Murray board sends proposal to Calloway

By KRISTIN TAYLOR Staff Writer

Murray Independent Schools Board of Education wants to preserve school choice with a proposal that almost mirrors an original suggestion outlined in a letter from Calloway County Schools three months ago.

Murray's board unanimously approved the non-resident contract proposal for 2005-06 after an executive session Thursday night. The proposal was to be delivered to Calloway County Schools Superintendent Steve Hoskins today.

"Kids who are already here can stay and their siblings can come," Murray school board attorney Chip Adams said of the proposal. "The employees will be taken care of. And the students who live outside can still come, but there will be a financial burden the board is willing to accept."

According to the proposal from Murray, it would receive average daily attendance money for certain students living in the Calloway County school district but attending city schools who are already enrolled for the 2004-05 non-resident contract, siblings of students included in the existing contract and children whose parents are full-time employees of Murray schools.

The proposal also says Murray will release ADA money to Calloway for any students who live in the city district but are enrolled in Calloway schools. The ADA money amounts to about $3,222 per students, but that's only about half of what it takes to educate a child, Murray Independent Reid said.

on the average daily attendance, which would be affected by a change in the non-resident ADA contracts, which allow the districts to receive money from the state for the students who are attending schools outside their home districts.

"We thought it important to carefully consider all options that will ensure both school districts are able to provide quality education as well as preserve our community's tradition of allowing families to practice school choice," Murray school board member Jean Masthay said after Thursday's meeting.

Hoskins proposed the same criteria for Calloway to release ADA money to Murray in a letter to Reid dated Sept. 24. But that letter also said the proposal was for the 2004-05 school year and subsequent school years.

Reid said Thursday night the board couldn't agree to it then because it was for subsequent

The letter also included a sentence saying without acceptance a less generous offer would follow. "Once withdrawn, this generous compromise settlement offer will no longer reflect the position of the Calloway County Board of Education in these negotiations and our next offer will be, in all likelihood, much less generous," Hoskins

Hoskins was out of the office this morning and did not return phone messages by presstime today.

Murray received the next proposal on Oct. 18. Calloway then said it would only release ADA money to Murray for students already, enrolled, siblings of those students and children of employees if the districts entered into agreements for both See Page 2 school years at the same time. The proposal also said those conditions would only be honored if no additional Calloway students enrolled in Murray. Students from Murray were still welcome to enroll in Calloway, according to that proposal.

Calloway officials have said achieving a balance between the number of non-resident students attending each district is the goal in overhauling the agreement that has been in place for more than two decades. More than 400 students are leaving Calloway County to go to Murray, and about 200 are going from Murray to the county, according to officials from both districts.

The ADA money was threatened if the districts did not have an agreement to send to the Kentucky Department of Education by Nov. 1. The Calloway board approved a contract for 2004-05 at a specialcalled meeting Oct. 23.

Calloway agreed to release ADA funds to Murray for the students living in the county distreit but attending city schools, allowing both districts to keep their respective non-resident money. ADA funds currently amount to a combined $1.9 million for the two districts about $1.2 million for Murray and another $700,000 for

"The original proposal that Calloway offered to us on Sept. 24 would have been acceptable to me at that time had their stipulation of us agreeing to two years had not been added," Murray board Vice Chair Jerry Duncan said Thursday. "We also were not give proper notification for us to act on in a reason-

Santa Project is underway

By JOHN WRIGHT Staff Writer

The quick action of donors will be of high importance for the 16th Annual Santa Project in Murray and Calloway County this year.

The project, which allows children of low-income families of both the Murray Independent and Calloway County school districts to have Christmas gifts, has been in motion since early October but traditionally begins hitting its stride in early December. That was the case last year, when things accelerated dramatically after a fairly slow start and resulted in approximately 1,000 children from infants to high school-age being served.

This year, though, the deadline comes earlier than usual -Dec. 17 - coinciding with the end of the first semester for both districts. "And that does not leave us a lot of time to get everything ready," Calloway County Family Resource Center Director Michelle Hansen, whose district opened its Santa's Workshop, headquarters for that district's donations along with those of Murray's head start program, at Murray State University's Gymnasium Wednesday.

"Last year, we did have more time, because the schools let out for Christmas break later, so we are needing people to bring their donations in a little quicker this time, if they can," she said.

"Now, in the event of a family having a catastrophic situation such as a fire, after the 17th, we would definitely open it back up to make sure everything was taken care of for them."

Murray resource center director Opal "Tootie" Oakley said, from what she has seen so far, contributions are running about the same pace as last year, which is a positive in that the district is on track to have around the same amount of children involved approximately 300.

'And it does seem as if every year we keep adding numbers, which you wish did not have to happen," Oakley said. "In a perfect world, everybody would be able to receive a gift from Santa, but we all know that's just not the case. That's why this is so important, and it does make sense for (the resource centers) to do this. We know the children that are in need.

