Fulton Planning Big Celebration

At a called meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday night, plans were discussed for a gigantic celebration in Fulton about November 16, when the new paved streets will be open to traffic and our new White Way turned on. A committee of ten was appointed by President Hardesty to arrange a program for the event to be submitted at a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tonight (Friday) at 7:30 o'clock.

It is also understood that a real trade day will be put on in connection with the celebration when Fulton merchants can "strut their stuff" with the lowest prices on high-class, seasonable merchandise ever offered by the buying public, and to prove to the outside world that Fulton is an ideal trading center.

Fulton merchants were never better prepared to serve the public than at this particular time, just at the beginning of winter season. The window displays fairly sparkle with newness of seasonable merchandise and attractive prices.

All Day Celebration Planned

The celebration will start early in the morning and close late at night. There will not be a dull moment in Fulton during the entire day. Visitors will be extended every courtesy possible. A big parade and free admission to the picture shows will be featured and other attractions worth while.

Prizes will be awarded and all made glad that they celebrated in Fulton. Visitors will register and be given a ticket for the prizes without having to buy anything. It will be absolutely free without any strings attached or special requirements. Keep your eyes open for further announcements.

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOUTHWESTERN KENTUCKY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Fulton was host to the doctors of Western Kentucky Monday, when the fifty-seventh semi-annual meeting of the Southwestern Kentucky Medical Association held their meeting here at the Usona hotel. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock by Dr. O. R. Kidd, of Paducah, who presided. The following was the program.

Invocation—Rev. J. V. Freeman, Fulton.

Address of Welcome—Atty. H. T. Smith, Fulton.

Response for Association—Dr. H. H. Hunt, Mayfield.

Report of Arrangement and Entertainment Committees.

Gymnastics for the School Children—Dr. B. A. Washburn, Paducah.

The Crippling Varicose Vein—Dr. W. F. Grinstead, Cairo, Ill.

General Discussion.

Afternoon Session, 1:30

Functional Diseases of the Heart—Dr. E. B. Willingham, Paducah.

General Discussion.

Uterine Hemorrhages Near the Menopause—Dr. H. T. Rivers, Paducah.

General Discussion.

Quartz Light Therapy in General Practice—Dr. W. J. Shelton, Mayfield.

General Discussion.

At the noon hour the doctors enjoyed a luncheon served at the Usona, and on adjournment were taken in charge by citizens of Fulton and given an auto trip with other enjoyable entertainment.

For a short time we will accept subscriptions for this paper and the Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal—both papers one year for only $1.25.

High School Notes

The High school—Carr Institute P. T. A. had a short meeting Tuesday afternoon. It was voted to meet regularly on the first Tuesday of each month at 3:30 p. m., at the high school building. The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, November 1. All parents are cordially invited to be present.

On Friday the Ball dogs will meet the Princeton football team on the local gridiron. This is the second conference game and promises to be one of the foremost of the season. A large crowd is expected.

Mr. Aubrey Nugent gave an excellent address at the high school, Tuesday. Mr. Nugent is one of the enterprising young men of our community and is always welcomed by the student body as an inspiring and entertaining speaker.

Miss Gladys Bell gave two excellent piano renditions in Chapel, Tuesday.

Mr. Myers announced in Chapel recently that school would dismiss next Monday at 1:30 p. m. for the big circus. He partially took the joy out of the first part of the announcement by stating that school would open that morning at 7:45 and that the noon period would be cut down to thirty minutes. Mr. Myers further stated that all classes would meet on that day.

The recent address by the Rev. Mr. Walker who is now conducting a revival at the Christian church, on the subject of "personality," was full of interest and enjoyed by everyone. Three solos on this occasion, by Mr. Martin, the singer, added to the excellent program.

The Ukulele Club, composed of fourteen girls, is doing fine work now, and meeting regularly for practice.

The faculty dinner, a monthly institution among the teachers in the city schools, met at the Usona hotel Thursday evening. Mr. Whalin acted as toastmaster, talks were made by various members of the faculty, and an excellent solo was rendered by Mrs. Brann.

The brilliant victory of Fulton high school over the Hickman team in the fourth game of this year's football game came as a surprise. The score was 52 to 0. This speaks well for the drive and playing ability of the locals.

C. OF C. MEMBERS TO MEET REGULARLY ON SECOND TUESDAY NIGHT OF EACH MONTH

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night, the members decided to hold regular monthly meetings on the second Tuesday nights of each month when all members will be expected to attend and discuss matters of interest for the betterment of the town and community. Some months ago the regular monthly meetings were abandoned, but from now on let each and every member make a special effort to be in attendance at the meeting of the second Tuesday night of each month.

B. Y. P. U. CONVENTION AT MAYFIELD

The B. Y. P. U. Convention for the Western District convenes at Mayfield today. An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion and Mayfield will royally entertain her guests. Rev. C. H. Warren pastor of the First Baptist church of Fulton, is on the program for an address, and a large delegation from the local B. Y. P. U. will be in attendance.

National Dairy Exposition and Tri-State Fair

Secretary Motley of the Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis, The Advertiser editor attended the National Dairy Exposition and Tri-State Fair at Memphis last Friday. We left on an early morning train and after arriving in the "Fair City," brushed up and went direct to the fair grounds where we spent the entire day seeing the sights.

We will not attempt to tell all we saw or the delightful entertainment given us, suffice it is to say that the officials of the Tri-State Fair understand the art of entertaining their guests and extended us every courtesy possible to make our visit enjoyable as well as profitable.

We had attended former fairs, but the 1927 exhibition surpassed them all. It was the first time, however, that we ever attended a National Dairy Exposition, and as this was the feature attraction for us, we will take up our space with a few words about it.

More Than a Show of Fine Cattle

For those seeking education or the improvement of conditions around the dairy farm, there was an unbroken flow of first hand information.

Cattle demonstrations, in which specialists in each of the breeds pointed out how cows should be selected for milk production and what cattle should be passed, provided a short course in stock selection that will be of great value to the hundreds who watched the work and listened to the talks.

The exhibit made by the United States Bureau of Dairy Industry covered almost every phase of dairying and showed the dairyman how to make two dollars grow where only one grew before.

Farmers judging contests, in which men and boys vied who had never tested their skill at judging before, revealed their shortcomings and defects of appraisal. For the 4-H Club members and the vocational and collegiate students, there were similar contests with like advantages.

Visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada were amazed by the progress of the dairy cow in blazing a trail through the South as exemplified in the "Dairying in Dixieland" exhibit of the Southern states. How the industry has leaped ahead during the past five years and its prospects, were reflected in this exhibit which was the combined product of the agricultural colleges of the section. With dairying showing a decline in the far eastern states, inquiries regarding lands, grazing conditions, prices paid for milk, prospects for the future, and other data have been received in large volume by the agricultural departments of the different states and these inquiries were all answered in the "Dairying in Dixieland" exhibit.

