LOCAL PROJECTS WILL IMPROVE THE CITY

Three city improvement projects, which have been underway here, are making steady headway. Work on the new well at the city water works is progressing nicely, according to D. F. Hood, driller, in charge for Layne-Central company which has a contract for the job. Mr. Hood believes that it will be unnecessary to go deeper than 300 feet to obtain a sufficient supply of water and states that the well should be complete in about two weeks.

Removal of trees, dirt and other objects in the way, preparatory to starting paving an additional strip on Lake-st, has been going along nicely, and laying of pavement should start in a few days. Completion of this project for widening Lake-st twenty feet will be a marked step forward in street improvement for Fulton.

Work on the new highway bridge in Missionary Bottom is making steady progress. Foundations have been made and the concrete is being poured as construction work goes forward.

Considerable curb and gutter work on several streets located in East and West Fulton has been done in recent months, and it is noticeable that new residents are springing up around town as building work takes on impetus.

It is reported that work will start soon on the opening of Third-street extension across Harris Creek at the old bridge yard to meet Lake-st at Baldridge's corner. The old bridge which used to cross the creek at the Carr, Lake and State Line intersection, is to be reworked and installed at the creek crossing for this thoroughfare.

SANOFSKY BUYS FULTON DEPARTMENT STORE HERE

Charles Sanofsky, of Cairo, Ill., has purchased the stock and fixtures of the Fulton Department Store, and after closing out the present stock at marked down prices, will reopen the store sometime in August carrying a complete stock of ladies ready-to-wear, millinery and shoes.

Mr. Sanofsky comes here from Southern Illinois, where he has engaged in the ready-to-wear business for the past 15 years. He is an able business man, and when the new business has been remodeled and restocked with up-to-date merchandise, it will no doubt be an asset to the business life of Fulton.

A full business sale was opened by Mr. Sanofsky on Wednesday in order to clear the store of its present stock of goods and make room for new merchandise. On another page in this issue of The News appears an advertisement quoting particulars and prices for this sales event.

ROTARY AND LIONS CLUBS MET JOINTLY

The Fulton Rotary and Lions Clubs met in joint session Tuesday at noon at the First Methodist church. Approximately 45 members of both clubs were present, with J. O. Lewis presiding over the meeting.

Rev. Woodrow Fuller introduced the speaker, Dr. Robert G. Lee, who is conducting a revival at the First Baptist church here. Dr. Lee discussed the marvels of scientific inventions created in the past half century, and of the tedious, long hours spent by inventors and their self-sacrifices before their inventions were perfected and accepted by the public. He also pointed out the importance of developing the spiritual side, as well as the material side of life, in order that the human race may fully benefit from these new developments.

SOUTH FULTON FIRE DESTROYED THREE HOUSES

Fire of undetermined origin, fanned by a strong south wind, destroyed several negro houses and ignited others, when it spread thru the negro residential section of South Fulton Monday night. The fire centered in a section, five blocks from the nearest fire hydrant which made efforts of firemen to extinguish the flames much harder. Daily Lewis, employee of the post office, owned one house. Mrs. J. F. Royster owned the others and they were occupied by Corbett Jones and Willie Brooks. All houses and furnishings were a total loss. Flying sparks set fire to other houses nearby, and threatened to spread to the South Fulton business district.

What we find hard to understand is why, in spite of our repeated, and emphasized statements to the contrary there are people in the community who expect us to publish articles to which they have not signed their names.

PHILLIPS ENTERTAINS NEWSMEN AT PADUCAH

Newspapermen of the First District were guests of V. A. Phillips Friday night at the Hotel Inland, Paducah, where a banquet was served in their behalf. J. Paul Bushart and Hoyt Moore of Fulton, J. T. Haworth, Hickman, and Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton, were present from Fulton and Hickman counties.

Following on the heels of a recent rain fifteen days ago before on June 15, several rains came to Western Kentucky and Northwest Tennessee on Tuesday and Thursday night of this week to definitely break the drought which has prevailed in this section for several weeks. The rains were accompanied by severe electrical storms.

Rain struck Fulton about 8:00 o'clock Tuesday night to continue practically all night. Then Wednesday night and into Thursday a slow, steady downpour fell to quench the thirst of a dry soil and a humid atmosphere and to refresh and renew the life of crops and vegetation. The rains are alleged by agricultural agents and other authorities to have brought timely relief to suffering farm crops and livestock.

Power lines were affected by the electrical storms in communities of this vicinity, and in Fulton the power plant was put into operation to provide current here for the first time this year.

PAUL COLLEY IN HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA

Paul Colley, well known young minister of this community, left Saturday morning for Huntsville, Ala., where he will take up work with the Church of Christ during the summer months.

CALIFORNIAN KIN TO BROWERS HERE

The News has been presented a clipping and picture by W. R. Turner, which recently appeared in the El Paso (Texas) Times, in which some interesting facts are set out about John J. Browder, who is related to the Browsers in this vicinity. Mr. Turner has recently returned from a trip to Texas, where he met and became acquainted with the aged man, who is very much interested in things back in Old Kentucky and Tennessee.

Mr. Browder, 82, Ponoma, Calif., whose father was born in Kentucky in 1794, five years before the death of George Washington, has been visiting in El Paso. The ex-Tennessee man, who went to California to live after "pioneering" for 50 years in Texas, was visiting his son, George, located at 1123 East Rio Grande street here.

Mr. Browder is one of the few immediate living descendants of a soldier of the War of 1812, and reads well without glasses, moves slowly and is proud of his physique. He says he has not been sick for 40 years and enjoys good health.

His mother, who died in 1879, was born in 1813. She married his father, Josiah Browder in Dyer County, Tenn., and lived in that section thru the Civil War. He remembers the war well without glasses, moves slowly and is proud of his physique. He says he has not been sick for 40 years and enjoys good health.

After the death of his mother in 1879, Mr. Browder and his family joined an emigrant group of 30 people, trekking westward. They rode the line at Fort Worth and settled down in Johnson county. For the following half century Mr. Browder was a Johnson county farmer and a land owner.

Mr. Browder married twice, his first wife being a cousin of John G. Hardin, Texas oil millionaire and philanthropist. Mr. Browder has lived in California since 1924, but maintains his residence at Cleburne, Texas. He is a life member of the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Browder is the father of ten living children, whose ages range from 20 to 50 years. The second wife, Mrs. Jennie Browder is 71.