"But you know what the biggest thrill is? It's seeing people we've helped who, on the following Christmas, come forward and say they'll be a sponsor for this," she added. "That's how you know how much this means to those people."

Donations can be made either by taking toys and other items directly to the collection centers or by sponsoring children via Angel Trees that are stationed at a pair of Murray locations, Big Lots and the Wal-Mart SuperCenter. Union Planters Bank also has a donation box available at its downtown location. Monetary donations are also welcome.

The Angel Tree program offers donors a chance to sponsor one or more children. Families and their needs, on an anonymous basis, are displayed on cards on a large tree and donors pick cards from the tree, then shop to meet the requests specified on the cards.

Volunteers are also welcome, particularly at the Breshear location, where donated items are placed into boxes, making for easier delivery. Anybody wanting to volunteer at Breshear can call 762-2294. Oakley can be reached at MMS at 753-5125.

Also, Hansen said that donations can be made after the Dec. 17 deadline, which will allow the project to establish a base for the following year. She said those items are placed into storage, and said some years have seen toys donated as late as mid-

The 2005-06 contracts must be in Frankfort by Feb. 1.

"We have two very viable and high-achieving school districts in Calloway County and I want to do everything I can to preserve the quality of education in both systems," Reid said. "We don't want to split up families or even necessarily neighborhoods. We want to do what is right for the parents and the students of the community."

Both school board are scheduled to meet in regular session Thursday.

County OKs CHA Health plan

By JOHN WRIGHT Staff Write

These days, it is not often that an organization has a positive feeling about health insurance costs. Yet, though they would not be experiencing a dreamy drop in price, members of the Calloway County Fiscal Court were also not singing the blues after a special meeting in which county government approved a plan by CHA Health Thursday afternoon.

and Joe Oscar is the Tiger Den Leader.

That is because the plan involves something not previously available - choice.

"We're going to have a basic plan but also a second plan, and we can let our people choose which one they want. So, we're pretty well pleased with that," said Judge-Executive Larry Elkins, noting that one of the plans actually offers a decrease in premium price from last year, though it offers less services than one that will cost around $15 more.

"I think this is the best we added. "I also think this shows that our employees should realize that the decisions they make affect what we have to do. Making wise decisions pays. off."

Greg McNutt of McNutt Insurance presented the bids offered by three companies -Anthem Blue Cross, Bluegrass and CHA, which was the incumbent company. He said the competition shown by the other companies got the attention of CHA, which actually was able to lower the price on the most expensive of its options from its original renewal price.

Wilhelm, Andrew Oscar, Travis Tucker, Justin Wilhelm, Zachary Vasterling, Dusty Miller, Alex Burch, Cody Hart & Ethan Vasterling. Ian Cherrie is the Cubmaster

> And even though some of the other companies were offering lower premiums, McNutt said the fact CHA was willing to work with Calloway was something that could not be ignored.

To turn and head in another direction at a time like this is not the best thing to do, especially when a company is showing it wants to work with you. I think that has to be respected," he told the gathering at the Calloway courthouse. "We're also in the second year of having a good renewal, and that comes after four or five years where these meetings were not all that much fun to attend."

In a stretch from 1999 to 2003, in fact, the fiscal court oversaw insurance plans that ould've come up with," he increased by 50 to 60 percent each year. A lot of that, though, could not be controlled, due to a variety of reasons, including longterm illnesses to some employees. Those circumstances served to lower the number of companies willing to compete for the county's as a client.

Now, McNutt said, with a company showing it is willing to work with Calloway, staying with it now can help bolster relations for the future.

Parade prompts traffic

By JOHN WRIGHT Staff Writer

Those planning to visit Murray Saturday may want to take into account some traffic

With it marking the first Saturday of December, that means the annual Rotary Club of Murray Christmas Parade will be commencing at 10 a.m., and that can affect travel plans, depending on where one intends to go.

City Administrator Don Elias, however, says officials are trying to stay ahead of the game in lowering the amount of confusion.

"We try to place detour signs in a way where drivers can know they need to make changes well before they enter the areas where the parade will be happening," said Elias, who said city personnel will use that philosophy when it comes to barricading the parade route of Main Street that runs from 10th to Fourth streets.

"We usually just go ahead and try to block it off from 12th Street down to around Industrial Road. And we find that also helps us in case we have large trucks trying to go down those roads," he said. "Usually, though, we have found that not to be a real problem at that time of day, and it also helps that this is on a Saturday when that kind of traffic normally is not as heavy anyway."

Elias said Fourth Street's setup allows for an easier out for motorists as its intersection with Chestnut Street provides direct access to Industrial Road and Ky. 94 East, as well as other southside streets around the parade portion of Main.

"Fourth Street really is the main area of concern for us, because that is a road that actually goes through the parade route. That's why we have detour sign's placed around Sycamore Street (south of Main) and Chestnut (north), to give people a lot of time to know that they are going to have to make a change," Elias said, noting the barricades will not be put in place until just before the start of the parade.