High production cows without number—cows with milk and butterfat records that challenged the belief of the average southern dairy farmer—were shown in great number. All breeds were represented among them. May Walker Ollie Homestead, Holstein, with a year's record of 1,523 pounds of butter and 40 quarts of milk a day for this period was always the center of an admiring group. She was sent to the exposition solely for educational purposes by her owner, Col. F. E. Murphy, of Minneapolis, Minn.

The exhibits of cheese and butter, showing the progress made in this industry in the United States during the last few years, were notable. "The History of Cheese," was told by motion pictures and in the exhibits of the National Cheese Institute, Milwaukee, and the Wisconsin Cheese Producers Federation which acted in concert.

Development of the dairy business has been, in a large measure, attributable to recent inventions for the dairy farm, barn and plant. The show of equipment in the huge new Exposition building reflected the reason for the advance. The last word in mechanical equipment for the factories of the foremost manufacturers filled every inch of space in the large structure. The equipment manufacturers have striven for machinery to lower the

REVIVAL CONTINUES AT FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The revival at the First Christian Church, Rev. B. J. Cantrell, Pastor, continues through the third week, closing next Sunday night. Evangelists Walker and Martin, both of Lexington, Ky., have made quite a favorable impression on the people of Fulton, and are being heard gladly in sermon and song nightly. The song service, under Mr. Martin, is a very fine part of every service. Besides the chorus and congregational singing there are duets, trios, special chorus numbers and solos. His solos have been a most attractive feature of the meeting. Mr. Martin having one of the best tenor voices ever in Fulton. Evangelist Walker is bringing some strong sermons and lectures. His lectures to men and women, separately, the past two Sunday afternoons have met with high favor. A big day is being planned for the last Sunday of the revival. Besides the morning and night services there will be a great mass meeting for men and women at 2:30 in the afternoon to which all young people are especially invited. The lecture on "Lowering the Standards," which will be given at this time is Evangelist Walker's most outstanding lecture and promises to be a stirring message. The night services during the week are at 7:30 p. m., but on Sunday at 7:15 p. m.

WANTS HOSPITAL IN FULTON

It was announced by J. E. Hannephin at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night that a prominent physician and surgeon of Paducah desired to come to Fulton and establish a hospital.

This announcement was well received. It is just what Fulton needs and every encouragement should be given the promoter to locate such an institution here. For the present the doctor's name is withheld.

DR. THOMSON RETURNS TO FULTON

Dr. T. F. Thomson, well known Chiropractor, has returned to Fulton to continue Chiropractic health services. The doctor comes direct from Kansas City, where he took a special review course. Since leaving Fulton he also took a special course at Davenport, Iowa, specializing on nervous diseases.

The friends of Dr. Thomson are glad he returned to Fulton and know that he will be here permanently, having bought out Dr. L. A. Methvin, office over Irby's Drug Store.

MORE IMPROVEMENT FOR SOUTH FULTON

The large livery barn located on Paschall street in South Fulton, owned by D. R. Bondurant, is being remodeled and is a smart-looking automobile, converted into an up-to-date garage building and service station. This is a splendid improvement for South Fulton and will be quite an attractive addition to the business district. It is an ideal location for a garage as the Mississippi Valley Highway comes in on this street. The building will be occupied by V. L. Phillips and W. H. Brooks when completed.

We congratulate Mr. Bondurant on the improvement. He is a man who believes there is a bright future in store for Fulton and has always taken interest in its progress. For the past 25 years he has been engaged in business here and has made a success by honest and fair dealing with his fellowmen, and attentiveness to business.

BUSINESS CHANGE

Culver Bakery Company Sell to Hornbeak Bros.

A business deal was closed this week when the Culver Bakery Company sold their bakery and confectionery on Lake street to Hornbeak Brothers Bakery Company, incorporated. The new firm is now in charge, with J. A. Hornbeak, president, and P. M. Hornbeak, secretary and treasurer.

The new firm needs no introduction to the people of this territory because they first established an enviable business here years ago when Hornbeak's cream bread was the family delight. This excellent bread was not only in demand in Fulton, but throughout this entire section of country.

About two and a half years ago J. M. Culver and J. M. Chambers succeeded Hornbeak Bros., in the bakery business and during this time has maintained the high qualities of the Hornbeak products and while the old firm has many friends who regret to see them retire from the bakery business, the new firm is heartily welcomed at the old stand.

Messrs. Culver and Chambers have no immediate plans for the future, but deserve every encouragement, it matters not what business they may engage in. Both have proven themselves to be men of high-class business qualifications, progressive and always taking a live interest in every undertaking for the betterment of the community.

SOUTH FULTON NOTES

The grading preparatory for surfacing Commercial Avenue in South Fulton has been completed and other streets are being improved.

Work of graveling the Fulton-Harris highway is in progress and will be pushed to completion.

Permits are being issued to residents for connecting with the new sewerage system and plumbers are busy on the job.

The D. R. Bondurant new garage building to be occupied by Phillips & Brooks will be completed soon—a nice addition to the business district.

The engineer employed to make the survey for the new water system will arrive and start on the work Monday.

The enrollment at South Fulton High School is the largest in its history and all are happy over the excellent progress being made by the children.

Work was started on Paschall Avenue Tuesday for the Mississippi Valley Highway.

NOTICE

On Sunday, Oct. 30, 1927, there will be all day services at Chapel Hill Church. Brother Norman, the Presiding Elder, will preach that day. We want all the members and friends of Chapel Church to come and bring dinner so as to stay the entire day. There are many matters regarding the cemetery and its upkeep to be taken up on that day. Those who have loved ones, relatives or friends buried at Chapel Hill are requested to be present on that day, that they may see what has already been done on the cemetery and so those that have not been called on to contribute to the sacred fund may now have the chance to send or bring their contributions, and we will enter their names on our list. We assure you that any contribution will be greatly appreciated. We will on that day read the names and the amount contributed by each one up to that date. We hope that everyone who subscribed to this sacred fund will pay before or on that date so that we will not be embarrassed by reading any one's name unpaid. We will on that date be prepared to give a full account of all the money collected on the cemetery fund, and how applied.

SENATOR BARKLEY STUMPING STATE FOR DEMOCRATIC TICKETPays Tribute to Beckham's Reign as Governor Score Years Ago

Senator Alben W. Barkley is stumping the state in the interest of the Democratic ticket and great crowds are flocking to hear him at every place he visits. Every red blooded Democrat should read carefully what he has to say regarding Beckham's reign as Governor a score of years ago. During his Murray address, in discussing the administration of Governor Beckham, Senator Barkley said: "When but a mere boy of thirty, a great tragedy that rocked Kentucky like a storm, that almost brought internal revolution, when the legislature had been adjourned and the court of appeals was dodging behind trees to escape the bullets of an armed force, J. C. W. Beckham became the governor of this commonwealth. By his dignified bearing, by his level-headed common sense, by his diplomacy, by his courage and faithfulness to his duty, he poured oil on the troubled waters, brought order out of chaos and restored the supremacy of the civil authorities of the state."