More details and picture may be seen at The News Office.

He is a man without doubt who will be free to represent the entire people of the First District, as he is not allied with any political faction, and owes allegiance to no man. The time is short between now and election day, and Mr. Phillips will endeavor to cover his district and present his cause to the people. In the meantime he respectfully asks the earnest consideration of the voters.

Several well known speakers talked to the gathering, including Fred Acker, well-known Mason and Marion Rust, founder of the Columbus-Belmont Park. At the noon period dinner was served on rose ground, from basket lunches brought by individuals attending the celebration.

John S. Kendall, Bardwell, and Weldon Hall, Arlington, were in charge of the arrangements. The picnic was arranged primarily for the Massons of the Purchase district in interest for the developments of the park at Columbus. The state and federal governments have assured Columbus of their assistance, according to Mr. Kendall.

50 YEAR EMPLOYEES WILL BE HONORED

Employees of the Illinois Central System for fifty years or more will be honored at a testimonial dinner to be given in Chicago Tuesday evening, July 14. The dinner will be the Illinois Central's individual contribution to the observance of Railroad Week throughout the western United States.

Each 50-year veteran will be the guest of the Illinois Central System, with all expense paid, from the time he boards the train in his home town en route to Chicago until he steps off the train on his return trip. In addition to the testimonial dinner other entertainment will be provided the veterans during their stay in Chicago.

A feature of the testimonial dinner will be the presentation to each veteran by J. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central System, of a gold plaque, the size of a railway pass, bearing the name and service record of the recipient.

Despite their fifty years or more of service, many of these Illinois Central veterans are still on the railroad's list of active workers. Others are now retired under the railroad's pension system.

This will be the first time in history of the Illinois Central that all 50-year employees, active and retired, have been brought together. The gathering of these veterans of the rails will take the form of a reunion in which old friendships will be renewed and reminiscences will be exchanged of the days long gone by when wood-burners, diamond stacks and link-and-pin couplings were in vogue.

The dinner will be held in the air-conditioned Boulevard Room of the Stevens Hotel and will also be attended by 150 officers of the Illinois Central System. President Downs will deliver the principal address. His address will be the feature of a program which will be broadcast over a network of the National Broadcasting Company, assuring that throughout the territory in which the Illinois Central System operates.

FULTON STILL HOLDS TO SECOND PLACE

Johnny Long, leading pitcher in the Kitty League, demonstrated his right to hold the topnotch position here Tuesday by hurling a game against the league-leading Paducah Indians, as Fulton won 5-4. In addition to striking out eleven men, he pitched himself out of a hole in the sixth, when, with the bases loaded, he fanned two batsmen to retire the side.

Errors and a home run by Swope gave the Indians four tallies in the opening inning, but Long pitched almost airtight ball thereafter. He allowed only seven hits, with four balls getting beyond the infield. Hahn, Fulton leftfielder, connected for two triples.

Score by innings:
Fulton..... 202 000 10x-5
Paducah..... 400 000 000-4

Fulton pushed over two runs in the ninth Monday at Hopkinsville to beat the Hoppers 11-10 and sweep the two-game series. Fulton hopped off to a nine point lead but saw their margin disappear in the face of the Hopkinsville rallies in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

Fulton took a lead of 8 to 3 in the fourth, to grasp a 12-3 lead at the end of the sixth, only to have Hopkinsville come from behind and tally three in the seventh and four in the ninth. But Fulton edged out with a three point advantage.

ANY DAY WILL DO FOR A START

It is hard to realize that the long days of Summer are at hand, and that from this month on the hours of daylight begin to recede, until in a few months we come again to the year's shortest day.

There are so many plans in our hearts for our own development, for the growth of our business, and the improvement of Fulton that we are sometimes prone to think that time flies too fast. We should remember that to accomplish anything is by making a start.

Today, long or short, is the day to begin. Let every reader of this article, if so moved, spend the rest of 1936 in trying to make effective the happy dreams that sprang up when it began. Such time will be well spent.

ADULTS OF TOMORROW

Don't neglect the children. They may not exert any great influence upon the community life of today, but in a few short years they will be directing the affairs of the community while we will be looking on, or will have passed on.

As we train them today so will they be then. And as they are then, so will we of today be judged.

We cannot escape our duty. It is plain and squarely before us. We may shirk and squirm out of it, but in the end we must pay, even in person or in memory.

The child does not come into this world of its own volition, and it should not be left to its own devices. That which we create we should protect and foster and bring as near to a state of perfection as is humanly possible. Nothing else will suffice in the eyes of Him who created mankind.

We should not only foster and guide our own offspring, but we should also carry out our duty to the children of other homes. They form an integral part of the community, and as such are entitled to the cooperation and encouragement of the remainder of the community.

The child may not say much in the presence of its elders, but it sees much and remembers much of what it sees and hears.

Thus are its impressions formed and these are the beacon lights that beckon it on to life of honor or of ignominy.

Though an adult today, you were a child once yourself.

There are children around you.

FARM LIFE IMPROVING.

It would be desirable if the progress into town could be arrested in Kentucky and, at the same time, the conveniences and advantages of city life received by those outside.

This is what is now within the reach of thousands of farm homes, and those who live in such places have no earthly motive for leaving a pleasant, spacious home and transferring to a narrow, crowded city area.

The automobile and good roads have placed a resident ten miles from "town" closer to Main Street than the outlying citizens of that same town were fifteen years ago, in point of time. Daily deliveries bring mail, and, if conditions warrant, it won't be long before two deliveries daily will bring the rural dweller even with the city lodger. The telephone, the radio, the individual ice manufacturer, the approaching electrification of our country—all these things make available modern comforts on the farm along any improved highway.

One of the greatest discomforts of rural life has been its comparative isolation, where the farmer's family lived apart, without near neighbors or desirable companionship. Farm homes congregating along a much-travelled highway are no longer isolated and solitary. Already, the difference between "town" and "country" has disappeared. The farmers' children attend school in town, form a part of the younger social set, and the family rides five or ten miles to church or Sunday School.

Life on the farm is rapidly changing for the better. Such change means a revived agriculture, which will hold rather than lose its young folk in the years to come. There will be a disappearance of all "dark corners" and life in town and country will approach a closer level. Both will have its own individual characteristics and benefits, but the farmer and his family will not have to forfeit any of the pleasures and comforts of civilization to stay on the farm.

