CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PLANS PROGRAM FOR NEXT THREE MONTHS IN MEETING HERE

The April luncheon meeting of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce met at the First Christian church, with 47 present. Meeting was opened with a song led by Paul Henson, followed by prayer by Rev. W. D. Ryan. Rev. Woodrow Fuller was principal speaker, using as his subject, "Working for Fulton." He pointed out many of the things of which this community should be proud: The new telephone system, two service clubs, Woman's club, Red Cross and Community Chest organizations, the American Legion post. He asked "what can we do as citizens to increase and develop our community?" and named the following:

Keep an aggressive spirit in the bringing of new industries here; Modernize and construct more new homes; Foster a community-wide recreational program; Keep alive the spirit of co-operation in support of churches, schools, clubs, etc.; Be boosters for Fulton.

Walter Butt reported for the Goodwill committee, stating that an invitation had been received from Water Valley to meet there on May 10, and asked that all members of the commercial club attend. Goodwill meetings will take this organization out of town during May, June and July.

Lewis Weeks asked the club to sponsor the Boy Scout work and assist in raising $500 for activities. J. O. Lewis and Joe Davis endorsed this move. A committee, composed of Jim Lewis, Joe Davis, E. C. Hardesty, Woodrow Fuller, J. L. Jones was appointed to launch a drive to raise the fund.

B. A. Ross pointed with pride to the advancement being made in poultry raising in this section, and said 200 fine cockerels are to be distributed among poultry raisers to improve the stock.

A delegation was named to attend the CCC camp at Mayfield on Thursday this week, where a terracing demonstration was given. Paul DeMoyer said that cooperation of the CCC camp is now available in a terracing program in the watershed of the Harris Fork Creek. Terracing of this district would eliminate the flood conditions that have prevailed in Fulton for some time.

AD SERIES FEATURE GREEN DIAMOND ON TRADE AT HOME IDEA EXHIBITION IN FULTON

In this issue of The News appears the first of a series of full-page messages from local business firms, featuring the importance of trading in Fulton, with home-town "Tope" as a thriving business community. It is pointed out that dollars spent in home-town stores stay to be spent again, and help build a big, small property owner. Even the smallest business has its own investment here when he takes his dollars on a shopping tour away from home. If citizens must now resolve to trade at home and "help make our town the town."

GREEN DIAMOND ON EXHIBITION IN FULTON

The Green Diamond, Illinois Central's crack streamline train, was on exhibition in Fulton last Friday when 2500 people went through it, according to the official count by the electric-eye. An eager and enthusiastic crowd was on the platform at the passenger station awaiting its arrival here, and a continuous flow of spectators viewed it until leaving time. This superb train was built at a cost of approximately $425,000 in the Chicago plant of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co. It is a 5-car unit, articulated, mounted on roller bearings, completely air-conditioned. It is built of steel and aluminum, is 350 feet long and weighs 230 tons, just half the weight of a standard train of the same capacity. It will accommodate 120 passengers. The run of 300 miles between Chicago and St. Louis is expected to be made by this train twice daily, once each way. The train goes into service on that date in May.

The five cars in the train consist of the power car, the mail and baggage car, two chair cars and the lounge car. In the power car are the main power unit, a 1200-horsepower Diesel oil engine, an auxiliary oil engine, and the generator for supplying the train's electrical current. Air compressors, heating boiler, battery and electrical control apparatus, and water and fuel tanks are also in this car. The first chair car contains 56 passenger seats; the second, 44 seats and 16 places at four dining tables; the lounge car, 20 portable chairs for passengers, 8 dining seats at two dining tables and two desks with seats. In addition to meals served at the dining tables, there also will be meals served at the chair car seats from designed folding-stand trays.

The kitchen at the forward end of the lounge car is electrically equipped and has dry-ice refrigerator. The name "Green Diamond" is worked out in a diamond design in letters of silver and scarlet on both sides of the power car. This name, selected by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central System, embodies the traditional diamond emblem of the railroad.

VOX POP

T. V. A. will be available for Fulton within the next two years. The big problem for Fulton is, how will we distribute this current?

Our franchise with Kentucky Utilities is out in October, 1936. We have our whiteway system now. If power were available at the line now, we could ask the K. U. to sell or we could build our own system. But we would be compelled to get cheap money from the government, borrowed on long terms, as the government regulates the selling price as well as the buying price and the net profit to liquidate the loan is very small.

Another way of raising the money is by bond issue, but this method is not very attractive unless the state legislature passes a bill similar to Tennessee so that this bond issue would not go against the credit of the City, but against the utility thus sold.