"He found the state in debt nearly two million dollars and without an increase in the tax rate he paid it off and left office with the state out of debt. He found and old and inadequate state capitol and without an increase in taxes he built a magnificent new state house that cost $1,500,000, which is more beautiful and commodious than any five million dollar capitol anywhere in the nation."

"He placed the state penitentiaries and asylums of the state under the central boards of control and removed them from the pernicious influence of local politics. He established the normal school system for the training of teachers in Kentucky and built the two great schools now at Richmond and Bowling Green. He lengthened the common school term from five to six months per year."

"His whole public career has been characterized by a frankness and a moral courage which men and women of the same quality must admire. He is a gentleman in all that the term imports. Clean in his personal life, upright and honorable in his conception of public duty, with no selfish ambition to promote or private advantage, we present him to the people of Kentucky in the ripeness of his experience and in the maturity of his years. We present a man and a ticket which is not afraid to stand for civic righteousness in the administration of government; which cannot be intimidated or cajoled into betrayal of public duty."

Senator Barkley closed his address with a strong appeal for Governor Beckham and the Democratic ticket by saying, "In the name of all that Kentucky has meant to us in nobility of character, in distinction of race, in worthy achievement through the years and everywhere; in the name of the countless millions yet to come, to whom we wish to hand this government of ours as upright, as free, as worthy of confidence and support as when it came to us from the hands of our forefathers, I ask an overwhelming verdict at the ballot box for Governor Beckham and his comrades in this fight."

NEGROES FIGHT DUEL TO DEATH

Bud Pryor, Graves county negro, and Alex Haley, negro brakeman for the Illinois Central, are dead after a gun battle which took place at the Anderson (colored) hotel across the tracks opposite the passenger station.

Pryor, who was about 27 years of age, had been living in Fulton for several months. He is a son of John Pryor, who resides north of Mayfield.

The body was sent to Mayfield for burial Monday.

The shooting is said to have followed a quarrel, which was first started by a nephew of Pryor and a brother of Haley.

Haley was sent to the railroad hospital at Cairo, where he died Monday morning.

cost of producing better milk and cream. The realization came in this show of milk machines, refrigerating plants, cream separators, testing appliances, boilers and other equipment for the sterilization of utensils, improved butter making machinery and so on.

The dairy cow feeds which have done so much in recent years to increase the flow of milk and lessen the cost per gallon were displayed in general volume. Equipment for the manufacture of cheese, powdered and malted milk and other by-products of the dairy filled the equipment show which was said to be the best ever seen in the South.

South Strong Contenders for Championship

Southern dairy cows this year were strong contenders for grand championship honors. In the huge cattle barn, the Jerseys, favored cattle of the South, were the center of greatest interest, although the large showing of other breeds found many admirers.

The Jerseys led the entries with a total of 285; Holsteins were second with 216; Guernseys, third, numbering 182; Ayrshires, fourth, with 126; and Brown Swiss fifth, totaling 86.

Queen of the South

Red Lady 396118, purebred Jersey cow, with official 365-day record of 1,028.51 pounds of butterfat, 19,608 pounds of milk was the highest producing cow, all breeds, South of Mason-Dixon line. The owner did not say what he would sell her for, but we understand $5,000 is her value.

THE SOUTH SEES A NEW STAR

That a new star of perpetual hope and progress is now illuminating the southern skies is declared by Secretary Motley, who spent all of Friday at the National dairy show at Memphis.

Mr. Motley states that he made the acquaintance of several of the northern dairy breeders who were contestants for National championship at the Exposition. These men are particularly pleased with the opportunities which are afforded in the south and indicated that they may move some of their herds south to help meet the potential demands for dairy cows. They can produce the dairy cow cheaper in the south than in the north and save transportation and cost of extensive advertising.

Land Values Will Also Improve

Mr. Motley visited with some of his former associates who are in the real estate business in Memphis, and they report that the National dairy show is proving a stimulant to the real estate game, one of the men having closed recently a cash sale for 1,258 acres of land, which was bought by a Michigan dairy farmer. The purchaser intends to convert this farm into one of the South's greatest dairy breeders farm. We are confident that the dairy interest is going to do more to transform the south than any other move that could have been made and now seems to be the opportune time to get in to the game.

FOOD LIKE YOU GET AT HOME

This is truly a home-like restaurant because it has endeavored to break down the prejudice based on the theory that restaurants could not serve food like you get at home. Many patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they come here so frequently to eat. Years of catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve appetizing meals. The next time you want to eat away from home, bring your family here.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. H. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 30
AMOS DENOUNCES SIN

(World's Temperance Sunday.)
LESSON TEXT—Amos 2:4-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Seek good and not evil, that ye may live, and so the Lord the God of hosts shall be with you as ye have spoken.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Punishment of Sin.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What God Thinks of Sin.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why the Drink Traffic Is Prohibited.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Intemperance and Associated Evils.

Amos, a shepherd and tradesman (Amos 7:14, 15) was called to prophesy for God. He was neither in the prophetic line, nor trained in the prophetic schools.

1. The Sins of Judah (2:4, 5).
In the first part of the book Amos sets forth judgments upon the surrounding nations. The aim, doubtless, was to show that there is no escape from God's judgment. The nation or individual that sins shall surely be judged (Nah. 3:23).

1. They despised the law of the Lord. To despise means to spurn, to disregard. To despise God's law is a sin directly against God. There is no escape from judgment for such as do this. (Heb. 10:28, 29).

2. Failed to keep the Lord's commandments (v. 4).
Disobedience logically follows the despising of God's law. It not only robs of blessings in this life, but results in eternal destruction (II Thess. 1:7-10).

3. Lies caused them to err (v. 4).
Because they despised God's law they fell into lying errors. Doctrine and conduct are inseparable. Thinking wrong precedes doing wrong.

4. Judgment upon Egypt (v. 5).
This was literally fulfilled a century and a half later in the capture of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans.

11. The Sins of Israel (2:6-8).
The message of the prophet now comes directly to the northern kingdom.

1. "Sold the righteous for silver" (v. 6).

The judge, for a bribe of silver, declared the innocent to be guilty.

2. "Sold the poor for a pair of shoes" (v. 6).

Likely this refers to the practice of selling into slavery the debtor who could not pay for a pair of shoes which had been sold to him on (v. 6).

3. "Pants" after the dust of the earth on heads of the poor (v. 30).
The word "pant" means to eagerly desire. So avaricious had these men become that they even grasped after the earth which the down-trodden poor cast upon their heads in mourning because of their misery.

4. Turned aside the way of the meek (v. 7).

These grasping rich men turned aside the meek; that is, those who would not stand up for their rights.

