Dairy Exposition and Tri-State Fair

At Memphis Center of Attraction This Week--2,500 Kentuckians See the Big Show

Western Kentucky was well represented at the National Dairy Exposition and Tri-State Fair at Memphis this week, when more than 2,500 Kentuckians were in attendance.

Through the courtesy of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, a special rate was inaugurated to give all an opportunity to see the largest and best fair ever witnessed in the "Bluff City," and while streams of Kentuckians traveled the 123 miles each day during the week, the climax was reached on Tuesday when the I. C. Dairy Day Specials in two sections of 36 coaches pulled into the fair city with more than 2,000 visitors. Among those from Fulton and vicinity were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hardy, Miss Margaret Pewitt, Miss Mary Kate Pewitt, Mrs. Mildred Witt, Miss Pearl Matthews, Miss Lola Mai Brown, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Browder, Knox Boyd, Clarence Reed, S. A. Hagler, Mace McDade, Jr., Jim Si Cavender, Esq., S. A. McDade, H. H. Stephens, Jno. R. McGhee, E. H. McClain, Will Seay, Chas. #### Dairy Show Big Attraction

The principal interest to the farmers of this section at the Tri-State fair centered on the National Dairy Exhibit in connection with the fair. This is the first time that the exposition has been held in the south. More than 1,200 head of the best dairy cattle in North America is on exhibition. They have been sent from more than twenty states and Canada. There are Holsteins, Friesians, Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Brown Swiss herds. Since the breeding of fine dairy cattle has become quite an industry in Western Kentucky, the exhibits were of especial interest to the farmers and the daily program of lectures given in connection is an educational feature worth while.

The United States Department of Agriculture has a large exhibit which affords farmers an opportunity to obtain valuable information on the best dairy practices applying in every branch of the industry. The cheese and butter displays represent the best makers in the country and are particularly interesting.

Every farmer returned home thoroughly sold on dairying and the exhibitions witnessed will be of untold value to the Southland, and a great stimulant to our Kentucky farmers to develop the dairy industry with pure bred cattle.

FINE POULTRY EXHIBITS

Annual Event of Tri-State Fair Assumes National Character

The entry of more than 2,000 birds by breeders in every section of the United States has added importance to the very fine poultry exhibit this year, and the show has assumed the character of a national exhibition, although it is still a sectional fair feature.

Some of the best flocks in the country are on exhibition, including the prize fowls of the dozen or more famous breeds of chickens and pigeons. Leading breeds of course, include the Rhode Island Reds, Black Minorcas, the Buff and White Orpingtons and others equally well known to the poultryman.

The show is staged again this year under the direction of Arthur Sealbinder, who is credited with having "nursed" the tri-state poultry show from infancy and to have made it into one of the best exhibitions of fowls in the United States.

HEART AND SOUL IN DOUG'S NEW FILM

Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad," which has been generally accepted as being the most amazing development in the moving picture drama, will be presented at the Orpheum.

In "The Thief of Bagdad," there has been realized the most extraordinary happenings, so amazing that the thought of picturing them had not heretofore been thought possible. In this picture, founded upon the Arabian Nights, Douglas Fairbanks seems pretty nearly to have covered the universe, both of fact and fancy. There will be discovered in it scenes under the sea, on the earth, and in the air—including many imaginary places that exist only in fantastic dreams. It has been said that when Mr. Fairbanks as the Thief of Bagdad, sails the Magic Carpet, you shout; that when he rides the Winged Horse in the cloud, you laugh; that when he kills a dragon, you applaud; that when he wears the Invisible Cloak, you cheer; that when he raises the Magic Army you gasp; that when he wins the Princess, you sigh—as well might be expected under the circumstances.

Dedicated to Thoughtlessness

Memphis Conference Will Open On Nov. 16, At Memphis

Bishop DuBose Will Preside Over Annual Session

Bishop Horace M. DuBose of the Southern Methodist church, will preside over the eighty-eighth annual session of the Memphis conference at Memphis, Nov. 16-21. With the Memphis conference meeting, Bishop DuBose will conclude the annual meetings of the three conferences which compose his episcopal area. The Holston conference met in Knoxville, Sept. 28, the Tennessee, at Franklin, Oct. 13.

Bishop DuBose has spent much of his time during the past year in the bounds of the Memphis conference, where he has been active in campaigning for Lambuth College. During the approaching session, it is probable that Bishop DuBose will give a public sermon or lecture, reminiscent of his 50 years in the ministry.

A popular request for such an address went up from the Holston and the Tennessee conferences and was an interesting feature of those sessions. Bishop DuBose will be honored guest of the Mississippi conference on the night of November 16, at which time he will preach his official semi-centennial sermon, having entered the ministry from that conference 50 years ago.

With the approaching session, Memphis Methodism will entertain the conference for the eleventh time in its history.

Of the eight presiding elders composing the bishop's cabinet, three have attained the time limit of four years and will therefore be assigned to other fields. They are the Revs. Syl Fisher of the Dyersburg district; C. C. Grimes of the Memphis district, and J. Mack Jenkins of the Paducah district. The remaining presiding elders are: F. B. Jones, Brownsville; J. W. Blackard, Jackson; Yates Moore, Lexington; W. P. Prichard, Paris, and R. L. Norman, Union City.

There are approximately 200 clerical members of the Memphis conference and about 100 lay delegates, representing a constituency of approximately 100,000 church members.

The reading of the appointments, will be a feature of the closing session, which will probably be Monday, Nov. 21.

Ministers who have served one appointment four years or longer are as follows: Algine C. Moore, Arlington; A. W. Lassiter, Brownsville circuit; E. G. Hamlett, Brownsville station; L. R. Wadsworth, Milan circuit; W. D. Pickens, Trenton station; Ray Pafford, Munford; G. T. Sellars, LaGrange; J. C. Cason, Whiteville (five years); P. A. Fowler, Williston circuit (five years); R. E. Brown, Selmer circuit (five years); J. G. Williams, Shelsea Avenue, Memphis; O. G. Andrews, Wesley Institute, Memphis; L. O. Hartman, Whitehaven; R. A. Wood, Fountain Avenue, Paducah, Ky.; E. M. Mathis, Paris; J. V. Freeman, Fulton, and W. C. Waters, Martin.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES IN THE NEW TOWN OF COLUMBUS PROGRESSING

Contractor Will Gayle, of Fulton, who is in charge of building activities in the new town of Columbus, was a caller at The Advertiser office Saturday and reports many dwellings completed and half dozen more in course of construction. Mr. Gayle says the work of the Red Cross is wonderful, and a number of houses already completed have been turned over to those who lost their all when the Mississippi River swept their homes away during the flood. The new homes have been given to the unfortunate absolutely free.

AUTOISTS ENJOY DRIVES OVER NEW HIGHWAYS

Sunday was an ideal October day, and motorists took advantage of the occasion to try out the newly completed highways out of Fulton. Some were driving for pleasure, while others were speeding at the rate of 45 to 60 miles an hour. The Mississippi Valley highway between Clinton and Fulton is a beautiful stretch of road and was lined with cars Sunday. So was the Fulton-Hickman road.

ELECTRIC SIGN ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Notwithstanding the fact that Bennett's Drug Store is the oldest drug firm in the city, Mr. Joe Bennett believes in keeping up with modern improvements and conveniences. A beautiful electric sign today adorns the front of his building, a much admired improvement.

GLORIA SWANSON A CONSIDERATE BOSS

"The greatest and most considerate actress in films today."

This is how Ian Keith refers to Gloria Swanson, star of "The Love of Sunya," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, October 24 and 25. Keith, who plays the role of one of Gloria's lovers in the picture, attributes much of his own success on the screen to the famous actress.

Several years ago, Miss Swanson noticed Keith's fine acting on the stage and persuaded him to play a leading role opposite her. Since then he has been in several other Swanson pictures but "The Love of Sunya" marks their first appearance together in more than a year.

"Gloria takes an interest in each member of her cast," Keith said, "and just as she has sought to improve her own talents, she seeks to do the same for others. Every time I come to play in one of her pictures, I notice the great improvement she has made in her art."