Now the Gibson County Electric Company has organized under the incorporated laws of the State of Tennessee a company to buy power from T. V. A. and to resell and distribute at a rate fixed by the government. Each user of this current is a stockholder and has a vote in its affairs. It cost each man $10 to become a member. The lines and property are bought by this company. It is assumed, with government money, and each consumer pays a surcharge not to exceed 10 per cent until $200 have been paid on this amount, if paid in cash, with the $160, with no other charge other than the low rate until the company has accumulated funds and then this accumulated funds will be used to lower rates again.

Fulton, Ky., is in another state and we cannot become a part of this company, therefore we will be compelled to buy our own distributing system and hook on to the T. V. A. line at the Tenn-Ky state line and buy from the government and govern ourselves as does the Gibson County Electric Co. as Paris is doing, Tupelo and other towns that have enough current consumed.

To help us reach this goal or to get the current to the line, the City of South Fulton has passed a resolution endorsing the Gibson County Electric Company and authorizing them to assist in securing the power for them.

The farmers in Gibson County have been solicited and a sufficient number of k. w. hours have been secured. I would like to suggest that a meeting be called for the purpose of organizing the people in our City and all the information obtained be placed in the hands of the authorized persons, so that proper and orderly steps could be taken to deal with the Tennessee Valley authority and assist the City officials who have declared themselves to be in favor of this service as soon as possible.

WARNER BAXTER IN THRILLING ROMANCE "ROBIN HOOD OF EL DORADO" AT ORPHEUM

Thundering out of the most vivid pages of America's history, "Robin Hood of El Dorado" comes to the screen of the Orpheum Theatre starting Sunday heralding the birth of the spectacular outdoor feature starring Warner Baxter, it is one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's more pretentious new-season photoplays.

William Wellman is the director. The featured cast includes M-G-M's new discovery, Ann Loring; Bruce Cabot; the Spanish dancing beauty, Margot; J. Carroll Naish; Eric Linden of "Ah Wilderness" fame; Edgar Kennedy, Charles Trowbridge, Harvey Stephens and two score others. In addition to thousands of extra players.

"Robin Hood of El Dorado" is the romantic story of the life of Joaquin Murrieta, a notorious bandit-patriot who roared through the Wild West at the head of 400 men in the lawless days of the California Gold Rush of '49.

Romance, stirring action and spectacular settings vie for principal interest. The romantic phases of the picture are at once tender and powerful. Joaquin loved with the delicacy and the abandon of all his wild Latin blood. Action abounds, with sensational feats of horsemanship and personal bravery recurring constantly. In its spectacular aspects, the picture can be compared only to "Viva Villa" for entire gold boom towns of Early California were rebuilt and repopulated to give it a tone of authenticity.

Murphy's Diggings, Sawmill Flat, Angel's Camp and other roaring settlements of the Gold Rush, names that are listed in every history, sprang to life for this photoplay. Most of the picture was filmed in the actual locales. "Robin Hood of El Dorado," falls in the same class as "The Covered Wagon," which was laid in the same period of America's growth.

Redhead Was No Flirt

She was red-headed, so the traffic cop's remonstrance was couched in dulcet tones after he untangled the traffic snarl.

"But you should have held out your hand to indicate you were going to turn," he murmured.

"I should say not!" snorted the fiery one. "Some of those loafers would think I was waving at them and trying to flirt. Is that all?"

"Yes, m'am," said the cop meekly.

Bad News

On one of his many prison visits the chaplain had found one of the prisoners who was undergoing a sentence for burglary, very upset.

"What is the matter, my man?" he inquired.

"I've got bad news from 'ome, sir," "I'm very sorry to hear that; what is it?"

"My brother, sir," replied the man, bitterly, "he's gone into the work-house, sir; the first of our family to disgrace us."—Montreal Star.

Ethiopia Rains Bombs
Six Marriage Troubles
Marilyn Miller Is Dead
Another Big Question

Arthur Brisbane

Addis Ababa is bombed by Italian planes from more than a mile above the city. natives shooting at the Italian pilots with rifles that could not possibly carry one-quarter of the distance. Correspondents with receiving sets listened to the Italian pilots talking to each other by radio. Hulle Selassie, a hurriedly south, was not at home when they called. That war should be over soon.

Dr. Alice E. Johnson, psychiatrist of Philadelphia's Municipal court, gives six reasons for marriage failures. They are: Different family backgrounds of husband and wife; relatives interfering, especially mothers-in-law; infidelity; incompatibility; alcoholism; and a desire to "dominate." There is a seventh reason, to be found in the nature of man, who is still 98 per cent in the age of barbarism.

Marilyn Miller is dead, only thirty-eight years old. The little town of Findlay, Ohio, or the bigger town of New York, might well erect some monument to her memory. She contributed a great deal to human cheerfulness and happiness, and it may be said of her, as Samuel Johnson said, referring to the death of the great actor, Garrick, that her death "eclipsed the gaiety of nations and impoverished the public's stock of harmless pleasure."