5. Licentiousness (v. 7).

So notorious were the immoralities practiced that they were even guilty of incestuous prostitution. This was not merely the case of falling into sensuous sin, but was indulged in with the definite purpose of insulting God, provoking His holy name.

6. Idolatry (v. 8).
They not only frequented the place of idolatrous worship, but lay down on the clothes taken from the poor, and drank wine bought with money extorted from the poor in unjust fines.

111. God's Goodness to Israel (v. 6:12).

God's manifold blessings and His goodness are now presented in contrast with the base practices of the nation, in order to heighten the picture of their ingratitude.

1. Destroyed their enemies (v. 9).
The Amorites stand for all powerful peoples whom God removed from Palestine to make room for Israel.

2. Delivered from cruel bondage (v. 10).

God set them free from the cruel slavery of the Egyptians. Every redeemed one has been set free from a more cruel bondage than that of the Israelites at the hands of the Egyptians (John 8:34-36).

3. Led them for forty years in the wilderness (v. 10).

The wilderness wandering is a most wonderful story, showing the tender and faithful leading of God.

4. Raised up the prophets (v. 11).

God not only bestowed great honor upon them in this, but favored them in raising up prophets from among their own offspring. The awful sin and guilt are here shown in that they not only turned the prophets from their lives of separation but gave them wine to drink.

Faith

Faith never refers to self, but always to the Word of God. There are many who want to feel that they are believers before they have believed the truth, and to feel that they are safe, before they trust in Jesus.

O. K. LAUNDRY HAS COMPLETE SERVICE

The modern laundry of today is an expression of complete service for the whole family. Laundering has become the approximation of an exact science. Laundrymen of today are specialists and have learned the secret of improved cleaning in the most sanitary way, and the way that will have the least wear on linens is taught every employee in the modern laundry.

This class of laundry cleans more thoroughly, makes garments look whiter, with less wear and tear than the washerwoman in the own home. Different clothes need different methods.

The laundryman sorts the family bundle and each article goes thru the process of cleansing that will give the owner the best result, both in wear and cleansing. The O. K. Steam Laundry is modern in every department and has kept abreast of the progress made in improved cleansing for every garment. They give every article you send to them a special care, which is part of the routine of their work.

They have the most up-to-date equipment to handle laundry for the whole family and teach every employee to be a specialist in cleansing, neatness and carefulness. The family bundle will receive expert laundering in their hands as well as promptness in delivery.

Now is the time to send your curtains, draperies and rugs to the O. K. Laundry for cleaning. Just telephone No. 130 and your troubles are over. The O. K. will do the rest.

Community Building

Duty of Citizens to Guard Public Health

The average citizen pays for accidents and disease in deaths, injuries, illnesses, bills, discounted investments and depreciated values. Therefore it is his job to prevent accidents and disease, says Dr. J. Howard Beard in Hygiene Magazine.

In the old days of the one-horse shay, the physician was responsible for the health of the entire community. Medical science has advanced tremendously since then. So has industrial science. Although many disease conditions have been brought under control, countless new ones have arisen as the result of the rise of industrialism.

Fast trains and airplanes are as much at the disposal of disease germs as of human beings. While large cities foster clinics and medical schools and hospitals, they also foster unhygienic living conditions, accidents and illness.

The physician can no longer handle the situation alone, in spite of his greatly increased knowledge. He must have the co-operation of every citizen in the community. It is the average citizen who can and should insist on the adoption of public health measures, on the health education of school children and adults, and on the furtherance of preventive medicine.

Appearance of House

Attracts the Buyer

People who are most vociferous in their appreciation of the sentimental values of their homes, who let it be known to all and sundry that they would never sell their home because of old associations, are frequently the readiest to sell if they get what they call a "good offer." They are really good salesmen, and their boasted affection for their homes is merely good sales talk. While this attitude may be a trifle calloused, there are few of us who do not keep a weather eye upon real estate values. We are proud and pleased when there is a "boom" in our immediate neighborhood. And rightly so. We are pleased whenever the property value of our home advances, because it has materially increased our potential estate, and proud that our purchase has proved to be a wise investment.

Keep your property well painted and you will have mighty few repair bills. Paint is far cheaper than new wood or metal replacements. Watch the less obvious vulnerable points, such as roof, eaves and down spouts, porch columns, etc. The trim is usually the first to suffer.

Wisdom in Building Well

Whether the house is being built for a home, or to let, the builder will save much money on repairs and upkeep by having the house constructed of the very best materials by the best of craftsmen. The last several years have seen the erection of innumerable "cheap houses," built poorly of inferior materials. These so-called "cheap houses" have been very expensive to the owners, who have found they cheated them of the pride and satisfaction that should have been theirs in the possession of their own home, to say nothing of the hundreds of dollars worth of value that was sadly lacking.

Authentic and authoritative literature is now being published in book form and in pamphlets, magazines and newspapers, so the man who contemplates any sort of building should carefully study this literature with the idea of acquainting himself with what really constitutes good building.

War on Mosquitoes

The first mosquito bite of the season ought to remind the victim that stagnant water is standing around somewhere close by. Rain barrels, tin cans, discarded cisterns, nursery ponds and similar water receptacles and places make ideal hatcheries for this pest insect. Besides being a disagreeable nuisance mosquitoes carry malaria, especially in the southern part of Illinois. Mosquitoes never breed in running water nor in bone-dry territory. They rarely travel far from the place of birth. Enforcing rigid prohibition against stagnant water in the neighborhood or adding a coat of oil to it will eliminate the bites.

Few Buy Homes Outright

"More than half the houses in the United States are owned by men who make less than $2,000 a year," says W. D. Carter, retiring president of the New York State League of Savings and Loan associations.

"It is estimated that approximately 90 per cent of those who build or buy a home do not pay for it outright at the start. Habits of thrift, economy and self-denial established and practiced in saving to meet the monthly payments by which the home is paid for are among the greatest assets of owning a home."

Clean City an Asset

It is not easy to magnify the influence of cleanliness as a charm. For a city to be clean is good business, if nothing else. But it is much else. Without it there can be little beauty or comfort, little of the air of prosperity that is so desirable.

DOES COURTESY HAVE A VALUE.

The American continent is no doubt the richest nation in the world and one of its greatest assets is its invisible property which is commonly referred to as its good will, this is not only true as a nation but is true in the value of some of our greatest institutions, some of our people refer to it as reputation when speaking of some well established brand of merchandise, which sells itself. We know of some of our large firms which value their good will at more than a million dollars. This sounds all too exaggerating, but when we count the cost in dollars and cents, coupled with untiring efforts, we find that such firms have actually spent over a million dollars in the development of such intangible properties, therefore, why not place a legitimate value on such properties.

