In the Spring

Those who would fain be immortalized by pictures of the immortal spring should consider the following:

LITTLE MR. JOYFUL.

Nothing lasts longer than spring's joy, no? Without the spring, life would be shortened, wouldn't it?

PURIFY THE BLOOD

The blood is pre-eminently the greatest blessing which is life's greatest blessing. Which is life's great blessing, which is life's greatest blessing?

THE TRIBUNE.

Three months, 25 of Hardin, a candidate for Justice of appeals of that district.

We have received a letter from a lady who has been a reader of this paper for many years, in which she expresses her intention of taking a trip to the state of Illinois, and she requests that we may have the privilege of publishing her letter in the Tribune.

We are glad to accede to the request of our correspondent.

For the benefit of our readers, we append the following:

Portland, Me., April 25th.

Dear Sir:—I am about to embark on a trip to the state of Illinois, and I wish to know the names of the places through which we will travel.

I am enclosing a letter from a friend who has been there before, and he says that the people are very polite and kind.

I am looking forward to my journey with great interest.

Yours truly,

Mrs. Alice Holman.

W. B. HAMILTON.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

We beg to advise our readers that we have received a letter from a lady who has been a regular subscriber to our paper for many years, and she wishes to give us some information about the county of Hancock.

The county of Hancock is situated in the southern part of the state of Alabama, and contains about 500 people. The county seat is at Hancock, and it is about ten miles from the county line.

The county is divided into six townships, and is represented in the legislature by three senators and three representatives.

The county is supplied with water from an artesian well, and the principal industries are agriculture and mining.

The people of the county are mostly farmers, and the chief crops are cotton, corn, and tobacco.

We have been informed that the county is well governed, and the people are friendly and hospitable.

We shall be glad to hear from our readers who have been there.

Yours truly,

W. B. HAMILTON.

Respectfully,

MRS. W. B. HAMILTON.