"We do want to give people as much time as possible to get to where they're going before the parade, so we try to keep it open as close as we can to the start," he said. "What has helped us, though, is that the public has always responded real well to this, and it seems everybody is accustomed to it."

Bush taps former head of NYPD as next homeland security chief

WASHINGTON (AP) -Former NYPD commissioner Bernard Kerik, who helped rally New York City's police force and its citizens following the Sept. II terror attacks, is President Bush's pick to run the Homeland Security Department.

But Bush is losing his ambassador to the United Nations, John Danforth, who has submitted his resignation and plans to retire after serving as a troubleshooter for Democratic and Republican presidents alike. Danforth, a former Republican senator from Missouri, served less than six months in the post.

Bush was formally announc-ing the Kerik selection on Friday, a senior administration official said.

Bush on Thursday also announced that Nebraska Gov. Mike Johanns, 54, was his choice as the next agriculture secretary, replacing Ann Veneman.

As Bush lines up his secondterm team, seven members of his 15-member Cabinet have submitted their resignations.

Another departure, by Health and Human Services Secretary Thompson, Tommy appeared to be near.

The 49-year-old Kerik's path to the top homeland security position, where he will replace Tom Ridge, was unconventional, but he campaigned arduously for Bush this year.

A military policeman in South Korea in the 1970s, Kerik's first anti-terrorism work was as a paid private security worker in Saudi Arabia. He joined the New York Police Department in 1986, first walking a beat in Times Square when it was still a haven for smalltime hustlers.

He eventually was tapped to lead the city's corrections department, and was appointed police commissioner in 2000.

It was in that position that he became known to the rest of the country, supervising the NYPD's response to the Sept. 11, 2001, terror attacks, often at the side of then-mayor Rudolph

25 Years of Main Street

At year's end as we at the Kentucky Heritage Council wind down celebrations honoring the 25th anniversary of the Kentucky Main Street Program, it's worth noting that all buildings tell a story, about the time when they were built, what they were used for, how our concepts of design and functionality

By David L. Morgan Kentucky

Guest Voice changed * and how all of these things have Heritage played a part Council Exec. Dir. in the larger history of our communities. Nothing demonstrates this more clearly than the historic buildings that line main streets across Kentucky.

Since the early days of the settlers, main street has been where citizens have purchased goods, transacted legal matters, arranged transportation or gathered for community events. The historical setting for these activities is reflected in the buildings that remain.

Today, through the efforts of the Kentucky Main Street Program, downtowns throughout Kentucky continue to serve as viable, central business cores where historic places are a vital part of daily life. Kentucky Main Street is the oldest statewide main street program in the nation, founded in 1979 and based on a four-point approach developed by the National Main Street Center of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. This year Kentucky Main Street celebrates its 25th anniversary with record-breaking participation by more than 100 communities.

This number reflects that there is a strong interest in a "return to center" - a movement toward civic revival and an interest in preserving and adapting the historic elements of our communities to meet current needs. In fact, each community admitted into the Kentucky Main Street Program has made a long-term commitment toward revitalizing its downtown and ensuring a vibrant future. This fits perfectly with the silver anniversary slogan that Kentucky Main Street Managers have adopted in telling their own stories: "Old Buildings = New Opportunities." So it is not coincidental that both the Main Street Program and main streets across the state - are thriving. For a quarter of a century, the Kentucky Main Street Program has fostered creative public-private partnerships among local governments; downtown revitalization organizations, property owners and individuals to promote economic investment in downtowns. By extension, this investment has encouraged the recycling of historic buildings and utilization of infrastructure already in place, creating a halo effect that has generated additional investment in nearby neighborhoods.

Nowhere has the Main Street Program shown its cohesion and grassroots efficiency more effectively than its mobilization to make and keep Kentucky the Number One state in Preserve America, a White House initiative spearheaded by First Lady Laura Bush, who came to Louisville in April to recognize 32 Kentucky Preserve America Communities for being among the first to be designated. Since then, 14 additional Kentucky communities have been honored for a total of 46, far outdistancing other states not only in number but distinctiveness.

The Kentucky Heritage Council and Preservation Kentucky, the statewide nonprofit preservation organization, solicited community designation applications from participating Kentucky Main Street cities, to be submitted as a group - the goal being to recognize local preservation efforts and help maximize the impact that so many Kentucky Main Street communities are having individually and as a network.

