A. M. Nugent Elected President

R. H. Wade, Vice-President
Warren Graham, Treas.
Chamber of Commerce

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a new set of ten directors were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

Directors—A. M. Nugent, E. C. Hard, J. Joe Browder, Hoyt Moore, T. M. Franklin, Joe Davis, R. H. Wade, H. H. Murphy, I. H. Read, J. E. Fall.

While the committee appointed by the chair was out counting the votes, several members took up the time with interesting talks for the good of the order. Among those addressing the assembly with stirring talks were A. M. Nugent, J. A. Colley, T. M. Franklin, E. C. Hardesty, S. S. Motley and Warren Graham. Each talk was to the point and listened to with keen interest.

Mr. Askew, the new manager of the Gulf Refining Co., in Fulton was introduced and given a warm reception and hearty welcome by the membership.

On adjournment the newly elected directors retired to the ante-room and held a brief meeting.

On Wednesday morning the directors met and elected the following officers—A. M. Nugent, president; R. H. Wade, vice-president; Warren Graham, treasurer.

FULTON COUNTY LOOKS FORWARD WITH HOPES OF INCREASED PROSPERITY

Fulton county is now looking forward to increased prosperity for 1928. Farmers generally admit that conditions are far better in Fulton county than they have been for 2 or 3 years. A fairly good yield of staple crops were harvested last year and brought fairly good prices. We have several miles of hard road now traversing the county which we did not have a year ago, and we have two other roads under construction, which will almost complete our immediate road projects when finished which will be completed during the first half of 1928.

We have several hundred fine dairy cows, which were property of other sections of the county a year ago. All of these things point to increased prosperity but what is one of the most marked possibilities of success is the fact that we have secured a county agent for our county. This is the first county agent we have had since the agricultural crisis which occurred several years ago.

We understand that we are very fortunate in obtaining the man we have as county agent. Mr. James Speed, of Louisville, advises us that we are to be congratulated in securing the services of Mr. H. A. McPherson, as our agent. Mr. McPherson comes to us highly recommended from Haywood County, Tenn., and from all accounts we could not have made a better selection.

With our county agent and one of the most active Chambers of Commerce in West Kentucky, we feel that we really have a right to expect great possibilities to turn into material existence during 1928.

OUR COUNTY AGENT

From all reports, Fulton county is fortunate in obtaining H. A. McPherson as county agent. He comes to us highly recommended. In fact, we need no better recommendation than to know that he is a graduate from the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi, one of the outstanding institutions of learning in the South and where every branch of agriculture, dairying, etc., is maintained on a large scale under the direction of master minds.

Since graduating from the A. & M., Mr. McPherson has gained quite a reputation as a county agent, both in Arkansas and Tennessee, and now he comes to Kentucky ripe in experience and desiring to impart his knowledge to all who will accept it. Much of the success of county agent work depends on the support and cooperation the people as a whole give to the agent and we believe that Mr. McPherson will more than make good if given the proper support and cooperation.

Those who have had the pleasure of meeting Mr. McPherson since taking up the work are favorably impressed with his methods of procedure. He is said to be one of the best Junior Club organizers and workers in the entire Southland and his estimable wife is a valuable assistant. We heartily welcome him and his family to Fulton county.

"HULA" GIVES CLARA BOW BEST ROLE SINCE "IT"

"Hula" brings that loveable madcap of the screen, Clara Bow, back to Fulton. It will head the program at the Grand Theatre next Monday, and Tuesday.

"As 'Hula' pet of the Calhoun plantation, Clara is said to have her best role since 'It.' She appears as a carefree miss who, on the eve of her sixteenth birthday, falls madly in love with a handsome young English engineer, Clive Brook. Although he doesn't say so at first, he too, is attracted toward the magnetic girl. Finally, the inevitable happens. Clara forces him to admit his love but at the same time, she also learns that Brook is the victim of an unhappy marriage. His wife, an unscrupulous fortune hunter, refuses to grant him a divorce. In addition to this, Clara finds another woman attempting to win Brook away. How she emerges from her predicament provides Paramount's scintillating star with plenty of opportunities for showing off her own peculiar talents.

Arlette Marchal is the other woman and Maude Truax, Brook's wife. Arnold Kent enacts a Hawaiian who is jealous of Brook because of his love for Clara. Albert Gran is her disolute father and Agostino Borgato, her uncle. Victor Fleming, maker of "Mantrap," "The Rough Riders," and "The Way of All Flesh," directed.

A special sent out from Hickman says that Miss Frankie Reed is seeking to fill the vacancy of Representative created by the sudden death of Morman B. Daniel at Frankfort this week.

Noted Speakers Visit Fulton

On Thursday, January 5, the City of Fulton was honored by two of the best known and loved pioneers of the county and our citizens. The two men, Messrs. Thomas B. King, of Memphis Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. James Speed, of Louisville, Kentucky, met each other here as guests of the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. Mr. King is primarily engaged as manager of the Highway Department of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, while Mr. Speed is connected with the Louisville Board of Trade and also editor of the Southern Agriculturist, a paper dedicated to the science of agricultural problems.

