THE LISTENING POST

For the past few days a boy who used to be called the Little Boy in this column has been taking daily two hour lessons on a lino-type machine. Each morning at seven o'clock he sits down before a machine which cost more than five thousand dollars and works at the keyboard for a couple of hours. It is my earnest hope that in about a year he will be worth some money at this job, although at the moment I am paying a teacher a small sum to watch over him and give him the proper instructions. It is also my hope that this boy will be able to largely pay his way through some college by the knowledge that he is beginning to acquire—all of which, of course, is dependent upon many things. Continued health, continued ability to keep on going, the war situation—all these enter into the picture, for in these days all of us are seeing through a glass darkly.

Looking at the boy and seeing what he turns out of the machine, I think daily of another boy who once started to learn to set type. This was long ago. This boy started at a type case, sitting on a tall stool, with a copy of a dictionary on top of the stool to make the boy able to reach the type case. Setting type by hand was and is a tedious process, but that boy had never even heard of a lino-type in those days. The final mark of four columns in a day of ten hours was the ultimate goal, and the boy finally did reach that goal. Now, on a machine, men set ten or twelve in an eight hour day.

I was that other boy, and my teacher was a tall and saturnine fellow, who was sober only now and then, and he expressed grave doubts of my ability ever to master the art preservative. I remember the shop distinctly. Instead of a press that prints as many as eight pages at the rate of three thousand papers per hour, there was an instrument of torture called a "man hand cylinder," on which two men, by hard work, might print six or seven hundred papers of two pages each in an hour. Instead of looking out on a street of pavement, with dozens of automobiles, I looked out on a town of mud and dust in which the horse was predominant.

The first piece of typesetting I ever did was a long article called "The Origin of the Flag," and ladies and gentlemen, before I got that article set in type and corrected, I wished heartily that the United States had never had a flag. I must have worked a week at the job, and I remember I got fifty cents for it. The fifty cents looked large when I got it, but looking back at it now, thinking of all the hours of agony and toil, I still think I was underpaid. Every letter had to be picked up and placed in a certain position, and when the "stick" was filled it had to be dumped, and I remember yet that agony it was when I tried to dump the first stick and spilled it completely. I still remember the jeering laughter of that old printer, as he told me I would never master the trade.

What is it now that boys work at? Well, it is a keyboard, pretty much like a typewriter, only larger, and as keys are touched, brass matrices tumble down until a line is filled. Then, by a certain mechanical motion, that line is lifted, and the machine automatically takes that filled line and manufactures a shining line of type that is as solid and firm as the Pyramids. It's pretty soft, as compared to the old days, but it has its problems.

But in looking over the lines which the boy casts, there comes a warm feeling that banishes any bitterness. For in those lines I see the warm heart of the boy, the old feeling of a boy for his father, and the unquenchable heart of youth. Look at these, taken at random, from what he cast yesterday:

"My hint for the ham sand-

Command May Have To Halt Resistance

Maginot Line Attack Repulsed; Government Moves

Tours, France. —The main armies of France fell back tonight far below abandoned, German-invaded Paris in a fighting retreat that may be their last movement of the war.

Other forces far to the east were declared to have thrown back, with "tremendous losses," a German head-on attack against the Maginot Line.

All but broken under the mightiest assault ever thrown against men, the Polius who fought the main battle of France counterattacked with a desperate fury as they retired under the Nazi pressure.

They did not even know whether their command could continue the struggle.

Paris, from which the government long since had fled, was gone—occupied by the Germans and ringed by their armored units and infantrymen.

Tours Abandoned
Tours, the new emergency seat of the ministers from which Premier Raynaud sent a "last appeal" to President Roosevelt last night for American aid, was being abandoned for yet another refuge—presumably the far southern seaport of Bordeaux.

Tonight's communique said the withdrawal below Paris had been "carried out conforming to plans," but was barren of details beyond disclosing the first French naval action against Italy in this war.

This was the bombardment last night by French warships of industrial establishments and the railway line along the Italian coast—an operation accompanied by an air raid in the region of Venice and the dropping of pamphlets on Rome.

News Is Mostly Dark
But word from the fronts was little and bare of comfort for the French, aside from the French success reported at the Maginot Line, west of the Saar.

which didn't work. I still have hope of getting the coca cola. I wish that I could sleep longer than seven every morning. I hope Mom will let me drive the car to the country club, but I don't guess she will. I wish I could have seen the game we won, but did not get to. This is the third day I have been running the machine."

