Gravel
Sixty patrons of the school responded to the call of the faculty and students last Saturday to gravel the school driveway and parking grounds. Each was armed with shovel, picks, hose, gravel, and a lot of oil, with a determination to cover the red clay around the grounds. More than 100 loads of gravel were hauled, and the appearance of the grounds was greatly benefited by cutting down a rugged bank and widening the driveway. All promised to come back at a later date and make other needed improvements.—Vernon Moody.

Baseball
Team motored over to Almo Friday evening and defeated them for the second time this year by a score of 10-5. T. Bell pitched good ball, until the 4th inning when Almo scored four runs. He was relieved by his brother, H. Bell, who took revenge out on Almo and closed the game without a hit. Farris did the receiving until the sixth inning, when a foul ball injured his head. He was replaced by T. Bell. Calhoun pitched nice ball until the fourth, when Concord rallied with six tallies. Woodall received for Almo.

Y. Moody hit for a circuit ride in the seventh, scoring Farris and G. Moody.

A play will be given in the High School auditorium at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.
A room will be set aside for a collection of antiques and relics. It is expected that we will have one of the best displays ever shown in Caloway county.—Mildred Patterson.

Quite a bit of interest is being manifested in the societies which were organized last Wednesday, September 25. The school was divided into two bodies with Lindbergh and Mayflower chosen as names. The officers of each were elected as follows:
Lindbergh—Hugh Hurt Pres.; Vernon Moody, vice-pres.; Laurence Yarborough, secretary; colors, Blue and Gold.
Mayflower: Lucile Edmonds, Pres.; Thoma Bell, vice-pres.; Altha Salmon, secretary; Colors Red and Black.—Lucile Edmonds.

Agricultural Trip
The first and second year agriculture class made a field trip to the farm of Rudy Hendon, Tuesday afternoon, to study practical methods of housing and yarding dairy cattle. Mr. Hendon is one of the successful dairy farmers of the section.

The New Concord community. His barn is equipped with home-made stanchions which cost little money other than his own labor, but are convenient and serve the purpose of high priced stanchions.—James Kindred.

Kirksey School News

By Wilder F. Falge

Plans are under way for the third annual community and agricultural fair to be held at the high school building on October 25. Within a few days a catalogue will come from the press and be distributed. It is planned to make this fair the biggest of its kind yet.

The Hawthorne literary society rendered a delightful program yesterday afternoon. As it was the first program given by that literary society it was more or less dedicated to the namesake. Several very pleasing numbers were rendered, outstanding among them being a story by Lewis Carson. Hal Smith told the story of Hawthorne's life in a very pleasing manner.

The sister society of the Hawthorne is the Shakespearean. It is planned that each society shall give a program every alternate week. It felt to the lot of the Shakespearean society to give the first program. The regular time of rendering these programs is every Friday afternoon. You are invited to come out and be entertained by these groups.

The 1929-30 basketball season begins Friday night when we play a game with Farmington on Farmington's floor. It is expected that this will be a very closely contested game and everyone is looking forward to it with eagerness. The team has undergone some very intensive training under the direction of Coach Potts for the last few days.

Ed Brown Ross, graduate of last year, is attending college in Stillwater, Okla. His father, Brown Ross, held a sale Tuesday selling all his property with the intention of going to Oklahoma.

Ralph Ross, who for the past several months has been in Detroit, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Less Ross. It is remembered that Ralph was a member of the famous 1926-27 basketball team.

Mrs. Ardianne Pace was a visitor in school Tuesday. Visitors are always welcome.

The school tobacco project is coming along nicely. The tobacco is now in the house and cured. Thus far very pleasing results have been obtained.

The senior class is anxiously waiting the coming of their class rings. The rings were made time ago.

Last Friday marked the end of the first six weeks of our school. It seems to the writer that these weeks have passed very quickly. Should the remainder of the year pass with the same semester rapidly the year would indeed be up very quickly.

Prof. Wratther is contemplating attending the National Dairy Show to be held at St. Louis next week. It is decided not to take the Blue Valley play that was partly prepared.

THE LEDGER &amp; TIMES

Consolidation of The Murray Ledger, The Calloway Times and The Times-Herald, October 20, 1928.
Published By The Calloway County Publishing Co., Inc.
North Fourth Street, Murray, Ky.

Joe T. Lovett, Editor
Entered at the Postoffice, Murray, Ky., as second class mail matter.

