THE LISTENING POST

● I really don't know whether this is a case of mental telepathy or what it is, but the facts speak for themselves. I only know that yesterday morning I was nursing a grouch, brought on and made stronger by the fact that the day was as hot as blazes, my head was aching, and I was dissatisfied with a lot of things. I wished that something might come up that would give me a short trip to some new place, preferably where I might not have to drive, and also that it would not cost too darned much. For about a week I had been fighting a cold and had come off second best almost every day, and in general I was low in spirits and mean in disposition.

● About the time I had plunged the depths and was feeling terribly sorry for myself—and this is always a bad sign—the telephone rang. The operator asked if I was there and I knew it was a long distance message. Inwardly I thought that the long distance message probably meant something else to worry about or some new trouble.

● It was C. B. Dement, fellow publisher in Union City, and a gentleman and a scholar. After exchanging the usual salutations, which are usually condolences on the state of business, Dement asked me what I was doing this afternoon and early tomorrow morning. "Not a darned thing," I answered. "Except I planned to do a lot of worrying about things."

● "Well, get on your Sunday clothes," Dement said. "I am going to be there after you at 1:30 and we are going up to Murfreesboro to attend a meeting of the Tennessee Press Association, and then will come back to Nashville and spend the night, and then get up right early Saturday morning, while it is still cool, and come back home."

● I don't have time, and I should not have gone. But I did not even take time to think about the many reasons why I should not go. I took up Dement's offer so quick that I think he was surprised. So, if yesterday's paper never reached you, and if you did not get today's paper you may set it down to the fact that mental telepathy operated in such a manner as to cause these things. The boys in the office said they did not need me, anyway, and I hope they are right. Anyway, unless something came up at the last moment to prevent, I left the shop right after noon Friday, and to celebrate this freedom, I am making this column this short As Porky the Pig says, "This is all folks."

● On second thought, however, here is another item that should go into this column of enlightenment by all means. It involves a wrong number and considerable puzzlement on the part of the old Listening Post. The telephone rang and I gave the usual answer: "Leader." An unfamiliar voice spoke briskly: "How many outs is Eaves?" I thought the voice said that, but it failed to make sense to me. I tried to think it was some joker kidding me about the baseball game, and remarked that I did not understand. Again came the same question: "How many outs is Eaves?" Again I tried to tell the man that I did not understand, and then he asked if this was the roundhouse. That explained the matter and I knew, in a general way, what he was talking about. But he certainly had been going for a while. I was like the deaf man who was introduced to a girl named Dinglefuge. He tried to understand the name, and finally said: "Write it out. I can't hear what you are saying. It sounds exactly like you say Dinglefuge."

Votes Move Toward New Relief Rules

Tentative Approval Given To New W. P. A. Set-Up By House

Washington, —A solid phalanx of Republican and Democratic House votes slowly remade the nation's relief administration tonight by prescribing a series of new rules under which WPA must operate.

One regulation requires that building projects financed wholly by the federal government must not cost more than $50,000, and that on projects paid for in part by states or localities, the government's contribution must not exceed $40,000. Another limits the cost of materials to $7 per month per WPA worker.

In addition, tentative approval was given to an entirely new administrative setup for WPA. Instead of the one-man administrator, the bill would establish a bipartisan, three-man board.

Fired After 18 Months
And, considered highly important by many members, a provision was accepted under which all WPA workers except heads of families 45 years of age and older, must be discharged after 18 months' service to make room for the thousands on the waiting list. Those discharged would be eligible for reemployment after 60 days.

This provision, which its authors privately said was aimed at the Workers' Alliance and publicly asserted was intended to eliminate WPA "careerists," was bitterly fought by members of a small bloc. They denounced it as "vicious and cruel" and said it would have a particularly bad effect upon relief workers over 45 years of age.

"Preview" Flight To Start Today For Press On Clipper

New York — A great flying boat will lift off the water and head for Europe today with the largest number of persons aboard ever to cross the Atlantic in an airplane.

The trip will be a "preview" flight for press and radio representatives—a "preview" to regular passenger service between the old and new worlds starting 11 days hence.

The "Atlantic Clipper," a 41½-ton machine with four motors delivering a total of 6,000 horsepower, will have 30 persons aboard, including the crew.

Since May 20 Pan American Airways, the first transport company in the world to establish regular commercial airplane service to Europe, has maintained a "shuttle"

Suggests Cutting Public Payrolls A Billion Dollars

Asbury Park, N. J. — A billion dollar "operation on the public payroll" to cut more than one million employees from national, state and local rolls was advocated tonight by Attorney General Murphy.

In a broadcast to the eastern regional conference of the civil service assembly of the United States and Canada, Murphy declared that four million government employees annually get nearly six billion dollars in salaries, making the cost to the average family $200 a year or over 13 per cent of its total income.

"I'm sure you will agree with me that 13 per cent of a family's annual income for the public payroll is too much. Either family income should be increased or the public payroll should be reduced. And at this moment the most immediately promising step seems to be an operation on the public payroll," Murphy observed.

The attorney general added a "precautionary word," however: "In saying that our public payrolls should be reduced, I am not proposing drastic curtailment of governmental functions and activities. On the contrary, I am strongly of the opinion that every governmental function—national, state and local—which is clearly necessary to protect the physical and mental security of our people should be continued.

"I do maintain that instead of four million employees, less than three million should be plenty; and instead of a payroll of six billion dollars per year, less than five billion should suffice."

The attorney general then called for an end "to the ancient practice of passing out government jobs in payment of political debts."

A large percentage of public jobs, Murphy contended, was controlled by machine politics and special interest groups. "The opposition of these groups, together with public ignorance of much of the inefficiency, graft and waste resulting from the spoils system, has been enough to undermine virtually every substantial effort to establish and enforce sound personnel management in our government," he said.

Big City Farmers Keep Modern Offices In Chicago's "Wall St."

Chicago — Tucked away in the heart of the La Salle street financial district, a modern business office with not a sign of hayseed on the floor is headquarters for a club of big city farmers.

It's called, simply, the Chicago Farmers Club. Its 425 members are engaged in all manners of businesses and professions in the Loop, yet they own, collectively, more than 200,000 acres of farmland, from little 20 acre plots to 5,000-acre domains.

They got together, beginning in 1935, through a common interest in the farms they owned. The club grew but retained a purpose essentially social, providing an informal exchange of ideas and problems about farming, with luncheons or dinner meetings at irregular intervals at which farm experts are invited to speak.

The president, George W. Rosetter, runs an accounting business, but owns 1,300 acres in five farms in Cook, Lake and Boone counties. The secretary, Victor S. Rice, is an industrial consultant and investment man, but he also is a cattle

Former Fulton Pastor To Conduct Meeting Here

Dr. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Shreveport, La., will conduct a series of evangelistic meetings at the First Baptist Church here the first two weeks of July.

Dr. Dodd, who was pastor of the local church 1904-08, was the founder and first president of Dodd College and was a former president of the Southern Baptist Convention. He was born in Brant, Tenn., and was educated at Fretton, Tenn., high school. He received his B. A. degree from Union University, Jackson, Tenn., in 1904, his D. D., 1909, and LL. D., 1930; D. D., Baylor University, 1918.

The church in Shreveport under Dr. Dodd's pastorate has grown from 580 to 4,700 members, from gifts of $6,000 annually to an average of more than $100,000 and from a $90,000 building to a half-million dollar ten story edifice, all of which is used solely for church purposes.

In 1934 Dr. and Mrs. Dodd made a tour around the world visiting and preaching throughout Europe, the Near East, India, China, Japan, and the Hawaiian Islands. Last year Dr. and Mrs. Dodd made an 18,000 mile airplane tour of Latin America, circling the entire South American continent. This is said to be the first all airplane missionary tour in the history of the world.

