6-inch Reinforced Concrete Streets For Fulton.

Contract Awarded Carey-Reed Co., Lexington, Ky.

The big gun was fired in the street improvement program Monday night, when at a regular meeting of the City Council, the contract for street improvement in the business section of the city was awarded Carey-Reed Company, Lexington, Ky., over two other bidders on the project. Their bid being $86,489.75, including curb and gutters, $17,000.00 lower than any other bid.

In a caucus meeting and later adopted in the regular monthly meeting, the council decided that 6-inch reinforced concrete would be the best type of street and this is what Fulton business streets will be constructed of. The following are the streets to be improved, constructed and reconstructed.

Lake Street from the bridge crossing Harris Fork Creek, at the lower end thereof, to the center line of said Street's intersection with Lake Street Extension.

Fourth Street from the center line of its intersection with Lake Street Extension to the east line of Carr Street.

Third Street Extension from center line of its intersection with Fourth Street to the line of Carr Street.

Commercial Avenue from the center line of its intersection with Lake Street to the east line of Carr Street.

Church Street from the center line of its intersection with Street to the north line of the State Line Road.

Main Street from the center line of its intersection with Church Street to the center line of its intersection with Plain Street.

Olive Street from the center line of its intersection with Main Street to the north line of the State Line Road.

Mulberry Street from the center line of its intersection with Main Street to the center line of its intersection with Street.

Walnut Street from the center line of its intersection with Walnut Street to the north line of the State Line Road.

Walnut Street from the center line of its intersection with Lake Street to the west line of Norman Street.

Wise Selection

The general consensus of opinion expressed by all, is that a wise selection of material for street construction in the business district of the city has been made. For some weeks the street committee of the Chamber of Commerce, working in conjunction with the street committee of the city, and Mayor Shankle, have been visited where the work was in progress. Various materials, were closely inspected with the end in view of constructing only the best streets in Fulton possible, resulting in a 6-inch reinforced concrete.

Work of construction will be within the next two or three weeks under the supervision of Jack & Veatch, consulting engineers, of Kansas City; E. Hopkins, resident engineer at A. W. Learned, of Black Veatch, looking after the interests of all concerned. The city was fortunate in securing the services of Carey-Reed Company to construct streets. This company has an excellent record for street work. They have just completed a $700,000 contract in Mayfield; recently completed a contract at Corinth, Miss., and are now at work completing eight miles of paved streets at McKenzie, Tenn.

WHY NOT EXTEND THE TIME?

The 90-day period for making sewer connections will expire June 11. The health officer has announced that all who have not made connections must suffer the consequences.

We do not know what the final consequences would terminate in, but we do know that the property owners and the plumbers have had an unusually bad season in which to make connections, and it would be no more than right to extend the time for a short period before any one is made to suffer an extra expense with court costs.

City Clerk Chapman informs us that more than 400 permits have been issued and we think this is a remarkable record, since the weather conditions have been so bad for making connections.

The expense of connecting to the sewer is "digging" and the property owners of Fulton should be given due consideration before any drastic action is taken by the board of health.

It is not our intention to attempt to excuse any one for not making connections and complying with the city ordinance yet, under the circumstances, we believe an extension of time should be given.

Dairy Days In Fulton

A Paradise for Bargain Hunters on Wednesdays

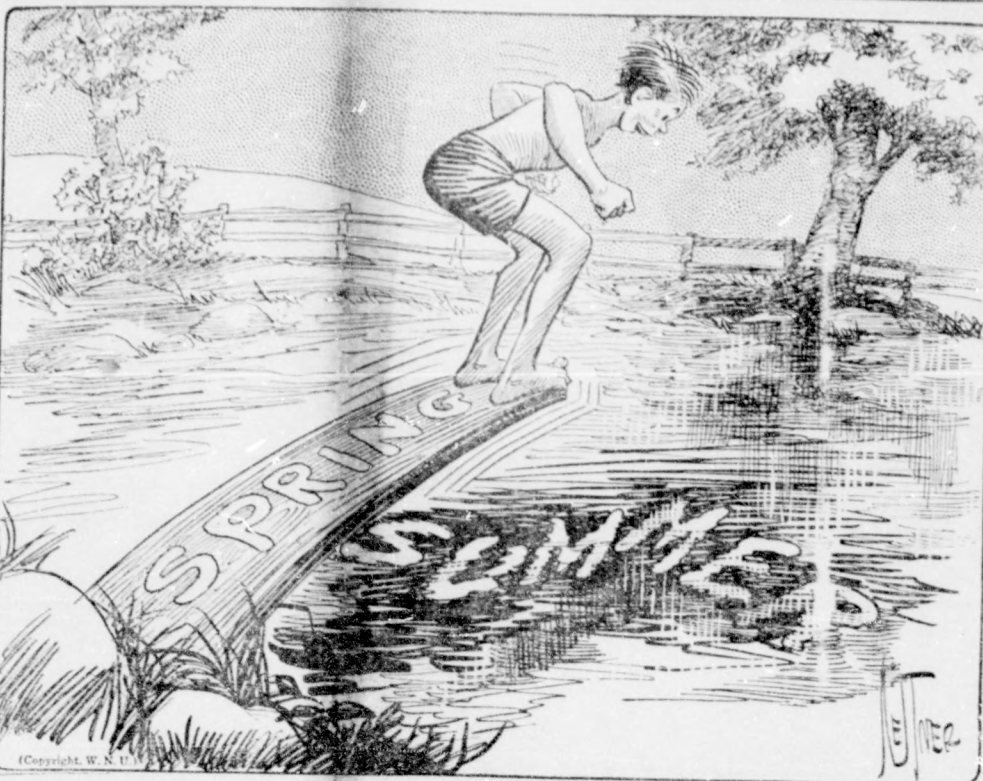

Wednesday, June 15, is all set for the greatest Trade Day campaign ever inaugurated by the business firms of Fulton. Every merchant in the city will offer to the buying public Dairy Day Specials worth-while, and it matters not how far you live from town, it will be to your interest to visit the city and take advantage of the wonderful offerings. It is an exceptional opportunity for out-of-town people as well as home folks to make their purchases at unusually low prices.

