Chamber of Commerce Banquet Jan. 24

At a meeting recently held by our newly elected Board of Directors it was unanimously agreed that an intensive drive be launched for an increase in membership of our Chamber of Commerce. On Tuesday night, January 24, the Usona Hotel a delightful banquet and get-together meeting will be held.

For many years we have had an organization under the name of a Chamber of Commerce, but sorry to say that the name was the largest thing about it but last year the old town got in earnest and re-organized the institution and the results from our efforts have been so very gratifying that we are now encouraged to continue the fight with increased enthusiasm, and we are sure that when the situation receives proper consideration a tremendous increase in membership will be easily attained.

For many years and up until the present time for the most part the membership body was made up of firms and professional business men, but it is the intention from here on to enlist every salaried man to join our ranks and put on a solid front for a bigger Fulton. It is nothing but fair play to ask the salaried man to help Fulton grow, a bigger Fulton, with a bigger and better business will automatically mean more and bigger salaries for our salaried people and will also make more tolerable conditions for the unemployed.

WHAT WE ACTUALLY OWE OUR FAMILIES

We owe to our families a bigger monthly income and there is no better way to develop a bigger income than to first do our part to make conditions justifiable through which bigger incomes may also be made possible. The man in business is now bending his every energy to provide our city with bigger and better schools, bigger and better churches, better streets and community highways and many other comforts which are essential to modern conveniences and the salaried man seems to feel justifiable to stand idly by and excuse himself by saying that I am not a business man and have nothing to sell or any property that will be increased. When, in fact, he has just as much interest in Fulton as any other man according to investment, in that he has his time invested in the city and his time is the entire representation of his wealth and is his entire source of income and unless he does his bit to make his time more valuable to his employer he has no reason to hope for a bigger and better future.

WHOSE JOB IS IT TO SEE THAT FULTON GROWS?

It is not my job nor your job, Mr. Salaried man, to see that Fulton is made a better town, but it is our job—a job for every one of us, both financially and morally. The growth and future development of our city solely depends upon the natural law of service and that rendered equally according to financial and moral ability.

Man's first duty is to his loved ones and he should at all times be prudent and judicious in his conduct, in that he should not lavish his money on any one thing or put all of his eggs in one basket. It is far better to allow the kiddies and Misses to go in need of a few luxuries and lend your moral support to the welfare of your city, that they may have a more tolerable place in which to live and that your salary may automatically be increased through the natural law of progress. Let's all get in the harness and help George to pull the old wagon out of the mire and all be happy together. Let's all stand squarely behind the Chamber of Commerce during 1928 and if things go all wrong we will be in position to know exactly what is wrong with Fulton.

ODDFELLOWS BANQUET

The local order of Oddfellows held an informal banquet last Thursday night in their lodge rooms on the third floor of the City Hall. Quite a number of the members of the local lodge, together with their visiting friends, were present to enjoy the social feature of the evening.

At the conclusion of some degree work of the order, which was presided over by Noble Grand Witherspoon, the entire company assembled in the main lodge room and enjoyed a real musical treat given by a large collection of musicians, there being some three or four gifted violin leads, accompanied by guitars, banjo, mandolin, piano and bass, making in all quite a strong orchestra. The music consisted mainly of old familiar numbers—the kind that has plenty of "pep" and spirit, and each rendition was approved by a profusion of applause.

In the meantime several lady friends of the order had spread a most bountiful supper in the front room of the building to which the entire gathering was invited and thoroughly enjoyed. Following the supper several musical numbers were given by the band. The program of the evening was concluded by a brief, but forceful, address by Mr. Witherspoon, touching on the merits and progress of the order, and the entertainment as a whole was a most enjoyable event.

Whitesell Hatchery Attracting Attention

The poultry industry in Fulton and vicinity is rapidly developing into gigantic proportions. The ideal location and many other attractive conditions here is a great incentive for lovers of poultry to launch into the business, not solely for the money there is in it, but for the pleasure it creates. Had this not been true, Hunter Whitesell, of Union City would have never given up the banking business to come to Fulton and engage in the chicken industry. Located in one of the most ideal spots in this entire section of country, Mr. Whitesell is operating a 4,000 capacity egg hatchery and associated with him is an expert from the University Experimental station.