Subscription Rates.—In First Congressional District and Henry and Stewart Counties, Tenn., $1.00 a year; elsewhere, $1.50. . . . .
Advertising Rates and information about Calloway county market furnished upon application.

The Ledger & Times is dedicated to fair, impartial and conscientious service to Calloway county; subservient to no master but the progress and well-being of this community and seeking patronage on merit.

A Paradox in Pay

This editorial is written to correct what might be an erroneous impression in the minds of a good many Calloway county people over the news article in last week's Ledger & Times that the county judge's salary had been increased $500 over previous years.

The fault was not one of the Ledger & Times because the news article stated the facts in the case. That the increase was stated because the judge was no longer allowed a fee in commonwealth cases tried in his court. The headline, however, which covered the entire proceedings of the statutory meeting of fiscal court, did not state this fact and those who read merely the headline jumped to the conclusion that the judge's office was a fatter plum.

It could hardly be expected that the head line would state all the information in an article for if it did there would be no need of articles and a newspaper would simply consist of a series of bulletins in bold type.

But in order to clear up any misunderstanding and take Judge Hale out of any false light in which he might have been placed the Ledger & Times is glad to explain the situation.

There is no likelihood that the additional stipend of $50 a month will equal the total fee that the judge would have collected if the old law had been retained. Judge Hale simply will not realize as much pay during his term of office as past county judges have received.

So while it might appear on the surface that he was being given an increase in pay it actually works out that he will not receive as much.

Eliminate 'em

Last week we noticed an item among the agricultural news notes sent out by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture that there were only six scrub apples left in Calloway county. We knew that we were close to the goal of 100 per cent elimination but we did not know that we were quite that near to it.

The counties in America that are best of scrub apple elimination may be counted on one hand. We know of only one in Kentucky, Union county.

Surely some way can be found to eliminate this small number of select circles.

The Ledger & Times certainly would not ask their owners to make any heavy financial sacrifice in disposing of these animals and it is sure that they are quite willing to do the fair thing.

This newspaper will be glad to assume its share of any fair price that may be required in the event that these owners cannot get rid of their animals without financial loss.

Judging The News

The editor who thinks he can print all the news or can always get it right is pursuing a very elusive ghost. Neither can all the news always please everyone.

To have perfect judgment of news values one must have perfect knowledge of human nature, a possession which no earthly person has. An even if one had that perfect jewel of knowledge he still would not make a perfect editor because all human beings are different and no two persons appreciate and enjoy the same things all the way down the line.

Consequently, as long as long as newspapers exist they will be printed for the account of society items that some people desire while others appreciate them; sports news that one class of people literally "eat up" and which another class looks upon with nothing to sell and buy care nothing at all and so on down the line.

Court news arouses the immediate ire of some of those involved in the proceedings while others feel that they have been badly cheated if their reports fail to appear. As Charles Lamb once said, people just always be divided into two classes. As the newspaper man sees it those two classes are those who always are trying to get something in the paper and those who are eternally trying to keep something out of it. They divide themselves that way to us just as they do into "sick" and "healthy" for the doctor or "financially responsible" or "irresponsible" to the banker.

We do not ever expect to see an editor who will please all his readers for on the day that he reaches that great height he will undoubtedly be transplanted to the land where there is no more grief or woe.

It is a pity that all our critics are not a shot at the job but since that is impossible we would like to have you remember Shakespeare's admonition: "I can easier teach twenty men what to do than to be wiser of the twenty." Below my own preaching."

The Governor Wins

Governor Sampson won a triple-barreled victory in the face of his trial at Frankfort last week. Not only did he win a complete vindication of the charges but his political stock took a sharp rise to the discomfiture and extreme disadvantage of his opponents.

Mr. Wade Hampton Whitley took the Governor's side in the trial and met the usual fate of those who endeavor to make high capital of trivialities.

The Ledger & Times has no criticism for the grand jury that indicted Governor Sampson. It still believes that the Governor made a breach of ethics when he gave the books to his private secretary and she later sold them for profit. Other members of the text book commission did even worse when they sold the books and pocketed the money. It may be true that they were in their legal rights to do so but this is one occasion when we do not believe that precedent and practice were in keeping with the ethics in the matter.

The political group at Frankfort which is after the Governor's scalp had him on the run until they made the foolish move of having him indicted. The Governor simply sat still and let them place the ropes around their own necks. He thus proved himself a master politician and so much shrewder than his oppositng that a contest between them is settled before it is fairly started.

