VOL. 31, NO. 32

MURRAY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1938.

Republican Gibraltar Turns Democratic By Big Majorities For All Offices.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 3.—The democratic landslide of Tuesday was unprecedented in the political history of Christian county. For the first time the affairs of the district, county and city are in democratic hands. In the Third Judicial district, Judge J. T. Hanbery, of Hopkinsville, carried every county in the district and his majority is the largest ever known, aggregating 2,007 votes, distributed as follows:

Christian 383; Trigg, 492; Caloway, 767; Lyon 356. For commonwealth's attorney, Denny P. Smith's majority is considerably more than 1,700.

Christian county, known as a republican Gibraltar, on account of its enormous majorities in former years, executed a complete flip-flop and every candidate on the democratic ticket is elected by overwhelming majorities ranging from 404 in the county clerk's race, up to 1,532 in the race of Dr. J. H. Ries, for coroner, against Jim Alersworth, a negro preacher, who has held the office many years under republican administration. The democrats also elected six out of eight members of the fiscal court, together with the county judge, and five out of seven members of the city council.

The above tabulated report shows the result of the election last Tuesday. It shows a result, from a political standpoint, never before witnessed in the history of Calloway county. However, the result is not one of political significance, it was one assuming the proportions of a revolution within the democratic party. It is a fact that the three men elected, who opposed three nominees of the last fall primary, are republicans but they were elevated to the positions by the democrats of the county who felt that in their election redress was obtainable for grievances they had suffered.

The election passed without any occurrence to mar the peace and quiet of the county. A heavy vote was polled, indicating the eager interest that was manifested in the campaign, which will be remembered as the hardest fought contest within the history of the county.

Ere dark came the citizens of the country began pouring into town and by the time the returns began to come in one of the largest election crowds ever gathered was here eager and anxious to learn the result. Complete returns were in by 11 o'clock with the exception of Hazel which was not received until the following morning.

The above returns are not official but are as near correct as possible to obtain at this time. The official returns will be published next week. The above table shows Jordan's majority to be 77; Patterson's 222; Erwin's 27, and Alderson's 19.

WAR SECRETARY TALKS WATERWAY

SAYS DEPARTMENT FUNCTIONS ARE NOT INITIATIVE IN THEIR CHARACTER.

NOT POLICY TO RECOMMEND

Declares Vast and Costly Work, Affecting Fortunes of So Large a Territory, Should Not Be Undertaken Improvidently.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was called back to Louisville, Ill., by mandatory telegram, the nature of which he would not divulge.

"The 'old Joe' was compelled to depart before delivering his speech to the Deep Waterways convention, but in his letter to President W. K. Kay, chairman of the convention, he declared himself unequivocally for the taking of the Gulf project, as favoring the earliest possible solution of any remaining 'engineer problem,' and pledged his support in congress to the project as soon as a definite plan for the work shall have been adopted."

Secretary of War Dickinson addressed the convention, paying a high tribute to the army engineers who have examined the Mississippi river. He declared the army engineers would play a big part in the work of deepening the channel when it was begun, and cautioned the members of the association to rely upon the opinion of experts in their plans.

Secretary Dickinson's address. Secretary Dickinson said in part: "The war department only executes the will of the people when expressed in legislative form. Its functions have no bearing upon initiating or controlling legislation, except in so far as data, observation, and expert opinion given by its engineers may aid those who are charged with the responsibility of, or those who influence, legislative action."

"The power and duties of the army engineers are fixed by congress, and they are prohibited from making original investigations or recommending new projects or schemes of improvement."

"The proposed improvements to navigation that now absorb our interest are of stupendous magnitude, and present questions involved in much controversy. Heretofore the work has been detached, sporadic, intermittent. It has largely depended upon the activity of merely local influences. Now all the forces of public sentiment in the states bordering on the Mississippi and its tributaries have converged, and there is a clamorous cry for inaugurating and carrying to prompt execution a comprehensive and permanent plan that will give to that region the highest development that its natural transportation facilities, aided by the best engineering skill, can afford."

"It is vast and costly. The work is too vast and costly to be improvidently undertaken. It vitally affects the fortunes of so large a territory that no immature plan, nor one that will not be acquiesced in by the country, should have your advocacy."

As was said by the president, who was then secretary of war, in his address before this association in Chicago: 'A plan should be adopted until fully confirmed by expert opinion and careful investigation, when its utility is made certain, then it is neither economy to the government in the matter of expenditure, nor is it a benefit to the people to delay the furnishing, as rapidly as it can be economically expended, of the full amount of money needed to make the improvement a useful and complete thing.'

"The government has already devoted approximately six hundred millions for the improvement of waterways, of which two hundred and eight millions were expended in the Mississippi valley. This question has been considered by a board of engineers created by authority of congress. Three of them are from the army and two from civil life. All are experienced in Mississippi river problems. It is said by experts that it can be carried by vessels with profit at a rate approximately less than one-tenth of the average rate of freight per ton per mile earned by the railways of this country, provided the vessels are of large size. There is a great volume of traffic, and the waterways have practically unlimited facilities."

Saving on Great Lakes. "Coal is carried from Pittsburgh to New Orleans by river at less than $2 per ton, and sugar has been carried back at a cost of $2.50 per ton, as against a rail rate of $5. It is said that the saving to the nation by transportation on the great lakes was over $100,000,000 for the year 1908. The improvements projected by the New York canal are based on the expectation of reducing freight on grain to one-third of a mill per ton mile."

It is estimated by the U. S. railroads that under normal business conditions, the railroads are uneconomical in the work demanded of them, that traffic is increasing with amazing rapidity and that the capacity of the railroads is taxed to handle business that can not or will not use other routes.

