Following the recent passing of an ordinance by the City of Fulton to widen Church Street 5 1/2 feet, suit has been filed by Mrs. Margaret E. Penney, owner of the Meadows property, to enjoin the city from taking this action. It is Mrs. Penney's contention that to widen the street 5 1/2 feet along her side would lessen the value of her property one-third.

Meanwhile the city is restrained from widening the street until the matter can be settled in court.

ROTARY CLUB

"Money" was the topic discussed by Clyde Williams, of the City National Bank, at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday. Mr. Williams explained the origin of currency in this country, and how it is used as a medium of exchange. He pointed out that gold is the usual standard by which wealth is judged, and that the currency which we used today is backed by a gold reserve held by the federal government. Currency we now use is all right as long as we have confidence in our government, but when confidence is lost money becomes of no value. His talk was highly interesting.

Rev. Woodrow Fuller resigned from the club due to the fact that he will be out of the city until January 1, attending school at Louisville. The club gave a rising vote of thanks to Joe Browder for his hospitality during a dinner served to Rotarians and Rotary Anns last week at his home.

MOTHER OF MRS. SMALL DIES IN MAYFIELD

The deceased is survived by her husband, three sons, three daughters, several grandchildren, other relatives and friends.

Nicknames were plentiful on the set during the filming of "My Man Godfrey." Universal's rollicking comedy romance which plays at the Strand Theatre on Sunday and Monday, Carol Lombard had two names for her co-star, William Powell, "Junior" and "Philo," the latter being a holdover from one of his successful screen portrayals, "Philo Vance." Powell called Miss Lombard "Honey." Director Gregory La Cava hailed Miss Lombard as "Charlie." Everybody referred to Mischa Auer as "Chimp" because of his humorous imitation of a chimpanzee in the picture.

BULLDOGS WILL OPEN SEASON HERE FRIDAY

Today (Friday) marks the opening of the Fulton High School Football season, and it will also be the occasion for Coach Jack Carter to make his initial bow to the public. The Bulldogs have for their opponents for this game the highly touted Guerrillas from Morganfield. Coach Carter always has a good team, and this year he proves no exception. He has fifteen men who have seen more or less service on the varsity. Of these two, Clark and Hinton have played two and three years respectively. He has a boy who weighs 190 lbs. playing regularly at left tackle, but who is called back to punt, pass, run and back the line. He is plenty good. He was the only one who could stop the Mayfield attack last year and he did it single-handed.

The Guerrillas will have a backfield that will be hard to stop. They had more trick plays than any high school team seen in action last year. Coach Carter and his boys do not feel downcast at the prowess of the Guerrillas. They have been training conscientiously and are ready for action. One even dozen of the Bulldogs saw service last year, five of these, Beadles, Cook, Peoples, Williams and Wagner, have played for two years. This will be the first contest between these two teams, which seem to be about evenly matched. So a good game may be expected when they clash at Fairfield at 3:15 P. M. Friday. Maddox, H. Maddox, Joe Hall and Dr. Hughes will officiate.

Coach Carter will probably start Wray and Crawford at end; R. Williams and Snow at tackle; Cook and Lovelace guard; Nanney and B. Williams at half; Beadles at quarter; and Parker at full back.

Paul Phillips and Paul Meek, executive officer of the college, Tuesday night Prof. S. R. Woods will conduct a program of songs, and Wednesday night the All-Students Club will entertain with Football night. Following the program conducted at the gymnasium by Miss Florence Elliott, all students of the school will go to a local theatre as guests of the club.

A formal party Thursday night with Dr. Schmidt in charge will conclude the first week's activities. Opening of the fall term will be held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock.

FREE PICK-UP AND DELIVERY GETS RESULTS

Free pick-up and delivery of less-than-carload freight, a Railway innovation in which the Illinois Central System pioneered, has proved a profitable business move. System-wide service on this basis was inaugurated January 20, 1936. While freight carloadings as a whole increased 15 percent on the Illinois Central System for the first eight months of 1936 as compared with the same period of 1935, less-than-carload outbound traffic increased in approximately the same period 23 percent, from 225,001 tons to 288,782 tons. That the movement is accelerating is shown by the fact that the August increase alone was 36 percent, or from 29,599 tons to 40,964 tons.

DROUTH'S LESSON

We are going to learn a hard lesson about drouths before we are through with the present one, which is terribly reducing crops throughout a wide region of the United States.

First, we are going to learn that it pays to have crop surpluses.

Secondly, we are going to learn to exercise precautions to conserve the moisture that nature puts into the ground, and we are going to learn that this is important, and much may be done to ward off the drouth damage by careful preparation of the soil to cause it to hold necessary moisture.

Thirdly, we are going to learn that even states like Tennessee, which show high annual rainfall, are not immune to arid periods, and that it will be well to arrange to irrigate garden spots and maybe fields on every farm, if practicable.