Mr. Whitesell started his hatchery business last year after devoting much time and study to the industry and already his shipments of eggs to New York has brought 14 cents per dozen above market price. There is a reason. He understands the marketing of his products and ships only eggs that attract attention of critical inspectors.

Reared in luxury with every advantage that loving parents could give, young Whitesell soon tired of handling money in his father's banking establishment and is now doing the thing he likes. It is the sort of thing that encourages a smile on the face, a song in the heart and a kindly word for his fellows.

Mr. Whitesell has started in a small way, so he says, but the writer predicts that before long the beautiful Whitesell place in the suburbs of Fulton on State Line road, with its hundreds of acres, will be alive with chickens and a 50,000 egg capacity hatchery operated by electricity and steam.

Hunter Whitesell is a young man filled with energy and alive to the great possibilities of the poultry industry. Again, he is attentive to business and a gentleman of pleasing personality.

Upset

GARDEN AND CHICKENS

When the warm southern breezes begin to blow, and the days begin to get longer, ninety per cent of the population begins to think and plan about their garden, and their chickens. Either one is a good thing to think about, that is if you will put your thoughts into action.

Now if you are thinking about chickens, that is what interests me. In the common everyday words, "Chickens won't get you nowhere," but if you want to succeed, try poultry. There are enough breeds of poultry to satisfy any fancy. If you want to go in for eggs try the Mediterranean breeds; if you settle on meat, try the Asiatic or English breeds, but if you want both eggs and meat, you want to pick the American breeds. The American breeds embrace about twenty-five different birds to pick from. First there is the Plymouth Rock, which is divided into Barred, Buff Partridge, White Silver Pencilled and Columbian; Wyandottes are divided into Silver-laced, Golden-laced, White, Buff, Partridge, Black and Columbian; Rhode Island Reds are single and rose combs, Jersey Giants, Buckeyes, Black Javas and Rhode Island Whites. These are all good breeds and will furnish you with all the eggs you will want for your own use and some to sell. And when you kill one of these birds you have SOME meat.

The Mediterranean breeds consist of the Leghorns, Minorcas, Anconas, Blue Andalusians and the Black Spanish, these are all heavy layers and stand confinement well. The Asiatics are divided into 3 breeds, Cochins, Brahmas and Langshans, of which the two last named ones are the favorites. They are big meaty birds and under proper care and feeding they will lay as well as most breeds.

The English comprise the following breeds, Orpingtons, Cornish Sussex and Chanticleer. The Orpingtons and Cornish are the most popular of the English breeds.

Then there are several ornamental breeds that are bred more for the oddity of their plumage than for eggs or meat, although they will surprise you what they will do in a season's time for the egg basket.

I have explained these different breeds so that if you have the chicken fever, get poultry. The big markets discriminate against the southern chicken about four or five cents per

WALSH ASSEMBLES STRONG CAST FOR "LOVES OF CARMEN"

Stellar dignity is extremely apparent in the long list of brilliant screen luminaries portraying the principal roles in "Loves of Carmen," Fox Films screen adaptation of the widely known opera "Carmen," which was produced under the direction of Raoul Walsh, maker of "What Price Glory?"

Heading the cast is Victor McLaglen, whose recent characterization of Captain Flag firmly established him as one of the most talented players appearing before the camera. In this picture the stalwart actor portrays the role of Escamillo.

In the pivotal feminine role is Dolores Del Rio, who, like-wise, won millions of admirers because of her portrayal of Charmaine in "What Price Glory?" Miss Del Rio is seen as Carmen, a role which fits her fiery temperament as naturally as old lace fits lavender.

Don Jose is characterized by Don Alvarado, a young screen player who has risen to the front ranks with amazing rapidity. Alvarado's Spanish ancestry admirably coincides with the screen role.

Nancy Nash, who plays Michaela has been featured in Fox features and is recognized as one of filmdom's shining lights. Ben Bard, Mathilde Comont, Jack Bastian and Ralph Sipperly are other established players who portray important roles in the picture.