A lady who signs "B. A. G." is interested in very serious things. She writes: "The more I hear of those big armies, the more I am reminded of the huge population of hell. What is your idea of hell?"

That big question may be answered later. An aged colored man once told his pastor: "I don't believe in hell, because I don't think any constitution could stand it."

"It worries me," says the lady, "that so many men are afraid of poverty here upon earth, and not afraid of hell." Miss B. A. G. is certain that hell is real, a belief that must be comforting to those anxious to have the wicked punished.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National bank, biggest in America, knows about money, as did his father before him, the late senator from Rhode Island, who invented the Federal Reserve plan and put it through. Mr. Aldrich thinks it would not be a good idea to turn money loose and encourage a speculative, stock-gambling boom. He remembers 1929.

Under certain circumstances "the prospect of inflation is very grave indeed," says Mr. Aldrich and warns against "the erection of a top-heavy structure of credit again."

When a woman starts, she keeps going, nearly always. Nothing could stop Joan of Arc, Dr. Mary Walker, or Nellie Bly on her trip around the world. Now Amy Johnson, married name Mollison, sets out alone in a streamlined monoplane to beat the record on a flight to Cape Town and back.

All alone, down to the other side of the world and back again, over ocean, forests, wild beasts and wilder men. And fools used to say women lacked courage!

An offensive and defensive treaty between Japan and Germany, like the one between France and Russia, is considered a certainty.

It should be possible for nations that want to survive and prosper to get together and let others that must fight kill each other off until they tire of it. This country, at least, should carry out that plan.

Japan and Russia have passed from the "warning" stage to border fighting on the Russian side. Planes, war tanks and heavy artillery are taken across the Manchukuo border by Russia, and that "looks like business."

Russia will soon know how much Mongolia will be worth as a protection against Japan, and Europe may soon know the value of Russia as a protection against Asia.

The Canadian Press news service says Canada's wealth has shrunk almost six thousand million dollars since 1929. That will be only a temporary shrinkage.

You know that England is worried about something when you read that she now demands that the league establish an oil embargo against Italy. A little later, but it is explained that England is outraged by Italy's use of poison gas against the Ethiopians. Mussolini used something worse than poison gas against England when he occupied the Lake Tana region.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—In the last few weeks in Washington, we have heard little about any governmental affairs except taxes. Every one charged with responsibility for maintenance of government credit or the maintenance of the supply of cash to carry on the era of spending is talking about taxes. It is in truth the predominant subject, overshadowing even the lobby investigation headed by Senator Black, Alabama Democrat, with that committee's record of obtaining private telegrams by subterfuge.

It really is not startling that everyone should be talking about taxes because, however you examine the question of government at this time, your analysis must inevitably lead back to the question of the source of funds. And how could it be otherwise? We have a national debt $5,000,000,000 larger than it has ever been before, and still going higher; we have seven or nine or eleven million people unemployed—depending on the source of your information on this point—and we are confronted with declarations from President Roosevelt and his advisers that more must be spent. It seems perfectly obvious, therefore, that some minds should be examining the whole economic structure of the nation to determine from whence the money is to come.

Congress is in the midst of working out a new tax bill. The house of representatives, where revenue legislation must originate, according to the Constitution which is still operative, is up to its neck with the tax problem. It is trying to work out a tax bill that will carry out the White House orders to take more money from corporations by levies on surpluses along with some minor schemes of taxation designed to increase the total somewhat.

During the time the house ways and means committee was trying to formulate a tax program on the basis of the President's tax message, there was a perfect deluge of tax discussion hereabouts. I think it may be said in this connection, also, that the house ways and means committee did a rather ridiculous thing as a preliminary to presentation of a tax bill to the house. It actually began hearings on tax legislation without a tax bill in legislative language having been drafted. As far as I can learn, it was the first time that witnesses were called in and asked to testify as to the efficacy of proposed tax legislation when there was actually no language in legislative form about which those witnesses could testify, either for or against. All the committee had before it was a so-called "committee report," a statement of its views as to what ought to be done and it was almost pitiful to witness individuals who are expert on taxation attempting to catch on to some will-o'-the-wisp and say that it was sound or unsound. Yet, that was what Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, and his committee asked them to do.

Perhaps I ought to explain, for the benefit of those not acquainted with tax legislation that there is nothing so important in a tax bill as the "word" language. There are few places in law where the use of a particular word or the placing of a particular comma makes so much difference. In tax law, the dotting of an i and the crossing of a t are, in deed, important.

One benefit has accrued from this situation, however, and I hope, as I believe everyone else desiring good government and proper laws hopes, that it will result in a tax bill generally more acceptable than has been proposed thus far. The avalanche of discussion that has arisen from the house ways and means committee hearings has made a good many people "tax conscious." Being "tax conscious" at this time, a good many men capable of thinking straight have begun to offer suggestions.