Equally exciting, many Kentucky and southern Indiana communities took center stage in late September when the National Trust for Historic Preservation hosted its 2004 National Preservation Conference in Louisville. The conference is the premier educational and networking event for preservation topics of interest to community leaders, preservation advocates and professionals, and individuals interested in preservation challenges and solutions. It was also an incredible opportunity for Kentucky to showcase the unique heritage of our communities to the rest of the nation, and I am proud to say we did Historic preservation is more than just "saving old buildings." Buildings tell stories, and they also set the backdrop for stories yet to be told. But buildings must be used, and have life, and be adapted for changing times and circumstances. In doing so we must be careful to preserve their historic fabric as well as the cultural landscapes that give them context and meaning. Doing so has a demonstrable economic impact for our communities, and from a personal standpoint, contributes to our sense of place and quality of life - no matter where we live.

An agency of the Kentucky Commerce Cabinet, the Kentucky Heritage Council is responsible for the identification, protection and preservation of historic and cultural resources throughout the Commonwealth, in partnership with other state and federal agencies, local communities and interested citizens. This mission is integral to making communities more livable and has a far-ranging impact on issues as diverse as economic development, jobs creation, affordable housing, tourism, community revitalization, environmental conservation and quality of life.

MoveOn moves on

By BETH FOUHY

Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -After President Bush won reelection, many political observers expected MoveOn.org to move into retreat. The sentiment surrounding the liberal online powerhouse was neatly summed up by The Onion, a well-known satire publication, in its spoof headline: "MoveOn CurlsUp InCorner."

But on a Sunday night just two weeks after the Nov. 2 election, the group was back hosting 1,600 house parties across the country where some 18,000 members gathered to vent and vote on how MoveOn should refocus after such a decisive Republican victory

"With 56 million people not signed up to the Bush agenda and the Democratic establishment in exile, people are looking for ways to move in another direction," said MoveOn founder Wes Boyd. "In the current circumstances, we are more needed than ever."

Just a year ago, the Berkeley, Calif.-based MoveOn was hailed by many as "the next big thing" in political organizing. Having won fame as the voice of the anti-Iraq war movement, MoveOn's cybercommunity of activists was gearing up to wage a high-profile battle against Bush's re-election. Armed with over $30 million raised from donors ranging from students to billionaire financier George Soros, MoveOn moved well beyond cyberspace - organizing star-studded concerts, airing television ads produced by A-list Hollywood directors and mobilizing 70,000 members to walk precincts in key battleground states.

But the efforts proved ultimately unsuccessful, and amid

Wes Boyd and Joan Blades, co-founders of MoveOn, are seen outside their Berkeley, Calif., home on in this file photo. MoveOn plans a formal announcement in the next few weeks to lay out its agenda for the coming year. In the short term, woveon's say its mission remains the same: mobilizing rapid response on issues of concern to the organization, from the Iraq war to future battles over Social Security privatization and nominations to the U.S. Supreme Court.

the inevitable postelection recriminations MoveOn came in for plenty of heat.

Republicans took aim at the group for allowing a member's proposed TV ad comparing Bush to Adolph Hitler to be briefly posted on its Web site.

Others complained that MoveOn and other so-called 527 organizations like America Coming Together and the Media Fund sometimes worked at cross-purposes with the Kerry campaign, creating a hodgepodge of confusing mes-

Still others said that while MoveOn was effective in stirring up a sense of righteous anger among hardcore Democratic partisans and antiwar activists, the message didn't necessarily resonate with swing voters.

"We got all the votes of people who were against the war - what we didn't get were the votes of people who were for the war," said Democratic consultant Bill Carrick. "Bush got the votes of people like married white women and Latinos who, despite their affinity with Democrats on other concerns, believed Bush would be stronger in the war on terror. And that wasn't really MoveOn's agenda."

MoveOn plans a formal announcement in the next few weeks to lay out its agenda for the coming year. But at the November house parties members voted to prioritize efforts to remove barriers to voting, such as requiring electronic voting machines to produce paper receipts. They also vowed to pursue ways to create a media counterbalance to right-tilting Fox News.

"Our whole approach was to take people who are online members and get them into offline activity," said Adam Ruben, MoveOn's field director. "We can get a lot done on the Internet but we know that to reach beyond the choir, there are essential parts of political activity we can't neglect."

In the short term, MoveOn's leaders say its mission remains the same: mobilizing rapid response on issues of concern to the organization, from the Iraq war to future battles over Social Security privatization and nominations to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In the long term, Boyd said the group will seek a more substantial foundation for the progressive movement, from creating think tanks to counteract the conservative Heritage Foundation and Hoover Institution to building grass roots networks that rival the Republican Party's deep ties to evangelical churches.

"People really feel like they're at the beginning of a movement rather than the end of a campaign," said political director Eli Pariser. "It's such an exciting feeling for a lot of these people, and it mitigates some of the heartbreak of the next four years."

MoveOn's many boosters say that despite the election's outcome, the group motivated voters more effectively this year than either Kerry or the Democratic Party. The group was also widely credited with its rapid reaction to news events, even launching ads renouncing the claims made by the anti-Kerry group Swift Boat Veterans for Truth before the Kerry campaign responded to those charges.