Allege Annapolis Official Advised Mid-die Change Name

Annapolis, —Investigation of reports that Midshipman Jay Allen Einstein's superiors advised him to change his name to avoid the handicap of a Jewish surname was ordered today at the Naval Academy.

The office of Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, superintendent, made the bare announcement of the inquiry. Second Classman Einstein is at sea on the annual summer cruise, and the superintendent's office would not amplify the statement until the midshipman has been questioned.

Jay Allen Einstein, Sr., Mount Vernon, N. Y., mail order merchant, yesterday told Judge John A. McKenna there that his son had been "informed by his superiors that his opportunities would be 'greatly enlarged' if his name were changed."

The senior Einstein was granted his petition to change his name to Eastin. Another son, John Jay, 20, is a cadet at West Point Military Academy.

Lie-Detector To Be Used In Search For Baby's Murderer

Clyde, Ohio — Authorities turned to lie-detector tests today in their desperate hunt for clues leading to the slayer of 10-weeks-old Haldon "Buster" Fink, found in a nearby creek 12 hours after being snatched from his crib.

Earlier hopes that fingerprints might help in solving the case were virtually wiped out as experts reported no prints were found on the knob from the front door of the home where the child was stolen. Members of the family had been fingerprinted voluntarily.

Sheriff N. L. Myers said at least 10 persons would be given the tests, including the baby's divorced mother, Mrs. Velma Baker Fink, 22; the father, Irvin, 35; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Baker, and other

Naval Units, Planes Aid In Search

Phenix And Crew Feared Lost; China Sea Is Too Deep

Saigon, French Indo-China, — French naval authorities after a prolonged search for the submarine Phenix, lost with 63 men aboard, announced today there was not a single trace of the underwater craft.

The submarine submerged Thursday morning in the China Sea off the Bay of Cam-Ranh, Indo-China, and was scheduled to appear here Friday morning.

The search with all available naval units and French airplanes was continued today.

However, virtually all hope of saving the men was abandoned by authorities. It was not known whether life-saving apparatus was aboard.

The sea where the search was carried out had a depth of about 100 meters (328 feet).

Paris, —The 2,000-ton French submarine Phenix has been missing since making a routine drive Thursday morning off the coast of Indo-China with four officers and 59 men aboard, the navy ministry announced tonight.

The Phenix and its crew were feared lost. The dive was made in Cam-Ranh Bay, where the mountains of Eastern Indo-China drop hard down to the coast, making one of the deepest stretches of water in the China Sea.

The great depth, coupled with unavailability of proper rescue equipment and failure to locate the craft after nearly two full days of search, left little hope for rescue.

The accident was the fourth in the swiftest succession of major tragedies in submarine history. Only 16 days ago, the British submarine Thetis sank in Liverpool Bay with a loss of 99 lives; on May 23 the American submarine Squalus sank off the New Hampshire coast with death to 26 and rescue of 33; and on Feb. 2, 81 died in the sinking of the Japanese submarine I-63 400 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Stark Named Naval Chief By Roosevelt

Washington, —Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be chief of naval operations with the rank of admiral. Stark would succeed Admiral Williams D. Leahy, who retires soon and who has been confirmed as Governor of Porto Rico.

Stark goes to the highest ranking naval post from the Bureau of Ordnance, which he has headed since 1934. He is 58 years old and a native of Wilkes-Barre, Penn. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1903.

er relatives and persons already questioned.

As Sheriff Myers emerged from a lengthy conference with Prosecutor A. L. Hyer last night, he said: "There might be an arrest by tomorrow (Friday) night." Questioned about developments in the case, he added: "The outlook seems bright."

The prosecutor said he was investigating a story that the baby might have been mistaken for another child by the abductor. He said Dr. E. A. Baker, a well-known Clyde physician, has a 10-month-old child. The Fink child was stolen the Oran Baker home last night while the mother and mother were gone.

Little Things Count

They are saying in London that the visit of King George to Washington was a great success because it showed the dictators that a deep bond of friendship exists between the United States and Great Britain that may result in an united front of the two countries in the event of war. The meeting of the British monarch with the President of the United States is being compared to the meetings of Mussolini and Hitler.

And the strange part about it is that the dictators are apparently willing to accept this interpretation of a purely social event. News of the royal visit in the controlled press of both Germany and Italy was scanty and the tone was one of ridicule.

The dictators did not want their peoples to know of the cordial reception given the royal couple in either Canada or the United States. The impression they have been attempting to disseminate is that Canada is lukewarm toward the mother dominion and that the United States would keep hands off Europe in the event of war. If the visit of George and Elizabeth served to make the dictators a little more cautious, we have no cause for alarm. If the possibility of war can be lessened by matters so inconsequential as a trip, a few teas and receptions, and cheering crowds, we should be thankful rather than critical.

As far as the basic issues are concerned, they have not been changed one way or the other. Maybe it just goes to show that the little things count more than the big issues. The destinies of nations may be shaped by the drop of a handkerchief, as we all know. Napoleon was unable to conquer England because the wind would not blow at the right time. Edison became a great inventor because a railroad conductor tripped him and destroyed his hearing. Watt perfected the steam engine because he watched his mother make tea.

Perhaps the charm of Queen Elizabeth will be more influential in preserving peace than ten thousand airplanes. Perhaps a handshake between King George and President Roosevelt will extinguish four billion dollars in war debts. In the first case, let us hope so. In the second, let us hope not. —Sun-De-mocrat.

KILLER OF CHILD, 2 IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Fair Outlay

Excess Cited

New York. — Some foreign exhibitors who have complained against union labor requirements at the New York World's Fair estimate informally that expenses of the fifty-eight nations were at least $10,000,000 above expectations and one of them said the total excess charge in the international zone would reach $20,000,000.

Confirmation of the figures through the world's fair corporation or contractors could not be obtained today, but several foreign commissioners said the average on construction was 30 or 40 per cent above estimates.

Although there has been no united protest, foreign exhibitors who complained included France, Venezuela, Greece, Denmark, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, New Zealand and Siam.

Others, including Great Britain and Russia, reported they were resigned to pay local wage scales to avoid difficulties. Many others preferred to remain silent.

Fair Dispute Is Rekindled

New York. —New fuel was dumped on the labor controversy at the New York World's Fair today with a statement by Jay Downer, a member of the fair board of design, that in the rust to complete the fair on time labor took the attitude of "a tiger after the first taste of blood."

Downer, speaking before the twentieth annual meeting of the American Society of Landscape Architects yesterday, asserted that many fair concessionaries were "bled white" by union demands for overtime pay.

New Routing Takes U. S. 62 Across Dam

Paducah, Ky. —A line drawn by the State Highway Department for the proposed rerouting of U. S. Highway 62, from a point near the McCracken-Marshall division, will carry the road over the top of the $112,000,000 T. V. A. dam, according to Jerry Spears, first district highway engineer.

Rerouting of the highway was fostered by the Greater Paducah Association to attract tourists to this section and the dam.

The rerouted highway will leave U. S. 68 near Sharpe, just over the McCracken County line, will run east through Gilbertsville, pass over the dam and join the old route at Kuttawa, Lyon County. A bridge will be built across the Cumberland River, a few miles beyond the dam. U. S. Highway 62 at present joins U. S. 60 at Smithland.

Finland Pays Debt On Time

Washington. —Hjalmar Procopé, Minister of debt-paying little Finland, kept his country's record clean today by presenting $160,693 to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

The Finnish payment, on the war debt, included $141,662.50 under the funding agreement of 1922 and $19,030.50 under the moratorium agreement of 1932. The Baltic Sea country was the only one of Uncle Sam's creditors remitting its full share of war debt installments falling due today.

