THE LISTENING POST

● I have been trying to read a few books during recent weeks and cannot say that the experience has been a happy one. I have almost decided that reading books is something not for me, and am almost ready to go back to my usual custom of reading magazines and newspapers solely. However, there are so many times I am embarrassed by having friends ask me if I have read so and so, and having to confess I have not that I have tried to read a few books just to keep up with the procession. A shameful confession is that I have read several books, notably Gone With the Wind, in my own copy-righted manner. This manner involves reading the first fifty pages, skipping about 100 pages, investigating the last chapter and perhaps dipping into the middle part, and then speculating on how the book was really put together. This method cannot be recommended, but with several books I have found it necessary.

● My experience with books recently leads me to the belief that a novel, instead of having roughly 150,000 words should have about forty, or at most, fifty, thousand words. With such books as Anthony Adverse and Gone With the Wind, which seem to be shooting at about one million words, I express no opinion. They are so large that I grow weary just thinking about reading them and I have an idea that my own private method of reading would never get me through those volumes.

● Recently I have been reading a book written by two Louisville women who collaborated in writing Show Me a Land. I have not finished it yet, but am grimly determined to do so if it requires all summer. Yet I am already persuaded that it could have been told in fewer words, and perhaps told better. The book is really a yarn of Kentucky of something more than a century ago. Yet to get to Kentucky, and to get the story properly started, the tale starts in England, introduces the main characters there, brings them overseas, with a convenient shipwreck, tells something of the story of Virginia of that period and then sets out for Kentucky. Right there is where I am at the present time. I have just arrived in Lexington with the story people, and can tell that the real story is just getting started. I really believe that all I have read before, outside of character development, is wasted effort, and am persuaded that the story, if any, will now proceed to unfold. But I am going on.

● I imagine I had the wrong upbringing in reading books. I started out by reading the Henty books, graduated from those into the Leatherstocking tales, with some side excursions into the books of Thomas Hardy before I was able to understand them, and then passed rapidly into the so called modern books of that day written by Robert W. Chambers and Richard Harding Davis. Only the other day I saw a battered and worn volume at the library which brought nostalgic memories. It was Captain Macklin, and just looking at the worn copy brought back memories of the days when I thrilled to the exploits of the soldiers of fortune created by Davis. I even remembered one passage from one of his books, and it may have been Captain Macklin. An old American soldier of fortune, in some of the banana republics, had spent years fighting in various wars and was old and gray and tired of everything.

● By some political fortune his fellow conspirators decided to make the old soldier president of a republic in Central America—provided they could unseat the tyrant and dictator then occupying the palace. I still remember the speech made to the old soldier. "Captain, they tell me you have fought beneath thirteen flags. Tonight, sir, for the first time, you

U.S. Holds Union Liable To Trust Act

Court Scouts Idea Labor Is Exempted

Washington.—Scouting any idea that trade unions enjoy a blanket exemption from the Sherman anti-trust law, Federal District Judge Peyton Gordon today upheld the action of the Justice Department in invoking the law against a union alleged to have restrained trade during a jurisdictional dispute.

Leaders of the American Federation of Labor who have been critical of methods used by the Justice Department in its anti-trust campaign in the building construction field have contended that unions are exempt from the anti-trust law, though subject to prosecution under other laws.

But Justice Gordon said that the Sherman act applies to labor unions in cases where their objectives are not "legitimate" and where they use unlawful means to attain the objectives.

Second Victory In 2 Days
It was the second victory for the Justice Department in two days. Yesterday the Supreme Court, in a case involving the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation of New York, decided that the owner of a patent cannot regulate prices and suppress competition among the purchasers of the product.

War Distorts U. S. Trade
Washington.—War distorted American foreign trade in February to produce the largest margin of exports over imports for any month in nearly twelve years.

The Commerce Department said today merchandise sales abroad totaled $346,779,000 and imports $199,775,000, an export balance of $147,004,000.

For the first two months of 1940, exports surpassed imports by $273,689,000, compared with $95,276,000 in the same months last year.

Exports were 6 per cent less than in January, partly due to the short month, but the export excess was greater than January's because imports dropped 17 per cent.