Instead of having a street carnival, attracting an army of human derelicts, whose object is not only to spend money but gather in the dimes with fake attractions and gambling devices, the Fulton merchants are attracting the out-of-town people by offering them bargains in things they need; in things this season of the year demands—to spend their money only for such things as will gladden the heart and increase the sunlight in the homes. A suit, straw and sox for father; a new frock and hat for mother; a suit and bright tie for brother Tom, who goes mysteriously "somewhere" once a week. One of those perfectly fitting cool gowns for Birdie in which she looks like a queen, and is, and the home folks are not the only ones who think so, either.

Bobbie is supremely happy in his new shoes, hat and suit, and Susie looks like an angel in her new hat.

These are some of the bundles of sunshine and home happiness that the Fulton merchants are giving the public on Wednesdays—Dairy Days.

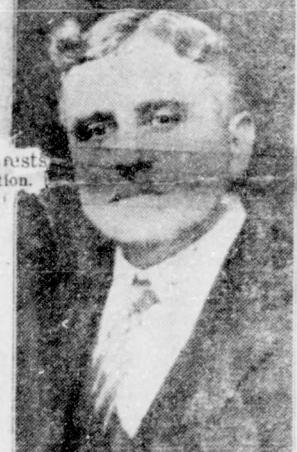

All Ready

Leaders In the Methodist Meeting

Rev. Alonzo Monk

William Sisserson

Robert J. Kennedy

ALL ARE INVITED

The Methodist meeting starts Sunday at Carr's Park auditorium, with the Rev. Alonzo Monk, of Texas, doing the preaching, with Robert J. Kennedy directing the choir, and William Sisserson doing personal and organization work, under the supervision of Pastor J. V. Freeman.

Fulton is fortunate in having these men of the Lord's vineyard to work in our midst and we venture to say that a great revival and spiritual blessing is in store for this and surrounding community.

The following extract is taken from the Amarillo, Texas paper:

"Amarillo is fortunate in having in the city for a two weeks' revival campaign. As previously stated, it was the pleasure of the editor to be under the ministry of this man of God for a year. We know of no more fervent preacher. He is a man of the deepest consecration, possessing a profound insight into human hearts and human needs, and having the rare ability to lead men out of their sins into the more beautiful life he so vividly portrays. He is truly a wonderful preacher, whose power has already been felt throughout Methodism."

BAPTISTS GIVE WAY FOR METHODIST MEETING

After services last Sunday at the Baptist church, the members voted to dismiss both morning and evening services next Sunday to attend the Methodist meeting to start Sunday, June 12, at Carr's Park auditorium.

Orpheum Will Open July 1st

Carpenters, painters and decorators are busy at work on the Orpheum Theatre building, under the supervision of Contractor Frank Merryman, and Mr. W. Levi Chisholm, proprietor, tells us that he is making every effort to open this popular photoplay house on July 1, with one of the best attractions he has ever presented in Fulton. The new organ with a continuous playing record of more than two hours, has already arrived. It is the best make and newest model. Mr. Chisholm says there is nothing too good for his patrons and during his visit to Hollywood, came in contact with the world's greatest producers in the film industry. While time will not permit his remodeling the building to his plans before opening, the work will be perfected later, giving Fulton one of the most handsome show houses in this end of the state.

Mr. Chisholm is a veteran show man, having opened the first photoplay house here some eighteen or twenty years ago. The keynote of his phenomenal success is service, and this he will continue to give his patrons in Fulton with the assistance of his estimable wife.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH

The foundation of the new Methodist Church building, corner Second and Carr streets, is completed. The lumber is on the ground and face brick arriving for the structure. The stone purchased of M. I. Boulton, local dealer, is in transit, and work will be pushed by the contractors as rapidly as possible. When completed, this will be a handsome church edifice, adding dignity to the beautiful church buildings in that vicinity of which there are four within speaking distance.

BROOKS-BOONE COMPANY BUILDING COMPLETED

W. M. Hill & Sons, contractors and brick manufacturers, have completed the two-story brick business building for Brooks-Boone Company, poultry dealers, on Plain Street. This is an attractive building for the business section of that part of the city. The Brooks-Boone Company is one of the largest poultry firms in this entire section, maintaining branches at Martin, Dyersburg, and various other points. The Fulton house has continued to grow and additions have been made from time to time, but the latest addition is the most handsome of all. This firm probably handles around a millions dollars worth of poultry annually, and the Fulton house means a great deal to the city as thousands and thousands of dollars are paid out here to circulate in business channels.

The local house is splendidly

ly equipped with cold storage plant to handle large shipments.

WINSTEAD & JONES FUNERAL HOME

The Winstead & Jones' funeral home on Second street is nearing completion, equipped with all the modern conveniences of an institution of this kind. It is a beautiful place, and admirably located. Winstead & Jones undertaking establishment maintains branches in several neighboring towns but we venture to say that none of their branches will compare in attractiveness and convenience to the Fulton establishment.

KRAMER BUILDING IS NEARING COMPLETION

The large 60x180 building in course of construction for the Kramer Lumber Company on Walnut Street is nearing completion. Sanders Brothers are the contractors, and are exerting every effort to have the building ready for occupancy within the next ten or fifteen days. The office and show rooms will occupy the front of the building which is finished with large plate glass windows facing Walnut street. The lumber shed, extending through the entire block is constructed of longleaf yellow pine in the rough purchased through Thos. L. Shankle, Fulton representative of the Virgin Pine Lumber Company, of Plave, Miss.

SMITH'S CAFE

The Reeds building occupied by Smith's Cafe, is undergoing general repairs. The structure is also being repainted and when completed, will have a much neater and attractive appearance. Mr. Smith says the premises must be spotlessly clean in keeping with the excellent services rendered.

NEW WATER MAINS

If work continues as it has been recently, citizens in the western part of the city will be given a bountiful supply of water this summer. The 4-inch water main is being replaced by 6-inch pipe and extensions are being made with new connections. Chief Roberts tells us if weather conditions permit, the work will be successfully completed within the next two or three weeks.

Work of making lead pipe connections from the mains to curb in the business section of the city is also being pushed as rapidly as possible preparatory to the street improvement program. We understand the lead pipe and connections for this project will cost around $3,000.

Fair Catalog.

Work on the Fulton County Fair catalog is progressing nicely and will soon be ready for distribution. The book is being printed at The Advertiser office under the supervision of R. S. Williams.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE SURPRISE THEIR FRIENDS

Miss Louise Chambers and Mr. Finis Houston surprised their friends Sunday afternoon when they were united in marriage while seated in their car near the Country Club, the Rev. J. V. Freeman officiating.