I have been receiving some of them myself and one that has come to me has impressed me so much that I am going to use the substance of it in this column. It comes to me from Mr. Harry A. Wheeler, widely known business executive and banker of Chicago. Mr. Wheeler has been recognized for a quarter of a century as a man who is given to looking rather far into the future and for his ability to analyze problems, circumstances and conditions on a long-term basis rather than on urgency of current requirements.

"Since the consideration of the corporate surplus tax act began," Mr. Wheeler wrote me, "I have watched the proceedings closely for some alternative proposal that would produce a substantial tax revenue and yet tend to strengthen the program of the administration to assure continuing business recovery, create definite added employment in industries still down, and lower production costs and prices to the ultimate consumer.

"No one denies that increased federal revenue by taxation is imperative, but it may be open to argument whether this can best be produced by the direct route of tax levies to cover full requirement or by beginning with a plan that will produce a large proportion of the requirements and permit the use of the remainder to accomplish the results first above stated.

"The proposal is very simple, quite capable of being written into legislative provisions; it would carry a clear guarantee of useful results and reach the final full requirements of the government by progressively increasing taxable profits.

"I propose that whatever per cent of undistributed profits may be determined upon as the tax base, permission shall be given for a draw-back or retention of say 20, 25 or 33 1/3 per cent on condition that this amount shall be used for capital expenditure to improve and cheapen production and distribution facilities.

"The draw-back may be by repayment to the taxpayer upon voucher evidence that the amount has been actually expended or by credit upon the second year's tax levy.

"Corporations will not fail to use this remainder and perhaps even add to it out of their available corporate resources.

Permanent goods industries will at once be stimulated by the knowledge that purchases will be made to an aggregate of the draw-back, and stimulation of employment must result in most needed quarters.

"The universality of this improvement in production and distribution facilities will create the competitive conditions that will compel savings to be passed on to consumers, but if any corporation tries to hold the added profits they will be taxed away in the following years.

"Living standards may be raised by making more commodities come within the range of prices the public will pay.

"Forced distribution in dividends to escape corporate high brackets will find a large part being paid to stockholders taxed in very low brackets and the result over all is not unlikely to prove disappointing.

"Increased tax rates on income or earnings leads to the struggle to avoid payment by every device that can be developed. It may be that this plan of draw-back would distinctly modify this tendency."

It is the first time that I have heard from any source the suggestion that the tax law should be made an instrument to encourage business recovery and promote employment. All of the objections heretofore have been directed at the character of the proposal and have not included constructive thoughts which could be used as a new base. Mr. Wheeler's plan may not be complete. It may not represent an answer to the tax needs in their entirety, but it must be said in its favor that it suggests an approach to the necessary answer and embodies therein a plan of action which will not kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

I repeat that I do not know whether the Wheeler program is the complete answer but the fact that a man of his status in the country's business life is giving consideration to the tax problem on a long-term basis leads certainly to two conclusions. These conclusions are, first, that the country is nearing the limits of what might be called reasonable taxation and, second, that a very great majority of our people believe some consideration should be given to the need for an end to government spending.

If taxation has reached the point where an overexpanded federal government requires so much money that it must take away the backlogs, the reserves of business, then it is quite apparent that a shrinkage in this structure called government must begin.

SYNOPSIS

Bryn James Brynildsen III, a tall, broad young man of wealth, and his cousin, Tubby Foster, are discussing Bryn's coming marriage. Tubby believes it is a scheme to get Bryn's wealth. Bryn, who is a doctor, is married to a girl named Deborah, whom he met at the office of his attorney, Ted Holworthy, marry Stuart Graham before her twenty-first birthday. She will inherit a vast fortune from her grandfather, Stuart had great respect for Bryn, who refused to marry her. Bryn, posing as an unemployed engineer, offers to marry Deborah, as Stuart, for $50,000, they not to live as man and wife. Twenty-three years previous, Anne Larned had eloped with an adventurer on the day set for her wedding to Courtney Graham. Two days after the birth of her daughter, Anne died. Shortly after, the father died. The Larneds, grandparents, took the child with them to Oregon where, without child companions, Deborah grew up. To safeguard her from some fortune hunter, her grandfather had arranged for her to marry Stuart, son of Courtney Graham, when of age, believing the alliance would be a happy one. When Deborah was fifteen, her grandfather died. Secretly he had been set aside to keep the family, but market crash left scarcely enough for them to live on. This was unknown to Deborah's grandmother, an invalid, Gary, a servant, managing the house. At twenty, the thought of marriage greatly frightened Deborah. It had been planned that Deborah meet Stuart in Fresno, where they were to marry.

