The Tides of Fashion For Fall 1927

Fashion Show Sponsored By Fulton Merchants Brilliant Success

In honor of old Autumn's mellow mood, the merchants of Fulton present to the public, "The Tides of Fashion for Fall 1927." Seldom does the opening of a new season show such a wealth of important, clearly defined new moods of the mode, striking, gracious lines, cleverly achieved in both men's and women's apparel.

The Fashion Show sponsored by the merchants at High School Auditorium Friday evening, under the auspices of Group A of the Warner Blackard Society, was a brilliant success.

The models were beautiful. Any attempt to describe each one would require columns of space, suffice it to say that Fulton merchants are well prepared to meet the taste of the most fastidious dressers, and the Fashion Show only reflected what you may expect on a visit to the stores.

The musical numbers were greatly enjoyed.

RICH COLORS, LUXURIOUS MATERIALS PREDOMINATE FASHION DISPLAYS

Richness in color and elegance and luxuriousness of materials characterize the smart creations for the fall of 1927.

Velvet in all its glory and magnificence is the outstanding item in the fashion world. Transparent, chiffon, georgette and in fact, all types of this supple material are the latest Paris furore and there is every indication that this will be a most successful velvet season for Fulton merchants. Satins in an enticing variety, however, will vie with velvets for the center of the stage.

With these two glorious materials holding the center of the stage, the popular silhouette naturally is the drape and soft clinging effects. Both fabrics lend themselves so perfectly to the genius of the designer that their success seems well assured.

As a whole the fashions are rich in color, beautiful in texture, and youthful in silhouette and style.

While black is the leading color unusual popularity for the new shades of maroon (brown), sapphire blue, plum and the cherry shades.

The fur coats and fur trimmed coats are distinctly different this fall and the novelty sports coat in pony skin, hair, seal and silver muskrat are striking in their newness. Some unusually chic ensembles are being featured.

In evening gowns is featured chiffons, satins and black laces in the favorite silhouette—the long blouse, or the basque, uneven hem line and long, full skirt.

A full line of smart accessories, bags, hats and shoes is found in Fulton up-to-date stores.

In the millinery line, felts and velours still dominate the style for street wear. Velvets for the more formal use and satins with a metallic touch for afternoon. The small hat continues the vogue with the devil's skull cap featured as the newest in hats.

Men's Styles Are Becoming Oxford gray, light gray, fancy gray mixtures, gray with brightly colored stripes, gray herringbones and a wide variety of other tones and designs is the assortment from which the well dressed man may select this fall.

And with this demand for gray, will come the necessity of bright neckwear, black shoes, dark hose and to avoid too somber an effect, light headwear will be worn.

Speaking of hats, with very few exceptions the well dressed man will wear one of an extremely light shade. Light grays and light tans will be the most popular, with the former having a slight edge. The displays of Fulton merchants reflect the newest styles. Snap brim models have a particular appeal.

Fulton merchants are entering the season better prepared than ever to serve the needs of the man who desires to dress well. Many new features have been introduced since last fall and each firm extends a cordial invitation to inspect the new articles.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

Friday, October 7, marked the beginning of another club year in Fulton.

The first meeting of the Woman's Club was held Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, with the president, Mrs. J. E. Fall, presiding.

The president's greeting to the club was most cordial. She spoke with praise and commendation of the committees who had during the summer months, worked to make the programs in the 1927-28 year book so attractive and interesting. Invitations from the various chairman departments, were extended to any new member to join them in study this winter.

Mrs. Stewart Brown was appointed representative for the club woman, an official paper of the Woman's Club. It was voted to omit the library drive for this year, there being sufficient funds for current expenses.

Following the business session, Mrs. Fall introduced Miss Sara Catron Smith, who, in her own sweet natural way, told of her European trip, this past summer, and the impressions she received.

Mr. Morris Chowning, who has recently returned from the American Legion Convention in Paris, closed the program with an interesting resume of his delightful trip to France.

Mrs. J. F. Royster, Joe Browder, A. M. Browder, A. M. Nugent and R. M. Alford, assisted in the hospitality while Mrs. Jake Huddleston, Mesdames Clyde Hill, Gideon Willingham, with an able committee, served sandwiches and coffee during the social hour.

The beauty and charm of the afternoon's program seemed to inspire each member with renewed appreciation of the influence of The Woman's Club.

CHAMPION BEET GROWER

M. I. Boulton, the Champion beet grower of Western Kentucky, brought in a monster beet from his farm Saturday that startled the natives and caused us to set up and take notice. Said beet measured 23 inches long and 17 inches in circumference. Mr. Boulton said he had one and one-half acres in beets which would make good feed for his 175 hogs. Yes, M. I. has a fine lot of hogs on his 126 acre farm in the suburbs of Fulton. Sold a load Saturday at 10 1/2 cents a pound and said he would sell another load in a few days.

Waiting for Adoption

J. E. Hannephin Expert Salesman

Sells 31 Fedelco Electric Vacuum Cleaners in Two Weeks and Wins Two Prizes.

Notwithstanding the fact that J. E. Hannephin was only recently added to the sales force of the Kentucky Utilities Company, he has proven himself a valuable asset to the sales department of that great corporation.

To stimulate a little rivalry during special sale weeks of the Fedelco Electric Vacuum Cleaner, the Kentucky Utilities Company offered prizes to their salesmen selling the largest number each week. Thirty-four towns are represented and competition is keen.

For the week ending September 10, Mr. Hannephin, of Fulton, was in the lead with Mr. William Peters, of Winchester, both winning a prize of $5.00 each. For the week ending September 24, Mr. Hannephin was again in the lead with J. S. Hill, of Paducah, both winning a prize of $5.00 each. During this time a total of 137 were sold.

From all indications Mr. Hannephin will continue in the lead as he has already sold more than 31 "Complete home cleaning plants," and continues to sell daily.

Mr. Hannephin tells us that it is not all in the salesmanship, but in the article that he is selling—a complete home cleaning plant—light and durable—tireless and efficient—economical—easy to operate—saves time, effort and strength. No matter what part of your home needs cleaning—the Fedelco will do it. It is a complete homecleaning plant.

It has all the necessary attachments for cleaning rugs, drapes, stairs, radiators, for your clothes, automobile interior, furniture and bedding. Low in cost and sold on easy terms.