The bride is the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Chambers, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Houston, associated with his father in the dairy business.

Both are popular young people who have a wide circle of friends to wish them a long and happy life of wedded bliss.

The newlyweds will make their home with the groom's parents on Bates.

greatly strengthened, both spiritually and in numbers,
there having been a large number of professions of faith and

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

RELIGION

"TO BRING hope to others," someone has said, "that is religion."

"Physicians aren't so much to make people well," Doctor Farr used to say,

"as to make them comfortable and happy."

That is why he took so much interest in Dennis McGuire upon whom he stumbled one day in his round of professional calls. Dennis was only seventeen, but a frail body and a long hours in the close stifling man-uana in which he was employed, had been too much for him, and tuberculosis got in its deadly work.

"What's the use of doing anything?"

Dennis' mother asked when the doctor,

finding the boy in a hot, bare, insanit-

ary tenement, essayed to take his case

in hand. "He's going to die anyway,

no matter what you do."

"I'm going to make him happy," the doctor said, "and comfortable."

And so the room in which the boy

was lying was made attractive, flowers began to bloom in his window, nourishing food gave him a little strength, his cough was relieved, and hope began to spring in his breast.

It was not that he was really getting well, or had any chance of getting well—the disease was too far advanced for that—but his attitude of mind was changed; he was happy and hopeful.

With the medicine that he gave that brought hope for this world, the doctor

brought words also that suggested hope for a future one, so that as the boy looked death in the face, that grim messenger gradually lost his terrors,

and even death seemed not hopeless.

"I believe I'm going to get well," he said one day to Doctor Farr.

"I hope so," was his reply, "but if you don't, death isn't a thing to fear."

He grew more sanguine as time went on, and began worrying about his old job and whether or not he could get it back. It was the doctor who sent his former boss to him, and it was a very kind and understanding boss who came.

"I'm to have my old job back when I am strong enough to work," he said to the doctor one morning. "My old boss has been to see me, and he says

I can come back whenever I'm better,

and it will make me very happy."

"I think you will be better very soon," the doctor answered, "and I'm sure you're going to be happy."

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST VOICES

National Radio Audition
Open to Young Singers
in This Country.

America's future generation of vocal stars will be disclosed to the world this Fall as another of the wonders due to radio. Every young man or woman with the gift of song, whether from country, town or city, will have an equal chance.

A nation-wide quest for the best young singers and the opening of the door of opportunity to them has been undertaken by the Atwater Kent Foundation, an institution established for scientific and educational purposes by A. Atwater Kent, the Philadelphia radio manufacturer and sponsor of the Sunday night grand opera hour, broadcast over a network of nineteen stations.

The Foundation has announced plans for a "National Radio Audition," to find by competition the best undiscovered voices in the United States. Prizes aggregating $17,500, with tuition for a musical education in certain cases, are offered as follows:

The two winners of first place in the National Audition—a man and a woman—will each receive a gold decoration, $5,000 in cash and two years' tuition in a leading conservatory.

Winners of second prizes will each receive $2,000 in cash and one year's tuition.

Winners of third prizes will each receive $1,000 and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth prizes will each receive $500.

Winners of fifth prizes will each receive $500.

Musical, civic and women's clubs in each community in each state will be invited to hold local contests to select the best young man and best young woman singers of their towns. These winners will then be certified to a state audition, which will be broadcast by a radio station in each state. A state winner of each sex will be chosen and will receive a silver medal.

The next step is a district audition. The young men and women who have won state honors will be taken to a central broadcasting station in one of five districts, where an audition will be broadcast to select the two winners—a young man and a young woman—from that district.

The two winners in each district will receive gold medals and the ten finalists thus selected will be taken to New York for the final National Audition, to be broadcast over a national network of stations. All expenses of contestants in the district and final auditions, including railroad fare, hotel bills, entertainment, etc., will be paid by the Atwater Kent Foundation.

The spirit and purpose of the National Audition are indicated in a statement by A. Atwater Kent, president of the Foundation, who said:

"The discovery of one of those rare voices, of which each generation produces a very few, seems to me an event of profound national importance. Even when such a voice could give pleasure to only a few thousand people in a year it was a national treasure. Now that millions may enjoy it on the same evening through the medium of radio, such a voice has become priceless."

"The National Radio Audition, supported by the Atwater Kent Foundation, is an undertaking to search the entire country for beautiful voices and to offer these singers an opportunity for full development, recognition and reward."

The principal qualifications for contestants are as follows:

Must not be over 25 years old; must never have been associated with a professional theatrical or operatic company; must never have been a paid principal in any concert held out to their own states; must declare an intention to follow a musical career and must be free from theatrical or musical contracts.

This limitation permits choir singers to enter the auditions, even though they may have received financial compensation for singing in churches. Other groups from which entries are anticipated are students in musical schools and locally prominent singers in high schools and colleges. Musical organizations in each state are also afforded an opportunity

Plants Cow Peas or Soy Beans and Corn at the Same Time

Cow peas and soy beans enrich the soil. Both are valuable as stock food, and when either is fed with corn, it makes a balanced ration which puts meat on the stock more rapidly than when corn only is fed. You can plant either cow peas or soy beans in the corn hill or drill them with the corn by using a

We can furnish this planter with the most simple pea attachment ever designed—it can be put in place or removed without disturbing the regular corn planter parts or the fertilizer attachment when it also is used. We can also furnish a spout attachment for drilling only, which plants the peas shallower than the corn. When buying a corn planter, remember the John Deere No. 999 is noted for its accurate "Natural Drop"—instant change, hilling to drilling or back to hilling; instant variable drop—2, 3 or 4 kernels per hill as desired; nine different drilling distances from one set of plates, convenient underhanging reel, absolutely automatic marker, tip-over hoppers and other conveniences.

Common Brick Defies

Exposure to Elements

There are probably few if any of the ancient buildings that so effectively stir the imagination of the modern reader as does the famous old Colosseum of Rome. It has stood for centuries as a monument to the quality of building and of the materials that were used in ancient days. Travelers returning from Rome have reported that bricks were being taken from this great theater of the rulers of the ancient Roman empire to be used in the construction of new homes.