Miss Swanson naturally is an expert on make-up and often when she notices defects in make-up of new players in her pictures, she personally points out how they can be remedied.

Gloria has an apartment at the studio where she works and members of the cast are often her guests at luncheon and dinner there as well as frequent visitors to her city home.

NEW WHITE WAY WILL BE LIGHTED OCTOBER 29

E. C. Hardesty, manager of the Kentucky Utilities company informs us that lights on the new white way will be turned on Saturday evening, October 29. For some weeks the electric light company has had a crew of men at work installing the new system and modernizing same throughout. The posts are ornamented with handsome globes of the latest type and will be brilliantly lighted with 100 watt lamps.

The old white-way, when it was first installed years ago, with its five globes, attracted attention and was admired, but never did give the light and service the new white way will give. The city is to be congratulated on the new system. It certainly has a dignified appearance and will render real service.

NOTICE, SWEET POTATO GROWERS

The Fulton Sweet Potato Storage Company on Carr street will either buy or store for you at 10 cents in bins or hampers.

High School Notes

All grade pupils who are doing standard work will be admitted to the football game free Friday. The Fulton high school team will meet the Hickman team on that date and a fine game is expected.

On Monday of this week the high school student body enjoyed a very interesting Chapel program conducted by Brother Walker, who is now conducting a revival at the Christian church. Brother Walker gave a very fine talk on "Gunnery," and the students were charmed by the power and beauty of his illustrations. Brother Martin, the singer, rendered two solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Sarah Butt.

A letter from Miss White, former science teacher in Fulton, reports that she is enjoying her work at Hopkinsville, and that school is progressing nicely there this year.

The football game last Friday was an interesting one even regardless of the fact that the locals were defeated. Sturgis is one of the best teams in the conference and is looked on as the probable winner of the trophy cup this year. The fact that the Fulton lads put up the game that they did in the face of such tremendous odds is very much to their credit.

The music courses are progressing nicely under the direction of Mrs. Charles Brann, our supervisor of music.

Grade cards in the Senior high school will be issued this week. These cards should be signed by the parents and returned the day following.

The "Uke" club now has a large membership and promises some excellent programs soon.

Miss Lorraine Hart from Mountain View, Ark., enrolled as a member of the Senior class Monday. We are glad to welcome Miss Hart to our school.

Mr. Cheyney, who will be remembered as one of the high school teachers of last year, is now teaching in New Mexico.

We have begun to hear talk of basket ball about the corridors. Here is hoping that Fulton High has two splendid teams this year.

ORATORY TO FLOW IN FULTON COUNTY

Admirers of J. C. W. Beckham, candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket, will hail with delight his coming to Fulton county next week where he is scheduled to speak at Hickman, Thursday morning, October 27, and at Cayce at night on the same date. A large Fulton delegation will attend the speaking at both places.

Knicheloe in Fulton Friday

On Friday night, October 21, Congressman David Knicheloe will speak in Fulton in the interest of the Democratic ticket.

Morrow in Fulton Saturday

On Saturday night, October 22, former Governor Ed Morrow will speak in Fulton in the interest of the Republican ticket.

A RECORD SALE

L. Kasnow's Grand Opening Sale continues to attract the crowds. Many were made happy during the week with the genuine bargains they found at this popular store. The entire store is dazzling with new merchandise—ready-to-wear, clothing, shoes, dry goods, furnishings, millinery, with price tags on each article that tell the true story and the great money-saving values to be obtained by economical buyers who are in need of winter wearables characterized with style. Mr. Kasnow was never so well prepared to take care of your every need than now and he will appreciate a visit from you to his store where a feast of bargains await you.

Dairy Special Train Leaves Fulton Oct. 18

West Kentucky visitors to the National Dairy Exposition and Tri-State Fair will travel to Memphis on "Kentucky Day," Tuesday, Oct. 18, on the lowest railroad fares ever granted for an agricultural event in the South, according to Frank D. Fuller, secretary-manager of the Fair.

Three special trains will be operated from West Kentucky and one from Louisville on "Kentucky Day." Tickets will be sold for the West Kentucky special trains at approximately three-fourths of one fare for the round trip. Passengers will alight from the trains at the entrance of the Fair Grounds. Returning, trains also will leave from the Fair.

The Illinois Central will operate two special trains, one starting from Paducah and one from Wickliffe. The N. C. & St. L. railroad also will start a train from Paducah. Tickets on regular trains west of Paducah will be sold on "Kentucky Day," at a special rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets on regular trains will go on sale from Oct. 14, good returning to Oct. 22, at a special rate of one and one-half fare for the round trip.

As an example of the extreme cut in fares, the "Kentucky Day" excursion rate from Paducah to Memphis is $4.55 for the round trip, whereas the regular round trip rate is $12.12.

The L. C. Paducah special will leave there at 5:30 a. m. It will leave Mayfield at 6:15 a. m. and Fulton at 7:00 a. m. No stops will be made between Fulton and the Fair Grounds, where the train is due to arrive at 10:00 a. m. Returning, the Paducah train leaves at 9:45 p. m.

The Wickliffe train leaves at 6 a. m., reaches Fulton at 7:00 a. m., then runs without scheduled stop to the Fair Grounds, arriving at 10:00 a. m. Returning, this train leaves the Fair Grounds at 9:45 p. m.

The N. C. & St. L. "Kentucky Day" special will leave Paducah at 5:00 a. m.; Benton at 5:35 a. m.; Murray at 6:12 a. m.; Paris, Tenn., at 7:00 a. m.; and Jackson, Tenn., at 9:15 a. m. The run from Jackson to Memphis is scheduled without stop. The train will arrive at the Fair Grounds at 11 a. m., and returning, will leave at 11:55 p. m.

Altogether there will be nearly 40 special trains into Memphis during the exposition, which opens Saturday, October 15 and closes Saturday, October 22. Besides the four trains from Kentucky, there will be seven special trains from Tennessee, 14 from Mississippi, five from Arkansas, four from Missouri, one from Dallas, Tex., two from Illinois, one from Cleveland, Ohio, and prospects are good for several others.

An attendance of between 300,000 and 350,000 people is expected, the largest in the history of the National Dairy Association.

REVIVAL MEETING NOW IN PROGRESS AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A great revival meeting is in progress at the First Christian church with Evangelist W. Graham Walker, of Lexington, doing the preaching and Chas. E. Martin, of Lexington, directing the choir.

Evangelist Walker is a powerful preacher and his sermons are already having a telling effect on the large crowds attending the services. The meeting started Monday and is growing in interest daily.

Mr. Martin, who has a sweet tenor voice, has a well organized choir and the song service is a pleasing feature of the meeting.

All are invited to attend the services daily.

High School Notes

Fulton high school will play Sturgis on the home gridiron Friday, October 14. A large crowd is expected to witness this game which is the first conference game of the season. The Sturgis eleven is reported to be a strong one and a hard fought battle is expected.

Last week's game with McKenzie resulted in a tie. Fulton had the advantage in yardage and in snappy driving football, but somehow could not manage to score the additional touchdown necessary for victory. The McKenzie team played good ball throughout the game.

The opening lecture given Wednesday night by Dr. Jones, the celebrated scientist, at the high school auditorium, was a marked success. The ladies of the P. T. A. are to be congratulated in procuring this excellent lyceum course from the Redpath Bureau. High class entertainment is a part of education and we are glad that the Fulton public can obtain such cultural treats at home.

Monday morning at the Chapel hour, the piano club favored us with a selection from the opera, Lucia. The number was played by Daltie Cleveland, and Sarah Butt. Catherine Hall gave an excellent number.

On Wednesday the student council presented a playlet called "The Kentucky Moonlight Schools." The rendition was enjoyed very much.

The members of the Junior Music Club entertained the Junior high school with a series of interesting programs last week, consisting of ukulele numbers, piano solos, readings and vocal solos.

It was with much regret that the student body learned of the accidental death of Wayne Jones, one of the former students of our high school.