"Every woman who takes pride in her home should have a Fedelco," says Mr. Hannephin.

The Fedelco Electric Vacuum Cleaner sweeps without dust and cleans without effort. No wonder it sells itself. We will add, however, that Mr. Hannephin is in a class by himself when it comes to demonstrating the Fedelco complete home cleaning plant. That's what the ladies say anyhow, and they buy because it does the work thoroughly and is easy to operate.

NEW BARRYMORE FILM DRAMATIC STORY

"The Beloved Rogue," in which John Barrymore brings to the screen the fascinating story of Francois Villon, famed eccentric poet of Fifteenth Century France, and Barrymore's first feature production for United Artists, is a picture composed of "big moments." Dramatic highlights follow each other in such rapid succession that the production affords a continual series of thrills, building up to a surprising climax.

This new Barrymore picture, which opens next Monday at Orpheum for two days, begins its story just before the birth of the baby Villon, who is destined to influence the entire history of France through the power of his pen. The opening sequence strikes a high dramatic note without preliminaries, with the burning at the stake of Francois Villon's father, advocate of liberty and compatriot of Joan of Arc. While his ashes still are smoldering in the square of Rouen, and while bold ravens flutter over the charred heap on the altar, the mother places some of the ashes in a small locket and vows that the babe yet to be born will finish the work of the father. This locket, on the birth of Francois Villon, is placed about his neck and remains there throughout his life. The significance of the token forming a dramatic strain throughout the picture.

CAREY-REED COMPANY AWARDED CONTRACT

Work Started on Carr Street Improvement

At a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night, the Carey-Reed Company who is completing its contract of street building in the business section of the city, was awarded the contract for Carr street improvement in the residential section and has already started a crew of workmen on the job. They will make every effort to complete the contract before bad weather sets in.

Something to Remember

The Warner Blackard Society, through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm, have arranged to have a benefit show at the Orpheum Theatre Thursday afternoon and night, Oct. 20, and are extending an invitation to the public to give them their most hearty support on that date. While Mr. Chisholm is trying to arrange for the showing of the big Universal special, "The 4th Commandment," the society is arranging a pleasing home talent feature. Be sure to attend.

L. Kasnow's Big Sale Is Now On

A sale which promises to eclipse all former events by L. Kasnow, the Lake Street Merchant, started Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, with a big crowd of bargain hunters in attendance. This sale marks an epoch in Mr. Kasnow's merchandising career in Fulton. His building has recently undergone a complete remodeling and he opens his new store with a line of choice merchandise for the entire family.

Those who attended the sale yesterday found bargains galore on seasonable wearables and supplied their needs for months to come, at a great saving.

During Mr. Kasnow's eight years' business career in Fulton the people of the surrounding country, as well as those in town, have learned to know that when he announces a sale real bargains of genuine worth are offered. Therefore, by his fair and square dealings with the public his business has grown by leaps and bounds until today when he inaugurates a special sale, experts are employed to arrange the stocks and take care of the gigantic crowds that flock to his store.

Believes in Advertising Besides his fair and square dealing, he is a strong believer in advertising. Kasnow says, "If you have a good thing to offer the people, advertise and let them know it."

MORE STREET IMPROVEMENT

At a meeting of the city council Thursday night, a petition signed by 56 per cent of the property owners on Maple Avenue, asking that their street be included in the street improvement program, was read and accepted.

EXPOSITION WILL BE SHORT DAIRY COURSE

Demonstrations, Judging, Talks Great Educational Features

Dairy cow demonstrations by experts, judging of cattle and dairy products by farmers and students, talks by authoritative speakers on successful dairying methods and the exhibit of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will provide a complete short course in dairying at the National Dairy Exposition-Tri-State Fair at Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15-22, a review of the program reveals.

"This educational program will be worth a trip of hundreds of miles to the dairy cow owner," said Prof. C. L. Blackman, of the Ohio State University, who is in charge of the demonstrations. These will be held twice each day.

Grade cattle will be demonstrated in the mornings and pure breeds in the afternoon. All five dairy breeds will be analyzed.

Governor F. O. Lowden, president of the Holstein-Friesian Association; Robert Scoville, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club; Leonard Tufts, president Ayrshire Breeders' Association and Prof. B. H. Hibbard, president of the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association, will make brief talks on the days the demonstrations in their respective breeds are held. Cattle experts will show the farmers how stock should be selected for dairy purposes. Results of the Arkansas Experiment at the Iowa State College on the up-grading of cow by using pure-bred bulls will be graphically pictured and explained in detail, with the results obtained.

Farmers judging contests will enable the unschooled dairy farmer to test his knowledge of dairy cattle that he might learn in what respects he is deficient. In dairy cattle and dairy-products judging contests vocational students and 4-H boys and girls will be given an opportunity to learn the extent of their knowledge. Other educational features will be provided so that the trip to the Exposition will be highly profitable to the farmer with one cow or a herd.

Clara Bow "Queen of Leather Pushers"

Given Title After Role in Latest Comedy "Rough House Rosie."

Clara Bow was recently notified by a square-jawed ambassador representing the professional boxing fraternity of Los Angeles and Hollywood that she had been elected "Queen of the Leather Pushers" a fraternity made up of the young men who furnish the main events and preliminaries in the southern California fight stadiums.

The little Paramount star became acquainted with several of the boys who deal in lefts and rights during the filming of her picture "Rough House Rosie" in which Reed Howes, her leading man, boxes Charles Sullivan, a professional fighter. It was Sullivan who proposed Miss Bow as the fighters' mascot at a meeting of the pugnaous clan. The picture reaches the GRAND next Monday and Tuesday. Arthur Housman, Doris Hill and Douglas Gilmore are co-featured with Howes.

Mr. C. J. Perry and wife, of Jonesboro, Ark., and Miss Lillian Perry, of Hot Springs, Ark., returned to their home, after a few days' visit in Fulton, to see their sister, Mrs. A. N. Walker and family.

