THE LISTENING POST

● The strange silence which comes on a holiday of any sort is something which has always intrigued me. One notices this downtown on Sunday morning, but this is quite customary and attracts little attention. The Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas Day—all these will bring that strange and sudden silence and feeling of difference. Likewise, on recent Thursdays, I have noticed it in the same manner.

● This office does not close on Thursday afternoons along with other business places. When the plan was first started several years ago it was not possible for us to close on that day, as it is really the busiest day we have. If we have any business at all it will be in the Thursday issue, and so, our half holiday was fixed for Saturday. We started it at the very beginning and never resumed work on Saturday afternoon. As a matter of fact, it was good preparation for the wage and hour law which came along soon after and made it impossible for us to operate on Saturday afternoon.

● So, the office being open on Thursday afternoons, I am in position to see the sudden and miraculous change which comes over the town within a few minutes after twelve o'clock. I usually eat lunch around 11:30 and return to the office. When I come back along Lake or Main streets the town is busy, with all stores open and people coming and going. Within a few minutes I hear the noon whistle and almost at once a strange silence falls over the town. A glance down the street will show it almost deserted. A few late cars are dashing along in cars, but to all intents and purposes the town is dead and deserted. This becomes even more pronounced within an hour or so, and there is no use in waiting for customers on these afternoons. About the only callers we ever have in this office will be people from out of town, and these are always puzzled at seeing a town so dead and deserted on an ordinary day. Some seem to like the idea, others say it is a senseless idea. I take it, if a person comes to town after something and finds the store closed, he thinks it is a silly thing to close the stores on a business day. If, however, he is not disturbed or annoyed in any way by this, he thinks it's all right and a fine idea.

● Personally I have no objection to it, although it has been so long since I worked by a clock and had to remain at a certain spot until a certain hour, that I can't really enjoy such a holiday. It is usually possible for me to leave the office at almost any time, and the best vacation for me is one where I do not even go to the office for an entire day. I can readily see, however, that those who must work every day until five or six o'clock really do enjoy this weekly afternoon off. Likewise a number of business men who do not really work hard at their jobs, but who stay at their places of business until a late hour are glad to be freed of this for one afternoon.

● The golf course really picks up in its business on these afternoons, and I am told that the fish in various lakes and rivers are very vehement in their protests over the matter. I fail to see this, however, for it seems to me that when a man becomes a fisherman he pays no more attention to his business, his profession or his job. Or maybe this is doing a lot of fine folks an injustice. Anyhow, Thursday afternoons are dead periods in Fulton now.

Nazi Costs In Air Attack On Britain High

Germans Assert British Losses In Raid Heavy

London, — (Saturday)—German bombing planes dropped their deadly explosives on Southeast, Northeast and Northwest England early today and were heard over Scotland and Wales in widening attacks.

Two men were killed and several persons were injured in one raid on a Northwest England town. Several houses were damaged.

London, —The German campaign of mass air attacks on these islands was declared by some British observers today to be costing the Nazis a great deal more—in money, morale and Messerschmitts—than the defenders.

This claim that air invasion is thus far a bankrupt strategy was put forward on the basis of an official checkup of the results of yesterday's vast raid by 400 German planes on English Channel shipping.

For this, said the air ministry, was the score:

German planes destroyed—60.
British planes lost—16.
Shipping Destroyed
British shipping destroyed, both by air and the torpedo boat attack that ushered in the air assault, 5,039 tons. Seven ships in a convoy were acknowledged damaged, but all were declared taken to port.

(The German score sheet was far different: Berlin claimed that 49 British planes were shot down and 72,000 tons of British shipping sunk.)

Unofficial commentators here reached the conclusion that the net German loss in money was some $2,000,000—aside from the far heavier German casualties reported here.

Balance Sheet
This is the way these observers cast up the balance sheet:

German losses in planes $3,072,000—24 dive bombers at $80,000 apiece and 36 Messerschmitt fighter planes at $32,000 apiece.
British losses in ships sunk or damaged $500,000.
Net German loss $2,000,000.

In addition, the British claimed at least 106 German airmen died, against 13 British fliers.

Canada Reports Many Americans Joining Air Force

Ottawa, — Several thousand Americans were unofficially reported Friday to have joined up with the Canadian Air Force here and in England as pilots, observers, gunners, mechanics and instructors.

Until recently every man enlisting in Canadian forces had to say he was a British subject and had to take the oath of allegiance. Since this stipulation was dropped there has been a spurt in enlistments for the Air Force.

