THE LISTENING POST

● Somebody asked me the other day as to my preferences in men actors in the moving pictures. I guess I have sounded off a lot about my favorite ladies, and to tell the truth I have not wasted much time in picking my favorite man. But when the query came I went into personal huddle with myself to answer the question and came up with an answer that even surprised me. My favorite is a rather fat man, and it is not Oliver Hardy, either, although I enjoy seeing this dimwit a lot of times.

● Privately I am rather harsh on the so called heartbeats among the men. Clark Gable frequently gives me a distinct pain in the neck. Robert Young makes me want to get up and leave the scene and for Tyrone Power I have only a minor interest. Among the heartbeats I have always rather liked Franchot Tone, and now and then I have liked Robert Montgomery immensely. But, as a matter of fact, a majority of the pictures in which these men appear are not my sort, and it is only occasionally that I see them in a picture which I like. I liked Clark Gable in Gone With the Wind and Strange Cargo also fitted the great he-man like a glove. Franchot Tone, in stories of adventure, has always been more than good, but I will still take my fat man as my favorite.

● For Edward Arnold is the man I have picked. He is fat without a doubt—too fat to be a heartbeat, at any rate. But that man can sink his teeth into a part and make the audience think he is really the man whose part he is portraying. I saw him only the other night in a picture which did not please me particularly, Johnny Apollo, but I still remember the vivid way in which Arnold played his part.

● The picture itself is one of those things in which Hollywood spoils a good yarn in order to allow all the actors to make a good showing. It is a gangster picture, and like too many of these pictures the gangster is not portrayed as a thorough rat at all times. Now and then he appears as a hero, in a back handed sort of way, and the motivation of the story appears to be bad in many places.

● But Arnold, playing the part of a millionaire who was sent to prison for embezzlement, and the father of a son who also goes to prison while playing around with the rat gangsters, really goes to town. He gives the illusion of being a real millionaire, he gives the illusion of being a real father, he gives the illusion of being a real boiler maker when he takes up that work in prison. He really is the only strong character in the picture, which I would not rate with many stars, but which may turn out to be a four star when the returns are all in. I have frequently decided a picture was lousy and then had it loom up as one of the big pictures of the year. If this picture does that it will be only because of Arnold.

● I have noticed him in many pictures, and he never fails to get hold of any part which he plays. While he is rather heavy, with regular jowls on his face, he has a vibrant voice, bell clear, and can express joy and sorrow and elation and dejection as well as anybody I have even seen on the screen. Above all things else, he gives the perfect illusion of being whatever sort of man he is portraying.

Asserts Spending School Theories May Tax Savings

Dawes Declares Next President Must Combat Many Money Wasters

Washington, — Emmet F. Connelley, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, told the United States Chamber of Commerce today that spending theories of the "government-must-do-it" school might lead to a federal tax on private savings.

The question of government spending was also a major topic last night when the chamber heard Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker and vice president under Calvin Coolidge, blame President Roosevelt's abolition of the Federal Corporation Service in 1933 as one of the chief causes of the present economic chaos in the business system of our government.

The country's next President, Dawes said, would have to combat "the largest army of government spenders, wasters and patronage-dispensing politicians" in history if the nation was to escape bankruptcy and ruin.

Dawes submitted a plan for balancing the federal budget, based on methods which he said proved successful at the start of the Harding administration in 1921. Dawes was budget director at that time.

Young Couples Advised To Pick Baby Over Car

Rochester, Minn. — If she had to choose between a baby or a new car, Mrs. Charles H. Mayo, the American mother for 1940, would take the baby—even if she had to use a wheelbarrow to get around.

Emphasizing that children are worth great sacrifices, Mrs. Mayo who is 69, said in an interview: "If it were a question of having a baby or a new car, I would advise a young couple to have the baby. I'd take the baby first every time and go in a wheelbarrow."

Mrs. Mayo, who reared eight

330 Present For Morning Service Today

Three hundred and thirty people were present at the 7 o'clock service this morning in the First Baptist Church to hear Dr. R. E. Humphreys preach on "The Resurrection of Christ." In this message he said, "By the resurrection we mean that His body put into the tomb dead came out alive. The resurrection is the foundation stone of Christianity. It distinguishes Christianity from all other religions. If Christ did not arise the whole structure of Christianity falls, our experience is unreal, we have no hope of future life, there is no forgiveness of sins, and heaven is an empty myth."