STREETS ARE FINE— WALKS ARE OUT OF LINE

Now that practically all of the streets are completed in the business section, the sidewalks are attracting attention. On Lake street it is puzzling to some of the property owners how the sidewalks can be improved to meet the requirements since the curbing of the new street is six or more inches higher than the walk, which is on a level with the floors of some of the buildings. This condition exists at the upper end of the street which suffers most when Harris Fork creek overflows. Heretofore when the creek overflowed, the water came in the back of the buildings first, but from all appearances now, the water will enter the front door first as the street in the rear of the buildings has been built up one to two feet. The new concrete streets are fine, but the old side walks are out of line. Dr. R. T. Rudd built a new walk in front of his residence of Commercial avenue, and Mr. Gardner followed suit. Dr. Cohn tore up a good walk on Walnut street in front of his property occupied by the Holloway Motor Company and constructed a new walk to line up with the street curbing. R. H. Cowardin did the same thing. It is a wonderful improvement.

THIS IS YOUR CHANCE TO SEE THE GREATEST LIVE STOCK IN HISTORY.

What is now very promising to be the greatest live stock show ever exhibited in the U. S. A. is the National Dairy Exposition which will be held in Memphis from October 15 to the 22nd inclusive.

October 18 will be Kentucky day and because of this event the Illinois Central is offering the greatest reduction in fare rates that it has ever offered. You can board a special train on the morning of the 18th, at 6:30 where you will make a non-stop drive to Memphis. This train will not dump you off at the crowded railroad station and force you to push and jam your way out to the fair grounds, but instead, will take you directly to the fair grounds where you will get off and step right into the fair grounds, eliminating all confusion and taxi fare. After eleven hours of continued sight-seeing of greater magnitude than you have ever been able to witness, and in addition to all this, you will be permitted to witness the world's greatest fireworks. Then you will board your special train which will be awaiting for you just outside the fair grounds and be back in Fulton by midnight.

All of this will cost you only four dollars, including railroad fare, fair gate fees, and in fact, every essential except your hamburgers which you can take along if you so desire.

Your First and Last Chance for Such an Opportunity

The National Dairy Exposition has never before been held south of the Ohio river and will probably never be so convenient to you again. All of the six leading dairy cattle breeds will be on exhibit at this great show. They include the Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein, Brown Swiss, Ayrshire, and the Dutch Belted.

The kings and queens of the Dairydom of the whole U. S. A. will be present as title contenders for the national ribbons blue. Never in the history of Dixie Land was competition so great as will be witnessed upon this occasion. There will be cows there which have a record of 30,000 pounds of milk in one year which is nearly 27 times their own weight. If you were to place this milk in ten gallon milk cans and set them side by side they would make a line approximately three-quarters of a mile long. Wouldn't you like to see the world's greatest milk cow? She will meet you at the Exposition if you will ride the West Kentucky Special.

We Have Your Ticket. Call Us

A call to the office of the Chamber of Commerce will put you in touch with us who will be glad to sell you a ticket to the National Dairy Exposition. This will place you in line with approximately 700 of West Kentucky merry-makers, who will help you enjoy the biggest day of your life.

Let's all go!

High School Notes

Dr. Ira Jones, famous scientist and lecturer, will open the Lyceum series Wednesday evening, October 12, at 8:00 p. m. Dr. Jones is one of the outstanding lecturers of the United States and the Fulton public is to be congratulated on the opportunity of hearing this distinguished scientist.

Carr Institute has a very nice and substantial equipment for the playgrounds. The large, well kept playing field gives the students ample room in which to play their various games. They are supervised by the teachers of the different grades. Waste baskets have been placed in convenient places to receive the waste material. The students, by a loyal observance of the rules have made the grounds more tidy and attractive.

The Music Club gave a very interesting program in Junior High school Monday morning. The program was as follows:

America—By the school.
Banjo selections—Martha Brady.

The Doll's Dance—Martha Norman Lowe.

Love's Old Sweet Song—By the school.

Accompanist—Dorothy Ann Williams.

Charles Binford, Fulton's outstanding full back, is absent this week on account of illness. We hope that he will rejoin us soon.

The chorus class and orchestra are proceeding nicely under the direction of Mrs. Charles Brann, our music supervisor.

Plans are under consideration for the production of a high school annual by the Senior class this year. While we do not as yet speak of this matter as a certainty, we feel that it is a worthy cause and should be encouraged, especially as Fulton High has not put out an annual for four years.

Grace Hill, as representative of the student council, made a very interesting talk in Chapel, Wednesday.

SAMUEL GOLDEN COLLEY JOINS THE ANGELS IN HEAVEN

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Colley deeply sympathize with them in the loss of their little son, Samuel, who died Monday morning at their home on East State street. This tender little bud had lived in the Colley home just long enough to become the idol of his parents, and after one and a half years, was called to his heavenly home. Funeral services were held at Oak Grove church Wednesday, the Rev. J. B. Hardeman, of Mayfield, conducting the service, interment following.

NEW ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Finch are the proud parents of a pretty little girl. The little miss arrived at their home on Third street, Thursday morning, Sept. 29. Her name is Martha Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Omar announce the arrival of a fine son at their home on Fourth street.

Thursday night, Sept. 29, a pretty little girl arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Worley in Riceville. Rosa is the name of the little miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cayce announce the birth of a pretty little girl at their home in Fair Heights. The little Miss arrived Oct. 3.

SPECIAL OFFER

For a short time we will accept subscriptions for this paper and the Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal—both papers one year for only $1.25.

HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM WEDNESDAY, OCT. 12

The Parent-Teachers Association will present Dr. Jones at the High School Auditorium, Wednesday evening, Oct. 12. Admission: Adults, 75c; Students, 40c.

Dr. H. I. Jones

Dr. Hilton Ira Jones brings to the lecture platform a rare combination of talents. As a scientist he has gained a place of recognized standing. He has been honored at home and abroad.

He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Chemical Society (London) a member of the American Chemical Society and many other learned organizations in this country and abroad, and a research worker of marked ability, whose articles have frequently appeared in leading scientific publications.

Unlike many scientists, he has the ability to present complex scientific subjects in terms that make them readily understandable to popular audiences.

Doctor Jones will deliver here his great lecture of "Self Management," a startling account of the discoveries of modern science with relation to the chemistry of the body.

This notable lecture has been receiving voluminous publicity in leading newspapers all over the country. Under the title, "The Chemistry of Life," a leading daily paper recently ran an editorial upon this lecture in which it says:

"It is not easy to pass on the many vital truths Doctor Jones presented to his audience on the chemistry of the human body; the value of suggestion and auto-suggestion; their influence upon the subjective mind; the power of the subjective mind upon individual character and destiny by the ductless glands; how health, happiness and success can be gained by a knowledge of all these and other forces and their intelligent and persistent application."