THE ROSE AND THE ASTER

A rose once grew unknown to sin,
From the soul that stayed within.

The fragile body so filled with grace,
To the loveliness that shone in her face.

The rose grew, withered one day in June,
Its fragrance wafted all too soon.

But the soul went on to the great assembly,
To bloom again in the garden of mem'ry.

Another flower followed soon,
Followed the flower that went in June.

The others long did sob,
Comforted only by the thought That our Jule and Bob

Were up there smiling through Sending comfort down to you.

By Margaret Hutcheson, Grade 8B.

CANARY BIRDS FOR SALE

For Sale—A nice lot of canary birds, $3.50 to $4; real singers. Apply to Mrs. Jim Veatch, Route 4, Fulton, Ky.

10:50 a. m.—Sermon.

6:30 p. m.—All B. Y. P. U's.

7:45 p. m.—Sermon.

Tuesday, 7:00 p. m.—Junior Choir rehearsal, directed by Miss Cantrell.

Wednesday, 7:00 p. m.—Teachers' meeting, all departments.

7:45 p. m.—Prayer meeting.

Thursday, 7:30 p. m.—Choir rehearsal.

The pastor left Monday morning for Lone Oak, Ky., where he will be engaged in an evangelistic campaign for ten days or longer. Rev. Holt, the pastor at Lone Oak, will fill our pulpit Sunday, and the public is cordially invited to hear him. While he is a stranger in our midst, he comes to us as a very fluent speaker and zealous in the cause of Christ.

We showed a decided increase in our Sunday School attendance, and grades in practically every department, last Sunday. Will you cooperate with us and make this possible? The department, and class, to which you may belong will give you a hearty welcome.

FOURTH STREET REFLECTS PROSPERITY

Activities picked up on Fourth street this week and within a short time this busy thoroughfare will resemble a real city street.

The Carey-Reed Company, with a large crew of workmen, is getting the street lined up for surfacing.

W. M. Hill & Sons have crews of men working day and night on Fourth street bridge to span Harris Fork creek.

The Southern Telephone Company had a crew of men removing telephone poles from the street to the edge of the sidewalk, which will be replaced later by 40-foot poles, about three to the block.

L. H. Howard, superintendent of the building of these new Snow-White garage, has a large force at work. The 16,000 ft. of concrete work is about completed and the brick work is under way.

Taking it all in all, Fourth street reflects prosperity from every angle, with about 75 men working in varied crews.

NOTICE

On Sunday, Oct. 30, 1927, there will be all day services at Chapel Hill Church. Brother Norman, the Presiding Elder, will preach that day. We want all the members and friends of Chapel Church to come and bring dinner so as to stay the entire day. There are many matters regarding the cemetery and its upkeep to be taken up on that day. Those who have loved ones, relatives or friends buried at Chapel Hill are requested to be present on that day, that they may see what has already been done on the cemetery and so those that have not been called on to contribute to this sacred fund may now have the chance to send or bring their contributions, and we will enter their names on our list. We assure you that any contribution will be greatly appreciated. We will on that day read the names and the amount contributed by each one up to that date. We hope that everyone who subscribed to this sacred fund will pay before or on that date so that we will not be embarrassed by reading any one's name unpaid. We will on that date be prepared to give a full account of all the money collected on the cemetery fund, and how applied.

Lesson for October 23

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 19:19, 20;
Amos 7:10-15. Isa. 6:1-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send,
and who will go for us? Then I said,
Here am I, send me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Chooses His Messengers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Call to Service.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
Spirit of the Volunteer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Need for Modern Prophets.

A prophet is one who speaks forth the message of another. A prophet may foretell events, but his primary business is to speak forth God's message.

I. The Call of Elisha (1 Kings

19:19, 20).
1. His occupation. He seems to have been a well-to-do farmer, as there were twelve yoke of oxen in service when God called him. It was while engaged in his common duty that he received the divine call.

2. How he was called. Elisha cast his mantle upon him as he passed by.

II. The Call of Amos (Amos 7:10-15).

1. His occupation (v. 14). He was a herdsman and gatherer of sycamore fruit.

2. He was a prophet, not by succession nor trained in the prophetic schools.

3. God called him from his humble life to stand before the king. God is not straitened for helpers. He raises up workers from unexpected quarters, fills them with His Spirit and sends them forth.

III. The Call of Isaiah (Isa. 6:1-8).
1. Isaiah's vision of the Lord (vv.
1-4). No one's ministry will ever be fruitful until he has had a vision of the Lord.

(1) He saw the Lord on His throne
(v. 1). The supreme need of a servant of God is to have a vision of Him, even to see Him on His throne. Just now, perhaps as never before, we need a vision of the enthroned Lord, as the awful darkness is settling down upon the world.

(2) He saw the Seraphim above
(vv. 2, 3). Their standing indicated that they were in readiness to do His bidding. Their equipment with six wings showed their ability to execute the divine will. In the divine presence, one pair was needed to veil the head from the divine glory, one pair veiled the feet which had been soiled in contact with the world, while the third pair was suspended in midair waiting to depart on the divine errand. As they waited in His presence their continued cry was "Holy, holy, holy."

(3) He saw manifestations of majesty (v. 4). As the holy ones cried the very doormats moved and the temple was filled with smoke.
Smoke indicates the divine presence in anger (Ex. 19:9; 20:18).

2. Isaiah's conviction of sin (v. 6).
When he got a vision of the holy God
he was smitten with a sense of sin.
The reason that men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile. He realized that he had sinned in speech, and if in speech, then in heart, therefore the cry of despair.

3. Isaiah cleansed from sin (v. 6).
7). Having been convicted of and confessed his sin, a burning coal was sent from the altar which purged away his sin. His penitential guilt was forgiven and removed.

4. Isaiah's call (v. 8). His call from God did not come until after his cleansing. The purged soul is the soul ready for the Lord's service.

5. Isaiah's dedication (v. 8). As soon as he was cleansed he quickly responded for service. The one who has been sanctified and made meet for the Master's service readily responds to the call of God. He did not wait to see the end from the beginning, but freely gave himself up to that service.

6. Isaiah's commission (vv. 9-13).
Because of the unpromising outlook,
Isaiah shrank from his responsibility.
He saw the people steeped in selfishness, but in spite of that the Lord assured him that their blindness and sin would not continue forever. The people would go on in sin, he taken into captivity, and the land left desolate;
but as the oak, after shedding its leaves is for a time apparently lifeless, yet it retains its substance and so can manifest its life, the prophet is given to see under this figure that despite the deadness of the nation a remnant shall be saved.
The holy seed of the kingdom shall come to fruition in the last days.

YOUR SPRING SUIT NEEDS
THE WRINKLES TAKEN OUT

You know what a beauty shop can do for faces—how it can remove wrinkles from cheeks and crow's feet from eyes. But did you ever visit a "beauty shop for suits"—a modern dry cleaning and sanitary pressing establishment?
Here, again, is a "fountain of youth"—this time for clothes.

For example, take one of your own suits to the O. K.
Steam Laundry—one you've worn often. If it's a light suit, the grime is plainly visible at collar and cuffs; perhaps there is a bit of grease on it from your car. If the suit is dark, the dirt may not show—but it's there. One cannot ride in automobiles and taxis, and not gar-ther dirt.

But see what your dry cleaner, the O. K. Laundry, can do for this suit.

First, it is tumbled in warm, drying air; the moisture is removed, the dust shaken out, obstinate spots loosened. An expert "spotter" then goes over the garment by hand—stains and spots vanish before his skill. Next, the suit is soured gently, thoroughly, back and forth, in the purest of cleaning fluids. Soil embedded in the fabric is filtered out; grime and grease are dissolved away.
After most of the moisture has been whirled out, the suit is carefully dried in a breeze of fresh, warm, sterile air, then with the warm air sifting thru it, it is fluffed softly. The nap comes to life, the cloth becomes fresh and smart again.

