THE LISTENING POST

I have always had a deep and abiding love for trees, and at this season of the year, when all trees are at the peak of their productive life, I look at them many times and thrill to their beauty. I would not live in a treeless country for any amount of money which can be imagined, for there would be no joy in such a life and without joy there cannot be any sort of life which might be worth while. Years ago, when I was a child, I lived in a treeless section of Texas, and the memory of that sun-smitten little town on the plain has never left me. One of two members of my family, more or less by accident, have passed through that town in recent years, but I have never had the least desire to ever see it again. I still remember it as a flat, sprawling town, alongside the railroad tracks, with the summer sun beating down upon it with withering force. I remember how far I could see from the main street of the town. It was so flat, so utterly barren of trees that on a clear day I could see another town sixteen miles away, and could barely distinguish trains crawling into that town, which was just as flat, just as sun smitten, just as depressing as the town I lived in.

That was an even forty years ago this summer, and until that summer I had taken trees for granted. I had always known them and supposed that every section had trees. When we moved to Texas as I went with high anticipation, and all this anticipation vanished when I found a flat and treeless plain and I knew a vast relief when the family decided against remaining there. I remember with what great joy I boarded a train one hot summer morning for the long ride back to Tennessee, and I remember vividly what a joy it was to step off a train in a little Tennessee town a few days later and find the town set in a regular bower of trees, with trees climbing every hill on all sides of the town. In less than three hours after arriving there I had found my way to the woods and to the swimming hole, this latter also being something I had not found in the Texas home.

Since then I have loved trees with deep intensity. Long ago I decided that no country without trees was fit to live in, as far as I was concerned. I have looked at pictures recently of the Dust Bowl section and have pitied those people who have lived on those great treeless plains all these years. Of course, I quite realize that many years those plains would return a fortune to the fortunate wheat grower, but no fortune would ever satisfy me if the country lacked trees.

Within recent weeks I have been looking at the great masses of willows which have grown up along various water courses in this section. A willow tree must have a great deal of moisture, or at least, this is my opinion of the matter, and when this moisture is given it, these trees shoot upward and multiply almost like jungle growth. I don't imagine that willows would be the best trees to have about a home, although many homes in the Deep South are beautiful with the so called weeping willows, which must be rather close to the straight growing willows of this section. But in their proper setting willows are as beautiful as any trees, and in one respect they far exceed all others. That is, they are cooler and give off more coolness than any other tree. Notice this some time when you happen to be driving in a river bottom which is lined on both sides with tall willows. The moment you drive into such a place you will notice a sudden clean coolness which seems to sweep outward and upward and all about. The temperature may be terribly high just before entering one of these green tunnels, but inside one will have the feeling of entering an air-conditioned room, and this feeling continues all the way through the green willowed lined tunnels.

Registration Of 12 Million Men Provided

Sheppard Believes Hitler Intends To Attack U. S.

12,000,000 young men, 21 to 31 years old, inclusive, would register. 400,000 would be mustered into service by October, 1940; others later at President's decision. Period of service—one year, at $21 a month and allowances. Exemptions—men in essential pursuits, clergymen, men with dependents, the unfit, federal and state officials, judges, members of Congress, conscientious objectors. (The last-named would be liable to noncombatant service.)

Washington. — Legislation for compulsory military training of the nation's youth finally received the approval today of the Senate military committee, whose chairman, Senator Sheppard of Texas, asserted on the Senate floor that he firmly believed Adolf Hitler intends to attack this country.

Ready after many delays and postponements, for consideration in the Senate, the measure awaited only the passage of a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to call out the National Guard and Army reserve officers for intensive training.

So deep is the feeling on the peace-time draft issue that although the Senate debated the National Guard bill throughout the day, the conscription question entered repeatedly into the discussion. A battle of unusual proportions obviously awaits it.

Conscription Opposed. The conscription bill and the National Guard measure were several times declared to be companion pieces, but opposition to the latter was apparently negligible. Senator Wheeler D.-Mont., a leader of the anti-conscription bloc, said for one that he saw no objection to the Guard bill. It was requested by President Roosevelt and the War Department.