"Not often have we had in our midst a speaker with the technical knowledge and the breadth of view to tell the people new truths of science. Still less often have we had men who added the high moral purpose to interpret these discoveries in terms of right living and increased personality."

The Girl Who Ran Away

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright)
ALICE PEARCE had dressed rapidly for the early dinner at "Beechcamp," where she was visiting the Merrills at their summer camp. And when the musical notes of a bugle announced that the meal was in readiness, Alice gave a reassuring nod to the reflection of her pretty face and, dressed in white from top to toe like some very young bride, she went out to the great wide veranda where all meals were served except in stormy weather.

The guests numbered a dozen, several of whom Alice recognized as old acquaintances. There was one man who came in a little late and sat down near Mrs. Merrill, on the same side of the table as Alice was sitting. She could not see him, but the corner where he was seemed full of merriment. She was glad of that—glad because the youths on either side of her were jolly college boys—she wanted fun and laughter—lots of it all the time, because life had been rather bitter the last few months for pretty Alice Pearce, especially regarding her affair with Blake Irving. Well, she had run away from Blake since their quarrel and she had made her parents solemnly vow not to inform the remorseful lover of her whereabouts. Mrs. Pearce had shot a guilty look at her grim husband when their daughter exacted this promise, and Alice remembered her father's hearty voice when he said promptly:

"Of course, daughter, your mother and I solemnly promise not to tell Blake where you have gone! Go in peace, and come home with Blake entirely gone from your heart!"

"Of course he has gone from my heart now," Alice had said in a very shaky voice, but they had been cheery to the last, and the girl had no suspicion that the day before the promise had been given, Mrs. Pearce had whispered a few words to Blake.

"I am hundreds of miles away from him," thought Alice, a little drearily, and just then the young man on her left made a funny remark and Alice laughed merrily. Suddenly, the merriment in Mrs. Appleton's corner ceased. Just as if the sound of Alice's laughter had stilled it.

Perhaps it had—who knows?

It was long after dinner was over that Alice set down her coffee cup and stepped through one of the open windows into the moon-splashed night. She paused in ecstasy at the head of the steps. Through an open space she saw the lake, glistening like a silver mirror—boats were down there and she heard the distant tinkle of a guitar. Alice felt a sudden distaste for society—she confessed to a longing for solitude—she wanted to think about Blake—just once more before she ousted him from her heart forever. That was why she had come to Beechcamp. She ran down the steps and stepped into one of the dim, moonlit aisles among the pines. Almost instantly the pines seemed to close about her—behind her!

"It is an illusion!" she breathed quickly, her hands flying to her heart, and so she stood in a listening attitude—listening to the soft music of the breeze through the pine trees, thinking of Blake Irving, and wondering what he was doing at that moment.

Suddenly, she awoke from her reverie. A man's familiar footsteps came down the aisle behind her, she heard Blake's voice, softly calling her, and in her terror Alice Pearce fled. Of course her white dress made her conspicuous, but she was fleet of foot. But always in the distance behind her she heard the crash of heavy footsteps, and now, suddenly she heard a crashing in front of her.

She stopped and slipped into the shadow of a dark thicket, and gasped breathlessly. For she was between two fears—and the last was the greatest fear that she had ever known.

In the moonlit space in front of her a great black bear was standing on his hind legs dabbling at her with great claws, and growling fiercely.

Behind her the footsteps paused a moment and then Blake's voice came low and caressing.

"Darling!" he said, and then he was in front of her thrusting her behind him with one strong hand that did not lose its possessive grip. In his other hand something flashed, once, twice, three times. There was a heavy crash, and then silence except for the sighing breeze in the pines.

"Darling, are you quite all right?" It was Blake's voice, tender, vibrating—the voice she loved.

"Yes," she quavered, and somehow, she found her face pressed tight against his breast, and his arms close about her.

And when the remainder of the house party came hurrying down the aisles, Mr. Merrill in the lead with a shotgun over his shoulder, they found Blake and Alice still standing there hand in hand beside the vanquished bear.

"Aha!" exclaimed Merrill. "So you caught the fellow who has been tearing down my fences and invading my kitchen garden—well, Alice, more scared than hurt, eh? Good thing your young man was in the neighborhood!"

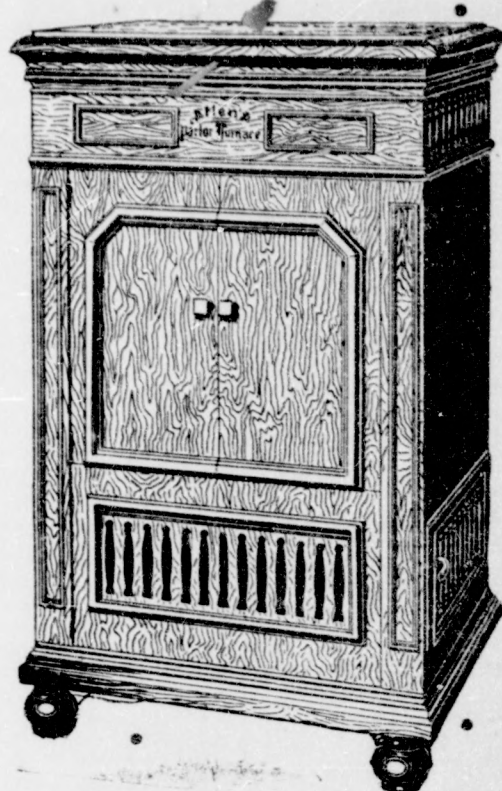

And the happy smile that Alice exchanged with Arline Merrill, revealed the joyous news that she had to tell. But Blake insisted upon telegraphing the news to Mr. and Mrs. Pearce that very night.

O. K. LAUNDRY HAS COMPLETE SERVICE

The modern laundry of today is an expression of complete service for the whole family. Laundering has become the approximation of an exact science. Laundrymen of today are specialists and have learned the secret of improved cleaning in the most sanitary way, and the way that will have the least wear on linens is taught every employe in the modern laundry.

This class of laundry cleans more thoroughly, makes garments look whiter, with less wear and tear than the washerwoman in the own home. Different clothes need different methods.