"Loves of Carmen" comes to the Orpheum theatre Monday and Tuesday, January 23 and 24.

pound, the reason being that the south has not standardized their flocks. This amounts to several thousand dollars each year, which would be poured into southern coffers if everybody would raise poultry instead of chickens.

1927 TOBACCO PRICES BETTER

Growers to Have Larger Income Despite Smaller Production

Tobacco growers the past year, with 46,200 acres less tobacco than they had in 1926, will receive approximately $34,000,000 more for their crop than was realized from the crop of 1926, according to preliminary estimates of tobacco by types, just prepared by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. These figures indicate that the average return per acre to tobacco growers increased from $143 in 1926 to $168 in 1927.

KENTUCKIANS TO MEET

Sixteenth Farm and Home Session at Lexington

The year's most important statewide gathering of farm men and women, the sixteenth annual Kentucky Farm and Home Convention, will be held at Lexington, January 24-27.

There will be a four-day program, beginning Tuesday and ending Friday, when farmers and their wives and others directly interested in agriculture and home-making will consider their problems.

Several nationally known men and women will speak, as well as a dozen Kentuckians who have made a success of farming. There will be separate sessions for men and women, with special meetings for poultry keepers, dairy farmers, sheep raisers and veterinarians.

KILLED IN FALL FROM TRESTLE

W. H. Hutson, 49, Carlisle county farmer, was instantly killed and G. B. Denton, 20, also a farmer, was perhaps fatally injured five miles north of Bardwell, Saturday night between 9 and 9:30 o'clock when they fell from a forty foot railroad trestle.

Denton, Hutson and Hutson's son left Bardwell to go to Wickliffe. They reached the Mayfield creek and the ferry had discontinued runs for the night. They left their car parked and started to walk the remaining distance along the railroad tracks. As they were crossing a railroad trestle, Denton lost his balance and fell. Hutson started to his aid, lost his balance and fell. Both men fell about 40 feet to the ground beneath. Hutson's neck was broken.

Hutson is survived by three daughters, all of Detroit, and two sons, of Bardwell.

It will be remembered that Hutson won the National Championship for growing corn.

and a teacher in the Young Men's Bible Class. His class mates attended in a body.

The passing of Morman Daniel has caused a feeling of gloom and sadness over the city of Fulton, the counties of Hickman and Fulton, and the entire state.

Services will be held at the Methodist Church Sunday and a Sunday School room dedicated to the departed.

A Tragic Loss.

Representative Morman B. Daniel's sudden and inexplicable death was to us profoundly tragic. No young man in public life in Kentucky had greater promise of a long and useful career than he. It is a great pity that death struck him down at twenty-six when he had barely started his career.

Daniel's record as a student in the College of Law at the University of Kentucky marked him an exceptional, as a young man of flaming ambition, willing and able to endure any hardship and any labor to achieve what he thought to be worthwhile. He went to Lexington with three dollars in his pocket and worked as waiter, paper carrier and janitor to defray the cost of his schooling. And so great was his industry that he not only paid for his education, but saved $3,000 by the time he was ready to be graduated in 1925. He had been out of school only a few months when the people of Hickman and Fulton counties demonstrated their appreciation of his worth by electing him to the House. He was in Frankfort serving his second term in the House when he died.

Despite his youth Daniel immediately attained to a position of prominence in the assembly, and had the Beckham faction of the Democratic party been in power, would probably have been elected speaker of the house at this session. He was also attracting attention as a prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress in the ensuing year. In his death the whole of west Kentucky as well as the counties of Hickman and Fulton, has suffered a great loss. Had he lived he might have won a position in state politics that would have shed luster on his home district. Paducah News-Democrat.

GRISSOM-THOMPSON

A marriage of interest to their many friends took place in this city Sunday morning at the home of Rev. A. N. Walker when Miss Ora Grissom was happily united in marriage to Mr. Lewis Thompson, the Rev. Walker officiating.