For his part, Boyd said MoveOn would always remain a "progressive, populist" organization that represents both a broad cross-section of middle America, with many members brand new to the political

"People are engaged and they've learned two things: they are very concerned about where the country is going, and that even if you lose, being involved in politics is a positive thing," Boyd said.

Reconciliation

Have you ever written someone off because you had a bad experience with them? Perhaps they said something unpleasant to you, or maybe they did something that you do not approve of. From time to time, I imagine this happens to most of us, and because we are hurt or insulted, we believe that the best thing to do is to have nothing to do with that individual. This is especially disheartening when conflicts within families result in some family members not associating with or talking to each other. Perhaps we should consider these encounters more of a learning experience rather than a parting of ways. During a disagreement it is very difficult, if not impossible, to change a person's thinking or behavior, and often they feel that we are the one being unreasonable. I am thankful that our Heavenly Father does not write us off when we do something that He does not like or approve of. God knows we are only human and subject to faults and shortcomings, yet He still keeps loving us.

Forgive whatever grievances you may have against one another. Forgive as the Lord forgave you.

PUGHTOWN, Pa. (AP) - A jury made up of United Methodist Church clergy convicted a lesbian minister Thursday of violating church law by openly living with her partner in a committed relation-

The Rev. Irene Elizabeth Stroud could be defrocked as a result of the ruling, which came on the second day of her church trial. The same 13-member jury was set to meet Thursday afternoon to decide her penalty.

Methodist law bars "selfavowed, practicing homosexuals" from ministry. Nine votes were necessary for a conviction and the jury voted 12-1 to find Stroud guilty.

The last time the 8.3 millionmember denomination convicted an openly gay cleric was in 1987, when a New Hampshire church court defrocked the Rev. Rose Mary Denman.

Last March, a Methodist court in Washington state acquitted the Rev. Karen Dammann, who lives with a same-sex partner, citing an ambiguity in church law that the Methodist supreme court has since eliminated.

Before the jury returned, Stroud, 34, told reporters that whatever the verdict, "this case has shown how divided we are'

Stroud, associate pastor at Philadelphia's First United Methodist Church, of Germantown, set the case in motion last year when she announced to her bishop and congregation that she was living in a committed relationship with her partner, Chris Paige. At her trial, Stroud's defense was dealt a blow when the presiding judge Joseph Yeakel, the retired bishop of Washington, D.C., excluded expert testimony from six defense witnesses who believe the church's gay clergy ban violates its own legal princi-

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Dec. 4, 2004:

You have an unusually imaginative side, which emerges often this year. Use your sixth sense to help you deal with others. Do not buy a computer or car this year, as you might not like your choice later. Take a strong stand professionally and become more involved in your work and/or public image. You have a way of saying the right thing at the right time. Be sensitive to others. Be sure that anyone you talk to is understanding or receiving your message. If you are single, you might tend to make someone into what you want and not look at him or her realistically. Toss the rose-colored glasses. If you are attached, make music and trips to the water more a part of your life. VIRGO can be bossy.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** Even if you have firm plans, watch them dissolve. You will have a better time anyway! Give up fighting the inevitable, and go with the flow. Tension surrounds a call or a desire to take off and a need to stay close to home. Tonight: Put your feet

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) **** Your playful personality emerges. Some might do a double take as you act like a kid again, especially if out enjoying seasonal happenings. A partner needs your attention. Schedule time for him or her in the late afternoon. Tonight: Try being a teenager in love.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

** Relax at home. Return calls, but even more important, get your long-distance cards in the mail. You cannot keep yourself cooped up for long. Join friends or a partner. Be delighted that others care so much and want you with them. Tonight: The action lands at your place.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Get errands done. Get into decorating your house. Others might want to play Santa and go off shopping. Only fatigue will stop you. Relax at home later. If possible, don't go out again. Tonight: Order in. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

*** Wherever you are, you are spending or overindulging. Do remember that there is a Nevertheless. tomorrow. whether playing Santa or hooking up with friends and enjoying eggnog, you have a wond time. Tonight: Careful. Make sure you have enough cash!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
**** You are the lead actor today. Know what you want, and make it so. If you want to do nothing, that is OK too. Just know that others will miss you and seek you out. Iron out tension at home. Talk about holiday plans. Tonight: What YOU want. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

** Hide out or vanish. You don't have to act like a mummy or ostrich, but you need some time to yourself. Sometimes you run around and get so busy, you don't really stop and think.
Relax. Screen calls. Tonight: Do nothing, if possible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

**** Focus on what you want. Certainly, whatever you do, you will be surrounded by people -- hopefully friends. Many will decide to clear out some shopping before meeting up with a friend or loved one. Tonight: Wherever you are, there is a SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.

