FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1936

MASS MEETING STARTS INTEREST IN BASEBALL

A mass meeting was held at the City Hall here last Friday night by about 200 enthusiastic citizens, when a board of directors and officers were elected for the Fulton County League baseball club. This move came after Fulton had been chosen as the eighth member of this league in a meeting of Kitty league managers in Union City last week. At that time Fulton was selected over Corinth, Miss., and Owensboro, Ky. to take the place vacated by the withdrawal of Cape Girardeau, Mo. Other clubs in the Kitty League are Jackson, Union City, Lexington, Tenn., Hopkinsville, Paducah, Mayfield, Ky., and Portersville, Mo. E. N. DeMyer and Bailey Ruddle, who were active in obtaining the franchise for Fulton, led the discussion at the meeting here Friday night.

Officers named were: J. E. Hannepin, president; Frank Beadles, vice president; H. H. Bugg, treasurer; W. H. Atkins, secretary; E. N. DeMyer, Bailey Hudleston, M. W. Haws, Bonas Callahan, Kellie Lowe and Bob White. Plans were discussed to start work immediately on the ball park and construction of a new grandstand to seat 1,100 people. The old Kitty League park, known as Fairfield, will be put in condition, as it already has a good diamond and field.

The directors are considering plans for lighting the field for night games, as it is believed that night ball will draw larger crowds. Fulton is geographically located to enjoy good attendance from the surrounding territory.

A committee for the local baseball organization started an active campaign on Monday of this week to raise funds with which to start operations. This committee has succeeded in raising sufficient money to start a conjunction of the new grandstand.

Major league baseball clubs have been contacted in order to hasten action in obtaining players for the local club. Many letters and telegrams have been received from players and managers seeking berths with the Fulton team. J. E. Hannepin, president, states:

KROGER ELIMINATES TWO MEN FOR IMPORTANT POSITIONS

Two important positions of executives of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company were announced recently by Albert H. Morrill, the company president.

Stephen A. Douglas, who has held the post of general meat sales manager since 1931, was advanced to the position of Director of Sales Promotions.

W. Mason Smith, was appointed to the post of Assistant General Sales Manager of Operations.

Mr. Douglas holds the distinction of being the youngest infantry officer in the overseas forces during the World War, being a lieutenant at the age of 20.

Before joining the Kroger Company, he was Sales Manager for Swift & Company.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of the University of Commerce, having received his B. A. Degree in 1924 and his Master's Degree in 1925. After a brief teaching period, he became Assistant Secretary of the National Association of Cost Accountants, with headquarters in New York, where he remained until 1931, when he joined James C. McKenney and Co. of Chicago and New York, management engineers.

In this work, Mr. Smith specialized in problems dealing with organization, merchandising, personnel and financial matters for many of the largest corporations in the country.

DEATHS

N. B. LOVELACE

N. B. Lovelace, age 80, died at his home here Monday night at 8:15 p. m. after an illness of three weeks. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Church of Christ in Martin, Tenn., by Rev. J. J. Reynolds and Rev. E. M. Mathis. Burial followed at East Hill Cemetery there in charge of Hornbeak Undertakers.

Mr. Lovelace was born January 13, 1856, at Como, Tenn., and had lived in Fulton for all of his life. He was well known and highly respected by all who knew him. He married Miss Mary Jane Looney November 12, 1879, at five children, three of whom survive. Up until recently he had been with the Chambers-Godfrey Mfg. Co. of Martin, with which concern he had been connected for the past 13 years. He served as postmaster at Martin for two terms under President Harrison and four years in the state treasurer's office at Nashville, Tenn.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Jane Lovelace, three children, Mrs. Stella Ellis, Miss Corinne Lovelace, Curtis D. Lovelace, one son, Carroll Looney, two grand-children, Mrs. A. B. Dunning, Chicago, Mo., and Dane Lovelace, Fulton, Mo., and two sisters, Mrs. Saffronia Coulter of Abilene, Texas, and Mrs. C. B. Bowden of Martin, Tenn., besides many other relatives and friends.

MRS. J. M. KEMP

Mrs. J. M. Kemp, the former Miss Carrie Norman, daughter of Henry Norman of Fulton, died at her home in Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday. The remains were carried to Clinton, Monday, where funeral services were conducted. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Martha Norman of Clinton, her husband, J. M. Kemp, three children, Martha, Louise and John of Chattanooga, three brothers, Ben Norman, Jim Norman of this city, and Robert Norman of Dyersburg, Tenn.

MRS. SARA GORELY

Mrs. Sarah Gorely, age 75, died here Thursday, April 23, at her residence on Third street. Although death came quite suddenly she had been in bad health for several weeks. Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon by Rev. W. B. Ryan, pastor of the First Christian Church, where she was a member. She is survived by her husband, Dr. W. W. Gorely; three sons, George, of Memphis, Harry T. and Frank of this city; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine McFerrin, and Mrs. Johnnie Miles of McDonough, Miss., also several grandchildren.

MRS. D. C. JOHNSON

Mrs. D. C. Johnson, age 86, died at her home in Martin, Tenn., following an extended illness. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church at Fairview cemetery in Fulton in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

Mrs. Johnson, a former resident of this community, was well known here. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Minnie Winston of Fulton, one brother, George Winston of Houston, Tex., and other relatives.

Sunday is a big day for Sunday Schools here and throughout the state, for it is Kentucky Go To Sunday School Day. Everybody is urged to attend some Sunday School Sunday, and special programs are being arranged by the various churches. So make your plans to attend Sunday School somewhere Sunday.

FRANK SMITH PLAYERS

The Frank Smith players, who became favorites with the people of Fulton during their week's engagement here last year will be back in Fulton again next week for a week's engagement in their big tent theater located on the old Meadows lot. The show is for the benefit of the Elks Club Charity fund.

Frank Smith players are noted for their clean high class plays and vaudeville, and are said to be even better than last year. This year extra added attraction, Evelyn.

"The girl who sees tomorrow." Evelyn has received very favorable comments in every city in which she has appeared during the past year. She is acknowledged as being without peer in her line of work, and there are many who will baffle and entertain you, and see her. Nothing to compare with her has ever been in Fulton. The opening play Monday night will be a modern three act comedy drama, entitled, "The Kentucky Thoroughbred" and ladies will be admitted free on opening night when accompanied by paid adult ticket. If you want to enjoy an evening of real entertainment, do not fail to visit the big tent theater all next week.

The company made many friends who welcome them back to Fulton this year. In case of real cool weather the tents will be comfortably heated.

NEWSPAPERS HOLD PRESS MEET HERE

The spring meeting of the West Kentucky and West Tennessee Daily Press Association was held at the Union Hotel here last Friday night. When five towns were represented by 29 newspaper men and women. A general round-table discussion of advertising and circulation was held. Henry Clay, publisher of the State Gazette of Dyersburg, was elected president of the association. Percy Williams of Paris, Tenn., Hoyt Moore of Fulton, Harry Watkins of Dyersburg were chosen secretary. It was voted to hold the next meeting at Reelfoot Lake on the second Friday in June. C. E. Bennett of The Messenger at Union City, will be the host.

TODD DEMONSTRATION FLOCKS PROFITABLE

ELKTON, Ky., April 30. That egg chickens, properly handled, have been profitable during the depression years is revealed in the records of Todd county farmers. Agent Stuart Brantley, in demonstrating poultry raising possibilities.

Records from 1929 to 1935 inclusive showed that the average income from poultry on the demonstration farms was $254 per flock of 125 over feed costs. The flocks averaged 64 fens.

Early hatching, attention to sanitation, and plenty of feed, were the three main points in the program of this flock raising.

CONSERVATION WORK FOR 4-H CLUB BOYS

Plans to conduct 4-H club boys in conservation activities are announced by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Emphasis this year will be placed on the preservation and conservation of game and song birds, animals, forest trees and shrubs.

Fifty boys doing the best work will be rewarded with scholarships to a state conservation camp, sponsored by a Minneapolis philanthropist, according to J. W. Whiteloose, state club leader.

The club department has supplied club boys with a list of 15 suggested activities, including various ways of protecting birds, making surveys, propagation of game and fish, ponds, observing state game and fish laws, of wild life, stocking fish ponds, propagation of quail, studying and observing state game and fish laws, growing crops to provide winter feed for birds, planting and protecting trees, etc.