Ah, me, what a difference between that long article on "The Origin of the Flag," painfully picked up letter by letter, and these outpourings of the heart and cast from the molten heart of a lino-type.

Local Liquor Firm Must Close Out Its Business At Noon Today

Frankfort, Ky. — George Stewart, State Distilled Spirits Administrator, said late today the two special liquor exporters barred from further sales for distribution in other States' dry counties, had received an extension of time until noon Saturday to dispose of their left-over stock.

Under an order issued after the Court of Appeals refused their plea to bar State interference with their exports, the two concerns — the Middleboro Exporting Company at Middleboro and the C. & G. Distributing Company at Fulton—were ordered to cease exporting by noon

Pogue Will Speak To Busy Men's Bible Class Tomorrow

Dr. F. C. Pogue, professor of history in Murray State College, will be guest speaker tomorrow at the Busy Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church. Dr. Pogue, who is well known over this section as a speaker and as historian, spoke here several weeks ago before the Rotary Club and demands have been numerous for him to return. J. E. Fall, chairman of the program committee of the Sunday School class, has been able to secure Dr. Pogue's services for this meeting.

Dr. Pogue has studied in Europe and before the Rotary Club gave one of the clearest expositions of the cause of the European conflict that has ever been heard here.

A cordial invitation is extended by the Busy Men's Class to all to attend the class meeting tomorrow. Dr. Pogue is a worth while speaker.

Paul Hornbeak Buys Ambulance

Paul Hornbeak, local funeral director, recently purchased a new Sayres and Scovill ambulance. The new ambulance, which is strictly modernistic, is light blue in color, with blue appointments. It is on a Cadillac-LaSalle chassis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornbeak and daughter, Evelyn, arrived home last night from Louisville, where they have been attending the Kentucky Funeral Directors Association, which was held June 12-14 in the Louisville Armory and Kentucky Hotel.

Jobs Lined Up For Reliefs

Cleveland. —Cleveland's employable poor relief clients will be "mobilized" to supply labor needs resulting from the national defense program.

City relief officials today scanned a list of 68,000 relief dependents, expecting to fit some of the estimated 20,000 employables into jobs opened by the rush of defense orders.

Others may be placed in industries where manpower has been reduced by the demand for workers in armament production, said City Relief Commissioner Frank G. Jones.

Of the 20,000 employable, at least half are unskilled or laborers, Jones said. More than 13,000 are persons in families, and 7,000 are single. Over 6 per cent are men.

A "hat exhibit" has been planned by Anderson county farm women to show low-cost re-made hats. Approximately a thousand people stopped to see a crop demonstration of grasses on the farm of Creed Oney, Carroll county.

The Grayson County Sportsmen's Club is modifying the 4-H conservation plan to suit local conditions. In Hancock county, use of soybeans in river overflow land and on level lands has doubled.

Duce's Dagger Cuts Italian Out Of "Italian Village" Cafe

Dallas. — In a quarter-page newspaper advertisement Nick DeGeorge and Sam Ventura announced today their big Dallas restaurant is no longer the "Italian Village."

Under a heavy-type headline of "Italian Village" in which the "Italian" was crossed out, DeGeorge and Ventura explained: "For ten years it has been our privilege to serve you in the restaurant named for an Italy that our fathers knew—a beautiful Italy, with fine music, fine wines, fine foods, that, in a way, we tried to incorporate in our place. . . . Today all that is changed, there is no more Italy that we named the 'Italian Village' for . . ."

They felt, the said, "The Mussolini knife-thrust in the back as keenly as all other American citizens."

Governor To Ban Politics In Road Patrol

Frankfort, Ky. —Gov. Keen Johnson today approved strict orders to the State Highway Patrol not to permit "political expediency or preference to interfere with rigid enforcement of orders and instructions."

The Governor ordered a new statement of administration policy mailed to each member of the patrol, and posted in all district headquarters. The statement outlines a four-point program of conduct and duties, and originally was written by Commissioner of Highways J. Lyter Donaldson, former police chief at Paducah, who succeeded Maj. W. H. Hansen as head of the patrol this week. The patrol is a division of the Department of Highways.