The bride is the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Grissom of west of town. The groom is the son of Mrs. Tom Thompson, of Route 6. Both are popular young people in their respective communities and have a wide circle of friends who extend congratulations and best wishes for a long life of wedded bliss.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left with Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Davis, who were their attendants at the ceremony, for Murray, where they will spend a few days' visit. On their return, they will be at home with the groom's mother.

High School Notes

Last Wednesday at the regular chapel period, Mr. Myers made several announcements about the final examinations which will be given Thursday and Friday of this week.

Thursday, the Elks' Orchestra, known as the "Kentucky Moonshiners," rendered a delightful musical program, after which Mr. Speed of Louisville gave a most interesting address entitled "Keep Your Eyes Wide Open." Mr. Franklin and Mr. Motley were pleasant visitors.

Friday morning Mrs. Sharples, International Secretary of the World's Purity Federation gave a much appreciated address to the girls of the school. Monday morning, Mr. Collins, of the Kentucky Orphan's Home made an interesting address and asked the students to bring some money to help the home. Tuesday, Mr. Myers made a very interesting talk on the life of Nicola Uagininii, the famous master violinist.

The F. H. S. basketball boys met Cayce High school here Friday night and defeated them 24 to 4. Saturday night the Fulton team lost to Clinton. The score was 14-8.

The final examinations for the first semester will be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

A most unusual thing occurred last week. Mr. Myers received a letter from the football coach of Sturgis, Ky., forfeiting their game of October 15, with Fulton, of which they were the winners, to Fulton. In looking over the records, it was found that one of their players was twenty-one years old. Immediately he was taken off the team and we received the letter, giving the game to Fulton. This was a most unusual case of honesty and was appreciated very much.

POLITICIANS ARE BUSY

Smith-Moody Team Murmurs Continue to Gain at Austin.

Austin, Texas.—A suppressed whisper—"Al and Dan"—which ran through the capitol after the Democratic party had selected Houston as its convention city, grew Friday figuratively pronounced to a mutter with no one prominent willing, however, to identify his voice in the babble.

The general belief—conveyed months ago, first as a rumor—that Governor Dan Moody might be the vice presidential nominee on the same ticket with Governor Al Smith of New York as the presidential choice, grew generally.

Those in position to predict reliably, however, drew back into the shells of silence they created for themselves Thursday.

Moody Formidable

The general theory was that Moody, a Protestant, a Mason, a "dry" and said to be unusually popular, would and will make a formidable running mate for Smith, Catholic and reputedly "damp." The fact that the party "brought the convention to Houston" was taken to mean that the party wanted to line up Texas for Smith and that Moody, in home territory, will be nominated to go with him.

State Senators A. J. Wirtz, Seguin and A. E. Wood, Granger, although declining to discuss the political question involved, declared that the Texas delegation now more than ever must be sent uninstructed as a "courtesy" if for no other reason.

This statement, coming from two men who have conceded differences in politics, was regarded as significant in that an uninstructed delegation has been interpreted to mean a delegation at least not set against Smith.

Dry Truce Seen

More than one prominent man in state politics declared the nomination of Smith and Moody almost is a certainty. They saw in such a move a truce with what they said to be "bone dry" South.

Some of Moody's closest friends—among them being administration appointees—who heretofore had not held with the belief that he is going into the national spotlight became converted Friday.

Meanwhile, visitors took interest in the business. W. H. Webb of the Chicago auxiliary educational league, predicted Moody or Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio as the vice presidential nominee.

W. C. T. U. Plans Fight.

Published reports from Austin of weeks ago that Moody had been "felt out" by an emissary of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, Smith enthusiast, again were called despite the fact that the governor at that time issued a categorical denial.

Majority opinion on another issue in the question—whether Moody would "take it" if tendered—held that he would.

From the Texas Women's Christian Temperance Union as presided over by Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, state president, there came no statement Friday but one Thursday said that the women of the W. C. T. U. will march on Houston with a vociferous "anti-Smith, anti-wet" campaign and that, furthermore, the Texas W. C. T. U. would vote Republican if a "moist" Democrat were nominated.

JESUS AND THE LAW

GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 2:15-16. "I am come to destroy the law, of the prophets. I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill."