It is declared by leading railroaders that there are not boats to be had on the Mississippi, are no advocates of waterways improvement. There is conclusive evidence that something should be done as early as practicable on a large scale for utilizing the transportation facilities with which nature has provided."

"Our people will undertake any expenditure that they are convinced is well justified."

"In considering competition with the railroads, it must be borne in mind that they can only be supplanted as to freight that originates and ends on waterways. Any considerable movement to or from the water involves a serious factor that increases the expense in proportion to the distance. A fact that must be dealt with is that, notwithstanding the increase of trade and improvement of waterways, the total river traffic has steadily decreased, and few rivers are now used to anything like an approximation of their capacity."

Must Assume Burden. "The report of the special board of engineers makes a prima facie case against a depth of 14 feet. It has been reviewed by a permanent board on rivers and harbors, and on the main point is approved. This is not conclusive, but the burden will have to be assumed by those who would not be able to overcome by assertion or general assertions. It may be wrong, it may lead to a demand for a much greater depth."

"In determining upon a course of action, it is well to consider that much time may be lost in standing out now for the deeper channel unless the arguments preponderate in its favor, and also that the work recommended in the report is of sufficient magnitude to absorb all appropriations that may, under the demand in other directions, be made for this particular line of improvements, and that all of it is necessary preliminary to the construction of a deeper waterway if developments shall show that it is economically desirable."

Secretary Dickinson closed his address with a review of the establishment and development of the engineering department of the army and the work, both military and civil, which it had accomplished, and said:

"The use of the ocean-going dredge they have mastered problems on the southern coast, formerly insoluble, as is illustrated at Charleston, Savannah, Brunswick, Charleston and other ports."

Services Will Be Invaluable. "I make no reflection upon other engineers, but looking to the condition of the Mississippi and the time required for the work after several experiments, the conclusion was reached that the construction of the Panama canal, the greatest single engineering work ever undertaken by a people in the history of the world, should be entrusted to the army engineers."

"The consensus of opinion of those who are informed, justifies the wisdom of that course, a justification which is based upon the demonstrated care, skill and devotion, which gives assurance of its speedy completion, but in reaching a conclusion as to what is best, looking to all the conditions."

GONE YEARS; WIFE REWED

Gold Seeker Returns From Gold Hunt in Alaska to Find Her on Second Honeymoon.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 2.—After looking for a wife and moving with success in his hunt for gold in Alaska, Joseph Roberts, returning home from Nome on the steamer Umatilla, sent an aerogram to the woman he had bidden goodby as his wife, requesting her to "meet me at the airport with our youngest daughter Helen."

The message was not delivered to the former Mrs. Roberts, for she is now on her second honeymoon in California, having married John Corliss, a wealthy mine operator. With the newly-wedded couple is the daughter Helen, 16 years old.

Mrs. Roberts secured a divorce about two years ago.

Armed Militiamen and the State Militia May Clash at Election Tuesday.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 2.—With armed militiamen and feudists patrolling the streets of Jackson and guarding every mountain pass leading to that city, and state troops pitted against them, a serious and bloody conflict is feared at the election in Breathitt county Tuesday. The sudden outbreak of the state troops Sunday followed the sensational stealing of an order by an armed body of men, of all the ballots printed for Tuesday's election and the carrying of them away to a remote part of the county.

DOWN ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

6 TO BE SENTENCED

U. S. SUPREME COURT DENIES REHEARING TO SHERIFF SHIPP AND OTHERS.

ALL CONVICTED OF CONSPIRACY

Charge Was That They Helped Plan to Lynch a Negro at Chattanooga—All Will Be Sentenced in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The United States supreme court denied a petition for a rehearing of the conviction of six men for conspiring to lynch a negro at Chattanooga, Tenn., March 18, 1906.

The six men were found guilty of conspiracy to lynch a negro at Chattanooga, Tenn., March 18, 1906. They were adjudged guilty on the last day of the 1908 term of the United States supreme court, but were granted a stay pending petition for rehearing.

Conspired to Lynch Negro. Sheriff Shipp and his co-defendants were declared by the court to be guilty of an act of contempt in combining in 1906 in a conspiracy to lynch a negro named Johnson, who had been sentenced to death by the local courts for a heinous crime, and in whose case the supreme court had interfered to the extent of granting an appeal which had the effect of an annulment.

On the night following the announcement of the court's action Johnson was taken out of jail in Chattanooga by a mob and lynched. There was no resistance on the part of the jail authorities, and Shipp and a number of his deputies, as well as about twenty citizens, were present at the lynching, and were convicted of conspiracy to lynch a negro.

The case has been pending ever since, and the number of defendants was from time to time reduced until only nine remained. Of these, six were found guilty of being in contempt.

New in Judicial Procedure. The case is regarded as of exceptional interest because it is practically the first time that the highest court in the United States has undertaken to assert its dignity or to resent acts or words reflecting upon it.

In the case of Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Gibson the court in effect declares that there may be contempt in a failure of officers of the law to prevent a crime in contempt of the court, and in taking compliance of an offender at so great a distance, the court for the first time asserts by action its right to compel the proper respect and treatment of its verdicts in all parts of the Union.

Reviewing the proceedings in the case of Johnson, the negro who was lynched, the chief justice pointed out that even before the case was brought to the supreme court that there had been many threats of lynching because of the serious character of the negro's offense.

He pointed out that the jail had been left entirely unguarded, and in place Monday he intended, owing to the indisposition of the bridge.

ROBBERS SHOOT MARSHAL

MEN SURPRISED WHILE TRYING TO BLOW MERCHANT'S SAFE.

