wahlberg sidelined for the season, the Skyhawks offense is under the direction of true freshman Drew Jackson, who threw his first career touchdown pass last week and finished with 95 yards on 10-of-25 passing. ... Sophomore WR Taurean Stephens has made at least one catch in every game he has played, a run of 22 straight. ... Freshman TB Don Chapman is fourth in the league in rushing (108.9 ypg.) and sixth in all-purpose yardage (116.8 ypg.).

Around the OVC

Ain't Life Grand: With 180 yards on the ground versus UT-Martin last week, Eastern Kentucky senior RB C.J. Hudson became the second OVC player to top the 1,000-yard rushing mark this season. Hudson has now tallied 1,000-yard efforts in three of his four years at EKU, and he sits 39 yards shy of becoming just the third Colonel ever to hit the 4,000-yard mark for his career. He currently ranks fifth in the OVC in all-time rushing (3,961 yards).

Working Overtime: OVC teams have been involved in six overtime games this season, five of which were contested between league opponents. Samford has seen the most extra action, playing in a total of seven OT periods during a span of three games.

Receiving Acclaim: Samford senior WR and Payton Award candidate Efre Hill had 28 yards on four catches last week against Jacksonville State, upping his school-record career receiving yards total to 3,026. Hill, who ranks eighth nationally with 956 receiving yards this season, is on pace to become the fourth player in OVC history to register back-to-back 1,000-yard efforts after recording a school-record 1,387 yards last year.

Can He Make It: TSU senior RB Charles Anthony (4,795 yards) is closing in on the OVC's career rushing record of 5,149.

YMCA emphasizes healthy mind, body and spirit

The Murray-Calloway County YMCA is dedicated to putting Christian principals into practice through programs designed to build healthy spirits, minds and bodies for all.

When one has that type of mission, the word "dedicated" needs to be a day-to-day part of your life from the moment you get out of bed until you retire in the evening. So it is with executive director of the Murray-

Calloway County YMCA, Jean Masthay.

United Way
Umbrella Agency

As the only full-time paid employee, her management team includes three other committed employees: Diane Thiede, business manager; Laura Lee Winchester, child care; and Tina Matheny, fitness specialist. This management team oversees the efforts of more than 20 volunteers and an intern from MSU and the Humanities Department.

Masthay points out that she is blessed with a great staff and a supportive local Board of Directors that is very active and sincere with a deep desire to help. "My staff and our board have really bought-in to the idea of helping our customers realize their hopes, dreams and desires in a dignified Christian way."

Her enthusiasm and spirit abound and really shine when she is asked to talk about the YMCA. "The YMCA is the most exciting movement I have ever been part of," she says. "The absolute best part of my day is going to work with the knowledge I have the opportunity to help people be better Christians in their day-to-day life."

Masthay and her staff seem to embrace the YMCA and they are all "people persons" who really enjoy the "people business." "We offer a variety of programs for our community and the YMCA of today is much more diversified than in the past," she said. "Today's YMCA has a much broader family mission and everyone is welcome."

The local YMCA offers a broad spectrum of exercise equipment, weight training equipment, aerobic classes, showers, locker facilities, access to the swimming pool at MSU's Carr Health Building and free child watch services for exercising parents.

"In conjunction with our other fitness programs we offer an outreach program for young mothers," Masthay says. "We offer several programs that emphasize character development and our four core values of Caring, Honesty, Respect and Responsibility, but I am particularly proud of a few collaborative efforts we are involved in to help the youth of our community."

The first program she outlined is middle school girls "Feline Fitness" at Murray Middle School that is designed to help fight obesity in teens by getting them involved and active.

"This was made possible by the collaboration of a youth obesity task force, school nurses, the Wellness Center, Tootie Oakley (Family Resources) and a mentoring program sponsored by MSU," Masthay said.

"We have also been involved in a tremendous effort that enables kids aged 12 and under who are not going home after school to come to the safe environment of the YMCA." She went on to explain that 30 children each day, on average, are transported by bus from the county to the YMCA. "This is made possible by the School Board, Bus Superintendent, bus drivers, Main Street Youth and Danny Hudspeth (additional space) and even the owner of our building (Larry Hurt) who has provided playground equipment."

She also pointed out that the Police Department helps on Friday as crossing guards when the kids go across the street to Chestnut Park.