POLICE LOCKED-OUT OF OWN JAIL HERE

Officers here picked up a man who gave his name as Bethel McNary of England, Ark., and placed him in jail for observation. Shortly afterward officers attempted to talk with him, they found themselves locked out of their own jail. Persuasion and psychology failed to produce results, as the man seemed to believe that he was pursued by a mob that intended to hang him for a crime he claimed that he committed in Arkansas.

W. C. T. U. IN APRIL MEETING HERE

The April meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lon Berenson on Edgings-st. with Mrs. J. J. Owen, president, in charge of the program. Mrs. Lora Horton gave the devotional using the 24th Psalm, and her comments were impressive and helpful. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Ed Bonduant and were approved.

Mrs. Sebra Evans gave a helpful reading, "Turning Troubles Into Triumphs." Mrs. Owen gave the reading, "The Impossible, showing how the seemingly impossible can be accomplished by work and faith combined. Mrs. Horton, superintendent of the Evangelistic Department, gave a report of work being done. The union voted to pay her car expense to go to Fulton and Ohio county homes and outlying missions and carry the gospel message.

A petition has been sent to Senator J. W. McDonald, Frankfort, from the W. C. T. U. of the P. T. A. Methodist, Baptist and Cumberland Presbyterian churches, representing more than 500 women, to use the passage of a bill permitting sale of 32 beer in dry territories.

Mrs. R. H. Herring gave a short report on Child Welfare work and reported that 24 states have ratified the Child Labor amendment.

W. C. T. U. benediction was led by Mrs. J. B. Equin. The May meeting will be held at the country home of Mrs. J. J. Owen.

GARDEN DEPARTMENT IN MEETING FRIDAY AFT.

Much interest is being taken in the organization of a Kitty League club for Fulton, and approximately $1,200 has been obtained preliminary to the starting of work on the ball diamond and the construction of a new grandstand to seat 1,100 people. Players have started coming in for try-outs for berths on the local team. Officials of the Fulton club are expecting to obtain the assistance of some major league club, as contacts are now being made with several of these baseball organizations.

GILLIAM-LAURIE CEREMONY IN MAYFIELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Mayfield April 18—The Mayfield Messenger carried the following announcement of much interest to Fulton people: Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilliam announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise, to Mr. Joseph Laurie of Indianapolis, Ind. The ceremony was said in Indianapolis on the evening of a small group of friends.

Mrs. Laurie is one of Mayfield's most charming and popular young ladies. She is well known in Western Kentucky for the many beauty honors awarded her. She was twice elected "Miss Mayfield." In the Mid-South Fair's beauty contest in Memphis last fall, she was chosen "Miss West Kentucky," and "Miss West Kentucky-Tennessee" at a contest last fall in Paris, Tenn. Mrs. Laurie was leader of the Girls Drill Corps of Mayfield High School last fall.

The groom, the son of Mrs. Margaret Laurie, of Indianapolis, received his education in the Indianapolis schools where he was very popular in athletics. At the present he is a member of the Indianapolis Indians Ball club of the American Association.

They will make their home in Indianapolis.

Water Valley News By Polly Cloyes

The Water Valley High School students will go to Reelfoot Lake Friday immediately after noon. They will return later in the evening.

County Superintendent Baldrée and wife were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Williams last Saturday evening. They remained for the Senior play.

RAILROAD NEWEST
Railroad's newest and most modern train was on exhibition in Fulton last Friday night. The new streamline, standard size train of the Illinois Central System, is a marvel of perfection and invention.

To go through it, and inspect the various cars and their varied arrangement and improvements over other type of trains, is to marvel at the changes that are coming so swiftly in the railroad world.

While the train was here on exhibition, it was our pleasure to meet and talk with many of the prominent railroad officials of the Illinois Central System. Superintendent Kern, J. A. McBride, C. M. Chumley, A. T. Zeigler, B. T. Breckenridge and Richard White, of the Public Relations Department, were present during the public display here, and they all expressed themselves as highly pleased with the new streamline marvel, and predicted bigger things in store for railroading in the future.

Although the new train will not make its regular run on the route through Fulton, it marks the beginning of a new era in railroad development and faster travel for the Illinois Central System, and we venture the prediction that it will not be long before a new streamline train will be running between Chicago and New Orleans via Fulton.

A TRIBUTE
"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."—Quotation from Herodotus, which is suitable for expressing a tribute to the railroads.

In 1935, carrying millions of people over the amazing total of 18,400,000,000 passenger miles—speeding onward, each day and every day, through rain and storm—undaunted by fog, sleet and snow—the railroads of this nation wrote a memorable safety chapter in their colorful history. For in 1935 not a single passenger fatality resulted from a train accident in the United States!

Here indeed, is justification for the ceaseless, untiring efforts of thousands of skilled railroad men—men whose lives are devoted to your safe, rapid, comfortable transportation. Day and night they work, under all conditions, ever alert to the latest transit advancements—seeking, always seeking, new ways and means by which to make your journeys even more pleasant and agreeable.

But most important of all, is your safety. Constant vigilance protects you. Keen, diligent, wide-awake men—modern, dependable safety devices—very finest equipment—all co-ordinate to keep you secure. You can trust American railroads, where safety is the guiding principle.

MR. FARLEY'S OPTIMISM
Democratic National Committee Chairman Farley, who is also chairman of the New York State Committee, went to Albany to function in the latter capacity a few days ago at a State Committee meeting.

"Overwhelming evidence is piling up that President Roosevelt will be re-elected," he declared in a broadcast address there. "Impartial observers, honest and fair polls of sentiment, all tell the same story. His popularity has grown by leaps and bounds. 'Republican leaders are just a group of discredited and disappointed men,' he continued, and Mr. Hoover's criticism of the New Deal, like the jokes he is injecting into his speeches, is all a joke, Farley said.

In other speech at Pittsfield, Mass., Mr. Farley challenged Roosevelt opponents to name "what particular element" of the New Deal they would abolish. He was addressing a rally of the Western Massachusetts Democratic leaders.

Charges that the Democratic party under the New Deal has gone Socialist or radical is "one of the absurdities of the political campaign of 1936 so far," Democratic Publicity Director Charles Michelson declared in his weekly newsletter, citing the fact that such conservatives as Senators Hull, Glass, Barkley and Thomas Walsh were guiding spirits in the 1932 convention of the party, framing its platform and policies.

Straw votes, press comment, sidewalk gossip, all those sources indicate strongly that President Roosevelt will be re-elected by a large majority, greater perhaps than the victory of his first campaign.

No amount of political argument will prevail against the evidence of better conditions. On every hand the voter notices signs of good times with the prospect of better ones especially when the bonus money and farmer crop payments are put into circulation.

Presently, one boomlet will follow another, beginning in the eastern flood area, then increasing, until, by the time the election is near, the entire country will be in the midst of an industrial boom, the only political language the average voter can understand.

STUDENTS LEARN TO KEEP BUDGET
If the income is $100, and the amount spent is $95, the result is happiness. That is the gist, at least, of Mica "bre's famous statement in the film, "David Copperfield."

Students in the University of Kentucky home economics department are taught to keep a budget, as an aid to saving. A blank book, which can be bought for 5 or 10 cents, is the only thing needed. There are standard books on the market, but as entries may differ widely, many persons prefer to make their own. There should be two divisions each month, one for necessities, and one for things that are highly desirable, but which cannot be bought until after groceries, rent and clothes are paid for. Sometimes the term, "higher life," is used for this classification, which includes insurance, either life or retirement benefits; savings and investments; medical attention; education, either in school or through newspapers, magazines and books; the church and civic groups.

After keeping the budget for six months, it is checked to see where changes should be made. After learning exactly how much is spent for various things, it is possible to make out an estimate of what will be spent in the next few months, and to plan for those things which are seen as desirable.

The smaller the income, the more worthwhile budget-making becomes. Money represents labor on the part of someone, and should be handled as such as to obtain the greatest possible good from it. As home-makers spend a large percentage of the income, it is imperative that they be qualified by experience and understanding for the task.