Engineers Are Eager To Gain Army Posts

Frankfort, Ky. — The War Department's first direct call on the Department of Highways for technically-trained volunteers has resulted in a response ten times greater than the number asked for.

More than fifty engineers have volunteered to fill a State quota of five commissions as constructing quartermasters in a new section of the Quartermaster General's office.

Applications Still Arrive
"It looks like all the men we've got are trying to get in," smiled Chief Engineer Thomas H. Cutler as he ruled his oversight of setting a time limit on applications.

The men are responding to a memorandum he sent out July 29, and applications still are coming to his desk.

Cutler said he will send the applications to the War Department. Probably, he said, ten will be selected for examinations, with half of that number to be eliminated.

Bear Alarm Fails To Excite Yellowstone

Yellowstone National Park, —The summer of 1940 has produced a couple of good bear yarns.

Ranger De Lyle Stevens tells about the tourist from Minnesota who swirled up in a cloud of dust and shouted:

"There's a bear loose!" Stevens broke the news gently that there are approximately 800 bears at large in the park, including man-killing grizzlies, and it's hardly possible to drive through the place without seeing dozens of them.

Then there were the women who were fishing near Bear Lake. One of them hooked a big trout. The other glanced up and saw a bear.

"So we've got a wide new trail to Bear Lake now," chortled a C. C. boy. "The women made it, through the underbrush and timber."

Fire Destroys London Food

London, —A huge quantity of groceries and other provisions were destroyed today by a fire in a Thames-side warehouse which broke out shortly after midnight and did not die down until just before dawn.

Cause of the fire could not be determined immediately. The first warning came when police noticed a red glow inside the building, near the Tower Bridge. Within a few moments the interior was a mass of flames and the roof collapsed soon after arrival of the fire engines.

Throughout the blackout hours a British plane patrolled overhead, presumably guarding against the possibility German warplanes would be drawn by the blaze, which could be seen for miles. Half a dozen searchlights were trained on the British plane while others probed the sky in search of Nazi raiders.

Ford Firms Told To Promise No Violations Against Unions

Washington — The Ford Motor Co., with branch plants in more than a dozen States, was ordered by the Labor Board Thursday to post notices to employees in all plants that it would refrain from discouraging unionism by physical violence or "espionage."

The order was based, the board said, on a finding that the company had engaged in a "war" against union organization in the Dallas, Texas, plant. This campaign, the board alleged, was "formulated, directed, approved and ratified" by the Ford "policy makers" in the Dearborn, Mich., main office.

Strong Arm Tactics Charged
The board charged that the company organized a "strong arm squad" which, witnesses at a board hearing asserted, beat up union members and organizers.

The squad, the board added, was made up of employees of "large stature and of unusual muscular development who had constituted the plant's champion tug-of-war team."

Called "Gangsterism"
The board termed it "organized gangsterism" and said the squad was supplied with blackjacks, whips and lengths of hose.

It asserted that the reputed squad leader, "Fats" Perry, had testified that the squad was organized to "put the fear of God" in any union sympathizer or organizer.

Poles Made Good Showing Against German Machine, Experts Decide

Bern, Switzerland — A lot of high power military experts attached to Swiss legations as military attaches of foreign powers, and some of the Swiss, too, have revised their opinion of Poland's army.

Three things contributed to the turn of opinion.

First was the new realization of the power of Germany's war machine and its strength in the air.

Second was the way France cracked up along with Belgium and Holland in 38 days of warfare. Poland alone lasted four weeks.

Third were the Poles themselves—even in internment.

On the night from the 19th to the 20th of last June alone some 28,000 troops crossed into Switzerland in the region of the Franches montagnes in the Jura.

First to cross were about 12,000 French troops of various branches of the army. Some had their rifles. Some didn't. Many had never even seen a German. Few had participated in active fighting. All came because the Germans cut off their retreat to the south.

Later came the main units of 18,000 Poles. They, too, had been cut off in their retreat but they came across with all their arms and even most of their motorized equipment. They were disciplined.

Not only had almost all of them seen Germans but their units were all heavily carved up by casualties. One Polish unit, about 2,000 strong dashed up to the frontier with several batteries of 75's and 101's. A group of commanding officers conferred briefly with the Swiss command and were told that they would have to surrender both arms and ammunition.

The whole unit turned around and dashed off again. The commanding officer explained that they "still had some ammunition left" and were going to "give it to the Germans."