JAMES SPEED

THOMAS B. KING

The reason we speak of these men as prisoners is not on account of their age, but because of the fact that in the last 25 years these men have given their full time unselfishly and untiringly to the development of rural and city problems, and as a result we can now look with favor upon the wonderful results as a direct effect of their courageous efforts. Their addresses at the Rotary luncheon and at the Chamber of Commerce meeting were launched in favor of the rural problems of our country. This makes us feel that we should become more concerned in our rural problems than ever. When we begin to view the situation from a more serious point of view we find that these men are in accord with all of the larger organizations of the country. Every railroad company now maintains an agricultural department and every large Chamber of Commerce has a specific department for agricultural development even the National Chamber of Commerce of Washington, D. C., has its agricultural department. Then why should we not have a special agricultural department in the more rural sections of the country where the agricultural problems are 95 per cent of our resources.

We certainly feel indebted to the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and the Louisville Board of Trade for giving us these splendid men, they were very interesting and constructive in all of their remarks and we feel that our community was very much benefited by having them here.

LESS THAN TWENTY DOLLARS TO DRESS JANET GAYNOR AS BOY

Janet Gaynor discovered that it would take but twenty dollars worth of clothes to make a very presentable man while assembling her wardrobe for "2 Girls Wanted," her first starring vehicle for Fox Films. All the garments used in this sequence were purchased in a big second-hand store in Los Angeles and totaled the enormous sum of $19.95. Alfred E. Green directed this production, which is based on the New York success of the same name, by Gladys Unger.

A cast of screen favorites include Glenn Tryon in the leading male role, Ben Bard and Marie Mosquini, the latter two having supported Miss Gaynor in "7th Heaven."

"2 Girls Wanted" is coming to the Orpheum Theatre Monday and Tuesday, January 16, and 17.

POULTRY RAISING MAKES BIG STRIDES IN KENTUCKY

Many Carloads of Live and Dressed Fowls are Shipped Every Week from Different Points in State to Eastern Markets.

The poultry shipping industry in Kentucky has made great strides and reached enormous proportions until it has become one of the leading industries of the State. Many carloads of live and dressed fowls are shipped every week from Kentucky points to the Eastern markets and through the poultry buying channels are distributed many dollars to the farmers and housewives who continue to furnish a considerable quota of the several varieties of fowls.

The poultry industry represents an extensive organization that ramifies even into the most remote localities. Where the rural poultry raisers once delivered to the cross-roads store or country merchant they now are beset by many buyers in motor trucks who buy what the farmer has to offer, pay him and haul it away. Regular truck routes are operated for the collection of poultry that may be delivered to some central point for shipment either live or dressed to the outside markets.

The old-timer recalls scarcely more than a generation ago when 25 cents was the standard price of a matured chicken and springers could be had in abundance at $1.50 the dozen. The motor truck revolutionized the poultry business and with the ever-increasing demand the heights never dreamed of a price of poultry has soared to quarter of a century ago.

Always interested in poultry production, the Kentucky farm wife has branched out in raising fowls of every kind for market and often they rank among the leaders of the community in the poultry-raising venture. Kentucky has assumed a front place in poultry raising and shipping and much of its prestige in the outside markets is due to the fact that Kentucky fowls are rated among the highest for excellence and freedom from poultry ailments.

Morman B. Daniel Suddenly Passes Away at Frankfort

Funeral Services at Methodist Church Thursday.

Morman Beckham Daniel

Fulton and community was shocked Wednesday morning when a message from Frankfort announced the death of Morman B. Daniel, representative of Fulton and Hickman counties.

The body and escort, composed of Senators O. H. Brooks, of Mayfield, and Garth K. Ferguson, of LaCenter, and Representatives J. H. Payne, Arlington; Charles Fulton, Murray; C. E. Crossland, Jr., Paducah; S. K. Hollan, Providence; B. H. Robertson, Owensboro, and C. W. Ryans, arrived in Fulton on an early morning train, and was taken in charge by Winstead, Jones & Company and carried to the funeral home on Second street.

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist Church, the Rev. Vaught, pastor, in charge.

The expressions of love and esteem in which the deceased was held were reflected in the beautiful floral offerings and the words of tributes expressed by his intimate friends and associates. Messrs Joe Davis and S. S. Motley in their talks told of his Christian character. Hon. H. T. Smith spoke of his high ideals and ambitions. Heber Finch of the Lyons club, feelingly expressed the love and esteem of its members and the loss sustained by that organization of which Mr. Daniel was a member.

Representative Hargrove, speaking in behalf of the legislature, and who was rooming with Daniel in Frankfort and closely associated with him, was introduced and paid a glowing tribute to the memory of a young man who held in his heart the higher ideals of life and the welfare of those he represented. Also introduced the escort party.

Senator Garth K. Ferguson, in behalf of the Senate, expressed the high esteem in which Daniel was held by the general assembly, adjourning Wednesday in respect. He said a gloom had been cast over the capitol and that Frankfort was in mourning today as well as we.