Masthay also explained that the local YMCA, in conjunction with Murray High School's Walt Garrison, has been awarded a very prestigious grant to help study the needs and wants of 14-18 year olds in the community.

"This is an 'Impact Grant' that is designated to design programs for teenagers in the areas of technology and community needs," she said. "There were only 36 of these grants awarded nationally and we feel good about our chances to be one of only five to receive additional seed money based on our grant application."

When asked what the pressing needs of the YMCA are, Masthay replied: "Money, a bigger facility, money, volunteers and money!" She went on to say, "We are doing everything that we can to optimize our programs. Ours is an investment in youth and families. We need all the financial help we can get."

According to Masthay, the local YMCA gets about 70% of its budget from membership and program fees; 24% from donations and corporate investments; and about 6% from the local United Way.

"The United Way and our Annual Support Campaign enables us to offer financial assistance to anyone who can't afford a membership," she said. "We may be able to reduce your costs if you qualify for this program."

The YMCA offers a host of programs tailored to fit the needs of any family and anyone. Information about fees and programs are available at the front desk at 808 Chestnut Street. The staff can also be contacted by phone at 759-9622. By Fax at 753-4295 and by e-mail at HYPERLINK "mailto:jean.masthay@mcc-ymca.org" jean.masthay@mcc-ymca.org.

She emphasized that fees are structured to help cover operating costs, as the YMCA is a non-profit organization, and there are discounted fees for students, senior citizens and those who demonstrate a need.

The hours of operation are:

- Monday - Thursday: 5 a.m.-9 p.m.
- Friday: 5 a.m.-8 p.m.
- Saturday: 8 a.m.-6 p.m.
- Sunday: 1-6 p.m.

"We are prepared to help you build your body, your family and our community - physically and spiritually - today!" Come and see what you may be missing and needing," Masthay said.

MSU holiday special on KET

Murray State University decked the halls early this year to prepare for its Holidays at Murray State program...

and the Performing Arts Hall in the Doyle Fine Arts Center. "We chose the performance sites on the basis of their visual quality as well as acoustic properties..."

Cunningham, Louisville, Ky.; and Matthew Curry, Owensboro, Ky. The half-hour show features the traditional and much-loved carol, Deck the Halls...

Holidays at Murray State can be seen on KET1 on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 9:30 p.m., and on KET2 on Thursday, Dec. 9, at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, Dec. 23, at 6:30 p.m.

The Concert Choir and the Chamber Singers are both under the direction of Dr. Bradley Almquist, director of choral activities at MSU.

Filmed around campus, the show features a variety of holiday-themed music in a number of settings. Performance locations include Alexander Hall, Pogue Library, the Curris Center Faculty soloists for the event are Dr. Sonya Baker, soprano and Dr. Randall Black, tenor, with Marie Taylor, retired faculty member, on piano.

Student soloists are Rebecca Garmon of Bowling Green, Ky.; David McCall, Greenfield, Tenn.; Kristin Shepard, Wildwood, Mo.; Dustin

"This is a wonderful opportunity to showcase the musical talent at Murray State University as well as the natural beauty of the campus and the surrounding region," Almquist said.

The show was produced for KET by MSU's broadcast media services.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. 13, 2004:

You have an intuitive gift for making money. Learn to trust your instincts, but curb a tendency to take wild risks. You will add to your security and perhaps finally buy that dream home or add that addition you have always wanted...

between you and your world might help you regain your balance and perspective. Invite a close friend for a drive to a favorite spot. Picnic, explore, just enjoy the scenery and this person. Pack some favorite CDs. Tonight: Restored again. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) * Someone wants only you and your attention...

 Although you might have plans, at the last minute someone decides to do something else. Invite a child or very special friend to go off and do something childlike. You renew your spirit and add to your communication. Tonight: Romp away. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) * Finally you opt to move ahead and buy a special item for your home...

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:

5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

 Others might be demanding, but you love it. Cancel plans that might not suit you, and head out with whom and where you want. Your social personality comes out. Apparently, others are aware of your sparkle and humor. Tonight: Wander and socialize. CANCER (June 21-July 22)  A dream might inspire you to go in a certain direction...