CHAPTER I—Continued

There was nothing to be done. She had to go. She had to be married. They were in such trouble about money, she and Gary, that there was scarcely enough to buy her ticket to San Francisco, and when it came to her costume for the journey the problem was dreadful. Grandmother had forgotten about clothes for years. She was horrified when they came to contemplate Deborah's wardrobe. She wanted to write immediately to Boston and have a large selection of articles sent out, but Deborah convinced her that there was no time, and that they would have to manage with what was in the house. So they made a traveling costume from one of Grandmother's. It was quiet and reserved, although perhaps the lines were not such as a professional dressmaker would have put into it. It would serve. The dress was made of brown cloth, very neat and plain. A hat was rather a problem, but they evolved one finally, a neat small black turban with a modest cluster of velvet pansies on one side. Grandmother said the hat was perhaps a little old-fashioned, but she said that Deborah was far too pretty to travel alone dressed too attractively. She cried when she said it, and warned Deborah again of the danger of speaking to strangers.

Grandmother sent only one other dress with Deborah; her own wedding dress. When they tried it on, it fitted perfectly. Deborah looked at herself in the glass, and then quickly back at Grandmother, with dark startled eyes.

"It's . . . it's . . ." she touched the neck.

"It is for your husband, my darling," Grandmother said gently, and Deborah's blood was cold again in her veins.

CHAPTER II

Tubby had finally finished dressing, and now, after a hurried trip across the city in Bryn's roadster, they stood waiting in the big parlor of one of the old and eminently respectable hotels. Age had not added to its prestige; it had gained nothing through the passage of years, save a few extra layers of dust in the interiors of the sagging red plush chairs, a few more cracks in the elaborately frescoed plaster walls, a few more worn places in the thin carpet. Tubby, hands in pockets, stared unseeing at the candle sconces on the wall, fitted now with weary electric bulbs which gave out barely enough light to disclose the dangling crystal ornaments on the sconces themselves.

The grandfather clock in the corner ticked slowly.

"You're crazy," Bryn murmured, and took out his watch.

"Me?" Tubby asked in amazement and sat down in a comfortable chair.

"The clock. It's slow. My watch says ten minutes to nine."

"Oh. So you were talking to the clock?"

"Merely a slip."

"Slip is right," Tubby muttered.

"Talking to clocks?" Tubby went so far as to say that if Bryn, at the age of six, had not fallen upon him violently one day as they rolled off a roof together, he would not have bitten the end off his tongue and so begun a slip which would endure to his dying day.

"Till it's right," Bryn repeated absently to himself. "Talking to clocks."

"Go to hell," Tubby said bitterly. He folded his hands before him. There was a long silence.

"Bryn," Tubby said abruptly, and stopped.

"Tubby," Bryn answered politely.

"Bryn, what are you doing it for?"

"There isn't any reason why I shouldn't do it."

"Well," Tubby exploded, "you're not getting anything out of it. That's what I mean. You're getting into an awful mix-up with all kinds of possible consequences, and you're not getting anything out of it."

"Consequences?"

Tubby still sat in the big chair and considered, his blue eyes on Bryn's gray ones. "Pilar, for one. You'd make a very nice couple. That is . . ."

Pilar would make a nice couple with anybody. And we've settled about her, so don't go back over that again, Tubby. Only there's a suggestion I'd like to make. If I were you I wouldn't rush over to Pilar's tonight right after the ceremony, because if you were to get down on your knees in my pants there would certainly be a catastrophe.

He stopped in front of the grandfather clock and gazed earnestly into its dingy face until Tubby had stopped making his spluttering noises. There was another long silence. Seven minutes to nine.

"What about this sailor, this Graham fellow?" Tubby demanded abruptly. "Do you think he's going to let any man crack him in the jaw and then marry his girl without doing anything about it? What about him?"

"Oh, he's all right," Bryn said lazily. "His enlisted time doesn't expire for two months. And he isn't much to worry over, anyway."

"Oh, Lord," Tubby said prayerfully, and put his head in his hands. Bryn went over and sat down beside him. He tweaked the yellow lock. "The whole trouble with you, Tubby, is that you're one of these serious-in-stones people. I mean, you can't help looking for trouble. Why can't you take a thing at its face value and stop worrying? All that's happening is that I'm lending my name and my charming personality . . . because I have to win over the grandmother, too, perhaps I forgot to mention it . . . for a year. What's a year? The last pair of elephant tusks I brought home cost me a year, and I've been sick of the darn things for a long time. After all, an elephant tusk is not exactly a thing a man wants to look at more than two or three times a day, and it isn't a thing you ever get really fond of and like to cherish, you know."

Tubby raised his head. "Oh," he said ominously. "So you're planning to cherish this Deborah woman and stop?

