FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1936.

NUMBER TEN.

Lake Street Land Deed Is Obtained

Negotiations were completed here last Friday by which the city of Fulton obtained a deed to land needed in a project to widen Lake Street, and also land necessary for construction of a new bridge on the Mayfield Highway in Missionary Bottom.

The city has been negotiating for this land for some time, and by securing deed to property now open the way for starting work on the two projects. A permanent easement obtained from the Illinois Central System, and a deed from Mrs. Kate Carr, places that strip of land along Lake-st in the hands of the city for widening of Lakes.

DEATHS

D. F. MERRYMAN

D. F. Merryman, 76, died Friday at 2 A. M. at the home of his son, Robert Merryman, in Memphis, following an extended illness. He was taken ill several weeks ago while visiting there. The remains were brought to Fulton Sunday, and funeral services were held at the Riceville Methodist church, with interment following at Springfield, Ky.

Deceased is survived by two sons, Frank and Ury of Fulton; Ernest of Los Angeles, Calif.; and Robert of Memphis; one daughter, Mrs. Lottie Walker of Fulton; one brother, Charlie Merryman of Dickson, Tenn.; four sisters, Mrs. Fannie Cornell, Miss Annie Merryman of Waverly, Tenn.; Mrs. B. J. Russell of Paducah, Mrs. Will Freeman of Covington; many other relatives and friends.

Mr. Merryman had resided in this community for about forty years, having formerly been employed by the Illinois Central as a foreman of the coal chute, until he was retired some eight years ago. He was a member of the Riceville Methodist church, and was active in his church duties. Besides his relatives, many friends will mourn his passing.

33 TOWNS JOIN MOVE FOR TVA

Fulton has been invited to attend two meetings in West Tennessee to speed up TVA power in this section. Thirty three municipalities of this territory will participate. The first meeting will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at Jackson. Delegates will be followed by TVA officials the following day to get the reduced cost of current, based on experimental projects, and early TVA service in Tupelo, Miss., and other cities, will be studied.

At 7 p. m. Friday the same group will assemble in the auditorium of the Martin Bank building, Martin, Tenn., to discuss the purchase of plants in the different cities owned by the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power Co. All resolutions advocating TVA power and then to communicate with executives of the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power Co. regarding the purchase. If the power company refuses, construction of plants by the cities may be recommended. A recent act of the Legislature gave Tennessee towns the right to vote revenue bonds that will not increase in bonded indebtedness.

A committee composed of Mayor George M. Brooks of Martin, Alderman D. G. Barger and R. L. Whitman, publisher of the Weakley South Fulton, Dyers, Kenton, Newbern, Obion, Wytheville, Ridgely, Martin, Greenfield, Henry, Camden, Hutington, Atwood, McKenzie, Puryear, Dresden, Sharon, Marion, Hall, Rutherford, Rives, Trimble, Troy, Hornbeak and Tiptonville.

GRAVES COUNTY

CONCLUDING SERMON ON "LOVE, MARRIAGE, HOME"

The concluding sermon in the series on "Love, Marriage and Home" will be given Sunday night at the First Baptist Church, conducted by the Rev. Woodrow Fuller. This series began the first Sunday in March, the following subjects having been discussed: "We Want to Get Married," "Finding a Wife," "Securing a Husband," and "Why Some Marriages Collapse." All of these sermons have been received by a large crowd.

The subject for the last sermon will be "Home, Our Home." The largest crowd to have attended these sermons is expected at this last one, so come early and get a seat downstairs. We are asking that every member of the family be present and be seated in groups. Bring the children. We want them in the service. The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the close of this service.

MEN OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH ENTERTAINED THURS. NIGHT

TERRACING AVAILABLE TO FULTON COUNTY FARMERS

A number of farmers in Fulton County have been interested in building terraces on some of their land for a number of years, but because of the difficulty of constructing terraces many of them have not attempted to do this work.

Now they have an opportunity to have this work done with power terracing equipment at a very reasonable cost per acre, since the Soil Improvement Association of Hickman County has just purchased a tractor and grader and wish to do terracing in Fulton County for those farmers who are interested. The Hickman County association thinks that it will be ready to work in this county about July 1st.

The cost will be $2.25 per hour for the grader and tractor and operators. This will make the cost of terracing about $1.50 per acre. The Soil Conservation camp at Clinton will survey the terrace lines and assist with building dams and outlet for terraces at no cost to the farmer.

Anyone interested should get in touch with the County Agent and make an application for this work. The Utopia Club meets at the home of Robert Thompson, Thursday night, March 19.

