All these signs point unquestionably to conditions are much better in the locality. A survey shows that practically all rental property in Fulton is tenanted, and the survey shows that where property has been improved it is bringing better income. Every indication points to the fact that more rental property is needed in Fulton.

SOUTH INCREASES WAGES
Reports collected from 663 southern manufacturing firms by the Southern States Industrial Council show that the average hourly wage in this section has increased 30.4 per cent since 1933, while the increase in the North has been only 14.7%. While it is true that the southern wages might have been below normal in a number of industrial plants, the difference between the 30.4% advance in the South and the 14.7 percent in the North is quite noteworthy.

Basic economic conditions rather than unwillingness to pay higher wages it what has been responsible for the lower wage that obtained in the South.

The Louisville Courier-Journal offers interesting observations on the differential in wages between the two sections. That newspaper says:

"For instance, the South has a warmer climate, which reduces fuel costs and eliminates the necessity of the great quantities of heavy clothing which are necessary in the North. The degree of mechanization has much to do with the matter and also the generally lower percentage of skilled labor below the Mason and Dixon line. Other factors are lower rents and lower living costs in the smaller towns of the South, compared to the great industrial centers in the North."

The wage differential between North and South has now been lowered from 33 1-3% to 24.4%. The worker in the North now receives an average of 54.5 cents an hour and the worker in the South receives 41.2 cents, but there are many advantages to working in the South for a lower cash wage of which the Northern worker has not the slightest conception." (Jackson, Tenn., Sun)

ARE YOU A CHURCHGOER

Deprive no child of the right and pleasure of going to Sunday school. He may have other ideas, but lead him gently and firmly to Sunday School each Sunday. The day will come when he will thank you, and your reward will be paid, richly, in human happiness and love. No man can be a well-rounded, able, admirable personality, without at least some understanding of religion.

Church-going is one of the most worthy institutions in Kentucky. From the earliest days, when pioneers left the protection of forts on Sabbath days and carried guns to log houses of worship, the church has been part of Kentucky life. It was a meeting place and a place of prayer for our hardy ancestors, of whom all Kentuckians are so justly proud. It was the place of weddings and merry making, as it was also the place of sadness and tears when a loved one passed into the promised home.

There is no place equal to church and church training. There is no power equal to prayer. There is no book so good and true as the old Bible, because it teaches how to live an able and beautiful life. Young folks get a great deal out of church. Young men and young girls church-goers train in leadership and oratory. Their anxious minds, hopes and ambitions are kindled and fed as they listen and speak of the unselfish life of Christ and biblical characters. The young man he becomes an officer in Sunday school, almost surely becomes a leader in affairs of the world. He learns the human side, also the spiritual side, and those will go far toward making a success in life, a good husband, father and a useful citizen. (Mayfield Messenger.)

MID-SOUTH FAIR TO OPEN SEPT. 14

Memphis, Tenn., August 27.—The Mid-South Fair, which opens at Memphis, September 14th and continues through September 19th, will have its usual comprehensive display of livestock, particularly of cattle, sheep and swine. A departure is being made this year limiting the prize awards for dairy cattle and swine to animals owned in the South. This will prove an incentive to the Southern breeders to fit their stock for show at Memphis.

The big livestock parade will be a daily feature of the Fair at 5 o'clock each afternoon on the plaza in front of the cattle barn. A parade of the champions of each breed, with interesting descriptive talks by breed experts will be given, along with the answering of all questions.

Roy Henderson will be superintendent of the beef cattle demonstration with E. E. Irwin of Springfield, Illinois, as judge. Class 1 will be an open competition for Herefords with $1,000 in premiums offered. Judging will take place on Tuesday, September 15th.

Class 2 will be open competition for Aberdeen-Angus with $900.00 offered in premiums. The judging in this event will take place on Wednesday, September 16th.

Short-horns will be judged on Thursday, September 17th, with the amount offered in premiums being $800.00.

Dairy cattle will be exhibited on Tuesday, Sept. 15th, with entries closing September 3rd. C. W. Reaves will be superintendent with Dr. John V. Nevitt, of St. Louis, as judge. Jersey judging will take place on Wednesday, September 15th, with $1,020 offered in premiums.

Guernseys are to be judged on Tuesday September 15th, with $970.00 hung up in cash awards. Holsteins will be judged on Thursday, September 17th, with $720.00 offered in prizes.

J. C. King will be in charge of the swine demonstration, with Dr. W. J. Pitts, of Gallatin, as judge. Durocs, Hampshires, Poland-Chinas will be exhibited with liberal cash awards offered for first, second, third, fourth and fifth classes.