The answer to four questions prove that Christ arose. First, did Christ live? It is universally agreed that he lived. Secular historians and religious writers say that he did, both Jews and Gentiles say that he did. Second, are the records of Christ's life trustworthy? The contents of the gospel records have been closely scrutinized by both friends and foe. They give us the record which has stood the test and which presents the greatest character in history. Third, did Christ die? Yes, in public. His death was made certain by his enemies and admitted by his closest friends. Fourth, did Christ rise? God took every precaution to prove that he did arise. Jesus, after his resurrection, didn't go straight back to the Father but remained on earth forty days during which he appeared ten times to various groups. The many who saw him after his death and resurrection became eye witnesses to his resurrection. So in addition to historical data we have those who saw the resurrected Christ. Another proof is the fact that his faithful disciples were transformed into flaming evangelists by the assurance that Christ was risen from the dead. Meeting the resurrected Christ transformed Paul who at first was against Christ.

Now we ask the question, what is the meaning of the resurrection for our own hearts? It confirms all else that he said and did. It is easy to believe in other miracles, to take comfort from his words, to depend on his promises for the future because he arose. Our assurance of salvation depends on the resurrection. Because he was able to arise we may be forgiven of our sins. Then the resurrection of Christ is the pledge of our resurrection. "Because I live Ye shall live also." The resurrection of Christ answers the universal cry of men, "If a man die, shall he live again?" Christ answered that question. He demonstrated that man would live again. Before Jesus there was a flickering faith in immortality but not until he came and arose were we sure that when we die we will live again. We were afraid of death. Jesus went into it and came back unharmed. Everyone who trusts in Christ alone need fear death no longer.

Dr. Humphreys and Mr. Patterson will be here for only three more services, tonight at 7:30, Friday at 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Postoffice Department Cold To "North Poles"

Washington — The Postoffice Department repeatedly is turning a cold shoulder to the desire of American cities to rename themselves North Pole.

The second request within a month for such a change has just been denied. The last two, incidentally, came from Wisconsin.

Officials say that if they ever establish a North Pole in the United States, they probably would have to recognize forty-seven more before the end of a year.

This isn't the only reason for their icy position, however. Generally, they believe, there isn't much reason other than commercial for the desire to name a town North Pole.

"I'm afraid," said an official who passes on the requests, "that most of them are inspired by Santa Claus, Ind."

Anyhow, we already have a Glacier, Wash.

Santa Claus, Ind., does a tremendous Christmas mailing business largely because of its name.

In recent years, the department has received many quaint requests for changing names of post offices. Unless there is a reason such as two cities in the same State having nearly similar names—they are turned down.

North Pole leads the requests. Other communities have begged for changing names of post offices. During the depression one Southern post office wanted to rename itself "Down-and-Out."

The baseball association is anxious to have a large attendance at the game tomorrow afternoon. To date the local club has not lost a game, having defeated Jackson twice and Mayfield once.

Mrs. C. T. Terry Dies Today After Long Illness

Mrs. Minnie Hart Terry, wife of Charles T. Terry, passed away this morning about 6:30 at her home on Valley street after a long illness. Mrs. Terry had been in poor health for the past few years and her condition became critical a few days ago. Although not unexpected, her death came as a shock to her many friends and relatives.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at the residence, with Dr. Don P. Hawkins, assisted by Rev. Woodrow Fuller, conducting the service. Burial will be at Greenlee, in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home. The body will lie-in-state at the residence.

The deceased was born in Henry County, near Paris, Tenn., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hart, but she had lived most of her life in Fulton. She was married in December 1902 to Charles T. Terry. She was a good, christian woman and was an active church worker up until ill health prevented. She was a member of the Christian church, holding membership at the First Christian church of this city. Of kind disposition, she made friends easily and was loved by all who knew her. She will be sadly missed by a large host of friends and relatives.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sisters, Mrs. T. B. Neely of this city and Mrs. Clarence Cook of Grand Rapids, Mich., and three brothers, Tan and Shelton Hart of this city and Bob Hart of Kansas City, Mo.

PRAYER MEETINGS

In arranging for these cottage prayer meetings we have taken full cognizance of the Baptist Revival and done our best not to conflict so far as the hour is concerned. We want our people to hear this great servant of God. Wherever the hour conflicts we have and do urge that the meeting be one of prayer only or of prayer and Scripture reading. Monday and Tuesday there were nearly 200 people gathered and lifted their voices to God for the success of our revival. Now let's make it 300 for Thursday and Friday.

East Fulton will hold its cottage prayer meeting this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Graham, 112 Cedar street.

West Fulton will hold its meeting at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the home of Mrs. N. B. Lovelace, 306 Park Ave.