We are going to learn that we cannot settle our economic troubles by artificially creating scarcity—that nature must be taken into account when we begin any kind of crop control.

If we had our old-time crop surpluses now, we would see a stabilized market. Maybe prices would not rule as high as they do with scarcity staring us in the face, but we would see the "greatest good to the greatest number," with live-and-let-live prices prevailing. After all what does it profit a farmer to get very high prices for a few things he may have for sale, and then pay fabulous prices for the many things he has to buy.

The drouth that has ravaged wide sections of America this summer is a calamity such as the country has not known in many years, and its dire effects will be felt for a long time to come. For, as shortage appears in one article, shortages must follow in other lines. For instance, the shortage of corn will be reflected in a shortage of meats, lard and in the hundred and one by-products of the packing houses. It will also show in the chemical world. Corn oil, dextrase, starch, and numerous other articles having corn for their base will all be shortened in production. So it will also be with cotton. As the cotton yield is shortened by drouth, so will the products of both staple and seed be shortened and prices ranging high.

Farm products are one of the raw materials used in many forms of manufacture, and with these raw materials high in price, we will see shortened consumption and unemployment in factories.

A drouth is a terrible thing, and the government should be more interested in seeing that we have large yields than small ones. If it is necessary to "help" the farmers, the government should bonus them rather than to reduce acreage and the yields, which tend to raise costs and thus to limit employment.

This writer has never believed that high prices conduce to prosperity, save only in a few sporadic cases, where we are exporting and getting the other fellow's money through these high prices.

Dealing with one another, we should have plenty, and low living costs. Whether these costs are increased by high wages in spots, big profits for the makers and sellers, or by exorbitant taxes, the results are the same—hard living for the poor, shortened consumption and unemployment. For if we cannot sell but meagerly on account of high prices, then we can afford to produce or create only sparingly. And the vicious circle continues—the higher the price, the less the consumption, the lessening of the national income through employment, the hardships of the people.

The drouth is going to point out to those who think through to the genesis of things that we cannot settle our economic troubles by any sudden sort of jerk. When we do come into the New Era, we are going to have large production in every line, low prices, large consumption and more jobs than there are workers.

We are looking for a new day, too. But our new day can only come when the people think, have free competition, played fair, with the governments, state and national, only acting as umpires to see that the game is played fair and according to approved business rules—rules built squarely upon the Ten Commandments and in harmony with the Sermon on the Mount.

When this good day comes, and it will only come when we calm down and view things as a whole and not piecemeal, and then strive to measure to the Golden Rule and give to the other fellow all that he is due, we will have general prosperity, and remember always, we can only have perpetual prosperity by having general prosperity.

We must have an equalization of earnings, based upon productivity, not paying accordingly as men demand, but as they produce—every man according to his ability, industry and hazard.

If the drouth teaches us that we are not so much-a-much and helps us to get down to honest, fair thinking and leads to a new and better view of things, then it will be truly a blessing in disguise.

In the wise economy of the universe things like drouths and storms and earthquakes come for some purpose, and it is not too much to insist that we get the lesson that is to be had from them.

With a former coach, Prof. W. C. Roberts, things are beginning to hum for a big year in athletics. DARK TOBACCO CROP PROSPECT DARKEST EVER

A federal estimate this week said prospects are for the lowest production of record of both fire cured and dark air cured classes of tobacco. This state's September 1 prospect or total production of tobacco of all types combined this year was for 216,225,000 lbs., compared to 226,718,900 lbs. of all types combined produced in 1935, and an average annual production of 362,587,000 lbs. 1926-32 inclusive. For the six types of tobacco produced either wholly or partly within Kentucky, the total production of each entire type area, regardless of state boundaries, is estimated as follows:—total burley in all states this year 215,909,000 lbs. compared to 221,638,000 lbs. produced last year; Green River 10,800,000 lbs. compared to 15,210,000 lbs. in 1935; one-sucker 12,052,000 lbs. compared to last year's crop of 13,020,000 lbs.; Hopkinsville-Clarksville-Springfield dark-fired 55,350,000 lbs. compared to 68,900,000 lbs. last year; Henderson stemming dark fired 2,625,000 lbs. compared to 1935 production of 3,023,000 lbs. and Paducah-Mayfield dark fired 22,475,000 lbs. compared to last year's crop of 25,825,000 lbs. The September 1 prospects for the United States total of tobacco of all types were for 1,422,887,000 lbs. compared with 1,236,810,000 lbs. last year, and 1,427,147,000 lbs. average annual production 1928-32 inclusive.

"MY MAN GODFREY" AT STRAND SUN. AND MON.

William Powell, starred with Carole Lombard in Universal's "My Man Godfrey," always builds up a mental picture of the life and habits of a character before he starts to portray that role. His theory is that, through such building, he is better equipped to know how that character would act in all the story situations. "My Man Godfrey," which plays at the Strand theatre on Sunday and Monday, has a supporting cast that includes Alice Brady, Gail Patrick, Jean Dixon, Eugene Pallette, Mischa Auer, Alan Mowbray and Robert Light.