The sheep demonstration will also be handled by Mr. King, with judging starting on Tuesday, September 15th. Southdowns, Hampshires, and Shropshires will be on exhibition with prizes offered for first, second, third and fourth places.

The 4-H Club and Futuro Farmers exhibits of dairy calves will also be included in the demonstration.

Announcement is made of the marriage to Miss Charlotte Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Roper of Sedalia, Ky., to Mr. William Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd, also of Sedalia. The ceremony was performed in Fulton, June 28, by Rev. E. M. Mathis at the First Methodist church.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR CATALOGS
First copies of the 1936 Kentucky State Fair catalog have just been placed in the mail, according to an announcement by L. B. Sheppard, Secretary of the Fair Advance Committee and requests for premium lists indicate that every department as well as the famous $10,500 saddle horse stakes will attract the largest number of competitors in many years. A copy of the 1936 Fair catalog is on file at the office of this newspaper for the public's inspection.

JUST PLAIN BORED
(From The Business Record).
"Did you ever attend a theatre to find recreation and entertainment and have to sit through a whole series of screen 'advertisements' that simply bored you to death? 'You start to equine and twist in your seat. Your neighbor in the next seat and across the aisle is doing the same thing. It's a perfectly natural reaction, because this type of stuff is a pain in the neck to 99 people out of 100. And the average individual tries to avoid sitting through these pesky episodes. Many even get up and leave the theatre before they see all the feature picture."

"Just watch your reactions to this horrid stuff next time you attend a theatre. We wager you'll get bored, too, for after all, you're paying to be entertained."

Theatres are working merchants for advertising tie-ups on the screen in small towns, because the shrewd business man of the larger cities doesn't go for this stuff. The average merchant who attends the theatre himself doesn't like to sit through it. Maybe he will stand for his own—but if it is the other fellow's, it's just too bad!

"Another thing. If these same merchants had a stock of merchandise which they absolutely had to dispose of, they would not resort to this so-called screen advertising. They would seek some definite way by which to carry their message into the homes, where it could be perused in quiet, and not be chased because it was destroying an evening of entertainment."

Which brings the thought: "That ANY ADVERTISING MESSAGE THAT LEAVES A BAD TASTE WITH THE GENERAL PUBLIC, IS MUCH BETTER LEFT UNSAID, for it really does more harm than good."

"This thought is based upon the experience of experts who have made advertising a life study, and upon facts established by advertising agencies, department heads and manufacturing concerns. Statistics kept by them show the correctness of their knowledge in the matter."

PEOPLE SWELTER, CROPS WILT AS TEMPERATURE HITS TOP

The thermometer hit 100 degrees here early this week, and this is a high mark here this summer. The days have been extremely hot, as people swelter under the fiery rays of Old Sol and crops wilt. The nights have brought no relief, and sleep and rest have been hard to find.

A rain is needed badly, and the continued dry weather is hurting crops and pastures extensively, and unless rain comes soon the damage will probably be heavier than they were in the recent dry spell.

tion. If you desire an individual copy, address the Kentucky State Fair, room 1190, Republic Building, Louisville.

Every indication is that the 34th renewal of the State Fair will be the most successful since 1920. Kentucky manufacturers and merchants are planning many interesting exhibits in the beautiful and spacious $300,000 industrial building. Wide-spread interest is reported in the livestock department and other farm exhibits, and greatly increased participation in these activities is predicted. Officials recently announced that the '36 Fair midway would be more varied and entertaining than any in recent years.

Gate admissions have been reduced to 25c; while season tickets cost only $1.00. This is another forward step taken by the Fair to insure a larger attendance and help make the Fair bigger and better than ever. Remodeled buildings and beautifully improved grounds will greet the visitors and many new and novel contests and special attractions are planned. Remember "It's Kentucky's Show. Let's All Go!"

PERMANENT PASTURE

Permanently fence the land least suited to cultivate and best adapted to pasture. Reduce cost per acre by fencing as large areas as possible. Provide water, shade and shelter. Terrace where necessary.

Top dress old pastures according to the soil's need with 300 to 400 pounds of acid phosphate and 700 to 4,000 pounds of finely ground limestone per acre at intervals of 4 or 5 years. Mow twice during the summer to kill weeds. Feed stock on poor spots. Graze lightly if at all during winter and spring and heavily in late summer and fall. Provide rotation pastures for spring season.

If soil is very poor, start with lespedeza to improve it, before grass is sown. Tennessee Experiment Station Lespedeza No. 76 is decidedly best; it grows taller and stays green longer in the fall than other kinds.