Hungary made a token payment of $9,828.16 this week on her debt—originally $1,685,000—and expressed the hope that Congress would consider favorably an offer of settlement made last year.

Rumania submitted last month an offer to settle her $64,000,000 debt on terms which called for a scaling down of the obligation. Great Britain, whose unpaid $85,676,765.05 installment was the largest due, has reiterated her offer of circumstances as such as to warrant discussion settlement "whenever the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached."

The total amount owed the United States is about $13,000,000,000.

"News that is New"

ESTABLISHED 1898.

Fulton, Kentucky, Thursday Afternoon, November 23, 1939

Volume XL—No. 281.

THE LISTENING POST

● This issue is dedicated and in large part prepared by the Lions Club of Fulton. In order to secure funds for the annual Christmas distribution of baskets to the underprivileged families in Fulton, the club recently proposed to take over an issue of this newspaper and share in the proceeds. Today's issue, the largest in many years, is the result of their labors. The publication will pay quite a goodly sum into the club treasury, and this will be used to make many homes happy this coming Christmas.

● Rarely have I seen such united enthusiasm as was manifested in this work. There are advertisements in this issue from firms which I hardly knew were located in Fulton. I have not counted the individual advertisements, but I venture the assertion that there are more different advertisements than ever appeared before in any local publication. There are no large advertisements, the issue is made possible by the sterling work done by the various Lions, and by the united support of Fulton people.

● The Lions Club has been an integral part of Fulton for the past fifteen years. During those years it has played an important part in many community enterprises, and it is not resting on past laurels now. On the contrary, the club is always looking about to see something that needs doing and then proceeding to do it. A case in point is the furnishing of free lunches at the local school to those children who are unable to buy lunches. Last year it was found that a number of children were going without lunches and the Lions Club at once moved into this situation with a determination to remedy it. It was remedied then, and now this problem is in direct charge of the club and is still being cared for. Over 2000 free lunches have been served during the past year.

● Service clubs have done a great deal for Fulton during the past few years. Fulton has two excellent service clubs, as well as the usual civic clubs, and I know of no town which does things in a better way. I have kept pretty close watch on such work in other towns during recent years and I know that Fulton is doing a splendid job.

● The Lions Club is now at about its peak in membership and in influence. It has been honored by state and national officials as being one of the best clubs in the entire organization. It is not content with past successes, but is determined to press steadily forward during the year that lies ahead. Its members believe in Fulton: they are willing to work to advance the interests of our community. They ask no praise, they claim no credit save that inner glow which always comes when they feel that they have done a job well. It has the man power to accomplish things, and there are no selfish interests in the club.

● I have seen and know many clubs, but in the ten years that I have been in this club I have seen a club that has more real fellowship, more interest, than any club I have ever seen. The Lions Club is for Fulton always. It has meant a great deal to the town—and it will mean more as the years march along.

Requests Reported Over Income

Governor Says Total Must Be Within Revenue

Frankfort, Ky. —Budget requests by various State Departments are due for drastic cutting, Gov. Keen Johnson indicated today.

"The budget requests total $33,000,000," Johnson said, "and they've got to be cut down to $24,000,000 to keep within the State's revenue." The Governor said "the only specific legislation" he favored for the 1940 General Assembly meeting here in January was "a budget bill that will keep within the State's revenue."

"No Choice" for Speaker
Asked at a press conference in the executive office to name his choice for speaker of the House of Representatives, Johnson said he had "no choice," and added he had had no conferences about the subject.

Johnson declined comment when asked if he could outline his intended policy in regard to pardons and commutations. His predecessor, A. B. Chandler, granted none.

In answer to another question he said there had been no reason to change his statement of last week that he would hold off on major appointments until the adjournment of the Legislature.

Birthday-Thanksgiving Fare Hunted By Garner And Pal

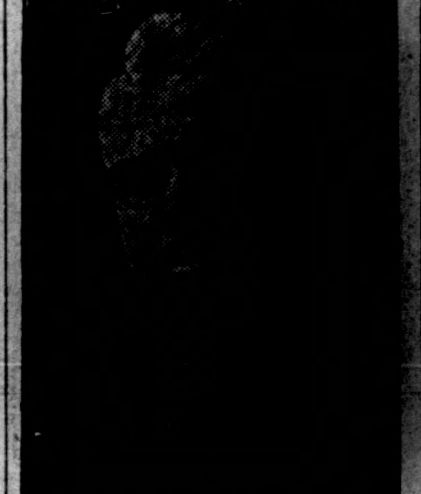

Uvalde, Texas. — Somewhere along the Rio Grande tonight the Vice President of the United States encamped after hunting his birthday-Thanksgiving fare.

John N. Garner and his companion, Ross Brumfield, left Garner's Uvalde home early today for hunting county along the Rio Grande, about ninety miles away. The bacon, eggs and coffee in their provision box this morning were supplemented by a generous hunk of coconut cake, baked by Mrs. Garner "for his seventy-first birthday."

Garner and Brumfield were intent on bagging deer, turkey or ducks.

Incidentally, Garner has the reputation of being an expert at making "son-of-a-gun" stew, a cow-country dish which varies widely, according to who dictates

MELVIN JONES

MELVIN JONES
Secretary-Treasurer
International Association of Lions Clubs Chicago, Illinois

Melvin Jones, founder and Secretary-Treasurer of the International Association of Lions Clubs, was born at Fort Thomas, Arizona, January 13, 1880, where his father was a scout in the government service. His boyhood was spent in the thrilling setting of Indiana raids, pursuits, and long journeys with emigrant trains.

At the age of twenty, he went to Chicago to study law and voice. He joined a number of musical societies, was a member of the Apollo Club, and for years was in great demand as a tenor. Attracted by the insurance field, he soon decided against law as a career and entered the office of Johnson and Higgins, insurance brokers, and then he launched into business for himself as the Melvin Jones Insurance Agency.

Being social in his habits, he joined with other business and professional men in organizing the Business Circle of Chicago, of which he became Secretary. As early as 1914, he sent out letters to independent clubs all over the country, asking them to consider uniting into an association. It was not until June, 1917, however, after much correspondence, that delegating some fifty clubs, met at the Hotel La Salle in Chicago and formed the International Association of Lions Clubs. The first convention was held at Dallas, Texas, on October 9-11, 1917, at which Melvin Jones was elected Secretary-Treasurer, which office, he has since held continuously.

Lions Code Of Ethics

1. To show my faith in the worthiness of my vocation by industrious application to the end that I may merit a reputation for quality of service.

2. To seek success and to demand all fair remuneration or profit as my just due, but to accept no profit or success at the price of my own self-respect lost because of unfair advantage taken or because of questionable acts on my part.

3. To remember that in building up my business it is not necessary to tear down another's; to be loyal to my clients or customers and true to myself.

4. Whenever a doubt arises as to the right or ethics of my position or action towards my fellow man, to resolve such doubt against myself.

5. To hold friendship as an end and not a means. To hold that true friendship exists not on account of the service performed by one to another, but that true friendship demands nothing but accepts service in the spirit in which it is given.

6. Always to bear in mind my obligations as a citizen to my nation, my state and community, and to give them my unswerving loyalty in word, act and deed. To give them freely to my time, labor and means.

7. To aid my fellow men by giving my sympathy to those in distress, my aid to the weak, and my substance to the needy.

8. To be careful with my criticisms and liberal with my praise; to build up and not destroy.

Royce Lee Dyer suffered a broken ankle Tuesday night in the South Fulton-Hamlet-West-Memphis game in Memphis. Dyer is the quarterback on the South Fulton six man football team.