Central Fulton will hold its prayer meeting at 7:00 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Boyd Bennett, 207 Edgings street.

Another in the series of cottage prayer meetings being held prior to the revival beginning Sunday for Methodist, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. J. McCollum, College street. Rev. C. E. Aikin will be the leader.

Million Dollar Reward Offered For Capture Of Adolf Hitler

New York. — A Pittsburgh group offered today to pay a million dollar reward for the capture of Adolf Hitler, unhurt, but specified that the German fugitive must be delivered into the custody of the League of Nations before the end of May.

Samuel Harden Church, president of the $25,000,000 Carnegie Institute, announced the offer on behalf of an unnamed group which he said was acting "in good faith," in a letter to the New York Times.

In his letter, Church said that Hitler should be delivered "for trial before a high court of justice for his crimes against the peace and dignity of the world."

Church said that the proposal had been discussed for some time among members of the Dugan Club of Pittsburgh after private advice reached them saying Hitler planned an attempt to break through on the western front soon.

Carl W. Ackerman, dean of Columbia University's graduate school of journalism and ex-war correspondent, declared the offer was "calculated to contribute to the involvement of the United States in the present European war."

In a letter to Church, Ackerman wrote: "To offer a monetary reward for the sacrifice of human life, which would be necessary to capture Herr Hitler, is a dangerous national as well as international proposal. The American people will never sanction a policy of kidnapping either at home or abroad."

"Your proposal is an effort to stampede public opinion by making public opinion, for the obvious purpose of promoting events calculated to force the Congress to declare war upon Germany."

Wage-Hour Law Amendment Gets Tentative Okeh

Would Exempt About 200,000 In Farm Co-Ops From Act's Provisions

Washington, — An amendment exempting from the Wage-Hour Law some 200,000 workers in a number of farm co-operatives was tentatively approved by the House today as that chamber spent its fifth day on the hot issue of revising the act.

The amendment, proposed by Rep. Buck (D-Calif.), and adopted 149 to 55 on a teller vote, would write into the law the same definition of agriculture that is now contained in the social security act. The definition is so worded as to cover certain co-operatives, chiefly those engaged in washing, drying, packing and storing fruits and vegetables.

Co-Op Exemptions

Since employees engaged in agriculture are exempted, under the present Wage-Hour Act, from both the 30-cent wage minimum and the 42-hour work week maximum, the employees of the co-operatives would be exempted likewise.

Rep. Keefe (R-Wis.), who at first opposed the definition and then voted for it, interpreted it as not exempting those co-operatives engaged in canning, preserving and the like.

First Adoption

The Buck amendment was the first adopted since the House wiped the slate clean yesterday of all previously approved amendments by rejecting the Barden Wage-Hour legislation. The chamber spent most of today considering a set of amendments which were less sweeping than Barden's and which were proposed by the House labor committee. Final action on them was put over until tomorrow.

Solid G. O. P. Vote Expected Against Reform

Washington — The White House said today it had been informed that Republicans in both Senate and House would vote solidly against President Roosevelt's last two Government reorganization plans.

In making this announcement Press Secretary Stephen T. Early said the President would see during the day four Democratic members of the House Reorganization Committee to discuss the two reorganization orders.

Early said the conference was to be about the whole situation rather than the specific controversy over the proposed transfer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to the Commerce Department.

Editorial

ARE WE BEING COUNTED?

The Leader notices that a majority of the towns around Fulton are taking quite a lot of interest in the census count which is now drawing near a close. Mayfield, for example, is badly worried over the fact that it seems difficult to record any gain over the census of a decade ago. In 1930 Mayfield recorded a count of 8200 inhabitants and Mayfield folks were hoping for a better showing this time. In fact they hoped to show Mayfield to be a town of 10,000, but this hope was soon seen to be in vain. Right now they are a bit worried as to whether any increase will be recorded at all. Perhaps there is a fear also that the count might show a decrease. A decrease in population is usually regarded as a calamity, although in a majority of towns it would be a healthy sign to lose certain people. At any rate, this is generally said of all towns, and this newspaper is not implying this is the case in Mayfield any more than elsewhere. Some Graves county critic remarked the other day that if the census takers would count all Mayfield folks who were holding jobs elsewhere in the state or nation they could easily shove past the ten thousand mark. This, however, was a dirty dig, and this writer recognized it as such, and hopes that Nathan Yates will not place him over a barrel in the Mayfield Messenger. Mayfield is all right, this writer will swear.