$500 PRIZE OFFERED IN NEWSPAPER CONTEST

The part that the modern newspaper plays in the life of the community will be the subject of a radio program to be broadcast through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company early in July.

Occasion for this tribute to the publishing industry is found in the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the linotype. It was this key invention that freed printing from the limitations of hand work and made possible the development of the newspaper in the form we know it today.

A prize of $500 and a trip to New York has been offered by the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. for the 30 minute radio script which best dramatizes newspaper development over the last fifty years.

This paper will be glad to furnish the rules of the contest and to demonstrate the production of a modern newspaper to any of its readers who wish to compete for this award.

Before you decide on any new car—

Get that V-8 Feeling!

Borrow a car from your Ford Dealer today

It won't take you five minutes in a new Ford V-8 to realize why the Ford today is in a class by itself. Why families with several cars find that it's the Ford that's always in demand. Why over 2,500,000 Americans have become V-8 fans in the past four years.

For here, in an economical car, is the type of modern power plant used formerly only by cars priced in the thousands. Smoother. More powerful. Making all driving easier and pleasanter.

Here, too, you'll find the comfort of a 123" springbase—actually 11 inches longer than the wheelbase. You'll enjoy the protection of a steel body, new Super-Safety brakes, safety glass throughout. And you'll be delighted with the proved overall economy of a car that is built to the Ford ideal of giving the utmost for every dollar you spend.

We urge you to drive this new Ford V-8 now. We say sincerely that no one should buy any car at any price without first having this experience.

200 WORK SHEETS FOR SOIL CONSERVATION PRO. COMPLETE

Seven community meetings have been completed and about 200 farmers have been assisted in making work sheets, which is simply a history of the farm operations during the past year.

This coming week it will be possible for producers to make out these forms at Hickman on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday and Fulton on Saturday.

Community meetings were held in order to make it convenient for everyone to make a work sheet but because some of the farmers were busy in the fields this opportunity is being given so that everyone can be assisted in completing this form.

Some farmers have not shown much interest in the program because they do not understand all of the details but since there are so many ways that payments can be made it is to the advantage of every land owner to make out a work sheet, since he might be convinced later on that he and his neighbors would be benefited by the program. Everyone should stop for a moment and try to remember the prices they were receiving for farm products only three years ago. The Government is making payments for sowing legumes and assisting in paying the farmer to do other good soil building practices.

CORN-HOG-COTTON SUBSIDY CHECKS HAVE ARRIVED

J. B. McGehee, Secretary-Treasurer of the Corn-Hog-Cotton Association, has just received $19,000 worth of checks for final payment on 1935 contracts. The checks may be had by producers, calling at the County Agent's office and farmers living near Fulton should come to the Woman's Club building Saturday.

About 100 cotton subsidy checks have been received and producers will be notified by card when their check arrives. Some producers have not yet signed the necessary forms or applications for this payment. These have been notified that the forms are ready for signatures and should come at once, if this has not been done.

The Cotton Subsidy Check is made payable to the landlord and he is required to pay tenants and sharecroppers who are interested in the 1935 crop. Therefore, it is not necessary for anyone except the landlord to receive this check, but when the tenants or share cropper is paid he must sign a form which the landlord will present, showing that he has received his share of the payment.

FULTON, KY., April 29—D. Fred Worth, local attorney, has been sworn in as city police judge to serve in the place of Judge Lon Adams who is critically ill in a local hospital. The oath of office was administered by Esquire C. J. Bowers.

THE NEW LIABILITY LAW HOLDS AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS RESPONSIBLE

Do you have LIABILITY INSURANCE on your AUTOMOBILE? "Driver's Financial Responsibility Law" becomes effective May 16th, 1936.

This Law requires you, in case of ACCIDENT and judgment is rendered against you and settlement is not made within thirty (30) days, to surrender your Driver's License and your Automobile License and you are not permitted to operate an automobile until all claims have been satisfactorily settled.

When you purchase LIABILITY INSURANCE, make sure your POLICY so reads that you are protected against all LIABILITY to amount required by this law.

Let us furnish you with your LIABILITY INSURANCE and avoid any LIABILITY COSTS that may arise against you. Get your LIABILITY INSURANCE now—Do not wait until it is too late.

Your LIABILITY POLICY WILL INSURE your RIGHTS to operate your AUTOMOBILE and PROTECT your FINANCES IN CASE you HAVE an ACCIDENT whether you are liable for the accident or not.

For COMPLETE INFORMATION in regard to LIABILITY INSURANCE, call at our office, 406 Lake Street, or phone No. 5, Fulton, Ky., and we will gladly furnish you with NECESSARY INFORMATION how you may obtain ABSOLUTE PROTECTION against all LIABILITY COSTS.

ATKINS INSURANCE AGENCY

406 LAKE STREET PHONE NO. 5 FULTON, KY.

Your Officer Will Tell You

"THAT IT'S A WISE THING TO CARRY AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY INSURANCE"

The "in and out weaver," the "road hog," the speed demon," the "horn blower," the "pest" who turns in the middle of the road—all are every day problems of your officer. He knows the risks you stand every time you drive your car. He knows that from 1922 through 1935 deaths from automobile accidents in this country have aggregated 380,000, and that these deaths have exceeded by 55 per cent the record of those killed in action, or who died of wounds in all the wars in which this country participated. He is fully aware that thousands of less serious accidents are happening every day.

GET OFF THE SPOT BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

Let us protect you with AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY INSURANCE. The new Kentucky Law makes it imperative that you yourself, and your property from liability in case of accident. This law goes into force May 16th.

YES, YOU CAN NOW HAVE MODERN REFRIGERATION

This exclusive SuperCondenser Top means efficient and economical operation

HERE is Superfex, the Oil Burning Refrigerator—designed especially to bring the most modern form of refrigeration to rural homes. It works anywhere because it requires no outside connections of any kind—makes cold by burning kerosene. Superfex is the most economical form of refrigeration you could have, for many reasons, one of which is that the burners operate only about two hours to make refrigeration for twenty-four hours or more.

Thousands in Use
Superfex is made by a company that has served rural homes for more than forty years—the makers of famous Perfection Stoves and Ranges. Superfex is made to do the things that a refrigerator must do out in the country, to make cold—plenty of cold—day after day and year after year.

Fresh Food and Ice Always Handy
With Superfex in your kitchen, you don't have to run out to the well or down cellar every time you prepare a meal. Everything you need can be kept right within reach in Superfex. You can keep fresh meats hot days at a time. You

No electricity, no running water, no moving parts. Operates on kerosene.

New, Improved Models easy terms

This year's models surpass all that have been made. They are more efficient—more beautiful. Their new design and cream-white porcelain finish make them "at home" in any kitchen. The adjustable shelves can be arranged to meet the needs of each day's storage. Superfex can be bought on easy terms—plenty of time in which to pay if you wish. Telephone or write for a free demonstration in your own home.

Richard Peoples has accepted a position with the Hudson Music Co. in Centralia, Ill.

Mrs. Seldon Bugg spent Tuesday in Fulton with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moss.

SWIFT EMPLOYEES JOIN SAFETY CLUB HERE

Pledges to drive carefully and help reduce the terrible traffic toll have been signed by twenty-one employees of the Fulton Swift & Co. plant, according to W. R. Donigan, local manager who also announced that a grand total of 18,000 have been signed voluntarily by members of the Swift organization.

This is part of a nation-wide campaign begun six months ago by G. F. Swift, president of the company including those who drive their own automobiles as well as company drivers.

"We hope that our signed regulations will be a means to reduce the auto accident toll in Fulton and also in other sections of the country," said Mr. Donigan. Careful driving not only in number but in severity.

"All employees who drive cars were invited to sign a pledge and

It was a birthday party given by a wealthy young farmer, and one of the guests noticed a somewhat lonely looking and shabbily attired man in a corner of the room, and walked over to him.

"I was introduced to you," he said, "but I didn't catch your name."

"My name," replied the other, "is Burton."

"Oh, then you are a relative of our host?"

"Yes," was the reply. "I'm his cousin twenty thousand pounds removed."

Who'd Be a Teacher?