It is pleasing to learn that the dictator, Mussolini, has passed a decree forbidding the Italian people to disturb any part of the Colosseum. The bricks in that building are more than 2,000 years old, and are in such good condition that they can still be used after all these centuries. There was a grave danger that the structure in which early Christian martyrs were sacrificed to the lions and where the old gladiatorial combats were held would be destroyed. Whatever we may think of Mussolini's policies, we must certainly commend him in the stand which he has taken.

The use of these 2,000-year-old bricks is of particular interest at this time, when so much stress is being placed on permanent construction. They were manufactured of the same materials and under practically the same methods that are used in the manufacture of present-day common-burned clay bricks. It is possible that 2,000 years hence some equally ruthless despoilers will be tearing down our old landmarks to build houses out of the present-day bricks.

Ceilings Should Be

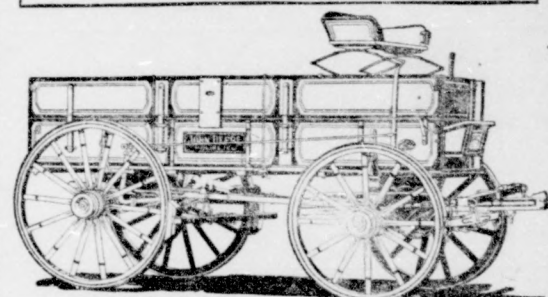

Lighter Than Walls

In the great out-of-doors we find the sky lighter than the shadows under the trees. This is our natural everyday background, and if we want to suggest the great and wonderful open atmosphere we must paint the ceilings lighter than the walls and the walls lighter than the floor. For instance, were we to make the ceiling the darkest, that would unconsciously suggest a catastrophe, a storm approaching, as does the darkened sky. We might feel that the ceiling was collapsing—that it was so heavy the light floor would be unable to hold it—and the result would be disorder! In other words, unless we follow the example set by nature we would be missing much of her loveliness.

When you buy John Deere implements you are sure of prompt repair service throughout their long life

A FARM WAGON THAT IS GUARANTEED

The amount of satisfactory service that a wagon will give depends entirely upon the material and skill the manufacturer puts into it. We want to show you a wagon that is built of the best materials by men who know how—

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON The Wagon That is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skin of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skin is set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skins there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling.

Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the John Deere Wagon, and every piece of wood is air-seasoned under cover in our own yards for at least two years. The tires are set hot under hydraulic pressure and under a gauge that assures proper dish—the load is always carried on plumb spokes. And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy malleable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kingbolt—holster does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool box. Let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

Hail And Wind Storm

(Hickman Courier)

One of the most destructive storms of the season visited this section last week. The greatest damage was done along the gravel road to Cayce and south of that line. This same section has had a number of other bad storms in the last few months and the total damage has run into many thousands of dollars.

The storm Monday night was preceeded by a period of bright lightning and distant thunder that sounded like the roar of heavy artillery. Then the storm broke in all its fury about 11 p. m. Hickman escaped with a heavy rain, accompanied by sharp lightning, heavy winds and a little hail, but east of town the hail was the heaviest in many years and the wind blew down barns and out-buildings and uprooted trees here and there.

Arthur Fields, living near Cayce reported the hail was larger than hen eggs and that his yard was covered more than a foot deep with the hail stones. Arthur Williams reported that every window glass in his house was broken out. Mrs. P. B. Henry's smoke house was blown down and her chicken house riddled with hail, 150 chickens being killed.

In some places the hail stripped the trees bare of leaves, leveled wheat fields as if they had been mowed and left growing gardens as bare as a dirt road. Cotton and corn also suffered heavily. Others who lost their wheat were Ernest Johnson and Dick Seacore. The roads throughout the section affected were covered with leaves torn from the trees by the driving hail. Fields were leveled and roofs riddled by the large pieces of ice, which drove down with the force of rocks.

C. L. & M. E. Shaw had two barns on the Bacon place blown down and three head of mules killed, besides other damage from wind and hail. Tom Kelly's barn was struck by lightning and a horse killed. John Kirk of route 4, had a barn blown down as did Mrs. Bobbitt, also on route 4.

On Ernest Johnson's farm near Mud Creek a barn and two other buildings were blown down and the house damaged. Uncle Dave Alexander, colored, living near Henry Corum, lost his home, the small frame house being completely destroyed according to reports.

Out along the M. & O. south of Cayce the damage was also heavy. Brandsford Atterbery had a barn blown down. Ernest Burns also had a barn blown down and two mules were killed. At Cayce the wind unroofed the brick house occupied by Guy Johnson and badly damaged it.

Stahr and Lattus suffered about $1000 damage to their building, while Ben Lattus had 100 acres of wheat, 60 acres of cotton, and 30 acres of oats practically ruined by the hail. He also had some hogs killed. Mr. Workman on route 4, had 100 acres of wheat destroyed by the hail.

In Sycamore lane the hail drifted nearly 3 feet deep, residents told The Courier, and as late as 11 a. m. Tuesday morning a wash tub full of hail was gathered up and taken to Cayce in a buggy. Henry Shelton told The Courier that the hail knocked holes in two wash tubs his wife had hanging out side their home, and leveled his garden until you could not see where there had ever been anything growing in it.

The homes of Bob Powell and Mr. Jones, on the right hand side of the gravel road going to Cayce, both set back in large groves of fine trees, looked as if they had gone through a war. Trees were uprooted and scattered across the yards, branches piled here and there and small buildings wrecked. A tree knocked the chimney from Mr. Powell's house and otherwise damaged it.

Nearly everyone in the storm area suffered losses of some sort. The hail did not extend much beyond Cayce, but the wind did damage to orchards a couple of miles east of Cayce. The storm extended south for several miles but its main fury was confined to the narrow section outlined before. No accurate estimate of the total damage could be obtained at this writing.

A driving rainstorm, almost reaching cloud burst proportions at times, visited Hickman and vicinity again Tuesday shortly after noon, but no extensive damage was reported. Another bad storm passed south of here Tuesday night, about midnight bringing a heavy rain to this section which lasted well into Wednesday morning.

Her Sun-Kissed Tresses

By RUBY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)
"HEAVEN praise your long and shining tresses!" exclaimed Beth Boyce.