"There isn't Any Reason Why I Shouldn't Do It."

get fond of her, are you? Now that I understand why you're marrying her, do you mind telling me why she is marrying you? It doesn't work both ways, you know. It couldn't be, even if it's what I'm beginning to think it might be."

"But I told you why she's marrying me," Bryn said kindly. "I really explained it very nicely. She's marrying me to get a million dollars, one year from today when the conditions of the will are fulfilled and when her grandmother is convinced that I am a steady going young gentleman with no bad habits and the ability to make Deborah happy."

"Oh, no, she isn't," Tubby contradicted.

"Isn't she?"

Tubby straightened. He put his hand on Bryn's arm. "Look here, Bryn," he said, "what's the use of your trying to hold out on me? Why don't you come across with the whole story? I know what it is, anyway. It's another of those crazy quixotic notions of yours. What are you trying to put over now?"

"Nothing."

"You lie. The girl can't be marrying you to get her grandmother's money, because you're not Stuart Graham, and you said yourself that the will stated specifically that unless she married Graham and Graham only, on or before her birthday—today—she wouldn't get the money. Didn't you?"

"And you're not Graham."

"Well," Bryn said at last, "not specifically. Not very specifically. I've read quite a few legal documents . . . this was a ferocious legal document, Tubby, with a lot of whereases and insinuations and party-of-the-second parts, and that kind of thing. If Deborah's grandmother hadn't told me that it was that she intended I wouldn't have been too sure."

"But is it ambiguous after all the fuss? Why make a will like that and leave it ambiguous? Can the girl get around it? Marry anybody at all and still get the money?"

LOST LANGUAGE IS UNEARTHED BY YALE SCIENTIST

Discovery of a hitherto unknown prehistoric Semitic language, revealing the source of the ancient and modern alphabets and offering a new key to controversial passages in the Bible, was announced by Dr. Julian J. Ghermann, visiting professor of Semitic languages at Yale.

Cuneiform tablets, found at Ras Shamra, near Antioch, in northern Syria, disclosed the language of Canaan, and, according to Doctor Ghermann, "are written in a new alphabet that proves to be the oldest known."

He termed the find "an epoch-making discovery in the field of Semitic antiquities and the most important find since the Babylonian cuneiforms have come to light."

The tablets, he said, were inscribed during or before the Fifteenth century B. C., and offer a previously unknown link between techniques of cuneiform writing and the principles of alphabetic script. The Ras Shamra tablets, he said, although written in cuneiform characters, employ only 30 signs, using them as alphabetic letters, whereas other systems known consisted of hundreds of signs representing syllables of ideograms.

"Hunger Marchers" Parade in the Capital

ABOUT six hundred men and women, members of the recently organized Unemployed Workers' Alliance, staged a big parade of "hunger marchers" in Washington, shouting demands, singing and waving banners. They sought to present a petition to President Roosevelt in the White House but the best they could do was to obtain an audience from Secretary Marvin McIntyre for a delegation headed by David Lasser, president of the alliance.

Lasser declared after spending 30 minutes with the President's secretary: "Mr. McIntyre gave us a lot of nice words, but nothing substantial. If nothing is done to give these people jobs there will be a hunger march on Washington next summer in which hundreds of thousands will take part. We are tired of Mr. Roosevelt's promises."

Lasser and his delegation also called on Vice President Garner at the Capitol and got even less satisfaction from him.

"The jobless feel that we have been sold out by the Democratic party," Lasser declared.

"I resent that," snapped the Vice President, reddening. "I have been in politics for 40 years and I don't think anybody has ever been sold out by the party."

The marchers carried banners and placards with such inscriptions as: "Give the bankers home relief; we want jobs!" "Slaves will not be killed." "We demand employment insurance." "Pass the Marston bill," this being a 6 billion-dollar relief bill introduced by the New York city representative.

Labor Says Industry Is Arming for Conflict

BEFORE the senate subcommittee on labor appeared spokesmen for organized labor with charges that there is a great movement of machine guns, tear gas and police clubs into industrial centers for use in contending with strikes and attendant disorders. The first witness to tell the story of the arming of industrial plants for conflicts with labor was J. P. Harris, a steel worker from Portsmouth, Ohio. In support of his assertions came a mass of data compiled by the senate subcommittee investigating committee and presented at the hearing by Heber Blankenhorn, an employee of the national labor relations board.

At one point Harris testified that he knew the Wheeling Steel corporation at Portsmouth was "arming," a statement that brought from corporation officials at Portsmouth an assertion that company police were armed to protect property against "thieves and firebugs, and they will continue to be armed."

At another point in the hearing three were testimony that general "rumors" were being circulated that the Ford Motor company was "shot through" with spies, hired to report on the activities of labor.