At the bottom of all such gigantic developments and achievements we find that human courtesy among our fellowmen is the foundation upon which these great values are built. Unfortunately for some of us we meet the principles of courtesy and accept them just as a matter of course, while a few of us really recognize them and appreciate them in the proper manner. We publish herewith, an editorial reproduced from the Illinois Central monthly magazine, which brings out a true value of human courtesy.

The Stamp of Our Men

"All manners take a tincture from our own," wrote Alexander Pope nearly two centuries ago. The saying is as true today as it was then, and the importance of applying it in our daily lives has been multiplied many times. Modern civilization has immensely increased the number and the intimacy of our contacts with our fellow members of society as a whole. These inevitable contacts are much more pleasant when cushioned by courtesy, and we all can and should do our share to see that they are so cushioned.

Courtesy usually begets courtesy in those to whom it is extended, so that by courteous treatment of others, we not only foster good will toward ourselves but set an example that helps to raise the standards of public conduct. The result is to develop a general atmosphere of kindness and good feeling that makes life more satisfying and enjoyable for us all. Thus the habit of courtesy that characterizes the members of our Illinois Central System organization is an asset not only to us and to our railroad, but also to the communities in which we live.

Gratifying recognition of this fact is contained in a letter recently received by President Downs from S. S. Motley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Fulton, Ky. Mr. Motley wrote in part, as follows:

"If I shall not be accused of downright flattery, please allow me to say that while the Illinois Central is serving a great purpose as a common carrier, it is doing its equal part in the building of character and manhood by the commercial education of public courtesy through its employees. I came here six months ago and was quick to detect the extreme courtesy of the town character. After being here a couple of months, I publicly made the statement that the Illinois Central System was largely responsible for the generous and extremely courteous spirit of Fulton, and I have never had cause to doubt my convictions."

"I can tell an I. C. man wherever I meet him, and I am sure that he is greatly indebted to the Illinois Central System for a generous portion of his attitude. This office does considerable advertising in the endeavor to make Fulton better known, and one of our keenest and most appreciated pleasures is to tell the world about the splendid railway accommodations."

Our entire organization can well be proud of this splendid tribute. It should stimulate us to surpass the good reputation for courtesy of which we all are so proud.

BETTER CHURCH HOUSING

Within the last year or so, and notably within the last few months beautiful new church edifices have been erected in Fulton.

A significant feature of this new church building movement is that the buildings were not erected for new congregations, but were erected to replace old and inadequate structures. The building movement, therefore, reflects not only the growth of the established congregations, but a definite trend towards better housing for congregations. Each of the new buildings is a credit to the community, architecturally speaking and contributes much to the development of the city beautiful.

A phase of this church building movement which is of great importance to the churches themselves is that the new buildings are adapted much better for the carrying on of the work of the church of today than were the old quarters. The little one-room church is no more adequate for the work-out of the program of the modern church than is the little one-room school house adequate to meet the need of the program of modern education.

The church today that is accomplishing anything has a great many activities. A large part of its work is religious education, and it is to be noted that all of the new church buildings in Fulton have been designed in a way to afford large space to the Sunday school and various departments for young people. Also cognizance has been taken of the social phase of church work by providing for gatherings of the members. Advanced steps in this direction are reflected in the layout of some of the larger of the new churches.

All this means that not only are the religious congregations of Fulton better housed than ever before, but that they have "plants" for religious work designed to enable them to meet the responsibilities of the church in this new day in our city.

ALFALFA LOWERS
TON LITTER COST

Good alfalfa pasture helped Joe Pate, a Hancock county farmer, make 11 purebred Hampshire pigs weigh more than a ton when they were 180 days old, according to his report to County Agent O. R. Wheeler and the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

The excellent alfalfa not only stimulated the progress of the pigs in growing and adding weight, but it also materially reduced the amount of grain required to feed the pigs and consequently the cost of raising them to market condition.

The litter weighed 2,088 pounds when 180 days old. In spite of comparatively high-priced feed, it returned a profit of $102, after making full allowance for feed for the sow from the time she was bred, and for the feed, labor and pasture required by the pigs.

The litter cost $6.17 per 100 pounds to raise. Every 56 pounds of grain fed produced an average of 18.2 pounds of pork.

In figuring the cost of the litter, $2 1-2 cents a bushel was allowed for corn, $2.80 per 100 pounds for middlings, $4 per 100 pounds for tankage, and 7 1-2 cents a pound for mineral mixture.—The Bulletin.

SOME BANANAS

The Illinois Central handles approximately 28,000 cars of bananas out of New Orleans annually, which is from 65 to 70 per cent of the total movement of this fruit through that port. During the busy season, which lasts from April to August inclusive, nearly 3,000 cars a month are handled. This traffic amounted to 27,750 cars last year, including 13,431,000 bunches and 1,612,000,000 separate bananas, or enough to supply fourteen bananas to each inhabitant of the United States.

New Orleans is the principal banana port of the United States and supplies a large section of the country with the fruit. Bananas are shipped from New Orleans to points as far distant as Vancouver, B. C., and practically every state, except those on the Atlantic seaboard, is supplied through this port.

The ability to handle such a vast volume of a highly perishable commodity with negligible loss and damage is the result of years of experience in this form of transportation and of very careful study and analysis of each transportation element involved. The principal element necessary for the safe handling of bananas is extreme care in loading and fast movement after loading. The majority of the bananas are still green and unripe upon arrival at New Orleans; but climatic changes have a rapid effect on the fruit and even a slight delay in handling or a variation of a comparatively few degrees in the temperature of the cars may have serious consequences.

Car Supply a Problem

Highly specialized traffic such as this requires specialized equipment and the problem of car supply has had to be given careful attention. The Illinois Central owns 5,691 refrigerator cars, of which 1,00 are equipped with permanent floor racks and are intended primarily for the banana service. A considerable percentage of the refrigerator cars owned by the Illinois Central are kept in banana service almost constantly, and for seven months of each year it is not necessary to use any outside equipment. During the heavy shipping season from April to August, refrigerator cars of the Northern Refrigerator Transit Company, specially equipped for banana service, are rented to take care of the overflow business, since during this period as many as two ships are frequently unloading at each of the three banana docks.—I. C. Magazine.

HOG CHOLERA GIVES
FARMERS CONCERN

Hog cholera is causing considerable concern among farmers and dealers in many sections in Kentucky. This is especially the case along the Ohio river, where some stockmen have sustained heavy losses.

Dr. T. P. Polk, extension veterinarian for the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, says that one of the chief sources of the spread of cholera is due to the fact that hogs are being put on the market and sold when diseased. Another source is selling hogs through infected yards or premises.

Doctor Polk urges care in buying hogs. One should know whether there is cholera in the community in which the hogs are purchased, and be especially diligent to determine whether the animals appear normal.