Amber Reed was pulling taffy-colored pins from a wealth of golden hair. "But—why?" she faltered. "No one but the gods from Olympus, themselves, could have sent you at this moment into my waiting arms," continued Beth in her gushing, extravagant freshman style.

"And still I ask you—why?" repeated Amber. Beth had invited her cousin to visit her during the college year but until the moment of her arrival had scarcely given her a thought. It had not dawned on her that Amber would still have long hair nor that she would have grown so beautiful in two short years.

"It's Paul!" resumed Beth. "He's an artist. At least he goes to the League and thinks he is. He has a few lectures up here at college and tumbles around with us a bit. He is always mumbling about his ruined career. We girls—who might have been beautiful—have made it impossible for him to have proper models and proper inspiration for his paintings of ancient days. We have cut off our hair! Not one of us has a crowning glory to inspire dear Paul. Otherwise, he would be famous, would have a picture hung at the fall exhibit. And now you drop from the sky—you with your romantic name and your perfectly heavenly head of gold!"

"Where is this Paul? When do I see him?" asked Amber.

"That's the thing to be considered. We shall have to have a conference and decide just how he is to come upon you," explained Beth. "He is the sort who likes things he discovers himself rather than the things someone else hands to him."

Amber sat up. "I have an idea of my own, Beth. Where does he live?"

Beth dashed to the window, pulled aside the chintz and cried, "Come here! You shall gaze upon the stones that house him!"

The two girls looked out into the myriad of lights that surrounded them. Beth tried to indicate the windows that probably at that moment looked upon this Paul.

They turned back. Amber was beginning to glow with the prospect of a lark.

"Why couldn't I just casually sit out on the roof in the sunshine drying my hair and—let him discover me?" she asked, simply.

Beth nearly smothered her with an embrace. "You are a genius, Amber. Have you ever had your psychology told? That's an idea nothing short of brilliant!"

There was no end of fun keeping Amber out of Paul's path until the fateful hour when he was supposed to discover her, sunning her golden tresses within sight of his windows. But the moment came on Sunday afternoon. Paul was to wait in his room for a friend—this also was planned. The friend should be late. Paul, restless, would look out of the windows again and again. Amber, poor little Amber from the Middle West was to be sitting, all unconscious of the wonderlight the sun cast on her streaming tresses as she sat on the roof of the studio building.

It acted almost as a play acts after many rehearsals. The hero was looking out of the window when his eyes fell suddenly upon the one thing he desired most in all the world to behold—a head of long shining, burnished golden hair. He was so thrilled he did not hear the door open.

A rude slap on the back roused him. "What's the matter, Paul?"

"Shh!" admonished the artist-hero.

"Come here. My model—the thing I desire greatly. In the life, a beautiful girl with long hair. But—" Amber had risen even as the two men watched her and had glided, seemingly unconscious of their gaze, into the exit that led to the lower floor.

"Who is she? How can you find her?" asked the hypocritical friend.

"Heaven that sent her will find the way for me," he replied, seriously.

"Come on—you're mooning," urged his friend. "We're late now."

That night Beth could keep it no longer. She asked Paul to come to a little party at her studio—a very quiet gathering.

When she presented him to Amber they both fell back as if they had been struck.

"Bob," gasped Amber.

"Amber," cried Paul.

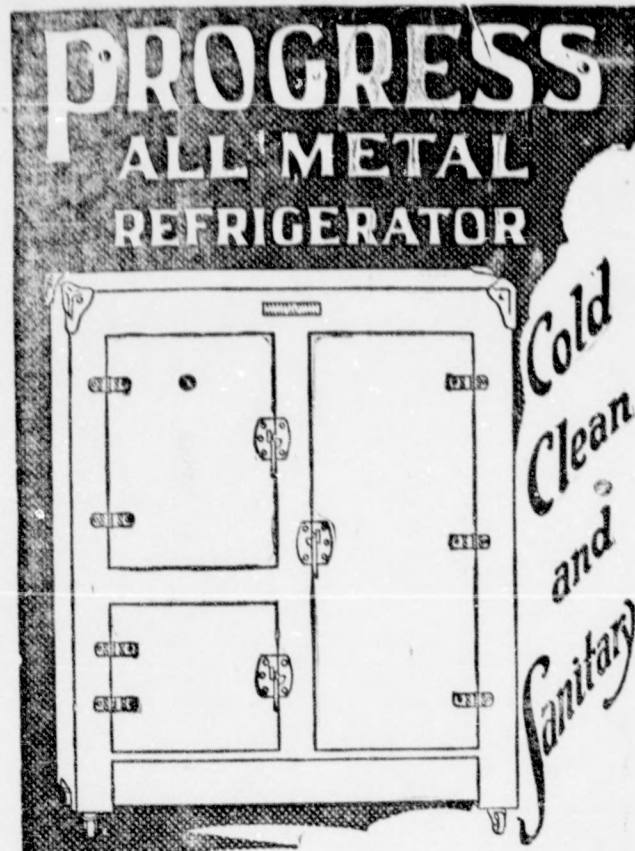

And then they explained that they had loved, back in the West, but that Bob's prospects at the old art school there were very slender and Amber's parents would have none of him until he had won fame—or at least a substantial footing. He had changed his name because in having himself analyzed Paul was a more successful name for him than Robert. As Paul, he would draw vibrations that would help him in art. He told both girls all this and, for the first time, Beth saw the true side of him and realized why he insisted that a head of golden hair was the only inspiration that could possibly make him famous.

"And you really have not heard from each other?" asked Beth, earnestly.

"Not once—but oh—" Paul began.

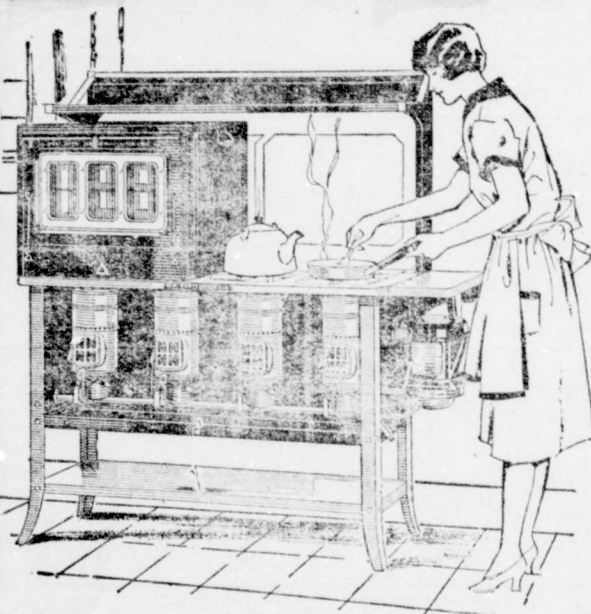

Beth left them alone for they seemed to have much to say. The little play had developed genuine human interest.