Before this false alarm, Mr. Whitley had the sympathy of a large host of people who feel that there is something wrong at Frankfort and are anxious to see conditions set aright. But through this move, which not only indicates a blind fanaticism but a rank incompetence, he has lost them by the scores.

Kentuckians are anxious to see clean and efficient government; not a dog fight between two politicians.

JUST JOTS

By "JOE"

The Mayfield Messenger stuck a bright feather in its cap when it published last week a special number to commemorate the purchase of the Mayfield Woolen Mills by the Currier Clothing Co. Especially noteworthy was the large number of pictures of unusual size in the edition. If Graves county people don't appreciate the Messenger they wouldn't know a good thing when they see it.

Wade Hampton Whitley, commonwealth's attorney of Franklin county, lost a lot of standing with his friends in the Sampson trial. When one makes as much ballyhoo as Whitley did he must have something tangible to stand on.

We still believe Sampson is morally guilty though not legally involved. There are a lot of things within the law that are not ethical by a "country mile."

Henry Lawrence of the Cadiz Record relates a fairly tale about "once upon a time" there was a candidate who manifested as much interest in his community, his state, his country, his people and his party after the primary as he did before. That, Colonel Henry, must have been a prophecy, for that time will be the millennium.

The world is beginning to find out that burning midnight gas is not a good substitute for burning the midnight oil.

The result of Governor Sampson's trial at Frankfort would indicate that Mr. Whitley has been hired by the Governor as press agent.

We were glad to see so many loyal and interested people at the Dairy Show. Despite the rainy day and muddy grounds it was next to impossible to get a look at the show ring. The enthusiasm and interest in taking the lead in this important industry.

Who's Who Among Kentucky Authors

Once upon a time there was an editor who got out a paper without any mistakes in it, but the people were so irate about having nothing to kick about that they drove him out of town.

Dr. Coton S. Noe, Post Laureate of Kentucky, was born near Springfield, Ky., the county seat of Washington county. He grew to manhood in this town, getting his education in the elementary schools there. He also attended two years of academy work here. He then attended school in Perisville, Ky., for two years, and went from there to Franklin College, Indiana, from which he graduated. After finishing his college work, he taught school for four years as principal and teacher in Indiana and Kentucky, and took graduate work in literature and philosophy at Cornell University. Later he studied literature at the University of Chicago. For the next four years he practiced law in his home town, Springfield, and was judge of the police court during this time.

Dr. Noe did not like the profession of law, for which he had been preparing during his early years, and returned to the profession of teaching. He has been a member of the faculty of the University of Kentucky for twenty-three years, and was head of the department of education for twelve years of that time.

Dr. Noe says, "Poetry has been an avocation with me. I have not taken myself seriously as a poet, and yet in recent years my poetry has gained considerable recognition among literary people and I am sure it is read and enjoyed by the laity."

The Bodipath Chautauqua

The Bodipath Chautauqua has been very fortunate in having his poetry on its circuit for the past several years. It travels in some remote or fifteen states. He opened the Chautauqua assembly at Chautauqua, New York, June 25 of this year, with a reading, "Celebrities I have Known." He also gave several of his poems from his volume, "The Blood of Rachel."

His poetry has appeared in fifteen anthologies of poetry in the past six years. His books are as follows: "The Loom of Life," now out of print; "The Blood of Rachel," and "Tim Tams of Kentucky."

Dr. Noe founded and edited the Kentucky High School Quarterly in 1915. This magazine was only a year old when Dr. Noe was author of a vast number of magazine articles, many of them reviews of Kentucky literary people.

At the Joint resolution of the General Assembly of Kentucky in 1926, Dr. Noe was made poet laureate of Kentucky, one of the highest honors any poet can attain.

Dr. Noe has visited friends in Murray on several occasions, and has lectured and read his poems in the auditorium of the Murray State Teachers College.

C. E. Broach, auditor for the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., arrived Saturday to spend two weeks with his mother, Mrs. Bettie Broach, on Murray, Route 8. Mr. Broach has been making his headquarters lately at Houston, Texas.

Among those from Benton who attended the dairy show here Saturday were Sheriff and Mrs. Tracy Rayburn, County Attorney C. H. Cox and A. A. Nelson.

DAIRY MEN THROG TO NATIONAL SHOW

By L. J. KENNARD
Special Correspondent

The big men of the dairy industry are beginning to show up in St. Louis for the National Dairy Show. One of the new arrivals today was W. S. O'Hair, President of the Illinois Dairymen's Association from Paris, Illinois—a real dirt farmer and outstanding Jersey breeder.