Some of the symptoms of hog cholera are: Standing apart from herd with arched back; refusal to eat; ears limp; tail hanging down straight with kink out of it; ears hot, feverish and thickened; eyes inflamed, gummed up and frequently stuck together; wobbling gait, tending to stand with legs crossed as braces; constipation in earlier stages of disease, followed by diarrhea, with blood in feces. Red and purple spots may appear on belly and thin skin of light hogs. Coughing and thumps are outstanding symptoms. The animal has a tendency to stay in bed with its nose under litter, lying upon its belly with its feet tucked under, a position characterizing abdominal pain.—The Bulletin.

"Electricity has added to the wealth of the nation"

Says Hon. Albert C. Ritchie,
Governor of Maryland

"In your development of cheap power you have added immeasurably to the wealth of the nation; and it is not old wealth taken from others by the process of trade, but new wealth wrung from the treasure house of nature." *

ELECTRICITY has become the most universally useful force the world has ever known. This result has not been obtained merely by converting coal and water into electrical energy. Far-sighted planning, and the success of the principle of individual initiative in the management of power companies are responsible.

The power companies have anticipated the needs for electrical service. They have built power plants and transmission lines in advance of rapidly growing demands. Through interconnected lines an abundance of power has been brought to cities, towns, villages and farms.

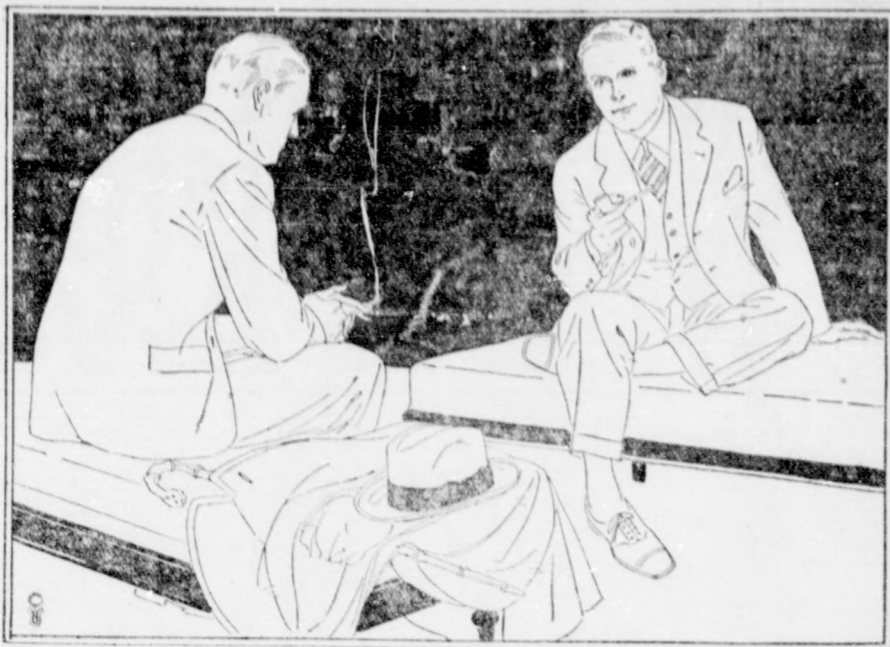

Meanwhile the public has accepted electrical service, paving the way for improvements and encouraging the invention and production of a great variety of useful electrical devices. Three million investors own power company securities. Sixteen million homes and one hundred and fifty thousand factories are using electrical service. By continued support of the American principle of individual initiative, and through the use of more labor-saving electrical equipment, the whole public has been benefited by improved service and reduced rates.

The electrical business under individual initiative and government regulation, supported by public acceptance, has increased the wealth, comfort and happiness of the whole nation. The full development of an electrical age can be safeguarded in its future growth by continued support of these principles.

WORLD'S LARGEST CIRCUS GIVING A STREET PARADE

Leader of the Three Elephant Herds Coming with Robbins Brothers

Big Bingo is coming to town. Bingo is the giant of jungle-land. He is the captain of all the elephants in the world. He can trumpet louder, eat more hay, drink more water and keep more peanut roasters busy than any pachyderm that has yet traveled America.

There are 3 herds of elephants with the Robbins Bros. circus this season and some of them are not to be sneezed at in point of height and bulk. But Big Bingo makes the biggest of his fellows take a back seat. Any two of them can hide behind his mammoth form. Bingo was born in India and is thought to be about 154 years old. His trunk is covered with wrinkles, but his eyes are as bright as those of Sammy or Mary, the two smallest babies in the circus herd. Bingo's sole duty is to "show off" in the menagerie tent. He is not required to go in parade and he performs no tricks in the rings.

The latter is done by three bands of his trained companions, who are this year doing a host of stunts never before attempted by pachyderm actors. Bingo is but one of a thousand strange sights that will be seen in the gigantic menagerie tent when the Robbins Bros. exhibit in Fulton, Monday, October 31. The ring performances of the trained pachyderms will be but one of a thousand novelties presented in the mammoth main tent. Before the elephants appear, the gorgeous fairyland spectacle, "Santa Claus," with its wonderful settings, a cast of 300 actors and ballet of 100 fairy fays, will open the program in the circus "big top." After the elephants have performed, will come the scores upon scores of features that are this season contributing to the greatest ring, aerial and hippodrome ensemble that the famous brother showmen have ever mobilized.

FIRST NEW FORD JOINS "MODEL T"

Detroit, Oct. 25—Henry Ford's 15,000,000th model T, which ended production of the flivver genius and went on exhibition at the Dearborn plant on May 26, last, has been provided with a new playmate.

It's the new Ford and is utterly dissimilar in appearance to the familiar old reliable. Henry's new product was turned out officially at the Fordson plant on Thursday afternoon in the presence of Ford, Edsel, and other company officials.

When it had become a finished product with a body, it was taken to the Dearborn offices and placed beside the last of the "T" line.

It no more resembles the car formerly made by Ford than a porpoise resembles a whale. It is low and rakish and thoroughly stylish. It can make 50 miles easily and 60 if pressed.

Henry Ford wore a happy smile as the first new car came to the end of its production journey. In the idleness of the past five months, it is estimated he has expended many millions in rearranging the Ford plant and business, and that 10,000 dealers in the period have lost a sum aggregating millions of dollars.

The company announces it has tentative orders for 375,000 cars. Through the rearrangement of plant machinery, Ford will be able to turn out 11,000 cars daily, against a maximum of 8,000 under the old scheme of production. In 300 working days the plant will be able to turn out more than 3,000,000 cars.

At present production is limited to only about 20 cars daily. This number will gradually be increased and in two or three weeks should amount to at least 100 daily. From 50,000 to 60,000 cars will be needed to supply dealers for display.

EAT HOURS AND IRREGULAR MEALS UNDERMINE HEALTH

Good health is the greatest material blessing. It is capital to those who labor and prime essential to the rich. And yet, many make no attempt to keep fit, even though the causes of most cases of poor health are preventable.