Nor is this dry cleaning
"magic" limited to men's suits and overcoats. Hats and gloves, women's coats, suits, dresses and blouses, children's clothes
—almost every article of wearing apparel can be given this same renewing, refreshing treatment. And how much longer clothes wear when they receive it. Truly dry cleaning pays its own bills.

Of course, we make a speciality of dry cleaning draperies, rugs, etc. Don't overlook this when you begin your Spring housecleaning—just phone 130
and we will do the rest.

A FARM WAGON THAT IS GUARANTEED

The amount of satisfactory service that a wagon will give depends entirely upon the material and skill the manufacturer puts into it. We want to show you a wagon that is built of the best materials by men who know how—

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON The Wagon That is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skin of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skin is set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skins there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling. Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the John Deere Wagon, and every piece of wood is air-seasoned under cover in our own yards for at least two years. The tires are set hot under hydro-lic pressure and under a gauge that assures proper dish—the load is always carried on plumb spokes.

And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy malleable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kingbolt—bolster does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool
box. Let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

WORLD'S LARGEST CIRCUS GIVING A STREET PARADE

Leader of the Three Elephant Herds Coming with Robbins Brothers

Big Bingo is coming to town. Bingo is the giant of jungle-land. He is the captain of all the elephants in the world. He can trumpet louder, eat more hay, drink more water and keep more peanut roasters busy than any pachyderm that has yet traveled America.

There are 3 herds of elephants with the Robbins Bros. circus this season and some of them are not to be sneezed at in point of height and bulk. But Big Bingo makes the biggest of his fellows take a back seat. Any two of them can hide behind his mammoth form. Bingo was born in India and is thought to be about 154 years old. His trunk is covered with wrinkles, but his eyes are as bright as those of Sammy or Mary, the two smallest babies in the circus herd. Bingo's sole duty is to "show off" in the menagerie tent. He is not required to go in parade and he performs no tricks in the rings.

The latter is done by three bands of his trained companions, who are this year doing a host of stunts never before attempted by pachyderm actors. Bingo is but one of a thousand strange sights that will be seen in the gigantic menagerie tent when Robbins Bros. exhibit in Fulton, Monday, October 31.

The ring performances of the trained pachyderms will be but one of a thousand novelties presented in the mammoth main tent. Before the elephants appear, the gorgeous fairyland spectacle, "Santa Claus," with its wonderful settings, a cast of 300 actors and ballet of 100 fairy fays, will open the program in the circus "big top."

After the elephants have performed, will come the scores upon scores of features that are this season contributing to the greatest ring, aerial and hippodrome ensemble that the famous brother showmen have ever mobilized.

Route 5 News

An all day singing at Chestnut Glade the Fifth Sunday in October. Quite a number of singers have promised to come and we wish to invite the leaders, singers and those who enjoy good singing to come and enjoy the day with us. Those of the surrounding community are invited to come and bring a basket of lunch.

The ladies of Ridgeway community met at the home of Mrs. Calvin Orr Tuesday afternoon to discuss a nursing class for the community next spring. Club work was then discussed and an organization was proposed. The following ladies became members: Mrs. Calvin Orr, Mrs. J. J. Coffman, Mrs. P. P. Ridgeway, Mrs. Walter Parmiter, Mrs. Cleve Haldaday, Mrs. Tilman Oliver, Mrs. Ocie Yates, Mrs. Roy Watts, Mrs. Wayne Frost, Mrs. J. J. Clement, Mrs. Eugene Young, Mrs. Lon Watts, Mrs. Elwyn Coffman, Mrs. Ruth Finch. The following officers were then elected: Mrs. Ruth Finch, president; Mrs. Elwyn Coffman, secretary. The club will meet once a month. The next meeting with Mrs. J. J. Clement, November 10. A name will then be adopted and the line of work for the winter discussed. All those interested in the upbuilding of the community and the getting together for the common good, are cordially invited to attend each meeting.

Mamie Milam came home last week with a bad case of rheumatism. She is much improved and returned to school Sunday.

Mrs. Sid Moore is able to be up again. Jesse is under the care of Dr. Little of Martin. Very little improvement yet.

The friends and relatives of Uncle Berry Neighbors gathered Sunday at the home of Mr. Tom Golden with well filled lunch baskets in honor of Uncle Berry's birthday. Seventy-six were present. Needless to say every one enjoyed the day to the utmost.

Elder John B. Hardmon preached Sunday afternoon at Oak Grove from the text, Blessed is the man that endures temptation for when he is tried he will receive a crown of life. This was handled in a masterly way, full of encouragement and comfort to the needy ones trying to follow the teachings of Christ. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hardiman. We hope to have them with us next third Sunday at two-thirty in the afternoon.

DON'T ENDANGER THE LIVES OF CHILDREN

The mothers of Kentucky will never willingly consent to the adoption of any measure that may endanger the lives and health of their children, is the message that Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell is broadcasting to Kentucky women in addresses she is making opposing the proposal of free text-books for the State's schools.

"The plan," said Mrs. Cromwell, "would place an additional burden of $4,000,000 on our taxpayers. But the mothers of Kentucky are not thinking so much about this cost as they are of the danger to the health and lives of their little ones that would necessarily follow the promiscuous distribution of used text books to the children."

"From year to year as these books are placed in different homes, there is no way of knowing whether these books come from homes where children have been ill with diphtheria, scarlet fever or infantile paralysis. It is a scientific fact that there is no chemical that can be employed to disinfect the books strong enough to kill any germs clinging to the pages that would not destroy the printed matter on those pages. Thus the danger is very real. Our children, through the operation of the free text-book plan, would be left to the mercy of the germs of disease. Hence, I say that I do not believe that the mothers of Kentucky would ever willingly consent to the adoption of any measure that is likely to endanger the lives and health of their little ones."

POULTRY

CULLING CHICKENS AIDS BUILD FLOCK

It seldom pays to raise a weak or crippled chick. One of the secrets of successful poultry culture lies in discarding weaklings as soon as found. Often the owners of chicks are too "chicken-hearted" to kill weak chicks but they should consider that such action is really more humane than nursing sick or crippled ones along, letting them die later after they have consumed a lot of feed and a lot of labor has been spent on them.

Generally speaking, weak chicks are the result of some specific trouble. Often it is a disease such as white diarrhea or coccidiosis. Both these diseases spread through droppings and leaving weak chicks in the flock invite further spread of disease. If the trouble is caused by some fault in management or feeding, it is usually best to cull out the weak birds and try and correct the fault.

Culling chicks helps to rid a flock of weak vitality. On several occasions we have had letters from our readers telling about white diarrhea in their chicks this year, and later in the letter they mention that they had a little trouble last year. They have saved birds that recovered from the disease, and they have spread the disease to chicks this year through the egg. These diseased chicks have, in turn, spread the disease to their mates with heavy loss.

Good feeding and management must be combined with culling. Even the best chicks cannot make a satisfactory growth if they do not have the proper feed. Culling helps owners who practice proper feeding and management.

Duck Eggs Incubated in Much Same Way as Hens

Duck eggs are incubated in much the same way as are hen eggs. The temperature of the machine should be kept at 101 to 102 for the first five days, after which it should be kept as near 103 as possible. After the first five days the eggs must be turned and watered daily. A great deal of water is used, many people sprinkling so much on that it runs out of the bottom of the incubator. The period of incubation is 28 days.

A good feed mixture is the following: 200 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds low-grade flour, 100 pounds bran, to which is added 10 per cent of beef scraps. If milk is available the beef scraps may be reduced. Plenty of sand and green feed should be provided at all times.

Of Much Importance to Keep Chick Rations Dry

Each year finds an increasing number using a factory-mixed or home-mixed mash in the starting and growing of their chicks. The use of a feeder or mash hopper is a part of this method of feeding. If the feeder is placed outside the house it is very important to see that the top and sides of the feeder are tight. Keeping the mash or starter dry is very important. There is nothing worse for young chicks than sour, wet mash. It is frequently a cause of digestive trouble that stunts the growth of a large number of chicks, even if no death loss results.