Doctor, Returning From Call, Discovers Thieves at Work in Store—Battle in Street.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—Four robbers, supplied with work in the general merchandise store of Bradshaw Brothers at Lenexa, Kas., 12 miles west of Kansas City, shot and mortally wounded W. D. Haskin, the town marshal, after an exchange of shots. One of the robbers also was shot, how badly it is not known, as all four escaped. A posse is in pursuit.

Dr. C. L. Jones, returning home from a visit to a patient, passed the store just as the robbers set off a charge of dynamite on the safe. He notified Marshal Haskin and the officer soon was on the scene.

As Haskin approached the store a bullet whizzed by his face. He immediately returned the fire and a lively exchange of shots followed. All four of the robbers took part in the fusillade.

One of the robbers dropped to the ground wounded, and a moment later Haskin received a wound that sent him sprawling. The other two robbers shot in quick succession and Haskin, just raising himself on his elbow, fell forward mortally wounded from three bullets directed by the many of the robbers.

The three robbers who had escaped Haskin dragged their comrade to a nearby barn and hauled him out of the store and within a few minutes the band was driving eastward at high speed.

DRINKS A DEATH TOAST

Chicago Bridegroom, With Farewell Words, Joins Bride in Quaffing Carbolio Acid.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—"Let's drink to death, sweetheart, and then we'll die together."

With that toast as a farewell, John H. Hollis, 22, and Mary Hollis, 17, his bride of six months, both of whom were discouraged to the point of despair, drank carbolio acid from two small bottles in their room at a hotel, then lay down to die.

The pair are in a precarious condition at St. Luke's hospital, but physicians say they will recover. In explaining their action John said that after vainly trying to find work his bride determined to end it all. After spending all but 10 cents of the last money they had, amounting to 45 cents, on a meal at a cheap restaurant, they purchased carbolio acid and drank it together. The druggist had diluted the acid, and this is what saved the couple's lives.

BRIEF TELEGRAPH NOTES

A cyclone, traveling in a southerly direction, demolished the large house of E. M. Fowler, a farmer three and one-half miles north of Silvan Springs, Ark., killing his wife and injuring two children.

Rev. J. J. Spruille, aged 85 years, and probably the oldest Baptist minister in Kentucky, is dead at Hopkinsville, Ky. He had been a minister 50 years and during that time had baptized more than 5,000 persons, had established several new churches and married about 1,200 couples.

An attempt to assassinate Rev. R. B. Bulkin, an evangelist, was made at Oklahoma City when a bullet was fired from the street into the evangelist's room at the Travelers' hotel. The bullet missed his head by about four inches. Rev. Bulkin is the man who caused the indictment of officials at Shawnee recently.

Two men were killed and a third fatally injured near Long Beach, Cal., when an automobile, occupied by Robert Welch, Dr. William G. Terwilliger and Gilbert Rhoades of Brooklyn, was struck by a Long Island train at a grade crossing and were hurled into the air.

Mr. Welch and Dr. Terwilliger were killed instantly. Constant grieving over the death of his wife, which occurred six weeks ago, caused the death of Mrs. Welch, of Edward Entwistle, a former Whippoorwill, who was being slowly electrocuted at Montgomery, Ala., when a small boy rushed to the rescue and with a broom handle pushed the wires out of touch.

Robert Lee Thomas, an influential turfman, was stabbed and seriously injured at New York in a quarrel with C. H. Rehill, a jockey, in the park dock at the Sheepshead Bay race track.

M. G. Day, a wealthy farmer, Ohio, died of paralysis while in his barnyard shouting a reply to members of a balloon party, who had brought their balloons low to ask about location.

With 2,500 volts coursing through their bodies and unable to let go the wires which carried the current, it is believed that the two men were being slowly electrocuted at Montgomery, Ala., when a small boy rushed to the rescue and with a broom handle pushed the wires out of touch.

Records Submitted by Cook's Rival Fail to Show Conquest of the North Pole.

Washington, Nov. 2.—That Commander Peary's records, so far submitted to the National Geographical society, do not show that he went further north than Etah, is stated by Chairman Henry Gannett of the committee appointed to pass upon the data of Peary's north pole expedition.

A preliminary order has been sent the explorer to forward his records and instruments at once, and it is expected that the urgency of the message will cause the commander to appear in person with his supplementary records, before the committee.

The members of the committee which consists, besides Gannett, of Admiral C. M. Chester and O. H. Tiltman, were more surprised than they were to express over the inadequacy of the records.

The committee was unable to decide, by the data in hand, whether the explorer had ever been outside of Greenland.

Bear Changes After Death. Orefield, O., Nov. 2.—In exhuming the body of Elmer Homan, an old resident who died here 16 years ago, for shipment to Waterloo, Ia., workmen were amazed to find the body preserved in its natural form and turned to stone. The head of the corpse was black. Men who knew Homan when alive say his beard was decidedly gray at the time of his death.

Lahn Flees Nearly an Hour. College Park, Md., Nov. 2.—Breaking all endurance records on the government aviation field, Lieut. Lahn in the army aeroplane arrived in the air during a single flight 58 1/2 minutes. This exceeds any continuous flight made by a pupil of either Orville or Wilbur Wright in America although their pupils abroad have greatly exceeded this.

Tries to Kill Family. Evansville, Ind., Nov. 2.—William T. Neal, 24, is in a cell, his wife in a precarious condition from shock and his sister-in-law is dangerously wounded as the result of Neal's attempt to kill his entire family, on slaying of his wife, four children, his sister-in-law and brother-in-law.

Hallowe'en Vandals Wreck Cemetery. Carlinville, Ill., Nov. 2.—Damage estimated at $8,000 was done Saturday night in the Carlinville city cemetery as a result of Hallowe'en pranks by vandals. More than 100 tombstones were damaged. Several old monuments of prominent people were among those destroyed.