Such a tremendous alteration takes place slowly, but the signs are unmistakable.

Reports show that banks in all sections of the country are filled with money. Many reports record deposits. At the same time business is not yet back to normal. Business would be better if there was less money in the banks and more circulating in the channels of business. It is the activity of money, the frequent exchange of money and products that makes business good. The fact that the money of the country is piled up in the banks simply shows that business is not active.

Probably it is called the rising generation because it makes its elders go up in the air.

A man may be as old as he feels, but frequently not as young as he acts.

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isaiah 40:31.

Instead of having to pick up rocks in the field as they plow, the French farmers plow turns up unexploded shells. In all about 1,614,000 tons of shells have not exploded. They have been plowed up. Those that can be moved the hauled away. Those that are too large to handle are exploded by experts on the ground.

The agricultural states are backward about endorsing the child labor bill. Most people feel that while work in factories is not advisable for children, work on the farm is a good thing for the best development of a growing boy and girl. A check up of many of the men who hold important positions shows that the younger years of most of them were spent on the farm. The farm furnishes the best school for youth to be found anywhere. The farm boy lives in the open, close to nature. Early in life he assumes responsibilities, he has chores to do, cows to milk, horses and stock to feed, a field to plow or cultivate, a task to do. The discipline that comes from having a task to do every day at a given time, puts in no life of the farm youth; those qualities that fit him later to assume larger responsibilities.

Managing successfully a business these hectic days is no easy task whatever the business is, but a still bigger job than managing any business is managing a home so that everything moves along smoothly and on an even keel. Such a home is a place to which people like to go rather than a place from which they like to get away. Managing a home so that not only the finances are well handled but all facts are harmonious is a fine art that unfortunately many never learn.

We are advised that when adversity comes we should keep our chin up. It is a pretty good thing to keep the corners of the mouth up. If the corners of the mouth are up the chin won't sag.

TWO MINUTE SERMON

THE GREATEST MIRACLE: I once heard an eloquent preacher speak on the miracle of mankind's faith in Christ, a man whose brief ministry covering a period of three short years in remote Galilee, changed the whole world. Perhaps it is a miracle viewed in the light of reality, but what seems to me a greater miracle is the faith Christ had in men. Nothing like it in my thinking has ever happened at any time in this world.

When it came time for him to leave his message with mankind he went out into the highways and byways, along the seashore and gathered together a dozen common ordinary men to whose keeping he was going to leave the greatest responsibility ever assigned to any group of men—that of bringing to mankind a comprehension and an understanding of the gospel of Christ and its wonderful redemptive and transforming power. There was no seeking out the men of political or social influence. There was no enlistment of the dominant leadership of that day, of men with wealth, position and influence. Rather he chose men of the common type, men from the more lowly walks of life, and proceeded to entrust into their keeping the greatest gift that was ever given to man. What faith, what marvelous, transcendent faith. I never hear a reference to the miracle of man's faith in God that I do not think of that surprisingly greater miracle—the marvel of God's faith in man.

AS OTHERS THINK THE CONGRESSIONAL RACE

Elsewhere in this issue of the News will be found the announcement of V. A. (Bill) Phillips, of Lexington, for Congress. Mr. Phillips is opposed by incumbent W. V. Gregory of Mayfield, who has served in Congress from this district for the past ten years.

We have no personal interest in either of these men, but we are re-bution of public offices in the First Congressional District is very unfair. The Congressman, the judge of the Court of Appeals, the Railroad District Attorney, and Highway Commissioner for the First District are all from Mayfield, and there are dozens of minor places held by the important offices of the First District are held by Mayfield men, almost entirely out.

We have no criticism to offer about any of these men, for they are all very efficient officers, especially the Highway Commissioner, who, in the opinion of this paper, earned his place beyond the question of any doubt in last year's state election, but we do not believe the other thirteen counties should be completely overlooked.

For Democratic election for the Presidential election this November a Mayfield man has been selected. Now, we do not believe that it is heavy politics to have a ticket topped with Mayfield men, and we are afraid it will be detrimental to the Democratic ticket and this fall the ticket will be better balanced. We are merely reminding the voters of these conditions and suggest that they give it serious consideration.

Graves county is one of our outstanding Democratic counties and rightfully deserves a great portion of the Democratic honors, but we are of the opinion that the Democratic voters of Graves county will agree with us that in order to have a well-balanced ticket this fall, Mr. Gregory should not be the Democratic nominee for Congress.

An exchange tells of a spring bride who has chosen for her wedding song, "I Did Not Ask."

WHAT WE THINK

I read yesterday the statement made by the world committee 400,000 persons died of starvation in 1934 and during the same year some 1,200,000 committed suicide because of economic distress. At the same time it was pointed out something like 1,000,000 car loads of grain, 207,000 car loads of sugar, 50,000 hundred weight of rice, and 50,000 hundred weight of meat were destroyed to keep up the market price level.

The comment was made that the administration in power was open for criticism for permitting food stuff to be destroyed while there remained any where on earth people who were hungry.

I think most people will agree that it appears wrong to destroy food as long as there is anyone hungry who could use it, but I do not believe that the criticism, if criticism is due for the present administration though I have no desire to shield it from whatever criticism it justly deserves.

As far back as I can recall there has been a year in the last forty, as far back as my memory goes, in which there has not been hungry and unclothed people which food stuffs have not been destroyed or allowed to go to waste.

The blame, therefore, does not belong to the present or to any other administration, but should be laid to some other cause.

As far back as I can recall there have been food shortages or famines in some part of the world each year and always they have been accompanied by suffering and hunger and death. Also I do not recall of a single such famine when there was not ample food and to spare some place in the world.

The reason that it was not moved from the place where there was a surplus to the place where there was a need for it has always been because of the fact that those in need had no money to buy. The producer feels he is not called upon to give his product away and the transportation companies feel they are not called upon to transport it free of charge.

This, in brief is the situation that invariably accompanies famine and want.

We now come to the question of whose responsibility it is to provide food to those in need. Obviously it is going to be charity or the government. In most instances it is too big a problem for charity and will necessarily have to fall to the government. Here again we encounter what would be definitely established whereby a nation we always provide those in need, how long it would be before every nation in the world would accommodate a great number who would do nothing for themselves and wait each year for the coming of Santa Claus with an overflowing basket of food.