The laundryman sorts the family bundle and each article goes thru the process of cleansing that will give the owner the best result, both in wear and cleansing. The O. K. Steam Laundry is modern in every department and has kept abreast of the progress made in improved cleansing for every garment. They give every article you send to them a special care, which is part of the routine of their work.

They have the most up-to-date equipment to handle laundry for the whole family and teach every employe to be a specialist in cleansing, neatness and carefulness. The family bundle will receive expert laundering in their hands as well as promptness in delivery.

Now is the time to send your curtains, draperies and rugs to the O. K. Laundry for cleaning. Just telephone No. 130 and your troubles are over. The O. K. will do the rest.

Efficient and Economical Home Heating

The Enterprise Automatic circulating warm air Heater will heat the entire home with a constant circulation of clean, warm air, insuring the same comfortable warmth in every room.

Finished in dark grained Mahogany enamel, it is in harmony with the other furnishings of the most refined taste. The fire door, ash door and all mechanical parts are concealed when the cabinet is closed.

The powerful heating unit makes it most economical in fuel consumption. The wide deep air ways from top to bottom of the cabinet permit free passage of air, which is quickly heated in passing over the heating unit, and out the top to circulate through the entire house.

PROMINENT VISITORS TALK AT C. OF C. MEETING

The Chamber of Commerce held an interesting meeting in the court room at the City Hall Thursday night, October 6, with President E. C. Hardesty presiding. A number of out-of-town visitors were in attendance and all enjoyed the evening's program made up of talks by men who have the welfare of our great Commonwealth at heart, and bubbling over to impart the glad tidings to the world.

R. W. Searce, of the Louisville Board of Trade, was a guest of the Chamber of Commerce, by special invitation of Secretary Motley, and was the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Searce brought a message to Fulton and delivered it in a most becoming manner. The keynote of his talk was uniting the people of Western Kentucky more closely together for general improvement and development with full assurance that the Louisville Board of Trade was ever ready to render any assistance possible and cooperate with us in any undertaking for the betterment of conditions generally.

Newspaper Man Talks

Editor A. E. Stein, of the Clinton Gazette was a visitor at the meeting and no sooner than Mr. Searce closed his address, a number in the assembly called on him for a talk. Mr. Stein mounted the rostrum and assured his hearers that he never let an opportunity pass by to talk on an occasion like this, and for about twenty minutes enlightened those present with facts and figures. It was indeed refreshing to listen to this newspaper man, who has been preaching the old time doctrine of cooperation and organization for many years and not afraid to tell his neighbors they are in a rut, conditions are rotten, and they need to visit live sections of country and see something; get an inspiration for doing things. "If we are going to get out of the rut, we have to get out ourselves," shouted Mr. Stein.

In 1906 Mr. Stein spent nine months in California studying conditions of organization in the golden west. He told about the wonderful groves of oranges and lemons, orchards of aciduous fruit, vegetable gardens, and fields of clover, and when he returned to Paducah, his home at that time, told the people there if they used one half the energy used out there they could raise fruit as good as California. We notice that McCracken county has taken advantage of its opportunities in recent years and capturing prizes wherever its products are displayed.

This year McCracken county captured first prize on apples and received top market prices for strawberries. Mr. Stein said, "Back yonder, conditions were bad, but since they have organized and are pulling together, things have changed."

"Make a start and stay with it until success comes," the speaker stressed on his hearers.

Mr. Stein then told how he had preached development and progress in Hickman county the past five years. He worked for good roads early and late, and while the first bond issue was snowed under in Hickman county, they finally voted a $300,000 bond issue and a completed first-class gravel road extends across the county today. Organization work is the thing. If you go to sleep you don't get anywhere. Man is ignorant when he talks of something he knows nothing about. Take it from me, a county agent is a valuable asset to any community."

Mr. Stein spoke encouragingly of Fulton and Clinton surroundings and ideal home privileges.

He implored us to join hands together and work in the spirit of organization, and said there was nothing to prevent us from developing.

What we need in Fulton, Kentucky, is more men of Mr. Stein's caliber. His talk was inspirational and good results will follow.

WAYNE JONES KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

The remains of Wayne Jones who was instantly killed in an automobile accident Sunday, arrived in Fulton, Tuesday.

He unfortunate young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones, who reside north of the fair grounds. He formerly lived in Fulton, where he had many friends who were shocked to learn of his untimely death. For some time young Jones had lived in Detroit and was enroute home to visit his parents when the car in which he was riding collided with another car in a head on near Greencastle, Ind., Sunday at noon, killing him instantly.

Wednesday morning services were held at the home in charge of Rev. J. V. Freeman. Interment followed at Salem church cemetery, with services by Rev. Evans, of Clinton.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters and one brother.

The Fulton Undertaking Co. had charge of burial arrangements.

DAIRY TALK

GUARD COW FROM ATTACKS OF FLY

Although the effect of flies on dairy cattle is commonly overestimated, dairymen are finding that there are times when the pests are sufficiently numerous to warrant the use of repellents, states E. J. Perry, New Jersey extension dairy specialist.

Where flies and mosquitoes are numerous, spraying with some good fly mixture makes the cows more comfortable and helps somewhat to prevent a drop in milk production. Many good repellents are on the market, but some are better than others, says Mr. Perry.

The experience of dairymen has been that to secure satisfactory results spraying must be done twice daily. They spray after milking in the morning and again one hour before the night milking. All pails and cans are left outside the barn while the spraying is going on and kept out as long as possible. In this way, tainting of the milk is avoided. The milk is strained inside the barn. Commercial mixtures are coming more and more into use, but for those who wish to make their own fly repellents the following are suggested by the dairy specialist:

No. 1.
Powdered resin 4 pounds
Laundry soap 4 pounds
Fish oil 2 quarts
Oil of tar 2 quarts
Kerosene 2 quarts

Boil the powdered resin, laundry soap and fish oil in one gallon of water. After boiling for a few minutes add two gallons of water and the kerosene and oil of tar. Boil this mixture for 15 minutes. Shake well and apply as needed.

No. 2.
Kerosene 2 gallons
Pine tar 1 quart
Crude carbolic acid 8 ounces
Fish oil 2 quarts
Lime seed oil 2 gallons
Mix thoroughly and apply as usual.