W. S. O'Hair has been President of the Illinois Dairymen's Association since the writer wore knickerbockers and will continue to be re-elected.

W. S. O'Hair started out on a poor hill farm in Adams County, Illinois, trying to raise beef cattle and went along until his banker wouldn't loan him any more money. Then he bought one pure bred Jersey cow and grew into the big man of the dairy industry. W. S. O'Hair is probably the best known Jersey breeder in the midwest as he has carried the message of dairying into hundreds of school house meetings and farm institutes throughout the nation.

Mr. O'Hair arrived at the Coronado Hotel this morning, hungry as usual, and I took him down in the "Mammy Shop" to buy his breakfast. After eating for thirty minutes I said to him, "O'Hair, do you know how many babies you have eaten?" He says, "Course I don't." I says, "I do as I have kept track and you have eaten twenty seven." It made him go red and he refused to finish his breakfast.

To top it off O'Hair meets Paul of Maynard, Iowa, who just arrived for the big show and then the argument started. Stewart says, "O'Hair, your Jersey breed don't give enough milk—I could put this silver dollar in the bucket and you wouldn't get enough milk from one of those Jerseys to cover the dollar." O'Hair replied, "I could place a silver dollar in your bucket and while your Holsteins would fill the pail yet I could look down thru that milk and still read the words 'In God We Trust'." H. C. Horneman, President of the Illinois Guernsey Breeders Association, founder of the famous Kenilworth Guernsey herd of Danville, Illinois, was also an arrival today for the big show.

Mr. O'Hair and Mr. Horneman are members of the group selected by Governor Emmerson to represent the State at the National on Illinois Day, which is Tuesday, the 15th.

Just as I was getting ready to close this story, the colored bellhop comes up and says "Say, mister, just how do da judges tell ring—do da decide by da people clapping der hands over de cow?" Well boy—here comes Hugh Van Pelt, cattle judge at the National for years as well as the big State fair and he get a story for our readers from Mr. Van Pelt as to why herdsmen claim this is their last year to follow the fair and the big show at the National—yet they return year by year.

OBITUARY

Estelle Phillips Cunningham was born May 26, 1893. Departed this life May 9, 1929. Age 35 years, 11 months, and 9 days. Was married to W. L. Cunningham Sept. 16, 1922. She leaves a husband, 3 children, one boy and two girls, age 6 years, 3 years and 4 months; 3 sisters, 4 brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her departure. She professed faith in Christ in early life and united with the Baptist church at Sinking Springs, where she lived a true and faithful life until God saw fit to call her home. She bore her suffering with great patience and was never known to even murmur. She always had a kind word and a smile for every one.

Here's How

BY E. W. JOWE
THE SAGE IN POTATO MILK

ARE YOU ORTHODOX?
QUESTIONS OF OLD THINGS AND NEW.

An impressive reading as I have ever found in the writings of a first-class man is from George Santayana.

"I have great respect for orthodoxy; not for those orthodoxies which prevail in particular schools or nations, and which vary from age to age, but for a certain shrewd orthodoxy which the sentiment and practice of laymen maintain everywhere. I think that common sense, in a rough, dogged way, is the best guide to the truth."

It is also like Santayana because he said: "My system is not inflexible. I am not prejudiced against those persons who show enthusiasm only in the presence of something they consider new. Here is a leader in philosophy who has most respect for the old common sense as discovered by laymen in the school of practical experience, where all of us are students, and may become useful teachers."

Harvard college is just a building; outside is the world; and the best of my neighbors say: I accept that shrewd orthodoxy which the sentiment and practice of laymen maintain everywhere.

When one encounters a good thing in reading, a pleasurable thrill follows. I never greatly admired Queen Victoria. Possibly it was because her virtues were exploited so much. One soon gets too much of that. But years ago I read that, as a girl, Victoria was compelled to learn housekeeping, and it gave me a pleasurable thrill for her to be training of that sort. Occasionally I have heard a woman say boastfully that she has never had a husband in dishwater, and thereafter I think of her as a little of a professional actress, athlete, suffragette, or follower of the "Occult."

A great medical association lately held its annual convention at the best hotel in the city. The delegates, and one old fellow recognized as without a peer in his line, bluntly told them that with all their investigation, practically nothing of value in prolonging life had been discovered in many years; that old age is the cause of innumerable things it has always been. With all our learning, old things finally demonstrate their supremacy over the new.