The solution is by no means as easy and simple as it sounds.

EXIT THE TRAIN

NEWS VENDOR

The traditional "news butcher" is the latest to feel the march of progress on railway passenger trains. After July 1st, according to J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager of the Illinois Central System, the sale of magazines, newspapers, candy, soft drinks and the like will be under the direction of the Dining Car Department. The new order will be effective on all principal trains of this railroad.

"Modernization of train travel," said Mr. Lanigan, "by the installation of free pillows, drinking cups, towels, low-priced meals and so forth, has made great inroads into the news vendor's income. While we regret to see this colorful figure pass, we believe that his going is another evidence of the progressive policies of the railroads."

Indigestion, flatulence, heartburn, acid, gas, constipation, etc. These are the most common ailments of the stomach and bowels. They are caused by the failure of the digestive system to properly assimilate the food. This is due to the fact that the food is not properly chewed and mixed with the digestive juices. The result is a mass of undigested food which causes all the above mentioned troubles. The only way to get rid of these troubles is to take a course of treatment with the "Stomach Trouble" medicine. This medicine will not only cure the troubles, but it will also strengthen the digestive system and prevent a recurrence of the troubles.

There is nothing new under the sun. Recently contour farming was put forward as a new idea in soil conservation but it isn't as may be seen from the following extract from Thomas Jefferson's writings: "Our country is hilly and we have been in the habit of plowing in straight rows, whether up hill or down hill, or however they lead, and our soil was all rapidly running into the rivers. We now plough horizontally following the curvature of the hills and hollows on dead level, however crooked the lines may be. Every furrow thus acts as a reservoir to receive and retain the waters, all of which go to the benefit of growing plants."

Between these and the democracies there is all shades of government. The race, it appears, is groping about to discover some satisfactory plan of government.

The Dionne quintuplets are now two years old. There is perhaps not a section of the world in which a newspaper circulates in which the quintuplets are not known.

After observing the manner in which the members of the League handled the Ethiopian situation it is not likely that Japan will pay much attention to those nations objecting to her invasion of China.

The repudiation of war debts by foreign countries has been a factor in the general breaking down of personal integrity in the matter of financial obligations that has been in evidence the country over since the advent of the depression.

We will all feel better when we can refer to the depression as a condition that was rather than a condition is.

Mrs. Myrtle Love of Fulton was united in marriage to Mr. N. M. Morris of Paducah, and Louisville, Thursday night at half past eight o'clock at the First Christian Church with the pastor, Rev. W. D. Ryan officiating.

The church was dimly lighted with burning white tapers in brass candelabra, casting soft lights upon a profusion of gladioli and lilies, tastefully arranged in baskets and vases.

Before the ceremony, "Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "I Love You Truly" were sung by Mrs. R. S. Williams, accompanied at the piano by Miss Sara Butts. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, the bride and groom entered with their attendants, Misses Gladys Kennedy

The bride was lovely in a creation of blue net and crepe with grey accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Miss Kennedy wore beige crepe with brown accessories and Miss Helt wore blue chiffon with pink accessories. Each wore shoulder corsages of pink roses.

ONE MILLION A YEAR.

The population of Japan increased last year by 1,023,623 in a land that even now has about 70,000,000 people living on a few small islands, which have much mountainous country.

With talk of the population of the United States becoming static and European countries worrying about the birth rate, the advent of one million more Japanese a year might mean something, say about 1960!

EROSION A NATURAL PERIL.

There are people in the United States who have heard of erosion and believe that the term is a fairy word, describing a non-existent danger, even, if occasionally some tract of land is washed away by heavy drainage.

There are farmers in many parts of the nation who find it hard to accept the statement that 735,000,000 acres, once fertile, have been damaged from 25 to 100 per cent at a loss that is estimated at ten billion dollars and that the nation's ability to feed itself in the future is threatened.

However, this is the conclusion of experts in the Soil Conservation Service after a survey that covered 1,289,000 acres, all of which was once fertile land. Counting wind and water erosion the estimate shows that an area four times the size of Texas and 146 times the size of Massachusetts have been denuded of topsoil to an extent varying from 25 to 100 per cent.

Viewing the nation as a whole it is said that only the New England States and certain widely separated areas in other sections have escaped serious damage

Gilbert K. Chesterton, dead at sixty-two, weighed more than two hundred and fifty pounds. As every doctor will surmise, he died of heart disease. His weight explains the unnecessarily early death. A pump breaks down if you overwork it; a sixty-two-year-old heart breaks down if you compel it to supply with blood—food, drink, oxygen—too many billions of cells.

Every cell in the body must have, from a laboring heart, its supply of food and oxygen, pumped every second.

The brain, alone, contains thirty thousand million separate cells, according to Doctor Carrel. In his 190 surplus pounds, Chesterton carried scores of billions of useless cells, each making an unnecessary demand on the heart.

Do not let yourself remain fat after forty if you would live to be old. To become thin and stay thin requires some effort of the will, often more disagreeable than dying.

At one of the ultra-radical workers' meetings in France, the red flag displayed and the communist "international" hymn sung, there was radical and determined talk. Monsieur Thorez told the meeting the factories of France would soon belong to the workers.

If the plan is sent through some workers would discover that it takes more than a red flag and a hymn to run a factory and make it pay; if factories did not pay there would be no payrolls. Brains count as well as hands. The eyes carry no load, but they direct the feet and hands.

South China thought she wanted a war with Japan, and will probably have it. Troops from a Japanese naval squadron land at Amoy, Fukien province, accompanied by the usual convincing flock of airplanes.

War with Japan is the easiest thing to have, if you really want it.

In Canton, South China's big city, parades and mass meetings were organized to increase and express hatred of Japan.

The outpouring recalls Voltaire's description of a glass of English beer—"froth at the top, dregs at the bottom."

Russian sovietism came quickly, and might go quickly; signs of a breakdown are seen already. Those that do more and better work get special rewards; engineers, chemists, scientists occupy fine apartments compared with those of ordinary workmen. That is hardly "straight communism." Now Russia will have a constitution and house of parliament, important steps in the direction of conservatism.

Tell your little boy and girl to include in their prayers the following: "And please, Lord, do not send us any more wars."

