THE LISTENING POST

Off and on today I have been thinking a lot of Fulton of thirty years ago, and of myself at that time and the years that followed. Because, this morning at about ten o'clock, I observed the anniversary of my arrival in Fulton, and it was the thirtieth anniversary. Probably it is of little importance, and no doubt the town would have gone along all right if I had located in some other community, but we humans have a way of attaching importance to the various anniversaries which come to us.

On the morning of May 1, 1909, Train Number Six stopped at the Walnut Street crossing, and carrying a case of Oliver typewriter, I stepped off and walked down the street to the building which is now occupied by Thomas Shankle. Then it housed the Baptist Flag printing office, and a few days before my family had purchased that periodical and on this day thirty years ago we arrived to take charge of it. At the time I had little idea of remaining here very long, for in those days my eyes were fixed on New York or Chicago, and I had an idea that the big newspaper world was waiting for my arrival in order to really go to town. (The fact that we owed five thousand dollars on the new purchase may have had something to do with my inner feeling that I would not remain here very long.)

But remain I did. I was connected with the Baptist Flag from that day until 1925, when it was sold to other interests, and we, in the meantime, had purchased the Daily Leader five years before that date. The five thousand dollars owing was finally paid, although to this day I do not know just how we did it. Other thousands were owed and paid as the years passed along, and although I have never yet made any money and hardly expect to, a lot of money has passed through in those thirty years. Running back through the years I can see where fifty thousand dollars has been spent in one way or another for machinery and buildings, and a conservative estimate of wages paid out in that time would run into impressive figures. I believe the average paid out for wages during all the years would be at least seven thousand dollars a year, and that would be more than two hundred thousand dollars. Paper and other merchandise bought would easily reach another hundred thousand dollars, and even rent would run into quite a lot of money.

Looking back at it now I do not know how we ever managed to do those things. I remember few years in which we felt really prosperous, and I remember dozens of times when only the width of a hair separated us from bankruptcy. Several times I could almost see the sheriff coming in with the papers to close us up, but something always came along to help us out and so we kept right on.

I still remember how this section of town looked on that day thirty years ago. Morris Dillon had a grocery about where Bugg's grocery is now, and E. M. Brown dry good store occupied the present location of the Graham Furniture Company. Across the

Wagner Act Revisionists Give Up Hope

Senator Says Bill Has Little Chance This Session

Washington, — Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, a leader in the move to revise the Wagner Labor Act, today said his group virtually has abandoned hope of amending the law in this Congress.

Burke said there was no chance to accomplish this unless the session runs into August, which is considered unlikely.

"We are more interested right now," he added, "in building up the record to show the inherent weaknesses in the law than we are in obtaining immediate action. When we have done that and done it thoroughly, we will be ready for action, whether it is in this Congress or the next."

Green to Testify Today
Proponents of revision will have an inning before the Senate Education and Labor Committee tomorrow. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor has been called as a witness at that hearing.

Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, a committee member, said that "unless Green can make out a case, I doubt if any serious effort will be made to procure enactment of amendments." He added that on the other hand if the A. F. L. proved the C. I. O. has been favored over other unions there "undoubtedly will be strong sentiment for correction of the present law."

Chicago, — American motorists were headed today toward the best traffic safety record in ten years.

The National Safety Council reported a 12 per cent decrease in automobile fatalities during the first quarter of 1939, and predicted that, if the downward trend continued, the death total for the year would approximate 28,200—the lowest since 27,996 were recorded in 1928.

Statisticians pointed out that the contemplated improvement would be more significant than their comparative figures would indicate because mileage had increased about 50 per cent during the decade.

Motor vehicle deaths numbered 6,150 in the first three months of the year compared with 6,980 in a similar period in 1938.

Swope Declines To Run For Governor Because Of Primary

Lexington, Ky. — Circuit Judge King Swope declined today to seek the Republican nomination for Governor again if a primary, whose "destructive influences" he criticized, is necessary.

In a formal statement, Judge Swope, Republican candidate in 1935, said "I do not believe in the Republican party wasting its energies and resources in primary fights."

"Several gentlemen," the statement continued, "have already announced for Governor and thereby made a Republican primary necessary for this year. Under existing circumstances I would not enter a primary contest because whoever makes the race on the Republican ticket this year will have to run against both State and Federal treasuries, and in order to win, he should in my opinion, be permitted to spend his time, money and energy in organizing and building up

Elks Sponsor Night Game On May 19th

On Friday night, May 19th, the local Elks Lodge will sponsor a game between Fulton and Mayfield, with all the net proceeds going to the lodge charity fund. The lodge has purchased the entire gate receipts and is now selling tickets for the game at 10 cents per person, and hopes to have a tremendous crowd at the game.

