HONEYMOON MOUNTAIN

by FRANCES SHEILLY WILES

SYNOPSIS

One hot June day two young kids head for the mountains to escape the heat. They find a cold mountain stream, a sunny meadow, and a warm welcome from the people of the mountain forest. They learn about the beauty and the history of the mountains, and they realize that they have found a special place to call home.

CHAPTER II

They were just like any other family of mountain people, living in harmony with nature and each other. They had simple pleasures, such as fishing in the streams, or picking wildflowers in the meadows. But they also had their share of challenges, such as coping with the harsh winter weather or finding enough food to sustain their families.

CHAPTER III

Old Man MacGregor was a wise and respected member of the community. He shared his knowledge of the land and its wildlife with the children, teaching them how to survive in the mountains. His stories inspired the kids to explore the world around them, to appreciate its beauty, and to understand its mysteries.

CHAPTER IV

As the summer drew to a close, the kids knew it was time to return to the city. They said goodbye to their new friends, promising to come back again someday. They left the mountains with a sense of wonder and a deep appreciation for the simple life they had discovered. They knew that they would always remember the lessons they had learned in Honeymoon Mountain.