Uncle Sam recently began delivering hundreds of millions of bonus bond dollars to 3,518,000 veterans of the war—many veterans and a big bonus, for a war in which we were not concerned until foolishness pushed us in.

The French Premier Blum, first Jewish prime minister in French history, is a man of unusual ability, combining common sense with the radicalism of his Socialist party. Mr. Birchall writes to the New York Times that there is fear of anti-Semitic outbreaks in France; observers "see a ground-swell of an anti-Semitic movement in the vicious attacks of the right against the new Jewish premier." French anti-Semitism, according to Mr. Birchall, has survived the Dreyfus case, which should have ended it.

Our railroads find it hard to make money, but at least they are safe railroads.

W. Averell Harriman presented a gold safety medal from the fund established in memory of his father, E. H. Harriman, to E. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central, which has not lost one life in 12 years.

It is interesting to learn from Mr. Ripley that the first Cunard steamship did not carry as many passengers as could be carried by one of the lifeboats on the Queen Mary. What is more important, each lifeboat has wireless apparatus.

Spain proves that it is possible for a country to be too radical for its own good. Labor troubles and discussions have put one million Spanish workers out of their jobs, a good many for Spain; and Spanish radicalism goes beyond other kinds, many having been killed by "terrorists."

The last chapter in the Lindbergh murder and kidnapping tragedy is written with the return to Colonel Lindbergh of $14,000 held by New Jersey as evidence against Hauptmann.

National Topics Interpreted
 By WILLIAM BRUCKART
 NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON—Dr. Francis E. Townsend's fanciful dream for payment of pensions of $200 per month for everyone over sixty years of age seems to have gone up in smoke, but there are developments in connection with the California doctor's unworkable scheme that merit comment. The good doctor and his half-baked idea have been skidding rapidly since the House investigating committee showed up the plan as a befuddled idea and as I once predicted, the bubble burst in a big way.

While I am inclined to believe that Dr. Townsend was honest and sincere in proposing the $200 per month pension, it was the sort of thing that serves as an inducement for racketeers to gather. It was the old money-laundering racket for the world of racketeers. It never had a chance to go anywhere and never will, because it was fundamentally unsound. We can dismiss it then except for the two phases which ought to be vigorously condemned by right-thinking people everywhere.

The two circumstances which I hear discussed most frequently are: The tragedy, the heartaches, that obviously follow in the wake of "movements" such as the Townsend plan that cannot succeed and draw to themselves thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of persons who believe they are going to benefit; and secondly, it seems to me that the House committee, headed by Representative Bell, of Missouri, overplayed its hand with the result that it has brought upon House committees the same public disgust and distrust as characterizes 90 per cent of the Senate investigations.

Each of these conditions is to be deplored. Each is definitely destructive. There can be no more excuse for some of the methods employed by the House committee in crucifying Dr. Townsend than for Dr. Townsend himself to wreck hearts and hopes and homes by pushing forward such a miserably impossible proposition as his $200 per month pension program.

The House committee had within its power opportunity to do a magnificent job in exposing the racketeering that became part and parcel of the Townsend plan. It had within its hands the capacity to educate millions within the United States against following such an illusion, such a mirage, as the Townsend plan. If it had confined itself to that work, Representative Bell and his committee should receive the plaudits of the nation. But the sad story is that the committee under Mr. Bell's guidance allowed itself to become an agency of prosecution, even persecution, rather than an unbiased investigating unit, determined only to obtain the truth.

Since there never was any question that the Townsend nostrum would fail of its own weight eventually, it is difficult to understand why the committee resorted to the tactics it used. I watched some of those hearings. As the committee delved deeper into the activities of Dr. Townsend and his associates, it became infuriated. That was where it made its big mistake and it is going to be quite a long time before House committees again can have a reputation throughout the country of conducting unbiased and reasonable investigations.

Dr. Townsend was sufficiently "hard-boiled" to justify the committee in making a vigorous investigation. He was sufficiently indifferent to their offers or hints of co-operation to warrant a feeling on the committee's part that they had to "beat down." Yet, it must be said the committee went beyond all reason and I imagine that in the end it will flare back on the individuals.

Now, Dr. Townsend surely cannot blame anyone other than himself for the fact that he is faced with proceedings by the United States attorney. It will be remembered, of course, that Dr. Townsend deliberately walked out of the committee and refused to testify. That has always been held as contempt and Congress has the right to punish for contempt. In this instance, the House of Representatives elected to turn Dr. Townsend's case over to the United States attorney for punishment in court rather than to employ a House vote which might send the elderly dreamer to jail.

Further, the whole Townsend investigation has turned out to be something of a mess like the Townsend plan itself.

Thus, there is every evidence of a second type of politics in this investigation. The evidence of politics lay in the fact that the House voted the inquiry largely because many of the individual House members were afraid, they were too cowardly, to take a definite stand in their home districts against the Townsends. True, they did not know how strong the Townsend movement was. So, as politicians always do, they dodged the issue and moved to expose it through the medium of a House investigation rather than fight individually to show how ridiculous, how unsound, the plan was.

Having set up the picture showing an utterly impossible program on the part of Dr. Townsend and his associates and followers, the House politicians were confronted suddenly by Dr. Townsend's arrogance in his refusal to testify. That presented a sudden change in the scenery. To explain the dangers in this new problem, it is only necessary to say that if the House had acted promptly by voting that Dr. Townsend was in contempt and must spend some time in jail, I expect the result would have been martyrdom for Dr. Townsend. Martyrdom is always had from a political standpoint if the opposition has the martyr.

The house, therefore, has turned over the affair to the courts and the courts, being slow moving as they always are, will not get around to prosecution of the case until it is too late to have any influence on the election. So we can see readily that Dr. Townsend is left out in the cold. He can neither use the influence that is characteristic of martyrdom nor can he say that his skirts are clear. The house has left him hanging conveniently in mid-air and it was done solely for political reasons.

The national capital, along with many other sections of the country, has been listening to the purring of the "locusts." I use the word locusts in quotation marks because they are not really locusts. They are cicadas but to the most of us they are and will remain the seventeen-year locusts.

It is said that the first colonists in America, never before having met with the insects and believing that everything of God's creation was accounted for in the Bible, concluded they were locusts and the name has stuck. In any event, they appear in greatest numbers at seven-year intervals and 1934 seems to be a banner year.