Transient Lad Likes Preacher's Place Of Abode

Recently a dirty-faced lad, dressed in ragged clothes, knocked on the door of the Christian Parsonage. When Dr. Hawkins answered the door, the lad said gruffly, "Are you a preacher?" Dr. Hawkins answered in the affirmative and said, "Did you want a preacher?"

"What d'ya think I'd be doing here if I didn't want a preacher?" returned the boy in a curt tone.

After the boy had been invited in, he informed the preacher that he hadn't eaten a bite in four days. When Dr. Hawkins looked at him rather dubiously, he backtracked a little and said, "Well, I haven't had much to eat in the past four days." The preacher then proceeded to give the stranger some food, and also submitted him to a soap and water treatment, in an effort to make him presentable in appearance. It was learned that the boy came from Texas.

The boy then began talking with his host and glancing down at Don Paul, Jr., the preacher's son, he inquired, "Does he like to live here?" The preacher then answered, "I suppose so."

To which the lad said, "You know I think I like it here and would like to live here."

All of which goes to prove there's a limit even to kindness!

TAGS ON CARS SHATTER HARMONY OF POLICE BAND

Newark, N. J. — Patrolman Raymond Howler, shattered the harmony of the Newark police band. Rehearsing for a concert, the band practiced an extra hour. When fifteen of the musicians went to their cars they found them tagged by Howler for overtime parking.

Local Boy Pulls Stunt Play In Game

The following is taken from an Abilene, Tex. paper, concerning Dane Lovelace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lovelace of this city. Dane is a student at Abilene Christian college, Abilene, Tex. and is a member of the football squad there. This clipping is about the game with Howard Payne College, last year's champions.

"Dane Lovelace, 155-pounder, who did some noteworthy relief work for Garvin Beauchamp at guard, came through with one act that was good for a gallery chuckle."

"Down under a punt, Dane started to tackle the Howard Payne receiver, who at that instant handed the ball off to a comrade."

"So Lovelace grabbed them both, holding the ball carrier up until help arrived."

(By Martha Moore)
Always for the betterment of our community and showing an interest in all civic affairs is the Fulton Lions club, which is now in its fifteenth year of existence.

During the past year the Lions gave over 2000 free school lunches to underprivileged school children. They distributed 100 Christmas baskets among the poor and gave four white canes to the blind. Five school children were fitted with eyeglasses by this club. The Lions donated $30.00 to the Fulton High band fund and contributed $10.00 to the school kitchen at South Fulton.

The local club entertained with their annual Ladies Night Banquet and 125 Lions and their guests were present. They sponsored the Donkey Ball game for the benefit of the Band fund and put on the annual minstrel, which brought in over $200 for the school lunch fund.

During the past year four members of the Fulton club have earned keys by bringing in two new members, this making a total of ten key members in the club. The local club aided in organizing two new Lions clubs in Murray and Martin, Tenn., and they also sent delegates to the District Convention at Chattanooga.

The Fulton Lions club was organized by a commissioner from Lions International, Chicago, and was chartered June 17, 1924. There were twenty-four charter members. They are as follows, H. H. Murphy, M. Babs Plays Conciliator For Father And Step-Mother

New York.—Countess Barbara Haugwitz Reventlow, who herself has experienced two marital shipwrecks, was credited by friends today with effecting a reconciliation between her father and step-mother.

Barbara, with her 3 1/2-year-old son, Lance, recently returned from Europe three days after her father, Franklin L. Hutton, advertised he was through paying bills for his wife, the former Irene Curley Bodde of Detroit.

Sends Wife, Flowers

Hutton then sought the seclusion of his Yonkers Island, South Carolina plantation. Barbara and her child remained here, frequently visiting her step-mother in the Hutton home.

Indication that these visits had a pacific purpose was seen when Hutton returned here yesterday and, after a talk with Barbara, telephoned his estranged wife and sent her flowers. In a newspaper advertisement this morning he stated the notice published "over my name" a month ago was "in error."

"I hereby withdraw it," he added.

Takes New Apartment

On his return, Hutton took an apartment near his wife's residence which was his own home until their estrangement.

Barbara, divorced in 1935 from the late Georgian Prince Alexis Molvan and now seeking a Danish divorce from her second titled husband, Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, is living in a nearby hotel. Another guest in the hotel is Robert Sweeney, young American who has been her steady escort for several months.

Former Bulldog Dissatisfied With All-Star Team

The following letter was received here today concerning the selection of the All-Star team of Fulton High.

Dear Commentator:

I have just read in the November 16 issue of your paper a list of the all time All Star Fulton Bulldogs football team and being a former 13 letter man of Fulton High School and thinking I am a fair judge of an athlete I heartily disagree with the team selected. Not denying the ability of these boys selected, but they should not be considered all time all star. If you will look in the records you will find one of these men did not even make the team in 1930. O also don't think the proper method was used in selecting this team for some of those men who selected the team never saw some of the best football players Fulton High ever turned out. play. If you will notice in my selection I picked a man for his All Round football ability and value to the team not because he might have been a star for one game.

You will notice I have on my team a man who missed just one vote of being on the all state team. This is something no other Fulton Bulldog ever accomplished. This man didn't even receive honorable mention on the team that has been selected.

After publishing my team in your paper which I hope you do, if any one has any doubts of the superiority of my team I will give anyone two touchdowns over the team you published on Nov. 16.

Yours very truly,

A Dissatisfied Former "Still Fighting Bulldog"
Editor's note: The All-Star team selected by Uel Killebrew, C. L. Maddox, and Joe Hall was chosen from players at Fulton High from 1929 to 1939.

ARE WE HERE ON BUSINESS FOR OUR KING?

"And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works." Revelations 12.

Are we here on business for our King? Who is our King? Is he God or mammon? Is he love of humanity or love of self? In selecting our life's work, did we consider whether our business would be a means of introducing people to God; of introducing them to a better, happier, nobler and more constructive life, of introducing people to the Godly nature with which they are endowed, of introducing them to the Fountain of Living Waters that even death itself could not destroy or did we forget to consider these matters when selecting our life's work?

If our business, if our life's work is taking bread out of hungry mouths, if it increases poverty instead of prosperity, if it is destruction instead of construction, if our business takes food and medical attention and clothing away from little children who are already undernourished, if our business increases the burdens and heartaches of women, if our business introduces young men and young women to Satan, to sin, disease, and death, if our business makes a gambler out of a potential preacher, a drunkard out of a potential physician, a tramp out of a potential philanthropist, a criminal out of a potential judge, if your business makes a woman of shame out of a potential Christian mother, if our business eats out the vital of men, instead of nourishing and strengthening them, then we are in business for his Satanic Majesty, the King of Selfishness, Sin and Desolation. (The Woman's Christian.)

Temperance Unions are not working for any selfish motive. They are working as did our great leader, Frances E. Willard, for the purpose of teaching boys and girls the evil of alcohol. This liquor and saloon question is a fact squarely to be faced. We cannot have saloons without patronizing them. Who is to help the liquor business thrive? We must educate our sons and daughters to the danger and use of alcohol. The liquor interests are alive and advertising for their selfish gains. In 1918 one big Metropolitan newspaper was paid $248,000 dollars for its liquor ads. Many rich men are putting up large sums to advance the wet cause. Why? The more revenue from taxes on liquor paid by the poor, the less will be the taxes on the rich man's income. One eastern millionaire said "if we can open drinking places again, we can repeal the income tax." (Selfish gain.) Fathers and mothers, with all loving seriousness, we wish to plead for your help in our earnest unselfish effort to save your children and all of this land from the awful curse—Drink.

May God hold us responsible for our influence in matters such as these.

Lionism—Present and Future

A man said to me the other day—the bishop of a church, as he sat by me in a railroad train, "What is the future of Lionism?"