Force Being Cut
Personnel in the patrol is in progress of being reduced, with the announced administration aim of quality rather than quantity. Eight patrolmen have been discharged recently, and more are understood to be slated to go.

1. The patrol will be expected to reflect to the letter the administration's policy of strict economy and loyal efficiency.
2. The patrolmen will be expected to conduct themselves so as to reflect credit on the whole administration, and "in such a manner as will inspire and retain confidence of the public."

War Prisons Held Humane

Geneva, Switzerland. —International Red Cross officials just back from an inspection of prison camps in Great Britain, France and Germany, say they found no cases of ill treatment and no violations of any international law governing war prisoners.

Germany, according to neutral sources in Switzerland, could swap ten French-British prisoners for every German held by the Allies and still have tens of thousands left. These sources estimate that Germany's total advantage in prisoners, including Belgians and Dutch, is close to fifty to one. Germany still has approximately 250,000 Polish prisoners, many of whom have been put into labor battalions.

The International Red Cross prisoners' bureau, an all-Swiss organization which co-ordinates the work of national societies, so far has handed 587,000 letters between prisoners and their relatives and 220,000 other communications.

Myrtle Binkley Wins Scholarship

Miss Myrtle Binkley, daughter of Mrs. Chester Binkley of this city, was recently awarded a scholarship to the Danforth Foundation Camp in Shelby, Mich. She was named the second most outstanding freshman home economics student in North America. She will be at the camp from July 29 to August 11.

During her freshman year at the University of Kentucky, Miss Binkley was an outstanding student. She was chosen the second most outstanding freshman, and was also initiated into Omega, sophomore honorary society for women. She will leave Sunday for Lexington, to enter the University for the first term of summer school.

Bridge Tolls Will Be Cut In Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky. — Round-trip fares for the price of present one-way trips were granted for passenger automobile on Kentucky's eight intrastate bridges today, effective in about thirty days.

State Highway Commissioner J. Lyter Donaldson, in acceding to a Paducah delegation's request that the plan tried last December be made permanent, said it would be put into effect as soon as details could be completed.

Bridges Listed
The bridges are those over the Tennessee River at Eggers' Ferry and near Paducah, over the Cumberland at Burnside, Canton and Smithland; the Green at Spotsville, and the Kentucky at Boonesboro and Tyronne. The round-trip ticket will be good for twenty-four hours.

Donaldson said it had been estimated the plan would reduce passenger car revenue not more than 10 per cent and total revenue approximately 6 per cent.

Refuses Prediction
Asked how the reduction would affect paying off the bond issue on the bridges, which matures in 1950 but which it was estimated last January would be paid off by 1948, Donaldson laughed and replied: "I am making no more such predictions. I had enough of that in the Henderson bridge."

Tools-Edger Also Makes Piano Dowels

Marsfield, Mass. — Piano manufacturers beat a path to a little one-man shop in this town bearing the simple inscription over the door, "Lawnmowers and Tools Sharpened."

It is the plant of Charlie Randall, who manufactures piano dowels. The owner says it is the only shop of its kind in New England and although he supplies thousands of dowels annually to the great piano manufacturers of the Middle West, Randall also finds time to sharpen tools and lawnmowers for residents of the community.

The dowels look like lollipop sticks, but are really the product of fine workmanship. On an average day he can turn out and tumble finish 3,000 every one necessarily perfect in every detail.

All tools and machinery are designed and manufactured by Randall.

Fish Wants To Let Conant, Lippman Dash Off To War

Washington. — Representative Fish (R.-N. Y.) announced today that he would try to repeal legal provisions which prohibit United States citizens from fighting in foreign armies under penalty of losing their citizenship.

"I want to make it easy," he said, "for such prominent interventionists as President Conant of Harvard University, Walter Lippman and other well-known columnists, newspaper editors and international bankers to enlist in the French Foreign Legion in order to practice what they preach without involving the American people, who are 90 per cent in favor of keeping out of foreign wars."

Merit Plan Committee Is Appointed

Frankfort, Ky. —Preparations for giving examinations under Federal regulations to employees of State agencies dealing with the National Social Security Board were made today when Gov. Keen Johnson appointed a merit system committee.