Airlines Complete Year Of Flying Without Fatal Mishap

Washington.—Commercial Airlines in the United States completed today a year of flying without a fatal accident or serious injury to passengers or crew members. The record was made a few minutes before 3 a. m., C. S. T. To signalize the event, Chairman Robert Hickey of the Civil Aeronautics Authority dispatched a congratulatory message to airmen over the agency's teletypewriter circuit.

It was retransmitted by radio to 208 airline planes then in flight. Passengers traveling in the planes

Local Citizens Attend Meeting In Union City

A group of five local citizens attended a special open meeting of the Union City Chamber of Commerce, held last evening in the Masonic Hall, with more than 100 Union City men and women present.

W. C. Teague, member of the Memphis Commercial Appeal editorial staff, was the chief speaker and gave an interesting talk on various topics affecting the welfare of the Midsouth. He gave an interesting history of the development of the Plant to Prosper Idea as sponsored by the Commercial Appeal and called attention to the fact that communities are so much closer at this time that the same things vitally affect all these communities.

Mr. Teague was accompanied by Marshall Smith, director of trade relations of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, and Evans Carroll, another Chamber of Commerce official. These men spoke of the coming visit of Memphis business men in this territory, the party being scheduled to visit both Union City and Fulton on the afternoon of April 11.

Those attending the meeting from Fulton were Clarence Reed, Clyde P. Williams, Joe D. Davis, R. E. Sanford and Hoyt Moore.

MOTOR INDUSTRY BEST STEEL USER

New York.—The automobile industry in 1939 for the eighth consecutive year was the largest consumer of rolled steel products, the "Iron Age" reported today.

The construction industry maintained its position as second largest user of steel, followed by the railroads in third place.

Reports from integrated steel companies having 96.4 per cent of the Nation's ingot capacity indicated export shipments for the year increased to 2,068,800 tons from 1,453,600 tons in the previous year, but in 1939 amounted to only 6.4 per cent of total output, compared with 7.3 per cent in the previous year.

Domestic customers took 94 per cent of the steel produced in this country last year, compared with 92 per cent in 1938 and 93 per cent in 1937.

Asia, including Australia, was the largest foreign market last year, taking 26 per cent of total exports. European buyers took 24 per cent of the total.

MINISTERS WILL MEET WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3

The Fulton Ministerial Association will hold the April meeting Wednesday morning, April 3, at 10:30 o'clock in the study of the Methodist Church and a cordial invitation is extended to all ministers of the community to attend.

The Rev. Woodrow Fuller of the Baptist Church will preside at the business session which will be followed by luncheon.

Mrs. Willie Hall is doing nicely.
Mrs. Charlie Rushing, who underwent a minor operation recently, is getting along fine.
Dock Hill is in a critical condition today.

Actual Unemployment Figures May Be Available By Election

Washington.—American voters, who will hear a lot about the unemployment problem during the 1940 political campaign, may know by Election Day in November just how many men and women are idle.

The census bureau said today that a five per cent sample of its job enumeration would be published during the summer and that the total count of unemployed might be completed before the election.

Unofficial and private estimates of unemployment recently have ranged from 2,000,000 to 12,000,000. The census takers, starting out next Tuesday, not only will count the employed and unemployed, but they also will determine several degrees of employment.

These are some of the disputed points about unemployment and how the census will attempt to settle them:

1. The census will count the persons actually at work on private or non-emergency government work.

19-Ton Airliner, Largest Of Kind, Has Test Flight

St. Louis.—The largest twin-engine commercial transport plane in the United States, built by Curtiss-Wright Corporation at a cost of $900,000, took off from Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport today on its first test flight.

With Edmund T. Allen, ace Seattle test pilot, at the controls, the airliner raced only 80 feet along the runway before its two 1,700-horsepower motors lifted it into the air. The take-off required only eleven seconds.

Capable of carrying thirty-six passengers by day and twenty in berths at night, the ship is equipped with many innovations, including a "tell-tale" safety device to check approximately fifty major instruments and controls.