Maryland Young Democrats Hear Mr. Roosevelt

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, attended Easter services at St. Thomas Episcopal church, after the First Lady had witnessed the Knights Templar sunrise service at the Arlington amphitheater. Next day the President went to Baltimore where he addressed the Maryland Young Democratic club. Mr. Roosevelt accepted an invitation to speak before the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution which opens in Washington April 20. He also will deliver an address on April 25 at the Jefferson banquet of the National Democratic club in New York city.

Death of James M. Beck Is Loss to Nation

SUDDEN death, due to a coronary thrombosis, came to James M. Beck at his residence in Washington, and all informed Americans mourn the demise of this public spirited citizen and eminent authority on constitutional law. Though he was a sturdy and conscientious opponent of the present national administration, leading officials in Washington envied with the Republicans in declaring that in his death the nation had sustained a great loss.

Mr. Beck was not only one of the foremost lawyers of America but for more than three decades was a public man of distinction, holding numerous offices at Washington, and an influential place in the councils of the Republican party. Born in Philadelphia in 1861, he first held office as United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, as a Democrat. He left that party on the silver issue and was made an assistant attorney general by President McKinley. In 1921 Mr. Harding appointed him solicitor general, an office which he filled with distinction. He then served three terms in congress, where he was one of the best debaters, and retired in 1934 because he thought congress had become a "rubber stamp." Since then he had been prominent in the legal attacks on various phases of the New Deal.

League of American Nations Proposed

IN THEIR formal acceptance of the invitations of the United States government to the forthcoming Inter-American peace conference, three of the Latin American nations have proposed that a league of American nations be formed to preserve peace in the western hemisphere. The suggestion comes from Presidents Alfonso Lopez of Colombia, Jorge Ubeo of Guatemala and Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. They believe the proposed league would be not only a means of preventing war in the New World but also would be an effective adjunct to organizations working to preserve peace in all the world.

Congressmen Working on Taxes and Relief

CONGRESS settled down to earnest work that would clear the way for early adjournment, the two chief matters under consideration being taxes and relief.

Democratic members of the house ways and means committee worked in executive session to draw up the new revenue measure which they expect will yield about $750,000,000 in additional taxes during the next year. The minority members stayed away, scornfully asserting their presence was useless because the preparation of the measure was utterly partisan.

Representative A. P. Lambeck of Ohio, Democrat, was insistent on his plan to raise $500,000,000 by a flat 20 to 22 per cent tax on corporation income.

Harry L. Hopkins, head of the WPA, appeared before a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee, also in executive session, to urge compliance with President Roosevelt's request for an additional billion and a half to finance relief in the 1937 fiscal year. Various committee members at once demanded that Mr. Hopkins tell what had been done with the $4,800,000,000 granted last year.

Hagood Given Command of Chicago Area

FOLLOWING a conference with Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, who was removed from command of the Eighth corps area for criticizing WPA methods, President Roosevelt took the soldier back into his good graces and appointed him to the command of the Sixth corps area with headquarters in Chicago. He will replace Maj. Gen. Frank McCoy and the assignment takes effect May 2. General McCoy is transferred to the Second corps area at New York to succeed Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, who is retiring.

Calles Is Expelled by Mexican Government

PLUTARCO ELIAS CALLES, former president of Mexico and for long the most powerful figure in that republic, was forcibly exiled to the United States, together with three other prominent citizens, by the Mexican government, which declared their presence there was dangerous to the welfare of the country.

Summarily ousted with Calles, who for 11 years ruled Mexico with an iron hand, were Luis Morones, former minister of labor and leader of the regional confederation of workers and peasants; Luis de Leo, former minister of the interior and agriculture; and Rafael Melchor Ortega, former governor of Guanajuato.

The four men were, by order of President Cardenas, placed aboard a plane at Mexico City and taken across the border to Brownsville, Texas. From there they took another plane to California.

Leftists charged that Calles and his associates were fomenting agitation against the Cardenas administration. This Calles denied, adding: "A state of anarchy exists in Mexico and communism is spreading with government help."

Spanish Parliament Ousts President Zamora

SOMETHING new in Spanish history took place in Madrid. The parliament, by a vote of 238 to 5, ousted Niceto Alcala Zamora from the office of president of the republic. This action, accomplished by a coalition of Socialists, Communists, Left Republicans and ten minor groups, was taken on a Socialist motion that the president had acted illegally in dissolving the last parliament before the elections and that therefore he should be expelled from office.

Diego Martinez Barrio, speaker of parliament, was made temporary president to serve until elections are held.

Black's Lobby Committee Wins Court Decision

SENATOR BLACK'S lobby committee won a considerable victory in the District of Columbia Supreme court when Chief Justice Wheat refused to enjoin the committee from using the telegrams from and to William R. Hearst which had been seized. The judge held that the court had no jurisdiction over the committee, and said he could not see that the freedom of the press was in any way involved.