Back in 1919, trees in many sections of the country were pored by tiny saw-like instruments, which the Department of Agriculture says are part of the equipment of the female cicadas. Billions of eggs were deposited under the soft bark. A month or two later, grubs emerged on the branches and dropped unnoticed to the earth below.

Then, the chronology of the life of these cicadas becomes a matter of darkness for seventeen long years. The insect in grub form burrows itself in the soil and subsisted on the juices of roots. As far as anyone knows they did little or no harm but after sixteen years and a few months of this life, the grubs awoke this spring and out they came. They acted on instinct, of course.

Through the last several weeks these great beetle-like bugs with wings like longlance have been humming and thrumming and leaving their empty shells attached to trees and grasses.

During that period, the males have spent their daylight hours singing. The Department of Agriculture is not quite sure why this singing has gone on because it has ascertained that all of the lady cicadas are quite deaf.

Perhaps I have devoted too much space to the story of the seventeen-year locust. Perhaps the seventeen-year locust is not important at all except to the robins and the starlings and the sparrows and the other birds which have had a feast in 1934 that almost no other bird now living has known. But I have thought about these seventeen-year locusts, a train of thoughts, in fact. They lead to this:

What will conditions be in 1953, or seventeen years hence when those humans on earth will hear again the mating song of the locusts?

When Bryn went downstairs next morning there was apparently no one awake in the big house. Gary and Deborah were sure to be up, but they were not in sight. He stood for a moment on the top step, breathing in the fresh cool air, and then went around the house and down the brook toward the bridge, on his way to the engine house.

He had filled the gasoline tank in the engine and was rinsing his hands in the icy brook water when he heard a footstep on the bridge and looked up to see Deborah approaching. He stood up and dried his hands on his handkerchief. She came to stand a little above him on the raised plank, looking down at him. To his surprise, the strain of yesterday had not set a greater coldness toward him in her dark eyes. She was smiling a little at him now, her lips curving. She was smiling at him, and Grandmother was not watching. He stared at her. "I followed you because I want to talk to you, if you don't mind," she said.

"Why, of course I don't mind. Is there something I can do?"

She hesitated. When he looked up, the long lashes had dropped and lay close to her cheek. She began to examine the moss, too. "I'm not a very nice person," she said at last. I apologized once before for being so difficult, but I don't think I tried any harder not to be difficult. I mean it, this time. You were awfully thoughtful last night, when Grandmother was so queer and afraid. You do love her, don't you? You're quite honest about it? You would do anything to spare her pain?"

"Yes." She nodded. "I can see that. I don't think I quite believed it until yesterday afternoon, when you came home again, and last night, when you were so troubled. I've been very selfish, I've been thinking of myself all the time, and feeling trapped, and hating it. I haven't been half as thoughtful of Grandmother as you have. I've demanded things for myself more than for her, thought about myself first, and what... what my position was. You haven't thought about yourself once. You haven't complained. And this isn't your problem, after all, and yet you've put your self into such a position that if anything went wrong, you would lose most. You signed the note for Mr. Holworthy, and assumed all the financial responsibility, and you've given me your name. I didn't quite see it all until Tubby came yesterday. And he talked about your friends and then he went on and nearly ruined everything, and suddenly I saw how dreadfully unfair that would be for you, and how horrid I've been. She looked at him gravely. "Will you forgive me?"

"You haven't been horrid, Deborah. You've been... Bryn began, and caught himself in time. But she did not notice.

"Yes, I have. You don't know all the things that have been going on in my mind. I'm sorry." She put her soft hand out, momentarily, and patted his, lying on the railing. Bryn did not move.

"Bryn." "Yes, D... Deborah." "Grandmother is in a strange state of mind. Last night I was very worried. I went into her room to tuck her up and kiss her good-night. She looked up at me directly and asked me if I were happy. She hasn't asked me before. Not in the same way. I think she began to suspect everything, even me."

"Did you tell her you were happy?"

"Yes. But... she's going to be watching very closely for proof." She stopped. The color began to rise under her white skin. Bryn watched it, bewitched. Her eyes were lowered.

"What... what are we going to do about it?" he asked, lost.

"Happy with you," Deborah explained, as if he did not understand.

"Does she think I'm in love with you?"

"Yes," Deborah replied, and flushed violently. "You're a much better actor than I am. I'm sure she's beginning to suspect me."

"When you go out the door," Bryn explained, "I stand and look after you. And when I hear you coming I go to meet you. And when you're talking I keep looking at you, and when you're away I talk to her about you. I tell her how beautiful you are, how much more beautiful than any girl I ever knew, with those lovely eyes, and your lashes, as long as a dream, and your mouth, and your little white chin, and the way you blush... and your throat, so soft and white, and the way you move your shoulders, and the color of your hair, and the way it curls? He drew a deep breath.

"Oh, dear," she sighed. "No wonder she thinks I'm not in love with you. I haven't told her once anything about you. I've hardly mentioned you."

"Well," Bryn said after a moment, "I'll tell you. When you're in love, Deborah, you hate to be away from your... from your sweetheart for a second. Everything she does is perfect and lovely and sweet. You want to lift her in your arms and hold her tight against you, so close that you can hear her heart beating. You want to hear her say that she'll never leave you again, no matter what happens, that she doesn't care anything about anybody else in the world but you."

And if it happened that she didn't love you," Bryn went on slowly, "there'd be a sick empty feeling where your heart ought to be, and you'd wish you were a kid again, so you could cry. But if she did love you, and she knew you weren't sure about her, she'd put her arms around you, and put her cheek against yours, and maybe even... kiss you."

Deborah was staring at him. After a moment she said breathlessly, "Is that the way you love your... your own girl?"

"Yes, Deborah."

"I don't know anything about that way of loving," she said at last. "I couldn't pretend that to Grandmother."

"No," Bryn said.

"It wasn't so much what I ought to say to Grandmother, anyway," she said. "I hadn't really thought of talking to her about you. It was the way I ought to act. I was wondering..."

"Yes?"

"It's really Gary's idea," she said hastily. "He came to me about it this morning. He's afraid Grandmother will get to wondering about us. You see, she thinks we... we love each other the way other people do when they're married," she explained.

"I suspected as much," Bryn said lightly. "Well, is there something I can do about it?"