Mrs. A. J. Turney moved last week to her new home in Fulton. Her many friends are sorry to see her leave after having made this her home for many years.

Dr. Boyd moved to the place vacated by Mrs. Turney.

Miss Virginia Seay and Miss Ora Seat were Saturday night guests of Miss Willie Ruth Turner.

Mr. Wade Jones and Miss Hilda Edwards were united in marriage Friday evening by Esq. McDade in Fulton. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Newberry.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Willie Edwards and finished high school this spring. Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. Hurdle Jones of near Clinton. Their many friends wish for them much happiness and success on their journey through life.

Mrs. Lee Seat went to Cairo last week to have her teeth extracted.

Miss Marie Easley has purchased a Ford Coupe.

Mr. M. E. Byrd took his son, James, to the hospital, Thursday night. He was suffering severely from sticking a nail nearly through his foot. They returned home Saturday night and he is improving.

Hiram Brown spent Saturday night with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Wade. Misses Ina Belew and Alma Belew returned Saturday from Murray, where they have been in school.

Mrs. Jim Veatch spent the week end in Paducah with her son, F. H. L. Veatch.

Miss Annie Willie Edwards and Miss Jessie Wade were the Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luby Howe in Fulton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Elliott and children spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Moore.

Miss Clella Marian Elliott was the guest of Miss Evelyn Bondurant, of Cayce, last week. Mr. Crutcher, of Murray, has been elected principal of the High school here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tyler and family of Fulton, attended preaching at Mt. Carmel last Sunday and took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brown.

Miss Nannie Kate Barbour left Saturday for Murray, where she will enter school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McClanahan and family spent Sunday in Clinton.

Mrs. H. C. Brown and children spent last Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hughes of Troy, were in Crutchfield last Sunday. Mrs. Hughes was Miss Clara Hills before her marriage and until the last few years she has been in Crutchfield.

Quite a nice program was put on at the Baptist church here last Sunday afternoon by the B. Y. P. U., of the Fulton Baptist church. We hope to have them come again, and that we can also have a B. Y. P. U. in our own church.

TAX REDUCTION

To the Voters of Fulton County:

If I am elected Governor, I will reduce the tax rate on agricultural land 33 1-3 per cent. This means a saving for Fulton county of $4,969.63 each year.

I will reduce the license tax on automobiles in Fulton county 33 1-3 per cent, which means to you $6,333.27 each year.

This will save you $11,302.90 each year, or $45,211.60 in the next four years, or during my term of office. If you want to save this large sum to the taxpayers of Fulton county, vote for Crowe in the primary, August 6.

I am for carrying out the present road program in its entirety in your county, and the use of all road funds to build roads, and not free bridges across rivers until roads are completed.

The efficient and splendid manner in which the present administration has handled the finances of the State will enable us to make the reductions in taxes which I suggest without increasing the rate or values on any other class of property.

VOTE FOR CROWE AND PROGRESS.

Sincerely yours,
ROBERT T. CROWE,
Candidate for Governor.

CONTINUOUS BATTLE WITH FLOOD WATERS

Reports from the Mississippi River area subject to flood,
are distressing. The waters are rising again and much of the crops planted since the waters receded from the record flood are under water. Many who had returned to their desolate homes have been flooded out again and are seeking relief at re-established camps.

Down in Louisiana, great sugar plantations with their expensive plants for making and refining sugar, are flooded.

Sugar cane is an expensive
crop to produce and harvest,
and must be raised on a large scale to be profitable, so that many houses for the hands,
many barns for the mules and many miles of railroad must be provided and maintained. Each of these large plantations is like a little city in itself, and they border in continuous succession the Mississippi River.

Bayou Lafourche, Bayou Teche
and other streams that traverse the delta.

Flood and flood are the most destructive elements to this crop. It springs up each season from the stubble of the year
previous, much as the banana tree does in the tropics, and the cost of replanting is thus obviated, the stand being renewed about every three years.
This is the reason that the floods of the Mississippi river cause such great losses in the sugar belt when the levees break. Not only is the growing crop destroyed but the stubble is killed and the entire area must be replanted the following year.

DESCRIPTION OF THE AL- LUVIAL DELTA AND THE LEVEE SYSTEM

Beginning at the foot-hills of the Ozark Mountains, near Cape Girardeau, Missouri, and extending south to the Gulf of Mexico, is a great level plane
five hundred and fifty miles long and some fifty miles wide, through which the main body of the Mississippi River flows after being joined by the waters of the Ohio. This plane is similar in extent and fertility to the Babylonian Plane of the Euphrates and the Egyptian Plane of the Nile,
and is known as the alluvial
delta of the Mississippi.

The river meanders through this rich valley with a total length of 1,060 miles, a total fall of 269 feet during low water, and of 321 feet during high water. As the course of the river traverses the valley, it divides it into geographical basins or sub-basins such as the St. Francis Basin on the west side in Missouri and Arkansas;
the Yazoo Basin lying wholly in Mississippi; the White, the Tensas, the Atchafalaya and Lafourche Basins lying on the west side in Arkansas and Louisiana; and the Ponchartrain and Lake Borgne Basins on the east side in Louisiana.

Like all silt-bearing streams,
the Lower Mississippi River has done much towards building its own levees, as the lands of the basins on either side of the river are much higher near the banks than at the edges farthest away. All of the drainage from these basins, is,

therefore, away from the main body of the river and into tributary streams which lie parallel and empty into it several hundred miles below, such as the St. Francis, the Yazoo, and the Tensas.

Under normal conditions the flood waters which gather from north, east and west and empty into this part of the river at Cairo, follow the main channel and are conducted to the sea, just as a main sewer receives and carries off the storm water of a city. But under the abnormal condition
which has arisen from the rapid development and drainage
of the areas in the states above,
the water now rises much higher than its natural banks and the necessity has arisen for artificially raising the banks or building levees to confine the water to its main channel.