Virginia Congressman Dead. Peterboro, Va., Nov. 2.—Francis Rives Lassiter, congressman from the Fourth district, died of paralysis of the heart caused by strain due to the present state campaign. He was born here in 1824.

Supreme Court Decision. Boston, Nov. 2.—Associate Justice William H. Moody of the United States supreme court is in the Peterborough hospital in Brooklyn and is receiving special treatment for rheumatism.

GIRDIRON FUTURE IN THE BALANCE

WEST POINTER DIES AFTER BEING CRUSHED IN GAME AT HARVARD

ADMITTED HARD BLOW TO SPORT

Army-Navy Contest Called Off—Educators Think New Rules Must Be Made If Game Is to Continue.

The death of Cadet Byrne at West Point from injuries inflicted in the football game with Harvard Saturday afternoon has caused widespread comment regarding the danger of the game as played under the new rules, and the advisability of again amending the rules or abolishing the game altogether.

Byrne's death, following the probably fatal injury of Middleman Wilson at Annapolis, has directed unusual attention to the game. The accidents are not exceptional as shown by the fact that a player died Saturday in a Philadelphia hospital, and another succumbed in Kansas City, Mo., a few hours after being hurt.

West Point, Nov. 2.—Eugene A. Byrne, the West Point cadet who was injured in the football game with Harvard here Saturday, died at 6:35 a. m. Sunday. His death means the abolishment of football both here and at Annapolis, according to the belief of the rank and file at the army post, although none would talk for publication on the subject.

Col. Scott has sent the following message to the naval academy at Annapolis, where Earl Wilson, injured in a manner similar to Byrne two weeks ago, is in a critical condition: "To Superintendent Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md."

On account of the sorrow over the loss of a member of our football team, we have decided to cancel playing football for the remainder of the season. H. L. SCOTT.

"Colonel F. S. A. Supp." Byrne died in the post hospital, where he was carried on a stretcher from the football field. Col. Charles Gandy, Capt. John Hanna, Capt. L. L. Smith and Capt. Loring, all army surgeons, remained with him all night. In an adjoining room sat his father, James A. Byrne, formerly police commissioner of Buffalo, and his sister, both of whom had witnessed the game. Byrne was paralyzed from his mouth down.

At 5 a. m. he partly regained consciousness for the first time after the accident. Col. Gandy gently touched various places along his spinal column. When his fingers passed just below the base of the skull Byrne muttered "There." Then he asked for water. He again lapsed into unconsciousness and died an hour and thirty-five minutes later. "Officer" O'Rourke of Highland Falls was also present and administered the last rites of the church.

No autopsy was held at the request of the grief-stricken father, but Col. Gandy said it was practically certain there were fractures of the second and third vertebrae.

Byrne's mother, who had been sent for, arrived from the family home in Buffalo in the afternoon. She was told her son was dead until she reached the hotel on the academic grounds. She became hysterical.

Byrne was only 21 years old, a member of the fourth or senior class and one of the most popular cadets at the academy. He was to be graduated next June. Standing six feet in his stockings and tipping the scales at 150 pounds, he towered above most of the students. His hearty manner had made him a favorite from the time he first entered the academy as a "plebe," and for the last two years he had been one of the mainstays of the football team.

Harvard Regrets Accident. Boston, Nov. 2.—The Harvard players have returned home. One of the two men who refused to allow the use of his name said:

We all regret the untimely ending of Tackle Byrne. Capt. Fish is heartbroken. Minot, who figured prominently in the play, is also sorely distressed. It was an unfortunate ending to a finely played contest, and how it will affect the play is yet to be seen.

The admiring and enthusiastic crowd that greeted the homecoming Harvard football team, flushed with victory was lacking when the players reached Cambridge. Capt. Fish and manager Parsons did not return. Fish went to his home at Garrison-on-the-Hudson. Parsons, Fisher, one of the forwards, who, with Capt. Fish, led the onslaught on the West Point line, and Minot, the fullback, who carried the ball in the play which resulted in the victory to Harvard.

Trains' Boosh. Donovan and the players were enthusiastic in the opinion that the accident was due as much as anything to the fact that Byrne had become weakened by a previous injury in the game. "WHILE time he had been taken out and that he was unable to protect himself in such a hard chase scrimmage," as one upon him in the final play.

THE VERDICT OF THE PEOPLE.

The result of Tuesday's election is now a part of the political history of Calloway county, and the conditions which brought about the revolution must, of necessity, be relegated into oblivion.

It was not the success of one political party over another political party; it was not a rebuke administered to men but a rebuke administered to a machine; it was the registration of the determination of the many as opposed to the determination of the few; it was not victory because of unclean men but a victory because of corrupt methods; it was the administration of a drastic remedy to destroy the cancerous growth that was gnawing at the very vitals of the rights of the people and sapping their life blood. It was the incision of the surgeon's knife and it was necessary to cut clean and probe deep to remove the cause of the malady. It was a fulfillment of the doctrine that to spare the rod was to spoil the child, and the punishment was not administered with malice or hate or envy.

These necessities were imposed by machine methods, placed in motion by partisans whom we do not believe weighed with due consideration the magnitude of their injustices nor the final result. Apparently drunken with success, reason dethroned, they openly and boldly marched through a bloody slaughter pen into an open grave.

District Committeeman Berry, to whom appeal was made, aided, abetted and endorsed the wrongs committed against the people in this county and his decisions are responsible for the result. When further recourse was denied, to the court of last resort, the people, was final appeal made and the verdict is rendered and it must be accepted.

That peace and love and fellowship between all citizens will result, that the bonds that link town and county will be more firmly welded, that prosperity will settle down upon every citizen as gently as the morning dew, kiss the up-turned petals of the blushing rose is the hope, the expectation, the only reward and glory we anticipate.