James T. Norris, associate editor of the Ashland Independent, and Dr. James W. Martin, head of the University of Kentucky business administration department, were named to the committee, and the Governor said its ex officio chairman would be H. B. Henderson, State Personnel Director.

2d Test Necessary
Employees of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, the Employment Service and the public assistance division of the Welfare Department were named as those having to take the examinations.

It was said in official circles that the unemployment compensation and employment service workers were given examinations under Federal supervision when hired but that Federal officials required all to be examined again as to their fitness.

The committee is expected to meet soon upon call of Chairman Henderson, name a secretary and make arrangements for the examinations, subject to approval by the Social Security Board.

Jewel Salesman Forgets Bag Of $15,000 Gems

Columbia, S. C. —A jewelry salesman walked off and left his bag in the lobby of a hotel.

Some five hours later a bellboy, not knowing to whom it belonged, placed the bag in the checkroom. Later in the day the frantic salesman came looking for it. The bag contained mounted diamonds valued at $15,000.

"Pokema" Just Draw Poker

Tulsa, Okla. —Time after time police raided gambling places in the Negro quarter.

On their next intrusion the police were met by a Negro who announced naively: "Can't arrest us, boss. We ain't playing draw poker. Just pokema."

"May be a new name but it's still draw poker to us," the officers announced. "Come along."

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Fifteen Logan county 4-H'ers have been supplied with purebred gilts, with 20 club members on the waiting list.

By going to Pennsylvania and getting gilts f.o.b., Robert Prewitt of Liberty, Ky., cut costs in half.

A sportsman and wild life conservation committee in Gallatin county has distributed 415 quail. In Pike county, records show that despite low egg prices, the most careful managers still make money on poultry.

Colonel Lindbergh Warns That United States Must Fully Arm

Washington. — A dark picture of the Allies' military position in Europe, combined with a warning that America must urgently "arm to the teeth," has been given a group of congressional leaders by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, it was learned today.

Lindbergh, appearing unheralded in the capital, conferred with five Senators and one Representative last night and made plans for another radio address to the Nation to urge that America prepare for war, but remain aloof meanwhile from the European conflict. It will be his third radio speech since the guns began to roar in Europe. The "Flying Colonel," who foretold Germany's immense fighting

Senate Boosts Relief Bill 100 Millions

Supporters Say Fund To Aid Preparedness

Washington. — Two powerful Senate groups—roughly representing rural and urban areas—teamed up today to place an unbudgeted $100,000,000 in the annual relief bill by a lop-sided 58 to 16 vote.

Disregarding economy pleas of Senator Adams (D., Colo.), floor leader of the bulky annual relief appropriation, the Senate made the $100,000,000 available for removing agricultural surpluses.

Senator Adams reminded the members that Congress already had voted $85,000,000 for these purposes in the regular farm bill and that another $100,000,000 would be automatically diverted from customs funds.

See Preparedness Served
But Senators interested in both farm and city relief insisted that war conditions and National preparedness could well be served by the additional fund.

Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.), offered the amendment, after explaining that the funds would be used to supply surplus farm products to low income families; to give free lunches to school children; to operate the "food stamp" plan, and carry on other surplus removal activities, including export subsidies.

Both Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and McNary or Oregon, Republican leader, voted with the victorious side to upset recommendations of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

SOFTBALL GAMES

The Christian Royals won over the Baptist Whites by a score of 29 to 19 and the Methodist Dodgers won over the Christian Crusaders by a close score of 14-13 in games played at the softball park last night. It required eight innings to decide the Dodgers-Crusaders contest.

The next games are scheduled for Monday, June 24, when the Baptist Blues play the Baptist Cardinals in the first game and the Methodist Tigers play the Methodist Bulls in the second. Games are now being played under the new rules and regulations adopted recently by the board regarding eligibility of players.

The association is making plans for an extended sports program following the close of the softball season.

TIDES OF WAR ROLL ON

Today the proud city of Paris, which for seventy years has not felt a conqueror's feet, is under the heel of the German forces. Not since 1871, when German legions took the French capital after a starvation siege, has the French nation felt such a crushing blow. Today the power of the dictator states is at its peak, no end is seen of the engulfing tide. The only hope, and it is frail one, is that the tired and battered French, aided by help from England which is all too tardy in arriving may be able to find a new battle line and here stand off the invader. But no sign of weakness has yet developed in the German divisions. They appear to have plenty of reserves, plenty of materials, and without doubt they will continue to pound at diminishing French resistance with the intention of completely destroying French power.