The singing was soft and sweet.

In closing Rev. Vaught announced that funeral services would be held Friday at 11 o'clock at Mt. Pleasant Church five miles east of Clinton for the deceased. This is near the old home of the late Morman Daniel and burial will be there.

The attendance at the funeral services in this city Thursday was the largest in years.

Heartfelt sympathy was extended the bereaved father, sister and brother who were in attendance.

Mr. Daniel was a member of the Fulton Methodist Church (Continued on last page)

EFFICIENCY SUPREME

In unanimously re-electing Bailey Huddleston, chief of police, for another two years, the city council acted wisely and pleased the entire citizenship of Fulton. Mr. Huddleston has made an efficient officer and is loyal to his post of duty. The same can well be said of his valuable assistants, Messrs. Harve Hart, Ed Drysdale and Fred Dunn. No officer has ever been able to show a better record than Mr. Huddleston presented to the city council at Monday night's session. Around nine thousand dollars had been collected in fines during the past two years, much thievery and lawlessness had been prevented and lawbreakers captured and taxed the penalty, showing conclusively that the police department is well systematized with an organization of faithful and efficient officers.

Fire Department Best in State
In unanimously re-electing Lee Roberts chief of the fire department for another two years, the City of Fulton can rest assured that their best interests will be well taken care of in the matter of fire protection, as Mr. Roberts is said to be one of the best fire chiefs in the state and stands at the top notch in efficiency and loyalty to his post of duty. Chester Murrell, his right hand bower, is equally as faithful as well as all the members of the department who deserve a merited vote of thanks from the entire citizenship for past accomplishments.

WHAT'S THE USE?

What's the use of always making everybody sad?
Ain't it best to try make the other fellow glad Seems to me like everyone has got enough to bear,
Then to heap some more upon him doesn't seem quite fair,
And, what's the use?

Maybe someone's heart is breakin' and a word, or smile,
Might lift up a fallen spirit and make life worth while.
Don't forget we all are human; smile instead of frown;
Don't draw back in scorn and fury 'cause a man is down,
For, what's the use?

Every day is filled with sorrow, in the home and street;
You can't tell how much or little from each face you meet.
Maybe someone's almost sinkin' 'neath his heavy load—
One unkind word might cause his foot to slip along the road,
And, what's the use?

Don't think you have all life's troubles; stop and look around;
You may see a fellow traveler prone upon the ground.
Just reach out and grip and lift him, help him bear his load;
Be his brother, friend and helper 'till he gains the road,
For, that's the use.

BELOVED WOMAN

SAYS NEWSPAPERS BEST
ADVERTISING MEDIUM

The newspaper is the best advertising medium, states J. C. McQuiston, advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, in addressing the advertising Council of the Chicago Association of Commerce recently.

"One great advantage of newspaper advertising is reader interest," he said. "We have grown into a nation of newspaper readers until today nearly every worthwhile American buys and reads his paper. As a result, any message in the newspaper comes to the reader fresh and welcome and secures immediate attention."

"We believe that you can make a sale with a newspaper advertisement today that it will take you a month or a year to get in any other medium, if you get it at all," said Mr. McQuiston in explaining why his company has centralized the bulk of its advertising in the newspapers.

CLUB BOY WINS HIS SECOND CHAMPIONSHIP AT FAT STOCK SHOW

Julian Price Bourne, 17-year old Garrard County 4-H club boy, for the second consecutive year, won the grand championship of the recent sixth annual Fat Stock Show at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville. His calf sold to the Fields Packing Company of Owensboro for $1.20 a pound, bringing a total of $852, plus $240 in prize. He also won several cups and medals and other prizes.

The Garrard County 4-H club for the fourth consecutive year won the carload grand championship of the show on a load of Angus calves. Their calves sold to the Emmart Packing Company of Louisville for $19.05 per hundred.

Nearly 500 fat calves were exhibited by 4-H club boys and girls. All brought a good price, the average for the entire lot being $15.75 per hundred, not including the $1.20 a pound received for the grand champion calf. Many of the boys and girls made a net profit of $50 or more per calf, with full allowance for purchase price and all feed.

In addition to good profits realized on the sale of the calves, premiums to the amount of $4,000 were distributed among 1-H club members, thru the agency of the Kentucky State Fair Board. Merchants, manufacturers, packers and other concerns are helping to encourage the education of farm boys and girls through calf clubs, and at the same time promoting the production of more and better beef in the State.

The above clipping was printed to show what can be done if one will apply himself to any task.

What this boy done can be duplicated by some boy in Fulton county if he will just go after it.

Now that Fulton has joined the progressive counties of Kentucky and employed a county agent it is up to the boys and girls to organize the different clubs and enter the Fulton County fair in competition with each other and put this county on the map. There will be a fair in the county next spring. Farmers, railroads and limestone companies will cooperate in the project. The Todd County Accredited Hatchery has been installed and the first hatch started. More than 1,000 chickens have been installed and 1,000 chickens have been accredited and blood tested in the county. Ten farmers in South Union community in Logan county have organized a cooperative bull association and purchased a purebred bull with a register of merit dam.