 What you say means more than your actions -- for today! You might want to spend quality time with a special friend or loved one. This time means more than you realize to this person. If you're spending time with a new friend, you tighten your bond. Tonight: Let your imagination speak. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) * Use your instincts with a purchase when adding to your coffers or when making a purchase that will add to your comfort and ease...

Honorable Larry Elkins, County Judge/Executive
 Honorable Larry Roberts, Calloway County Sheriff
 Members of the Calloway County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Sheriff of Calloway County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2003. This financial statement is the responsibility of the County Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the County Sheriff's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures and excess fees of the County Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2003, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting, as described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued a report dated June 10, 2004 on our consideration of the County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grants. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be read in conjunction with this report in considering the results of our audit.

Based on the results of our audit we have presented the accompanying comment and recommendation, included herein, which discusses the following report comment:

- Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the County Sheriff and Fiscal Court of Calloway County, Kentucky and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these interested parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Martin, Colson, Hale and Henderson

Intestinal gas is ubiquitous

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 82 and in good health except for flatulence. This is very embarrassing. Can my condition be corrected?

DEAR READER: Flatulence is a common problem, usually due to diet (carbonated beverages and legumes, for example) or to excessive swallowing of air (when people rush their meals). Intestinal gas can also be caused by irritable bowel syndrome, various intestinal disorders (such as colitis) and an allergy to milk sugar (lactose intolerance) and celiac disease (sensitivity to grain proteins). The normal aging process can also lead to excessive gas as bowel function becomes less efficient.

First off, you should ask your family physician about your gas problem. If you have noted a recent worsening of your symptoms, you will need an examination and, possibly, blood tests and X-rays to rule out the conditions I mentioned. In addition, your doctor can advise you about dietary changes that could help you. If your gas accumulation is merely normal for you and does not reflect any affliction needing attention, you might wish to try one of two non-prescription products — Gas-X or Beano — that will reduce intestinal gas formation. Although your problem may not be correctable, it is certainly treatable.

To give you more information on one possible cause of your flatulence, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Irritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 167, Wickliffe, Ohio 44092. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from osteoarthritis of my fingers and knees. Several people have suggested that removal of nightshade vegetables (white potatoes, eggplant, red and green peppers and tomatoes in any form) from my diet will alleviate or eliminate pain. Is there any validity to this claim? My own doctor suggested letting my body tell me what to do and, failing that, to schedule another appointment.

DEAR READER: Osteoarthritis is the gradual, age-related wearing-down of the joint surfaces, leading to stiffness, pain and swelling. There is no food or dietary alteration that will improve osteoarthritis a whit, because the condition is not related to a deficiency or an imbalance. In treating your arthritis, start with acetaminophen or enteric-coated aspirin. If these products are ineffective, progress to ibuprofen (Motrin and others). If you're still uncomfortable, your doctor will have to consider one of the many prescription anti-arthritis (Lodine, Voltaren and others).

I agree that you should listen to what your body tells you. (Indeed, we all should pay attention to our "internal signals.") But I don't see why you need another appointment. Your doctor should be able to telephone in your prescription without seeing you (and generating another office charge).

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $2 to Newsletter, P.O. Box 167, Wickliffe, OH 44092. Be sure to mention title.

Boss's advice proved to be worse than his dog's bite

DEAR ABBY: Last summer I was attacked by my boss's dog at work, leaving a nasty scar on my nose. My boss, claiming to be a "healing expert," advised me to avoid a trip to the doctor (as they don't put stitches in one's nose, he said) and to instead let him apply "healing oils" to my face. He said the scar would be gone within a month. I naively heeded his advice.

During my remaining time at work, his wife (also my boss and the true owner of the dog) looked after me caringly, always wishing me well on my healing, swearing genuinely by her husband's talents as a healer.

Three months and nine days later, the scar is still there, and on a recent trip to the doctor he informed me that I should have gotten stitches. I now face expensive plastic surgery or dermatological work if I want to be rid of the scar.

I am debating whether I should take legal action. I'd feel guilty because the wife would be the brunt of any lawsuit when, I believe, she sincerely had faith in her husband, but I can't help but feel he cheated me. What should I do? — DOWNTRODDEN AND DOG-BITTEN

DEAR D&D: It should be as plain as the scar on your nose to your employers that the husband's "healing powers" failed in your case. Put them on notice that you will be getting a referral to a board-certified plastic surgeon or dermatologist to repair the damage to your face, and that you expect them or their insurance provider to pay the bill. If they give you an argument, consult a lawyer. Do not feel guilty. You are the victim. How the "healer" handles this letter will reveal whether he's truly a healer, or just a heel.