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing Good on the Lord's Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Use the Lord's Day.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Obedied the Law.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Declares the Highest Law.

I. Jesus and Fasting (vv. 18-22).
1. The questions asked (v. 18).
The Pharisees and pharisees seeing Jesus eating with the publicans and sinners, raised the question as to why He did so. When Jesus heard their question He declared, "They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick." Another question was then asked as to why Christ's disciples did not fast when the disciples of John and of the pharisees did fast? John the Baptist was now in prison, therefore his disciples were mourning for him.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 19, 20).
In explanation He raised the question, "Can the children of the bride-chamber fast while the bridegroom is with them?" He then declared that as long as they have the bridegroom with them they cannot fast. The time will come, however, when they would fast. He is now away. Fasting, therefore, is appropriate.

3. New wine in old bottles (vv. 21, 22).

The bottles mentioned here were made of skins of animals. In the fermentation of the wine there was expansion which stretched the skin. To put new wine in the bottle after it was stretched would cause it to burst and ruin the wine. The same thing in principle would be realized if new cloth were used on old garments. The teaching designed was to show the foolishness of imposing old customs on the new age.

II. The Disciples Plucking Ears of Corn on the Sabbath (Mark 2:23-28).

1. The charge made against the disciples (vv. 23, 24).

Perhaps they were on their way to the synagogue to worship when they plucked the ears of corn. For this act the pharisees accused them of lawlessness.

2. Jesus defends them against the charge (vv. 25-28).

(1) He cites a precedent (vv. 25, 26). He showed them that the very law which they charged the disciples with breaking recorded the fact that David the great king of Israel had gone into the house of God and eaten the bread which should be eaten only by the priests.

(2) He shows the nature of a Sabbath law (v. 27).

The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is to be determined by the good of man. The laws of honesty, truth, purity and love differ from the law of the Sabbath and there is no circumstance or condition under which they may be departed from.

(3) Jesus is the Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28).

It was He who instituted it when creation was finished, therefore He had a right to use it as it pleased Him for man's good.

III. Jesus Healing a Man's Withered Hand on the Sabbath (2:1-6).

1. The place—the synagogue (v. 1).

Jesus' example shows what He did on the Sabbath. He went to the place of worship. The presence of the man with a withered hand gave Jesus an opportunity to administer a rebuke to the pharisees.

2. The pharisees watching (v. 2).

They knew that Jesus would be interested in this helpless man. They surmised that some work would have to be performed to heal him.

3. The man made an example (v. 3).

Jesus wanted the case to be open to all, so He commanded the man to stand forth where all could see him.

4. The question asked (v. 4).

"Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath day, or to do evil, to save life, or to kill?" He made the issue clear: He plainly showed them that to fail to do good, to show works of mercy to save life, is to be guilty of wrong doing, even of murder.

5. The man healed (v. 5).

Christ healed him by speaking the Word, so they could not accuse Him.

6. The result (vv. 4, 6).

The pharisees were silenced. There was no ground upon which to accuse Him. But since their hearts were bent upon His destruction they sought how they might put Him to death.

"Electricity!—Man's Greatest Benefactor"

Says JAMES J. DAVIS
Secretary, U. S. Department of Labor

"The electric light and power companies have performed a notable service in bringing electric power to every kind of mill and factory, and in adapting it to every phase of industry. It has eliminated unwholesome and backbreaking tasks. It has made for better labor conditions, because it has enabled the worker to produce more and the employer to pay him more."

THE DAY'S WORK

The man who does the day's work with a song on his lips and a smile on his face, though he may not be rewarded commensurate with his labor, gets an immense amount of satisfaction out of life.

A case in point is found in the life of a street sweeper in a neighboring city, who died recently. His good traits, though appreciated by a few and casually commented on, were never fully recognized until death deprived the public of a loyal and deserving servant.

Though engaged in menial labor, he gave it as much attention and thought as the high priced executive entrusted with the management of large business enterprises. He never complained when conditions made his work hard. He never watched the time to make certain that he did not work more than the stipulated number of hours.