Returns received Wednesday show that the democratic landslide in Tuesday's election is unprecedented in the history of Kentucky politics. The republicans lost many counties and districts that were never known to fail them. The largest democratic gains came from the mountain section of the state. The republicans carried only one district. They succeeded in defeating the democratic nominee in the Calloway county district.

The democrats elected E. Berryman to the senate in the Sixth district, which has heretofore been a republican stronghold. The next senate seat will stand twenty-six democrats to twelve republicans. The house of representatives, according to preliminary returns, showed a similar result. Twenty-four democrats and twenty-four republicans were elected.

A Religious Author's Statement.
Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, of Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys, and was confined to bed, eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and a glass of same turned milky and I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all who are afflicted with kidney trouble."—Rev. J. H. Fesperman, pastor of the Baptist church at Salisbury, N. C., Sunday and conducted the service in honor of Miss Louella Houston, who will leave within a short time as a missionary to China. A large crowd attended and listened to one of the ablest sermons ever delivered in this place and witnessed a most impressive ceremony.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness. These are the results when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates often, if the urine is pale, the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the bladder, it is unable to do so, it is a sign of kidney trouble. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold in drug stores, in one-cent and one-half-cent bottles. You may have a sample bottle free from the following pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SIMPSON ELECTED JUDGE OF MURRAY POLICE COURT.

Judge S. P. Simpson, the present incumbent, was re-elected judge of the Murray police court last Tuesday, defeating W. F. Peterson, the nominee. Judge Simpson was an independent candidate and his name appeared on the ballot under the device of a dove. Judge Simpson's election was quite a surprise to a number while upon the other hand an active interest was taken in his behalf and his friends boasted that he would be elected several days before the election.

The proposition submitted to the voters of the city calling for a $20,000 issue of bonds was carried by the necessary two-thirds majority. The result of the city election was as follows:

	W. M. E. M. Total
Peterson	157 42 199
Simpson	95 138 233
Bond Issue
Yes	141 55 197
No	61 25 86

Kirksey, Ky.

We are having nice weather at present.

Amos Turnbow and Paris Swift are building some nice houses which add very much to the looks of our neighborhood.

A. B. Edwards is improving slowly, but it will be some time before he is able to be up moving around.

Zack Ezell is some better, but he has not yet back from Mayfield yet where he took sick some three weeks ago.

On Saturday the 3rd, about 10 a. m. the friends and the teachers of the association assembled at the C. N. C. In a few minutes the house was called to order by Supt. Langston and after a few remarks by him he gave place to Miss Daisy Radford who delivered the welcome address.

After discussing the various subjects pro and con by the teachers the crowd was dismissed for noon and a bountiful dinner was spread which all partook of and seemed to enjoy it very much. After a few minutes recreation a song was sung by all, and then Prof. Miller was called for and after complimenting the ladies' good dinner he delivered a splendid speech, after which Mr. Phillips was called to the floor. He in his usual modest way made a nice talk. Then the subject of punishment was discussed by teachers and parents. After a few remarks by Supt. Langston the association closed to meet again at Lynn Grove on Saturday, Oct. 6.

We always give a warm welcome to our friends and teachers and hope some day to have another association in our district.

HANDICAPPED.

This is The Case With Many Murray People.

Too many Murray citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Can you doubt Murray evidence?

Mrs. J. M. Johnson, Depot St., Paris, Tenn., says: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, I have been entirely free from kidney trouble and in much better health. I had severe pains in my back and some times it was almost impossible for me to do my housework. My limbs often pained me dreadfully and though I doctored, I rapidly grew worse until I became so bad that I could scarcely get about. I thought that my kidneys were disordered but had no idea that they were the cause of my trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I concluded to try them and procured a box. I am very grateful to them for the benefit received."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WERT ALDERSON.

The above is a fairly good likeness of Jailer W. Alderson, the only successful primary nominee who had opposition in Tuesday's election. He defeated his opponent Richard Langston by the narrow margin of 19 votes. W. Alderson says he knows exactly how it feels to be defeated. He was of the opinion that Langston was elected until Wednesday morning, and he also declares that "Dick" knows how a fellow feels when he is elected as he thought the victory was won until after the Hazel vote was returned. W. Alderson is proud of his victory but declares the "crow" in his roster was pulled clean out by the close shave he got.

Women Workers

Every Wage-Earner Should Join Union

By MARGARET L. FOLEY

EVERY woman wage-earner should belong to a trade organization. It is only through organization that anything is attained. In every large community of intelligent working people a trade union is as legitimate as a savings bank. Capitalists combine into corporations and trusts to lower expenses and increase profits and wage-earners combine into unions to reduce the hours of labor and to raise wages.

Any person, whether capitalist or wage-earner, who does not protect his business interests by organizing with others like himself is almost certain to become a loser. The wage-earner cannot do without the trade union. It is the only hope that he has of permanently bettering his condition.

Women workers, especially when unorganized, are the most helpless class in the community, with the exception of the child worker, because of their inexperience in business life. They can be a great menace to the community where they work in competition with men, for when unorganized they invariably tend to lower wages.

Women start out in the labor world with the idea that their wage-earning period will be of short duration. They therefore often accept lower wages than would a man without considering that by so doing they are lessening the possibility for that man to marry and support a family according to the American standard.

Again the large number of women working after marriage is indicative of the fact that the competition of organized women with men is so great that the normal family relation cannot be maintained.

Every woman should strive for a living wage, an eight-hour day and good sanitary conditions, which are almost never found in unorganized trades.

