Hickman Man Held In Death Of Union City Woman Friday

Richard Williams, 26, of Hickman, was arrested by Sheriff A. G. Wynne Saturday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Alice Carter Sampayan, 31 year old mother of two children, who accompanied Williams on a prolonged drinking party Thursday and Thursday night of last week. Williams was released under $500 bond after questioning.

The woman was found early last Friday morning in Williams' car, with her neck broken. The car was mired in a side road off the Hickman-Union City highway, the officer said. Williams is said to have come to the sheriff's home to report the death of the woman.

Williams is alleged to have said: "After the car got stuck and I could get it out, we went to sleep. When I woke up she was dead." Under questioning Williams denied that he had struck the woman. His case will come at the May term of circuit court.

Mrs. Sampayan's two children, Margaret, Union City junior high school student and Patricia, fourth grade student at Union City Central school, had gone to school when they received word of the death of their mother. She had no other relatives in Union City.

Mrs. Sampayan's first husband was a Mr. Carter, who died from tuberculosis a number of years ago. She later married Rupert Sampayan, a Filipino, whom she met in St. Louis. The couple had been separated for some time, and he is now in the Philippines.

Mrs. Sampayan was born in Henderson County, Tenn., the daughter of Will and Birdie Mayfield Lovell. Besides her children she leaves her parents, who reside at Tiptonville; three sisters, Mrs. John Dean, Mrs. Maude Markbanks and Mrs. Robert Phillips, and a brother, Herman Lovell, all of Tiptonville.

Williams was recently discharged from the army.

Counter Petitions Seek And Block Commission Form Of Government

Aroused Citizens Protest Move To Change City Government.

Two contending forces have been recent weeks, and one group recently circulated a petition asking the Tennessee state legislature to pass an enabling act so that a commission form of government would prevail over the present mayor and council type.

South Fulton residents were asked to express their sentiments in the matter to Senator Charles Fields and Representative George Cloys, members of the Tennessee legislature. Letters, telegrams and telephone calls poured into Nashville.

Results seemed to indicate Thursday that no change will be made in the form of government, for a later petition bearing the names of hundreds of voters and taxpayers in South Fulton who oppose a change was sent to Fields and Cloys.

J. H. Lowe, present mayor, was appointed by the council, after D. A. Rogers resigned. Mr. Lowe had previously served as mayor of So. Fulton in 1935-1939. The next regular city election will be held on Tuesday, December 2, 1947.

TIDBITS

A FEW GENERATIONS

When you stop to think of it, none of us an dour families have been long in America. Even the F. F. V. and the Mayflower descendant do not have to exhaust the most elementary arithmetic to find the family back in the Old Country. Last night as I was composing myself to sleep, it occurred to me for the first time how short a time ago my own family came to America, even though it used to seem a very long time. About 1760 David Wilson and his twelve sons and one daughter landed in Pennsylvania and soon after them in North Carolina. There they lived until the Revolutionary war was over, and then the large family found its way into Tennessee in 1786. There it remained, so far as my line is concerned, until after the Civil War, when my father "came out to Kentucky," as they used to say. Now that may seem rather far back, but my great-uncles and great-aunts, who lived down until I was grown, knew the first American-born member of the clan, their grandfather, Jonathan. In fact, my own great-grandfather, born in 1799, died just the year before I was born, so that all my older brothers remembered him well. Boiled down, that means that some of the oldest people people whom I knew could very well have known my great-great-grandfather or even, probably his father.

This is no effort on my part to impress the D. A. R. or the S. A. R., even though two of my great-great-grandfathers were twin brothers and Continental soldiers. It is just another way of seeing how short has been the time, even since 1760. Viewed rationally in present-day terms, it is like my being able to tell my grand-daughter in a few years that I knew and knew well a man who was born in 1811 and that he lived so long that I wrote his death notice for our county paper. That is, he was older than three of my own grand-parents and would have the same relation to my grand-daughter as the first of the clan had to me, so far as time is concerned. You who are now mature will see how close we are to the pioneers. And that makes me wonder all the more at the enormous number of things that have occurred within the memory of some long-lived person whom I have known and the oldest person he may have known. From the most primitive pioneer conditions through the Revolution, through the westward expansion, through the slavery troubles and the Civil War, through the rounding out of our country to the west, through the two great World Wars—there is a span for you. It is no wonder, then, that there are customs that have had trouble in dying and disappearing in our country. From tallow candles to electric lights is my own little range of memory; when my parents were born, we still did not have the great Southwest; my daughter was born near the close of World War I; my grand-daughter, in the midst of World War II. If only we had lived in the same place throughout this period of nearly two hundred years in America, I might seem as near to David and his son Jonathan and grand-son Marquis de Lafayette as I do to the second Jonathan, my grandfather, and the second Marquis, my father.