His pride in his job and the appearance of his community was of such a high order that he frequently worked on Saturday night or early Sunday morning in order to have the streets in the business section of the city clean and orderly on Sunday when strangers were passing through.

He possessed a trait that was most commendable — finding pleasure in doing his work right. To him it was not an ordinary job, to be dealt with in a haphazard fashion, but a profession deserving of the best efforts he could put into it.

More men with the same sort of ideals with respect to their jobs would make this a better and more livable world. He should be an example to the people who try to "get by" in the easiest way possible. His rewards were small in a financial way, but he himself had the satisfaction of knowing that he was doing his work well—as good as it was humanly possible for it to be done.

No person could ask for a finer benediction at the end of the road on earth, than that he did his work well, regardless of what his duties might call for. There are doubtless other men who are equally as conscientious in performing their daily tasks. They are known only to their employers and their intimate friends. They may not be receiving the rewards they are entitled to, but they have a peace of mind that comes from the knowledge that they have met the obligations which life here has imposed upon them.

SOMETHING WRONG

Many reasons have been given for the steady decline in voting but the chief reason is not hard to find. The apathy of the voters has increased in proportion as the partisanship and interest in party principles among the voters has decreased. In other words, as our party spirit declines, and our people have put before them personalities instead of principles, the interest in voting subsides.

Many of our older voters can well remember the days when party spirit ran high. There was interest in the principles of the two great political organizations. The voters discussed these principles, argued them back and forth, and then when election day rolled around they came out and voted their convictions at the polls.

Then came the day of the primary. Principles were lost sight of and the personality of the various candidates became the interesting issue, not only in the primary, but in the election too. The whole basis of our elections changed. Instead of voting for principles we began voting for the fellow who had the best voice, the fellow who talked the loudest or the fellow who promised us the most—and generally delivered the least.

As a result our political campaigns, primary and general, began to be filled with bitter personalities, with petty bickerings of a personal nature. Instead of one election every two years we began to have four or five, most of them full of bitter personal quarrels. Our political demoralization became complete and remains that way. If you don't believe this just look over the present situation in some of our chief governing bodies and become convinced.

As a result a great many people have become disgusted and have formed the habit, in increasing numbers, of washing their hands of the whole political situation and remaining away from the polls. Unfortunately the people most easily disgusted with politics are people of the conservative or constructive type of mind, with the result that the political atmosphere has suffered accordingly.

The real reason therefore for the apathy among the voters is the substitution of political personality and demagoguery for political principle, a condition which the party primary has been the chief factor in bringing about.

WOODMEN LOSE FIGHT AGAINST PAYING POLICY

Rehearing is Denied in Case Where Man is Declared Legally Dead After a Seven-Year Absence.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 15.—A special supreme court, denied the Sovereign Camp, Woodmen of the World, a rehearing Friday in the society's losing fight against payment of the $1,000 policy of Thomas Boden, Tarrant county, who disappeared in 1915 and has been found "legally dead" by a jury.

The case, in which regular supreme court members were disqualified, was taken to the highest court to determine questions on which the various courts of civil appeals in Texas have differed.

A decision favoring Mrs. Mary Boden, "widow" of the disappeared man, who was clerk of the Fort Worth Woodman camp, was rendered by the special supreme court some weeks ago. It upheld her right to wait seven years before filing suit. Elapse of this period gave her legal presumption that her husband was dead and the jury held that he was dead before his insurance lapsed. The society held that she should have filed suit within four years.

Joe H. Eagle, of Houston was chief justice of the special supreme court. Special associated justices were Maury Hughes of Dallas and Elmer Graham of Houston.

Your Suit and Overcoat need the Wrinkles taken out

You know what a beauty shop can do for faces—how it can remove wrinkles from cheeks and crow's feet from eyes. But did you ever visit a "beauty shop for suits"—a modern dry cleaning and sanitary pressing establishment? Here, again, is a "fountain of youth"—this time for clothes.

For example, take one of your own suits to the O. K. Steam Laundry—one you've worn often. If it's a light suit, the grime is plainly visible at collar and cuffs; perhaps there is a bit of grease on it from your car. If the suit is dark, the dirt may not show—but it's there. One cannot ride in automobiles and taxis, and not gather dirt.