After Wheeler had disputed Sheppard's contention that a national emergency exists and argued that there was no need for compulsory military service, the Texan asserted that if Wheeler could not realize the existence of an emergency, no amount of talking could convince him of it.

"Does the Senator think Hitler will attack the United States?" Wheeler asked with a note of scorn in his voice.

Hitler 'Will Try' "He will try to attack the United States," Sheppard answered. "That is my firm belief and if it wasn't I wouldn't be here trying to get the Senate to approve this legislation."

Copperhead Puts Snake Cultist In Hospital; 2 Others Bitten

Cincinnati. —Bitten by a copperhead snake at the height of a frenzied religious service, a 48-year-old nurse was in a serious condition Monday and two men, members of a cult, bore lesser wounds.

"We'll use snakes in our service whenever the Lord requires," declared Robert Sears, railroad worker, who as pastor of the "True Church of God" employs the title "brother." He added that Mrs. Ethel Sheedy, the nurse, was in a hospital because "she didn't feel the power of the Lord" when the poisonous reptile was passed to her and other members of the congregation last night. Police invaded the meeting and seized two snakes.

Chamber Commerce To Hold Meeting At Fulham

The Chamber of Commerce will hold one of its Good Will dinners at Fulham Thursday evening at seven o'clock o'clock, according to announcement made today by the committee in charge of this work. Tickets went on sale this afternoon and it is hoped that a large number of members will be able to attend the meeting. As usual, the tickets will sell at one dollar each, this paying for one Fulton man and one Fulham man.

Two very successful meetings have been held in Fulham in recent years and it is hoped that the coming one will be even more successful.

Harold Hart Found Dead This Morning

Harold Hart, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harve Hart of this city, was killed this morning, evidently by a train. His body was found near the Illinois Central tracks just north of Water Valley. A Hornbeak ambulance brought the body here shortly before noon and no details of the death have as yet been learned. It is believed that in some manner he fell from a train and was killed. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

Donaldson Says 200 To Lose Jobs

Frankfort, Ky. —Highway Commissioner J. Lyter Donaldson estimated Monday approximately 200 employees would be let out in a curtailment program, but that he had not finished checking names and that the releases would not be effective until Wednesday.

The reductions in the Highway Department were announced several weeks ago when Donaldson said he expected by that saving and by "other economies" and by increased income from the State gasoline tax to make around $1,000,000 more a year available for highway construction.

He listed the reductions as including discontinuance of numerous minor positions such as maintenance supervisor, assistant county foremen, senior time keeper, right-of-way agents, reducing the number of field men, clerks and stenographers in district offices and reductions in the equipment division and the central garage here.

COVER WEEDS WITH PAPER

When all other methods failed to check the spread of Johnson grass, farmers in Hancock county, Kentucky, tried covering the weed with paper. Eight carloads of superphosphate came to the county in paper bags. The happy thought struck the farmers, "Why not cover the Johnson grass area with the empty bags?" Now it looks as though the paper bags would smother the weed, says County Agent Baker Atterbury.

Size Of Family To Set Wages Of Frenchmen

Vichy, France. —Workmen in the new France will be paid in proportion to the size of their families instead of the usual merit-based salaries, Youth Minister Jean Ybarnegaray announced Monday.

French women, he said, "will return to their prime traditional purpose in life—being in their homes, having children and living only to raise strong useful men."

Fathers will be given preference over bachelors in both public and private employment in this revolutionary move to check France's dwindling birth rate. Many have offered the low birth rate as a big factor in France's military collapse.

Defeat Is Prelude to "Victory."

The 1940 defeat by Germany was expected to be the prelude to "one of the greatest victories a people ever won over themselves," the Minister declared.

"Mothers will be artisans of this secret and magnificent triumph, Ybarnegaray said.

Shower Of Coins Starts Hunt For Silver Lining

Moscow. —Puzzled collective farmers learned Sunday why it rained silver coins in the ancient little village of Meshchera, near Gorky, July 16.