All wheat and barley land as well as all uncultivated land should be sowed to grass and legumes before it is too late to secure a stand since it appears that the payments from new farm program will almost pay for the seeding.

RAILROAD BUILDS NEW STOCK PENS

In order to take care of transient livestock shipped through Fulton, work was started last week on the construction of new stock pens at the New Yards just south of the Riceville overhead bridge. C. R. Collins, local freight agent states. Shipments of livestock through here, and increased local shipments, have made it necessary to build new pens to feed water them, before they go on to their destination.

It is estimated that the new pens will cost about $2,000 for construction under the supervision of J. Wade Leath, bridge and building foreman of the Illinois Central System.

JACK STOCK SCARCE

By W. S. Anderson.

KY. College of Agriculture. One of the most alarming phases of the farm work situation is the inability of breeders to find good jacks. There has been a gradual decrease in the jack stock production since 1925. The depression of 1929 swept away for the time being the demand for jacks. The owners disposed of them. Very few have been bred since 1927, and this refusal to breed them has almost resulted in ridding the State of good jacks.

The Mammoth Jack developed in America is superior as a sire for mules to any other type of jack. It seems such a loss that the superior mammoth type should become extinct or nearly so. There, perhaps, is just barely enough scattered males and females to rejuvenate the breed. If an adequate supply is produced for use in the next few years, breeders should lose no time in breeding every female of an age and quality. Could there be cooperation among breeders the supply could be obtained more quickly. Only the very superior Mammoth jacks should be used once again to replenish the much needed number.

There are not anywhere in the State such animals as "Goat Wood," Blue Grass King, Dr. McCord, or Gen. Logan. But a few well bred, good ones can be found. These should be conserved and used as freely as possible.

Recently four good jacks have been sold to go out of the State to be used for mule production. The purchasers had to pay one thousand dollars each for these excellent animals. If transportation to their new homes if good jacks command a price of $1,000 to $1,500, it seems the part of wisdom to endeavor to supply the demand which is sure to arise in the years just ahead.

In every prosperous farming community in the State there should be a jack available for service. A few of the farm mares should be bred each year so that the farm can have young mules coming on to replace the old ones; and to have an occasional mule for sale. The southern states have always bought mules from Kentucky and will continue to do so if there is an available supply.

Could farmers of a community combine and purchase a jack on a cooperative basis more mules would be mated to him, more mules would be raised. No other animal will pay the farmer better than good mule stock, or good two-year old, or good three year old mules.

GARDENING TAKES ON NEW IMPETUS AS WEATHER FAVORS

Louisville, Ky. —orable weather over the past few days in most parts of Kentucky has given added impetus to the planting of hundreds of home gardens by needy families. These gardens are being planted solely upon individual initiative and without assistance from the Federal Government. Families who previously raised gardens under the direction of the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration have been brought to realize their economic value, while the practical educational value of these projects is demonstrated.

trans is demonstrated in 1936 by home gardens wherever space is available.

In 1935 the estimated value of 7,055 relief gardens, sponsored by the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration, was $50 each or $352,750. This does not include 10,163,679 quarts of garden produce canned and preserved by housewives in relief families for winter use. At the 1935 garden program amounted to $5,863,117.90 in the way of food ultimately consumed by relief families. With passage of the 1935 Emergency Relief Act by Congress, the provision was made for the Federal Government to sponsor the gardens through the Works Progress Administration.

Consequently, and in full realization of the value of a home garden to relief clients, are taking up eagerly where the government left off. They have been educated in the methods and ways of raising their own produce. George H. Goodman, administrator, said. They are purchasing their own seeds from available funds, he said and doubtless will add to the untold value of various programs by self effort in 1936.

Mr. Goodman said Works Progress Administration officials throughout the State had been instructed to urge the planting of home gardens among all WPA workers.

CHICKENS, LIKE PEAS, DO BEST IN THE SPRING

Chickens, like peas and other crops, do best in the spring. In the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. When hatching is early enough to give the chicks a good start by hot weather, success is almost assured. Hatching is almost assured. Hatching is almost assured. Hatching is almost assured.

Green feed is an essential for young chicks. It is available more readily in spring. Early fliers sell best. Then, too, early winter eggs usually command the best price, and only pullets hatched in March or April lay well in early winter.