I said, "I am no prophet; but let me tell you something of its present. Bishop, in Lionism is the only place where 110,000 men each week stand reverently and hear the blessing of Almighty God invoked upon their meal, and possibly it is the only contact with the Divine that some of them have."

"It is the only place where a great many of those men ever turn their eyes reverently toward the Flag of their country, and salute it and pause for a moment to sing their National Anthem."

"It is the only fraternity that a great many of those 110,000 men know, and the Brotherhood of Lionism has come to be a great, loving tie between men, a great fraternity without secrets, a great fraternity without exclusiveness, a great fraternity of unselfishness."

"It is the only opportunity that some of that 110,000 men have to give to the blind, and to the underprivileged, and to those in the community who need it, and to do the unselfish thing for those who reach out to them for leadership."

Suddenly the Bishop said, "Stop! You have told me what you are doing. The future of an organization committed to those ideals, carrying on that kind of work, is assured."

However, I would bring to your attention what to my mind seems to be the essentials of Lionism's future success. I believe that the spirit of cooperation which has pervaded this organization, that has kept it so free of strife, kept it so free of the pettiness and the bitterness of factionalism, is one of the finest attributes upon which we may lay hold today. The spirit, if you please, is that of cooperation.

The great Disraeli said that the success of his life came when he found that men could work together; and that instead of a man trying to stand alone, he should reach out and call to his side the great men of his community, and use the best that is in them.

The next requisite for the continued growth and health of Lionism is exerted effort. But we must ask ourselves the question of the ages: "That tree that beareth not good fruit, shall it not be cut down and cast into the fire?"

We have seen this organization grow in number, but numbers have not made it great. We have seen it grow in attendance, but attendance has not made it great. We have seen it grow in prestige, and prestige has not made it great.

It is so wonderfully outstanding that while last year there were 28,422 activities in which the Lions of this country aided, helped, cooperated and worked with the less fortunate and the needy, this year, out of a bountiful store of great service, we report to you 34,733 activities over 6,000 more than during the same period of last year.

And running parallel with the thought of effort in Lionism, is the element Leadership. In leadership, Lionism will march forward—always forward; its flag fluttering before it, its anthems ringing out, and the hearts of its men stirred.

The definite place of the service club in the civic life and the social structure of the world today calls for an even bolder and braver program in the years that lie ahead than it has dared to undertake in the past. Heretofore content with organization and influence, glorifying in deeds of unselfish service and in charitable benefices to the unfortunate in every community, Lionism must give its life and face the future with a more determined sense of civic responsibility.

No finer forum for the discussion of local, state and national problems can be found than that of larded by the gathering of the community's leading business and professional men once each week in a non-partisan and non-political meeting. To hear both sides of leading questions discussed intelligently by careful students of the facts and conditions, without endorsement or condemnation, or even applause for the speakers, will familiarize the average Lion with all of the elements that he must vote upon or form an opinion about, and permit him intelligently to arrive at a sane conclusion.

Too many of the intelligent business and professional men today are considering public problems without having the facts before them, or being adequately posted upon the actual conditions that exist.

The time will never come when partisan politics or individual political preferment will have any place in Lionism; but the time is right for mingling with the high-sounding generalities and reiterated idealisms the realization of the responsibility of an informed citizenship.

Lionism is religion without fanaticism and controversy. It is Statesmanship without the tarnish of politics. It is as fascinating as an Army, yet without the woe and destruction that follows an army. It has the grandeur of glory without its defeats and disappointments. It has pomp and splendor without vanity. It has education without exclusiveness. It is culture without selfishness. It is intimacy without its entanglements and familiarity. It is directed energy without coercion. It is the spirit of youth with age's experience and its strength.

Morganthau Says Treasury Has No Tax Program Now

Washington. —Legislators wary of imposing new taxes in an election year brightened up today when Secretary Morganthau reiterated that the Treasury had "no tax program" and Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), said a tax bill might be unnecessary at the congressional session beginning in January.

Harrison, chairman of the finance committee which prepares tax legislation for Senate consideration, discussed the outlook with reporters after lunching with Pre-

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

DELICIOUS beverages to serve with paper thin cookies or fruit cake are always in demand when friends drop in during the winter holiday season. A supply of canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice kept in readiness in the refrigerator or pantry for just such occasions will delight your family and friends.

Pineapple neg is a refreshing, bubbly drink that will please the children, and it's so easy to make that they can prepare it themselves by the following directions: Beat 3 egg yolks until thick and creamy. Add three tablespoons sugar and continue to beat. Combine 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons orange juice and 3 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice, and add gradually to egg yolks, beating all the while. Fold in 3 egg whites which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Pour into glasses. Top each serving with grated nutmeg.

Fruit juices and eggs should be very cold.

Yield: 5-8-ounce glasses.

ident Roosevelt.

The way collections from present federal taxes have been increasing "gladdens our hearts," the Mississippi said, adding:

"If, coupled with that, we cut down expenses we may be able to get along without a tax bill." Harrison took it for granted that increased expenditures would be proposed for national defense but he expressed the opinion that outlays for some other purposes probably would be reduced.

Secretary Morganthau, reiterating at a press conference that the Treasury had no tax program, indicated that he intended to make no formal recommendation to Congress but would express his views to its committees if requested to do so.

Green Asks Public To Place Blame In Labor Feud

Washington. — Amid persistent talk of a new administration effort to bring the A. F. L. and the C. I. O. together, President William Green of the A. F. L. has asked the neutral public to place the responsibility for labor's internal feud "where it belongs."

"We believe that an attitude of neutrality toward the disputants in this case who profess to be anxious for labor peace merely serves to shelter and protect the side which is to blame," Green said in a statement last night. "Therefore, such an attitude hinders the attainment of peace."

Raw Material Held Bar To Fast Plane Production

Baltimore. —The "bottle-neck" of quantity aircraft production in this country "is raw material," the Army Industrial College was told today.

J. T. Hartson, executive vice president of the Glenn L. Martin Company, addressing sixty officers studying methods of correlating military and industrial activities in times of emergency, said:

"Aluminum alloy sheet, extrusions and castings, which in normal times require from three to eight weeks for delivery, in this emergency still require three to eight weeks for delivery. The same may be said of steel, and we have found no inducement, no premium, that can accelerate the process."

Talking Crowd Escapes Hunters, Now Wants Papa

Macon, Ga. —Socio-economic news from one of our feathered friends (Audubon Department) please interpret:

Columnist John D. Spencer's talking crowd, Jim, escaped right at the start of hunting season after fifteen years of contented captivity.

He re-appeared near his old home, ignored Spencer and repeatedly cried "Starvation" from the treetops. Then he changed abruptly to the plaint, "Want my papa" and when last heard from was making the practical suggestion, "Some one start a fire."

Britain Told U. S. Reserves Trade Rights

Washington. —Great Britain has been notified that the United States does not endorse any principle involving interference with genuinely neutral trade on the high seas. Summer Wells, Acting Secretary of State, told reporters today that this word had gone out along with the assertion that this country naturally was reserving all its rights under international law.

Individual Meet Act

(By RAY L. RILEY)

Fast President, Lions International
 When a man takes the obligation as a member of a Lions Club he is accorded a vastly greater opportunity to live a full life. At the same time he assumes a vastly greater responsibility for the use of his life.

His additional opportunities will include the association, on absolutely equal terms, with the best minds and the highest characters in his community, picked with care for their qualities of manhood, and bound together by their common interests and ambitions for the community good.

He will meet with these chosen men, he will grow to know them intimately, he will form among them some of the close friendships which will enrich all the rest of his life, he will become one of them. He will gain, through working with them, a clearer understanding of the comradeship, the brotherhood, which comes from striving for identical ideals.