How the Poultry Business Rapidly Grows

By J. A. BOSTEDO

Some one now advocates a muzzle for roosters. There have been muzzles proposed for dogs, for cats and, in fact, for almost everything except for the man who constantly finds fault with other people's business. Only a few years ago the poultry industry was in its infancy. Look at it now. The city folks are building up some of the finest grades of poultry to be found either in America or Europe. Most people think that it was the farmer who built up the poultry industry. Not so. Look through the many poultry shows and you will see that the city folks are ahead of the farmers. The large cities are full of fancy-poultry breeders. People came to our doors simply begging for fresh eggs, especially for the use of invalids and children. The price was no object. Fresh eggs were needed and not storage eggs.

Still we find people who kick about chickens while clamoring for fresh eggs. Why don't they use storage eggs? The coming winter will find these people paying more for eggs than ever. The only way to obtain the real fresh egg is to raise it.

It costs no more to feed blooded stock than the common stock of chicken. Hence the great amount of fancy poultry found throughout the suburbs of the big cities.

If people do not agree with the neighbors' views and ideas, why don't they move elsewhere? The unmuzzled howler is found all over the universe, from ocean to ocean. But show me one who builds a penny to industry.

A visit to the poultry and animal shows will convince anybody that the city people are showing the goods, not howling.

Benefits of Sunlight in the Sickroom

By WELLS ANDREWS, M. D.

All doctors now agree that the sickroom should be a sunny one, if possible. It has been remarked in hospitals that patients on the sunny side get well quicker than those on the dark side. Sunlight gives vigor and life. Of course the window blinds should be drawn if the patient wishes for a dark room, as people do in pain, and in some cases a dark room is necessary, but these are the exceptions. In general a sunny room is a good medicine.

In all families there should be one who could perform the duties of a nurse. To do so requires tact and observation. She must use her eyes and remember everything that the doctor says. First, temperature; second, pulse; third, respiration.

Taking the temperature means ascertaining the exact heat of the body. This cannot be done by mere feeling with the hand. It must be done with a clinical thermometer, which is a very important step in medical practice. These thermometers can be purchased of your druggist and your doctor will instruct as to their use.

The temperature can be taken in various parts of the body, the most usual being in the mouth of groggy. The normal or natural heat of the body is 98.6 degrees.

NO DANGER IN WORLD TRAVEL

Returned Tourist 'Went Around' the Earth Without Accident or Starting Adventure.

"It is as safe to travel around the world as it is to travel through my home city, Plainfield. It is much safer than going as far as Barnegat," said C. A. Read when he arrived at New York with his wife and three children, a woman and a girl.

"I have circled the earth and covered 30,000 miles, about half by land, and during all the time I have been away, since April 1, not an accident happened nor was there a starting incident. I carried no weapons and never knew the necessity of them."

Mr. Read is a lawyer in Plainfield, N. J., and went to China with his family on business, going via San Francisco. He spent some time in Japan and said the Japanese seem to have a chip on their shoulders.

"I was greatly surprised at conditions in Siberia," continued Mr. Read. "The dreadful stories I have heard and read are greatly exaggerated. The country looked to me as I passed along over the Trans-Siberian railroad, like that of our northwest. Farming was flourishing. The cold, dreary, bleak country that I had read about was nowhere to be seen."

A DIET OF DAHLIAS

By a curious horticultural irony the dahlia, which is the popular idol of all our early autumn flower shows, has a dreadfully prosaic parentage. It has been developed from the Mexican tubers introduced about 120 years ago by the Swedish naturalist Dr. Dahl for the purely commercial purpose of supplying, or supplementing the potato. They did not "catch on" and the dahlia dish soon disappeared from dinner tables. Our gardeners at once perceived the great potentialities of the flower and proceeded to produce the double dahlia and other delightful floral fantasies. The tubers of the dahlia, too aerial for our insular taste, are still eaten in some parts of France.

THE GO-DEVIL.

Instead of employing hundreds of men with picks to dig up streets for the purpose of resurfacing them the city of Cincinnati now uses a 15,000-pound rock, which enjoys the gentle name of go-devil.

When dragged along by a steam roller it does the work of the laborer with their picks in about one-fifth of the time and 50 per cent. better. The big steel teeth dig into the street six inches deep and three feet wide and travel about 25 feet a minute. It is estimated that the machine saves the work of hundreds of laborers and pays for itself in every two days work. Popular Mechanics.

LOOK ON BALMORAL AS HOME.

Among all their palaces and castles it is Balmoral that the members of the royal family have always looked upon as their home. Around it cluster the most pleasing recollections of their childhood and their manhood and womanhood. It was there that the present queen of Spain and her brother, Maurice, were born. It is an interesting fact to remember that until the queen of Spain was born there had not been a royal birth in Scotland for nearly 300 years not, in fact, since Charles I. was born at Dunfermline in 1600. ## HARD LINES.

Miss Flora McElmery was bewailing the circumstance that she had nothing to wear.

"Nothing that's fit to go out in, anyway," she said. "I see by the printed proceedings of the dress-makers' convention that every dress gown I have is hopelessly out of style."

In spite of the fact that Erastus was trimming his trees and shrubs to make room for her hats, she persisted in remaining indoors and reading French novels.

THRIFTY.

She crept upon his knee and spread over the sporting page.

"Jack," she whispered, confidentially, "if you'll just let me have six dollars more to buy that beautiful fall suit I saw in the store yesterday, I'll just show you how economical I can be."

He turned her over his shoulder and kissed her. "Why, I'll take all the flowers off of my summer park-basket but I won't let you with children and you won't have to spend a cent for a new waste basket. Won't that be a saving?"

Atmospheric Intrigue

Lucile Ahrens, in dripping raincoat, her bright hair, clinging in damp ringlets under the dark lily veil thrown back carelessly from her face, stood at the news counter of a subway station.