PRESCRIBES SIMPLE TREATMENT FOR LAWN

In response to numerous inquiries regarding lawn treatment, this spring, N. R. Elliott of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, is recommending four things: Sow 2 pounds of bluegrass seed per 1,000 square feet. Apply nitrogen-bearing fertilizer, preferably nitrate of soda, at the rate of 2 lbs. per 1,000 square feet. Broadcast the bluegrass seed is sown. Roll or tamp the lawn, as the weather and thawing of the severe winter lifted much of the grass out of the ground. Do not use seed garden rake in cleaning lawn, as this will tend to tear out the grass. Sweep the lawn or rake gently with a wooden rake.

Make Home Building Easy

Home is a little white cottage with green blinds, where love looks the door against the world, and the warm light of the open fire weaves a halo around every head. Yes, indeed.

Also, Home is a place of land which you buy after weeks of horse-trading with a real estate. Home is an expensive journey with a lawyer back through the title records. Home is a contract supposed to include everything, but which, by the time you have suggested a couple of little changes, such as a light in the front hall and some shelves over the kitchen sink, turns out to represent only a very minor part of your cost.

Home is a place where you hear the electrician who installs the door bell saying to the electrician who installs the lighting fixtures: "Do you think I am going to let you run your wires through my conduits?" A place where you hear the plumber saying to the steam-fitter: "That is my job, not yours—how do you get that way?"

Home is a place that was to be all ready for occupancy on October 1, and into which you move on February 1, first in order to get the painters out. Home is a place where every time you make the slightest improvement the tax assessor comes around and boosts your assessment.

The above remarks, intended somewhat in the spirit of good clean fun, doubtless will raise a small riot among such members of my congregation as happen to be engaged in real estate, law, architecture, contracting, or labor union management.

To all such I would say earnestly and prayerfully: "You have no idea how much more business you could do if you only would get together, work together, and iron out the hundreds of needless annoyances that now plague the builder of a home."

G-Men Give Much

In Washington recently I took occasion to pay my respects to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the G-Men. As we were friends, he gave me a little special attention, but any citizen is invited to visit the department.

Here are five million finger-prints, sent in by police departments all over the country. Some departments send only the prints of felons; others file prints of every one who comes into even the slightest conflict with the law. It has happened more than once that an offender, picked up in one city for so small a thing as running past a traffic light, has proved to be wanted in another city for a major crime.

The finger-prints never lie, and so marvelous is the system of filing them that even you or I, with a couple of hours' instruction, could locate any particular set of prints.

Of the criminals the G-Men have brought to trial in the last year, nine out of ten were convicted. The principal reason for this is that every G-Man must be either a lawyer or a charted accountant; they know how to get the kind of evidence that will stand up.

The G-Men are paid altogether too little. The total expenses of the Department last year were about four million dollars, and it collected, in fines and recoveries, more than thirty-nine millions. The wonderfully efficient and economic service of governmental employees who protect our lives and property, handle our mail and guard our health, should always be properly paid.

These unsung millions give an awful lot for the little they are paid. And right up near the top of this good list is Edgar Hoover and his G-Men.

TERRACE FARMS FOR ACRE COST OF $1.67

Last year, 40 Christian County farmers terraced a total of 1,200 acres of land as a means of controlling soil erosion, at an average cost of $1.67 per acre, according to reports of Keith Venable, assistant county agent. Christian County Soil Improvement Association, was used for the terracing work. The terraces are 20 feet or more in width and not less than 18 inches high. Christian county farmers have found terraces of this type are easily maintained, provide a maximum of protection during the period of cultivation, and interfere but little with tillage operations.

In addition to terracing their lands subject to erosion, the farmers of the soil improvement association have adopted the practices of using lime and fertilizer where needed on terraced acres to increase soil fertility. They also seeded winter cover crops to decrease leaching and have adopted cropping systems designed to increase soil fertility as well as prevent erosion.

All terraced lands planted to intertilled crops will be cultivated with rows running parallel to terrace lines to aid in conserving moisture and fertile top soil. Drainage outlet channels for removing water collected by terraces during heavy rains have been protected by sod and permanent check dams to eliminate the possibility of the formation of gullies in these outlets.

It is estimated that not less than 1,500 acres of land will be terraced in Christian county during 1936.

LASTING EFFECTS OF LIME SHOWN IN YIELD

The lasting effects of lime on soil are strikingly shown by the crop yields for the years 1932 to 1935 on the experimental field maintained by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Mayfield, by comparing the yields of two pieces of land, one of which has been treated with an average of 140 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate per acre per year, the other receiving in addition to this treatment 1.6 tons of ground limestone per acre in 1913 and 2 tons per acre in 1917. At first a four-year rotation of corn, soybeans, wheat and mixed grass and legume hay was used, but for some time, corn, wheat, and two years of mixed grass and legume hay have been used. Beginning with 1917, manure was applied to the corn ground in each case equal to the weight of the crops removed in the rotation.