HOMEMAKERS

The Homemakers of Fulton County have launched a new project of mattress making for the months of April and May. The presidents of the various clubs, Farm Bureau Board of directors and the A. C. P. committee, Miss Myrtle Weldon, State Leader of Home Demonstration Agents, Miss Zelma Moore, Assistant State Leader E. J. Kilpatrick, Assistant State Agent, Mrs. Mary DeMyer, Home Management Supervisor, M. Harris, Farm Management Supervisor, Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Home Demonstration Agent, and S. V. Foy, County Agent, met this month to discuss the project in cooperation with the Federal Surplus Commodities Cooperation, which will furnish 50 pounds of cotton and 10 yards of ticking to make a mattress for any farm family with a cash income of not more than $500.00, provided the family will furnish thread, etc. The Home Demonstration Agent and the homemakers' clubs throughout the county will furnish the leadership and give instructions on making the mattress in each community. Cotton mattress centers will be set up in any community in the county where there is sufficient applicants to warrant doing so. Applications for mattresses may be had at the Farm Bureau office in Hickman. The purpose of the projects is to use the surplus cotton in the United States and it is hoped that those eligible and interested will see the County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent at an early date.

Mrs. Pearl Haak, Specialist in Food and Nutrition, will conduct the April training school for leaders of the homemakers club Wednesday, April 3, at the home of Mrs. Robert Thompson. The subject of the day's lesson will be eggs and cheese. Those who will attend are Meadames Cecil Burnett, J. B. Inman, Attraction Conner, Lewis Langford, Delma Blinford, Verlie Nichols, Sue McKelvey, B. M. Tull, Ruby Yates, Martin Condon, William Harrison, Raymond Adams, Ethel Browder, Harvey Hewitt, Dean Collier, Marion Dawes, Jim Ammons, A. J. Lowe, Charlie Pethner, Oma Roper, R. E. Stratfield, and C. L. Shaw.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN AT CARR INSTITUTE

At an assembly of Carr Institute this morning an interesting program was carried out with R. B. Williamson acting as chairman. Following the scripture lesson, Miss LaNelle Bugg played a piccolo solo, the glee club, directed by Mrs. Charles Robert Bennett, sang two much appreciated numbers, and the talk of the morning was given by Dr. Don P. Hawkins who told the story of "The Bluebird."

Taxpayer May Get Recognition On New York Jobs

Albany, N. Y.—Those signs identifying relief construction work as "W. P. A. Projects" will have some competition if New York's Assembly and Governor concur with today's Senate action. The Senate unanimously voted that effective July 1, "all public projects, works or improvements, constructed or erected wholly or in part by State or local expenses" shall be posted with the following sign: "This project paid for by taxpayers."

Hendon Wright To Head Y. M. B. C. For Coming Year

At the regular meeting of the Young Men's Business Club held last night at the Rainbow room, Hendon Wright was elected president for the coming year, succeeding W. M. Blackstone. Other officers were as follows: Foad Homra, vice president; Bertie Pigue, re-elected treasurer; M. L. Parker, re-elected secretary; Dr. R. V. Putman, assistant secretary. The Board of Directors were elected as follows: W. M. Blackstone, J. E. Fall, Jr., Carter Olive and Joe Hall. Oran Winstead was named Sergeant-At-Arms.

The six months award for the member who has given the most outstanding service to the club was voted on by secret ballot and will be announced at the next meeting.

Robert Graham reported that he had contacted Sam Hardin of Paducah, regarding WPA aid in regard to a Highlands water works and sewer disposal. If the deal goes through the WPA will pay 75 per cent of the cost and the property owners will pay 25 per cent.

Harry Bushart, chairman of the Wild Life Committee, reported that 50 pair of quails had been secured for this county. They were sent from Texas, and are now being distributed here.

It was decided to discontinue sponsoring the Old Car Derby and this was given to the American Legion. The YMBC will retain the Fourth of July celebration.

Boys' Band Sought After $150 Holdup And Youth's Death

West Union, Ohio.—State highway patrolmen, deputy sheriffs and civilians combed Southwestern Ohio hill country today for a band of teen-age boys, suspected in a $150 grocery truck robbery, as an aftermath of which a youth apparently was accidentally shot to death.

