Farmers Told To Avoid Johnson Grass in Hay

By J. HOMER MILLER
 County Farm Agent

A warning to farmers to watch for Johnson and quack grasses in hay brought in from other states has been issued by the University of Kentucky. Seeds from these grasses might get scattered over farms and result in years of struggle to get rid of these pests.

Johnson grass is listed as one of nine noxious weeds in Ken- tucky. While not as serious as Johnson grass, quack grass is considered something to be avoided on every farm.

Both Johnson and quack grass can be spread directly by seed or from grasses in the field, or the seed can be carried in the manure of animals. Johnson grass was said to spread from bits of hay falling off wagons or trucks as it is moved along the roads. That is why it is seen growing along highways.

Both grasses were said to be difficult to recognize in bales of hay. About the only way farm- ers can avoid getting them when buying hay is to require a guarantee that there is none in the hay.

Johnson grass thrives in the South and quack grass in the North, and both do well in Ken- tucky, the statement said.

What's the

MOST SURPRISING THING

about this BUICK?

WE'll tell you the answer to that one —

it's the figures on the price tag.

For some reason, lots of people just can't believe they can buy a Buick at a price so close to "the low-priced three."

Maybe it's because a Buick seems so much better and bigger.

Maybe it's because they think Buick has so much more power and room—which is true.

Maybe it is because so many distinguished people own Buicks—which is also a fact.

But the fact remains—if you can afford a new car, you can own a Buick — so let's see what you get.

You get the thrilling power of a Fireball 8

Engine, that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head—as much power as you can get in cars costing $300 to $400 more.

You get as much room as you'll get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Union Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: II Samuel 6-7; 23:1-7; I Chronicles 16:1-7; 21:1-3; 28:2-9

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 24

Legacy of a King

Lesson for September 14, 1952

DAVID did not mention you in his will. But if you are a Christian, you are one of his heirs all the same. The gold and silver he owned have long since been spent; of his palace not one stone is left upon another. His vast holdings in land have gone to strangers far outside his family. But the most valuable part of what he left us is still with us, imperishable: his legacy of religion.

Dr. Foreman

Experience of God

ONE THING every one will think of: the Psalms. Bible students realize that the titles of the Psalms are not part of the original psalms, but represent later editors' beliefs as to the authors. However, scholars are agreed that David did write some Psalms and may in fact be called the father of the psalm-book.

Now the chief importance of any Psalm is not that it is a hymn or has been the basis of other hymns (as most of them have); it is not simply that it is beautiful and unforgettable poetry. The main point is that it is a first-hand record of first-hand experience of God.

We do not always realize how much of our own religious experience grows out of the experience of others. We would lack much of our interest in God and knowledge of him if we had not been waked up, so to speak, by some one else first. Think of the millions of readers of the 23rd Psalm, for instance, from David's time to now—the millions who have been inspired and comforted by it. How much we owe to David!

Singing Faith

WE CHRISTIANS owe to David also that blending of beauty with religion which is a mark of our faith. Beauty apart from religion can drag men down and destroy them. Religion apart from beauty is usually a harsh and cold affair. There is a great deal of irreligious beauty and unreligious religion in the world, and neither of them does the world much good.

But for David religion and beauty flowed into each other, or rather beauty found its highest level in the service of God. It was not only in the words and music of the Psalms.

While David did not build the Temple, he dreamed it, and before a stone was laid he could see in his mind's eye the fine carvings, the gold inlays, the cypress and the fir, the brilliantly woven hangings; all the gorgeous gleaming Temple that he never lived to see, was in his mind and heart. He it was who gathered singing men and singing women for the worship of God the Lord. Whatever beauty there is in our church buildings, in our hymns, in our services, we owe much of the original inspiration of it to David.

"Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life"

RELIGION that cannot be applied to daily living, religion that is a purely solitary affair, has never been typical of the best in Christianity. Christianity has something to say to the world, our word, our world, something to do in it. Christianity in retreat, in hiding, is not full Christianity.

Perhaps we owe more of this ideal to David than we realize. For when he came to the throne, the ark—sacred symbol of the presence of God—was in a little out-of-the-way place where few could know of it. David took that ark and brought it to the nation's capital. Shrine and city must be united.

So wherever today the church stands literally or figuratively at the crossroads of life, challenging, inviting, winning men, a constant reminder of God, we should be thankful to David, who set the symbol of his religion in the very center of his nation's principal city.

Faith Faces Forward

ONE MORE thing must be mentioned, which we owe at least in part to David. It is a characteristic of both Jewish and Christian faith: Hope.

Some religions are religions of regret. Their golden age is in the past; as they see it the world is either going around and around in meaningless circle or in hopeless decay.

But any one who will read the Psalms with a penetrating eye can see how bright the future is to the Psalmist's mind. Bright, because it belongs to God. If Paul can say that hope is one of the things that endures, along with faith and love, he was not the first to think it. David long ago sang his songs of hope, and for this legacy too we may be grateful.

Rabbit and Quail Hunting Season Lengthened 8 Days

The rabbit and quail hunting season was made eight days longer by the State Game & Fish Commission at a recent meeting.

The season will open Nov. 20, the same as last year, but will continue through Jan. 18. Last year the season ended on Jan. 10. The bag and possession limits, however, were unchanged. The limit for quail is 10 or a possession limit of 20 after two or more days of hunting. For rabbit the daily limit is eight, with 16 the possession limit after two or more days of hunting.

Easy Way to Flour Chicken

So many products these days come in nice plastic bags of various sizes that have a lot of fun re-uses. I save my summer shoe away in such bags, closing them with rubber band to keep out the dust and dirt.

One excellent kitchen use for a good sized plastic bag is for flouring chicken. Instead of using the old bowl method and getting your hands all covered with flour, try this the next time.

Put self-rising flour in a plastic bag, and season it with salt and pepper according to your taste. Cut up the chicken in pieces, all but up fasten at the top, and shake vigorously. Your chicken will be all ready to pop into the hot frying pan. Save the flour in the bag to make your gravy.

Hot biscuits made from easy to use self-rising flour will be the perfect accompaniment to America's favorite meal. And self-rising flour is good for making gravy, too. When the chicken is fried and the gravy made, take this tip for cleaning the pan. Instead of trying to wash it immediately, loosen the cooked-on crumbs by soaking for about half an hour in cold—not warm—water. You'll find it so much easier to wash when you are ready. And dry by putting back over the flame for just a minute. This keeps those stains from your good dish towels.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harper of Route 1 were Saturday visitors here.

Lex Turner of Route 5 was in town Saturday on business.

Fred Reeder and wife were visitors in town Saturday.