In March sow 5 to 10 pounds per acre. Disc the lespedeza pasture and sow rye in September or October, leaving enough lespedeza to reseed the land. Use 200 pounds of phosphate per acre where needed.

In August prepare land that has had one or two seasons of lespedeza pasture. In September apply 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate and 800 to 4,000 pounds of limestone per acre and sow rye with permanent grasses and clover as follows: Home grown rye, 1 bushel; orchard grass, 8 pounds; red top and blue grass, mixed, 2 pounds; alsike and white clover mixed, 2 pounds. In the spring add sweet clover (inoculated) and lespedeza mixed, 6 pounds. Follow grazing and mowing schedule as suggested above.

On good soil permanent grasses and clovers may be sown at the start with two or three pounds of lespedeza added to the mixture in the spring. Early fall is the best time to sow grasses, but fair success is often obtained from March seeding with clover on limed land that has been in cultivation the previous season. Nurse crop should be grazed off or cut for hay in dry seasons. Mow weeds during the summer and graze lightly if at all the first season.

ROTATION PASTURES

Follow the cultivated crops in the rotation with small grain as early as possible. Barley or oats on rich lands, wheat or rye on poorer soils. On soils in need of phosphate or lime apply 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate and two tons of limestone per acre. Smaller amounts will give proportionate results. Where lime is difficult to obtain, and fertilizer drills are available for spreading 500 to 1,000 pounds of finely ground limestone may be mixed with the fertilizer.

Sow sweet clover, alsike clover, lespedeza mixed, 4 to 12 pounds per acre and red top and timothy mixed—3 to 6 pounds. Sow clovers in March on firm freshened ground. Sow grasses with small grain in September or October. Otherwise sow in March with clovers. Inoculation of sweet clover is necessary unless the land has successfully grown sweet clover or alfalfa at first and to guard against failure it should be mixed with other clovers when first sown on the land. New, unharmed sweet clover should be sown in January and scarified in March. New crop Experiment Station Lespedeza No. 76 is decidedly best.

Graze or cut small grain for hay in day seasons. Either mowing or grazing sweet clover the first summer reduces the second season's growth and should be done late in the fall, if at all. Better hold in reserve for emergencies. Mowing the second season destroys the stand. Graze heavily in the spring of second and then let the clovers make seed to be turned under in winter for a cultivated crop. A volunteer will follow in the rotation. Have as many acres as corn or cotton.

ALFALFA HAY

Have about as many acres of alfalfa as corn or cotton or rotation pastures. Gradually replace grass meadows and soybeans with alfalfa fields—not patches. Expect some failures at first and remember that they are rare when the same land is sown the second time. Alfalfa is not new; it is the oldest hay crop known and the best.

Start by sowing alfalfa with red clover, using 6 to 8 pounds of common alfalfa seed and 4 to 6 pounds of Tennessee-grown red clover seed per acre. The addition of a few pounds of Experiment Station Lespedeza No. 76 and Timothy or Red Top will insure against total failure. Select the field not well suited to cultivation but with deep, well-

WSE TATTOO TO

THWART THIEVES

As a part of the nation-wide drive against the stealing of farm property, chickens are being tattooed in Fleming, Mason, Pulaski, and Hart counties in Kentucky, and the work soon will be extended to all northern and central counties of the state.

In the case of chickens, the tattoo is used in the web of a wing. For other livestock, a brand is used. Methods also have been devised to protect grain and farm equipment. Sheriffs and other law-enforcing officers are being instructed.

flowers in Kentucky and surrounding states are furnished with each farmer's grand, asking possible to trace stolen property.

The tattoo method of protecting poultry was endorsed at the annual summer meeting of the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. It now is being used by farmers in several states and is said to be highly effective.

A Frank Statement ABOUT BUILDING MATERIAL COSTS

MANY PEOPLE ASK US • •

"WHAT ABOUT THE COST OF BUILDING MATERIALS —We understand the Cost of Building a Home Has Gone Up. Are Building Prices Normal?"

We Say Emphatically!

• NO! Labor costs have gone up, but building material prices have not kept up with them. We sincerely believe that those who build NOW will save very considerably over building six months or a year from today.

Why Not You?

• Hundreds of families of this community are taking advantage of the present building costs. We respectfully suggest that if you are planning to build or remodel—"sometime"—

Make that "SOMETIME" SOON!

We will be glad to make estimates on your costs, and help you with your building plans.

