THE LISTENING POST

For the past several days I have been watching people buy driver's licenses and for a time I thought I would like to have something to sell which people not only wanted, but had to have. It looked so very easy that I thought it would be a delightful way to make money. Understand, I was having nothing to do with it, whatever, being merely an on-looker, and the setup seemed quite nice.

But I have decided that I wish nothing to do with it. For on the first of the month I began to get closer to it, and the closer I got the more I disliked it. For the first of the month was a hot and sultry day, and everything in the world began to happen. The first of the month is always a busy day, and it was even more so on this day. The girls who issued the cards had to be busy at other things, and I had to keep the office as best I could. I could not issue the drafted cards, for I don't believe I would ever be able to fill in the blanks correctly. So my duty was to meet and greet those who wished the cards and ask them to leave the old cards with me until the girls came in, and this caused me to do more running and chasing than any race horse in all history.

The procedure was like this: First the telephone would ring, and some person would turn in a personal item. I would start on the conversation and in would come somebody who wanted to collect a bill. I would write down all I had heard, and then I would reach for the bill that had come in, and then in would come three persons wishing driver's license. I would greet them cordially and gladly, run to the safe and get some money for the bill, then ask the three persons to leave their old cards. They would ask why and as I would begin to tell them the telephone would ring again. I would continue to explain as I made my way to the telephone, and one time I took the telephone down and said quite urbanely "thank you," not knowing what I meant, and I don't suppose the lady knows yet what I was going through with.

After I had sorted got things into shape, would come a call from the back office for more copy, and I would type out what I had secured or clip some. Right now I have no idea what went in the paper, and really I don't care a great deal. For after a couple of three hours of this running and chasing I suddenly realized that it was time to write the columns for the next day and I had no idea of what I was to write about. I sat down at the machine and began writing, and what you have read above and what you will read below is the manner in which my thoughts came and went.

I forgot to say also that it was the half holiday period, and everybody was anxious to get through with whatever business they had. Making change for so many folks soon brought on a shortage of quarters and a hurried trip had to be made to the bank to get a lot of them. This raised blood pressure by two quarts or a gallon, and by this time I was beginning to wonder if a paper would ever be printed. As this is written I am still wondering about this angle, and not caring a great deal whether one is issued or not.

Along with all this came a hurried call which caused me to leap hastily into a car and drive across town, suddenly remembering that I had not had my regular cup of coffee and at once my head began to ache. Well, all this is what life in made up of, and I need to cultivate a better developed sense of patience. Some of these days, and I hope soon, I am going to take a week off. May not even take a trip, but I am going to stay away from this drafted office and write no columns whatever. I have made a good start today in writing no columns.

81 Aliens Are Held In Canal Zone

Proposal To Limit Conscription To One Million Delays Bill

Washington. — A broad cleanup of aliens in the Panama Canal Zone, involving the detention of 81 persons described as foreign agents, was announced tersely today by Secretary of War Stimson.

As the result of a painstaking check, he said, all aliens, other than Panamanians, have been discharged from the employment of either the Army or the canal zone, for the protection of that vital link in the American defense system.

The secretary of war made his disclosure at the end of a day which saw the peace-time conscription bill and the measure authorizing the mobilization of the National Guard and the Reserve Officers Training Corps for training purposes encounter new delays in the Senate.

A week ago that group numbered 90, of whom 68 were Germans. Quarantine officials at that time said they were informed for several reasons—some snowed away, others who jumped ship, and others whose visas had expired in Panama.

Most of them were bound for South American countries only to discover rules permitting their entry into those countries had been changed while they were on route.

A Senatorial proposal that the number of conscripts be limited to 1,000,000 forced the Senate military committee to postpone final action on the draft until after War Department officials can be heard.

Leaders agreed to defer Senate consideration of the National Guard measure until next week in compliance with requests from several legislators for more time to study the bill.

Li Lay $11.95 On The Line, Leaves By Air

New York. — J. K. Li, Chinese, needed an airplane ticket in a hurry. Phoning for a reservation, he was told to pay for the ticket at a Western Union office. So he dialed the telegraph company from a public phone and fed $11.95 in nickels, dimes and quarters into the coin box.

The air line said it was all right, but expressed pleasure that Li was buying passage to Boston rather than Los Angeles.

Death Sifters Free Suspect

Dartmouth, Mass. — The "lovers' lane" slaying of 22-year-old Irene Perry of New Bedford, whose body was found trussed up beneath a tree yesterday, developed into a baffling puzzle today.

A New Bedford millhand questioned throughout the night was released. Miss Perry had been absent from home since June 29 and had been dead since approximately that date. Her brother John, said his sister planned to get ice cream. When she failed to return, her father, Joseph Perry, a greenkeeper at a country club, reported her missing.