The farmers gathered several of the oval-shaped silver pieces, about the size of a large fish scale, which poured on them during a violent thunderstorm.

Archaeologists to whom they brought the coins identified them as late sixteenth century pieces and the theory was advanced that they were part of an undiscovered ancient treasure exposed by erosion and sent flying by the storm. One professor said other, heavier valuables and also utensils probably remained.

Search is expected to begin soon.

WAR JITTERS GIVEN CREDIT FOR GROWTH IN MUSIC

Chicago. —War jitters were credited today with helping to boom the music business.

William Howard Beasley, of Dallas, Texas, president of the National Association of Music Merchants, said the manufacturers and dealers expected to sell between 135,000 and 140,000 new pianos this year, which would make 1940 the best year for the sale of manual pianos since 1925.

Makers and distributors of other instruments, he said, also had reported notable gains in sales, best sellers including trumpets, clarinets, saxophones (which are returning to popular favor after a slump) and guitars.

Beasley, whose association is sponsoring the annual music industries convention, attributed the expanded sales of musical instruments to these four main factors.

"The uncertainties in world affairs," better music appreciation improved teaching of music in the schools and the advances made in the manufacture of instruments.

FUNK BELIEVES HORSE RACES ARE NOT SUBJECT TO TAXES

Frankfort, Ky. —Belief that trotting and pacing races, such as the Grand Circuit events at Lexington and Louisville, are not subject to the new state 15 per cent "bank night awards" tax was expressed by Assistant Attorney General A. E. Funk late today.

He told the State Fair Board a different interpretation had been found for the law from that given recently by Assistant Attorney General Jesse K. Lewis and promised details later.

The law imposes the tax on prizes given at "places of amusements and entertainment" by "lot, drawing or other methods."

Funk said later Attorney General Hubert Meredith had come to the conclusion, and Lewis had agreed, that "other methods" refers to any other method of lot or drawing, and certainly not by speed, process or disability, such as horse races.

A revolution in public instruction also was planned. Obligatory studies of mathematics and Latin for young women will be replaced with courses in household economy and child-rearing.

Young Women To Be Trained. Women instructors have been ordered to towns and farms to train all young women how to dress, feed, and care for babies.

France lost 1,500,000 men in the World War, leaving women to fight out their own welfare to the detriment of rearing children.

Since 1910, an estimated 500,000 marriages have been wrecked by divorce, with 100,000 other women remaining voluntarily single.

The Minister charged that the system in vogue tolerated the "voluntary suppression" of some 600,000 other births, but that the new system would guarantee every French woman that "the more children she has the more aid she will receive."

Meteors To Fly After Midnight During August

Philadelphia. —This is the month for meteors, and the American Meteor Society asks star-gazers to watch the heavens closely during the nights of August 10 through 13 and report meteor counts to the society's observatory at Upper Darby, Penn.

Those will be the best nights for meteor showers, the society said, and the best observation period is between midnight and dawn.

Dr. Charles P. Olivier, meteor society president, advised that about seventy meteors an hour may be expected after midnight "on the best night," probably August 11, and forty to fifty on the other two.

JAILED SNAKE CULTISTS

ABANDON HUNGER STRIKE. Adel, Ga. —A 3-day hunger strike was abandoned in jail here Sunday by two members of a religious cult which handles poisonous snakes "when the power is on" to demonstrate belief that "faith" will counteract the venom from the fangs.

The two, W. T. Lipham, listed as a "farmer preacher," and Albert Rowan, ate grits, sausage, biscuits and syrup.

"They did not ask for the food today," said Sheriff W. I. Dougherty, "but ate without comment when we put it in their cells."

Interest Keen In Ken-Tenn Exposition

Work of advertising the Ken-Tenn Exposition, which opens here on August 22 for three days at the Fulton County Fair Grounds is proceeding steadily and workers reported keen interest over a wide territory.