Tickets have been on sale for some time, and solicitors will continue this work until the 19th, and this will probably be the first night game of the present season.

Local A. & P. Store Honors Clerks

The local unit of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, located on Lake Street, Fulton, Kentucky, announces that the current week has been designated as "Clerks Week" in all A. & P. Stores throughout the country. This is an annual custom in recognition of the thousands of clerks in A. & P. Stores, and as a means of celebration they are offering still lower prices to their customers.

Mr. G. J. Shepherd, who has been manager of the local A. & P. Store for the past two years is taking a back seat during clerk's week and is leaving the active planning and the displaying of merchandise to his clerks, Mr. Burgess, Meat Clerk; Mr. Grogan, Mr. Clark, Mr. Hill, Mr. Henderson, and Mr. Brady.

The clerks in the local A. & P. Store cordially invite the citizens of Fulton and vicinity to visit their store this week and take advantage of the many money-saving values. They will consider this a personal favor, and at the same time the customers will be receiving fine foods at real money-saving prices.

Rail Commission Asked To Order Coal Rate Cut

Frankfort, Ky. — Six concerns filed a complaint with the State Railroad Commission today over coal rates between Eastern Kentucky points on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and Buechel, Jeffersonton and Whitmer.

They alleged the present rates are "unreasonable, excessive, prejudicial and discriminatory," asked that "reasonable" rates be substituted, and asked reparations of between $2,000 and $3,000 on past shipments.

The complainants were the Buechel Ice, Coal & Storage Company, Buechel Produce Exchange and Buechel Poultry and Feed Exchange of Buechel; Bowles Brothers and Florio Brothers of Jeffersonton, and the Southern Brick & Tile Company of Whitmer.

Governor Of Georgia Cuts Payroll As Public Reaction Is Studied

Atlanta, — Political cross winds have stirred a financial tempest in Georgia which may make the State a test tube of voter reaction to curtailment of public spending.

Within a month after a stormy legislative session where every attempt to vivify State revenues with new taxes was beaten down, Gov. E. D. Rivers did a job of fiscal surgery involving items from road building to old age pensions on his "Little New Deal."

Slashing into payrolls, personnel and general expenditures as director of the budget, the Governor who modeled his State program after President Roosevelt's National "New Deal" sat back today to watch the effect on public sentiment. He promised a special legislative session on finances if the people demanded one bringing legislators into accord on the revenue question.

Solidly Democratic Georgia, a virtually solidly Democratic State with the party question out of the picture, thus offers political leaders a preview in miniature of public reaction to the "economy" issue that looms large on the 1940 Presidential horizon.

Rivers told the legislators when they convened he regarded his re-election to a second term as Governor as a mandate from the people that his program be financed. That, said he, would require $8,500,000 additional revenue yearly. To provide this he advocated a gross income tax, a retail sales tax or a luxury tax.

The alternative he offered was an $8,500,000 deficit that would demand restriction of the education, health and Social Security activities that were the keystone of his "Little New Deal."

Extravagance Charged
A strong economy bloc developed in the Legislature. It urged Governmental retrenchment and stiffening of collection provisions under existing laws. Administration foes flung charges that money was being spent "extravagantly" and that the payroll of the State was swollen with political henchmen.

During the bitter fights over the tax question, Administration leaders flatly asserted some individuals were deliberately seeking to create confusion in the Legislature to balk the Rivers program for political advantage.

The foes of new taxes were one-time allies of Former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, red-suspended critic of President Roosevelt and State and National "New Deal" spending. Others were friends of Hugh Howell, former chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and critic of Rivers' financial policies. He was defeated in a bid for the Governorship last fall.

Ray Clonts Hits Double To Win Game For Tigers

With the Fulton Tigers trailing by one run, 4-3, and two men on base, Ray Clonts stepped up to the plate in the sixth inning and hit a hard double into deep right-center field, to drive the two runs across and moving the locals one run in the lead, in the exhibition game with Mayfield Browns at Fairfield yesterday. The Tigers went ahead to win the game by a score of 6-4.

The two teams were even on base hits, each collecting nine, but three of the Browns' four runs were unearned.