Garget Caused by Gern in the Udder of Animal

Garget, an affection of the mammary glands of the cow, and of some other animals, is caused by a germ that gets into the udder through the teat duct. It was formerly thought that there were two forms of this trouble, one being caused by mechanical injury, but investigators are now inclined to believe that every case is caused by bacteria. It is thought that with a heavy-producing cow or one that has just freshened the milk accumulates in the udder and forms a good medium for bacteria to multiply should they get into the udder. They set up an inflammation and the result is called garget. These harmful bacteria are not always present, but when they do gain entrance to the udder there is trouble, if conditions are favorable for their development.

Dairy Cows Will Reduce Living Costs on Farms

Every farmer realizes that the difference between what he gets for food products and what the consumer pays for these products is much larger than it used to be. Economists agree that this large difference must continue as long as freight rates and wages remain as high as they are now. But the farmer is a consumer also, and the best way for him to beat the game is to produce more of his own food on the farm. Milk and cream occupy first rank because they take the place of the most expensive foods the farmer has to buy—meat and fats—and also because they are such healthful foods. There is nothing like milk and cream to make the children grow, keep the whole family healthy and cut down the doctor's bills.

Dairy Facts

Milk utensils should be sterilized. This not only kills bacteria and makes utensils sweet and wholesome, but they also dry quickly, which prevents rusting.

Cows, however well bred or selected, which are unduly thin or out of condition do not make profitable returns from rations. It pays to keep cows in thrifty condition at all seasons of the year.

The amount of salt required daily by the dairy cow varies according to the milk production and feed consumption. Allow the herd to have free access to salt or give them a certain amount regularly with their feed.

The man who can have—and has them—green pastures throughout the winter months does not need a silo for his cows.

Ten milk cows will need about 30 tons of silage next winter. Ten milk cows and their young offspring will need about 50 tons.

The cow which is allowed to shrink in milk flow will never come back to normal. Keep up the flow of milk through the dry-pasture period with green corn and sorghum.

The Dust Evil

Fulton is not the only town suffering from the dust evil.

Here is what the Paducah News-Democrat has to say about the condition in Paducah:

"Paducah is coming to the end of another dusty summer, in which we have again had ample opportunity to marvel that a reasonably prosperous community has not found a way to eliminate the unhealthy dust nuisance.

"Cities of smaller size in Kentucky are permitted by state laws to remedy their dusty streets by the application of oil, the cost of which is divided between the abutting property owners and the general treasury—two-thirds the property owners and one-third the city at large.

Now Mayor Bailey is endeavoring to interest second class cities in an amendment to this law, which would permit them to oil their streets under similar conditions. This movement should certainly find no obstacle to its success in the next legislature.

"No community should tolerate dust, for it breeds disease, destroys merchandise, doubles the work of the house wife, and is an ever-present discomfort through our hot, dry summers.

We have no doubt that any reasonable medium of relief that can be developed will engage the support of all Paducah people, and it is hoped that the movement to put through needed legislation to allow an equitable distribution of street oiling cost in second class cities will not be neglected. Nothing of comparable cost could do more toward making Paducah a more attractive and livable city than to do away with the dust evil that has so long damaged our health and interfered with our comfort.

PROSPERITY FOLLOWS THE DAIRY COW

The dairy products produced in our country in one year are now valued at $2,750,000,000. The farm value of these products is greater than that of cotton and wheat combined. The dairy cattle on American farms are worth more than all other cattle, swine and sheep. The dairy cow, as a cash crop producer, leads the field in agricultural production. She has become a strong supporting factor in advancing other agricultural production because of the immediate cash returns she brings.

Dairy farming, with its assured cash income, uniform prices and quick turnover, has become the great stabilizer of agriculture. The market for dairy products is steady and assured. One-fifth of the average food budget is spent for milk and dairy products, valuable for their food qualities and indispensable for their health-protecting properties.

The trail of the dairy cow now leads through Dixie. From the blue grass regions of Kentucky, the Ozarks of Missouri, and the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, southward to the Gulf, dairy cows are bringing prosperity to their owners.

INCREASED DAIRYING IN THE SOUTH

Increased dairying in the South is foreshadowed by the opening in that region of additional industries to manufacture dairy products, according to the October issue of the Illinois Central Magazine. More than 10,000 persons recently assembled at Durant, Miss., to celebrate the establishment of a cheese factory there by the Kraft Cheese Company, and other plants are being established or contemplated by this company at Dyersburg, Tenn., Louisville, Miss., and Wichita Falls, Texas. Each plant is expected eventually to use 100,000 pounds of milk a day. The South's long season for green feed is another encouragement for the production of milk.

SUBSTANTIAL GAIN IN DEMOCRATIC REGISTRATION

Two highly gratifying developments were noted at Democratic state campaign headquarters last week when the state chairman, Thomas S. Rhea, announced that an average gain of 25 per cent had marked the 1927 Democratic registration in fourth class cities having less than 5,000 population, as compared with the registration for 1926, and when Mrs. Mary B. Helm, chairman of the statewide women's organization, related the progress being made in the women's division. In Harlan county, Mr. Rhea said Democrats in the city of Harlan had scored a registration gain of 70 per cent. At Princeton, Caldwell county, there was a majority gain of 400 per cent.

Commenting on the efforts being put forth by the Democratic women of the state, Mrs. Helm said:

"Reports from cities holding registration last week indicate that the percentage increase of the women qualifying for the ballot this year greatly exceeded that of the men. The registration was another indication of the great interest being taken by Kentucky women in the election this year.

"Since the campaign opened the response from women all over the State has been remarkable both for its earnestness and enthusiasm. During the last ten days we have named chairmen in ninety counties. By the end of this week we expect to have a chairman in every county.

"More women are attending political meetings than ever before. In some places rallies are being held and sponsored by the women alone. Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell and Miss Ella Lewis, nominees on our State ticket, are in great demand to fill speaking appointments. Mrs. J. Campbell Cantrill is making a great 'hit' as a speaker and is devoting much of her time in the interest of the State Ticket. I am proud of the splendid work being done by women in the present campaign."