Chick Precautions

- Do not crowd at any time.
- Avoid moldy litter or feed of any kind.
- Kill all weak, crippled or deformed chicks.
- Get chicks out on the ground as soon as possible.
- Feed sparingly, but often, during the first two weeks.
- Be sure chicks are not chilled while being transferred to brooder.
- Be sure the house and all equipment is thoroughly clean and kept clean.
- Do not remove chicks from incubators until they are at least thirty-six hours old.
- Remember that crowding means losses with the youngsters. See to it that they have ample room at all times in their brooders or hovers.
- Do not feed chicks before they are forty-eight hours old. They will eat and may appear hungry, but they are better off with no other feed than that provided by nature for at least 48 hours after hatching.
- Be sure your brooder stove is regulated before chicks are placed under hover.
- New ground is far safer for chick than ground where poultry has been previously grown.
- Purity of green feed and milk are essential for the natural and normal development of the baby chick.
- Don't allow the chicks to become chilled. Keep them growing by feeding wholesome ration.

125,000 HAVE ORDERED
FORD 'SIGHT UNSEEN'

Detroit, Oct. 19.—One person in each thousand of population in the United States has placed an order "sight unseen" with a "down payment" in advance for one of Henry Ford's new automobiles.

This fact was revealed recently when the sales department of the Ford Motor company announced that 125,000 "advance orders with deposits," for the new Ford car, not yet in production, had been placed with authorized Ford dealers in the United States.

Approximately a quarter of a million additional persons have placed their orders, but have not made cash payments in advance. These latter, dealers have informed Ford sales executives here, are not being listed as actual "advance sales," but they do serve to indicate a ready market for the first few hundred thousand Ford cars of the new type.

Plants Reported Busy

Preparations for production on a full capacity basis are proceeding rapidly, Ford officials say. The manufacturing plants have been at work for several weeks turning out major parts of the new car and a few days more will see the famous Ford assembly line in operation to produce the first of the new type cars.

The manufacture of the new engine blocks, axles, wheels, pistons, crankshafts and other major parts is now under way, and the first assembly of new bodies was begun some days ago.

The capacity of the Ford plants for both manufacture and assembly have been greatly increased since production of the Model T was suspended early in the summer to make way for the new car. The assembly line, formerly at the Highland Park plant, has been removed to the Fordson plant, on the River Rouge, where its capacity has just about been doubled. The Highland Park plant, in turn, has been converted to the manufacture of certain body and other parts exclusively.

Ford's Biggest Day

The greatest single day's production in the history of the Ford Motor company was achieved about two years ago when a little over 8,000 Model T cars rolled off the Ford assembly lines during a period of 24 hours. At that time, however, the manufacturing equipment was not as extensive as it is today and Ford engineers are confident that record will be surpassed very early in the production history of the new Ford car.

The Ford plants here have continued throughout the summer to manufacture and ship all over the world huge quantities of replacement parts for the nearly 10,000,000 Model T cars still in use by owners. Ford officials estimate that for several years to come nearly a third of the plant operations here will be devoted to the manufacture of Model T parts to keep these cars in running order.

75,000 Men on Payroll

At present between 65,000 and 75,000 men are employed in the Ford plants and these men, Ford says, are earning more money than the 90,000 who were employed at the peak of Model T production. Production executives of the Ford organization expect that more men will be required in the new production operation than were employed in the old operation, but the amount of manual labor per car will be considerably less in the production schedule for the new car.

Estimates of the cost of plant expansions and other changes in preparation for production of the new Ford car range from seventy-five to a hundred million dollars. Ford officials admit that more than fifteen millions have been spent for new machinery alone. Thousands of the highest paid and most skillful tool makers in the country have been at work for more than four months equipping the plants with the tools necessary for the manufacture of the new car.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE

WED IN ILLINOIS

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. D. Jolley

of the Bowers community announce the wedding of their daughter, Miss Maudie, to Mr. Royce Speight. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. D. C. Mitchell, in Alton, Ill., where Mr. Speight holds a responsible position and where the newlyweds will make their home for the present.

The bride is an attractive and accomplished young lady, and has a host of friends to wish her and the man of her choice a long and happy life of wedded bliss.

The groom is a young man of sterling qualities, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Speight, of the Bowers community.

WORKING IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

That Fulton is working in the right direction to make this one of the profitable dairy counties of Kentucky was demonstrated last week when prominent business men left their places of business and visited the rural districts surrounding the city in an effort to make a complete survey of the number of dairy cows in this territory and to interest the farmers in one of the fastest developing enterprises in the south.

Bright and early Friday morning twenty cars left the city in various directions with their occupants enthused over the work mapped out, and from all indications it was the best day's work accomplished in a long time by members of the Chamber of Commerce and those especially interested in the best welfare of our farming interests.

Diversification has been preached to the farmers for many moons, principally thru newspapers. The Fulton Chamber of Commerce is sending out missionaries who not only preach diversification, but offer their heartiest support in lending their assistance to those who need financial aid in making his fondest hopes and ambitions come true.

The survey showed a large number of cows in this territory, but only a limited number of real money-producing dairy cows.

The survey also showed that a great many of our farmers want better cows and within the next few months many purebred Jerseys and Holsteins will be brought into the Fulton territory.

The following well known business men volunteered their services to take the survey: Leslie Weeks, Frank Beadles, H. Khourie, Paul Ethridge, Fred Cure, T. M. Franklin, Arch Huddleston, Gus Bard, R. H. Wade, W. J. Willingham, E. C. Hardesty, Enoch Browder, Dudley Smith, Guy Fields, S. S. Motley, B. D. Maupin, M. I. Boulton, Joe Bennett, Lee Rucker, George Roberts, John Tom Bard, J. C. Wiggins.

Power in the People

Unnecessarily high taxes, perhaps more than any other one thing, have a deterring effect on development and growth of any community.

After all is said and done, the people themselves, or through their chosen representatives in legislative bodies, city, state and nation, fix the rate at which taxes must be levied and collected. There is an old saying that "you can't eat your cake and have it, too". It isn't possible to have everything under the sun in the way of public improvements, without paying for it with taxes.

Taxation increases are inevitable while people clamor for new and expensive services from government. The monumental buildings, new laws, long legislative sessions, the inspection systems, the school frills' the enforcement of new regulatory and prohibitory laws, all come at a price.

In theory, people do not object to paying for these things. But that is only true so long as the projects are in the realm of argument. When the tax bill comes for the new services, it comes with a sickening jolt. It eats into savings. It makes good ventures look like doubtful ventures. It flattens the family pocketbook.

Easing the Pain

The United States government has announced that 1913 price figures will no longer be used as a standard of comparison with present living costs, and that in lieu of them, 1926 prices will be adopted as a basis. This seems to be a gentle way of easing the pain of comparison between present costs and those before the war. Uncle Sam is relying on our poor memory.

The new method may be worse, or it may be better. The change marks an official recognition of the very patent fact that the war produced a different standard of price levels and that the new standard is undoubtedly here to stay. The good old days which no one appreciated until the war put an end to them, seem to have gone forever.

Perhaps it is just as well that we be spared the anguish of being reminded periodically that current prices are almost two-thirds, at least more than half, higher than those of 1913. The reminder never helps to lower prices but only serves to bring to our attention that our dollars are but weaklings as compared with their purchasing power in the days of not so long ago.

There is another angle to be considered, however. If prices are to keep on climbing and merely want an excuse to keep up the ascent, Uncle Sam would do well to continue quoting the pre-war prices.

But there is good reason to doubt if price levels will be affected very much, if at all, by the manner in which the comparison are made. The available data for 1926 is much larger and more accurate than that of fourteen years ago, which in itself seems sufficient warrant for the change in method of reckoning.

CLUB MEMBERS ATTEND NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW

Twelve Kentucky junior club boys and girls received free trips to the National Dairy Show at Memphis, Tenn., as rewards for their interest and activity in dairying.

William Cash, of Boyle county, state champion dairy club member, received a free trip from the Blue Valley Creamery Company.