Somehow we expect people to differentiate rapidly in our new land. It is startling to see very distant cousins in some families that resemble almost as much as brothers. The variety called Wilson or Jones or Brown is hardly of the same validity as Brown Leghorns, or Duroc Jerseys or Aberdeen Angus, but a physical feature of prominence, like a bold nose or sandy hair or lantern jaw, sometimes gets fixed and remains age after age, so that Sandy may be as good a name for the seventh generation in America as it was for the last one before the family left Scotland or northern Ireland. Of course, it is hardly fair to say that ascertain cut of thinking may be transmissible, but if the transmitter were a Presbyterian Scotch-Irishman, even the laws of biology concerning transmitted characteristics might break down. It is a safe bet that many of us could get lost in our ancestral homes on the other side of the water and soon be recognized as members of the ancient clan. After we have been here a few hundred more years, we might talk more sensible about how we have changed, but not yet.

Lexington Herald, former president of the Kentucky Press Association and present secretary of the National Association of Racing Commissioners, was going to be his campaign manager. I like Earl and I like Tom, his dad was editor of my home-town paper when I was growing up. He taught me the first principles of journalism, the Power of Truth; and he also taught me volley ball and the meaning of sportsmanship. He was not interested in power or wealth or the wielding of influence, but in the wielding of right as he saw it, and the suppression of evil as he interpreted it. I went to school under his aunt, Miss Sally Moss, the greatest teacher I have ever known.

I also know Harry Lee Waterfield, Earl's opponent who is going to announce in the near future. I like Harry. I saw Harry and Henry Ward carry on the fight for TVA in the Kentucky House of Representatives, advocate the building of County Roads, and better teachers pay. I know Harry is sincere. Iowa.

These things complicate the situation for me and for a lot of other voters in Kentucky. Is it going to be a campaign of Free Enterprise against monopoly as Earl's friends might say, or Power Trust against the TVA according to Harry's friends; and what part will the Jockey Club take and how will that affect the proposed tax on parimutuel betting. All of these questions will be discussed and debated over Kentucky this spring and summer, and the voters will decide and make their choice in August.

There has been much talk and some agitation over a proposed ticket of Young Democrats, all war veterans, to be chosen, one from each of the nine Congressional districts. They would tour the state by bus and all advocate the same platform. Milton Whitworth of Elizabethtown, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky, believes such a ticket would bring new blood with more liberal and progressive ideas into the party. Bill Natcher of Bowling Green has been mentioned as the candidate for Governor with Whitworth for Attorney General.

Attorney General Eldon Dummit announced as a candidate for governor in the Republican primary. Dummit a veteran of the first war a graduate of the University of Kentucky, former commander of the state American Legion, and president of Optimists International has been active and held offices in many other Civic and National organizations. His announcement was an astute political move and may get him the backing of Governor Willis and J. O. Jett. Ross Todd of Louisville against Lieutenant Governor Tuggle who has the support of Congressman John M. Robison of the ninth district. Dummit has a large and as yet unorganized following in the state and could get a lot of votes that would otherwise go to Tuggle. If the state organization put some other candidate in the field it would make a three way race and the ninth might put Tuggle in. By backing Dummit the state organization could have a united front, then too, Dummit knows and would be better able to carry out Governor Willis' philosophy of government.

H. L. Hardy, Jr., preached at the Columbus Baptist Church last Sunday morning and evening. He was filling in for the Rev. Edgar Mayfield, pastor.

There is nothing respecting which a man may be so long unconscious, as of the extent and the strength of his prejudices. Jeffrey.

Politics, a word with so many meanings and so many interpretations in Kentucky. Webster's definition: "Of or pertaining to Civil Government, political, sagacious in promoting a policy; ingenious in statecraft; also, of measures, plans, etc., shrewdly contrived, especially with regard to self-interest." That is Webster and this is Kentucky.