NOTICE

On Sunday, Oct. 30, 1927, there will be all day services at Chapel Hill Church. Brother Norman, the Presiding Elder, will preach that day. We want all the members and friends of Chapel Hill Church to come and bring dinner so as to stay the entire day. There are many matters regarding the cemetery and its upkeep to be taken up on that day. Those who have loved ones, relatives or friends buried at Chapel Hill are requested to be present on that day, that they may see what has already been done on the cemetery and so those that have not been called on to contribute to this sacred fund may now have the chance to send or bring their contributions, and we will enter their names on our list. We assure you that any contribution will be greatly appreciated. We will on that day read the names and the amount contributed by each one up to that date. We hope that everyone who subscribed to this sacred fund will pay before or on that date so that we will not be embarrassed by reading any one's name unpaid. We will on that date be prepared to give a full account of all the money collected on the cemetery fund, and how applied.

POULTRY FACTS

SAVE BEST MALES FOR NEXT SEASON

When the hatching season is over, remove the male birds from the flock but take good care of them if they are to be used next season.

"Infertile eggs are no better as food than fertile eggs but the infertile eggs keep better in hot weather," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at the North Carolina State college. "When a fertile egg is subjected to high summer heat, it will begin to develop a young chick. If this development goes on long enough and then the egg is placed in lower temperatures, the germ dies and a blood ring is left. This ring of blood settles at the lowest point of the arch of membranes which cover a part of the yolk."

Doctor Kaupp states that just as many eggs will be laid when the males are removed from the flock and so it is a good practice to take away the males from the hens as soon as the breeding season is over. Those birds not wanted for breeding another year may be placed in a lot where they may be fattened for the pot or for market. Those needed next year should be placed in a house with ample run where they may forage for bugs and worms and green feed. To shut on a desirable breeding bird in a small, dry lot with poor housing facilities, is to reduce his health and vigor and make him worthless for the next season.

Then, too, Doctor Kaupp advises selecting out the best of the early hatched young cockerels and keeping them for breeding purposes. Those that are square and blocky and crow early are most desirable. Early development means the transmission of high qualities of egg production and health. Such selected males should get plenty of green feed, mash in which there is animal feed and regular grain feed. Grain alone is not sufficient if best results are wanted.

Maternal Instinct Is Strong in Turkey Hen

The maternal instinct is especially strong in the turkey hen. If she is brooding her eggs near another turkey's nest, she will leave her own nest at the first cheep of poult. A battle royal will ensue between the two turkey hens, which makes the hen with the unhatched poult dissatisfied even when she is confined to the nest. We must reckon with nature. Put out nests for the turkey hens where they will find them; separate them from sight and sound of one another. Plan for her to walk in on the nest rather than to jump down. Put boards under the barrels or boxes provided for turkey nests to keep them off the ground when it rains. When the poult are hatched, if the hen is not cooped make a triangular yard of twelve-inch boards and confine them in that till they can jump over. The hen will not leave them; they can be put on fresh ground every day by moving the pen, and the turkey mother can be trusted to protect her young.

Hens Often Injured by

Toenails of Male Bird

Hens are often injured by the long toenails of the male birds ripping open the back. When this happens, cleanse the wound, apply a healing ointment, and cover with a pad of antiseptic gauze fastened down with adhesive tape. It is economy to have a large spool of the adhesive tape in the medicine closet. It tears as easily as muslin and is about as useful. Of course the feathers about a wound should at once be pulled. If it is necessary to sew a wound, use surgeons' needles and white silk floss. The nails of the offending cock or turkey gobbler should be maintained with a file.

A foot injury for which the gauze pad and adhesive tape are useful is bumble foot—caused by a bruise to the sole of the foot from flying down on a hard surface. For this, if there is pus in the bruise, make two cross-cuts like an X. Press out the pus gently, and apply salve, a pad and the adhesive.

Contaminated Soil

The soil where chicks are ranging is not as easily contaminated if it contains a thick mat of green clover sod when the chicks are first turned out of the brooder houses. A dense grassy growth of that type is not easily killed out by the scratching and feeding of the chicks. It furnishes plenty of green feed and brings some insect life and it does not become caked with fertilizer as quickly as bare ground, or ground covered with a very sparse growth of vegetation.

Place for the Chicks

We do not know of a better place for growing chicks than out in the growing corn fields. Their colony houses can be placed alongside the cornfield and if a good clover or alfalfa patch happens to be alongside the cornfield also, so much the better. Then they would have both sunshine and shade, grass and raw dirt in which to play, hunt bugs, fresh green vegetables, etc. All they would need in addition would be a hopper of good growing mash.

Right where you live!

The Kentucky Utilities Company serves you best where you need it most—right where you live.

Food, clothing and shelter have always been the three most important items of living.

An electric range makes the cooking of food a cleaner, pleasanter, easier task.

The electric vacuum cleaner, the electric washer, the electric iron and the electric sewing machine take the back-breaking drudgery out of house work.

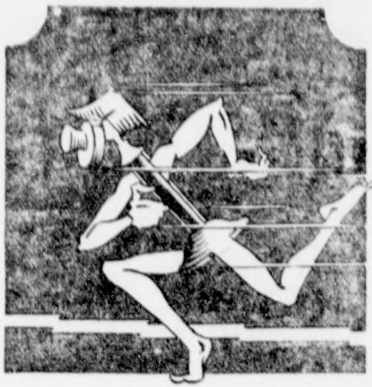

The electric light supplies a great convenience in your home—lends cheerfulness—warns off the night prowler.

Use electricity wherever and whenever you can. It will save your strength—help you to live better and enjoy life more.

Come to our local store and let us demonstrate the labor-saving electrical appliances.

WANTED: A quick, alert messenger boy in residence for 24 hour service, day and night, Sundays and holidays. Run errands, receive messages, call doctor, nurse, firemen, police in emergency. Will pay a few cents a day.

How many answers do you suppose you'd get?

And yet, there's just such a messenger boy waiting to serve you. "He" is a good worker, dependable and accurate and does the job for only a few cents a day. For very reasonable additional sums "he" will deliver your messages anywhere in the United States. All you have to do is to notify our Business Office that you want a telephone and you'll soon have this remarkable messenger.

Did you ever think of the value of good telephone service in that light before?

Route 5 News

Mrs. Jesse Cashon, who has been in ill health for several years, in a fit of despondency, took carbolic acid last Thursday and died about 6 p. m.

Mrs. Cashon was a member of Oak Grove Christian church a devoted wife and mother, a good friend and neighbor. Naturally cheerful and happy.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, two children, and many other relatives and friends. Funeral held by Mr. Albert Winstead and interment at Good Springs Church, Saturday.