Said his honor: "I have not been informed yet of any case in which any court has assumed to dictate to a committee of the senate what it should do and what it should not do, and I do not feel that I have any right to inaugurate any such principle as that."

Elisha Hanson, counsel for Mr. Hearst, announced that he would appeal from the decision, and it was certain that the case would ultimately be taken before the United States Supreme court.

Continuing its investigation, the Black committee heard the testimony of Fred G. Clark of New York, national commander of the Crusaders. Mr. Clark denied that the organization had ever engaged in lobbying, and declared that it had assailed the methods of lobbyists in a national radio broadcast.

Japanese Arrest Five Mongolian Officials

HEADQUARTERS of the Japanese army in Manchukuo announced that five Mongolian officials high in the service of the Manchukuo government had been arrested on the charge of being secret agents of Soviet Russia and would be court-martialed. One of them is Lin Sheng, governor of Northern Hsingan province.

Eleven Persons Killed in Air Liner Crash

FLYING through a fog on its way to Pittsburgh, a Transcontinental and Western air liner went far out of its course, plowed through the forest seven miles southeast of Union City, Pa., and smashed into a granite wall on Chestnut Ridge. Nine passengers and two pilots were killed. The stewardess, Miss Nellie Granger, managed to drag one man and the sole woman passenger from the flaming wreckage, bound up their wounds, ran four miles to a farmhouse from which she telephoned to Pittsburgh the news of the disaster, and then returned to the scene to care for the survivors until a rescue party could arrive. The pilots were flying on a radio beam and it was believed their radio failed.

Tangle of Diplomatic Rivalries in Europe

MUSOLINI'S African adventure and Hitler's Rhineland doings and future intentions, tangled together, have created a situation that seemed to imperil the formal friendship between Great Britain and France. The British were insisting that Italy be curbed, that her use of poison gas in Ethiopia be taken up by the League of Nations and that peace negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia be opened quickly to forestall any attempt by Premier Mussolini to sign a settlement which might rise from ruins of Haile Selassie's Ethiopian empire. Foreign Secretary Eden indicated the British were determined to make peace progress "before we leave Geneva."

The conciliation committee of the league was making little or no progress, and in Rome Mussolini told his cabinet that Ethiopia's armies should and would be "totally annihilated." His own forces, meanwhile, were moving rapidly toward Dessale and Addis Ababa.

France was reverting to her former policy of letting Italy go ahead with its African conquest, devoting her attention mainly to Germany and central Europe. The British continued to treat all that in a conciliatory way, which disgusted the French. Premier Sarraut handed in his government's reply to the Hitler settlement proposals, submitting in return its own plan. This demanded that Germany keep "hands off" the rest of Europe for 25 years, renouncing her apparent intentions of action against Austria, Danzig and Memel, and claims for colonies. It submitted a French peace plan based on "collective security" with regional mutual assistance pacts backed by an international army directed by a commission working through the league.

Printed Trimmings of Silk Used on Elegant Daytime Frocks of One Color

Pattern No. 1851-B

The smartest of the new dresses are those in a single color with dashes of printed silk to trim them. This design is one of the best, made of blue cloxy silk and trimmed with a print in red and blue on a white ground. The front of the bodice has a row of buttons extending to the hipline and a collar of the printed silk. A slender, paneled skirt is split up the front to show a printed strip that is attached underneath. Three-quarter sleeves are gathered into fitted cuffs in harmony with the collar. And by all means don't overlook the novelty shoulder and hip yoke.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1851-B is available for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric with 3/4 length sleeve.

OVEREATING AND FAT ARE CALLED 'VICIOUS CIRCLE'

A "vicious circle" makes fat people fatter by increasing their appetites as their weight goes up. This conclusion is reached in a thesis written for a master of science degree in dietetics at the University of Iowa by Miss Letta Houser, who studied a group of 40 persons ranging in weight from 124 to 322 pounds.

"I found," she said, "that obese persons have no more preference for rich foods than persons of normal weight and no greater propensity for nibbling between meals than ordinary individuals."

"But when the normal and obese groups were fed the same foods, those persons overweight always ate up to 20 per cent more, regardless of what was served, or the manner of its serving."

Miss Houser also discovered that both groups developed larger appetites when the entire meal was served at once rather than in courses. She included a study of personalities of overweight persons in her research and concluded there is a tendency among them "toward emotional instability and submissiveness to the will of others—while, she said, may explain why fat persons are popularly regarded as jolly."

"There remains, however," she said, "a question as to whether this is a cause or effect of obesity."

Food and fat, Miss Houser said, form a "vicious circle," because the appetite apparently becomes greater as excess weight increases.