*** Check in on an older relative. You also might need to drop in at work and clear out some additional paperwork. You will be more relaxed as a result. When you join friends or a loved one to share some holiday cheer, you won't have a care on your mind. Tonight: A force to be

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) **** You might decide to scout out a new area or shop in a new place. Enjoy the change of scenery, but also dote on yourself. Buying or doing some-thing special for the Goat would put a big grin on your face. Tonight: Get tickets to go hear some Christmas music.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) **** Deal with a partner or loved one. Realize what you want to do with this relationship. Share more of your long-term goals. Prevent friends from breaking into this very personal day. Express your caring. Tonight: Be discreet.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) **** Others dominate. You might not be able to say "no" to certain friends or invitations. Take time to buy a new Christmas outfit or to do some shopping. Drop in on an older friend or relative who might be blue. Tonight: You might crash several parties.

AARP to offer seal of ervices Offered BACKHOE & TRUCKapproval for products Septic system, gravel,

ATLANTA (AP) - AARP. the nation's largest organization of senior citizens, is testing out a plan to put its seal of approval on hardware products such as bathroom and electrical fixtures that can help older people live at home more independently.

AARP is joining forces with The Home Depot, the nation's biggest chain of hardware stores. The Atlanta-based company said it plans to start rolling out the seal of approval items in an unspecified number of its 1,835 stores by next year.

The criteria and types of products that will get the seal are still being determined, but some being considered include bath and electrical fixtures. The chain also will begin offering clinics to teach senior citizens home improvement skills.

AARP chief executive William Novelli said older Americans want things like grab bars in bathrooms, ramps and wide doorways. He said more senior citizens want to live independently and home improvement projects will help them do to go live with their children. They want to live at home," Novelli said.

Home Depot, in turn, is hoping the program will allow it to tap into the growing number of older customers.

"They are very home-oriented with significant disposable income," merchandising chief John Costello said.

Tony is a good, hardworking, straight-arrow man now, but he was foolish in his youth. When Ruth went to the blood drive, she was asked: "In the past 12 months have you slept with anyone who has ever used a needle?" She explained that yes, as a teenager, her husband had done drugs. She was told that as long as she is with Tony, she can't give blood anymore. I feel lost as a friend about what to say to help her.

Abby, Tony's drug use was more than 27 years ago. Is Ruth right that this will follow them forever and she can never give blood again? --GIFT OF LIFE GONE IN MARYLAND

Twenty years ago, on Dec. 3, 1984, thousands of people died after a cloud of methyl isocyanate gas escaped from a pesticide plant operated by a Union Carbide subsidiary in Bhopal, India. (About 4,000 people died within hours of the leak; over the years, according to the Indian government, some 15,000 people have died from effects of the gas.)

On this date:

In 1967, surgeons in Cape Town, South Africa, led by Dr. Christiaan Barnard performed the first human heart transplant on Louis Washkansky, who lived 18 days with the new heart.

DEAR ABBY: My nephew, who is also my godson, has decided to marry my youngest stepdaughter. Which side of the church should I sit on - the bride's or the groom's side? My husband and children think I should sit on the groom's side. I am afraid someone will feel hurt no matter what I do. -- BETWIXT AND BETWEEN IN FLORIDA

DEAR BETWIXT: Ask your nephew and stepdaughter where they would like you to sit and abide by their decision. The alternative would be to bring a folding chair and sit in the middle.

DEAR ABBY: With the holidays approaching, I would like to share an alternative to the traditional office gift exchange. For the past few years, we have drawn names, but instead of buying gifts, we buy toys that in some way remind us of the person whose name we have drawn. The toy can represent their hobby, their job, their personality, etc.

After exchanging the gifts at our annual Christmas party and seeing how creative our fellow workers have been, the toys are then donated to a toy

That said, my main reason for writing you is my husband was diagnosed years ago with restless legs syndrome. None of the prescribed medications was effective; he continued to be plagued every night. So, strictly on impulse, I placed a bar of soap under the bottom sheet near his legs. He has. had no symptoms for two weeks. We are ecstatic. We both now can sleep all night without awakening. Once again, we credit you with changing our lives for the better. Thank

DEAR READER: Since I first published my tip about soap and leg cramps, I have received hundreds of letters praising this technique. However, until receiving your letter -- by the way, thank you - I had not heard that soap helps patients with restless legs syndrome (RLS), a poorly understood neurological affliction marked by an uncontrollable compulsion to move one's legs in bed at night, leading to lack of sleep, exhaustion and depression. Although there are prescription drugs available to treat RLS, they are seldom 100 percent effective.

If your husband has had a favorable reaction to the soap

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 88year-old mother lives with me: She enjoys good health and I would like to keep her that

Last month, she started talking nonsense, and became aggressive and unmanageable. I thought she'd had a stroke, so I drove her to the hospital. In the ER, the doctors discovered that she had a urinary tract infection. They gave her antibiotics and within three days she was back to normal.

I'd like to know more about this disorder.

DEAR READER: When young people get urinary tract infections, they usually complain of malaise, burning on urination, frequency, and blood in the urine.