They gave it to the Germans and the Germans gave them the same back again. The Poles still couldn't get through so they came into Switzerland with all their guns and rifles—but with not a shell, not a cartridge and with many casualties.

Poles, in little groups of three and four, have been drifting into Switzerland ever since the armistice. Some have come from channel ports all the way through German occupied territory. They hide in farm houses or deserted town houses during the day and travel by night. They escape from internment camps.

Some of them no sooner crossed the border and were disarmed than they tried to escape again. Swiss police stopped four recently headed back into occupied France. Yes, they knew it was occupied, but they wanted to go to England—somehow.

Cities Change Government In England

Chicago — The far-reaching British defense program caused "drastic alterations" in town and city government, the American Municipal Association reports.

The organization, in a survey made for the guidance of civic chiefs in the United States in the belief that they will play "vital" parts in this nation's preparedness projects, found that:

Governmental Setup Revamped
The governmental structure was revamped and, in some communities, control was centralized.

English city officials had to contend with demands for economy in the midst of multiplied tasks, upward trends in the costs of living and materials, increased wages and a drop in tax revenue.

More than 1,200,000 persons—one out of every forty in Great Britain—had to be enrolled and coached in civil defense work in the "most intensive" civilian training program ever undertaken by "any democratic government."

This huge force was recruited at a time when regular municipal staffs were reduced by enlistments in the armed forces. The drain on manpower created opportunities for feminine job seekers.

Budgets Affected
The report, compiled from Britain's local government journals, set forth that municipal budgets were "violently affected." It added:

"Besides bringing (public) housing and road construction to a virtual stop, the central government to cease borrowing for any projects not of pressing necessity, and proposals for loans over $40,000 had to be submitted for treasury approval with proof that they could not be avoided, postponed or reduced."

"Property valuation declined because of a decrease in the income from many properties—particularly in localities considered vulnerable to air attack."

Amateur Makes Gold Mine Pay In North Carolina

Halifax Court House, N. C.—His neighbors thought H. W. Passavant was making a mistake four years ago when he gave up his modest machine shop and started a gold mine. Today few wouldn't trade places with him.

There were other gold mines in Halifax County, some inactive, and about $3,000,000 had been taken out. But Passavant, who thought he had found a vein of ore, was without mining experience.

He read up on geology, then bought a second hand rock crusher for $5. He worked alone with a mercury and amalgam system of taking gold from ore. What he profits is his own business, but Clifton C. Daugerty, State assayer, says "that little mine nets him a lot more than any machine shop I've around these parts."

Now Passavant plans to install a cyanide plant to refine all the crushed ore. And he expects that for every $1,000 he had made he will recover $1,000 more.

Insistent "No" Saves Man's Car From Gun Men

Chicago, —Obstinacy, it would seem, is well ingrained in Louis Pavlacky, Jr., 25.

Out for a drive in his car last night, Pavlacky was halted by two armed men who climbed in with him and demanded the automobile. Pavlacky, demurring vigorously, held the ignition keys out the window.

One of the men shoved a gun in his ribs, but Pavlacky's answer was a firm "No!" The gun was shifted to his head and when he reached up to knock it away, the man fired. The bullet knocked Pavlacky's hat off.

When he still shouted a hoarse "No!" the flustered gunman hit him on the chin. Jumped out of the car with his companion and fled.

Louis Pavlacky, Jr., still has his automobile.

British Warn Of Propaganda

London, —The Ministry of Information is trying to persuade Britons that Lord Haw Haw, Germany's ace English language propaganda broadcaster, isn't worth listening to.

One Ministry advertisement offers this advice:

"I say to myself, 'Now this blighter wants me to listen to him. Am I going to do what he wants?' I remember that German lies over the air are like parachute troops dropping down on Britain—they are all part of a plan to get us down—which they won't."

"I remember nobody can trust a word Haw Haw says. So just to make them waste their time, I switch 'em off or tune 'em out!"

Dictator In Desert Town Rules Over Population Of One Person

Millikan, Ore.—Hardy Billy Rahn, desert dictator has been this town's sole master longer than most contemporary totalitarians have been operating in Europe.

He had fed and clothed the entire population and exerted his will indisputably for twenty years. The town would vanish—join the legends of Western ghosts—if he ever left.

Billy is the only resident of this once important waterhole in the forsaken sagebrush of Central Oregon. His town is honored by every major Oregon map and officially recognized by the Postal Department.

There were some rumors Millikan's population has lost its stability and boomed 100 per cent since 1930.