On the west bank these levees begin opposite the city of Cairo and extend to the mouth of the St. Francis River near Helena, Arkansas; then a gap to admit the St. Francis and they extend to the mouth of the White River. Another gap to admit the White and the Arkansas rivers and the line begins below the mouth of the Arkansas and continues to the mouth of Red River. Another gap and the line begins again
below that river and continues unbroken to Fort Jackson near the mouth of the Mississippi.

On the east bank the high hills of Kentucky and Tennessee border the river down as far as Memphis. There is an area of 575 square miles in these two states with 26 miles of levee already constructed.

Just below Memphis the levee begins again and follows
the bank of the river until the mouth of the Yazoo is reached.
From below the mouth of that river the hills of Mississippi and Louisiana constitute a barrier down as far as Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and there the levee line begins again and extends unbroken to Ft. St. Philip near the mouth of the Mississippi on the east bank.

The total length of these two parallel lines of levee is 1,538
miles and the land protected from overflow by them amounts to about 20,000,000 acres in the six states affected. Fully 16,000,000 acres of this area
are capable of being reclaimed and placed in a high state of cultivation if protection from floods can be obtained.

Father's Day

Father's Day is to be celebrated Sunday, June 19, we are told.
After Mother had been having her "Day" for several years, the idea occurred to someone that father also deserved a little niche in the family hall of fame, and so a "Day" was created for father.

No one will deny that father is entitled to a little credit. He has never received as much as mother
—and the average father doesn't expect it. Father's position has not inspired many poets to glorify him. He is just the bread-winner, the common-place head of the house who likes three meals a day and a good place to rest his weary bones at night.

Father takes some pride in his home and his family. Though he may fuss about it now and then,
he likes to do the odd jobs that fall to his lot to keep the home
ship-shape.

Father is sometimes the supreme court of the home. He leaves the majority of the questions for settlement by mother, but when there is insurrection or a disposition to tear away from the restraints of home, it falls to his lot to make the decision.
There are occasions when even his rulings are not respected and he has to use force. Of course, force is not resorted to as much as it once was. Some think that father doesn't exercise his authority quite as much as he should—
and possibly he doesn't in some homes.

Father has his blemishes. He couldn't be mortal and be otherwise. If he's a good father, he will admit that he's not the whole "works" around the house, though he may storm around on occasion.

Father will also admit, if pressed for truth, that he doesn't exactly object to having someone make a fuss over him, and that he didn't find any good reason to remonstrate when some kind soul suggested recognizing father with a
"Day".

CANDIDATE FOR GOVER- NOR WANTS TO SAVE FUL- TON COUNTY MONEY

This paper today publishes an advertisement for Robert T.
Crowe, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, showing how Mr. Crowe proposes, if elected, to save $45,211.60 in four years to the taxpayers of Fulton county.

Mr. Crowe's farm land reduction of thirty-three and a third per cent amounts to $4,969.63 annual cut in tax bills of Fulton county farmers.

His one-third reduction of motor licenses means $6,333.27
every year to the 1,618 automobile owners of this county.

This is a total saving each year of $11,302.90, to two classes of taxpayers who have been carrying more than their share of the burden. It can be done without increasing the assessment, or putting additional tax on any other citizens.

Chestnut Glade

last week for Jackson, where Prof. Barrox will attend the summer term of six weeks.
They plan to spend the week ends in C. G. community.

Clay McConnell left Saturday for Chicago. We wish Clay success, but are glad to say that he'll be back at C. G.
for school this fall. Miss Relma entertained in his honor Saturday evening. Those present were Misses Helen Hall, Thelma Golden, Messrs. Maynard Reed, Leon Nix and Clay
McConnell. Mrs. McConnell invited several of Clay's friends to her home for Friday evening. Clay's sister, Miss Essie McConnell, of Chicago, was guest of honor.

Deener O. Finch left Thursday for Lincoln Memorial College, Harrogate, Tenn.

Malcom Johns leaves Thursday for U. T. at Knoxville, where he will enroll for the summer term.

Wayne Lamb and Wayne
Rhodes came home last week
for the summer vacation.

The entire community was shocked and saddened last Thursday by the accidental shooting of little Elizabeth Ward, daughter of Neal Ward.
She and little brother, William,
were visiting Mrs. John Johns, when the little boy picked up Clarence's gun and shot. The lower part of her face was badly shattered. Her father working near and was the first to reach her. Doctors were called at once and the child carried to her home, then she was carried to the hospital at Paducah, where she was operated on at nine o'clock Friday.
Last report was: pulse, normal,
no fever, face badly swollen,
but getting along as well as could be expected. She has been so brave and cheerful it seems impossible that she should not get well. We devoutly hope for her recovery,
and our heart bleeds with sympathy for the father, mother and little brother.

A large crowd attended the
First Sunday Singing at C. G.
Two visiting leaders, Messrs.
Pierce and Cashion, assisted our leaders and many visitors were present. Come again and bring others with you.

Mr. and Mrs. Babe Brundige moved home last week. Their neighbors and friends gave them a shower of good things
last Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Anna Thompson left
last Monday for Jackson,
where she will enter school
for the summer term.

Children's service was observed at New Hope Sunday morning with an appropriate program, which was enjoyed by a large audience.

Lesson for June 12
PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Many are the afflictions of the righteous; but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.—Ps. 34:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of Peter.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God Answers Prayer for Peter.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Does God Deliver Us?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of United Prayer.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4).
1. By whom (v. 1).
Herod, the grandson of the wicked Herod who slew the innocent children of Bethlehem.
2. The reason (v. 3).
It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew, but an Edomite, therefore knew that his success was dependent upon his having the good will of the Jews. Herod for the sake of popularity manifested a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. It was but the sympathy of the politician. Since the church had developed so as to be a successful rival of Judaism, indeed was already displacing it, he saw an opportunity to curry favor with the Jews by putting forth his hands against it.
3. The method (v. 4).
He was arrested, put into prison and guarded by four quarters of soldiers. A quaternon is a guard of four soldiers. Humanly speaking, it was impossible to escape. They had doubtless heard of Peter's escape from jail before, so they thought they would take no risks this time. However, they made one fatal mistake—they left out God.

II. The Church of God in Prayer (v. 5).
The church was at a crisis. Her situation was most grave. James, one of the brethren of the church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this desperate strait they did the wise thing—they betook themselves to prayer. It was a noteworthy prayer.