He will know the thrill which comes to every man who performs some unselfish service—the relief of pain, the removal of obstacles from the life of the unfortunate, the leading of boys and girls into healthy and happy work and play and safeguarding them from harmful ways, the wise regulation of the community life which will protect each in his right to pursue happiness in his own individual way.

He Will Take Pride in Work

He will find a new pride in the happiness and prosperity of his community as his club works, year after year, to build it up to higher standards. He will be gratified by the recognition which his fellow townsmen will give him, through his club, for the thing it has done for the common good.

But the responsibility of the Lion increases with equal steps as his opportunities increase. He pledges himself explicitly to meet promptly once a week with his club; to pay his dues on time; to carry on his share of work in the community which claims him; to be a loyal citizen of whatever land gives him shelter and opportunity; and to obey the rules and regulations of his club and of International.

He will take a deeper personal interest in everything that touches the well-being of his town—its schools and churches, its playgrounds and its industries, the health of its people and their safety, and the spirit of neighborliness which holds the people together.

Lionism is not a thing to be put on like a badge when one enters a meeting, and to be laid aside like a badge and forgotten when the meeting is adjourned.

Lionism is a real, living thing, conferring its privileges and imposing its obligations alike; and the real Lion is the man who recognizes and accepts both in the same spirit—the man who vividly lives Lionism all the time.

Competition Of Pensions Held Threat To Schools

St. Louis.—Competition of young and old Government tax funds constitutes "the biggest threat to the financial security of the schools," Superintendent Henry H. Hill of the Lexington, Ky., school system told the Missouri State Teachers Association today.

"For the first time in recent history the old are competing at least indirectly with youth for tax funds (for pensions)," Hill said at the teachers' convention.

"All of us believe in devoting a reasonable share of the public's income to such a purpose. Nevertheless, I believe the biggest threat to the financial security of the schools in the next decade may come from the old and their friends."

"Given time we can provide reasonably for both youth and old age," he added. "The two groups should not compete."

History of Lionism

The history of Lions International dates back to the year 1914, when Melvin Jones conceived an association of clubs composed of business and professional men, united together in the performance of unselfish service.

At that time, Melvin Jones was Secretary of the Business Circle of Chicago. He corresponded with secretaries of a number of other independent clubs throughout the United States, suggesting his plan to them for consideration. While the idea met with favorable response, it was not until 1917 that definite action was taken.

On June 7, 1917, at the invitation of Melvin Jones representing the Business Circle of Chicago, delegates from approximately fifty clubs in various parts of the country met at the Hotel La Salle, in Chicago, for the purpose of organizing an association dedicated to service. Their decision was favorable, and they voted to hold a convention in Dallas, Texas, October 9-11, 1917.

At the first annual convention of Lions International in Dallas, Texas, the organization of the association was completed. Committees were appointed to work out various details, and it was voted to hold the second annual convention in St. Louis, Missouri, August 19-21, 1918. L. H. Lewis, of Dallas, Texas, was elected International President, and Melvin Jones, of the Central Lions Club, Chicago, was elected Secretary-Treasurer, which office he has held continuously since then.

By 1920, the association of 25 clubs and 800 members had grown to 113 clubs with 6,451 members, and had become international in scope as well as in name, with the foundation of Lions Clubs in Canada. In 1927, the association expanded into Mexico and China, and had increased to 1,183 clubs with 52,965 members.

The association enjoyed rapid expansion from its founding. For a period of four years, new Lions Clubs were formed at the rate of one or more a day.

During the fiscal year 1937-38, this record was again attained with the founding of 401 new Lions Clubs. Lions International closed the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, with 3,042 Clubs and 104,818 members. Today, Lions Clubs exist in eight countries of the world, namely: United States, Canada, Mexico, China, Cuba, Panama, Colombia, and Costa Rica, with Clubs also in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

On the North American Continent, the International Association of Lions Clubs has more clubs than has any other civic service organization.

into worth while permanent improvements; material, social and spiritual. Lionism has proven itself a trustworthy leader in community council and affairs, and it has ably assisted in keeping our respective countries upon an even keel.

An active Lions Club to-day is more than a club; it is a workshop of thought and action combined. Rather than a bunch of back-slapping good fellows coming together weekly to sing and eat and joke, it is a cross section of the community's best citizenship gathered around a table each week to coordinate in thought and action the most sensible and adaptable plans for making the community a better place in which to live and love and pray and work and prosper. Our twenty-seven hundred Lions Clubs with our seventy-odd thousand Lions in these and other worthy ways are helping to make this a better world for all of us.

No one of us will ever have a more honored title than that of a good citizen, and Lions Clubs offer us a most acceptable opportunity for self-help and self-education, along with a bigger and more unselfish service to others, that makes the good citizen into a better one.

As our clubs develop individuals into competent and capable community and city leadership, our membership generally lends a less willing ear to fraud and sham and trickery which usually constitutes the stock in trade of those who mistake noise for brains. The world must have a constant and loyal continuance of those sterling brands of faith and confidence in men that our forefathers demonstrated in establishing our respective governments; a lasting patriotism and love of country and of law and order and respect for law such as has been demonstrated so remarkably between Canada and the United States for more than a hundred years along an imaginary boundary line, with not a gun from one ocean to the other—a sensible and lasting understanding of friendliness between friends.

EARLE W. HODGES,
Past President, Lions International.

LIONISM AND THE HOME

By Ben A. Ruffin

Lionism, briefly stated, is a business of building unselfish citizenship, manhood and character. Lionism inspires men to reach up to great heights of unselfish service. Yet Lionism realizes that the true test of a man is in his home. Patience and courtesy and love often marks a man's conduct among his fellow men, but unless such virtues are carried with him into his home, that man's character is mean and false.

All of the worth-while institutions of life had their beginning in the home. There religion and citizenship were born, for there the family first assembled to worship under the ministry of the father, and as citizens of the family circle to acknowledge his leadership. There education began at the mother's knee. There the industries came into being with the whirl of the spinning wheel and the scrape of the carpenter's plane. There love was dreamed, love of man and wife, and love of parent and child.

A home is not just an inhabited house built with sticks and stones; it is an ideal built with love. A home may be destroyed, but a home with love, never. Home is the kingdom of the wife and mother, and the haven of peace and quiet and happiness of the husband and father.

Many things in modern life tend to weaken or even destroy the influence of the home. The extent to which the home influence is preserved determines the extent of the nation's progress and spiritual security; the extent to which that influence is weakened or destroyed determines the extent of the nation's decay. Without the true home, Lionism must fail, the nation must fail, life must fail.

Roosevelt Drops Plan To Use Expert Advice

Washington. — President Roosevelt today was reported authoritatively to have abandoned his plan to consult with congressional leaders on any neutrality problems arising before the 1940 session.

One of the leaders, asking that his name be withheld, told reporters he understood Roosevelt had decided that day-to-day decisions on foreign policy properly should be made by the executive branch. Roosevelt returned to the Capital this morning.

G. O. P. Leader Absent

In his message to Congress September 21 the President said he was asking leaders in both Houses to remain here between the close of the special session and the beginning of the 1940 session so he could confer with them on foreign problems.

The Republicans, however, have indicated they thought the President might be seeking to have them share the responsibility for his decisions.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, House minority leader, is out of the city, but Senator McNary of Oregon, who holds the same position in the Senate, remained here.

New Rifle Is Held Deadly In First Tryout

Packville, N. Y. — In the first test by National Guardsmen of the new Garand semi-automatic service rifle twelve men scored 402 hits in sixty seconds on man-sized silhouette targets.

The test was made on a 200-yard range at Camp Smith by picked riflemen of the 107th Infantry of the New York National Guard.