For the last round of the rotation ending in 1935, the limed land has outyielded the unlimed land by 15 bushels of corn, 9 bushels of wheat, and 3.5 tons of hay per acre. At 50 cents a bushel for corn, 75 cents a ton for hay, these increases due to liming with 3.6 tons of limestone between 1913 and 1917 are worth $49.25 per acre for the four years.

The limestone was screenings of a fineness of a quarter-inch to dust, which can now be bought at reasonable prices, even with a long freight haul.

The one thing most needed in Kentucky agriculture is to treat the land so that it will produce a vigorous growth of grasses and legumes, which makes longer grazing of nutritious pasture and provides nutritious hay, both of which reduce the amount of grain needed for livestock. This means plowing up less land. Furthermore, if a good sod is plowed for corn, it is productive and the acreage for needed corn is further reduced. The best tobacco is produced following fertile sods. Kentucky's two major sources of income, the livestock industry and tobacco production, are most economically conducted upon the basis of soil management practices that best improve soils and protect them against erosions.

AGRICULTURE

The farmer, like everyone else, felt the pinch of the years of the depression. But he has experienced many things during that period, which have shown him the road back to sounder and saner farming methods.

The South, being dependent upon agriculture almost wholly for income, felt the pressure of low prices paid for the farmers' produce long before the industrial centers of the East and North were stricken by bankruptcy and factory shut-downs. But when the tide of better times started flowing in, and the farmer was looked to as the savior of our country, it was the agricultural sections of the United States that first felt relief from the depression.

In Fulton county we have a farm bureau organization that has as its members representative farmers, who are seeking ways and means of improving the farmers' lot by concentrated effort and co-operation. Agriculture is looking up in this territory.

Poultry, dairying and livestock raising are constantly growing. Hatchers all over the country are unable to supply demands for baby chicks. Breeding of thorough-bred stock is increasing. Due to an unusual shortage in mules, good jacks for breeding purposes are selling at a premium. Farmers of this section should look into this need and demand for more mules, and take immediate steps to breed some of these fine animals at home.

Fulton is proud of the fine agricultural section that surrounds it, and the next few years will see remarkable changes in the development of farms, and poultry and livestock raising in this area.

HARD JOB—BUT THEY DO IT.

The City Dads of Fulton labor in the best interests of the community. The work is hard, and the pay is practically nothing. But the mayor and council work faithfully at the job.

Every man on the council is compelled to give his time and effort for the general public good—often-times to the neglect of their own business. That's real civic pride! Such is the stuff of which large cities and successful businesses are built.

Community problems are difficult ones, and each City Dad must weigh each step well, because his decision means so much. Faithful attention of the council to civic needs is always present, and the city's job is never done. As fast as one problem is solved another occurs to take its place.

These men who take on the community's job must have the fullest co-operation of the citizens. Every one is duty bound, in interest of the community's welfare, to help the city officials serve their own best interests. They appreciate the sincere and patriotic spirit of co-operation manifested by the citizenry.

FULTON, KEEP IT!

Fulton, like every other town, has a trade territory, from which people of this area come to shop in this city. But, it is up to Fulton to keep this trade territory.

Times and conditions are constantly changing. Old families are moving away, some of them are dying. New families come along to take their places in the life of the community. The community's population is constantly changing. The successful business man must be prepared to meet these changing conditions, and after merchandising right, must tell his potential customers about the values he is offering at his store. The merchant who advertises regularly does this; the merchant who fails to advertise his business does not progress with the times.

Every bit of publicity or advertising that goes out into Fulton's trade territory should be selling the people on the idea that business firms here are constantly offering attractive values in merchandise. Fulton trade territory can either grow or shrink—but it must do one or the other. The business or community that is well and truthfully advertised is the one that grows, when backed up by sincere efforts to render a definite service to the people upon which it depends.

HE GIVES 14 REASONS FOR ADVERTISING IN HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER

Fourteen reasons were pointed out last week by Prof. Thomas F. Barnhart of the University of Minnesota to show why newspapers continued as "news" in advertising media during 1935.