There is a kind of woman men obey with a good deal of cheerfulness. But she is always a capitalist, and does not ask too much when too much is demanded, men fight up, and display a meanness women cannot equal.

Half the people are martyrs to unreasonable, disagreeable men.

Tennessee Farmers Visit in Kentucky

A party of Tennessee farmers and county agents, on a tour of five states, visited the farm of Chaney Bros. near Bowling Green, where they saw 300 acres of sweet clover which grazes one steer per acre. Chaney Bros. told by visitors that sweet clover had made their farm profitable. It not only has enabled them to grow their own feed but has built up the fertility of the soil and increased the yield of grain crops.

WEAK SPELLS

"I was so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cookcroft, of Baldock, S. C., "that I was not able to do anything. At times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness followed me almost last for weeks."

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before."

"I give the credit to Cardui."

And here's one for you speed demons. If you can beat it we'll sure be glad to give you the space to tell about it. ## LIKE MONEY FROM HOME

Some 2,000,000 exchanges are suggesting what to do with the small refund of insurance premiums that are being received in Kentucky, ranging from donations to Mammoth Cave fund and local hospitals, down. The money already has been spent, it is argued, and the refund is so much pick-up. One party we know received two refunds of 7 and 9 cents each and is considering establishing a Fountain for Decept. Insured who... get a correct adjustment after a fire. The chances are, most men will put the refund into their pockets, as I am going to do, smacking their lips over how soon something from an insurance company once, anyway—even if they did have to pay it in first.—Cynthiana Democrat.

The Little Savage

The peculiar advantages of the moving picture over the stage are brought out strikingly in "The Letter," a Paramount production in which the famous stage and screen star, Jeanne Eagels, has the leading role.

The stage with its limitations of scene can usually do no more than suggest the surrounding atmosphere. Motion pictures actually show it.

There are many colorful sets in "The Letter," all of them presenting the usual life of Singapore and the Orient, which will be actually seen in the film version of this W. Somerset Maugham success. These sets include a full-sized bungalow located in the heart of a rubber plantation; a court room holding 200 persons; a Chinese gambling house; the homes and offices of various colonial settlers and scenes of brooding jungle and bustling street which the stage could not attempt to show. Throughout the picture the jungle setting is emphasized.

Miss Eagels has O. P. Heggie, Herbert Marshall and Reginald Owen as featured members of her supporting cast, all of whom were recruited from the stage. Because of this, the version as it will be presented at the Capitol Theatre Monday and Tuesday, is certain to be received by local film-goers with boundless enthusiasm.

ANOTHER DELUSION

POW H. S. ANNEAL

This is not an original thought with me; while it really looks like anyone should have thought of that angle.

One of the parents of a Senior High School student was thanking me for myself as well as her son for writing the article endorsing the High School Annual and in closing her remarks she spoke of how terribly unfair her son thought it was for them to have "worked like dogs," as he put it, for the other graduating classes Annual in the past and them when their time came to have an Annual, to be denied one. Just one more thought in weighing the matter.

Again I ask you to give your thought to this matter. They want. You can get out a cheaper annual if that is necessary, and what is I think way. H. F. Berry.

Chance of Death In Airplane Trip About 1 In 4,000

Important Survey Gives Aviation Mortality Figures

Hartford, Conn.—The chance of death in an airplane trip operated by licensed pilots over scheduled passenger routes is about one in 4,000. It is disclosed by a report of the committee on aviation statistics of the Actuarial Society of America.

E. Hoekins, assistant actuary of the Travelers Life Insurance Company, R. D. Murphy, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and H. R. Bassford, assistant actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, found in investigating the aviation hazard during the last year that 13 passengers were killed out of about 50,000 who were carried in scheduled planes the last half of the year. Among transport pilots, who are licensed to carry persons and property for hire and also to give instruction the annual death rate was 32 for each thousand, while among licensed commercial flyers, whose carrying of paying passengers is restricted to specified areas, the mortality rate was 16 per thousand.

Among the various classifications of pilots studied, it is disclosed that the fatality rate during the year was highest among those operating planes over scheduled routes, where it amounted to 45 for each thousand.

During the year the deaths among all federally-licensed pilots were at the rate of 35 for each thousand for the first six months and 25 during the second six months.

There were no deaths during the year among industrial pilots, who are licensed to carry property but not persons for hire. The annual death rate among those licensed as private pilots was at the rate of 25 for each thousand.