Teacher was instructing the infant class in the story of Lot's flight, and said: "Lot was warned to take his wife and flee out of the city, which was about to be destroyed. Lot and his wife got safely away. Now, children, have you any questions to ask?"

At last a little boy ventured to inquire: "Please, teacher, what happened to the flea?"

No Perfect Crime
A Heavenly 400
Fighting Over Rivers

Arthur Brisbane

President Roosevelt, in another "opening speech of the 1936 campaign," addressing 20,000 Young Democrats of Baltimore and the nation on the radio, suggested that youth should begin work at eighteen and "old age" stop work at sixty-five.

Youth should have its first 18 years, at least, for exercise, study, happiness. Sixty-five might be a good age to stop dull routine work for wages, but no man would want to stop real work until death, except that six months to look around this side of the grave might be acceptable. Goethe finished the second part of "Faust" when he was past seventy-two; and one of the ablest French writers, starting a new prose style, wrote nothing until at eighty-six he wrote the Life of St. Louis at the request of the king's widow. Within half a century 25 years have been added to the average lives of old men; nobody would want those years wasted.

In the murder of an unfortunate young woman, New York detectives think they see, at last, "the perfect crime," one in which the perpetrator cannot be identified.

Fortunately, there is no perfect crime, except in the imagination of the criminal or the detective story writer, because criminals are dull, cannot keep their mouths shut, are vain, boast and the electric chair gets them. Also, they jump when a hand is laid on the shoulder; that helps detectives, and criminals are betrayed by fellow criminals.

Bishop Stewart, Episcopalian, of Chicago, thinks immortality may be limited. "Only those who have a definite relationship to God through the spiritual life may be eligible for immortality, and other souls cease to exist upon death."

This important suggestion of a celestial "four hundred" will appeal to many that might not care to meet, in heaven, the cave man with low forehead, protruding jaw, the bushman with a vocabulary of 150 words, or all the repentant thieves, murderers and trust magnates.

It is conceivable that selection of the celestial few might be postponed a few million years, until real civilization shall have begun. This is the poison gas age.

Rivers have played an important part in the world's history and in wars. The Tigris and Euphrates, creating fertile Mesopotamia, and the ancient Nile, with its rich valley, regularly coated with Nile mud, made the first civilizations possible.

Men fought through the ages about those two rivers, and today rivers still cause war. In Europe the Rhine border may cause a repetition of the big war. In Africa, the Blue Nile, fed by Ethiopia's Lake Tana, breeds bitter hatred between England and Italy.

Charles Lamb tells of a Chinese gentleman whose house burned and of a pig so marvelously roasted that thereafter pigs were locked in houses, the houses burned for the sake of the roast pig.

That is recalled by a lady under arrest in Pensacola, Fla. Sheriff Gandy charges she tried twice to wreck a passenger train to kill her husband, the engineer. It is alleged that the plot failed because the wrong spikes were pulled from the rails. Sheriff Gandy thinks the lady wanted to collect $3,000 in life insurance.

An African savage who gave all his ivory tusks for a gun was found later in the bush, on his knees, praying to the gun not to shoot him. He did not know how to use it.

This country is equally ignorant about using youth and its enthusiasm.

A Frenchman says truly "American digestion would improve if Americans made more and better sauces."

Voltaire, another Frenchman, said the same thing of England long ago. He found that England had many religions and only one sauce, whereas France had many sauces and only one religion, and he preferred France.

The new Zeppelin, in spite of engines out of order on her return from Brazil to Germany, kept on her way at 50 miles an hour, fighting winds over the Mediterranean. That is one advantage of a dirigible—she stays up. The heavier-than-air plane with engine trouble comes down.

Russia has a genuine "youth movement," with one-third of all workers under twenty-three years of age, 43 per cent of them girls. Russia has 175,000,000 population, nearly half of it born since the Bolshevik revolution. Populations and history change rapidly. Extreme youth might control the whole of Russia but for the fact that it is already controlled by Stalin, of middle age.

Washington.—It has been several months since the administration farm relief program, the agricultural adjustment act, was declared dead, but like the words of the song, "the memory lingers on." And it is quite apparent that mistakes as well as memories of the AAA will continue through the heat of the coming Presidential campaign and probably considerably longer for it is only necessary to recall that the stepbrother of the AAA, the federal farm board of the Hoover administration, still is the butt of much criticism and many pointed paragraphs.

One of the main reasons why the memories linger on, where those memories involve AAA, is Michigan's Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. Senator Vandenberg never did get enthusiastic about the merits of AAA as they were expounded by Secretary Wallace, Administrator Chester Davis and other New Deal spokesmen and when the Supreme court of the United States threw out the processing taxes upon which the law was predicated, Senator Vandenberg was in a delightful spot from a political standpoint. He has not found it necessary to say "I told you so" and has had, I imagine, a great deal of personal fun in simply hinting to or reminding others of his previous stand.

But it was not until the Michigan senator began pulling figures out of his senatorial hat, showing how benefit payments from the AAA had gone to great and wealthy corporations in sums as high as a million dollars or more, that he held a key to the New Deal skeleton closet. They know now, however, exactly what he meant when he announced in the senate several weeks ago that no such plan as the AAA could be administered without vast sums being distributed in what he termed unwarranted payments—unwarranted from the standpoint of help for the smaller farmers.

Secretary Wallace stalled off Senator Vandenberg's demand in the senate for a complete list of beneficiaries who received checks from AAA in excess of one thousand dollars for quite a while but there were too many senators who believed as Senator Vandenberg did, that the truth ought to be known. Of course, as the procedure usually goes in Washington, many things are done without actual force being used. It was thus in the case of the AAA payments. Democratic senators who foresaw their inability to prevent a senate vote demanding a list of AAA payments persuaded Mr. Wallace to make public the list voluntarily and it was done just in advance of senate action. So, we now have for the first time, at least, an indication of the grotesque results of the agricultural adjustment administration program that was hailed from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an ideal plan.

The dynamite in the situation lies in the fact that there were dozens, even hundreds, of corporations which received AAA checks among the big beneficiaries paid to induce curtailment of basic forage crops. This would not be so bad except for the fact that the brilliant planners of the AAA continuously stressed its value to the small, debt ridden farmers. Throughout the time the law was under consideration and through the two years of its operation, never did Mr. Wallace or Mr. Davis fail to point out in their numerous speeches how great sums of money, collected in processing taxes, were being distributed to thousands of farmers and that these payments were in time going to put agriculture on its collective feet.

Now, however, the truth of their statements has been proved but when the whole truth had been exposed on the floor of the senate, it was found to go far beyond the small, debt ridden farmers.

The whole truth disclosed, in fact, that several million dollars had been paid even to corporations chartered by the British government and with home offices in England. Wall Street, that home of "entrenched greed," received its share and its share was substantial. On top of all of this there lately has come a disclosure that a great wheat farmer in Montana received something like $500,000 for agreeing not to plant wheat on land which he had rented from the Indians through the Federal Department of the Interior for the specific purpose of raising wheat.

The list of huge benefit payments is much too large to include in this letter.

but the fact remains that it showed how even the best laid plans of mice and men oft go astray, even when those men are brilliant brain trusters who themselves claim to know all there is available for human understanding.

In behalf of the AAA officials, it must be said that there will be as, indeed, there has been already, considerable unfair criticism. The criticism to which I refer is of this type: that they should have discovered in advance of the payments that funds were going to these corporations. Assuming that they could have discovered that fact in advance, there was no alternative for them except to pay the checks authorized by law. Congress made the law, or rather congress passed it under the lash of the administration, but it was on the statute books and administrative officials are not supposed to disregard such provisions.

If there is to be criticism it should be directed at the initial framing of the statute that brought about the condition. The results that have attracted so much attention since Senator Vandenberg's exposure constitute one of the curious coincidences and queer quirks of planned economy.

And a further word about the criticism. A great many people are likely to forget that while their check was in three figures and some corporation received one in six figures, the condition results wholly from the fact that one owned more land than the other. You may properly say this is a foreseen and I believe you will be making a correct statement. But surely this is a fact: the AAA officials cannot be blamed for sending out the checks when the law said they should do it regardless of the name or nature of the beneficiary. The fault lies solely and completely with those who, from their professional desks, conceived the whole scheme and gained President Roosevelt's approval for it.