Danstrup started on the mound for the Tigers and did nice work for five innings, allowing three singles. Gans took over the hurling job at the beginning of the sixth inning and retired the first two batters in order but it was then that the Mayfield team broke loose and the next four batters hit safely, one being a pop fly that dropped between first and home plate, and aided by an error or two on the part of the Tigers, the Browns scored three runs, all unearned.

The first tally for the Tigers came in the second inning when Filcock singled and scored on Espanet's double. The winning rally was staged in the sixth. Kotor led off and received a base on balls, scoring on Al Simon's triple. Frank Filcock's single drove Simons home and Tim followed with a base on balls. Espanet sacrificed Filcock and Tim to second and third and both scored on Clonts' double. Curtis followed suit, getting a double, and scored Clonts.

Al Simons again led the parade with three hits for four times at bat, two singles and a triple. Espanet and Clonts had a hit for two official times at bat, while Curtis and Filcock had 3 for 4.

Ray Clonts made his entrance with Gans in the sixth and was heartily welcomed into the game by a big hand from the fans. Ray is in much better condition this season, having gained quite a lot of weight, and all fans who have watched Ray work for the last three years, are hoping that he will be one of the Fulton receivers when the season opens, next Thursday.

U. S. Heading For Ten Year Safety Record

New York — The Wall Street Journal said today the British Government has placed orders for an estimated total of 100,000 tons of hot-rolled sheet steel with American producers to be used for constructing air aid shelters.

Substantial orders also have been placed with American makers for similar type of steel for construction of shelters in the Netherlands, the paper said.

These are the first contracts placed in this country for steel as a direct result of the existing uncertainties in Europe, it added.

The steel for England is to be delivered by June 15 and there are prospects of additional contracts for similar material as well as orders for barbed wire, the Journal said, although confirmation of the latter has not yet been obtainable.

A considerable part of the British order has been placed with Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, principal subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

At the current price of 403 a ton for hot-rolled sheets, the British order involves a total of $4,300,000 for that particular type of steel alone.

28 Navy Ships At New York For Opening Of World's Fair

New York — Stirred by the arrival of twenty-eight vessels of the United States Navy's Atlantic Squadron, the biggest city in the Nation prepared tonight for the opening of the biggest exposition the Nation—and the world—has ever seen, the New York World's Fair.

Although thousands of visitors poured into town from all parts of the country, the city's traditional throng was not noticeably augmented, but flags and bunting, full hotels and a festive air presaged the debut which fair officials expect will draw 1,000,000 persons to the $100,000,000 international extravaganza.

The fleet dominated the day before activities, at which thousands to the waterfront as the vessels steamed majestically up the bay, beginning in the early morning, to anchor in the Hudson River. Mayor LaGuardia and a delega-

4-Day Meeting To Consider Business Lift

Sift From Government Spending Is Plan Urged

Washington, —The Chamber of Commerce of the United States said tonight it would attack the problem of business recovery at its annual meeting here this week by emphasizing methods of stimulating private investment.

In that connection, the chamber will direct its attention at the four-day meeting, tomorrow to such subjects as national income, jobs, taxes, profits, and legislation affecting business.

In a statement tonight the chamber said the great need was for a shift from Government spending to large-scale private investment.

Co-operation to Be Theme
"The greatest single force which pulled this country out of past depressions," the statement said, "was the flow of capital into new enterprises. . . In this depression that great instrument of improvement has been missing."

Estimates of capital needs, the chamber said, range from $40,000,000,000 to more than twice that sum. It added that if $25,000,000,000 were supplied an estimated 3,000,000 men would be given jobs in operating plants and equipment and an additional two to two and one-half times that number would be employed in service industries.

National defense and the outlook for co-operation between Government and business also will be among the questions considered by the chamber.

"A Useful 'Freeze'"

It is encouraging to note that the House Ways and Means Committee has voted unanimously to "freeze" the payroll tax under the Social Security Act at one per cent for three years. There was no room for partisan disagreement on a point so vital.

Since the tax, applicable alike to employer and employee, was to have increased to one and one-half per cent next January 1, the change, if approved by House and Senate, will mean an aggregate saving of $325,000,000 yearly.

There is no question that this will be a boon to business, and also to individual employees. It means that a worker making $1,000 will continue to pay $10 Social Security tax instead of $15; a worker making $2,000 will continue to pay $20 instead of $30, and a worker making $3,000 (the top taxable income) will continue to pay $30 instead of $45. These savings are considerable.