The place was quite deserted. Even the frowzy woman in gray sweater, who presided at the news stand, had for the moment disappeared. Lucile laid down one gay-backed magazine and picked up another, wishing that a train would come along, when a young man of vigorous physique, and tastefully attired, walked toward her with determined strides.

"Can I get an evening paper here?" was the man's salutation.

The answer was unmistakable English. Lucile understood. The attendant was still absent. With modestly lowered eyes and unobtrusive countenance she sought the desired sheet.

But the Englishman slipped it out from under a fan of papers. With a dignified "Thank you," he tucked the paper under his arm, throwing down a dime.

At the contingency of making change for a dime Lucile could hardly conserve her blankness of countenance. She turned half away from her customer, who stood waiting as she took out her little purse with its silver monogram.

There were no pennies. This was an emergency. Should she run, or remain and bicker with her customer to take a nickel's worth of papers in default of change?

But worse yet—the frowzy woman came shuffling back, and before Lucile or the man had time for another maneuver she had spotted the dime and was counting out the change.

The rich color of the man's cheeks suddenly dissolved and suffused his whole face. He looked full at Lucile with blue eyes that were half annoyed, half beseeching. "I beg your pardon," he began.

But Lucile flashed him one glance and fled. Had her amusement could give vent to itself.

The local was fast-pulling in. Lucile ran for the head car and took a front seat. No one should witness her mirth.

"Why am I always such a fool on a rainy day?" she asked herself as she pressed her face against the window and laughed at the stone wall of the tunnel. "But he has good eyes, though—what a chump he was!"

Lucile's face with time, dressing for dinner, increased her animation. She was almost bubbling over as she descended to her aunt's drawing-room, where ten guests were assembled.

The annoyed aunt's sugar-coated rebuke had no effect upon her spirits.

"How lovely! All in white, but we've been waiting. Mr. Rockford has been here 15 minutes."

"Dreadful!" laughed Lucile as they approached the guests. She had forgotten Mr. Rockford, the guest of the evening.

"Mr. Rockford!" He was being presented. She caught one glance of his rascally disordered blue eyes. His splendid color was fluctuating between red and blue.

He was muttering her name, calling her Miss Allen.

"So much the better," thought Lucile.

Her aunt, who was watching them narrowly, took occasion to draw her aside before leaving the way to the dining-room.

"Now, Lucile, do believe, this once," expostulated that lady. "We've counted so much upon this meeting, and I'm sure, Harvey Rockford has looked forward to it."

"Then don't put me near him at the time," she said, warningly.

"But, Lucile!"

"I can't talk to him, auntie—not now."

And she did not.

But in the drawing-room after dinner her aunt seemed grimly determined to bring them together, and Mr. Rockford, himself, seconded her attempts. He tried several times to engage the girl in conversation alone, and she as often thwarted him by including some one else.

After repeated rebuffs there came a noticeable change in his policy. He seemed all at once to realize that Lucile was not the only girl in the drawing-room.

He had talked for 20 minutes with Marie Locke, and laughed a laugh musical with good nature when Lucile began to read that he should have apologized, that it was his duty to have apologized long ago.

Why shouldn't Marie with her brunette beauty and her seriousness attract him? With a toss of her bright head, she dismissed all claim to Mr. Rockford's attention.

In the face of this renunciation it was ineffectual why, as she withdrew to the conservatory, she felt a slight sense of pique an emotion altogether new to her—because he did not follow. She walked down a narrow passage, between rows of ferns, and stopped through an open door upon the veranda.

She wanted to breathe the moist air and feel her hair crinkle and cling around her face. But the clouds had broken away and the stars were out.

Lucile laughed softly. That was what depressed her; it had cleared off. She would have a rise of spirits when another shower came.

She turned about, smiling to herself, to meet in the doorway Harvey Rockford. In a moment she was rallying her scattered forces. But this was hard to do under the bright smile and frankly unimpaired gaze of Harvey Rockford.

"Miss Ahrens," he said, while his splendid figure blocked her only means of escape. "I have an apology to make."

Lucile's dark eyes glistened with malicious merriment. "But, Mr. Rockford, the weather has cleared, and all the disturbances of the past few hours, both atmospheric and subterranean, are as if they never had happened."

"But this is a drawing-room affair," he hastened to explain, "and has nothing to do with your delightful atmospheric theory."

She looked up into his face, and for the first time her eyes were questioning.

He met her look steadily with a growing sense of power. "I am both mortified and charmed," he continued, "to learn that you are Lucile Ahrens."

Lucile laughed. "I can easily understand why you should be very much disappointed, but the paradox is—"

"—?" She checked herself, for she had never stooped to seek a complement.

He smiled almost bitterly. "The disappointment is all in myself. Can you pardon me, tolerate me, after I have added to all my other stupidities the blunder of misunderstanding your name?"

There was a silence. Something in the candor of the man's eyes, in the kindness of his firm, handsome mouth, made Lucile thoughtful.

When the two rejoined the company, it was time for departure. And Lucile's aunt read something in the faces of both that satisfied her deepest wish. As soon as they were alone she came close and said to the girl's dark eyes: "We've done it!" she whispered triumphantly.

"Emph!" replied Lucile, disclaiming her blushes under a pretense of scorn. "We didn't do anything, he did it himself."

"A QUESTION TO BE CONSIDERED"

Do you consider plagiarism a crime?

"Well," answered Senator Sampson, "it's pretty hard when you find yourself compelled to make a choice between being interesting or original."

MAJOR OR MINOR.

Mr. Luntton: I suppose I may address you as major, sir? Every man in these southern states seems to be a colonel or a major.

Texas Bill: No major; I'm a minor.

That Got Him.

A theatrical manager, delighted with a rise out of conceited or vain members of his company.

"I see you are getting on fairly well," he remarked.