LIME CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED SOON

We understand that a commercial limestone campaign will be launched in Fulton Community in early spring. This campaign will stir up sufficient interest among the farmers to warrant a splendid campaign to go into effect in the summer and fall months. Secretary Motley feels that we will sell no less than 100 cars of lime during the year. This of course will mean added prosperity to our farmers for many years to come, and we feel sure that such efforts will be abundantly rewarded with an increase in production and quality of agricultural products.

BUGGS-CHAMBERS

A wedding of much interest to many friends here and in Clinton was that of Mr. C. C. Bugg, of Clinton, to Mrs. Lucetta Chambers, of this city, which took place Sunday evening at 5 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Demyer, in the presence of many friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Rev. A. C. Moore, of South Fulton circuit, said the ceremony in his usual impressive manner, and the attendants were Mr. Dan Gore and Mrs. Ida Pole. After the ceremony Mrs. Demyer served a delicious supper to the bridal party.

The bride is well known in Fulton, having made her home with Mrs. Demyer for some time. The groom is a prominent farmer of the Clinton community and they will make their home in that community.

DR. McREE PASSES AWAY AT UNION CITY

In the death of Dr. Francis Marion McRee, Union City, Tenn., and Obion county suffer the loss of one of its oldest and honored citizens, loved and admired by all who had the honor of his acquaintance.

Dr. McRee passed away on Thursday, January 5, at the age of 84 years, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Titts, worth in Union City. His long and useful life will go down in history as one of Tennessee's outstanding records. At the age of 14 he enlisted in the 9th Tennessee regiment of the Southern Confederacy and was discharged a year later as under age. On returning home he organized a cavalry company. Dr. McRee was in all battles with Gen. Forrest and made a brilliant record. Time and again he was honored by his people and served several terms in the Tennessee legislature.

The few remaining comrades can well recall his kindness and generosity as it was his custom to entertain all of the Obion county Confederate Veterans on his birthday with a bountiful feast. Today their heads are bowed in sincerest grief.

RAILROADS FUNCTIONING SMOOTHLY AND EFFICIENTLY

The beginning of the New Year finds the railroads of the country functioning smoothly and efficiently, providing the American people with the speediest, most reliable and, considering the relative value of the dollar, the cheapest railway service they have ever known. Such is the declaration of President L. A. Downs of the Illinois Central System in his January letter to the public.

This fortunate condition prevails, despite the fact that both the gross and the net earnings of the railroads as a whole in 1927 were less than in 1926. Three principal reasons, according to President Downs, combined to bring about the reduction in earnings—a decrease in traffic, a further decline in the level of rates and the award of wage increases to large groups of employees.

"It is unfortunate that these developments had to be simultaneous," writes President Downs. "In order to keep on providing indefinitely the kind of service which we now enjoy, the railroads must have the assurance of an adequate and stabilized earning power."

"All who benefit from production, manufacturing and distribution—whether as owners or as employees, as producers or as consumers—are beneficiaries of railway service. When that service is good and cheap—as it now is—their benefits are greatest."

PUBLIC NUISANCES

He who persists in making himself obnoxious by pessimistic predictions and loud talking might take a lesson from the plight of the peafowl, forecaster of ill repute and noise-maker deluxe, which is almost extinct.

An Indiana farmer, writing in a reminiscent vein of the days of long ago, calls attention to the passing of the peafowl into the great beyond along with the dodo, the auk and the horse. Every farmer of ordinary means fifty years ago raised a pair or more of peafowls, because they were almost infallible weather prophets. When a peacock got in the tallest tree in sight and began his ugly call, it was almost a sure sign of falling weather.

But the peafowl was exterminated, not only because he was an evil prophet, but for the additional reason that he was a trouble maker. They possessed raucous voices, and when they set up their cries as was their frequent custom, they became a great nuisance, especially to late sleepers on Sunday morning. It is now uncommon to find one outside a park or museum.

The peafowl went the way of all who prophesy misfortune and are constant sources of trouble. The peafowl was a beautiful bird, but his beauty was as nothing when his unpopular traits were considered. It is a very simple matter to be labeled a public nuisance. The man or woman who always manages to get on the wrong side of every community enterprise and lets everyone know about it, might profit from the history of the peafowl. A little fussing now and then may be needed to keep folks alert, but for it to become chronic is dangerous, because there is no place for the constant troublemaker, the complainer and the pessimist.

FARM POULTRY

VARIOUS ENEMIES OF YOUNG CHICKS

Young chickens have many enemies such as hawks, crows, cats, rats, foxes, skunks, weasels, and dogs, all of which have about the same tenaciousness, for, once they start to harass a flock, they will not stop until the chickens are full-grown. The best way to cope with them generally is to prevent them from catching the chickens.

A fence around the poultry yard about four or five feet high with fine mesh at the bottom and with the bottom buried in the ground three or four inches will provide protection against many animals including dogs, foxes, and skunks. If rats or weasels bother the chickens, any refuse or tall grass where they might hide or breed should be removed, according to poultrymen at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca.

