Don't Take Chances

You wouldn't attempt a human flip-trick from the Empire State Building, nor would you try juggling dynamite instead of apples. There are times when it is better to avoid risks. Here are some tips to help you avoid risks:

- Always check your surroundings before proceeding.
- Use common sense in all situations.
- Avoid situations that may lead to injury.

"I figure authors don't mind when they do the heavy work. What do you mean by 'hard' work?" "Write it on paper or give me a transcript. This is a matter of the whole time. It might be a little harder to do here."

One Hero Wins a Minor birthday party. The British sailors, Mrs. Carter, for her young son, and Dr. Carrel, for his daughter, are among those who have been made a success since he wrote "Utopia." His head was cut off for his Catholic faith.

On Board the Normandie. The intelligent Mr. Widener, Mrs. Astor, and Dr. Carrel, who has been made a success since he wrote "Utopia." His head was cut off for his Catholic faith.

Mrs. Guggenheim would tell you many more stories of how successful a modern ocean liner can be. But the best would be to start with the story of how the first Normandie, the first of its kind, was built in 1930. It was not long after that the sailing ships started to fail.

FLAME IN THE FOREST

By HAROLD TITUS

SYNOPSIS

Kerry Young, a lad of seven, is sent with his dog, Paddy, to help his aunt, Miss Enid Wight, in the small, old-fashioned town of Seven, West Indies, on the island of Seven. There he learns the secrets of the land and the forest.

Just around the corner, the car went by, and the dog—Paddy—stood his ground. He saw the car and turned his head, and then his eyes met the eyes of a young girl who was also looking at him. His tail went up, and his eyes were soft and kind. For an instant Kerry thought he saw her face: a young girl with a kind, gentle face. He turned and flew down the street to see what had happened.

He was only a boy, but he knew the look of a friend. And there was something in his eyes that was familiar, something that he knew. A moment of escape, and then the girl was gone. She had seen a friend, and then she was gone. And he knew that she had seen him, and that he had seen her.

The man behind the wheel of the car, looking down at the boy from the window, saw him, and his face went white. He turned and drove away. The boy stood there, watching him, and then he turned and flew down the street to see what had happened.

The man was no weakling. Kerry knew that he was no weakling. And the man behind the wheel of the car, looking down at the boy from the window, saw him, and his face went white. He turned and drove away. The boy stood there, watching him, and then he turned and flew down the street to see what had happened.

We Believe In Democracy
An Editorial by Franklin D. Roosevelt

Of all the nations of the world today, we are in many ways the weakest. Yet we are the nation that is in the front rank of those that must lead and will lead the world in the future. We must be prepared to shoulder the responsibilities that will fall upon us, and to meet them without any qualms of conscience or any sense of inferiority.

We must be prepared to lead the world by the example of our own conduct. We must be prepared to lead the world in winning the war. We must be prepared to lead the world in Reconstruction. We must be prepared to lead the world in the development of a world organization that shall assure peace and security for all nations.

We believe in democracy. We believe in freedom. We believe in peace. We offer to every nation of the world the hand of friendship. Let those who wish our friendship look us in the eye and take our hand.

We are not isolationists. We do not believe in isolation. We want to be friends of all nations. We want to be statesmen. We want to be the good neighbor. Let those who wish our friendship look us in the eye and take our hand.

We must be prepared to lead the world in the development of a world organization that shall assure peace and security for all nations. We must be prepared to lead the world in the development of a world organization that shall assure peace and security for all nations.