Pushed from a car in front of the office of a doctor, John Baldwin, 17, died before aid could be administered. Three persons were in the automobile as it drove away, witnesses reported.

Baldwin's bloodstained hat was found near where William McKee, driver of the truck, was bound, gagged and robbed last night.

State highway patrolmen theorized Baldwin was wounded momentarily as the others tossed the shotgun into the vehicle in preparing their getaway.

Schools' Buying Of Maps To Wait On End Of War

Philadelphia.—There won't be any more European maps purchased for the public schools here until the war ends, Superintendent Alexander J. Stoddard says.

He directed school principals to get along with those on hand and to buy no more geographies or other books relating to countries at war because "it just wouldn't be good sense."

Mississippi Newspaper Defends Attractions Of Bluegrass State

Washington.—You can't slander Kentucky and get away with it, even outside the Bluegrass state.

As witness, the Congressional Record, official publication of Congress, has published—at the request of Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler (Miss.) Daily News referring to the claim of a noted golf course authority that Minnesota bluegrass is better than Kentucky bluegrass for golf fairways.

"We don't believe a word of it," commented the Mississippi editor, "and right here is where we rush to the rescue and defy a slanderer of the fair name of the state of our forebears."

"There is no bluegrass better than Kentucky bluegrass."

Frankfort Building Fund Low

Allotment For Structure Is Held Up

Frankfort, Ky.—Funds for continuing construction of the State's new office building here are about exhausted and officials are wondering how much Governor Johnson will allot to keep work going.

"We're up in the air," State Highway Engineer T. H. Cutler said today. "The Governor hasn't said how much of the $600,000 appropriated for new lands and buildings will be used for the office building. He's been pretty busy with (legislative) bills, though."

Johnson said he had not looked into the situation.

$400,000 Needed
On April 1 $175,000 of the highway fund will become available for construction, although Cutler estimated it will take about $400,000 to finish the building, about half completed.

Cutler and C. W. Kemble of the Skilton Construction Company, general contractors, both estimated about $550,000 has been spent so far on construction, which began in 1938.

Cutler said the contractors had been asking how much is forth coming, but Kemble said the company is experiencing no difficulties.

"Shell" Finished
Kemble said the "shell" of the building is about completed. No windows have been installed nor has any interior work been done. The building is rising on the old Frankfort reformatory site. Cutler said the State probably would have to keep some prisoners on the ground, as the land was given to it for prison purposes.

New Pay Law Shifts Urged

Washington.—Wage-hour officials have received a sweeping proposal to exempt from wage-hour law coverage clerical and office help regularly employed on a salary basis with paid vacations and sick leave.

It was submitted, they said today, by the Southern States Industrial Council for consideration at a hearing April 10 on proposed changes in exemption regulations sought by the wholesale distributive trades.

Retailers Make Plea
The personal would define office workers as bona fide administrative employees, now exempt from the law.

The American Retail Federation, composed of retail associations covering about 200,000 stores, submitted a proposed new definition of the term "executive employee" to take such persons as assistant buyers out from under the overtime pay requirements of the law.

Editorial

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Despite all the uncertainties that complicate the business outlook, we see no reason to change our earlier opinion that general business here in this city and pretty much throughout the country will take an up-turn in the next few weeks, and show moderate strength for at least the first half of the year. As to the rest of the year, it is expected that by Summer there may be quite a flood of war orders which should give business an added impetus for the last half of the year, but the extent of war activity is uncertain and the outcome of present peace efforts is uncertain, and so predictions as to the last half of the year are not being made with the confidence which is expressed as to the first half of the year. In our talks with business men whose business is totally unrelated to war supplies, we find that they are quite confident that their business will continue to improve all throughout the year, with better employment, fewer labor troubles than last year, and more buying by the general public which now seems to have more confidence in the continuity of their jobs.