Five workers, picking blueberries in woods in North Dartmouth, found her body.

Her dress had been pulled up over her head, a stocking used to blind her ankles, and her hands were tied with a cord, looped about her neck.

AUTHOR OF FAMOUS BALLAD IN CANADA AFTER LONG ABSENCE

An Eastern Canadian poet, Robert W. Service, 66, who wrote "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" and numerous other popular rhymes of the Yukon, returned to Canada today as a war refugee after an absence of 28 years.

He was in Russia when the war started. After many difficulties he reached France, but fled when the Nazis swept down the coast of Brittany.

Service, a native of England, said he lost a 40,000-word manuscript of a novel he was writing, and left two other complete novels in a safety deposit box in Nice.

COLUMBUS WOMAN SUFFERS BROKEN ARM

Mrs. Nora Arnold of Columbus, Ky., was admitted to the Fulton Hospital early this morning to receive treatment for a badly broken arm sustained when she fell off of steps at her home.

7 Wounded, 2 Dead

She steamed in with seven wounded—two dead having been buried at sea—and with three marks from enemy shells showing—one on her funnel, another near the waterline and a third on her hull about 15 feet above the waterline.

U. S. Flag, Never On Stamp, Is Cause For Big Controversy

Washington. — The Post Office Department, which has featured everything on its stamps from a cow to Whistler's Mother—admitted today that it was stuck with a problem involving philatelists and the flag.

In the midst of the current wave of patriotism, H. E. Rhoads of San Diego, Calif., wrote to Postmaster General Farley that no American flag has ever waved on an American stamp.

Intensive investigation disclosed that Rhoads was substantially correct—a few flags have appeared insignificantly since 1869, but never has one been featured.

Rhoads, who is president of the San Diego Stamp Club, submitted a design for a new air mail stamp—the unfurled flag in color.

Continuing his campaign, he wrote his Congressman, Rep. Ed V.

Then came the poster that led to the present problem.

Someone pointed out that the flag is a patriotic symbol and that as the centerpiece of a postage stamp it would take a national licking. Holes would be punched in it by canceling machines; it would be spotted with ink and the names of cities; dirty hands would dull its brightness.

As the adornment of an old envelope could it be tossed into the waste basket or would all the old envelopes bearing flag stamps have to be preserved?

The thought was frightening. The department is not committing itself either way for the present.

British Women Accused Of Plot To Lose Children

Montreal. — (Canadian Press) — A difference of opinion to say the least, has risen between the Rancee of Sarawak and Lord Marley over the choice of British child refugees.

Early this week an interviewer quoted the Rancee as saying that "nice youngsters and rotten youngsters" were mixed.

Thursday morning, shortly after arrival in Montreal, Lord Marley, British labor peer and vice chairman of the Parliamentary Refugee Committee, dropped his breakfast knife and fork.

"She has no right to say that. It is completely, absolutely and utterly untrue. The children are most carefully selected."

Meanwhile, the Rancee left Montreal, apparently for the United States.

"Women of England are faking names of relatives in Canada just so they can get rid of their children," she said before departure.

"It's a shameful situation—I'm going to see Mrs. Roosevelt about it."

Narvik Damage Put At Millions

Oslo, Norway. — Damage totaling millions of dollars was wrought at Narvik, Norwegian Arctic iron ore port, by the struggle between Allied and German forces last spring, a correspondent of the newspaper Aftenposten reports.

"The harbor is a real ship graveyard, with masts and funnels sticking up from the surface everywhere, demanding the greatest care when navigating," the correspondent said.

Bursting Star Is Discovered

Pasadena, Calif. — A giant exploding star between the North Star and the Dipper has been discovered by Dr. Joseph J. Johnson, California Institute of Technology astrophysicist.

Dr. Johnson said today the newest supernova gives off as much light as several hundred suns rolled into a single ball. He said his discovery was made from Palomar Mountain, site of Caltech's 160-inch telescope, with an eighteen-inch Schmidt telescope, which, since 1936, has enabled scientists to locate sixteen exploding stars.

The newest astronomical find was photographed in an early explosive stage that should make it possible to trace various stages in the sudden outpouring of light, and it may provide additional clues to the creation and annihilation of distant worlds.

Dr. Johnson is associated with Dr. Fritz Zwicky of Caltech and Dr. Walter Baade of Mt. Wilson in investigations of supernovae.

Father Of Mrs. Humphreys Dies

Many Cranks Report Spying But FBI Takes All Reports

New York. — The G-men figures a crudely-penciled note: "J. B. who raises pigeons at Long Island, is using them to deliver vital defense secrets to submarines off Coney Island."