Lawrence Holland, who is making daily trips with a sound car and carrying printed advertising, reported today that for the first week more than 2500 tickets were sold over the territory which the sound car has covered. Meanwhile tickets are being sold by other workers in the community, and these sales are also a clear indication of public interest.

The Exposition is sponsored by the Young Men's Business Club and endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Fulton County Farm Bureau. The catalogue will soon be distributed showing the many prizes and premiums which are being offered. A total of $500 is being offered in free prizes.

Burke Calls 150 To Support Plan For 6-Year Term

Washington. —Senator Burke (D., Neb.) said today he had written to "150 persons opposed to a third term for a President" asking them to testify on his proposed constitutional amendment for a single six-year Presidential term.

The Nebraska Senator, who recently announced his support of Wendell L. Wilkie, Republican Presidential nominee, said public hearings would start soon before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

"My proposal could not apply to President Roosevelt at this time," Burke told reporters. "It would merely limit a fourth term for President Roosevelt to six years because it would apply only to Presidents elected after this election." Burke predicted Vice President Garner would return to his duties as presiding officer of the Senate early next week.

Eight other Japanese remained in custody in various parts of the empire. It was said reliably the home office decided "evidence" available

British Aver Plane Output Equals Nazis

Tides Favorable For German Blitzkrieg Are Closely Watched

London. —Britain's aircraft production now equals Germany's, it was declared authoritatively today. Supporting evidence was offered in increasingly violent aerial smashes at potential continental hopping-off places for the Nazi invasion attempt believed close at hand.

Britons, alertly watching channel tides favorable for Adolf Hitler's threatened assault, heard that their airplane factories were running "neck and neck," with the German output and that, with United States and Canadian production their monthly accumulation of planes actually exceeds that of the Nazis.

Coupled with this were accounts of British planes carrying the war to the Germans with heavier and heavier attacks designed to smash any invasion before it can get started.

Oil Plant Fired

Tonight air ministry communiqué said British bombers, carrying out their nightly forays, set ablaze an oil plant at Sterkrade in the Ruhr and a hangar at Kregeld last night without the loss of a single plane.

Fourteen tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs were rained on the synthetic oil works at Sterkrade, the air ministry announced.

The returning pilots said they first shattered the tanks then fired the oil flowing from them with their incendiaries.

British plans reported three Messerschmitt fighters shot down, two within range of German anti-aircraft guns on the French coast. Loss of one British plane was acknowledged.

A SOLDIER SPEAKS

General John Pershing, now eighty years of age, took a heavy responsibility upon shoulders which are no longer young a few days ago. Like a soldier, General Pershing, who commanded the greatest American Army ever assembled and whose military ability largely brought victory to the Allied Cause in World War I, saw his duty and made no attempt to evade it. Perhaps he was wrong in his conclusions, perhaps he was right, but like the great soldier he has always been, he spoke forthrightly and without evasion. He expressed his opinion in words that will be thoroughly understood, and left no doubt of his meaning.

General Pershing said that this nation would be failing in its duty to itself if it failed to send ships to England at once. He urged that fifty destroyers be sent to the British Fleet at once. By doing this, the General said, the United States might be able to confine the war to European areas, whereas, if such action is not taken at once British power of resistance may be broken and the war may spread across the Atlantic into this Hemisphere.

There is naturally some room for discussion along this line. Many people sincerely believe that such an action will lead to a German declaration of war against the United States. These people wish to remain strictly neutral and thus escape the danger of war. This course was tried by various neutral countries in Europe without success. Norway and Holland and Belgium bear testimony to that. General Pershing leaves the inference clearly that if we do not take steps to bolster the British Navy we are taking a desperate chance on an actual invasion of England and the consequent defeat of the British Fleet, or its retreat to Canada, thus bringing the war home to the Americas. By sending ships now, he claims, we greatly reduce the chances for such an occurrence.

Certainly there are arguments on sides of the question, and only time can tell which is the better course. Many influential men in high places are urging that we take every step to avoid war. Others, equally influential, urge that we act boldly in defense of the British. Many say that we must have forced military service at once, others argue that this is a fatal step down the road which leads to war. It is all quite confusing to most of us, and many of us wonder what is the wisest and best course to pursue.