The boy or girl owning the highest producing cow, age and period of lactation considered, in each of five sections into which the state was divided received a trip. These trips were given by D. H. Ewing's Sons, the Gray-Von Allmen Sanitary Milk Company and the Sugar Creek Creamery Company, and were awarded to Miss May Frances Huey, Boone county; Miss Lucile Davis, Jefferson county; Buell Ford, Muhlenberg county; Ervin Latham, Todd county; and Calvin Blankenship, Lincoln county. Thirty-four boys and girls entered this contest.

The Todd county junior club dairy judging team, composed of Richard White, Jack Short, Dillard Payne and William Garth, represented Kentucky in a national judging contest at the big show at Memphis.

Boyle county furnished a dairy demonstration team, composed of Miss Louise Ewing, who demonstrated putting clean milk on the market.—The Bulletin.

TEST REVEALS MANY HIGH PRODUCING COWS

Forty-four cows made the honor roll in September in the Oldham-Jefferson County Cow test Association; that is they produced 40 pounds or more of butterfat each. The high cow in butterfat production for the month was a Holstein owned by the Gray-Von Allmen Dairy Farm. She produced 1,827 pounds of milk containing 76 pounds of fat. A Holstein owned by Roger Swinney placed second with 72 pounds of fat. Thirty-six cows produced 1,000 pounds or more of milk during 50 pounds or more of butterfat. Several unprofitable cows were culled out of herds during the month.

ator cars of the Northern Refrigerator Transit Company, specially equipped for banana service, are rented to take care of the overflow business, since during this period as many as two ships are frequently unloading at each of the three banana docks.—I. C. Magazine.

BAN ON "FIGHT PICTURES" IN LONE STAR STATE

Texas laws not only prohibit prize fighting in that State, but from the following article published in the Houston Post-Dispatch show houses are not allowed to reproduce a prize fight on the screen:

Fight Film Causes Arrest in Houston, Texas

Eddie Bremer, manager of the Majestic theater, was charged with "exhibiting fight pictures" late Saturday, and placed under $200 bond. The charges were filed before Justice Campbell Overstreet in connection with the showing of the Tunney-Dempsey championship fight pictures at the theater.

Claude Beverly, investigator for the district attorney, witnessed the fight film Saturday evening, and, acting under orders from District Attorney Horace Soule, immediately filed the charges.

Bremer made the $200 bond and was released.

"The pictures will continue to run until my Dallas office notifies me to stop them," he declared. "We're showing them to packed houses tonight, and everybody seems to enjoy them thoroughly."

Bremer telephoned the Dallas office immediately after his arrest, and was told to continue to show the fight films, he added.

The films, which had been extensively advertised, drew large crowds Saturday night, patrons forming a line in front of the ticket booth for several hundred feet.

Soule said that each day the pictures were shown another charge would be filed against the theater manager.

"I watched the show, and they were certainly 'fight pictures' as defined in the statute," Beverly said. "It evidently was a pretty good fight, too."

The charge will be transferred from justice court to county court at law.

Investigations from Soule's office recently arrested three men at the Blue Bonnet Gardens in Harrisburg, in connection with the showing of pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey match.

"I admire the leaders of the electrical industry"

Says William Green, President
American Federation of Labor

"With a business sagacity which challenges our admiration, the leaders of the electrical industry adopt and put into force each new invention and discovery as soon as it is perfected and ready for market. And I am certain no other industry is devoting so much time, money and effort to the successful expansion of its service and production."

DO YOU recall the time, just a few years ago, when the only electrical service available was electric light—and it was a novelty?

There are sixty-eight and a half million people in the United States living in electrically wired homes; thirty million electric horse power serving American industry; three million investors owning the companies furnishing electric power, heat and light.

The rapidity of this expansion, and the universal benefit it has conferred, have been due primarily to the courage, initiative, and prophetic vision which have inspired the operations of the country's light and power companies.

Under the sound business administration of these companies, the cost of domestic current has been reduced since 1914 while the cost of living has gone up 68%.

In the hands of these companies the public is assured a continuous expansion of electrical service to meet the needs of our national development—and at decreasing rates as more current is used.

You who have helped to build the electrical age, and who have profited from it in comfort, convenience and happiness, can safeguard its future growth by continued support of the American principle of individual initiative.

O. K. LAUNDRY HAS COMPLETE SERVICE

The modern laundry of today is an expression of complete service for the whole family. Laundering has become the approximation of an exact science. Laundrymen of today are specialists and have learned the secret of improved cleaning in the most sanitary way, and the way that will have the least wear on linens is taught every employee in the modern laundry.

This class of laundry cleans more thoroughly, makes garments look whiter, with less wear and tear than the washer-woman in the own home. Different clothes need different methods.

The laundryman sorts the family bundle and each article goes thru the process of cleansing that will give the owner the best result, both in wear and cleansing. The O. K. Steam Laundry is modern in every department and has kept abreast of the progress made in improved cleansing for every garment. They give every article you send to them a special care, which is part of the routine of their work.

They have the most up-to-date equipment to handle laundry for the whole family and teach every employee to be a specialist in cleansing, neatness and carefulness. The family bundle will receive expert laundering in their hands as well as promptness in delivery. Now is the time to send your curtains, draperies and rugs to the O. K. Laundry for cleaning. Just telephone No. 130 and your troubles are over. The O. K. will do the rest.

FARM POULTRY

WATCH MARKETING EGGS AND POULTRY

"Poultry production is running wild without chart or compass, stimulated by past profits, by a tendency to shift from other nonpayment branches of agriculture to poultry raising, and by optimistic statements of those who sell supplies to poultrymen."

This is a statement of Prof. James E. Rice, head of the poultry department of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., commenting on trends in the poultry industry.

Recent figures showing the enrollment in the correspondence courses in poultry husbandry offered by the college, bear out this statement.

Nearly five hundred New York state farmers are studying the four poultry courses, and an analysis of this figure shows that approximately fifty are studying the general management of a laying flock to one who is taking the course in marketing of eggs and poultry.

"This may indicate," say college authorities, "that the poultrymen are a great deal more interested in producing eggs and poultry than they are in marketing them so they can compete with the high-quality products shipped to eastern markets by midwest and far west producers."

"Better marketing and curtailed production," according to Professor Rice, "are necessary to save the New York state poultry industry from a serious depression."

Dirty Eggs Expensive to Careless Poultryman

Dirty eggs, especially numerous this time of year, cost farmers and poultrymen from one to three cents per dozen because of the lower grade in which they are placed, according to E. R. Menefee of Purdue university, who is investigating marketing of poultry and eggs.

Three principal causes may be assigned for the large volume of dirty eggs Menefee found. They were: too few nests, resulting in the hens hiding their nests in dirty, wet places; unclean nests, and allowing hens free range in wet weather.

Dirty eggs can be eliminated by providing a sufficient number of clean, roomy nests, at least one to every four or five hens. These nests should be placed in a darkened part of the house to prevent egg eating and floor eggs. Do not permit hens to roost in the nests at night and change straw or shavings at frequent intervals. The wet range is the most common cause of dirty eggs. Keeping hens confined to the house in wet weather until noon, and gathering of eggs before they are let out will keep eggs clean.

Ducks Not Particular

Where They Leave Eggs

Ducks lay heavily during the laying season. However, they are not particular as to where they leave the eggs. It is no uncommon sight to see duck eggs scattered here and there in the yard or hog lot. As a result of this thoughtless attitude on their part, many eggs are eaten or destroyed by dogs, swine or the ducks themselves.

The proper method of handling the ducks in order to get all the eggs laid is by keeping the ducks confined in a duck house, or an abandoned stall of the barn during the night and until eight or nine o'clock in the morning.

Poultry Items

Tobacco in some form is now generally used as a remedy for intestinal worms in poultry.

Remove all males four to five weeks of age. Furnish perching space early to prevent crowding.

You can't have thrifty chicks unless they get sunlight—either direct, or through these glass substitutes. Window glass strains out the life-giving violet rays.

The demand for fresh duck eggs is never oversupplied.