Eating at irregular intervals, eating too fast, eating too highly seasoned food, frequent chilling of the stomach with iced drinks, and eating heavy meals while under nervous and mental strain, all sooner or later impair digestion and assimilation. Then the body fails to get the proper nourishment and the normal resistance toward disease is lowered, as is also the ability to supply the normal amount of nervous and muscular energy.

Sleeping is next to eating in the plan of nature to keep the body fit. It is a state of unconsciousness planned by nature to permit the human dynamo to rest and store up energy for the next run. Sleep should therefore be regular and sufficient. At least six hours for adults and more for children out of each twenty-four. The many of us use many of the hours that properly belong to the body for sleep to keep it fit in indulging in the numerous frivolous social diversions so common to the night life of our country. Only a great crusade for better health, just such as the Gorgas Memorial has undertaken, can check it.

Constipation so common among women in offices, stores, schools, and most all branches of public work ranks high as an undermining agent.

These are a few of the most common though easily preventable causes for not keeping fit. Ask your family doctor how to avoid them and do so, then you will have accomplished much toward keeping yourself in proper physical condition.

Mrs. Dacus, of St. Louis, is visiting Mrs. Cora DeMyer, at Pierce, Tenn., and will also visit her uncle, Mr. R. S. Matthews, and family in Forestdale.

Efficient and Economical Home Heating

The Enterprise Automatic circulating warm air Heater will heat the entire home with a constant circulation of clean, warm air, insuring the same comfortable warmth in every room.

Finished in dark grained Mahogany enamel, it is in harmony with the other furnishings of the most refined taste. The fire door, ash door and all mechanical parts are concealed when the cabinet is closed.

The powerful heating unit makes it most economical in fuel consumption. The wide deep air ways from top to bottom of the cabinet permit free passage of air, which is quickly heated in passing over the heating unit, and out the top to circulate through the entire house.

POULTRY

RAISE CHICKENS ON SALT RATION

Contrary to a general belief among poultrymen that chickens are very readily poisoned by common table salt, it was found in experiments at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, that chickens may be raised from nine to twenty-one weeks of age on rations containing as high as 8 per cent of salt with no apparent detrimental effects on their condition. The experiments further showed that after the birds had become accustomed to such salty rations, they are enough of them to keep on growing about as fast as chickens that received a much smaller percentage of salt in their feed. The experiments were conducted by H. H. Mitchell, chief in animal nutrition; L. E. Card, chief in poultry husbandry, and C. G. Gorman, formerly assistant in animal nutrition.

Because of the general belief that chickens are very readily poisoned by common table salt, and because of the common occurrence of salt in wastes and by-product feeds for poultry, it was considered important to determine definitely whether the use of such wastes and feeds is dangerous to health or retards growth. This experiment was planned, therefore, in order to determine (1) the maximum percentage of salt that may be fed to growing chickens without harmful results, and (2) the maximum single dose of salt that a chicken can tolerate, or the smallest dose that would cause death.

In all, 75 chickens from three breeds were used. Fifty chickens were given a basal ration made up of yellow corn, bran, dried buttermilk, steamed bone meal and ground limestone, containing percentages of salt of 1, 2, 4 and 8. Twenty-five other chickens were used in determining the maximum single dose of salt that an adult chicken can tolerate.

It was found that chickens could be raised from nine to twenty-one weeks of age on rations containing as high as 8 per cent of salt with no apparent detrimental effects. While it took some time for the chickens to become accustomed to such a salty ration, they soon learned to eat enough of it to promote a rate of growth approximately the same as that of chickens fed the check ration.

When the salt was mixed in the feed, a daily intake of 6 to 8 grams of salt a bird appeared to have no harmful effect on the birds that were 9 weeks old or older.

Salt put directly into the crop in two equal doses amounting to 12 to 16 grams daily was quickly fatal in the case of birds weighing 2 to 3 pounds each.

Salt given in solution twice daily proved to be more toxic than equal amounts consumed in the feed.

The minimum lethal single dose of salt for birds weighing 3 to 5 pounds was found to be close to 4 grams a kilogram of body weight.

Profitable Place for Ducks on Average Farm

Few people realize the profitable place the duck should have on the farm. There was a time when the duck was not a profit but that time is long past. With better feeding methods of poultry and the better understanding of the care they should have the duck is rapidly coming to the front.

The Pekin duck is a meat bird and should be considered as such. However, it is not uncommon to get 10 eggs in a season with proper feed.

The breeders should be selected early in the summer and fed on a grain ration until the first of December, then put on a mash. We have found a good mash to be made of equal parts of ground corn, ground oats, bran, shorts, low-grade flour and meat scraps, says a writer in the Indiana Farmer's Guide. This should be fed wet twice each day, night and morning, with grain at noon.

It is not necessary to have water for the ducks to swim in, but the fertility of the eggs will be better if water is available. Water to swim in is a detriment to young stock that is grown for the market, for the exercise makes the meat tough and stringy and they do not put on fat very fast.

Housing Old Ducks

Old ducks need no particular care. They should have a place where they can keep dry at night. In the winter any dry house will answer for quarters. They can travel about in the cold and snow during the day, but at night they should have a warm place. Eggs are usually laid in the early morning, so it is advisable to keep the birds shut in until all have laid. Do not try to keep ducks and hens in the same pen. Ducks need a soft feed and they are dirty about their eating.

High Prices for Eggs

Egg production during the months of high prices is a matter of first getting hens that are bred for egg production, and following that with the proper methods of care, feeding and management. Commercial poultry men rather generally sell all two-year-old hens, but breeders keep their best hens for many years in some cases. If a hen possesses valuable characteristics, it is only a matter of common sense to use that hen for a breeder as long as possible.

Clothes or the Man

By ROSE MEREDITH

(Copyright.)

IT HAD been a snappy looking suit, as the tailor says, this palm beach suit that Bobby Ashton held to the light of a December day, but now in the cold sunshine its summy appearance and utter unsuitableness sent a cold shiver down his usually stiff spine. The sparkle died out of his vivid dark face.

"No use talking, I haven't got the nerve to wear this to the dance—the girls would all be laughing at Ruth for having such a comic escort—and Ruth always looks so dainty and sweet—gee, I surely am out of luck this winter, that's the truth. My other suit shines like the kitchen stove—I'll have to go to bed with a sore throat or something!"

He spent all the afternoon sponging and pressing his dark serge suit, but in the end its resemblance to a polished stove was even greater than before.

In a rage at his own powerlessness in the matter, he went to the telephone to let Ruth Clark know that he could not escort her to the charity dance on Wednesday. Ruth was out and he went miserably to bed, knowing that if he lost the friendship of Ruth now, it would affect all of his future life. The dream of all his desires was that some day he might succeed in the business his father had left, and with his mother taken care of, that he could marry Ruth.