The only thing which appears certain is that British defeat will bring the war almost to our shores. Whether the Germans can accomplish this defeat remains to be seen, and such knowledge must come within the next few weeks. Less than seven weeks of good weather remain for the campaign against the British Isles, and if the British hold until winter, with the usual storms and fogs, it appears likely that they will hold until spring, and by that time air power may be near equality.

Across the Pacific, however, big events are shaping themselves, and here is where our destiny will be worked out in all probability. Japan and England are moving steadily towards war, and if this comes it appears almost certain that America must either beat a retreat from the Far East or fight the Japanese.

CHEMISTRY AND FREEDOM

In the test tubes of the chemists a new independence is being created for the United States. It is independence of foreign sources for certain basic materials.

As scientists bend to their tasks of research, each day brings us closer to the time when we shall no longer have to speak of "vital interests" in the Far East or elsewhere which might have to be defended by force to keep necessary raw materials coming in.

Production has actually begun on a new synthetic "rubber" made entirely of domestic materials, and by fall a new B. F. Goodrich Co. plant will be producing several tons of Ameripol each day. The basic source is petroleum.

Buna, Thiokol, and other compounds are already being produced as partial substitutes for rubber. While production of all the various synthetic rubbers last year totaled only 1700 tons against 592,000 tons of natural rubber, a start has been made, and there is room for assurance that in a desperate emergency production of these "ersatzes" could be stepped up enough to provide absolutely essential rubber products.

This development of chemistry may literally change the world. In the past, peoples fought each other for sources of raw materials. In the future, they may all be producing within themselves all vitally necessary raw materials, thus easing the pressure for access to the sources of the natural products. The Rayons and Nylons mean independence of foreign silk. The Ameripols, Bunas, and Thiokols, the Duprenes, Neoprenes, Guyayules, and Koroseals may mean independence of foreign rubber.

There is not a single vitally important chemical that the United States cannot produce. That was not true 25 years ago when war swept Europe and the country found itself cut off from supplies of dyes and drugs.

The plastic and resins are only beginning to show that what they can do, and already airplane fuselages and wings are being "moulded" from such materials. A whole new world is flowering from those test tubes.

With it could come an end to the grasping competitive rush for raw materials which has so often deluged the world with blood. But here again, man will have to show more intelligence than he has revealed thus far if he is to take advantage of this glorious opportunity.—Bowling Green News.

SUNSHINE AND SHADOWS

Shelbyville, Ind.—Robert O. Wright, Shelbyville baker, says he expects to be dead when he's placed in his mausoleum.

But "just in case," he has furnished the crypt with radio, clock, cot, rug, towel, comb, mirror, candies, matches, cigarettes, cigars, a corn-cob pipe, tobacco and two (2) brandy glasses.

Charlotte, N. C.—J. R. Davis, fishing for carp, saw a school of minnows shoot under his boat. Then, Davis said, he heard a heavy thud and saw a big bass collide head-on with his boat.

The fish buckled in the middle, pitched into the air and out onto the bank—knocked out, cold, he said.

Eugene, Ore.—Now Meteorology Professor A. E. Caswell has a problem of psychology on his hands.

He split his class of 60 into two groups for an examination. By mistake, he left a list of 10 types of clouds on the blackboard of one of the rooms. The students with the answer before them made a three per cent poorer showing than the others.

Los Angeles.—A taxi driver saw a youth snatch a girl's purse and started things moving with a "Stop thief!"

One pursuer was felled in the ensuing excitement, which a shop owner's pointed shotgun ended.

To police, the "thief" explained: "It was my girl friend's purse. We were having a good time and I didn't want her to go home."

Omaha, Neb.—The $52 James Etter had in his wallet when he lost it in Black Duck Lake in Minnesota a year ago came back to him—by mail.

Joe Steiner's sons found the wallet with the money on the lake shore, where it had been washed after a windstorm. The money, though faded, was otherwise in good condition.