But the change will be significant and salutary for another reason. A great many thoughtful students of New Deal policies—most of them honestly committed to the principle of old-age pensions—have been fearful lest the prospective rate of tax produce reserves so prodigious as to tempt the money-hunger of future Congress.

Forty billion dollars has been mentioned as the size of the "reserve fund" which would be ultimately accumulated by tax rates as originally written into the law. Almost everyone seems agreed that any such fund would be far too big.

So the "freezing" of the tax rate will mean a smaller reserve, and will signal the beginning of an altered policy which will place future pensions on a moderate "pay as you go" basis, with a backlog of piled up money sufficient to create a sound actuarial reserve—and nothing more.—Exchange.

street was a flour mill, and I think the W. P. Felts Hardware Store was located where Johnson's shop is now located. Down towards the City Hall D. W. Hughes had a racket store, and the present picture show location was then a livery stable. The opera house block was pretty much as it is now, and the Meadows Block, of course, went on down to State Line. The post-office was then located about the middle of the Meadows Block, and later moved to the State Line end of the block. The Franklin Dry Goods Store occupied two buildings at the corner of this block.

There were, as I remember it, two automobiles in the city then. Dr. R. T. Rudd had one and Joe Browder had the other. I may be wrong on this, for several others made their appearance very near this date. I know Enoch Browder had one back in those years and I remember that Will Murrell had an Overland not far from that date. But the only two which I recall in that year of 1909 were owned by Dr. Rudd and Joe Browder. R. E. Goldsby may have had one of those earlier cars, and I seem to remember that I saw at least one steam car.

Not many business establishments remain as they were in that year, although there are many

The Bennett Drug Store, as I remember it then, was operated by Joe and Sam and Boyd—at least, I saw all these men in the store. George Beadles, it seems to me, was then in partnership with Arch Huddleston, although of this I am not certain. The Weaks store then was of course operated by Porter Weaks, father of the present proprietors. The Graham Furniture Store was then, I think Graham and Johnson Bros., and is now operated by the sons of J. R. Graham, who was then in charge of the store. The City National Bank, then headed as cashier by Charles Rice, was where it is now, and while I do not know, I presume that N. G. Cooke was then employed in the bank. Two other banks, the Farmers and First National, passed out of the picture in the great depression, but the City National went through that crisis on all cylinders and without trouble. Baldridge's store was then a year off, I think. Albert coming here in 1910.

No doubt there were others in business who are still here, but when a fellow gets to remembering thirty years back, some memories are certain to be lost. Bergdoll Bar Act Favored

Washington. —The House Military Committee formally agreed today to recommend legislation aimed at barring Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War draft dodger, from ever returning to the United States from his self-imposed exile
in Germany.

Before taking final action on the legislation, introduced by Representative Harness, Republican, Indiana, the committee revived it to limit its application to persons who already have been convicted of desertion from the Nation's armed forces during war-time and who fled the country to escape punishment.

Harness said the committee decided against applying the legislation to future wars — as he originally proposed — in order to avoid possible complications.

"We might run into cases where we would want to get the individual back," the Indiana explained.

Representative Thomason, Democrat of Texas, acting chairman, declined to divulge the vote on the measure, but asserted there would be no minority report filed.

Harness said the bill would effectively block recent plans of Bergdoll to return to this country and deny him all rights and privilege of American citizenship.

Harness introduced the bill after learning Bergdoll proposed to give himself up to serve a five-year prison sentence for refusal of register for military service.

Firms Delay Needed Construction Pending Improvement Conditions

New York. —While corporation executives reporting at annual stockholders meetings the last few weeks generally have foreseen a business pick-up for the summer and fall, their failure in most cases to outline plant extension and rehabilitation programs bodes ill for a possible heavy boost in production, Wall Street analysts assert.

In view of the piled-up obsolescence of the depression years — economists have estimated it from $10,000,000,000 to as much as $20,- 000,000,000 — it has been hoped 1939 would see a revival of expansion and repair plans to give the necessary push to heavy industry, essential to a healthy business recovery.

A few companies have raised the ante this year, but announced spending programs so far appear to be lagging behind those of 1938, in which a lot of equipment needing replacement was continued in service and improvements largely were those dictated only by necessity.

At one time last fall, when utility executives joined with the Administration in plans for power generating plant expansion as a measure of national defense, it was thought perhaps an additional billion dollars in expenditures would stem from this source alone.
However, programs so far made public would indicate that unless there is some revamping soon the power company contribution will be just about what it was last year.