Development of the vulnerable spots in the AAA crop curtailment program probably will prove beneficial to the country as a whole eventually. For one thing, these disclosures have forever choked off proposals of that kind. They may result as well in strengthening the new proposition for crop control through the medium of soil conservation. In other words, since the bulk of the congress thinks through legislation only in the terms of administration arguments, they will likely be less prone to enact legislation without knowing what results will be obtained.

It seems to me that the new farm-aid plan likely will be stronger and probably more workable and certainly less extravagant than was the AAA because the AAA weaknesses have been exposed. These exposures ought to have an effect also among thinking farmers who hereafter are unlikely to accept dogmatic statements and rainbow pictures painted for them by political demagogues and professional farm leaders without examining the practicability of the scheme. Personally, I am convinced that a great many farmers were led to believe that AAA was their only salvation and they gained this conviction solely because the other side never was told to them.

While we are talking about mistakes and about the results obtained by brilliant theorists, I hear more and more discussion of the latest move by Chairman

Henry P. Fletcher and his Republican national committee. Mr. Fletcher has hired ten university professors to head up what he calls the committee's research staff and in announcing their appointment he stressed a declaration that "the division is not a brain trust." But "brain trust" it is going to be called notwithstanding Mr. Fletcher's assertion that they were practical men and women of experience. They are going to be a brain trust in exactly the same sense that Mr. Roosevelt's "brain trust" has been denominated. And how else could it be? There actually seems to be little choice between the type of men Mr. Fletcher has chosen and the Tugwells, Hopkinses and other doctors and professors who have constantly had the ear of the President. These men will have Mr. Fletcher's ear and undoubtedly will pour into it their own theories of government and their own ideas of approach to the problem that confronts the Republican national committee, namely, the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt.

Dainty Collars and Jabots to Crochet

Pattern 1130

High time to be thinking up fresh accessory notes for spring wardrobe, isn't it? Then what better than these dainty, eye-catching and dainty jabot for giving last year's frock a "lift" and changing this year's to an open front collar in a square mesh design, a triangular collar that closes in back, both easy to do in petite boucle. The soft, dainty jabot of mesh with "mossy" of Irish roses is made in cotton.

Pattern 1130 comes to you with detailed directions for making the collar shown; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

Mother Advised Daughter
To Take CARDUI

Many, many women have taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers who had been helped by it. "I would have saved cramping spells," writes Mrs. F. C. Allen, of Smithdale, Miss. "I would get nauseated, and feel faint and would have to go to bed. I would be very nervous for two or three days. I was afraid to go away from home, for fear I would faint and fall. My mother, having used Cardui with good results, advised me to try it. I am so glad I took Cardui and get relief, for it has done wonders for me."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit you, consult a physician.

Be Sure They Properly
Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging back-ache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

Battle of the Rattlers

FEATS of strength almost legendary, though their hero is very much alive, are heard in the Cumberland mountains of Preston Brooks, Sewanee, Tenn.

"Buck," as Preston is best known, drove a light automobile. It negotiated mountain trails easily despite a weakness for punctures. As frequently as they went flat Buck would jerk away the offender, repair and replace it, all without bothering to jack up the wheel. "Puncture disease annoyed me only once," Buck stated, explaining a fortnight's absence. "My last repair patch was lost, six days ago, in an isolated cave that is twenty-seven and one-half miles from anywhere."

"I got stubborn. Decided to stay there indefinitely. Finally, near starved, I headed for home, flat tire and all. 'Don't believe I could have held out if I hadn't started into a wild cow, down on the mountainside. The flyver hit the cow plumb center and boosted her into the air. Before she landed, I'd milked and stripped her dry. Did it with my left hand, too, scooping the milk into my mouth with the right. 'When I turned the cow out to graze again only one tire had air in it. A rattlesnake attacked me and I jerked off the tire, air and all, and forced with the snake. His hollow fangs pierced the innards but I held on as the tire flattened, the snake swelled. He exploded, finally, and I came home. And here I am!'"

The Flying Pond

NEAR Buffalo, N. Y., lives a farmer who once had a pond back of his barn but he doesn't have it now. George H. Schlicher tells the reason thus:

One evening last winter the farmer saw a flock of wild geese settle down on his pond. He ran for his shotgun but before he arrived at the pond it was too dark to see the geese plainly enough to shoot one. So he decided to wait until morning to try to bag a goose.

That night there was a sudden drop in the temperature. In the cold frosty dawn the farmer hurried out to the barn and peered around the corner. Sure enough, there were the geese sitting quietly out in the middle of the pond. He stepped out into the open and raised his weapon. Immediately the geese set up a terrific clamor. The next moment their thrashing wings were carrying them high into the air and with them went the farmer's pond—frozen solidly to their legs.

Citizens of northern New York now look forward with dread to the coming of every winter. They are afraid that a large flock of wild geese may some time alight on Lake Ontario, and a sudden change will freeze it to the legs of the big birds and that they will lose their lake just as the farmer lost his pond. Residents of northern Ohio are also said to be alarmed over the possibility that the same thing may happen to Lake Erie.

Clothes and the Man

WHEN Walter Howey and Frank Carson, widely known newspaper executives, "teamed" on the Chicago Herald and Examiner years ago, their after-business adventures made history.

At five minutes past three one morning they strolled happily on Randolph street, having been persuaded to participate in a game of chance and profiting handsomely thereby.

At Clark street a ragged stranger approached. Instantly, Howey peeled $20 from his roll and showed it to the derelict.

"This is yours," orated Howey. "Just remove your clothes. Cross the street and touch the county building."

The unfortunate hesitated. He was lost.

Stepping gingerly, he removed all but b. v. d.'s, appraised the apparently deserted streets, and weakened. Howey pressed the money into his hand. "Take it," said the editor. "All you gotta do is touch the building."

As the victim, grabbing the $20, reached the county building, Carson yelled for the police. One of Chicago's finest appeared magically. "Catch him," screamed Carson, pointing. "That fellow's crazy."

Nine seconds later the naked man, clutching $20 tightly, turned a corner in advance of the policeman, fleeing wildly. "Think of it," gasped Carson. "More money than he's seen in months, but naked. And not even a pawnshop open."

The sequel, heard infrequently, is when Carson arrived home an hour later his apartment was jammed. A complete outfit of clothing was missing. Coattail objects were untouched.

Foods Deteriorate

In general, foods deteriorate on aging with varying intensity. This is manifested by such visible conditions as mold, rot and loss of moisture which is concomitant with a hardening effect.

Many times, however, this deterioration can only be detected by the change in aroma and flavor as with butter and eggs, and coffee holdings to this class. One of the greatest causes for spoilage in foods is the presence of oxygen. This gas is instrumental in changing some of the various constituents of foods which have an affinity for it and thereby alters the flavor of the entire food. The chemical composition of the roasted coffee bean is such that it is very easily attacked by oxygen.

SYNOPSIS

Bryn (James Brynildson III), a tall, broad young man of wealth and his thin, Tubby Parkes, are discussing Bryn's coming marriage. Tubby believes it a scheme to get Bryn's wealth from him. Should the girl, Deborah, whom Bryn had met at the office of his attorney, Ted Holworthy, marry Stuart Gray, she will inherit a vast fortune from her grandfather Stuart had greatly displeased Deborah, who refused to marry him. Bryn, posing as an unemployed engineer, offers to marry Deborah, as Stuart, for $50,000, they not to live as man and wife. Twenty-three years previous, Anne Larned had eloped with a servant, managing the finances. Bryn, a servant, managing the finances. Bryn, a servant, managing the finances.

They were at luncheon, she and Grandmother and the man, seated at the long table in the middle of the vast shadowy dining room. The ceiling was high and supported by dark heavy oak beams; at one end was a great fireplace with a carved oak mantelpiece and a stone hearth. The western wall was pierced by a row of six square casement windows shut with iron. On the table stood the beautiful dulled old silver candelabra which had once been altar pieces in a cathedral; now they held the cheapest and most ordinary thick white candles whose flames wavered and burned coarsely and unevenly, and gave off a strong odor of impure wax.