It has sometimes been found necessary to cover the chicken yard with two-inch mesh wire for protection from hawks and crows. At the Maine experiment station, however, and on many poultry farms, screens tied a few feet apart on twine strings across the field or the chicken run prove successful and no overhead cover was needed.

Owls may kill chickens which roost in trees or exposed places, or they may even enter open windows of brooder houses. To avoid this danger, it is well to keep the chickens in the houses at night and, perhaps, screen the windows.

Little Money Is Spent in Aiding Poultrymen

A recent analysis by the United States Department of Agriculture shows that less money per $1,000 valuation of the commodity is spent by the government in aiding poultry and egg producers than of any other farm crop.

On the basis mentioned, poultry interests receive 14 cents, tobacco 42 cents, cotton 50 cents, pork and pork products 65 cents, Irish potatoes 79 cents, vegetables 84 cents, small fruits $1.08, orchard fruits $1.63, dairy cattle and products $1.80, citrus fruits $2.43, beef cattle and products $2.85, sheep and sheep products $3.27, and bees and bee products $3.61.

Poultry and eggs, the fifth agricultural interest in the United States in value, affect more producers and dealers than any other industry and receive proportionately less help.

Table Gives Relative Size of Turkey Breeds

The following table will give the relative sizes of the breeds of turkeys:

	White Bourbon	Bronze Holland	Red
Adult tom	36	28	29
Yearling tom	33	24	25
Young tom	27	20	20
Hen	29	18	18
Pullet	16	14	14

These are the standard weights and show the White Holland to be the lightest of the three breeds, but we find that there is a great tendency for the White Holland turkeys to run over the standard weight somewhat. Of the three breeds the White ones are considered to be the most domestic and will usually range closer to home than either of the other breeds. The Bourbon birds would come between the other two breeds in regard to ranging habits.

Poultry Facts

Much disease can be kept out of the poultry flock by burying or burning the dead birds.

Burn or bury dead chickens. Every decaying carcass is an incubator breeding germs and disease.

One means of getting the pullets to lay in the winter is to give them plenty of water and proper food in the fall.

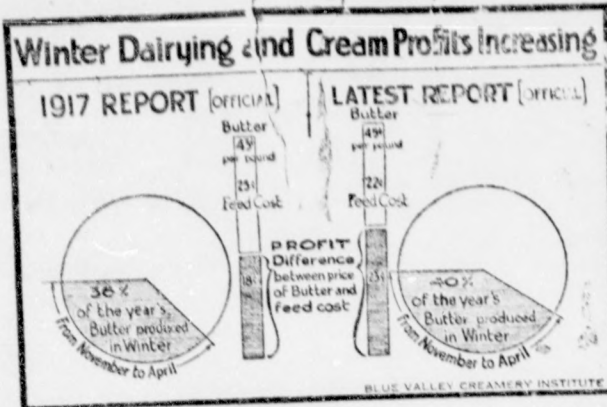

A combination of dried buttermilk and meat scraps is usually depended upon to furnish the animal protein portion of mash mixture.

Wheat bran is largely used in all chick mash. It is bulky but fairly digestible and has a laxative tendency which is beneficial. It is fairly high in protein.

In New York the Pacific Coast extra white eggs sell for more than the New Jersey and nearby extra whites. A good reputation is worth money.

Birds that should be culled are sure to show a loss in the future and the sooner they are sold, the greater will be the returns, in proportion to costs.

It is better to keep a small flock of birds that pay their way than to keep a large flock in which there are a lot of drones that eat up the profit made by good birds.

DAIRY FARMING MOST PROFITABLE

Wintertime Production on Increase; Production per Cow Gains.

Another good year is ahead for the men who straddle milk stools.

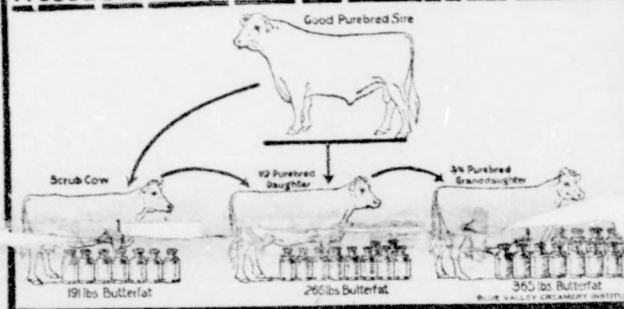

No branch of agriculture has shown steadier, nation-wide profits than dairying, reports the Blue Valley Creamery Institute, and practically every indication points towards the same continuous prosperity during 1928. Since the depression, the combined relative purchasing power of the butter dollar, the hog dollar and the poultry dollar has usually averaged well above pre-war figures. This means that a unit of dairy farm products has had greater purchasing power since the war than the same amount of dairy products had before the World war. In other words, dairying has been just about the most profitable branch of agriculture since the war and promises to continue so during 1928.