"My brother visited me a few months last year," explained Billy,

Sheppard And Wheeler Clash On Hitler Aim

Holman Warns Japs Likely To Invade Alaskan Coast

Washington, —The Senate's debate on peace-time conscription began today with Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), declaring democracy is imperiled everywhere and Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), scornfully asserting that those who fear a Nazi invasion should summon courage to seek an immediate declaration of war on Germany.

A momentary stir was created when Senator Holman (R-Ore.), seeking to show that Japan, not Germany, is "the number one threat to our peace," said he had learned from "authoritative military sources" of the "imminent peril of the invasion of Alaska from the Pacific and endangering of the entire Pacific slope." Later he added, however, that so far as he knew "no one is mobilizing their forces now."

"Tragic Necessity"
The Senate debate began with an exposition of the pending bill—under which all men between 21 and 30, inclusive, would be subject to selective military training.

Senator Sheppard, chairman of the military affairs committee, said developments abroad had made conscription a "tragic necessity" for America. A larger army was needed at once, he said, to protect American interests in the Western Hemisphere. And he warned that any successful attack on the Panama Canal would make the American Navy "helpless."

As he spoke of what he considered the emergency in which the country finds itself today, Senator Danaher (R-Conn.), interrupted to ask:

"What evidence did the committee have before it as to the nature of this emergency?"

"We didn't have any," Sheppard replied. "I already knew what it was. It is an emergency for democracy throughout the world."

Galleries Applaud
With that the crowded galleries burst into applause so vigorous and prolonged that the presiding officer threatened to eject the visitors.

Kentucky And Sol Help Give Fame To Dyersburg

Dyersburg, Tenn., —"Dyersburg am a great city," said the Negro woman welcoming visitors to a church convention.

"It is bounded on de south by de beautiful Forked Deer River."

"It is bounded on de west by de father of all waters—de great Mississippi."

"It is bounded on the north by Kentucky."

"It is bounded on de east by—by—its bounded on de east by de risin' sun."

who never gets lonely in his triple duty as postmaster, storekeeper and service station attendant.

"When he left the population returned to normal."

Millikan, named for George Millikan, a pioneer stockman, rises to fame with its one resident every census year.

Soon after the word went out that Billy was the whole town, his postoffice handled a rushing business—the biggest in ten years. Requests came from autograph hounds and freak stamp collectors.

Picture agencies asked him for photographs and a national radio program volunteered expenses for a trip to New York.

The radio offer has been stamped. Had he to accept the offer, he'd have to go to New York to get his name on the list.

A SPLENDID PIECE OF WORK

For several weeks the Young Men's Business Club has been working on plans for the first annual Ken-Tenn Exposition, which is to be held at the Fulton County Fair Grounds for three days beginning August 22. For weeks before any public announcements were made these plans were discussed with interested parties, and since it was definitely decided to stage the show intensive work has been done. All present indications point to a successful affair, and this will be merely the beginning of something which is confidently expected to grow into a large annual affair. Since the county fair ceased to exist Fulton has had nothing of this nature except for one day shows which the Young Men's Club staged, and this represents a definite and concerted effort to build something which will replace the old county fair.

Naturally this first show will be largely in the nature of an experiment in many ways. First the Young Men's Club wishes to ascertain if there is any real interest on the part of the public for a show which lasts more than one day. It has been demonstrated that people will come to a one day show, such as the old car derby, but it remains to be seen whether they will come for a show which lasts three days or more. The Ken-Tenn Exposition will incorporate some of the features of the old car derby, some of the features of a county fair, some of the features of a Fourth of July celebration and several other features which are not readily classified. The Farm Bureau, which has held an annual picnic for farmers and town people for several years, is combining this feature with the Exposition, and the Chamber of Commerce, which does the bulk of its work in the rural area, is cooperating with the Young Men's Club as far as it can.

The people of Fulton should remember, however, that the Exposition cannot be a success without their help and their attendance. While many of the features are primarily for farmers it must be remembered that no town can be a good town without corporation between town people and rural people. Rural problems are also our problems, and for many years the Chamber of Commerce has been doing valuable work in cementing friendships between the two sections and trying to do things which will make farming more attractive and more enjoyable. The pure bred sire work, the development of poultry, bettering markets for farm product—all these things the Chamber of Commerce has worked at with striking success.

The coming Exposition should show the result of some of this work, for premiums are being offered which will bring out the live stock and poultry in this section, and the writer feels certain that some good exhibits will be in the display pens. Two men here in Fulton, Basil Ross and Paul DeMyer, have worked hard and long in this development and they are working hard to see that the Exposition has some good exhibits. The competition is going to be keen in many events, and the live stock and poultry are going to be far better than was the case a few years ago.