Older people do not respond this way. In contrast, they may exhibit marked cognitive and behavioral alterations, with or without an accompanying fever. Therefore, in anyone over 60 or 70 with a change in behavior, the prudent doctor should order a urine test to check for UTI. Ordinarily, patients respond very satisfactorily to antibiotic therapy.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Bladder and Urinary Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $2 to Newsletter, P.O. Box 167, Wickliffe, OH 44092. Be sure to mention the title.

4. ♦ AJ863 ♥ 4 ♦ AJ85 ♠ AQ5 1. Four clubs. An opening bid of one of a suit indicates about 12 to 21 points in high cards and distribution. Because this is a very wide range, the opener at his second turn is under a strong obligation to define the quality and nature of his hand. He does this by making a minimum rebid on a minimum hand, a maximum rebid on a maximum hand, or an in-between bid on an in-between hand. This hand — with four quick tricks and attractive distribution - is not a mum to begin with, and it rises even more in value when partner responds in clubs. Slam is now a distinct possibility, and these glad tidings are best conveyed by a jumpraise in clubs.

2. Three notrump. Here also you have values well beyond a minimum opening bid, so you leap to three notrump to indicate 18 or 19 highcard points as well as a notrump type

3. Two spades. All hands rise or fall in value as the bidding progresses. Thus, had partner responded two spades, you would have had enough for a jump to four spades. Hands that fit well rise sharply in

In the same way, hands that fit badly depreciate in value. While two clubs is a constructive response showing 10 or more points, it does not help your hand one bit - and, in fact, hurts it. All that can be done at this point is to rebid your spades and hope to hear from partner again. If he passes two spades, that is probably the best contract.

4. Two diamonds. Here the major effort is directed toward describing your 5-1-4-3 distribution. You plan to jump-raise clubs at the next oppornity and in this way spades, diamonds and clubs - identify your extra values and singleton (or void) in hearts.

Your 16 high-card points and club fit appear to justify an immediate jump-rebid of some sort, but this should be deferred until next time in the interests of painting as precise a picture of your distribution as possi-

ouisville expected to batter Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Tulane doesn't have to worry about a hurricane this week-

That leaves them free to worry about

Tulane and Louisville were supposed to play back in September, but Hurricane Ivan forced a postponement.

During the wait, Louisville (9-1) moved up to No. 7 in the nation, No. 9 in the College Bowl Series rankings, and became an offensive powerhouse.

The Cardinals are leading the nation in scoring (50 points per game) and offense (538 yards per game), and have scored 50 or more points in four straight games, something only four other college teams (Boise State this season, Oklahoma in 2003, Nebraska in 1983 and Alabama in '45) have done in the past 59 years.

"They're definitely the best we've played since Texas two years ago," Tulane coach Chris Scelfo said.

Even Louisville coach Bobby Petrino is ahead to the bowl or matching the emotionimpressed with the way his team has improved on offense since back in September, especially in their big play abili-

"Early in the year, we were struggling a little bit making big plays," Petrino said. We were being really effective and efficient moving the ball, but the big plays weren't quite coming like we had anticipated. But the last four or five games, they've really shown up, and some of that has to do with people started dropping down and playing more run defense and wanting to blitz to stop the run and then we were able to take advantage of some mismatches."

Louisville wrapped up the its third Conference USA championship since 2000 with a 70-7 victory over Cincinnati last week. With the title decided and a bowl game looming, adding a game onto a long schedule may be tough for the Cardinals. Petrino worries about the players looking al peak they had last week.

You've just got to play it when you play it," Petrino said. "I thought at the time they canceled the game, we would liked to have played them because they had a young, inexperienced quarterback. It did help us a little in our preparation for the next game because we were able to go back to the fundamentals and techniques and work with our younger kids.'

Tulane's young, inexperienced quarterback, Lester Ricard, got off to a slow start, then set school records for touchdown passes in a game and completion percentage before he was lost two games ago with a Freshman Richard Irvin came on strong as a replacement, throwing five touchdown passes in his first game and leading the Green Wave to an upset of TCU.

"I think a little more is riding on this game," Irvin said.

Tulane's Chris Bush (80) will hope to outrun the Louisville defense when the two teams meet up Saturday afternoon.

meet with Utah's Meyer

Notre Dame began its pursuit of Utah's Urban Meyer, arriving in Salt Lake City Thursday to meet with him about becoming the coach of college football's most glamorous program. A private jet with the Notre Dame logo on its tail carrying athletic director Kevin White and other school officials landed in Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -Notre Dame athletic director Kevin White took off in a private jet, flying into a cold Utah night without Urban Meyer.

The Utah coach might not be far behind, though.

The Fighting Irish officially began their pursuit of Meyer on Thursday night when White and incoming school president The Rev. John Jenkins spent several hours meeting with Meyer about taking over the nation's most storied college football program.