"The best hens and roosters to keep and to breed from," says one poultry man, "are the bright, nervous, 'talkative' kind, but not the 'squawks'." These are signs of vigor, and vigor means eggs.

It is the general practice not to keep breeding ducks more than three or four years, although people have kept them with good results until they were eight years old.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well-balanced ration.

Only three chicks should be placed in the brooder house for every square foot of its floor space. A house 10 by 10 feet will hold only 300 chicks.

Scratch feed, mashies, meat scraps and milk, properly fed, under common sense methods make it possible to bring poultry into egg production successfully.

JUST A SUGGESTION

The woman, after many years' devotion to old-fashioned overshoes, had finally succumbed to modish, if by no means esthetic, goddesses.

As the salesman tried on a pair of the newest zippers, the woman noted with distaste the great bulge at the top of them.

"Haven't you a pair that fit me more snugly?" she asked.

"No, madam, I'm sorry. They all come one width at the top."

"Well, isn't there anything that you could suggest to improve their fit?"

"Only that you eat more potatoes, madam," he said, with a cordial smile.

Farm Management

Hastus—We done sold all our black mules cause we figured they et more an white ones.

Satan—How you all figger dat?

Hastus—We figgered and we figgered and all we could find out was dat we had more black ones than white ones.—Better Crops.

METHOD IN HIGH PRICES

Patient—"I think you are charging me too much, doctor." Doctor—"But you wouldn't want to have it said that you had anything less than a major operation."

I Guess You're Right

It is better to give than receive. Of a whipping this doubtless is true, but of kissing I cannot believe. It holds good till I've tried it, can you?

Woman's Intuition

A South street man, arriving home late met his wife with this:

"Can you guess where I've been, dear?"

"I can, dearest," replied the patient woman, with a touch of vinegar in her voice, "but go ahead and tell your story."

Not Prophesying

"Do you claim to be a political prophet?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "I feel pretty sure that I will be re-elected, but I don't want to risk creating a bad impression by bragging."—Washington Star.

Nerves and Nerves

Mrs. Owens—I am a victim of nerves.

Mrs. Ole—You are?

Mrs. Owens—Yes; I need some new clothes and when I ask the dressmaker and the milliner they have the nerve to refuse.

WISE SUGGESTION

"This whipping hurts me more than it does you, my son." "Let's spare each other pain the next time, dad."

Modern Version

Mary had a little lamb. Left with her by a friend to keep it followed her around until it died from lack of sleep.

Worse Than Yeast to Take

Jonesberry—My complexion is as bad as ever, doc.

Doctor Browne—Did you try lemon creams, as I suggested?

Jonesberry—I ate three jars with out any results.

Father's Faux Pas

"Did her father give the bride away?"

"I should say he did. He got rattled and said as he handed her over to the groom, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

Not Also a Collector

"Can I write my name under the 'received payment' on this bill?" asked the collector who likes to put things as delicately as possible.

"No, thanks," replied Brokeleigh. "I'm no autograph fiend."

Speaking the Truth

"A man in your position should at ways speak the truth."

"But how can I arrange," inquired Senator Sorghum, "for enough investigations to find it all out?"—Washington Star.

Stirling Finds a Maid

By JANE OSBORN

STIRLING had contrived to leave his office so that it was not yet five o'clock when he turned the latch key in the front door of his house in Marden Lane. He strode into the kitchen and dropped the bags of bread and bananas and bacon and canned soup on the table—or rather on one end of the table, for most of it was occupied with a clutter of unwashed breakfast dishes. Flies buzzed about in the afternoon sunshine, feasting now and then on the sweet sediment in unwashed coffee cups and cereal dishes. "Oh, h—!" he muttered in a bored tone of voice.

Then he went to the telephone and called up the number of the employment office in Meldon. A few minutes later he had agreed to pay a hundred dollars a month to a servant who would come the following Monday. This was forty dollars a month more than he meant to pay. Still he couldn't go on as he had gone, and he had been working for weeks now trying to get some sort of houseworker.

People spoke of Stirling Grison as a most exemplary young man. He had deliberately made such wonderful sacrifices. After the death of his father, five years before, he had shouldered most of the burden of supporting his mother and his two younger brothers—Larry and Tom—one sixteen and the other twelve.

Then a few months ago his mother had died—and now Stirling had chosen to play the role of father and mother both to the younger brothers. Chosen—they said—but Stirling would not deny it. He had simply done what any other man would have had to do. Then, too, people said, Stirling had definitely given up the idea of marriage—because of his responsibilities. There was Vera Thorne—lived in Marden Lane. Every one knew he was in love with her and that Vera had thrown over two or three other suitors no doubt because she preferred Stirling. But Stirling felt that he had had no choice in the matter. Of course he loved Vera but since marriage was out of the question he had made a stammering sort of statement of the facts and after that he never went to see Vera.

Of course Tom and Larry ought to have done more to help Stirling. The fact that they didn't was hardly their fault. While their mother had lived, she had never thought of asking them to help with the work in the house. Stirling helped—and she let him, but she would not have asked him. And now that the mother was dead Stirling somehow managed. He had persuaded the middle-aged practical nurse who had cared for his mother to stay on for a week or two to straighten things out. And Saturdays the boys did what they could to clean the house and after supper at night they helped Stirling with the day's accumulation of dishes.

Three miserable days passed—days when Stirling should have spent every bit of his working energy at his office. Instead of fussing early and late trying to keep the house in a semblance of order. A neighbor had suggested to Stirling that he ought to put the boys in boarding school and board in the city himself. But good boarding schools were expensive—and he'd half promised his mother to keep a home atmosphere around them until they went to college. Anyway, Stirling said hopefully, everything was going to be all right. A woman was coming. Quizzed by the neighbor he told her what he had agreed to pay. That sort of gossip ran fast in Marden Lane and the neighbor happened to know Vera's mother.

That evening while Stirling was standing over the dishpan, an unexpected thing happened. Vera arrived by way of the back door, alone, and after an embarrassed exchange of greetings she told the younger boys to run away and do their lessons while she dried the dishes with Stirling.

So it was there over the dishes that Vera—who seemed such an old-fashioned girl, actually proposed to Stirling.

She was drying a plate and went on polishing it needlessly as she talked. "You're going to pay that woman a hundred dollars a month. I work in an office for fifteen dollars a week and pay a little board at home out of that. But they don't need me—don't even want me—much. That is, they'd rather have me safely married. You see what I mean?"

Stirling tried to push back the thrill of joy that started to come over him. He felt tremendously embarrassed. "I couldn't," he said. "I mean when I marry I want to have something to offer—I wouldn't want to marry just to have some one keep house for me."

"But once every man married for that reason, primarily," said Vera. "I mean back in Colonial days when there were hardly any old maids—and every one seemed to be happier then—and besides even now every girl I know—nearly—does her own work. It isn't hard with vacuum cleaners and things. You've got a vacuum cleaner—and I don't much like to work in an office." Vera put the plate down and began to weep a little and then Stirling took her in his arms. "It's just because of what people might say," said Vera. "They'll manage to talk anyway—But Stirling held Vera so closely in his arms, with the soapuds from his hands making little patches on her frock, that she didn't finish her argument.

Advertising a Sale!

YOU don't leave your rig in the middle of the road and go to a fence post to read a sale bill do you? Then don't expect the other fellow to do it.

Put an ad in this paper, then, regardless of the weather, the fellow you want to reach reads your announcements while seated at his fireside.

If he is a prospective buyer you'll have him at your side. One extra buyer often pays the entire expense of the ad, and it's a poor ad that won't pull that buyer.

An ad in this paper reaches the people you are after. Bills may be a necessity, but the ad is the thing that does the business.

Trees Do Not Thrive Without Proper Food

Malnutrition is just as common among trees as it is among humans. Only humans are able to remedy the situation by eating the proper food, while trees must decline and probably die unless an observing person notices the signals of distress given by the tree.

These are: leaves undersized, yellowish or brown, foliage thin; tree full of dead branches.