However, this matter is deserving of much consideration in all the towns of this section. Here is Fulton the count is progressing satisfactorily it is presumed. What the figure will be no person can say, although it is likely the census enumerators have some pretty definite ideas by this time about the final figure. In other cities, such as Mayfield, Dyersburg, Union City, Paris and others, help is being offered the enumerators in order that all inhabitants may be legally counted. Of course, enumerators, being merely federal employees, can only do their duty, but it is yet possible for city officials and Chamber of Commerce workers to see that they really count all available persons. This work is needed in Fulton, and Mayor Paul DeMyer promised to take up the matter at once, and offer all available city help to see that Fulton gets a full counting of noses.

Ten years ago the population of the Kentucky side was approximately 3600, with 2000 more on the Tennessee side. In 1936 a city directory was published here, which gave an estimate of slightly more than 5600 population. The directory cannot be relied on too fully, of course, for directories are always more optimistic than the cold blooded federal census. However, if the figures were approximately correct it would seem to indicate that Fulton had held her own during the difficult years from 1930 to 1936. During those years there was a great population shift here, due to changes in railroad practices. The town lost many families and later gained many more families. What the net result has been will probably be reflected in the official count which is now going on.

In any event, it will be a wise idea for city officials to make an effort to see that all legal inhabitants are counted. All available assistance should be given the enumerators to enable them to make a correct count.

"FOR THE HONOR OF OUR COUNTRY"

The Olympic Games, planned for Finland this summer, are definitely off. Even after the war with Russia was concluded, Finland, with characteristic gallantry, tried to arrange the games.

Despite her own suffering Finland might have been able to carry on. But the condition of a Europe at war makes the project impossible, and the Finnish committee has had to cancel the games definitely and finally.

So in this year of 1940 there will be no white-clad group of keen, eager young men and women standing in the bright sunshine to take once more the traditional Olympic oath:

"We swear that we will take part in the Olympic Games in loyal competition, respecting the regulations which govern them and desirous of participating in them in the true spirit of sportsmanship for the honor of our country and for the glory of sport."

Not this year. The keen young men of more than half the world are today engaged in playing a grimmer game. They have been told that they are playing this game, too, for the honor of their countries. However that may be, it is already clear that for many, many thousands of them the prize is not some gay ribbon or bright medal, but the dark garland of death.

It is because those games are not to be held this summer, and because that oath is not to be taken by the young men and young women, that we have reprinted it above. For though they have been temporarily set aside by a world intent on graver matters, those principles must not be forgotten.

The time will come, some day, when the world must remember "loyal competition." The time will come when "respecting the regulations" will not be a sign of weakness, but of strength. The time will come when the "true spirit of sportsmanship" will again have value for men who have had to forget it in the necessities of a game that is played for keeps. And for "the honor of our country," things are being done today which perhaps people of a later time will not look as redounding much to anybody's honor.

In the thick international murk of 1940, to look so far ahead as 1944 seems impossible. Yet it will come, and perhaps one may even now dare to hope that when it has come the world will have remembered those words it cast aside in 1940—"loyal competition," and "regulations," and "sportsmanship," and "honor."—Bowling Green News.

Professor Says U. S. Must Accept Bureaucracy

Lexington, Ky. — Citizens of the United States must expect increasing activities of Government in social and economic affairs and must accept the existence of bureaucracy, Prof. Edward H. Buehring of Purdue University said today in an address at the Rural Leadership Institute at the University of Kentucky.

With bureaucracy well fixed upon the country, the problem now is that of preventing its misrepresentation, Professor Buehring said. Government power, he added, can be used in the interest of the general welfare of the people. The State, however, should not encompass society but exist as only one part of social organization, he said. The family, church and schools are other parts, he continued.

The speaker said he would not consider Government a necessary evil, but would try to exercise control over it and direct it for good.

Mrs. Leonard Allen and Mrs. Mike Sullivan were hostesses to the pre-school age group of the Mothers' Club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Allen on Jefferson street. 11 regular members and one visitor, Mrs. Edward Hewitt, were present.

Mrs. Arch Huddleston, Jr., the chairman, presided over the regular business session. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Ernest Cardwell.

Mrs. M. L. Parker had charge of the program and her subject was "Toddler Dramatics." The main point stressed in the discussion was "little children delight in dramatic play. Mothers can easily tap a rich source of enjoyment by encouraging them to act out simple situations and such play the definite psychological and educational values. For the shy or self-conscious child, interpretative play takes him out of his own character. His little drama, no matter how simple, gives him new words to use, enlarges his field of imagination, develops new scenes for him and builds his pattern for a new character."

After the program the hostesses served delicious strawberry short cake and tea.
