A VAST ENTERPRISE

It was the pleasure of the writer during the past few days to get a mental picture of what building and loan organizations are doing over the entire United States. For many years we have known of the magnificent work being done by the local institution but no idea existed, except vaguely, of the scope of the national movement. During the first part of the week we attended a joint meeting of the state organization and the Southeastern Group, which embraces a considerable territory, and heard noted speakers from all parts of the nation.

We have attended many conventions, most of them being newspaper workers, of course, but this convention was a different type completely. Looking at the delegates as they went to and fro about the hotel, studying them in the business sessions, one got a pretty definite conviction that they were high type, alert and visionary men. The speakers were convincing as they discussed various matters affecting the welfare of building and loan associations, and interest of the delegates was keen at all times. It can readily be seen that the men take their work seriously, that they are deeply interested in building and loan work, and that they really understand what is going on.

One address which struck this writer forcibly was made by Hicks Fallin of Peoria, Illinois, who spoke on the subject, "Appraisal Problems of a Recovery and Boom Period." Mr. Fallin, evidently a man who knows appraisal problems thoroughly, gave his audience much to think of. He showed clearly that studies of values over a period of years can really indicate trends of business and also foretell coming conditions. He showed conclusively that careful attention to such details as early as 1925 foretold the depression which started four years later, and had these signs been understood much greater success might have been had in attacking the causes of the crash.

There was also much discussion of the competition that has come into being between federal agencies, insurance companies and building and loan associations. William Walkup, one of the best speakers on the entire program, with a fund of contagious humor, told how he handled such situations. He declared that a full understanding of building and loan practices, a true sense of values and good judgment, could always prove to a prospective borrower that the building and loan association could make a better loan than any of the other agencies. "You may have to prove this to your customers," he said, "but if you know your business and know the business of the other loaning agencies, you can demonstrate that the building and loan can really make a better loan."

All told, it was quite an inspiring meeting. The writer, who has long been an ardent believer in the local association, is more convinced than ever that it is a great institution and is affiliated with a strong, influential national organization. The building and loan idea appears to have a firm grip on the entire nation and it is a splendid thing for the country.

PREVENTION ROUTE

Nation after nation in Europe has fallen victim to the same technique. Norway is the latest to suffer. Even as these words appear in print, Holland or Rumania or some other small country may see their fears justified, and follow in the footsteps of Poland and the others.

Adolph Hitler described the technique years ago in his book, "My Battle." He would conquer nations, he boasted, by establishing and encouraging enemies within their own borders, enemies who would betray their countries at the critical moment for their own real or imagined gain.

Americans can learn an object lesson from the bitter experiences of the little lands of Europe. There are those in this country who consider the activities of the Dies Committee, and all other efforts to root out subversive activities in the United States, a mere political gesture and a waste of time. These people insist on wearing mental earmuffs and blinders in any kind of weather. They are willing to shout, in the face of all evidence to the country, that "it can't happen here!"

Saner citizens, genuinely prizing the liberties we in this country enjoy, are not inclined to string along with this attitude. They believe rather that ounces of prevention are far better than tons and tons of the kind of "cure" now being forced upon many nations of the globe simply because their complacent citizens were satisfied to say, "Oh, why worry? It can't happen here!" —Courier-Journal.

Tigers Donate Game To Hounds In Early Rounds

In the second game of the Union City series, the Tigers were expansive with gifts in the early innings and managed to donate enough runs for the Hounds to win, 9 to 7. In the late innings, however, the Tigers took a mighty notion to take the game back and were knocking hard at the doors of opportunity, driving in four runs in the eighth and ninth, and being retired only with great difficulty in both of the closing innings. But they had waited too long, and Maren, second Hound hurler, had enough to put the brakes on.

Harry Sprute, big left hander, worked greater part of the game for the Tigers and really pitched a good game. Infield errors, both mechanical and intellectual, brought about his downfall, although Sprute aided in the collapse by issuing seven passes.

Walker started for Union City and coasted along easily with a big lead until the eighth. In this inning a pair of triples, combined with a single and a pass, chased three runs in, and Maren relieved Walker. Maren got into trouble in the ninth, when the Tigers again brought a pair of triples together and scored another run. The setting was hopeful, but with a pair of runners on the sacks, Hensler drove a fly ball to the outfield for the third out.

The Tiger infield played rather badly, and Noullet in left field dropped two fly balls. Kosha, at first was the chief offender, as he was frequently mixed up in some loose playing. Filchok in the center turned in the best game for the Tigers, making a couple of brilliant catches, throwing out an ambitious runner at third, and contributing a double and triple to the attack. Moon Mullins also played well, and came through with a double and a triple. Hits were evenly divided, at nine each, but the Tigers hit for more bases.

Jackson opens a three game series here this afternoon, and running through Sunday.

Spring Comes Each Day...to Some

There is a tenderness about Spring—a soft, kindly touch that erases memory of harshness that has gone before. It comes and is gone, and the world waits impatiently for its return... Yet to some men Spring comes each day. It comes to those who know the healing magic of relaxation, who know how to cast off wearisome burdens and find contentment in living. Many discover the key to relaxation in a wholesome glass of Sterling beer. This is not strange, for Sterling is fine beer—itsself gently brewed from Nature's grains—never hurried or disturbed in the long, slow process of production. Today, relax with Sterling!
