The project of seven peace organizations, including the Women's Peace Union, the National Committee to Abolish Nuclear Weapons, and the American Friends Service Committee, is aimed at cutting the budget for nuclear arms in half. They believe that this is necessary to prevent a major war.

The project is expected to receive backing from a wide range of organizations and individuals, including labor unions, church groups, and student organizations. The organizers hope that the project will help to build a strong coalition of anti-war activists who can work together to take on the powerful military-industrial complex.

The organizers are calling on all Americans to join the project and to join the growing movement for peace and social justice. They believe that this is the only way to stop the descent into war and to build a world that is safe for all.

Turkey Tasters Get Jump On Thanksgiving Feasting

WASHINGTON, — A quartet of professional tasters, armed with a method to determine the flavor, mouthwatering turkey, are among the first to sample this year's holiday turkey. The experts of the festive fowl take part in a competition to find the best turkey of the season.

The answer is several-fold. Appearance and size are not the only factors that go into deciding the winner. Turkey breed, age, and condition are also considered.

The stuffing's different, but the preparation is the same. The turkey is cooked first, then the stuffing is added.

The stuffing is made of bread, ham, onion, and other ingredients, which are mixed well and baked until done.

may be so, but it is not always true. It is possible for a man who never enjoys anything to enjoy marriage and other happiness, even if he never enjoys anything. This may be true, but it is not always true.

The First Methodist choir rehearsed a program of music in preparation for the Thanksgiving holiday. Mrs. A. A. Baucom of Macedonia welcomed the congregation to the service, while James Reed of Water Valley was introduced as the new pastor. Mrs. J. L. Hunt, a member of the congregation, served as hostess for the evening.

The ceremony was witnessed by all members of the congregation, including Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kramer. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Oliver, who brought their children, Phyllis and Theodore, as well as other family members.

The ceremony was followed by a special dinner prepared by Mrs. Dickisson, which included turkey, stuffing, and all the traditional Thanksgiving dishes. The guests were entertained by the choir singing a selection of songs, including "Silent Night" and "Joy to the World."

The evening concluded with a game of Checker and Backgammon, provided by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kramer. The game was won by Mr. Kramer, who was declared the "champion of the day." The evening was declared a success, and the guests looked forward to the next holiday celebration.