"I'm afraid she's going to be watching for a while, anyway. Until she's satisfied. I was wondering... it's Gary's idea, you know. There's a little sewing room just at the head of the stairs. There's a door into my sitting room. Grandmother never goes in there; if you don't mind dreadfully, you could have it for your bedroom."

"Why, no," Bryn said calmly. "I wouldn't mind. I'd have to go out and through your sitting room, though. Wouldn't you dislike that?"

"What I was trying to tell you when I first started to talk," she reminded him, "is that it's too late for me to keep thinking what I like and what I don't."

So it was settled.

CHAPTER VII

"If this isn't heaven," Sally sighed, looking about her in supreme content, "then don't bother to tell me I'm not dead. I don't want to be disturbed."

She sat on the cool grass in the wavering shadow of the tree against whose smooth trunk Deborah was leaning. The leaves overhead rustled softly in the faint noonday breeze. Nothing else anywhere in the whole pleasant picture spread before them moved under the white sunlight. They had congregated, all six of them, on the highest corner of the sloping lawn, the orchard behind them, a smooth stretch of sward unrolling down to the stone walls below, broken only by the bright flame of a bed of wallflowers half-way down the slope.

"Me, too," Simon muttered. He lay stretched out in the grass, his pipe in his mouth, his head on Sally's knee. Bryn sighed. He shifted his position and moved a few inches closer to Deborah. He turned on his stomach, propped himself on his elbows and gazed up at her. A few days ago, before these others had come, and after she would have smiled down at him a little. It was fun to smile at Bryn, once one had started. He always looked as if he liked being smiled at. But now, Deborah pretended not to know that he was looking at her, and regarded steadily the hills far away. Because Madeline was here now, and Madeline might not like it.

A mist came into her eyes, as she thought of Madeline, and the hills swam in a noonday fog. Poor Madeline wasn't happy, for all her pretense at light heartedness. Deborah told herself. How could she be happy, seeing Bryn married, actually married, to another girl, a girl who wore a wedding ring that he had given her, who had taken his name? Bryn was lovely. Even with Madeline here, he hadn't changed his attitude to Deborah a bit. He acted exactly as if they really were married, really loved each other, and he didn't try to keep Madeline from seeing.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

THERE'S nothing like keeping your business all in the family! Gene Markey wrote a scenario, "By the Dawn's Early Light," (and can't you see that title being shortened so that it will fit theater marquees?) and RKO has bought it for his wife, Joan Bennett, which is nice as he wrote it especially for her. Fred Stone will be the other star. It sounds pretty exciting. Stone will play an American consul stationed in China. Joan will be his daughter, and a revolution will furnish the drama. Joan is making a picture in England now, and is eager to get home and begin work in her husband's story.

It rather startled everyone to have Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow getting their romantic affairs straightened out at last; there have been rumors of a matrimonial nature about them for a long time. Hornblow and his wife, the lovely Juliet Crosby, had separated, but he had been opposed to a divorce. (Meanwhile Hollywood gossips were rushing about, saying that it was just too dreadful that his wife wouldn't divorce him so that he and Myrna could be married!) Eventually Mrs. Hornblow went to Reno, and after that it was plain sailing.

Don't refer to Buster Crabbe as Buster any more; he doesn't like it. He got the studio to let him be Larry Crabbe, but they insisted on putting "Buster" in the middle, and now he's known by all three names. He's working in "The Arizona Raiders" for Paramount, with Marsha Hunt.

Warner Brothers and Paul Whiteman have joined forces in an effort to discover talented children. Children from all over the country will appear with Whiteman on his radio broadcasts each week, and be given tests at the Brooklyn Vitaphone studio. Warner Brothers will also make a series of shorts, the casts to be composed entirely of children. And of course any children who make the grade will be under contract to Warner Brothers.

While we're on the subject of children, the settlement of the squabble over little Freddie Bartholomew is good news. Apparently he didn't want to leave his beloved aunt, who had done so much to develop his talent and taken such good care of him, yet naturally his mother couldn't be denied her rights. His aunt said recently that she was disturbed over the effect the whole thing had had on him; he forgot his lines when he was working, a thing he had never done before, and had told her that, if he was taken away from her, he'd run away and keep running away until he got back to her.

The Yacht Club Boys, whom you've heard on the air and seen on the screen, have been asked by both the Republican and Democratic national committees to write their campaign songs. Judging by some of the songs that the Yacht Club Boys write for themselves, it seems to me that that request is a bit dangerous!

Irene Dunne has been having a grand time in New York. She and her husband were guests the other evening at a small dinner party at which the eldest son of the former king of Spain was also present.

The Four Hundred of New York long since took the lovely Irene to its heart, but she is still the same sweet, unspoiled girl that she has always been. The prize for the most "regular" person in pictures certainly ought to go to her.

Mitchell Leisen, Paramount director, could take bows if he wanted to over persuading the great Stokowski to break into the movies. The famous conductor will appear in "The Big Broadcast of 1937," along with a couple of jazz bands—but not all playing at the same time!

ODDS AND ENDS... You'll want to see Edward G. Robinson in "Bullets or Ballots"; this time he's against the gangsters instead of being one of them. Robert Taylor broke down the other day and confessed that his real name is Spangler Arlington Brough. Merle Oberon and David Niven would like to get married, but their contracts forbid it... Kay Francis wanted to take a vacation in the Far East, but she has to stay home and make another picture, "Mistress of Fashion"... W. C. Fields is improving in health and will be ready to make another picture soon... An independent movie producer is trying to get Emperor Haile Selassie to come to Hollywood and make a picture... In Australia the censors cut out the burial sequence of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine"—and mangled the plot.

74th Congress Adjourns After a Long Session

THE Seventy-fourth congress adjourned after a session lasting five and a half months during which it appropriated nearly $10,000,000,000 and was faced by some unexpected legislative complications.

In the closing hours the emergency tax bill which is expected to produce $800,000,000 in revenue was passed. Supreme court invalidation of the AAA and Guffey coal bills and the passage of the cash soldiers' bonus over the President's veto upset the budget plans and made such a bill necessary.

Although it was passed by the house, the amended Guffey coal bill designed to remove the objections of the Supreme court failed of passage in the senate. Similarly, the Wagner slum housing bill, which had passed the senate, failed in the house.

Larger than normal appropriations for governmental activities were passed. The bonus, farm payments, relief and the greatest national defense program in peace time history helped swell the total.