PALESTINE HOME-MAKERS

Advantages of cooking in pressure cooker pans was discussed in the Foods lesson given by Mrs. J. H. Lawrence to Palestine Home-makers Club which met February 21 in her home on Maple-av in Fulton. The pressure pan not only saves time and fuel for the home-maker but more of the natural food value is retained than in the use of ordinary vessels for cooking.

Mrs. W. P. McClanahan, president, presided. For the devotional Mrs. Hillman Collier read Luke 6th chapter and a poem The Golden Rule.

During the business session Mrs. Leslie Nugent tendered her resignation as secretary-treasurer. The club elected Mrs. Mac Burrow to fill her place.

Mrs. Margaret Davidson read a note of thanks from Mrs. J. O. Lewis on behalf of her family for the tribute from the club of Mrs. E. A. Thompson. Mrs. Davidson also read a tribute of Mrs. Anna Sigman, another club member who has passed away.

Landscape note from N. R. Elliott, University of Kentucky, were distributed by Mrs. Roy Bard as

Mrs. A. M. Browder was absent. Mrs. Gus Browder gave some outstanding facts about Cuba—the American sugar bowl. Some things mentioned were that Mahogany and Teakwood are found in Cuba and that there is a thistle or shrub that destroys some of the sugar cane which has not been controlled yet.

Mrs. Harvey Pewitt directed the recreational program which consisted of the songs, Morning Comes Early and Waltzing Matilda, an Australian song and a quiz on nicknames of the Nation's states.

Miss Amelia Browder sang an Irish lullaby which completed the program.

Mrs. McClanahan, president, gave information about the date and the place for people who desire to have their houses sprayed with DDT to come and sign up on Feb. 27 and get complete information.

The menu for the lunch carried out the ideas given in the foods lesson for the day.

Twenty six members and three visitors Mrs. Lucy Jones, Fulton; Miss Amelia Browder, Oak Ridge Tenn., and Mrs. Elbert Johns of Paducah attended the meeting.

45,000 FARMERS ARE MEMBERS KENTUCKY FARM BUREAU GROUPS

There are now 45,000 farm family members of the Kentucky Farm Bureau, says Lewis F. Allen, Bowling Green, president. This is an increase of 16,000 over Jan. 1, 1946.

The membership is scattered over 106 counties, leaving 14 eastern Kentucky counties unorganized. A number of these are now in the process of being organized.

Several of the larger counties already have more than 1,000 members, and many have in excess of 500. Thirty counties finished 1946 with more than 500. Five years ago only 75 were organized and membership totaled 14,911.

According to the best information now available, the present membership puts Kentucky in 12th place in the nation. The first of the year the organization was fourteenth in size.

Mr. Allen declared that it now looks like the goal of "50,000 members in 1947" will be easily passed. Growth of affiliated organizations has surpassed that of the Federation percentage-wise, Allen said, pointing out that the volume of business handled by the Farm Bureau Auto Insurance Company had almost tripled since last September.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

"Are our cities going broke?"

That question is pondered by a current publication which examines into what it calls "a rapidly developing financial crisis" in our cities, and goes on to show that municipal governments on every side, are going on the rocks.

And while we are on this subject, there are many cities in this vicinity that are faced with critical financial difficulties. Incidentally, Fulton is numbered among them.

Operating the city of Fulton on its present income is a headache. Then there is the disadvantage of not having a cash reserve on hand in case of emergency. Most governments are living above their means and paying the way for an even bigger headache.

We are of the opinion now that the City of Fulton made a mistake when it failed to install parking meters. And, we venture to say, that the time will come when those who cried out the loudest against them, will endorse them if the issue should come up again.

Logically, there are two reasons for the parking meters. First, and foremost, they control downtown parking, and make it possible for traffic to keep moving. They permit other motorists an opportunity to park near the store where they wish to shop.

If you doubt the logic of this statement, just keep a check on the cars that park in the business district and remain there most of day. Then watch the cars circle around looking for a place to park.

Several changes could be made downtown to improve traffic conditions. Center parking should be taken out of Lake Street. This is the busiest street in town, and carries traffic from two national highways. This route must be freed of center parking or the day will come when traffic will be routed "around" Fulton. Please bear this in mind, and check with your state highway department and you will find plans are being made along this line already.