Changes have taken place in the dairy industry, especially in progressive dairying districts, which are reflected in constantly growing profits wherever the better methods are followed. Production per cow is increasing. This increase has been most noticeable in areas where better feeding methods have replaced the old costly method of feeding every cow alike. Lowered feed cost per 100 pounds of milk produced and in many instances increased production have followed the introduction of the simple plan of weighing out each cow's daily grain ration and weighing each cow's daily milk yield in order to feed according to the individual cow's production. Then, too, balanced production throughout the year has helped stabilize profits. So have improved sanitation methods, increased production of sweet cream, better dairy sires, etc.

An official report, for example, shows that in 1917, about 36 per cent of the year's butter was produced in the six cold months of the year. Latest reports show constant increases in winter-time production year after year. The latest report shows 40 per cent production in winter. Cream and butter prices have kept ahead of feed costs and profit margins. In Minnesota, for example, the government report shows that the profit difference between the price of butter on the New York market and the cost of feed necessary to produce a pound of butter was 18 cents in 1917 and the latest report sets the same profit difference at 23 cents.

A Good Bull Nearly Doubles Herd Production in Three Generations

GOOD BULL BOOSTS DAIRY PRODUCTION

Offers Economical Way for Dairyman to Increase Income From Cows.

Increasing the milk yield of cows is one of the surest ways for increasing dairy herd profits; and the continuous use of a good purebred sire has proved to be one of the most practical and most economical ways for increasing herd production, declares the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Perhaps no better example of the value and influence of better breeding can be cited than the experiment conducted by the Iowa experiment station in which a number of scrub cows having an average annual production of 4,110 pounds milk and 191 pounds butterfat, were used as the foundation for a dairy herd. Production records of the half purebred daughters of these scrub cows sired by good dairy bulls of good breeding and type, show that the average yield was increased to 5,822 pounds milk and 266 pounds butterfat a year. The pronounced influence of the purebred sire was again brought out in the three-quarter purebred grand-daughters of scrubs, which were daughters also of purebred dairy sires. The yearly production of these third generation cows, all daughters of the half purebred sires, was 8,161 pounds milk and 365 pounds butterfat.

The use of a good purebred dairy bull in a milking herd is the most practical and most economical way for the average dairyman to increase the production of his cows and the profits from his business. Only comparatively few farmers can afford good purebred herds, for to purchase them is expensive. However, no farmer who expects to make a success in the dairy business, can afford to be without the use of a good purebred dairy sire, the Institute states.

SUCCESSFUL CROPS HELPED BY ALFALFA

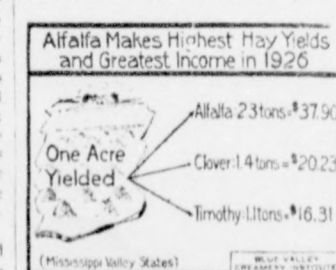

Larger Yields of Grain and Hoe Crops Planted After It Noted.

Alfalfa not only outyields all other farm crops, but is able to make larger yields of grain and hoe crops that are planted after it, states the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. To emphasize this after effect of alfalfa on farm profits the Institute points to the careful trials recently made by the New York State Experiment Station where the superior value of stubble and roots of alfalfa over the residue of timothy hay was strikingly shown in promoting the growth and production of succeeding crops.

Two-year-old fields of alfalfa and timothy, from which hay was removed each year in the usual way, were plowed under and the following year planted to corn. The yield of corn fodder from these plantings was 4.5 tons per acre on the alfalfa field and 3.2 tons on the timothy field. The second year, these same fields were seeded to wheat which made an average yield of 51.3 bushels per acre in the field formerly occupied by alfalfa and an average of 36.1 bushels in the field that was in timothy two years before. Both fields were seeded to corn the third succeeding year, which resulted in yields of 25 bushels an acre from the one that was once an alfalfa meadow, and 22.0 bushels an acre on the other that had been in timothy.

The principal reason for the increased yields of crops following alfalfa and other legumes, which have been inoculated with certain bacteria, is due to the ability of these plants to take nitrogen from the air and incorporate it in its tissues. The grasses, of which timothy is the most widely grown, do not possess this ability and therefore, remove more nitrogen from the soil than they add when their roots and stubble are plowed under. Ten thousand acres of alfalfa for every community is the aim of the Blue Valley Creamery Institute, which aims to promote greater prosperity of the average farm by diversification and intensive farming with the cow, the sow and the hen.

WE MUST STAND BEHIND OUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Any one living outside of our community no doubt gives our Chamber of Commerce a great deal more credit than is really deserving, because of the fact that both city papers are standing squarely behind the secretary and helping him all they can without a nickel cost, but when it comes to the membership body, we see a change of scenery.

This fact was very clearly demonstrated at the special meeting which was held at the city hall last Thursday when the secretary had procured some of the most productive timber that could have been obtained to come here and address the business men and farmers of our community. These men are known throughout the country and are outstandingly prominent in the business and civic world. Their subjects dealt very clearly with general prosperity and were full of splendid suggestions which should primarily be absorbed by the merchants and bankers of our city.