This Exposition can be made into a tremendously big annual affair if

A DEADLY LULLABY BEFORE KILL

Isolationist sentiment in the United States is diminishing. Complacency is giving way to concern. Popular opinion in favor of aiding Britain by the sale of over-age destroyers is nationwide following the speech of General Pershing. So Hitler leads off with the statement that he has no intention of coming over here and Nazi lieutenants echo his statement.

Now Virginio Gayda, Mussolini's mouthpiece, chortles the same time: "Europe for the Europeans; America for the Americas," and asks for more "understanding" from the United States.

What Hitler, Gayda, et al., really fear is that we are beginning to "understand" a little too clearly the Axis technique of singing sweet lullabys just before the kill.

We know, because we have seen, that the Axis never takes pains to reiterate its good intentions, and its love for peace, except as a prelude to aggression and death.

Such was the case with Denmark, with Norway, with Holland, with Belgium. All received the most solemn assurances that they would not be invaded and the assurances came only a few months before actual invasion.

It is not the American mood to be similarly victimized. Quite to the contrary, it is our determination to recognize as dangerous and deadly propaganda every soothing word from either Berlin or Rome.

Why do the Axis powers deny that they are coming over here? They are here already. Their agents are at work in Latin-American countries seeking to monopolize the trade of those countries and ready to start Nazi-Fascist revolutions at the opportune moment. Their leaders have declared that if the United States wants to trade with Europe it must trade on Germany's terms. They have mocked our gold reserves and said that they would be worthless under the new world order. They have threatened to give this country what its isolationists want, complete isolation with the economic dislocations and widespread suffering that would inevitably follow.

The economic war has started. Politically, too, the Hitler Reich is at war with us. The world cannot be half slave and half free. Our one hope of avoiding armed conflict is Great Britain, which now stands in desperate need of small craft to convoy its battleships and its shipments of essential supplies. We repeat—America's best chance of survival as a free Nation is to send these craft without delay.—Courier-Journal.

SUNSHINE AND SHADOW

Liberty, Ky.—About a fifth of this town's population has joined the Army—and residents say the record is proof of willingness to fight for what gave the town its name.

Sixty-six youths signed up this week, bringing to more than 100 the number enrolled during the last 30 days. The population is a little over 500.

Seattle—John W. Aiken, Chelsea, Mass., running for President on the Socialist labor party ticket, refuses to make campaign promises.

Asked why he doesn't, Aiken said: "That's simple. I know I haven't a chance to be elected."

Klamath Falls, Ore.—Perspiration dripped from the brows of the city councilmen. It was one of the warmest nights of the season and they fidgeted through the slowly dwindling pile of business.

Then someone touched one of the steam radiators. It was going full blast.

Marion, Ill.—Thieves in this section are defying the heat or are affected by it. Williamson county officials have been notified within a week of these thefts:

A 60-foot span bridge, a boat dock on Crab Orchard Lake, and a lawn mower.

all of us will render it full support. It can become a bigger thing that the old county fair if we resolve to make it that. The Young Men's Club is showing us the way. Let's go along with them.

The Golden Text is: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God, thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness." (Psalms 143:10). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon are the following from the Bible: And Joshua said to the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves that ye have chosen you the Lord, to serve him. And they said, we are with the Lord. Now therefore put away, said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the Lord God of Israel. And the people said unto Joshua, The Lord our God will we serve, and his word will we obey." (Joshua 24:22, 23). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Faith belief can never do justice to Truth in any direction. Such belief can neither apprehend nor worship the infinite, and to accommodate its finite sense of the divisibility of Soul and substance, it seeks to divide the one Spirit into persons and souls. Through this error, human belief comes to have "gods many and lords many." Moses declared as Jehovah's first command of the Ten: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me!" (P. 280).

British Censor Faces Shake-up Under New Chief

London.—Reorganization of the staff of the often-criticized British Ministry of Information is expected to follow appointment of Frank Pick Sir Kenneth Lee, resigned, effective August 12. Sir Kenneth served nine months without pay.

In his own words, Pick plans to "try to get some business organization into the ministry." He formerly was managing director of the London Passenger Transport Board.

Parliamentary circles reported both Sir Kenneth and Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information, had agreed on need for reorganization of the department, but they were not agreed on the method.

Asked if he is to receive pay, Pick said, "Yes. Certainly I am not going to do it for nothing. I can't afford to."