34 Shots a Minute Averaged
Officers said the men averaged thirty-four shots a minute per man, compared with a possible maximum of only twenty shots a minute with the Springfield rifle, which the Garand is replacing as the U. S. Army's basic infantry

Maj. Gen. William H. Haskell, commander of the New York guardsmen, hailed the Garand as "a very powerful weapon that will give the infantry a tremendous firing power."

New Tax Bill Held Avoidable

Washington. — Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), said after a luncheon conference with President Roosevelt today that tax legislation might be avoided next session if revenue continued upward and expenses could be trimmed.

Finance Committee said the way tax receipts have been increasing recently "gladdens our hearts."

Berlin. — With harsh winter weather near, the housing problem in Warsaw, especially as it concerns Jews, has become a pressing consideration for the war-ravaged former Polish capital.

These sources emphasized plans were being speeded for creation of a separate Jewish reservation in Southern Poland, with Lublin as its center.

Are Divided On Court Appointee

Washington, —Western Senators

were divided today over the need for appointment of a Supreme Court Justice from beyond the Mississippi river to succeed Justice Pierce Butler.

Several of them said they would urge President Roosevelt to name a westerner, but Senator Borah (R-Idaho), questioned the importance of geography in the selection.

The name of Attorney General Frank Murphy figured prominently in capital speculation. Although a resident of Michigan rather than the west, Murphy is a Catholic, as was Butler.

The 73-year old justice, in fact was the only member of that faith on the court. He died early yesterday after a long illness, and his funeral was set for 11 a. m. today at St. Matthew's cathedral. Burial will be in St. Paul, Minn., his former home.

It was generally expected that Mr. Roosevelt would not name Justice Butler's successor until after Congress convenes in January. There is no litigation of outstanding importance on constitutional questions before the court.

The fifth vacancy among the justices since Mr. Roosevelt took office emphasized anew the probability that his appointees will dominate the court for years to come. The four men he has appointed so far have been comparatively young.

Drinking Alibis Pour From Lips Of Woman Driver

Millburn, N. J. —After listening to the defense presented by a young matron charged with driving while intoxicated Judge G. Noyes Slayton decided he would ponder the problem for two weeks.

Oh yes, admitted the defendant, her car did zig-zag a bit but that was because her husband, sitting alongside her, fell asleep and lurching on her arm.

At police headquarters, she explained, she failed the walking backwards test because she wore four-inch French heels; and she couldn't bend over to pick up buttons because, well, her girdle was too highwaisted.

FDR Apparently Enjoying Debate Over Third Term

Hyde Park, N. Y. —Another wave of speculation over President Roosevelt's political intentions rolled along today in the wake of a speech in which he expressed the hope his collections and papers would be ready for "public inspection and use" by the spring of 1941.

In a bantering mood yesterday at the site of the library that will house the private papers of his public life, the President said he hoped "my good friends of the press" would give "due interpretation to the expression of my hope that when we open the building to the public it will be a fine day."

The remark was interpolated in his address at the laying of the library cornerstone on the Roosevelt estate and interpreted by most reporters as meaning the President actually is enjoying all the hullabaloo over whether he will aim for a third term.

The disclosure the President's correspondence would be available to students, historians and biographers by the middle of 1941 furnished no real clue to his intentions. It did serve, however, to bring the third-term puzzle to the fore again by leading to conjecture whether Mr. Roosevelt would wish the public to have access to records of the New Deal's intimate working, if he intended to seek reelection next year.

Into a copper box that fitted into the cornerstone of the library, the President tucked copies of newspapers which printed stories that linked the third term and the 1941 opening date of the library.

Then he heard several speeches and made one himself.

Among those who listened was Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator. The former Governor of Indiana, with strong, organized backing in his home state, has seen his name put forward for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1940—if Mr. Roosevelt does not want it.

Syndicate Would Buy Barge System

New Orleans, —A syndicate of New Orleans industrialists is dickering for the Federal Barge Lines, in whole or in part.

John M. Flynn, vice president of the Gulf Carloading Co. Inc., said he was representing the group in negotiations with Secretary of Commerce Hopkins.

It was understood that the syndicate wanted to buy the whole line and its floating equipment, or that part operating in the central freight division between Chicago and New Orleans. Since 1924, the Government has invested between $24,000,000 and $35,000,000 in the barge lines.

Hitch Hikers Insist On Car With A Radio

Pikeville, Ky. - There was a day when a hitch-hiker would welcome any means of transportation so long as it got him to his destination. But not the modern collegiate "thumbers" who have gone high-hat and now demand the best from their hosts, according to Ed L. Thornbury, traveling salesman.

Thornbury, heading for a trip into West Virginia, was hailed by two youths wearing college sweaters and carrying small bags. He brought his car to a stop, opened the door and called cheerfully, "Hop in."

The pair walked to his car and peered into the interior.

"You got a radio in there, Mister?" one queried.

"No," Thornbury replied, "haven't had it installed in this new car yet."

"Well, if you don't mind we'll wait and catch another car," the pair informed him, closing the door, "we just got to hear that Yale football game."

Culprit Gives False Address To Wrong Man

Miami, Fla. - There was, it seems, a slight case of mistaken address.

A customer bought some groceries, tendered a $100 check and received $80 change. As an afterthought he ordered $12 worth more, to be delivered C. O. D.

"Where'll I send it?" asked the clerk.

"To 811 N. W. 75th St."

The clerk started, then inquired gently:

"How long have you lived there?"

"Oh, I just bought the house three days ago."

"The heck you did," roared the clerk. "That's where I live."

The customer fled, but the clerk nabbed him on the street and called police, who jailed the party of the first part on a worthless check charge.

SCOTT'S

Romeo Wins Right To Court Girl Parents Kept At Home

New York — George Lowther, third, who went to the law courts to establish an unabridged right to court Eileen Herrick, won his point today in a compromise that was at least amicable for the record.

After a brief private hearing in the chambers of State Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel, the young broker's habeas corpus suit against Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, Eileen's socially eminent parents, was dismissed with this understanding:

Ten More Days' Rest

1. That 20-year-old Eileen, who was declared by experts to have been one of the most "glamorous" of all debutantes two years ago, should remain for ten more days in the hospital where she has been resting.

2. That after that time George should be allowed to see her as often as he wishes—and marry her, too, if it's all right with her.

This solution of a singular court action—which Lowther had brought in an effort to show that Miss Herrick was being detained against her will in her parents' fashionable East Side home to prevent his seeing her—was anticlimactic against the events that had preceded it.

Chief among these was a half-shove, half-blow directed at the big, broad-shouldered young broker by Eileen's slight, gray-haired father.

Blow In Corridor

This exchange occurred just as Miss Herrick and her nurse appeared in the bleak marble corridor of the Supreme Court building some 2½ hours after the scheduled start of the hearing, and Lowther rushed to her with arms outstretched.

Her pretty, pale face set, her eyes coldly looking straight ahead, she took no apparent notice of his advance, and at that point Herrick, his prince nez bobbing upon his thin nose, rushed up, crying out shilly.

"Get away from her!"

Legislature To Draft New Law On Chain Stores

Frankfort, Ky. —Regardless of the outcome of chain store tax litigation pending in the Court of Appeals, an attempt will be made in the 1940 legislature to enact a new measure, it has been reported authoritatively here.

The new law's sponsors intend for it to be enacted under the state's police power, whereas the act now in litigation is purely a revenue measure, according to the interpretation of the state's highest court.