DEAR ABBY: Two months before our wedding, my fiancée, "Frank," and I called it off. We broke up completely for a while, hoping to resolve some problems before tying the knot. At the time, I had a maid of honor and five bridesmaids, all dearest, closest friends.

Since then we have all graduated, and now, a year after our original wedding date, Frank and I are engaged again. A few of the girls who were supposed to be in the wedding party have drifted away, and as I plan my upcoming wedding, I'm wondering if I must re-invite every member of the original wedding party. I would prefer a smaller number of attendants, to make it a more special group. However, I'm afraid that if I do that, I'll irrevocably damage my friendship with some of these girls. I'd appreciate your advice. — PARTY-PRUNING BRIDE IN OHIO

DEAR PARTY-PRUNER: As long as you explain to your girlfriends that you are scaling down the wedding in favor of something smaller and more simple, they should understand and not be offended. Some of them may even be relieved to be off the hook for the dresses, shoes and other expenses that go along with the "honor."

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable, in each of the following three hands. What would you bid at the point where the question-mark appears?

1 ♥ 1 NT ?

2. ♠ K1052 ♥ 986 ♦ A7 ♣ AQ85

3. ♠ AQ76 ♥ KQ84 ♦ 3 ♣ J985

1 ♠ 2 ♣ ?

1. Double. As usual, you assume partner has at least 13 high-card points for his opening bid. Even if he has only 12, you still outnumber the opponents 22 to 18 and are likely to score many more tricks than declarer in one notrump. Accordingly, you double and, if everyone passes, lead a low heart, expecting to collect 500 or 800 points and possibly more.

2. Pass. It is tempting to double four spades — which seems likely to fail — but there is too much to lose and too little to gain by doubling.

Woodmen of the World Lodge 827 of Murray, Kentucky recently collected and purchased suitcases and duffel bags for the Cabinet for Health and Family Services. The duffel bags were collected for Marshall County children in the foster care program with Social Services Worker Shawn Johnson, who works in Marshall County and a member of Lodge 827, receiving the duffel bags at the meeting.

Transportation group seeking more money for state's roads

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A new coalition of transportation advocates is taking its case to the public.

Without more money for various transportation needs, Kentucky is losing out on millions in economic opportunities and is in danger of not being able to maintain a healthy road system, a coalition organizer says.

A group consisting of businesses, associations and citizens announced it was teaming up to form the Economic Transportation Alliance for Kentucky.

"Every Kentucky community has highway projects that are needed for safety and economic development, but there are simply no funds to do them in a timely manner," spokesman Jack Fish said.

Currently, Kentucky is not spending enough money on various projects to make its roads safer, improve capacity or increase access to the most vital Interstates, Fish said. While there are road projects in the pipeline, there doesn't seem to be enough money to pay for them, he said.

"Kentucky has clearly fallen behind in its ability to maintain and improve the highway system in a timely manner," Fish said. "Projects for improved safety, increased travel efficiency and, in many cases, economic development all across the state are in trouble."

Fish said the group didn't yet have a set proposal for how the state could devote more money to transportation. Its main goal for now was identifying the problem, Fish said.

But increasing funding for such projects could be done at "little or no cost to the motoring public," Fish said.

Another option other states have used would be to earmark the revenue generated by the state's motor fuel tax and spend it entirely on road projects, said David Finley, executive vice president of the Ohio-based Triad Inc. The state could also generate more money by increasing its gas tax, he said.

For now, the group was planning to spread its message locally through chambers of commerce and similar organizations, Finley said.

CDC: Smoking declines barely in U.S.

ATLANTA (AP) — Heavily Mormon Utah has become the first and only state to meet the government's goal of reducing the smoking rate to about one in eight adults, federal health officials said Wednesday.

The overall smoking rate among U.S. adults continues to drop, falling to 22.1 percent in 2003, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. That was a decline of just one percentage point from the year before.

"It's a slow decline, but at least it is still going down," said Dr. Corinne Husten, acting director of the CDC's Office on Smoking and Health.

But the rate is falling too slowly to meet the government's goal of having a smoking rate of 12 percent or less by 2010, officials said.