When we looked the audience over we were seriously disappointed to find less than a half dozen merchants and no bankers at all to absorb and enjoy the addresses of two of the most outstanding men of the country who had spent their own money and contributed their valuable time with the hope in mind of giving poor old Fulton a lift. This, of course, is not new to the editor as he has seen over 27 years of Fulton's indifference and has seen her suffer from the effect of such conduct, but he will press up to say that he had begun to believe that we were getting our feet on higher land and were looking to more progressive activity.

We all pledged ourselves not over a year ago to stand behind our Chamber of Commerce and make it the outstanding institution of the town, and therefore were encouraged to employ a full time secretary to push our old town out of the ruts of primitive conditions. We were successful in obtaining what we know is one of the best secretaries we have ever had, and one of the best in the country for that matter who we find on the job every day in the week, but from our general conduct we seem to believe in him too much; it seems that we believe that he can do all that is necessary without our cooperation. We have seen many other towns do the same thing and a little later we hear of their secretary resigning and being employed by some wide awake town and leaving those people to fight their own battles. We hope that this will not happen to our town but we will not be surprised at any time to have to face the music unless we get busy.

Our Chamber of Commerce has laid one of the best foundations for a real progress that has ever been in effect in our community and if we will give the organization the right kind of support we will surely cash in on profitable basis. As for this institution, we are ready to go as never before.

SOUTHERN TELEPHONE COMPANY TO MAKE EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS DURING YEAR 1928

To care for the continued growth of the Southeastern states your telephone company plans a gross expenditure of approximately $27,000,000 in 1928 for new construction and replacements. The outlay for similar purposes during this year was practically this same amount.

The Southern Bell Company operates in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee, and each of these states is included in next years budget.

It is expected that the company will make a net gain of 49,000 new telephones in 1928, which is slightly more than the record for 1927.

It is now estimated that more than $2,165,000 will be required in Kentucky and the major items for which large expenditures will be made, include: central office equipment, $107,000; exchange line projects, $549,000; long distance additions and replacements, $611,000; and the routine work of installing and removing telephones, $858,000.

Telephone engineers now estimate that there will be a net gain of 2,972 new telephones in Kentucky during 1928.

The big budget for 1928 is regarded as an indication of the continued growth and progress of this section. Most of the expenditure is planned for the expansion of the local and long distance system to care for the present needs and to meet the anticipated requirements of the near future.

During the four years just ended, the Southern Bell Company has expended more than $100,000,000 for gross additions to its plant, and telephone officials are confident that the growth of this section will require an equally large investment during the next five years.

IF EVERYONE BOUGHT
HERE

What would be the dividends payable to Fulton if every citizen on December 31, 1928, could truthfully say he or she had not violated a community resolution for 1928, to "buy at home?"

The increased business which would obtain for home town merchants from such a community resolution might seem inconsiderable to those who buy seldom if ever through the mails, but to that person acquainted with postal money order statistics and the numbers of mail order catalogs annually pouring into the resulting loss to the community is staggering.

At this time, when community cooperation and loyalty are doing so much for community growth and prosperity, it seems that an intensive and concerted campaign for one solid year for 100 per cent inculcation of the "buying at home" habit would discover for every community and hidden "fountain of prosperity."

Presupposing that the mail order catalog cover has been clamped down tightly for one year by the whole community the probable benefits which would accrue to the community are amazing. Firstly, thousands of dollars annually shipped out of town would pour in to home town stores. The increased business would encourage the merchants to store improvements, the purchase of larger stocks, the lowering of prices and to otherwise improving service. The benefit to the public of better stores, larger stocks, lower prices and better service is obvious. Business gets business. It is the busy town which attracts new industries, new business, new citizens and new buildings. Population increases and building improvements distribute the tax burden over a larger area, lightening it for the individual.

Is there anyone who doubts that Fulton would be a bigger and better town to live in in 1929 if every bought at home in 1928.

THE SMALL TOWN

One frequently hears the complaint voiced by the very young members of the community that they are fed up with the small town and that they long to get out into the big world where they could do things and enjoy life to the full.

Only experience can teach that these juvenile hopes and aspirations are in the majority of cases doomed to bitter disappointment in the realization of what the great outside world holds in store. The majority of this juvenile army of longers after excitement come to the stage where they would give anything to get back to the simpler pleasures and real friends of the small town only to find that they are carried by a current which renders the backward swim a feat impossible of accomplishment.

Perhaps the restless youngsters are old enough, and big enough, and know enough to care for themselves, but it usually is the case that those who brag about being able to care for themselves are the ones who need the most restraining.

While those who have gone through the experience can sympathize with those who chafe at the confines and restrictions of a "little burg," yet they can assure the young people of today that they have in that "little burg," nearly all the things and opportunities which the young folks of a couple of decades ago thought they had to go to the big city to get. Young folks of today have pleasures and opportunities manifold greater than those which were presented to the young folks of yesterday. In the "little burg" they are all the things that would have contented the young folks of yesterday.