The telephone of the G-men's desk rings, and a hollow, anonymous voice: "H—R—, of so-and-so street, Brooklyn, pretends he is studying radio engineering. . . . He is really preparing to transmit spy messages."

A bedraggled stranger, refusing to give his name, is ushered into the G-men's office and says: "I happen to know that that 'hobo' they arrested in Kansas City Friday is a foreign agent mapping American communications."

Russia Will Maintain Her Neutral Status

Molotov Predicts U. S. England To Fight Reich, Italy

Moscow. — Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov told the Russian parliament today that Soviet Russia "is not taking part in the war" and predicted its early intensification with "England, assisted by the United States," on the one hand fighting Germany and Italy on the other.

Recent events, including collapse of France, had only served to improve Russia's relations with Germany, Molotov declared in a four months review of foreign relations, while saying better understanding with England could hardly be expected in view of past anti-Soviet manifestations on the part of the British government.

Turning to the United States, Molotov said: "I will not dwell on our relations with the United States of America if only for the reason that there is nothing good that can be said about them."

"We have learned that there are certain people in the United States who are not pleased with the successes of our foreign policy in the Baltic countries. But we must confess we are little concerned over this fact."

"However, the fact that the authorities in the United States unlawfully placed an embargo on the gold which our state bank recently purchased from the banks of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, is in itself with the most energetic protest on our part."

"In this case we can only remind both the government of the United States and the government of Great Britain, which adopted the same procedure, of their responsibility for these illegal acts."

Warning that the status of Finland in the Soviet's good graces is entirely "up to Finland," Molotov said certain circles there must discontinue their anti-Soviet tendencies of there would be a deterioration of relations.

Britain, he said, is trying to "scare" Russia with the prospect of a clash with Germany, but the declared this was "impossible."

"The basic of German-Soviet relations for both countries is good."

Damaged British Ship Puts In At Brazilian Port For Repairs

Rio De Janeiro. — The 22,300-ton British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara put in today at Vianna Island naval shipyard to repair damage suffered in a short but sharp battle with a Nazi raider.

Her chief officer said the engagement was fought outside the American neutrality belt—and not inside as reported previously.

The commander clung to the British claim of victory, asserting that the raider fled rather than close in for combat.

Counter-Chief But in Berlin, DNE, official German news agency, contended the Alcantara broke off the fight to nurse her damage in a neutral harbor while the German raider continued on her campaign against

IF NOBODY CARES TREES WILL PERISH

(By Richard Renneisen)

The number and variety of matters being neglected in these stressful days, and made to take their rightful, comparative places far down in the list of things that need attending to, often make us sad. Too much goes on; simple needs must be put by for complex and urgent needs. The world keeps going around and these neglected things keep getting worse, yet no closer to being righted.

We are thinking now chiefly of such a relatively minor matter as the city's trees—those trees which grow out of an incredibly unhealthy agglomeration of sidewalk and pavement topping between the property lines and the curbs. What would the old town look like as a treeless desert? One can't picture it. Yet a man who knows trees as a physician knows human bodies reminded us recently that in fifty years, at the present rate, the city will be just such a desert.

As everyone knows, healthy trees—trees able to resist diseases and the depredations of insects—must have both root and branch care. Moisture must get to the roots. The ground must nourish them. The leafy structure must be able to do its part in the healthy life of the tree. Tree experts often use the injection method, pounding chemicals in solution into the root area under pressure. They trim and nurse and medicate. But not for such sidewalk waifs as are thousands of Louisville's trees.

Nobody is authorized to care for them. Nobody does. They are one of Louisville's charms. Out-of-town travelers look out from high hotel windows, or ride under the shade of sidewalk foliage, and remark favorably. In fifty years, all that will be over. Nobody takes out dead wood, feeds tree roots, patches up wounds. Utilities progress, now much more—considerate than formerly, has done much damage.

For not a great deal of money, a fine program of such constructive tree care could be started. But the Park Board now must skimp daily to keep park trees in good health. In these days of wars, budgetary poverty, uncertainty all about, money for such an endeavor is all but out of the question. When you can't feed people who are hungry, you must of necessity turn away from feeding trees. It would be better to have a treeless desert than to have a city of slums. As we said, the sidewalk trees must take their places far down in the list of things that need attending to. As we said, things like that often make up very sad.

PROFIT ON WASTE

Ten cities which dispose of their sewage sludge by selling it for fertilizer receive from 25 cents to $3.50 a cubic yard, depending upon how much it has been processed, and upon the demand. This information, from the American Public Works Association, was obtained from a survey conducted by "Municipal Sanitation" magazine.