Deborah sat up and moved the silver spoon beside her plate. She looked across at Grandmother. Grandmother was wearing her gray satin dress for the first time since Grandfather's death. Her white hair was pinned more loosely than usual, and fluffed out softly around her face. Her eyes were sparkling, slight, happy. There was pink in her cheeks, and a throat

"Well," Bryn admitted slowly, "no." "No? No? But . . ."

"But we told her she could, I told her. Holworthy told her, of course, if she's gone off and tried marrying anyone else, he'd have been forced to explain to her that on second reading . . . and so on."

"So," Tubby said with the manner of a talkative villain, "I had been of a talkie villain."

"Well," Bryn said for the third time, "what of it? It gets her out of a jam, doesn't it?"

"And you pay over a million of your own dollars at the end of a year, and she gives you fifty thousand for your services. Is that the way it works, noble Sir Galahad?"

"Oh, I don't know. I think we can break the will. Holworthy's going to do his damndest. And, if he can't . . . well, the money means quite a bit to her. If—when you meet her, you'll understand a little better, Tub."

"Humph," Tubby said.

They both stood up. Bryn looked at his watch. Ten minutes past nine. The grandfather clock choked, unsteady, cleared its throat and gasped out that it was nine o'clock.

"Just the same," Tubby said explosively, shaking down his trousers leg. "Just the same, a year is too long. An ignorant, unsophisticated, dodgy back anywhere or when anything . . . milk and water, as uninteresting . . . after Pilgrim . . ."

"Sh!" Bryn said quickly. He took three steps toward the door at the end of the long room. Tubby stood up, too. The door was opening.

A tall gentleman in black pushed the door open and held it. Behind him came Mr. Holworthy, his smile astonishingly serene and content. For years Mr. Holworthy had guarded Bryn's interests with the stern fidelity of the dragon who guarded the Golden Pile; yet here he was, calm and undismayed, tending to his arm and his moral support to this moment to Bryn's peace of mind, this girl who could wreck the most dire havoc in Bryn's affairs.

Tubby looked at the girl. He choked. Bryn stood without moving.

She was finishing a remark to Mr. Holworthy as she came through the door on his arm. Tubby did not hear the words but he caught the melody of her voice. It was like that of a very young child, with an appealing break in it; one thought of small birds learning to sing, of hyacinths in spring gardens, of silver bells at twilight.

She was a very small girl as she stood hesitantly there. A very small girl, and she was dressed in white. Her skirt was so full that it stood around her in a circle, and only the tip of one tiny white slipper could be seen below it. She held it off the dusty carpet with the tips of careful fingers.

The boy's face was slim and pointed, and her waist could have been spanned by a man's two hands. There were little puffed sleeves below her white shoulders; the neck of the dress was low, and above it her throat was creamy white and soft. She had pinned her hair against it in front, after a hasty, flushed look into the mirror, and they lay pink and fragrant against her delicate flesh. Around her neck from her ears hung little round pearl drops. She looked like a miniature of one's grandmother, painted on her wedding day.

And her face? A small white oval face, without a hint of color in the cheeks, but with a pair of the softest, reddest lips in the world. They were the kind of lips which look like the bud of a red rose when they say "no" and there was something about the firm little mouth which suggested that she might often say "no." Eyes like purple pansies, soft and velvety and dark; and as if eyes and lips and tiny hands in whose lace mittens were not enough.

her hair was of red gold, curling and breaking into a million misty tendrils around her face.

Tubby looked at Bryn. He drew a deep breath. "Noble Sir Galahad," he said under his breath, and moved forward to be presented.

Deborah was married and at home again. It was less than a week since she had gone away from the mountain, but it seemed a thousand years. She was so much older, now. She knew so much more than she had known a week ago that her thoughts were like the thoughts of a stranger; she looked at her old life and everything that had been in it with a stranger's eyes, clear, wondering, critical.

They were at luncheon, she and Grandmother and the man, seated at the long table in the middle of the vast shadowy dining room. The ceiling was high and supported by dark heavy oak beams; at one end was a great fireplace with a carved oak mantelpiece and a stone hearth. The western wall was pierced by a row of six square casement windows shut with iron. On the table stood the beautiful dulled old silver candelabra which had once been altar pieces in a cathedral; now they held the cheapest and most ordinary thick white candles whose flames wavered and burned coarsely and unevenly, and gave off a strong odor of impure wax.

Deborah sat up and moved the silver spoon beside her plate. She looked across at Grandmother. Grandmother was wearing her gray satin dress for the first time since Grandfather's death. Her white hair was pinned more loosely than usual, and fluffed out softly around her face. Her eyes were sparkling, slight, happy. There was pink in her cheeks, and a throat of it in her lips. It was as if she had come to life again, too. An hour ago, when they had come up the wood-grown drive, Grandmother had been standing at the side door, dressed from head to foot in the black she had worn for so long, with one hand pressed to her heart in the old familiar gesture, and a look of fearful questioning in her eyes. The man had stopped the big battered-looking motor-car, and he had looked at Deborah at all, except for one quick encompassing glance as if to make sure that she was still intact. Her eyes had been come to the man, and he had stood tall and straight and smiling that faint steady smile of his, waiting. The sun had glinted on his brown hair, and had made his brown skin look very clear and wholesome. Grandmother had looked into his eyes for a long time, a tense, silent, searching look; and then she had drawn a deep breath and put out her hand. She had smiled back at him, a fluttering, relieved happy smile, and he had taken both her little white hands in his own. Oh, he was living up to his bargain.

He seemed to understand the situation at a glance and decide what it was he must do. It was perfect acting, and Deborah knew that she should have been grateful and appreciative, but instead she was angry. Angry because . . . well, because, watching him with Grandmother, she had realized suddenly that all the way up from San Francisco he had been acting with her too amusing her, making things, thinking of her comfort, because it was part of the bargain. On the trip she had forgotten the bargain, but the fact that he was going to be paid, and paid well, as he had expressed it, for giving their marriage the appearance of a happy one, the appearance of a real marriage between two young people who had . . . had fallen in love with each other at first sight.

Well, no matter; even if it was a little disconcerting to keep remembering what the true situation was. No harm had been done. She had no reserved through it all, and had not, she assured herself, allowed herself to be anything but impersonal with him. That was the note one must remember to strike: impersonality. Deborah straightened her shoulders and leaned back in her chair, calm, cool, in full control of herself.

By VIRGINIA VALE

ARMIDA, the fascinating little Mexican girl who has made a name for herself on the screen, the stage and the air (at present she's heard from coast to coast on the "Paris Night Life" program), recently returned from Hollywood to New York with a lot of information about the radio programs which screen stars like best. She'd been making shorts in the movie center, but she checked up on the broadcasts between times.

She found that Charlie Chaplin doesn't listen to the radio comedians; he likes the broadcasts of symphony concerts, and the songs of Lawrence Tibbett. John Charles Thomas and Nino Martin, Bing Crosby likes to hear Dick Powell sing; he listens to Rudy Vallee's broadcasts, too, and to Jessica Dragonette. Joan Crawford will take dance music every time. And Claudette Colbert, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire rarely fail to listen to Major Bowes' amateur hour.

Marlene Dietrich got what she wanted again. After fussing with Paramount over "Loved a Soldier," and announcing that she'd go to Europe as fast as she could get there, to make a picture, she stayed in Hollywood, did some effective talking, and landed the role of leading lady in "The Garden of Allah," which Merle Oberon was supposed to make. Which means that now there's even less love lost between the two. Miss Oberon probably will do "Dark Victory" now.

Doris Dudley, whom you'll see before long in an RKO picture, believes that you've got to be goofy if you're going to get along either on the stage or on the screen. As she's a remarkably clever actress, (though she has had very little experience) she is likely to become one of our most important movie stars—so don't miss her first appearance on the screen if you like to be in on film history.

Ann Southern had a grand time in New York, where she once appeared in musical comedy as Harriet Lake. Like all new arrivals from Hollywood, the one play she wanted to see was "Queen Victoria," Helen Hayes' current success. And like all the others, she left cheering.

She is so pretty that people turn on the street to stare at her. They don't recognize her, as a rule, but she has no illusions about her own greatness so that doesn't bother her—and unlike some of her co-workers, she doesn't go in for dark glasses and other similar invitations to be recognized as a celebrity.