Of course a nice girl like Ruth Clark would never bother with a poor youth who had sunk all his available money in a palm beach suit in the summer, and had worn it ever since until it had become a regular joke among the boys. At the last dance he had fancied that Ruth's face had changed a little bit when she saw him in his familiar pale suit, his chin up, handsome as Bobby Ashton always was. But beyond that peculiar flash that he had seen, Ruth had appeared as sweetly gracious as ever.

The dance was to be on Wednesday and, by Tuesday, Bobby Ashton had fretted himself into a feverish condition. It all sounds very silly to an adult reader, but on these small trifles hang a life's happiness, sometimes.

As Bobby went home Tuesday night, he lingered in front of a tailor shop, admiring the quiet dark suits hanging on the long pole. He did not see Ruth Clark on the other side of the street pause and watch him for a long time before she ran swiftly to the street toward home. All he knew was that he would have to telephone her that he had a cold. Then he'd go to bed, and get Mr. Wollard to attend the store for him the following day. It was a cowardly retreat but there was no need for him to make Ruth ridiculous.

At supper he told his mother about it. "I have wondered about it, too, Bobby—if it was only next month instead of this."

"If," smiled Bobby. Perhaps it was his mother's worried face that suddenly changed Bob Ashton's mind. "I tell you, mother," he said, fluently, "I will go and wear the suit and if they want to laugh, let 'em!" "That is splendid—and spoken like an Ashton," she smiled tremulously. "That's that!" declared Bobby, and getting out his fiddle played all the rollicking tunes he knew to keep up his mother's spirits.

"I feel like a fool," he told himself as he went to bed, "making such a fuss over what I'll wear! If Ruth is ashamed of me—I'll get what's coming to me. Now, I wonder if those cases of saws will be coming along tomorrow?" And his mind drifted off on thoughts of business.

Wednesday was a rather queer day for the young hardware dealer. Almost all the boys he knew telephoned to know if he was going to wear his palm beach suit to the dance, and when they heard that he was they usually groaned. The groans sounded genuine, too. One boy wanted to borrow his tennis flannels and Bobby gave his permission, wondering if they all had some kind of joke they were putting up on him. Never mind, he'd show 'em whether clothes made the man or not. He'd wear what he pleased.

That night his mother pinned a pink geranium in his buttonhole, and helped him into the warm overcoat that hid the immaculate palm beach suit.

"Have a wonderful time, Bobby," she sent him off with a very satisfied smile to stop for Ruth Clark, whose fur coat concealed some pretty evening frock, no doubt. They were late. When they entered the large hall, Bobby looked around with a dizzying look in his dark eyes.

Every man and youth in the hall wore light summer garments, suits like his own, tennis flannels and shirt waists, gray flannels, white linen, while all the girls wore summer sports clothes. Even the blushing girl beside him had on a pale pink linen frock and little white oxford ties.

"I don't quite—understand," stammered Bob Ashton.

"Didn't you know that the committee decided to make the dance into a summer costume affair? And they're going to have a maypole later and a game of tennis downstairs," added Ruth, chattering to hide her embarrassment.

"And it was your suggestion, Ruth," said Bobby, as he lingered at the Clark gate. "Did you do it for me?"

She nodded. "Would you do more for me, Ruth—would you wait awhile for me?" "Why didn't you ask me before?" she whispered.

STAR CALLS "SENORITA" GREATEST STORY EVER

New Role Fulfills Long Standing Ambition of Bebe

This is the best story that I have ever had. And this is the first time I have said that, too.

Thus does Bebe Daniels characterize her latest Paramount comedy-drama "Senorita," an original screen play by John McDermott, written expressly for Miss Daniels which comes Monday and Tuesday to the Grand Theatre.

In this production Miss Daniels dons hirsute adornment on her upper lip, for in this picture the fascinating Bebe, whose femininity has been so pronounced in previous works, launches into a totally different characterization from any before attempted.

As a matter of fact, in "Senorita," Miss Daniels achieves two ambitions that have obsessed her for months. Ever since she played "Argentine Love," she has ardently desired to do another Spanish role. And since "Wild Wild Susan," she has awaited the opportunity for enacting a genuine boyish part, one in which she could give full rein to her natural love for out of door sports and the athletic personality which is so much a part of her.

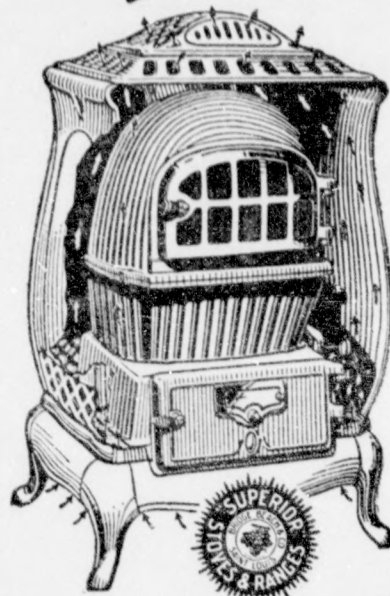

Miss Daniels' ambition to do a Spanish characterization is perfectly natural, for she is of mixed Spanish and American descent. On her mother's side she comes from a long line of Spanish ancestry. Her grandmother was a noted Colombian beauty, the daughter of a one-time governor of the United States of Colombia, and herself a native of Barcelona, Spain.

Fulton Music Artists

Heard By Radio.

Last Wednesday at the noon hour two vocal solos were given from Commercial-Appeal Radio Station W.M.C., Memphis, by Mrs. Milton Callahan, a former vocal student of Mrs. R. S. Matthews, of Forestdale. Mrs. Callahan was accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Whitesel Matthews, who at present is taking pipe-organ instruction in Memphis. Miss Matthews also broadcasted two instrumental numbers. These are musical artists of more than ordinary talent as is evidenced by their numbers having been put "on the air," and it is quite probable that they will be heard by radio in another musical program in the near future.

Born Thursday, October 20th, to Mr. and Mrs. Millard Berry, in Forestdale, a pretty girl baby.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Dresden, Tenn., Oct. 23. — Will Bragg, 50, who was instantly killed by a southbound freight train on the I. C. Railroad, one mile north of Gibbs, Obion county, late Saturday afternoon, was buried at New Hope Church, six miles east of here this afternoon. Mr. Bragg had been loading timber at Harris Station Saturday and was walking from Harris Station to Gibbs, where he would take a train home over the N. C. & St. L. Railroad, when he met a northbound train, stepping out of the way of the northbound train he got on or near the track to his right—this being a double track line—when a freight train going south struck him. His neck and body were broken. The body was taken to Union City where Bowlin Brothers, undertakers of Dresden, went to prepare the body for burial. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Nelle Maiden Bragg, sister of the Hon. Selden Maiden and Bright Maiden and Glasgow Bragg, son of the deceased by his first wife. Rev. E. L. Robinson conducted the funeral services.