1. It was unto God, not unto men, or to be heard of men. This is a very common fault today. All true prayer is unto God.
2. It was united prayer.
There is peculiar power in the united prayer of God's people.
3. It was an intensely earnest prayer.
It was more than unceasing prayer. It was the earnest desire of the soul as it stretched itself out toward God.
4. It was definite prayer.
They specifically offered prayer to God for Peter. Their prayer was concentrated, definite and specific.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).
1. Peter sleeping (v. 6).
This shows that he was not greatly disturbed over the matter. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on Him. (Isa. 26:3).
2. Peter leaves the prison (v. 7-10).
A heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side; the chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes and passed by one guard after another through the iron gate out into the city.

3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11).
Although the matter was so wonderful to Peter, even outside his consciousness, when he came to himself he was assured beyond peradventure that God had miraculously delivered him from Herod's wicked hands.

IV. Unconscious Unbelief (vv. 12-19).
1. Behavior of Peter and the church (vv. 12-17).
Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda who was so overjoyed that she forgot to open the gate, and ran in and told them that Peter was at the gate. The disciples were not prepared for such good news, and even accused her of madness. She, undaunted, insisted. They offered as an explanation that perhaps it might be Peter's guardian angel in his likeness. They got more than they expected. Peter rehearsed unto them the Lord's dealing with him, and instructed them to make these things known unto James and the brethren.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18, 19).
There was great agitation among them as to what had become of Peter. This was a serious matter since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for Peter's escape, Herod commanded that they be put to death. After this Herod went down to Caesarea. Here he was adored as God. Because he arrogated this honor to himself, the Lord smote him. Herod died, but the Word of the Lord grew and multiplied.

Greenfield, Tennessee, Suffers Heavy Loss In Stored Potatoes.

We reproduce the following article published in the Greenfield Gazette last week. It may be that someone can enlighten the good people of the Greenfield vicinity as to what is causing the heavy losses sustained:

"With the price of sweet potatoes climbing up a little, 65 cents a bushel here now, growers and dealers who bought everything in sight last fall at gathering time have opened their storage houses and are sorting and re-packing their potatoes. Stored potatoes are expected to show a small loss, one or two out of each hamper, but last year the losses ran much higher than ever before, and—this year some who store have lost 3 hampers out of 4, dealers being damaged from a few dollars to as much as $5,000, according to crop stored. These losses are so heavy that if they are to be continued, will mean the end of growing potatoes here. One man who has been buying and shipping potatoes for years told us he had lost more on the present crop than he had made in all the years he had been handling them. There is a cause for this damage and it is up to us to find out what it is. A sweet potatoe export from the state university to work with county agent Ellis and investigations made until the cause is found. About all we know about potatoes is to eat them after they are cooked, but it seems there could be several things that could be causing it. The potatoes used for growing plants may have been diseased, and were apparently sound, the disease shows up in the potato in curing. Then perhaps the fertilizer used might have caused it. If these did not cause the damage then it looks like houses used for the storage are not suitable for such uses and the losses is caused from lack of heat, too much heat, lack of ventilation, or the cause is from some opening that does not show that they have not found. We suggest to some of these different kind of farm bureaus that they let the cotton crop rest for a while and get in on this potato thing and find out what is wrong. Potatoes bring in more money than any other crop we grow, but the enormous loss we have this year and annually farmers cannot afford to put in a crop."

Sales of Gasoline Show Increase.

Frankfort, Ky.,—Sales of gasoline for the ten month period, ending the first of May this year, were a million and a half gallons more than sales of the corresponding period of the previous year, "Kentucky Highways" states in its June number.

The tax on the gasoline also netted the state almost $2,000,000 more than the tax for the similar period ending May 1926, the article states. The tax on the ten month period ending May, 1926 totalled $2,630,418.48, while the tax for the same period ending May, 1927 was $4,298,206.01. The latter figures included the five cent gasoline tax, while the former figures, include only two months that the five cent tax was in effect.

Had the tax been in effect the entire ten months prior to May, 1, 1926, the tax would have totalled $4,009,112.03, the magazine estimates. This indicates an increase of $390,000 in actual sales, which would indicate increased sales of a million and a half gallons.

Revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927 have already exceeded the budget and the estimated totals for June will carry the total gasoline tax revenues to approximately a half million dollars over the estimate, the article adds. This would in-dicte a sale of two and a half millions gallons more of gasoline for the present fiscal year than the past one.

Governor Appeals For Storm Funds

Asks Kentuckians to Support Red Cross Relief.

The following appeal was issued June 3, by Governor W. J. Fields in behalf of the storm sufferers in eastern Kentucky: "To the People of Kentucky:

"Messages, brought by messengers from the flooded areas about the headwaters of the Kentucky, Licking and Big Sandy rivers are bringing appalling reports of the flood disaster which overwhelmed thousands of homes, destroying more than a hundred lives, closing the mines on which these people are dependent for their income and washing away their too meagre farms and gardens.

"Acting under the authority conferred upon me by law as governor of the commonwealth, I am calling upon you to support the American National Red Cross, which I am asking to take charge of the relief and rehabilitation work, with the understanding that the work be carried on in accordance with the regular plans and policies of the American Red Cross. Dr. A. T. McCormack whom I have appointed as director of disaster relief, and Hon. Ben M. Williamson and Hon. Desha Breenridge as assistants, will represent the state.

"One-sixth as many people are affected by this flood as in the recent disaster in the entire Mississippi valley. These people are Kentuckians, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. Their distress will appeal to the hearts of Kentuckians everywhere and you are urged to respond to the call of the American Red Cross with the liberality for which you are noted. Kentucky can and must care for its citizens who are in distress.

"Given under my hand and the seal of the Commonwealth at Frankfort this third day of June, 1927.

Low Rates Begin
at 7 o'clock

THE reduced rate for station-to-station long distance calls now begins at seven o'clock in the evening. This enables you to make social or business calls before the theater hour and at a time when your friends or associates are most likely to be reached.

The reduced rate applies only when you place your call by number. If you do not know the number, tell the operator the name under which the called telephone is listed. After eight-thirty o'clock there is a still further reduction on these station-to-station calls.

Try placing long distance calls during the seven to eight-thirty o'clock period. You will find the service fast—the charges reasonable.