Fred MacMurray seems to be the fair haired boy on the Paramount lot these days—perhaps because Gary Cooper seems inclined to sign with Samuel Goldwyn when his present contract expires. Fred has a new seven-year contract, and is slated to make three pictures that were originally intended for the late Mr. Cooper.

Jean Parker's marriage started a lot of people; she was honeymooning with her bridegroom, a young newspaper man, before most people realized that she knew him. If you want to congratulate her, address her as Mrs. George E. MacDonald.

They have four pictures lined up for Eleanor Powell when she feels well enough to begin work again, and how she dreads them! She feels that she gave everything she had in her first one, and doesn't see what she can do now that will interest those of us who sit cut front.

Frank Parker, whom you've heard on the air in any number of programs, is said to receive more proposals than any other radio star. He claims that they're attracted not by his romantic tenor voice, or by his personality, but by his salary; it runs into four figures each week.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Dolores Del Rio is on her way to England to make a picture for Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. . . . Groe Moore also sailed, still talking about having to work with a cow in her latest picture. . . . Walt Disney is still searching for an actor who can train to work for him. . . . Stoopnagle and Budd will take Fred Allen's place on the air this summer. . . . If you like "The Ghost Goes West" you're in good company; Ex-King Alfonso of Spain saw it in Paris, and liked it, too. . . . Harold Lloyd is a howling enthusiast. . . . And his "The Milky Way" is one of the funniest pictures he ever made.

Doctor Will Take 25 'In-Laws' on Country-Wide Vacation

Dr. Thomas Richmond, of Kansas City, is so fond of his wife's relations that he is taking 25 of them on holiday with him. The idea was his own, not Mrs. Richmond's. They included the doctor's eight-year-old mother-in-law and eleven-month-old nephew-in-law. They are going to tour the country in a 17-seater bus and two cars, with a lorry for the luggage. "I think he is crazy," his wife said in an interview. "But if he wants to spend his money that way, it's all right with me."

Italy Is Ruthless and the League Helpless

OCCUPATION of Addis Ababa and all of Ethiopia was the price demanded by Italy for an armistice in East Africa when the council of the League of Nations met again in Geneva. Baron Pompeo Aloisi presented the ultimatum on behalf of Dictator Mussolini. Wolde Mariam, representing Ethiopia, countered with a request that the league invoke all penalties against Italy under article 16 of the covenant, these including military sanctions as well as the economic penalties which the league has been trying to enforce. The British and French delegates explained the stand of their respective governments in the embroglio.

Baron Aloisi

The league was helpless, and having received the discouraging report of the conciliation committee, was compelled to confess it could not find means of attaining peace. France will not consent to the imposition of military sanctions, and Great Britain naturally will not undertake to enforce them by herself. It appeared the poor Ethiopians were to be abandoned to their fate, meaning the extinction of their empire and their exploitation by Italy. The council adopted a resolution regretting its inability to end the war, reminding league members that they should continue the sanctions and asking Italy to be generous in bringing the conflict to a close.

Anthony Eden in his address to the council warned France that she might expect from Great Britain no further support against aggression by Germany than France had given against Italy.

From the north, south and west the Italian armies were advancing on Addis Ababa, and the panic-stricken civilian inhabitants of the capital were fleeing from the city. Foreigners sought shelter in the bomb-proofed British legation. The mayor issued all the arms available and the government called on all able men to make a last stand for liberty, saying "it is better to die than to be enslaved."

Terrible Famine in Once Fertile China Province

DISPATCHES from Cheungtu, China, tell a terrible story of the famine and drought in Szechuen province, once one of the most fertile regions in the country. It is said to be the worst famine in the history of China, the deaths numbering many thousands and fully 30,000,000 persons being in distress. Suicides and "mercy slayings" are everyday incidents. The peasants are reduced to eating dogs, cats, rats and clay.

Officials said the situation primarily was a result of Communist incursions during the last two years in which the reds overran and pillaged the land.

British Budget Highest Since That of 1931

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN, chancellor of the exchequer, submitted to the British cabinet and later to parliament the annual budget, which is for almost four billion dollars, the highest since 1931. The huge rearmament program and other unusual expenses made it certain there will be no relief from present taxation burdens.

No estimate has yet been presented to parliament of the amount to be spent in 1936 on strengthening the fighting forces. All that is known is that the air force's part of the program will cost about $50,000,000 this year. Requirements of the army and navy may bring the aggregate for 1936 up to $110,000,000.

Turkey Remilitarizes Dardanelles Zone

ANOTHER post-war treaty has gone to the dogs. President Kemal Ataturk of Turkey and his cabinet decided that the Dardanelles must be remilitarized, despite the Lusanne pact, and Turkish troops were promptly moved into the zone along the 75-mile long strait that connects the Sea of Marmara and the Aegean sea. It is believed Kemal will soon rebuild the fortifications in the zone which the allies failed to capture during the World war.

The Turkish dictator didn't surprise anyone by his action, for he asked permission of the League of Nations some time ago to rearm the Dardanelles. No formal reply had been made, but the British government rather favored giving consent, and the Soviet union openly approves Turkey's move. Italy was displeased, and there was considerable excitement in the Balkan states, especially Bulgaria which borders on European Turkey. The Bulgarians renewed their demand for a corridor giving them a direct route to the Aegean sea.

Probably Kemal's action will not be severely condemned by anyone, for most of the European nations are preparing for war with feverish haste. Austria's army, small but well equipped, held a spring parade in Vienna, and immediately displayed their anger at this show of military force and their military attaches in the Austrian capital were ordered not to occupy the places reserved for them among the reviewing officials. Rumania has increased its military budget to $38,000,000 and created a special fund of $20,000,000 for the development of aviation. Hungary is clamoring for revision of the Trianon treaty and recovery of the territory it lost to the little entente.

The forty-seventh birthday of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler provided an opportunity for a big display of Germany's military power.

President's Secretary and Adviser Taken by Death

LOUIS McHENRY HOWE, secretary to President Roosevelt and for many years his close friend and adviser, died in the Naval hospital at Washington after an illness of more than a year. Mr. Howe was known in the capital as "the President maker," for it was largely due to his efforts that Mr. Roosevelt reached the White House. For twenty-five years, from the day when Mr. Roosevelt and he first met in Albany, he had devoted himself to forwarding his friend's political fortunes. During the Chicago convention and the ensuing campaign his planning and his advice were credited largely with the results attained.

Judge Ritter Is Found Guilty by Senate

FEDERAL JUDGE HALSTED L. RITTER of Florida was found guilty on impeachment charges by the senate and removed from office, being the fourth federal jurist to be ousted in this manner.

On each of the first six articles of impeachment a majority of senators voted for his acquittal; but on the seventh article, which was a generalized summary of the charges against him, he was convicted by a vote of 56 to 28.

An order declaring Ritter should be "forever disqualified from holding any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States" was defeated, 76 to 0.

The senate's verdict in the twelfth impeachment case brought before it as a high court of impeachment since foundation of the American republic amounted to a decision that Judge Ritter had violated the Constitutional requirements of good behavior in office and in private life.

The society urged its members to cooperate with all law enforcement agencies by guarding against the premature publication of information harmful to the successful completion of criminal investigations. The editors also inaugurated a formal study to determine if it is possible for the press and bar jointly to reach some working formula to prevent sensational murder cases from becoming public scandals.

PWA Power Loan Suit Goes to the Supreme Court

ASKING that the Supreme court review the lower court decision in the celebrated Buzzard Roost case, the Duke Power company and the Southern Public Utilities company carried up to the highest tribunal the question of whether the Public Works administration may finance publicly owned and operated hydro-electric plants to compete with private enterprise. Unless extraordinary measures are taken to speed the case, arguments cannot be heard until the term beginning next October. The government has 30 days in which to reply to the petition for review.

This case, which deeply concerns the New Deal program, arose when the PWA allocated $2,852,000 for construction by Greenwood county, South Carolina, of the Buzzard Roost plant on the Saluda river.

Respighi, Noted Italian Composer, Is Dead

OTTORINO RESPIGHI, one of the most famous of modern Italian composers, died in Rome at the age of fifty-six of heart disease following blood poisoning. His passing is cause for deep mourning among music lovers everywhere. Several of his operas were presented in New York and Chicago, and he was guest conductor of the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra of New York in 1932.