Fulton needs more interstate highway traffic, not less. Travelers leave many thousand dollars in our city every year, and the figures will grow larger when more cars and trucks become available, and people begin to traveling about in the new cars.

Fulton could have better parking and traffic control, and safer streets with parking meters. The added revenue will aid in keeping the city out of the pauper list.

THE HIGH COST OF TAXES

It is one of the ironies of our complex industrial civilization that James D. Mooney, who doesn't have to worry about buying a car has to tell the millions of car-purchasers how much they pay in taxes when they buy one.

As president of Willys-Overland Motors, Mr. Mooney gets his car from his own assembly line, yet he takes time out in a signed article in the current issue of Collier Weekly to abhor the hidden taxes we pay in buying a car.

We're going to delay telling just how much these taxes amount to—merely to take time to retell a few of the things that Mr. Mooney shouts about.

One gripe is against the lack of economy in our "Federal house-keeping." He points out that the civilian employees of the Government have increased fourfold in 11 years and the taxes paid by the average American have jumped from $25 to $300 yearly.

But Mr. Mooney's gripe against our high tax rate—a rate which he claims has "over-priced the tax market." What he means is this: High taxes, such as we pay on cars up the prices of consumer goods to where they discourage purchases, cut the volume of production and create unemployment.

He calls for a reduction of taxes to bring about a reduction in retail prices and to stimulate purchases, production and employment. "If the 38 per cent tax on corporate incomes were reduced to 20 per cent," he asserts, "the Government would actually get more money" through the sale of more products.

This contention is not devoid of logic. Congress should certainly explore the subject and find out how we can pay the revenue needed in the least painful way.

Now, if you're not disturbed by your tax burden, ponder over the amount of tax you pay when you buy a car. Mooney points out that there are 206 taxes on parts used in building the engine, the body and the chassis. Of a $1200 car, these taxes total $300.

THE RIGHT TO WORK

As debate in Congress over proposed labor legislation wears on, it becomes evident that decisive action must be taken to outlaw three practices which have given a few labor leaders monopolistic powers over the industries of this nation and subjected the right of a man to earn a living to their none-too-tender mercies.

First, is the closed shop. The closed shop means that you cannot work unless you pay a private organization, the union, for this basic right of a free man. Thus the right of a man to buy food and shelter and to provide for his family is involved. The closed shop "is morally incompatible with a system of government which guarantees the freedom of the individual and it is no longer necessary for the protection of unionism."

Second, is the closed union. This is a vicious extension to the closed shop idea, whereby a man cannot join a union if he chooses. A privileged group says, in effect: "only those of our choosing may be employed in this trade or craft."

Third, is industry-wide bargaining. This is designed to bring union power to a new, monopolistic high. One big union signs agreements with all or practically all, of the producers of a product. Then, if the union head decides to call a strike, all production of that product stops as of a given moment. Soft coal is a striking example. At the word of one man, representing 400,000 workers a commodity which is vitally necessary to the operation of industry, the employment of millions of people, and the public health and welfare itself, can be denied the nation—regardless of the suffering that must result.

The closed shop is the first of these abuses—all the others depend upon it. Unionism grew great in this country because the unions of ferred workers services which they needed and were willing to pay for. Now unionism demands the right to levy an involuntary tax on all workers under penalty of denying him employment. No private organization should be allowed such powers. We have reached the point where the right of a man NOT to join a union must be protected, no less than his privilege to join if he wishes.

Governments exist for the benefit of peoples and when they fail to serve the people, they should be replaced.

HOW THE "Main Line" Earns a Dollar

76 3/4% OF IT ... comes from handling freight. Last year the Illinois Central carried some 70 million tons an average distance of 263 miles. Which is the same as hauling a train carrying 736 tons of freight a thousand times around the earth. This was done at a cost to users averaging less than a penny a ton a mile.

More than one-third of the Illinois Central's total freight tonnage was coal, the fuel that keeps so many of this nation's citizens warm and powers the production of most of their wealth.

Manufactures and miscellaneous freight made up another 25 per cent; agriculture, animals and animal products 16 per cent, and forest products 11 per cent.

Freight such as this is the lifeblood of business, industry and home life in America. Our first obligation is to keep it moving.