In most cases, the cities obtaining the highest prices for the by-product spent considerable effort in processing it. Atlanta, Ga., for example, receives 50 cents a cubic yard for air-dried-sludge, and $1.50 a cubic yard when it is

Selected Feature

CARIBBEAN PLUMS TANTALIZE HITLER

Berlin's Boersen Zeitung, a sort of glorified Wall Street Journal, chuckles over the agreement reached at Havana to keep an eye, and more than an eye, on possessions of European power in the Western Hemisphere. Clearly, it points out, the Americas admits that Great Britain is lost and her colonies liable to fall to the first bold spirit who shall grab them. For bold spirit, read the Reich.

It is, of course, the West Indian islands the Germans covet. Before them opens up a prospect to which Cuba, Haiti and the Virgin group offer the only exceptions. Martinique, Guadeloupe, Dutch and French Guiana may be added to the spoil of the lion, and that includes such gems as Trinidad and Jamaica, the Bahamas and all the lovely archipelago that curves from the Florida Channel to within a few miles of the coast of Venezuela, mere rocks some of them but, taken as a whole, an empire of great wealth and most varied memories. They have been Spanish and French and English by turns. The Union Jack flew for a brief period over Havana itself and came down in one of those wholesale swappings so frequent in those days.

What happened to Rome happened also to Spain and is about, predicts the Zeitung, to be the fate of Britain. The residuary legatee has always been some strong, unscrupulous realist, never a nice, well-conducted committee presided over by a gentleman with a conscience, Cordell Hull for instance.

Now, in the Europe of today is found the perfect example of the type. His name is Hitler. He has accomplished so much and is on the very eve, we are assured, of accomplishing so much more; at such a feast he can afford to be generous.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Demonstrations of "Top-price tobacco growing" are being conducted by 36 Boyle county farmers.

Six head of registered cattle were placed in Wayne county during the past two weeks.

In Franklin county, farmers are drenching all sheep that will not be marketed early.

Three Anderson county sheep club members sold 10 lambs at a Lexington sale recently.

Ten Perry county farmers have started locust seedlings on their farms.

Two diversion-type ditches on Luther Evans' Grant county farm "have paid back their worth double," Evans reports.

J. D. Brown, Spencer county, bought 10 purebred ewes from an Owen county farmer.

Sixty-eight farm reservoirs have been constructed by farmers in three northern Kentucky counties.

In Oldham county, 10 small plots of old alfalfa are being utilized to test the results of potash as fertilizer.

Sheep production has increased 30 percent in Hickman county during the past five years, reports the county farm agent.

air-dried and ground. Oshkosh, Wis., sells air-dried and ground sludge for $3.50 a cubic yard, while underground sludge is half-price.

Phoenix, Ariz., sells sludge for $1 a ton to a contracting firm which, in turn, disposes of it to farmers.

Several of the 10 cities sell only a small amount of sludge to private users, according to the information. Pala Alto, Calif., sells only to the city park department and to a nearby university for its golf course.

A few other cities—including Griffin, Ga., Dothan, Ala., Lakeland, Fla., Racine, Wis., Redlands, Calif., and Tucson, Ariz.—reported that all of the sludge produced at their municipal sewage treatment plants is being used by the cities for fertilizer on park areas and golf courses.

The other cities in the group covered by the survey were Akron and Dayton, Ohio, El Paso, Texas, Muskegon, Mich., Stratford, Conn., Tulsa, Okla., and Fresno, Calif.—Exchange.

Jim Gentry Baffles Hoppers To Win First Of Series 7 To 0

Jim Gentry, with his blazing fast ball, was in super form last night in the opener between Hopkinsville and the Tigers at Fairfield, holding the Hoppers to five widely scattered hits and striking out eight men. The smoke ball right hander was never in danger and only two or three men wandered as far as third. In the meantime the Tigers hit opportunely in the early innings off the delivery of Smith and piled up seven runs. McGlothlin, a lefty who relieved Smith, was a puzzle and held the Tigers scoreless, the game ending 7 to 0.

Tommy Hensler, former Tiger short stop, now with the Hoppers, was the only visitor to get as many as two hits. Mullen and Mathis, with two hits and a walk each, led the local hitters, who secured eleven hits. Errors were four to three in favor of the Hoppers.

The game was practically over in the first inning, when the Tigers put together four straight hits and two walks for four runs. Another run was added in the third and two more in the fourth.

The Hoppers appeared last night with a new manager who was remembered by some local fans. Jim Bryan, who played outfield for Dan Griner here in 1923, took over the Hoppers and played left field. It was said last night that he played his first game in organized ball in the local park. Hopkinsville is here again tonight and tomorrow night, and Fulton is now two games ahead of the Hoppers.

Elaborate Ceremony Planned For Windsors In The Bahamas