Results of the Illinois Primary Election

ILLINOIS' primary held the center of political interest for it not only provided lively state battles but also was of considerable moment nationally. Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Senator Borah of Idaho, who was born in Illinois, were the contestants for the Republican Presidential preferential vote, and the former came out with 31 delegates against 26 for Borah. The senator's friends were elated because, without organization, he carried a large part of the state outside of Chicago. This preferential vote is purely advisory and neither man has a slate of delegates to the national convention. The result makes it certain that Knox will make a respectable showing on the first roll call. It also adds to Borah's prestige and aids him in the coming Ohio primary.

Gov. Henry Horner, seeking renomination, was victorious in the bitter fight with the regular Democratic organization and the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, which had thrown him overboard and supported Bundesen for governor. The Democrats almost unanimously voted for the renomination of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and the Republicans named Former Senator Olla Glenn to oppose him in November.

Republican leaders in Washington were encouraged to believe the internecine warfare in the Democratic ranks would help the Republicans to carry the state. The Democratic sages, on the other hand, liked the showing of strength made by Borah, feeling his liberal following might switch to Roosevelt in November.

In Nebraska's primary only Borah's name was printed on the Republican preferential ballot but almost one-sixth of the voters wrote in the name of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas.

For the Democratic preference President Roosevelt was unopposed in both Illinois and Nebraska.

Flood Control Approved by the President

IN HIS press conference President Roosevelt said government departments are concentrating on flood control problems and that if congress would pass a bill appropriating a billion dollars for that purpose he would sign it, provided the measure put men to work immediately.

Mr. Roosevelt said the Passamaquoddy project in Maine and Florida ship canal were eliminated because of the recent refusal of congress to make appropriations for continuance of the work. He said he did not contemplate doing out relief funds for the projects and that there would be no funds for the projects unless congress reversed its refusal.

On the same day the United States Chamber of Commerce issued a warning against encroachment of the federal government on flood control projects which are the primary responsibility of the states.

President Lays Cornerstone for a Big Building

WITH appropriate ceremony the cornerstone of the new interior department building in Washington was laid, the President handling the trowel. The structure, the second largest government office building there, is to be completed in December. It covers five and one-half acres and will provide 700,000 square feet of usable floor space. It will cost $12,000,000, about $5,000,000 less than the capital's largest, the Commerce department building. The trowel used by Mr. Roosevelt was the one employed by George Washington in laying the cornerstone of the Capitol in 1793.

Draft of New Tax Bill Ready for Consideration

HAVING discarded the President's suggestion of temporary processing taxes, Chairman Sam B. Hill's house subcommittee completed its draft of the new tax bill.

It calls for a new type of corporation levy, ranging from 1 per cent to 29.7 per cent for corporations with net income up to $10,000, and from 4 to 42½ per cent for corporations with net income over $10,000, depending on the amount of earnings that are not distributed. Preferential tax treatment is given to banks and insurance companies, to debt-ridden companies, to companies in receivership, and a new system of taxing non-resident aliens is created.

Big Pay for Lobby Committee Lawyer Is Refused

BY A vote of 153 to 137 the house rejected a resolution to permit Senator Black's lobby committee to pay $10,000 to special counsel in injunction litigation started by William Randolph Hearst to protect his telegrams from the probers. This action, which followed a bitter debate, doesn't halt the work of the committee, which has its own funds, but it prevents the payment of more than $3,000 a year, in accordance with general law, to Crampton Harris of Birmingham, Ala.

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

Danger of Underweight
WHILE there is no question but that it is easier to take weight off the overweight individual than to put it on one who is underweight, nevertheless there are many thin individuals who could increase their weight by eating more food and different food than they are eating at present.

There are of course a number who come from "thin" families, others whose body processes work faster than normal due to overactivity of the thyroid gland in the neck, others of the very nervous type, who just cannot seem to put on weight.

What is underweight? or undernutrition? How is one to know if he is undernourished?

According to an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, undernutrition is where the body weight is not less than 10 to 15 per cent below the ideal weight for a given age, sex and height.

Among the unfavorable effects of undernutrition are general weakness and tiredness, lessening of the physical and mental ability, and a greater likelihood to be attacked by disease. There is often thin blood and a dropping of the abdominal organs.

The cause of undernutrition is not completely known because a number of factors may enter into it. Among the suspected causes are (a) overactivity of certain ductless glands (thyroid in the neck for example); (b) peculiarity of the nervous system; (c) getting an insufficient amount of the right kinds of food.

Sometimes cases thought to be due to gland disturbance or to the fact that the individual was of the "nervous" type, have been found to be really due to a lack of good body building food.

Research Shows Results

I have mentioned before the research work of Drs. J. M. Strang and F. A. Evans, as recorded in Annals of Internal Medicine, with a group of 21 undernourished office patients. These patients were given a diet containing sufficient body building and energy giving foods with very gratifying results in weight increase. During an average period of 11 weeks the average increase in weight was 17 per cent, or about 1½ pounds per week. Similar results were obtained in a group of 18 hospital patients; their average body weight increase was 13 per cent in a period of five weeks.

In addition to gaining weight many different symptoms disappeared, "the patients expressing a feeling of well being, and they became more resistant to fatigue and to infection."

That the rate at which the body processes work (metabolic rate) had nothing to do with causing their underweight was shown by the fact that this rate was about normal or slightly below normal.

Further, careful measurements showing the relation of the total weight of the food eaten to the total wastes from the intestine showed that 92 per cent of the food was digested and absorbed into the blood during the period of treatment. This shows that the stomach and intestine, in fact the whole digestive system, was just as efficient as those of normal individuals.

These experiments show that when diets are scientifically arranged, and followed faithfully, definite gains in weight can be made by the majority of underweights.

Must Supply Energy

Now the foods eaten to increase weight must not only supply energy and repair worn out body cells but must contain an extra amount of the foods that can be stored in the body as fat. Foods that will leave something to be stored as fat are bread, sugar, butter, cream, salad dressings, cream soups, peas, beans, nuts and dried fruit.

Fat meat and pastry are rich in fats but cannot always be eaten by underweights.

Milk, eggs, and meats must be eaten for body building. Fruits and vegetables, though bulky and apt to give a "full" feeling too soon, nevertheless are necessary in a building up diet because of their minerals—sodium, calcium, iron, phosphorus and others; their vitamins, and for their roughage.

The thought then in trying to build up weight is to increase the food intake by about one-fourth, adding to the diet an extra amount of butter, bacon, cream, salad dressing at meal times, and egg nogs between meals. The egg nogs can be made with siphon soda instead of the milk if necessary.

Peptic Ulcer Common

When you read about peptic ulcer—necrosis of the stomach and also of first part of the small intestine (duodenum) into which the stomach empties—you may naturally think of it as a very dangerous condition and that death finally results. As a matter of fact from examination after death of sixty thousand people, about one in every twenty showed healed or unhealed ulcer.

All Around the House

A simple Russian dressing is made by adding two tablespoons of chili sauce and two tablespoons of finely chopped green peppers to one cup of mayonnaise.

When you are basting roast beef, a tablespoon of brown or white sugar added to the gravy improves the flavor and color.

If the table silver is placed in hot soapsuds immediately after being washed, and dried with a soft, clean cloth, much of the work of polishing will be saved.

Paint stains that are dry and old may be removed from cotton or woolen goods with chloroform. First cover amply with olive oil.

The tough skin that forms on top of a cornstarch pudding may be prevented if a piece of oiled paper is placed over pudding when set away to cool.

Paper baking cups make excellent caps for milk bottles. Press edges down firmly to fit mouth of bottle.

Powdered borax added to the water when washing fine white flannels helps to keep them soft.

Purchase seldom used spices in small packages, as it is more economical since spices lose some of their flavor when exposed to the air.

Wood ashes make an excellent fertilizer for shrubbery and rose bushes, also for dahlias, peonies and delphinium. Scatter ashes over soil. It makes it sweet and has a tendency to loosen it.

Sweep rugs the way of the pile. Brushing against the grain tends to brush dust in instead of out.