Loss of the French capital, considered as merely a phase of the campaign, might not mean much. It is a terrific blow at French morale and French pride, and will have its effect in this manner. But along with this defeat goes a great deal of French industrial life. Many industrial plants are located in the Paris area, and capture of this area by the enemy means that French industrial output grows less when more is needed. If with this goes domination of the Channel ports, help from England may be cut off, and France will be virtually helpless. Confronted with an advancing enemy on the north, with the Italian menace in the south, France is indeed caught in a trap. Small wonder that France a few days ago broadcast a plea for help from across the seas.

Considered coldly, after these developments have come as they have, there can be no conclusion except that France was not given proper British aid. All indications are that the English had a relatively small army in France when the great offensive was launched. Not more than a half million men, probably not that, made up the British effort. These were driven back to England in the great drive through the Low Countries and Belgium. Now this mistake must be corrected, if it is possible. The British are said to be pouring help across the Channel, but figures remain secret, and the help may be scanty and too late.

Meanwhile on this side of the sea another development has come to light which is of significance to this nation. The president of Brazil, supposedly friendly to the United States, but known to be a dictator, repeats almost word for word the speech which Mussolini made as Italy entered the world, and gives his endorsement to the sentiment. What does this mean to us?

It means that the dictators of Europe have a fertile field in South America. It means that not only would this country be compelled to fight German and Italian penetration of Brazil, but also fight Brazil, for President Vargas' statement leaves no doubt that he highly favors the totalitarian idea in preference to the Democratic form of government. In other words, the Fifth Column and the Trojan forces are already in exist-

LOOKING AT LATIN AMERICA

The praise that has been given Secretary of State Hull in recent years for maintaining a fair degree of friendship among the United States and the Latin American countries is fully deserved and then some. To keep this friendship from going by the board in the trying years to come will require highest order of statesmanship.

The view, widely held in this country, that it is but natural that North, South, and Central America to work together against Europe is the purest sort of wishful thinking. The truth is that economically, socially, and politically a considerable part of Latin America is closer to the Old World than to the United States.

Export trade, moreover, represents an important phase of Latin American economy, and most of this trade has been with Europe. Not much of this trade can be shifted readily to the United States for the reason that Latin American exports consist largely of the very commodities of which this country has a surplus. The more advanced South American countries would probably be glad to obtain more of our industrial products, but they cannot buy unless they can sell and obtain the necessary foreign exchange.

For these reasons, many informed persons are of the opinion that if the Axis powers are triumphant in Europe they will not find it necessary to wage a military campaign to get what they want in certain South American countries. They will simply hold out the lure of the European market to countries with friendly governments, and depend on pressure from the inside to do the rest. —Sun-Democrat.

CATTLE MAKE MONEY FOR FARMER

How Howard Russell in Adair county, Kentucky, has successfully raised beef cattle for many years is told by County Agent R. B. Rankin. "He keeps enough beef-type cows to produce 12 to 14 calves a year," notes Rankin. "Purebred bulls are used, and the best heifers kept for breeding, while the rest of the calves are finished quickly and sold as baby beefs at weights around 700 pounds. Six to 10 baby-beeves are sold a year. They are allowed to run with their mothers as long as possible and fed grain until sold. The herd has lespedeza hay in winter and good pasture in summer."

ance in Brazil.

It becomes increasingly apparent that the tides of war seem likely to totally engulf the world. No matter how swiftly we arm and prepare it will not be too soon.

of 16-percent superphosphate once in every four-year rotation.

The limed plot has consistently out-produced the unlimed land. In the last four-year rotation, the increased yields have been worth an average of $6 per acre per year, figuring corn worth 50 cents a bushel, wheat 75 cents a bushel and hay $10 a ton.

FARM SIZE AFFECTS TYPE OF PRODUCTION

Surveys made by the Agricultural Experiment Station of farms in the outer bluegrass region of Kentucky showed that 100-acre farms paid best when emphasis was placed on tobacco, dairy products, poultry, sheep and hogs; 150-acre farms when tobacco, dairy products, sheep, beef cattle and hogs were emphasized; 250 to 300-acre farms, when tobacco, beef cattle, sheep, dairy cattle, hogs and lespezea seed were emphasized. The larger farms had a smaller acreage of tobacco in proportion to tillable land than the medium and small farms, and put greater emphasis on beef cattle and sheep.