IMPORTANCE OF INTERPRETATION

While all this storm about the census is raging we would like to contribute our ten cents worth, which is this: it is highly important that the census be taken and be taken on a fairly broad basis, but the real importance of the whole thing lies in how the figures, when they are obtained, are interpreted. This is a statistical age, it is an age of charts and graphs, and for our part we have always stood a bit in awe of it all, and at the same time we have always been puzzled over the widely divergent conclusions that different enthusiasts can arrive at from the same set of statistics. Hence, if we are to be guided in our business plans by the information obtained in this census we believe that the interpretation of the census is really of as much importance as the census itself.

WORKING TOGETHER

We read the other day that at the stockholders' meeting of the Artloom Co. of Philadelphia a labor leader rose to speak, commented on the annual report and on the plans outlined by the management and assured the stockholders that the organized employees would work in harmony with those plans and would co-operate in every way to see that the stockholders were assured of their reasonable dividends. This instance of co-operation between capital and labor and between employer and employee seems worthy of comment. It isn't an isolated instance, but it happened to make the news columns and stands out in sharp contrast to the many instances of strikes, lockouts and other troubles which always make the headlines.

WAR IS WASTE

Some day a plan will be devised by which a plebiscite of the world can be taken, not among the rulers of nations, but among the people themselves, and when that plan is devised war will be forever outlawed. That does not mean that the people of any nation are any less patriotic or ambitious than their rulers, but they have learned what their rulers have failed to acknowledge—that war settles nothing. No one wins a war. Everyone loses, and especially the people themselves, for war is waste.

AN OFFICE IS AS USELESS AS IT IS MADE

Referring to the future plans of former Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys, now at loose end politically speaking, Howard Henderson conjectures that "he might want to be Commissioner of Conservation, a post that does not take much of a person's time and pays well."

A more concise definition of a sinecure would be hard to find; yet it does not describe the post as a useless job per se. Mr. Henderson was applying the "doctrine of contemporaneous construction," which is the last resort for resolving a statutory ambiguity according to the meaning given it by those who put the law into operation. The Conservation Department being only one administration old, the sole admissible inference is that the position has paid the single incumbent well and taken little of his time.

The opportunity, nevertheless, presents limitless horizons of unexplored possibilities beyond the practices implied. Considering what Kentucky has yet to conserve—whether soil, forests, mineral, game and fish, playgrounds, human values or historical monuments—an officer responsible for all or part of the program could earn vastly more than he is paid and give the work more time than his physical endurance could spare. It depends upon what he is interested in conserving, his State's natural resources for the enjoyment of all or just his own accustomed leisurely way of living.

Successive generations of politicians, unfortunately for the rest of us, have placed a too consistently literal construction on that familiar ambiguity, ours is a government of laws and not of men."—Courier-Journal.

Atlanta, —A new flogging, in which a former city policeman was beaten with his own belt, spurred an investigation into suburban lashings today amid another condemnation of nightriding terrorists.

Several hours after a district Methodist conference deplored the whippings as "disgraceful to a civilized people," Charles J. Schillings reported five unidentified men forced him into an automobile and gave him "eight or ten licks" with his big leather belt in a lonely suburban spot.

"Maybe now you'll go to work,"

I do not remember what occurred, for the story is merely a memory now, but I still remember the thrill I felt when I read that passage. In these books I try to read now I rarely find anything with that thrill. Whether the change is personal, or whether the books are inferior, I do not know. I suspect the change is in me.

SPRING USE OF
LIME ADVOCATED

Because of the early closing of the agricultural conservation program this year, the Kentucky College of Agriculture is urging farmers to spread limestone this spring, instead of waiting until fall. The program will close August 31 this year, according to present plans, whereas it has been closing October 31. Farmers have been spreading most of their limestone in September and October in previous years.

Therefore, farmers who plan to use much limestone this year should give consideration to using it ahead of corn and other spring crops. Tests which the Experiment Station made over Kentucky indicate that limestone increased corn yields 7 bushels to the acre, and limestone and phosphate together increased yields 17 bushels to the acre.

Limestone can be used ahead of alfalfa, soybeans, cowpeas and other hay and pasture crops. It also may be spread during spring and summer as a top dressing on established hay and pasture fields. It may be used on summer-seeded alfalfa and other grasses and clovers and on cover crops that are seeded before August 31, in order to take up payments allotted in the agricultural conservation program this year.