Six of the nine elements are usually in every soil in ample quantities for an indefinite period, but three of them, nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium are more quickly used up by the constant pumping of them out of the soil by growing plants; therefore, they have to be supplied artificially.

Ordinarily, healthy leaves of a rich dark green indicate a well-formed root system actively at work in a good soil which contains all the food elements necessary for plant growth.

If the leaves are underdeveloped and yellowish it is usually a danger signal that the tree needs food in which the soil is lacking, and root treatment is necessary, or it may be an indication that the tree needs water, as Davy tree surgeons advise that a tree with a spread of 50 feet requires 30 barrels of water a day.

To artificially give water to city trees, spade up the ground around shade trees in a circle of about four feet in diameter, cut under the drooping branches of the trees. If this cannot be done, then take a potato fork and drive holes in the ground out under the drooping branches, so that the ground is perforated with holes the depth of the fork tines. Turn on the garden hose and fill the holes with water.

When it soaks away repeat the process of filling once or twice.

Collegiate Course in Care of Shade Trees

So great has become the interest in the care of the shade trees of our highways and boulevards, that the management of the New York State College of Forestry, at the Syracuse university, has decided to give a short, intensive course of training for such as desire it and the indications are that the course will be very popular.

Experts on tree life, tree development and maintenance are giving the instruction. Telephone, telegraph and lighting companies are especially interested in connection with the installation and maintenance of overhead wires as they relate to shade trees.

Practical field trips in which the principles laid down by the instructors will be applied to actual conditions are a feature. Among the subjects treated are pruning trees, physiology of tree growth, fungous diseases, tree characteristics, tree repair, planting and moving trees, insects and sprays, forestry bureaus and laws relating to street trees.

Midsummer Painting

One of the old habits that have become almost superstitious in some communities is to have interior decorating done in the spring.

As a matter of fact, midsummer, being far warmer and drier than spring is the preferable time to do interior decorating.

It is also more convenient for the housekeeper, as spring cleaning is apt to occupy all of her time, and the dampness connected therewith is detrimental to paint and varnish.

The Tax Evil

There is another moral, if you care for that sort of thing: A certain town with which I am familiar has long been trying to obtain factories. After much hard work five were obtained, became successful, and have been growing for several years past. One of the factory owners told me the other day that he is arranging to quit, as taxes have overwhelmed him. Taxation is the most impudent, dangerous thing we have to deal with.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Plant a Shrub Border

Few improvements add more to a residence than planting a shrub border along the street and the property lines. These hedges may be used on large lots or small lots and when carefully trimmed and attended to they add to the attractive appearance of the home and to the valuation of the property.

Duty to City

No city has a monopoly on brains. Business fundamentals and human nature practically are the same the world over. Some men forget and overlook that they owe a debt to the city in which they live. They are perfectly willing to take all and give nothing.—Exchange.

Dreams Being Fulfilled

Every time a new industry is located here or at any other point in the Tennessee valley it is just that much nearer a full realization of the dreams of our town builders.—Huntsville (Ala.) Times.

She Looked Like a Million

By CORONA REMINGTON

EVELYN ACTON glanced quickly around to see whether any of the waiters were watching, then deftly removed two rolls from her gay little red leather handbag and put them on the table beside her cup of steaming coffee. It gave her a feeling of superiority to breakfast with the successful business men and women of the town.

This morning, however, she was rather depressed; for three solid days she had been hunting a position with out success and her funds were now reduced to small change. She looked wistfully at a juicy piece of fried ham that a patron had hastily left on his plate at the next table and crinkled her little nose as its fragrance came habitually to her. It seemed to tease her and make the dry rolls drier in her mouth. Then after she had finished she did a strange thing. As she rose from the table she opened her purse, took out a pencil and piece of paper, then sat down at the ham table. As she scribbled aimless words she noticed that there was a clean spoon beside the plate and the knife had only been used for cutting so she was not afraid of it—only a matter of seconds now and she would be nonchalantly placing bits of the tender meat in her mouth, but—sensing that someone was at her elbow she looked up into the implacable face of a waiter.

"Pardon, madam, permit me to remove this and you will have more room to write."

The ham was whisked away and the clean spoon and the knife that had only been used for cutting, but quick on the heels of disappointment came a sense of escape; if that waiter had not come at that moment he would have seen her eating the other patron's breakfast.

Evelyn rose, adjusted her little black hat, gave a pat to her dress and walked out.

"Making your way in a big city isn't so bad," she reflected, "until you lose your position, and then—" poignant homesickness rushed over her as she thought of the little home town she had left and of Jack Dalton who had wanted to marry her and whom she had so flatly refused.

"All right," he had said with a shrug. "When you get through with your career you can come to me."

That was four years ago. With a toss of impatience she pulled herself together and walked swiftly along.

"If you want to impress people," she soliloquized, "you have to hold your head up when you wear a five-dollar dress marked down from $12.38 (on the tag) and want it to look like a $75 French room creation." So she walked jauntily down the street, her disappointed stomach already beginning to scream for the ham it didn't get. That was one deceiving thing about a coffee and rolls breakfast; it had a way of playing hide and seek, it was there and then suddenly it was gone.

"Now, let's see, where's that address?" she went on. "Yes, 740 Empire building. The Wearover Tire company. They said to call at ten o'clock. It's three blocks down and two across. I'll just about get there on time. Wonder how many others they wrote to call, too. But my letter was a good one if I do say it—maybe they'll take me."

And the big building swallowed her up. She left the elevator at the seventh floor and turned the knob of the big door leading to suite 740.

"You wanted a stenographer?" she said to the man at the high desk, showing him her letter.

"Yes, please step this way, Miss Acton."

He showed her to the office door marked Private and returned to his desk. As she entered the man inside turned to face her, then he rose and took both her hands in his.

"Evelyn!" he said gently as the girl stared at him, her face suddenly blanched, then she recovered herself and greeted him flippantly enough.

"Same old Jack Dalton," she laughed a little forced laugh.

"You look like a million dollars," he said surveying her. "Let's get out of here where we can talk."

Like an automaton, she followed him out of the office and they went to a little restaurant nearby.

"I was so excited waiting I couldn't eat breakfast," he explained. "What'll you have?—When I read that letter signed Evelyn Acton in the handwriting I knew so well—"

"It was the biggest shock I ever got," she laughed. "You were prepared because you knew I was coming, but I wasn't."

"You've changed," he said after a pause. "I don't know who it is; there's something—a little weird about you. What is it? It's entrancing."

"Wistful! Downright hungry!" thought Evelyn, but she said:

"You've changed, too—you're—I don't know—even nicer than before."

"Nicer than a career?" he asked. "Don't fool me, Evelyn. I'm serious."

"Oh, huh!" she replied, slipping a piece of broiled ham into her mouth.

"Come on," he begged. "Let's get out of here before I express myself in public," but Evelyn only crinkled her nose at him, gave him a little pat under the table and said:

"You're going to eat a good breakfast before you leave this restaurant." And he did. They did, I mean.

"Electricity brings increased comfort"

Says Herbert Hoover, Secretary
U. S. Department of Commerce

"We are in the midst of a great transformation in the development of electric power—it is reducing the burden of human toil; it is increasing productivity; it is bringing increased comfort to our people."

WHAT each workman in the United States can do with his hands is multiplied ten times by the electric power he uses. Sixty-eight million people are also using labor-saving electrical devices in their homes.

Electrical service has its greatest value because it is delivered at the time and place where it is needed. That is what electrical service means, and the foresight and enterprise of the country's light and power companies have helped make it possible.

Because power companies built power plants and transmission lines that would take care of the growing demand for service many years in advance, every new electrical invention has found an abundance of power ready to serve it. Now even the small communities get electrical service through interconnected power systems.

Enthusiastic public acceptance has done much to help build this electrical service. Three million investors own the securities of electric power companies and the whole public has benefited from rate reductions made possible through increased use of labor saving devices.

To insure the complete fulfillment of the promise of comfort and happiness which electricity offers, the American principle of individual initiative must be maintained.