Mrs. Otis Palmer had quite a harrowing experience last Tuesday. She and her baby were driving in the buggy when the harness broke. She took the baby out of the buggy and fixed the harness, put the baby back and started to get in when the horse bolted, throwing the baby to the floor of the buggy, and running until finally stopped by Mr. Palmer. Fortunately the baby, though badly bruised and frightened, was not seriously injured.

Mrs. Don Taylor, of Akron, Ohio, is visiting in the community, called home by the death of her little brother.

YOUR SPRING SUIT NEEDS THE WRINKLES TAKEN OUT

You know what a beauty shop can do for faces—how it can remove wrinkles from cheeks and crow's feet from eyes. But did you ever visit a "beauty shop for suits"—a modern dry cleaning and sanitary pressing establishment? Here, again, is a "fountain of youth"—this time for clothes.

For example, take one of your own suits to the O. K. Steam Laundry—one you've worn often. If it's a light suit, the grime is plainly visible at collar and cuffs; perhaps there is a bit of grease on it from your car. If the suit is dark, the dirt may not show—but it's there. One cannot ride in automobiles and taxis, and not gather dirt.

But see what your dry cleaner, the O. K. Laundry, can do for this suit.

First, it is tumbled in warm, drying air; the moisture is removed, the dust shaken out, obstinate spots loosened. An expert "spotter" then goes over the garment by hand—stains and spots vanish before his skill. Next, the suit is soured gently, thoroughly, back and forth, in the purest of cleaning fluids. Soil embedded in the fabric is filtered out; grime and grease are dissolved away. After most of the moisture has been whirled out, the suit is carefully dried in a breeze of fresh, warm, sterile air, then with the warm air sifting thru it, it is fluffed softly. The nap comes to life, the cloth becomes fresh and smart again.

Nor is this dry cleaning "magic" limited to men's suits and overcoats. Hats and gloves, women's coats, suits, dresses and blouses, children's clothes—almost every article of wearing apparel can be given this same renewing, refreshing treatment. And how much longer clothes wear when they receive it. Truly dry cleaning pays its own bills.

Of course, we make a specialty of dry cleaning draperies, rugs, etc. Don't overlook this when you begin your Spring housecleaning—just phone 130 and we will do the rest.

Teaching You Thrift

Practice makes perfect. Schoolmasters of today as well as yesterday constantly repeat that truth. Pupils learn by applying it.

Application of that principle to our everyday habits proves its practical help. We learn by practicing, whether it be a good habit or a bad habit.

This bank teaches you thrift by leading you to practice it. The lesson is easily learned once it is begun. To become perfect in it requires constant practice. A savings account is the most consistent method of practicing thrift.

ELIJAH IN NABOTH'S VINEYARD

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be sure your sin will find you out.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Elijah's Message to a Wicked King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Wages of Sin.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Danger of Wrong.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Opposing Official Corruption.

I. Ahab Covets Naboth's Vineyard (v. 1-16).

1. Location of the vineyard (v. 1). It joined Ahab's summer home in Jezreel. He wanted to transform it into an herb garden and thus round out his property.

2. Ahab's proposal (v. 2). He offered to buy it outright for money, or give in exchange a better one.

3. Naboth's refusal (v. 3). He had a twofold reason: (1) regard for the paternal estate; (2) obedience to God's law (Lev. 25:23-28, cf. Num. 35:7-9). It doubtless would have been profitable to Naboth to have sold his vineyard, but loyalty to God was more important to him than money.

4. Ahab's behavior (v. 4). He came into his house, lay down upon his bed and refused to eat. The king was sulking like a spoiled child.

5. Jezebel's inquiry (vv. 5, 6). Apparently she came with the sympathy of a wife, inquiring as to the cause of his behavior. But when she knew of Naboth's refusal she was angry.

II. Ahab Taking Possession of Naboth's Vineyard (vv. 7-16).

1. Jezebel's treachery (vv. 7-15).

(1) Her contemptuous question (v. 7). She taunted him for his cowardice. The fear of being thought weak moves a weak man quickly. Scorn is a powerful weapon in the hands of unscrupulous persons.

(2) Her exhortation to Ahab (v. 7). "Arise and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry." A wife has great influence over her husband. Many a man has been saved from discouragement and therefore defeat through his wife's influence. Unfortunately in this case the influence of the wife was bad.

(3) Her promise to Ahab (v. 7). "I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth."

(4) Her wicked scheme (vv. 8-15). She wrote letters in Ahab's name, sealed them with his seal, and sent them to the elders and nobles who were dwelling in the city with Ahab, asking them to proclaim a fast, as though some great calamity had befallen the nation, and place Naboth before the public as the one who was the cause of it all. They were instructed to find two false witnesses who would testify against Naboth. The charges they brought were blasphemy against God and the king. Naboth's only offense was his refusal to sell his estate. When they had thus stoned Naboth and his sons to death (2 Kings 9:20), they came and told Jezebel, who in turn came to Ahab with the information and directed him to take possession of the vineyard. It was the custom for the property of those who were condemned to death for blasphemy to revert to the king.

2. Ahab goes to Jezreel to take possession of Naboth's vineyard (v. 16). Ahab had not killed Naboth, but he eagerly accepted the prize without inquiring as to how it was secured. Many today are like Ahab, too cowardly to commit wrong themselves, but are willing to reap the benefits of the wrongdoing of others.

III. Elijah in Naboth's Vineyard. Announcing Doom Upon Ahab (vv. 17-20).

Elijah told him the dogs should lick his blood in the place where they licked the blood of Naboth. It would seem that Naboth's body was thrown out to be devoured by the dogs. Evil was to fall upon Ahab and his posterity, even to wipe out his seed and name. Ahab stood in that vineyard guilty of all the sins which Jezebel had committed, though he had been silent and inactive. God held him responsible for Jezebel's acts, for he was king and head of the nation. The day of reckoning did come to Ahab. (1 Kings 22:28). Ahab's question to Elijah when confronted by him in the vineyard showed that his conscience was not wholly dead.

2. Doom upon Jezebel (vv. 22-29). She likewise should be eaten by the dogs by the wall of Jezreel. This was literally fulfilled (2 Kings 9:33-37). "Be sure your sin will find you out." "Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

IV. Ahab's Repentance (vv. 27-29). Because of this God promised to withhold judgment during his life time.