- 1-Newspaper reading is a universal habit. Newspaper advertising, therefore, reaches virtually all who read and buy.
- 2-A newspaper advertisement can always be seen by the reader.
- 3-The newspaper advertisement goes into the home as a welcome guest.
- 4-The newspaper advertisement can have as much reader interest and news value as the news item.
- 5-The amount of text used in newspaper advertisements is dependent upon the size of the space.
- 6-Newspaper advertising may be adjusted to different conditions.
- 7-Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers and dealers to state where their products may be bought.
- 8-Newspaper advertising is inexpensive. Merchants have learned that it covers more families for less money than any other form of advertising.
- 9-Newspaper advertising results may be checked.
- 10-Newspaper circulation is known and is comparatively unaffected by daily change.
- 11-Nearly all of a newspaper's circulation is concentrated in its own market.
- 12-Newspaper advertising reduces selling costs because it entails no waste of circulation. This helps reduce costs for the consumer.
- 13-Newspaper advertising, says Professor Barnhart, "builds confidence and good will, attracts new customers, increases sales, and stabilizes merchandise, methods and prices."

FULTON COUNTY COTTON FARMERS TO GET $40,000

Fulton County cotton farmers will receive about $40,000 from price adjustment payment applications for the difference between ten and twelve cent payment in now ready for the producers' signature. These papers have been prepared from the sales receipt forms that were turned in by the ginner. Only a few sales receipt forms have been turned in for some of the contract signers and when the producer comes to the office to sign these papers he should bring any papers or receipt forms that show the number of sales or amount of cotton that has been sold so that these can be checked against the application for the price adjustment payment.

It is not necessary for any person other than the person who signed the contract to sign these papers therefore the signature of tenants and share croppers are not necessary as the instructions are that this payment will be made very much like the parity payment. Share croppers and tenants who have not received their part of the parity checks or have not been given credit for the amount of money that they are entitled to receive from the parity should call at the County Agent's office at once.

Play when you play, but work seriously. Apply your brains and effort to your job and do it well. Happy-go-lucky people are seldom happy and rarely lucky.

IN MEMORY

The whole community was shocked when news came of the death of Bob Moore, associate editor of the Fulton Leader. Relatives and friends couldn't believe it when the report came that he had died while playing on the Fulton golf course.

I had known Bob, as he was familiarly known, since I was just a boy attending high school. Hearing that the Leader wanted a young fellow as apprentice, I applied for the job. When I arrived at the office Bob's father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Moore were the first to meet me as I inquired about the job. They directed me to Bob who was operating the Linotype machine in the back shop. I told him what I was there for, and I well remember the first question he asked me was if I thought I could learn to operate that machine. Hesitant and doubtful at first, I replied that I thought I could.

From that day on Bob seemed like just another young fellow to me, for we worked and played together so often. I worked with him until I finished school, and when I went away to another state, it hurt to leave for our association had always been so pleasant. In all the years I knew him I never saw him gruff or cross. He was unusually mild tempered and soft-spoken, as was his mother and father before him. Although he did not bear acquaintance as quickly as some people, when you came to know him, he was one of the most likable persons I have ever known.

That grim reaper, Death, gives no warning. First came the death of Rev. Moore, which was the first in a series of shocks in store for this happy family. Then about two years ago Mrs. Moore was called by the Great Father of us all, to go to that happier and pleasanter land. Now, Bob has gone to join his father and mother. Such is life, even though loved ones are saddened and grief-stricken.

Bob never married. Up until his mother died, he lived with her at their home near the printing office. Many times I have sat at the home evenings with Bob, Hoyt and his mother, and we would talk about things we all loved to discuss. Bob always seemed so content, never troubling about what the morrow might bring. His peaceful outlook on life comforted his mother and his brother, Hoyt. There was a certain joy and pleasure derived from his acquaintance. He had a hobby of quoting poetry, often in Latin or German, which always amused me. His dry humor and wit would burst forth when least expected.

Bob and Hoyt were inseparable. Where one went the other usually went also. Brotherly love was strong in these two boys. They worked and played together. They thought together. Even when they wrote stories for magazines they collaborated. It was often hard for me to tell which one wrote an article, as I set it in type, they thought so much alike. Hoyt, I know you shall miss him so much. So many things will bring him to mind as you go about your daily duties. But even in death you are inseparable. He is yet by your side to comfort and help you, for thought binds the tie.

REMODEL AND REPAIR

When you are building and increasing your property value, do you consider some of the vital things which are of much concern to you and your property?

Are you buying from a concern that at all times can furnish the same materials throughout, or will it be necessary to make a change right where it will always mar the beauty and impair the value for years to come.

Another thing to ask. Are you buying a material that your dealer has handled long enough to know that a satisfactory adjustment could be made if necessary, or is this dealer buying here and there so that in a short time it would be impossible for even them to be certain of its name or origin.

All the above is worthy of your serious consideration.