Funds for continuing the present relief program were voted; the public works revolving fund was amended to permit more heavy construction projects. But congress failed to approve the Florida ship canal and Passamaquoddy tide dam.

Invalidation of the AAA brought a revised and expanded soil conservation and domestic allotment act; the rural electrification administration and electric farm and home authority were both placed on a permanent basis; the Commodity Credit corporation was expanded; two flood control bills were passed. Labor received attention through the Walsh-Healey bill dealing with working conditions on government contracts. A compromise ship subsidy bill was rushed through in the closing hours. Financial legislation included expansion of the jurisdiction of SEC. Important among business legislation was the Patman bill amending the Clayton anti-trust act regarding price discrimination.

A number of important bills failed of enactment. Among these were the Pettigill long and short hauls bill, stockyard regulation, Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, and bills on the 30-hour week, extension of the railroad co-ordinator's tenure, anti-war profits, alien deportation, enlargement of the federal trade commission's power and treasury agency service.

Smith Asks Roosevelt
"Be Put Aside"

CALLING upon the delegates to the Democratic national convention to "put aside Franklin D. Roosevelt" and to nominate "some genuine Democrat" for President, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and four other anti-administration Democrats charged the New Deal with failure.

The demand came in the form of a telegram and was signed by Smith, Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson, James A. Reed, former senator from Missouri, Joseph B. Ely, former governor of Massachusetts, and Daniel F. Cohalan, former justice of the Supreme court of New York.

Former Governor Smith and his colleagues indicated that they will not support President Roosevelt in the forthcoming Presidential campaign, fulfilling Smith's previous threat to "take a walk."

Pro-Roosevelt delegates from every section of the country prepared for a concerted attack upon the "bolters."

Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York turned his back upon Mr. Smith and predicted President Roosevelt would carry New York by a substantial majority in November. He declared:

"I have read the statement. I am confident that the views expressed by the five signers of statement represent the feelings of only a handful of Democrats."

Death Takes von Buelow
Noted German Diplomat

THE death of Bernhard W. von Buelow, secretary of state for foreign affairs in the Hitler cabinet, removed one of the most skilled of Europe's diplomats. Von Buelow, who was fifty-one, was an expert on the League of Nations and gave his country valuable counsel when Germany began to consider rejoining the league. He was noted as a studious and hard-working official, with a vast amount of detailed information always readily available.

A "blueblood" of the German nobility, the diplomat was a nephew of the late Prince Bernhard von Buelow, Imperial chancellor. He was one of the first of the German nobles to associate himself with the republican regime after the collapse of the empire in 1918. Although different in background from Hitler, he nevertheless enjoyed the chancellor's confidence.

In diplomatic circles it was regarded as likely that Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, chief of the political department of the foreign office, will succeed Buelow as secretary of state.

In Russia, Maxim Gorky, early foe of the czars who became a hero of the Soviet regime and its outstanding writer, died of influenza at the age of sixty-eight. Although not a member of the Communist party, Gorky had a preeminent position in Soviet life and was a former member of the central executive committee. Moscow honored him with a public funeral and interment in the Kremlin in a niche facing Lenin's tomb.

Rep. Lemke Will Be Presidential Candidate

REPRESENTATIVE WILLIAM LEMKE of North Dakota announced that he would run for the Presidency as candidate of a new political group known as the Union party.

Rep. Lemke

Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, is the leading sponsor of Lemke's candidacy. Thomas Charles O'Brien of Boston will be the vice-presidential candidate on the ticket, it was announced.

Mr. Lemke made public a 15-point platform embodying demands for readjusting of farm mortgages, old age security, a living wage for all workers, limitation on individual incomes, the establishment of a central bank, the issuance by congress of all currency and its regulation of the value of all the money.

Plans were made for the new party to hold a national convention some time during August in Cleveland.

Mr. Lemke said the Union party has the support of farm unions, labor, the National Union for Social Justice established by Father Coughlin, the Townsend old age pension movement and "all other liberals who have been driven from the old parties."

Packers Seek Recovery of All Processing Taxes

A BATTLE to recover all the processing taxes paid to the government under the invalidated AAA was undertaken by the "big four" of the packing industry—Swift and Company, Armour and Company, Wilson and Company and the Cudahy Packing company.

Having won back $45,000,000 when the AAA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court the packing industry has decided to attempt to recover from the government more than $200,000,000 paid before injunctions against the tax were granted and subsequent payments impounded.

The meat packing industry as a whole paid a total of $271,000,000 in processing taxes from the inception of the AAA. The packers are basing their claims for recovery on the ground that as the Supreme court ruled the processing taxes invalid, payments made in accordance with that law were illegally collected and should be returned. It was reported that smaller packing companies were considering action to recover their tax payments, but have waited until the major units in the industry instituted their proceedings.

The total in tax recoveries sought by the four big Chicago companies is approximately $100,000,000.

U. S. Revokes Sanctions Imposed on Italy

FOLLOWING the lead of Great Britain, the United States formally revoked all sanctions imposed against Italy during the recent Italo-Ethiopian conflict. A proclamation by President Roosevelt declared all previous communications dealing with the sale of munitions of war, loans and travel by Americans on Italian ships was revoked.

Although the sanctions were against both Italy and Ethiopia, in practical application they were used only against Italy, since the United States did not supply the African nation with any war materials and the empire of Haile Selassie had no ships of its own.

The French cabinet agreed to abide by any action which the League of Nations may take in cancelling sanctions against Italy.

The British government's decision to abandon sanctions was defended in an address by Prime Minister Baldwin as the only alternative which would prevent a suicidal war plunging western civilization into "barbarous anarchy."

Farm Income Sharply Up In Year's First Quarter

FARM cash income from marketing in the United States amounted to $2,017,000,000 in the first four months of 1936, compared with $1,740,000,000 last year, an increase of 15.3 per cent, according to a compilation issued by the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

The Institute's figures showed that the price level during the first four months was 2.3 per cent lower than a year ago, but the quantity marketed showed an increase of 18.1 per cent.

Energy From the Sun Varies Slightly From Day to Day

The amount of energy received from the sun, or what is known as the solar constant, has been found to vary slightly from day to day. It may be either above or below average for months at a time. By observations and calculations extending over many years, Doctor Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution has discovered the existence of seven periodicities—of 7, 8, 11, 21, 25, 45 and 68 month periods.—Washington Star.