"Fairly," I am getting on very well," replied the hero of the play, promptly.

"I played Hamlet for the first time last night. You can see by the papers glowing criticisms how well I got on."

"I have not read them," replied the other, quietly, but it was there.

"Oh, you were. Well, you noticed how swimmingly everything went off? Of course, I made a blunder of one part by falling into Ophelia's grave, but I think the audience appreciated even that."

"I know," they said, said the manager, with a slight smile; "but they were frightfully sorry when you climbed out of it again!"

Typographical Union Led.

The first tuberculosis sanitarium to be erected for the benefit of the laboring men was built by the International Typographical union in connection with its house at Colorado Springs. The International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union have recently decided to erect a similar sanitarium, and steps are now being taken to open such an institution. The International Photo Engravers' union, while not conducting a sanitarium of its own, pays for the treatment of its tuberculous members in institutions in various parts of the country. The International Hotel Workers' union are recommending to their members that they ally themselves with the various organizations united in the fight against tuberculosis.

Hated to Take the Money.

Frank T. Cobb, the chief editorial writer of the New York World, was on a vacation in the Maine woods once when Joseph Pulitzer, owner of the World, wanted to communicate with him. Mr. Pulitzer sent Cobb a cipher message.

Presently a country operator drove in to the Cobb camp and handed Cobb the message, which read something like this:

"Simplerity—aggrandizement—grievous—gerald—rodricus—bupercute—hamfat—publity."

"There's a dollar to collect for delivering that message," said the operator, "but I hate to take it. Somebody along the line got it all balled up, and they ain't no sense to it."

THE DIFFERENCE

Coffee Usually Means Sickness, But Postum Always Means Health.

Those who have never tried the experiment of leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place and in this way regaining health and happiness can learn much from the experience of others who have made the trial.

One who knows says: "I drank coffee for breakfast every morning until I had terrible attacks of indigestion producing days of discomfort and nights of sleeplessness. I tried to give up the use of coffee entirely, but found it hard to go from hot coffee to a glass of water. Then I tried Postum. It was soon and the effect was so pleasant that I soon learned to love it and have used it for several years. I improved immediately after I left off coffee and took on Postum and am now entirely cured of my indigestion and other troubles all of which were due to coffee. I am now well and contented and all because I changed from coffee to Postum."

Postum is much easier to make right every time than coffee, for it is an even and always reliable. We never use coffee now in our family. We use Postum and are always well."

TAFF WITH ALDRICH

WEST MUST UNDERSTAND ACTION OF PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Signed Measure Laid That It Meant Regard of the Party's Pledge to the Country.

Mr. Taft's defense of the tariff in his Whiting speech is a disappointment to the west. The tariff approved of the action of Republican senators from Minnesota, Indiana, South Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska, cherished the delusion that Mr. Taft would support the tariff.

As a matter of fact, Taft was any reason for the west that Mr. Taft would not Aldrich tariff bill. He signed out hesitancy immediately a passage, and on signing it a statement defending it as an fulfillment of Republican pledge the last days of the week he urged reductions upon the

Mr. Taft's ambition in revising the tariff was to avoid a controversy in the party. He is still so about maintaining the party by accomplishing its objective. That he protected against show of indignation and was not a political issue, as well as the next presidential election western tie publicans are adding to the list of things to do.

As a harmonious Mr. Taft, Winona, perhaps the west had not campaign pledges in favor of it and downward revision, many Republicans there are able of regarding the tariff as well as a political issue, a prelude of joy that "a nu those who thought it their vote against the bill must it still Republicans" down to make matters better.

The western progressives misgivings about their own cause. It is Mr. Taft's Regal that they are finding fault with to do it.

President Taft has already back up three of his cabinet Nagel, Ballinger and Knox, done so valiantly, as, indeed, if he is to have a cabinet at he probably wishes he did to do it.

A Disappointment.

President Taft and "Con" Taft were in the same line signed the bill and the other for it. As a matter of exped only for maintaining party and usefulness, but for the sake of the tariff disturbance, the resumption of their action was justified.

A PUBLIC BENEFIT.

Murray People Greatly Interested in the Generous Offer of Dale & Stubblefield.

The people have already demonstrated that they would rather trust a man who is naturally honest than one who is honest only because he had to be.

Dale & Stubblefield have a firmly established reputation for square dealing and sterling honesty. When they told the people that Rexall Remedies are the purest and most dependable medicines that it is possible for modern science to produce, and that they would tell the public what each one of these 300 or more remedies contained, and that they sold Rexall Remedies on their personal guarantee, that they would give entire satisfaction or they would not cost the user a single cent, they were believed.

Ever since this announcement Dale & Stubblefield's store has been largely patronized by people buying Rexall Remedies, all of which proves that this store has the confidence of the people and that honesty is the best policy.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies. There are different and separate medicines, each one devised for a certain human ailment or a class of ailments closely allied. For instance, Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are recommended for the positive relief of stomach irritation, indigestion, flatulency and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth-Subnitrate, Pepsin and Carminatives. They are prepared by special processes which perfect and enhance the great remedial value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per package. Every one suffering from stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, inasmuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Remember, Dale & Stubblefield's store is the only store in Murray where these remedies may be obtained, and every one in need of medicine is urged to investigate and take advantage of the frank and generous manner in which they are sold.

Just above the door at the main entrance to the hall was the inscription: "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here"; while in the yard there were a number of ghosts with punkin bombs, also a tent in which the fortune teller, Mrs. Kline Jeffrey, displayed great tact in foretelling the future to the guests—a part of the evening. The costumes were splendid representations of ghosts, and the prizes, a lovely brooch and pair of cuff buttons, were won by Miss Ruby Sledd and Carl Wilkinson.