Utah met that goal in 2003 with a smoking rate of 12 percent, Husten said.

Utah's "strong social prohibitions" against smoking among its predominantly Mormon residents have helped, Husten said. She also cited the state's restaurant smoking bans and moderately high cigarette tax of 69.5 cents a pack.

California had the second-lowest smoking rate at nearly 17 percent.

But other states, including tobacco-producing Kentucky, with the nation's highest adult smoking rate, at nearly 31 percent, "have a long way to go," Husten said.

The U.S. smoking rate has dropped every year since 1998, when more than 24 percent of American adults lit up.

The CDC attributed the drop to such factors as smoking bans, media campaigns against smoking, higher cigarette taxes and insurance coverage for kick-the-habit programs.

Calloway to receive adult ed incentives

Special to the Ledger

FRANKFORT, Ky. — A record number of Kentuckians enrolled in adult education programs in fiscal year 2004 to earn a GED, upgrade basic academic or workforce skills, improve their English or learn as a family.

The 120,051 enrollments surpassed the goal by 20 percent, according to officials from Kentucky Adult Education and the Council on Postsecondary Education.

Adult education programs in 91 counties met or exceeded their enrollment and performance goals in fiscal 2004. These counties will share nearly $1 million in incentive funds. Forty of these counties, including Calloway, have earned incentive funding for the four years it has been available.

In Calloway County, the 2004 enrollment goal was 881.

The actual enrollment surpassed that, totaling 1,215. Calloway County will receive $11,701 in incentives.

"Kentucky has made a significant investment in adult education, which has led to a 135 percent increase in enrollment since 2000," said Cheryl King, vice president for adult education. "But the most important return on this investment is educated Kentuckians who are more self-sufficient, more involved in their communities, more engaged as citizens, better role models for their children and better employees."

Significant enrollment totals were posted in workforce education and family literacy. Workforce education programs enrolled 51,388 employees and served more than 900 employers. Family literacy, in which parents and their children learn together, climbed to 4,397 enrollments. More than 11,000 students took advantage of online courses through www.kyvae.org.

Council President Tom Layzell praised the county programs for what he called remarkable success.

"This is a significant achievement for our state and a remarkable success for the county providers who endeavor everyday to meet the needs of their communities," he said.

The foundation for this success was the Adult Education Act of 2000 that created a partnership between Kentucky Adult Education and the Council on Postsecondary Education. The partnership was strengthened in July 2003 by the organizational transition of Kentucky Adult Education from the Cabinet for Workforce Development to the Council on Postsecondary Education.

Murray man charged in sex-related crime

Staff Report
Murray Ledger & Times

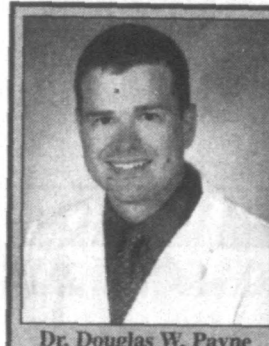

A Murray man will appear in court again later this month on a sex-related charge involving a minor.

Timothy Davenport is scheduled for a preliminary hearing at 10 a.m. Nov. 16 in Calloway District Court. His attorney, Rick Lamkin, appeared in district court Tuesday morning for pre-trial conference on his behalf, a court spokeswoman said.

Davenport is charged with use of a minor in a sexual performance. A Calloway County Sheriff's Department deputy arrested him at his Murray Paris Road home Sept. 18.

"An Old Fashioned Murray Christmas Parade"

The Murray Rotary Club invites you and your group to participate in our annual Christmas Parade on Saturday, December 4th. Community participation and support is what makes this such a unique and wonderful event. Please decorate your float or unit with a traditional, old-fashioned Christmas theme in mind.

School groups, church groups, civic organizations, bands, and music groups are invited to enter this parade. Over $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded to the first three places in three separate divisions — Church/Religious Division, Clubs/Civic Organizations, and Commercial Division.

The Rotary Christmas Parade offers your organization an excellent way to have some Christmas fun and maybe raise some money at the same time. First place prize in each division will receive $150.

Parade entrants should report for line-up at 9:00 a.m. The primary unit feeder route onto Main Street is 10th Street. However, your group will be contacted by Dec. 3rd with a unit number and line-up instructions. The parade begins at 10 a.m.