TEN YEARS OF BARRED ROCK PROGRESS
By R. Walter Bishop
The great progress of the Barred Rock breed in the last ten years has been along several important lines, chief of which are:
Higher average egg production.
Larger egg size.
Larger and more attractive looking birds.
Better management methods.
The improvement in egg production during this period is quite generally recognized. The Storrs Laying Contest has always had a nicely representative class of Barred Rock entries and the results obtained by this long-established test can be reasonably considered as a "yardstick" by which to measure Barred Rock breeding progress. Barred Rock breeders have kept abreast of the times by improving egg production in this good old reliable breed.

While upon the subject of improvement in Barred Rock egg production, we should not overlook the work of the late Prof. James Dryden of California along this line. The splendid productive results obtained by him demonstrate what can be accomplished when a single characteristic is made the chief objective of a breeder's skill. Prof. Dryden did much to bring Barred Rocks to the front by his pioneer work in production breeding.

Today, throughout the country there are many contest pens, as well as farm and commercial flocks of Barred Rocks, that have just as high an annual production as a large proportion of Red or Leghorn pens or flocks. Each year of improved breeding for egg production narrows the difference between the best known commercial breeds. It is only a matter of time before qualities other than egg production (meat qualities, for example) will determine one's preference for this or that breed.

Increasing Barred Rock egg size is also amply demonstrated by contest figures covering the most representative strains of Barred Rocks. Not many years ago the chief criticism of Barred Rocks was egg size. Many people seemed to have the idea that it was a breed characteristic of Rocks to lay smaller eggs, as unchangeable as a law of nature. The increased egg size of the better strains of Barred Rocks today proves beyond question that Barred Rocks can and will produce just as big eggs as any other breed if they are bred for egg size and are correctly fed.

There is probably no more representative group of contest Barred Rocks in the United States than the one Prof. R. C. Ogle has assembled at the Central New York Contest at Horseheads. Practically all the leading strains are represented, either directly or indirectly. The egg size of the 160 pullets, from 16 different breeding farms, in the 1934-35 contest averaged over 24 oz. per dozen for all eggs laid during the entire pullet year, including the first eggs for many of these pullets. This is an average that compares favorably with any other breed under similar conditions.

There has been a great improvement in the management of Barred Rocks to get maximum results in egg production, egg size, egg quality, fertility and hatchability. The "bugaboo" of not being able to hold up body weight under heavy production has caused many beginners or inexperienced feeders of Barred Rocks to feed such a high proportion of scratch or whole grain, compared to the amount of mash, as to decrease production, check egg size and egg quality and reduce fertility and hatchability. Barred Rocks of heavy type have such a "reserve of power" that they do not require anywhere near as much scratch or whole grain as has been commonly supposed.

The last several years I have advocated feeding more laying mash and less scratch grain to Barred Rocks and increasing the exercise as much as possible. At least, one egg laying contest has tried out this method of feeding and the results have been quite astonishing. Prof. R. C. Ogle of the Central New York Laying Contests deserves the thanks and appreciation of Barred Rock breeders of the U. S. for his progressive feeding methods at this contest. Let me quote a few figures from the final report for the year ending September 30, 1935.

The feed consumed by the 16 pens of Barred Rocks at the contest averaged about four bags of laying mash to every bag of scratch grain, yet the average production of 217.3 eggs per bird for the 160 pullets in these pens was probably the highest average ever made by Barred Rocks at any official laying test having a large and representative number of entries. Furthermore, this group included the World Record pen for Barred Rocks.

The gain in body weight of 1.6 pounds per bird from the beginning of the year to the end of the year knocks out the fears of those poultrymen who have hesitated to cut down on scratch grain because they thought they could not keep up body weight under heavy production.

If the contest had been able to keerecord psWalth spr tchu-Vwa keep records of egg quality, fertility and hatchability, the results would have been equally surprising and satisfactory, we believe.

The steady improvement in quality, as a result of better breeding and more successful methods of management, have laid the foundation for a still greater increase in the popularity in years ahead. Far-sighted poultrymen look to Barred Rocks as the great all-round, general purpose breed, because this breed possesses the unique combination of profit-making production qualities and highest price meat qualities not found together in any other breed of poultry.

Difficulty
What is difficulty? Only a word indicating the degree of strength requisite for accomplishing particular objects; a mere notice of the necessity for exertion; a bugbear to children and fools; only a mere stimulus to men.—Samuel Warren.

Forbearance
It's a noble and great thing to cover the blemishes, and to excuse the failings of a friend; to draw a curtain before his stains; and to display his perfections; to bury his weaknesses in silence, but to proclaim his virtues from the house-top.—South.