Five registered bulls were imported into Calhoun county last month. The Calhoun county vegetable growers' association expects to have 70 acres of marketable tomatoes this season, for shipping.

Thirty 4-H club members in Carter county were furnished certified seed corn by the Grayson Commercial Bank.

Tigers Held To Five Hits— Drop Second Game To Mayfield

In the second game of the broken series with Mayfield, the Tigers dropped to the Mayfield club there last night by the score of 9 to 4.

The Tigers started Sample on the mound who lasted 6 2-3 innings with 3 runs being scored off him in the first inning and 3 more in the third inning. The Browns scored 8 runs and collected 9 hits off of him. He was relieved in the seventh after catcher Mark Carrola's homer, with one on, by Dulaney who was wild in the 2-3 of an inning pitched by him and he was touched for 1 hit and 1 run. Dave Read pitched in the last inning.

The Tigers went scoreless until the sixth inning, when they pushed across one, one more in the seventh and two in the eighth. John Gotter, Mayfield southpaw, did the hurling and held the Tigers to 5 hits, two of which were doubles by Mel Reist and Pete Elko. Manager Poole, Frank Filchock and Mel Reist had singles. Runs were scored by Tommy Hensler, Manager Poole, Mel Reist and Pawlet, new catcher for the Tigers who signed yesterday. Poole had credit for only run batted in and also credit for the only error by the Tigers. The Browns were marked up with four errors.

William Black and Gentry, both pitchers, were spotted in left field last night with Pete Elko, an outfielder, again playing third base to replace Ralph Jesh who is ill of tonsillitis.

Tonight the Tigers come back for a game at Fairfield with the Mayfield team and go to Paducah for a game tomorrow afternoon. After that the Tigers come home for 7 straight days.

CHURCH NEWS

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—E. R. Ladd, Pastor. Another good service was experienced by those who attended the revival last night at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Deep interest was manifested and one more conversion was added. The evangelist spoke on "The Soul Life," explaining that life came from God as is recorded in Genesis 2:7, "And the Lord God—breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." He went on to show that when man sinned that that life was forfeited. Then it was that God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son; and when that Son of God is received as Saviour and Lord he completes the life that is defeated by sin; and the soul life of man then continues throughout eternity.

At the eleven o'clock hour Sunday morning the evangelist will speak on, "Your Battle With Sin," and at the evening hour on, "Certainties of Religion."

9:45 a. m. Sunday school. John Bowers, Supt. We are wanting to have each class with perfect attendance, so each of you do your best to be there that your class will not fall. Be sure to hear the Rev. Coleman in these last two messages. One and all are welcome.

CHURCH OF CHRIST—Charles L. Houser, minister. Sunday School 9:45 a. m. Morning worship 7:50. Sermon subject, "The Non-Conversion of Agrippa." Evening services 7:30 sermon subject, "Seekers Who Always Find." Psa. 122:1 "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Charles F. Wulf, Rector. 9:45 a. m. Church School. 11 a. m. Holy Communion and Sermon. Every-one cordially invited.

CHURCH OF GOD. The Church of God, which has been meeting in Walters Building on Main street, has moved to their new location across from Pierce Cequin Lumber Mill, McDowell street.

CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST. "God, The Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday June 16, 1940. The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower." (Psalms 18:2.) Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen." (II Tim. 4:18). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Work out your own salvation," is the demand of Life and Love, for to this end God worketh with you." (p. 22:11-12).

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH D. P. Hawkins, minister. Bible school, 9:45 a. m. D. A. Rogers, Supt. Classes for all ages. Watch our attendance increase! A cordial invitation to visitors in the city. Lord's supper and morning worship at 10:50, when the minister will speak on the subject, "Our Savior for Times Like These." Special music in charge of Martha Lowe. At 5:30 o'clock a union service at the Methodist church, to which all are cordially invited. The Rev. W. H. Saxon will bring the message in the first of this series of special union meetings of the two churches this summer. Saxon, using as his subject "This Changing World and A Changeless God." Everyone cordially invited.
