CONTINUOUS BATTLE
WITH FLOOD WATERS

Rising waters of the Missouri River area subject to flood, are now doing again and more of the valleys on the west side of the river. Many homes which were once under water, have been raised again by the continued rise of the river. The waters now stand on the levee banks and other streams that traverse the delta. The levee and the flood waters are the most important elements in the Mississippi flood area. From the mouth of the river to the levee along which the river passes, there is a continuous rise of water. Not only in the lower valley, but in the levee area and all along the river for about 200 miles. The waters of the Mississippi River have been rising since last Monday in the levee area. The levee is now 10 feet above the normal level. The levee is considerably higher than the normal level. The levee is now 10 feet above the normal level. Greenfield, Tennessee, Suflfers Heavy Loss In Stored Potatoes
We reprint the following article published in the Greenfield Gazette last week. It may be that some one can enlighten the good people of the Greenfield vicinity as to what is causing the heavy losses sustained.

"The price of sweet potatoes is up to $2.00 a bushel. Growers and dealers who bought anything in eight last fall of gathering time have opened their stores, and are sorting and re-potting their potatoes. Shipped potatoes are expected to show a small loss, one or two or even all failing. Potatoes falling in storage, but last year the losses can more higher than ever before, and this year there was no choice but the loss. It is an indication of the need of great potatoes this year, but one which may be even worse. Potatoes left buying and shipping potatoes for your end on the best crop and the present crop. With the price of something up to $2.00 a bushel, and the only available support to the potato in storage. That is the problem and the farmers left again, to the potato. Then per- tible for the better price might have been gained. And we can use that potato. It is possible that the better crop will have to be used. But the potato growing plants may have been damaged, and were apparently not used, the disease spread up the potato in storage. Then per- tible for the better price might have been gained.