Senator Suggests Kresge Official Explain Gift Plea

Washington.—Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he would suggest to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee that it invite C. P. Kresge Co., Detroit, Mich., to appear before it if he wishes to explain a complaint that some company employees were being coerced to contribute to a campaign fund for Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) asked the committee this week to investigate the circulation among Detroit Kresge employees of a letter signed by Tuttle urging individual gifts to the Willkie campaign fund.

Tuttle said in Detroit the letter merely offered the employees "an opportunity to make a contribution to the Willkie campaign through me if they desired."

Runaway Boy Finds Glory

Santa Fe, N. M.—Six years ago Earnest Harding Jackson, only 13, ran away from home at Belleville, Ill., "to make my own way."

Today as Jack Hardy, he hoped to attend Harvard on a scholarship won at a Santa Fe high school.

"I am glad the whole thing is out, and I don't have to pretend any more," said Hardy, which is the name he prefers.

"I just hope they won't take my scholarship away from me."

He plans to visit his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson in Belleville, and his brother, Elmer, star Belleville high school athlete.

Not until last week did Hardy tell his family where he was. Proud of his scholarship, he wrote them about it.

HOPKINSVILLE BUSINESS MEN TAKE OVER KITTY BASEBALL TEAM

Hopkinsville Ky.—Ed L. Weathers, president of the Hopkinsville Club in the Kitty League said five local business men had taken over the baseball club and would operate it for the remainder of the season.

Names of the men were withheld. Weathers said the group agreed to take over the ball club's assets and liabilities to prevent the franchise from being transferred to another city.

The Kitty League is in Class D baseball.

600 FARM WOMEN AT
HOMEMAKERS' CAMPS

Six hundred farm women from all parts of Kentucky had a week's vacation at homemakers' camps this year, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of county home demonstration work. No routine work was allowed—it was a creative holiday for a group usually "on the job" 52 weeks a year.

Under expert direction, the women studied music, leathercraft, the latest novels and non-fiction, community recreational programs, etc. Now they can sit down and whip out a leather pocketbook or billfold in almost no time, talk familiarly of early American folk songs, and know as much about the day's best authors as any city person.

District camps were held at Columbus Park, Elton, Quicksand, and Camp Kavanaugh at Crestwood. At one place, two camps were held to accommodate different groups. Several county camps also were held.

If the women wished it, they could learn water sports. Instruction in weaving also was offered.

BANKERS WILL TEST
STATE'S RIGHT TO TAKE
"SLEEPING" FUNDS

Louisville, Ky.—Kentucky bankers today planned a court test of a new state law giving the commonwealth power to take over unclaimed deposits, stocks, dividends and similar "sleeping" funds.

The Louisville Clearing House Association and Kentucky Bankers Association, bankers and attorneys plan to confer at Frankfort soon with Attorney General Hubert Meredith and officials of the Revenue Department.

State bankers contended the law is unconstitutional and hope to secure such a ruling at the Frankfort conference.

Should they fail, said Lee P. Miller, banker and head of the jurisprudence committee of the two organizations, a test case probably would be filed in Franklin Circuit Court. Miller said about 300 state banks have joined the Louisville groups in attacking the law.

222 Lake St. — Fulton, Ky.Barons Make Sweep Of Series By Winning There Last Night 11-9

Bowling Green, Ky.—Bob Duncan's eighth inning homer with the sacks crammed proved to be the margin of victory as Bowling Green scored its tenth win in eleven games by downing Fulton 11-9 in the series final last night.

Although he was touched for 15 hits, Southpaw Elmer Haas went the route for the Barons to hang up his eighteenth victory of the season.

Joe Lehan, Baron second sacker, homered with the sacks loaded in the third stanza, and Lloyd Heitman, shortstop, hit for the circuit with one on in the fifth.

Jesh, Fulton first sacker, hit the Tiger's only four-bagger in the fifth with two mates on base.

A Fulton rally was nipped in the ninth after the Tigers had scored three runs and had the tying run on base.

"CLEAR SAILING"

In the old days the ancient captain realized the danger that lay outside the true course; so he kept to the deep waters for clear sailing.

This month we launch out on our 33rd. year in milling here in Fulton. We have endeavored to keep to the "true course" of Honesty, Friendly Service and Fair Dealings . . . and as a result we have enjoyed comparatively "Clear Sailing" during the past 32 years.

Again, let us insist that you stick to Browder's Flour . . . There's always clear sailing ahead.