About the only thing that appeared in Notre Dame's way was a possible bidding war with Florida, which also reportedly sent officials to Utah on Thursday morning. Meyer met with his players Thursday and told them what schools are pursuing him, but he would not be specific when asked about the meeting. "There's too many things involved right now to have any comments," Meyer said after a practice at Utah's new indoor practice field.

As Meyer was talking, White and Jenkins were approaching Salt Lake City, where they landed around 5 p.m. MST and left about four hours later. The jet with a big "ND" logo high on the tail was parked on the tarmac while White and Jenkins were shuttled to and from the plane in an SUV with tinted windows, avoiding reporters at every stop.

The jet's presence merely confirmed what has been widely speculated since Notre Dame abruptly fired Tyrone Willingham on Tuesday: The Fighting Irish are interested in Meyer, who guided the Utes to an 11-0 regular season and is 21-2 at Utah.

"I'm sure they're going to be after him," Utah quarterback Alex Smith said. "They'd be dumb if they didn't. Who wouldn't want him?"

The Palm Beach Post, Deseret Morning News and The Salt Lake Tribune reported Friday that Notre Dame was the second suitor making a pitch to Meyer in the day.

Giants' slugger told a federal grand jury unkowningly used steroids

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Barry Bonds testified to a grand jury that he used a clear substance and a cream given to him by a trainer who was indicted in a steroid-distribution ring, but said he didn't know they were steroids, the San Francisco Chronicle reported Friday.

Bonds told the federal grand jury last year that Greg Anderson, his personal trainer, told him the substances he used in 2003 were the nutritional supplement flaxseed oil and a rubbing balm for arthritis, according to a transcript of his testimony reviewed by the Chronicle.

The substances Bonds described were similar to ones known as "the clear" and "the cream," two steroids from the Bay Area Laboratory Co-Operative, the lab at the center of the steroid scandal.

Bonds' attorney, Michael Rains, said the leak of grand jury testimony was an attempt to smear his client. Grand jury transcripts are sealed and the Chronicle did not say who showed them the documents.

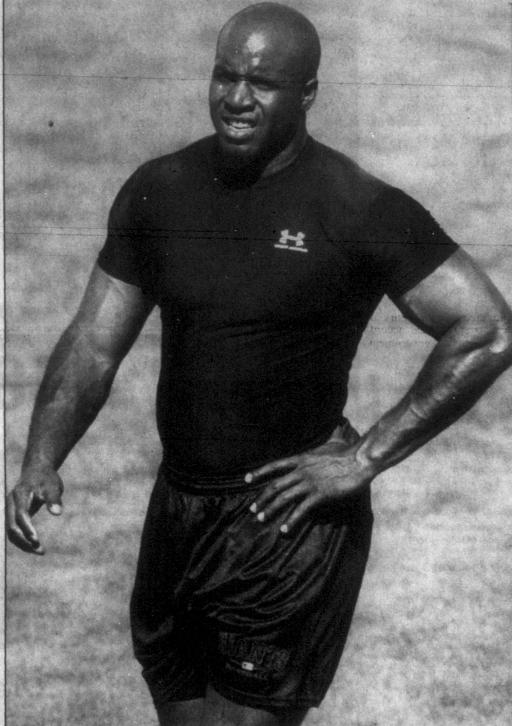

"My view has always been this case has been the U.S. vs. Bonds, and I think the government has moved in certain ways in a concerted effort to indict my client," Rains told the newspaper. "And I think their failure to indict him has resulted in their attempts to smear him publicly."

Calls to Rains' office from The Associated Press went unanswered Thursday night.

Tony Serra, Anderson's lawyer, said Anderson "never knowingly provided illegal substances to anyone."

The Chronicle story is the latest development this week in reported Friday. the more than yearlong BALCO probe. On Thursday, the paper reported Yankees slugger Jason Giambi told the grand jury he injected himself with human growth hormone in 2003 and also used steroids

Gradkowski's four TDs leads Toledo to MAC title

DETROIT (AP) - A broken hand and separated shoulder were not enough to stop Bruce Gradkowski from lifting Toledo the Mid-American Conference championship.

Gradkowski threw three of his four touchdown passes to Lance Moore, leading the Rockets to a 35-27 win over Miami (Ohio) in the MAC title game Thursday night.

When Gradkowski hurt his shoulder on the first drive, he missed only one play. He injured his throwing hand late in the second quarter, and X-rays taken at halftime showed his hand was broken. But he returned to toss three scoring passes in the second half.

"There was no way I wasn't coming back," said Gradkowski, who was 18-of-24 for 251 yards with four touchdown passes and one interception. "Nothing was going to keep me out of this game.

Moore had five receptions for 118 yards and caught three touchdown passes for the third time in his career.

The Rockets responded when they found out the extent of Gradkowski's injuries. "Everyone was like, 'Wow." Moore said. "It just made everyone want to play even harder because we're healthy and he's out there with a broken hand and