Tigers Even Series With Oilers

By Winning Last Night 10 To 5

The Tigers evened the series in Owensboro last night by rapping Dolly Lambert hard in the late innings of a game which ended with a 10 to 5 victory for Jim Poole's boys. Jim Gentry went the route for the Tigers, and while touched for seven hits, was strong in the clutch. The Oilers gave him an early lead and while the Oilers threatened many times, Gentry turned them back when the threat became acute. The Tigers broke a tie in the seventh by scoring five runs. The Oilers managed to snare one run in the same inning, but the rally was short lived. Males was the power which gave the Tigers three runs. He pounded a homer with two men aboard, and had three hits during the game. The final game is being played tonight, and tomorrow night the Tigers move over to Bowling Green for the beginning of a three games series.

TWO SOFTBALL

GAMES TONIGHT

There will be two good games played in the Softball League tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. In the first game the rampaging Baptist Blues will cross bats with the up-and-coming Christian Crusaders and in the second game the revamped Methodist Tigers will seek to down the hard-hitting Baptist Cardinals who are frequently mentioned as the team to beat for the second half championship.

The beginning of the second half of the split season has brought new life into every team of the league. One of the biggest crowds of the season is expected for the games tonight.

Last night the Methodist Bulls defeated the Christian Royals by the score of 9 to 7 while the Baptist Whites forfeited a game to the Methodist Dodgers.

AIR TRAVELERS

WILL RECEIVE NEW THRILLS

San Francisco. —A pine-covered island in the tropics, fish which jump into your boat, natives whose forefathers feasted on Frenchmen world travelers will see them soon with the start of Pan American Airways' U. S.-to-New Zealand passenger service.

Two mail-carrying flights already have been made over the 8,000-mile route via Honolulu, Canton Island and New Caledonia in the giant clippers which telescope into fifty-odd hours a trip which takes fifteen days by boat.

Pan American employees building and maintaining a hotel and other facilities at Canton, the tiny coral atoll 2,000 miles southeast of Honolulu, haven't begun to explore the possibilities of the fishing in the lagoon and out, but the results thus far would delight even the most ardent angler.

The men row out into the reef-protected lagoon where the flying fish are breaking the surface of the water. After a brief wait, the fish fly right into the boat.

The flying fish provide bait for bigger, easily-caught fish ulua, wahoo, tuna, and giant sailfish. Pan American officials say undoubtedly the waters around Canton are a ## fisherman's paradise.

In fact the sportsman need not leave shore to get excellent and sometimes terrifying results.

QUICK DEPRECIATION OF WAR INDUSTRIES GETS TENTATIVE O. K.

Washington. —A plan to encourage industry to expand plants for defense purposes was tentatively approved yesterday by the House Tax Subcommittee. It would enable holders of national defense contracts and subcontracts to deduct the cost of the expansions from taxable earnings over a five-year period, at the rate of 20 per cent a year.

Chairman Cooper (D., Tenn.) said the decision was unanimous as was a companion decision to recommend that the full Ways and Means Committee incorporate this plan, plus an excess profits tax and a suspension of the Vinson-Trammell Act's curbs on profits of military planes and warships into a single piece of legislation.

WINDSORS TO LEAVE SHIP AT BERMUDA, WON'T VISIT U. S.

New York. —The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, now at sea enroute from Lisbon to the Duke's post as Governor of the Bahamas, apparently will not visit the United States but will leave the American Export liner Excabur at Bermuda.

The United States Maritime Commission reported it had given permission for the Excabur to stop at Bermuda, British island colony, 405 miles out of her way. The Excabur had been scheduled to steam direct from Lisbon to New York, arriving Aug. 9. Officials of the line here confirmed the stop at Bermuda but declined further information.

Diplomatic circles in Washington heard that the Duke and his Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield, of Baltimore, definitely would debar at Bermuda, whence they would go by sea or air direct to Nassau, capital of the Bahamas.

The Excabur, after waiting 40 minutes past sailing time to take the Windsors aboard, left Lisbon yesterday afternoon.