AMATEUR CONTESTS SPONSORED BY KY. STATE FAIR

Amateur bicycle riders, horseshoe pitchers and croquet players will have ample opportunity to demonstrate their skill during the Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19. Bicycle races, horseshoe and croquet games will be conducted on the Fair grounds each day for all who wish to enter and compete for the prizes. Winners of the daily races and games will be matched in tournament fashion throughout Fair week and the finals of each division will be conducted on Saturday, September 19, following which suitable prizes will be awarded. It is expected that participants in these contests will be large, as no professionals are allowed, and the fun of competing should be well worth the effort of every amateur.

These contests will be conducted under the auspices of the Louisville Round Table, an organization composed of some 18 luncheon clubs of Louisville. The Special Committee in charge of the races and tournaments is made up of Walter H. Sherman, Superintendent of the Recreation Division, City of Louisville; Mitchell Roth and Eugene Stuart, representative of the Round Table. Entry blanks for the bicycle races, horseshoe and croquet games may be obtained from the State Fair Headquarters in Louisville. Address requests to 1100 Republic Building, Louisville.

ENTRIES LARGE IN STATE FAIR BABY CONTEST

Advance entries in the Kentucky State Fair Baby Health Contest indicate that the contest this year will be one of the most popular features at the Fair, which will be held September 14-19. Officials announced today that entries for the contest close September 1st. Entries received after that date will not be eligible.

The Babies Health Contest offers the mothers of Kentucky an unusual opportunity to have competent physicians examine their babies free of charge. Recommendations will be made where necessary for improving the baby's health. The division of maternal and child health of the State Department of Health cooperates to make these examinations possible.

Ribbons and certificates will be issued September 18th to all children found to be without defects. One free admission ticket will be given to the mother or adult accompanying each entrant. Each mother will be given a summary of her child's examination and a book on child care by a prominent child specialist. Dr. Annie Veech, Louisville, will supervise all examinations at the Fair this year.

Mothers wishing to enter their children in the contest are urged to do so at once. Any baby between the ages of 12 and 36 months in good health may be entered. There is no entrance fee charged. Entry blanks may be obtained through the mail by writing to the State Fair Secretary, room 1105, Republic Bldg., Louisville.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

One hundred and eighteen health brooms were made by Rockcastle county homemakers.

The homemakers' curb market in Hopkins county has had sales up to ten despite damage done to gardens by the drought.

Pike county farmers have a large number of pullets that will be placed in laying a month earlier than usual.

Lawrence county farmers made extensive plantings of fall gardens. More than 200 4-H club members attended camp from the Big Sandy district.

H. R. Keiser of Allen county reported a profit of $177 during the past year from a flock of 253 hens. Fifty-four Franklin county farmers attended sheep-drenching and dipping demonstrations. Graves county farmers are having samples of soil tested and are showing renewed interest in the soil improvement program.

The value of alfalfa pasture and hay is recognized by Campbell county farmers who made heavy seedings.

The 210 acres of strawberries in Muhlenburg county are believed to have a 75 percent stand.

A Jersey cow belonging to R. C. Hays of Washington county produced 899 pounds of milk last month.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS
Preliminary figures for the year showed a total enrollment of 32,543 boys and girls in 4-H club work in Kentucky, the largest membership of the state. One hundred and nineteen counties have adopted this type of home education.

One hundred and fifty boys and girls from 22 counties attended the 4-H club stock judging school held at the College of Agriculture at Lexington. Training was given in judging fat stock dairy cattle and poultry, preliminary to selecting county teams to enter the stock judging contest at the State Fair.

Laura Johnson, Simpson county secretary of the Kentucky Association of 4-H clubs, is appealing for more entries of secretary's books at the State Fair. There are hundreds of well-kept books that should be entered, she believes. The first prize is $2.

basket shooting, their hurdling, their tennis backhand, or their ball-carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing, and the fine points on line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All-American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers and tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

AMERICAN BOY fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game. And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.

Ohio State University's track head and coach of the famous sprinter and low hurdler, Jesse Owens, and himself a former hurdling star, first learned to hurdle from articles in THE AMERICAN BOY. "I used to cut out hurdling pictures and duplicate them in front of a mirror. Then no the track I'd follow that form."

Today thousands of future champions are just as eagerly following THE AMERICAN BOY. Send your subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for three years, and add 50 cents if you want the subscription to go to a foreign address. On newsstands 10 cents a copy.

PANAMA LIMITED STOPS IN FULTON

The Panama Limited, the Illinois Central hot-shot special, which breezes through Fulton every day between Chicago and New Orleans, stopped here Sunday night to put off a package of radium to be delivered to a Mayfield hospital. The radium was for an urgent treatment of a patient, which necessitated the stopping of this fast train between Chicago and Memphis.

A. A. Larson, local express agent, left this week for Rochester, Minn., to undergo examination and treatment at the Mayo hospital.