Administration forces believe the proposed new measure would stand court tests, as it would be couched in terms in which they believe the Court of Appeals indicated it would be acceptable.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Sheep

A sheep meeting under the direction of Dr. T. P. Polk, Field Veterinary from the University of Kentucky and County Agent S. V. Foy was held at Cayce High school Wednesday afternoon. Twenty sheep raisers of the county attended the meeting and held a splendid discussion of the common diseases of sheep. Dr. Polk says 90 percent of our sheep trouble can be prevented and that it is easier and more economical to prevent the diseases than it is to cure.

Dr. Polk states that: Twenty percent of the sheep that are brought to the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for examination have pregnancy disease. Parasites and footrot are the only conditions that cause a greater economic loss to the sheep industry.

Pregnancy disease occurs in December, January, February and March. The largest losses usually occur in January and February. The loss varies from 5 to 25 percent of the affected flock.

Pregnancy disease (acetoneuria) is not infectious or contagious, but develops as a result of poor feeding. In fact this disease can be produced experimentally by starving the animals. Many ewes are in poor physical condition at breeding time. If such ewes are not fed so as to gain 20 to 30 pounds in weight, from breeding to lambing time, pregnancy disease may develop.

Prevention of pregnancy disease depends on the selection of good, vigorous ewes as breeders, good feeding and the control of stomach worms and other parasites. Prevention should thus begin with the selection of the animal's that are to be used as breeders. Early ewe lambs, that are well developed, well nourished and have been kept comparatively free of parasites should be selected for replacements. Such animals have a large reserve of nutrients in the body and are more able to withstand the drain of pregnancy and lactation.

The majority of cases of pregnancy disease occur directly following a sudden drop in the temperature, a cold rain, or a snow storm. At such times the ewes may be temporarily cut off from free access to the water supply, green feed may become unavailable and shelter may or may not be provided. This sudden change in methods of feeding and management, together with exposure and a restricted water supply, may upset poorly nourished ewes that otherwise would not have developed pregnancy disease.

Ewes in the first stages of pregnancy disease lag behind the rest of the flock and refuse to eat or drink. There may be a tendency to walk in a circle or to stand with the head pressed against some object.

As the condition progresses the sick animals are found lying down more or less constantly, grinding the teeth, trembling and gradually becoming indifferent to their surroundings.

Ewes that are in the early stages of pregnancy disease can sometimes be saved by drenching them with two ounces of any kind of molasses diluted with an equal amount of water. This treatment should be given two or three times a day.

Further development of the disease in a flock can be prevented by feeding molasses at the rate of three quarts for each 100 ewes each day. Mix the molasses with an equal quantity of hot water, sprinkle over the feed and thoroughly mix. This mixture should not be prepared too long before feeding, since damp feed may spoil. Blackstrap molasses is much cheaper than other kinds.

Dallas, Texas. —There wasn't any more mud in Flanders Fields than usual when American soldiers fought there. It just seemed like more, says Dr. Edwin J. Foscoe of Southern Methodist University.

Dr. Foscoe heard so many assertions that the heavy cannonading of World War days brought a deluge, he decided to investigate scientifically.

Studying climatological data, he compiled the true story of rainfall at the Western Front and found:

The four years of the conflict were not unusually rainy. In fact the first two years were only slightly above normal and the last two, when the American troops were in France, were below normal.

Washington. —Analysts of the United States Chamber of Commerce reported today there is every likelihood that construction activity will be maintained for several years at a rate of $10,000,000,000 to $12,000,000,000 annually.

They estimated that all construction for 1933, including maintenance and work relief, would probably exceed $9,500,000,000. But it is unlikely, they added, that the $14,000,000,000 volume attained for the industry between 1926 and 1928 will be equaled in the immediate future.

"Pump-Priming" Out
At the same time, in an address prepared for a construction conference arranged by the chamber, Clyde Shute, manager of the statistical department of the F. W. Dodge Corporation, said "pump-priming" projects appear to be going out of fashion.

It begins to look, he said, as if local public improvements will have to depend "more on local prosperity and municipal solvency than on Federal generosity."

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Demo. School of Business International Correspondence Schools

THERE are many rules in every business which new employees will do well to observe. Frequently, these rules are unwritten and even unspoken, yet their observance plays a highly important part in determining the progress of the individual employee. The unwritten laws of a firm often relate to personal conduct and appearance. There are certain things "that one does not do," even things "that one does not wear." The newcomer in a business should be quick to learn these rules and to conform to them. Often the ability to conform to rules that are not of importance in themselves is one of the tests by which the worthwhileness of the youthful employee is judged.

The importance of being friendly and helpful in all your business contacts cannot be too much stressed. The reputation of a business depends largely on what its customers think about the helpfulness of its employees. The young employee, however, has not completed his job when he has made a favorable impression on such of his employer's customers as he meets. Being friendly and helpful to one's fellow employees and even to one's superiors is equally important. The young employee often asks—How can I be helpful to my superior? The answer is—By doing your job so well that it requires little supervision, by relieving the superior of some of the details of his work, and above all by avoiding getting on the nerves of the superior.

Court Rules Wage-Hour Act Constitutional

Montgomery Ward Loses Fight On Labor Law

Chicago, —The United States District Court held the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 constitutional today in a decision which said Congress had the power to prescribe minimum wages for the protection of the health and good order of society.

Ruling in a cast involving Montgomery Ward & Company Judge William H. Holly declared "Certainly it cannot be maintained now that Congress may not, in the interests of the general welfare of the country, prohibit the shipment in interstate commerce of the products of underpaid and sweated labor."

Alex Elson, regional attorney for the Wage and Hour Administration here, said Judge Holly's decision was the first broad interpretation of the law made by the Federal courts.

Firm Refuses Records
It arose from the refusal of Montgomery Ward to produce certain records desired by the Wage and Hour Administration in an investigation of conditions at the company's Kansas City branch.

fund and will be served for the price of one nickel, with meals consisting of all nourishing foods for growing children.

The approximate cost of the building was made this morning by Mrs. Hutchins at $350.00, while over $100.00 has been spent by the P. T. A. for equipment. The following have made contributions to the purpose and the women are grateful for the support of Fulton's business houses and individuals:

Lions Club, $10.00; C. D. Jones & Sons, $1.00; Browder Milling Company, $10.00; W. E. Sparks, $1.00; O. K. Laundry, $2.00; M. I. Boulton, $5.00; Hugh Smith, (Coca-Cola), $25.00; Earle & Taylor, $2.00; George Dodd, $5.00; Dallas Poultry House, $1.00; Joe Davis (Cotton Gin), $1.00; Gus Bard (City Coal Company), $1.00; Pepsi Cola, $1.25; Dr. R. V. Putnam, $2.00; L. Kasnow, $1.00; Jim Lowe, $1.00; Ira Little, $1.00; Mrs. Abe Jolley, $1.00; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morris, $5.00; Jones Auto Parts, $10.00; and Mrs. C. B. Roach $1.00.

The ladies are also very appreciative to the men who have contributed labor in assisting in the building of the kitchen, as well as the above named contributors.

Gay Movie Features Ted Weems & Band

The "Master of Novelty Tunes", Ted Weems, and his famous orchestra add another milestone in their fifteen-year career of the noted musical figure when they make their screen debut in Universal's youthful romance, "Swing Sister, Swing," today and Friday at the Orpheum Theatre.

Weems jumped from obscurity behind a trombone to national fame when he formed his own band in 1923. His outstanding contributions to popular music were recognized when he was listed in "Biographies of Great Men." He is the only maestro to receive this honor.

Ken Murray, Johnny Downs, Kathryn Kane, Eddie Quillian, Ernest Truex, Edna Sedwick and Nana Bryant have featured roles in the picture, which was directed by Joseph Santley. New music and whirlwind dancing highlight the story of a small-town trio's rise to fame with their swing dance creation, the "Baltimore Bubble."