The girl or boy of today who hasn't an automobile in the family feels that Providence has been very unkind to them. In days not so very long ago the two-horse rig that could be driven with one hand was thought quite sufficient for a Sunday afternoon's pleasure. We didn't get quite so far along on the road but the time didn't drag on our hands and the road seemed short enough.

When those now in middle age were young, there were no moving picture theaters and unless they moved out of the "little burg," they had no chance to see a good show, but looking back through the years the little family parties and taffy pulls, almost never heard of now, seem to have been far from unpleasant affairs and to have possessed pleasant features.

We got along pretty well with all our handicaps and there was far more sociability when there were fewer places to go than there is now when even staid folks who were raised under the more prosaic conditions of a couple or three decades ago have been partially carried away by the growing craze for amusement, to be entertained, to be doing something and to be going somewhere.

DOES THOROUGHbred POULTRY PAY?

During a recent conversation with J. T. Watkins, secretary of the Fulton Poultry Association, I asked him, "Does thoroughbred poultry pay?" This is his answer:

"It certainly does. Now, to prove this, I will tell you what I have done with my stock during the year 1927, and you can judge for yourself.

First, let me say my yard room is limited. I have divided it into five pens, each containing about 350 square feet of room, each pen has a bunch of seven or eight birds with the male bird. These yards have to be swept each week and sprinkled with a good disinfectant so as to keep it pure and keep down disease. I have to buy all my feed and I get the best there is to be had and my feed bill runs around $135.00 per year. So much for the expense side of the ledger. Now for the credit side. Primarily chickens are my hobby, the pleasure I derive from being with my birds more than pays me for the expense attached to the job. When a man can get Leghorn hens so tame down that he has to kick them out of the way when he goes into the yard, he has accomplished something. I can sit down on a box in my yard and they will gather all around me and I can pick them up at will. Lots of people say Leghorns are so wild. They are, if you raise them wild. Mine are not. My Rhode Island Reds and Buff Wyandottes are even gentler than the Leghorns. Now for the money side of the proposition: Eggs for culinary use bring us ten cents premium over the market price in Memphis and sometimes we don't have enough to fill the wants of our neighbors. Right now my better half has money in the house in advance for two or three dozen to be delivered in their turn as soon as laid. I don't know offhand how many dozen eggs we have sold in our neighborhood this past year for that money I never see the wife keeps that for her part for tending to my flock when I am out on the road, but I would be safe in saying the amount would pay for all feed. We have had all the "frying size" we wanted to eat this past season, besides several roasters. Now we come to the show season: If a person has some extra good stock you just can't keep him out of the show room. I took my birds into four shows this season and besides enough ribbons to make a fair-sized "crazy quilt," they brought home $113.00 in prize money. Pretty good for a backyard flock.

When I took charge of the show here at Fulton three years ago my stock was the best around here, and I won all the specials, but I aroused interest to the extent that the second year there was other stock just as good as mine in the show and I did not win all the specials, and last year I was bumped even harder for there were birds that cut into my regular winnings, not only in Fulton, but even at the Kiwanis show at Cairo, Mrs. D. J. Perry beat me on sweepstakes cock bird of the show, also best buff colored pen. She has learned that good poultry pays and if she continues in the game she is going to be hard to beat. One thing, she believes in her stock and is not afraid to show it. More power to her and her flock.

This is what can be done with a back yard flock, and any one who has a few hens just for the eggs can get rid of his scrub stock, settle on some standard breed and push them to the front and it will more than pay him for his time and money, for it doesn't cost any more to raise good stuff than it does poor. Oh, yes, I want to tell you something about the big fellows, at the Chicago National show in 1925. I saw Maurice DeLano, proprietor of the Owens Farm Reds, sell one cockerel for $700. Just think, that bird would pay for one of the new Fords and leave you over $200 to buy gas to run it with. I could tell you of several other large sales made at that show. I saw John McPherson refuse $1,000 for the Barred Rock cockerel that won the Governor's cup for being the best bird in the show. One man came in to the show with a solid truck load of White Wyandottes and when he left he carried them home in one coop and they were not crowded either. Shucks, I could go on all day long telling you things to prove that thoroughbred poultry pays, but I know you haven't the time to listen and besides you are not a chicken crank—your hobby is roses and other flowers, so why should I try to convert you, for we need all the flowers we can get and sometimes I think there are not enough flowers in the country anyhow. Well, so long, hope to see you at the fair this fall, and if I run the show, will try to have a bigger and better chicken show than ever."

BETTER TO BUY ROOSTERS NOW

Farmers and poultrymen who plan to raise chicks next spring or to furnish eggs to hatcheries are advised by J. E. Humphrey, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, to buy breeding males now.

By buying now it is comparatively easy to find good birds, but if one waits until the breeding season opens he may find the best ones gone and only inferior males left from which to make a choice, Mr. Humphrey pointed out.

"Breeding males should be bought from a source that is better than the flock to which they are going," he said. "This is the most practical and economical way to build up the quality of a flock."

"Cockerels should be good representatives of the breed, of good size and have well proportioned bodies."