At first glance it may seem surprising that the claim of pilots whose required qualifications are the most stringent should have the highest death rate and that private pilots should have a more favorable experience than those engaged in commercial operations.

The report indicates, however, that this is probably due to differences in the amount of time spent in flying, which outweighs the factors of skill and experience.

The mortality of Army and Navy aviators for last year was lower than that which existed among commercial pilots despite the fact that the duties of the officers require necessary stunt flying and formation flying. At the same time, it is pointed out by the committee that the difference in the mortality rates might be due to a smaller average flying time per officer.

Jack Frost's early visit will be most unwelcome to us, because he will destroy our beautiful roses and vine, planted and tended by Mr.

Barker, our principal.

The basketball boys, both high school and midgets are eagerly awaiting October 15. They, like hundreds of boys, are anxious to go

4,900 Cows on Test in Herd Association

Four thousand and nine hundred cows are on test in the 12 dairy herd improvement associations in the state, according to the monthly report of the dairy section of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

Thirty-six cows, produced 50 pounds or more of fat each and 211 cows produced 40 pounds or more each last month. Testing showed that 73 cows were not producing enough to be profitable, and they were culled out of the herds. Four purebred bulls were purchased by association members.

The highest production last month was made by the Kentucky-Indiana association, the 169 cows, 11 of which were dry, averaging 23.4 pounds of fat. The 337 cows of the Kentucky association, 21 of which were dry, averaged 23.5 pounds of fat each. The lowest average in the 12 associations was 18.9 pounds of fat, or nearly 10 pounds under the highest producing association.

Testing is resulting in improvement in many herds. C. M. Pro-bus, leader for the Graves County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, reports that in July and August this year the 380 cows in the association produced 3,000 pounds of butterfat, worth about $1,500, than did the 430 cows in the association during the same months last year. It is credited this increase to better feeding practices and to the elimination of the inferior cow.

In another instance, the owner of nine cows received $900 above feed cost in seven months this year, while the same number of cows returned only $865 above

1928. N. G. McConnell, leader for the North Kentucky association, states that feeding, economical, well-balanced rations and culling out the poor cows made the difference.

10th Anniversary Sale

Through October

It has been ten years since I first became interested in the mercantile business in Murray. For five years I have personally managed the business.

It was in anticipation of the present progress in Calloway county and Murray that caused me to cast my lot here. I have seen this progress, and like those who travel over the surrounding country know that it is above the average. The school, the dairying, the improved roads, the soil improvement and the street improvement, has caused the visitors to Calloway to marvel at the progress.

As to the Corner Store, I am appreciative of the support given by the buying public. Personally, I would like to discontinue the business on account of the worry and confinement and the demand for all of my time to keep it going, but it is not an easy thing to get out of a business of this size.

Some considerable amount of my time has been in efforts for helping to forward the progress of our section. Many licks, a-miss, but I did my best under the circumstances.

Now about the Anniversary Sale. Come in and see. My stock is large, my prices are low. I strive to accommodate. If you are posted in values of materials and prices of merchandise, you will see that my prices are right.

My clerks are your folks. Come and trade with them. They will draw larger pay when they sell more merchandise. If they are your friends, help them.

Next year, 1930, must require the co-operation of all, to complete the road to Hazel, and to Sandy Bridge as state projects, and connecting and graveling the side or lateral roads in the county. Let's all back Judge Hale in this program.

ANNOUNCING

A Special Showing of FORD CARS

OCTOBER 14 to 19

E. J. Beale Motor Company

Admission Free

10:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

When the Ford car was first introduced, there were but six body types. In the past year, this number has been increased to twelve, in keeping with the public's wishes and the Ford policy of constantly improving the car, mechanically and in beauty of line, color and finish.

Today, the Ford body types include the Roadster, Phaeton, Business Coupe, Standard Coupe, Sport Coupe, Tudor Sedan, Two-window

Fordor Sedan, Three-window Fordor Sedan, Town Sedan and Truck—an unusually wide selection. So that you may see all of these body types, in all the new colors, a Special Ford Showing will be held October 14-19 at the E. J. Beale Motor Co. The hours are from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M. Admission is free. This showing is of particular interest because it is the first time it has been possible to obtain all the new Ford cars, in all the new colors, for display in this city.

We will be glad to send a car to your home or office to take you to this special showing. There will be no charge for this service. Just telephone us.