But see what your dry cleaner, the O. K. Laundry, can do for this suit.

First, it is tumbled in warm, drying air; the moisture is removed, the dust shaken out, obstinate spots loosened. An expert "spotter" then goes over the garment by hand—stains and spots vanish before his skill. Next, the suit is soured gently, thoroughly, back and forth, in the purest of cleaning fluids. Soil embedded in the fabric is filtered out; grime and grease are dissolved away. After most of the moisture has been whirled out, the suit is carefully dried in a breeze of fresh, warm, sterile air, then with the warm air sifting thru it, it is fluffed softly. The nap comes to life, the cloth becomes fresh and smart again.

Nor is this dry cleaning "magic" limited to men's suits and overcoats. Hats and gloves, women's coats, suits, dresses and blouses, children's clothes—almost every article of wearing apparel can be given this same renewing, refreshing treatment. And how much longer clothes wear when they receive it. Truly dry cleaning pays its own bills.

Of course, we make a specialty of dry cleaning draperies, rugs, etc. Don't overlook this

If Every Citizen In Fulton Were Just Like Me, What Kind of a City would Fulton Be?

The above question is an adage of old, but to us it is a question of prime importance. For all the many years we have for the most part been cut off from the outer world because of inadequate highway transportation facilities, but today we find ourselves neatly nestled upon the ringside of two of the major highway trunk lines which form one of the great gateways to the New South. They also provide us with direct connection to the great metropolitan centers of the middle west.

Our little city is just one of the many show windows along the great thoroughfares of common traffic, not that little sleeping village town in the remote regions of West Kentucky of 1920, but a nice and modern little city sitting in the limelight of the balance of the big and busy world of 1928 where thousands and thousands of strange faces will view us each year as they pass over the great traffic arteries from north to south from east to west viewing the Mammoth Cave and other scenic beauties to be seen in the blue grass regions of Kentucky.

So great has been the transformation that some of us can hardly realize the present status of our own community. Are we keeping step with progress? The question squarely confronts us, and as for some of us we may well answer in the affirmative, while to some of us we must admit that the little village town has actually outgrown us, in that it has passed from the little sleeping village into a modern little city and we find ourselves the same old characters of some 15 years ago. We have not done anything in particular to help bring about the great transformation, it has largely been thrust upon us by a more progressive element while we sit supinely by and occasionally whittled and criticised those who worked and sacrificed their time and means to make certain improvements possible.

Just How Big Do You Want Fulton to Be?

The question now comes to you and me: Just how big do we want Fulton to be? We may feel assured that it will be just as big as we want it to be, and we can also rest assured that it will be just as big as its citizenship, but never any bigger and never any better; no city or country will ever be any larger or any more handsome than the people who live within, this is clearly proven by Bible history of the country of Sodom and other fallen countries.

How Shall We Correctly Determine the Wealth of a City? Some people judge the wealth of a city by its population, miles of concrete or paved streets and its schools, churches, water and light powers and monthly payrolls of its great factories. These are the tangible properties, but an inventory of any city is incomplete until we make a careful survey of the intangible properties, our great factories with their huge monthly payrolls, our big financial institutions with huge deposits are only a small part of our wealth, our money is only a medium of exchange for our goods, wares and commercial dealings, the greatest and most desirable properties are found in our intangible channels, such as our individual and combined intelligence, our ever forward looking wisdom with its cooperative capacity, its intramural and extramural good will, its psychological stability which radiates daily and does an important part to stamp out evil, helps to lower the index crime of our city. Its great research capacity to remove ignorance and fill the space with intelligence, remove waste and create wealth, remove laziness and create industry, remove hatred and jealousy and develop good will and friendly relationship.

Scientific Efficiency

What has no doubt created more wealth, health and happiness during the last score years than any other American agency is the great powers of research efficiency and those of us who endeavor to transform our idleness of thought into the channels of a research frame of mind are best able to truly appreciate its great values socially, commercially and otherwise, which have come therefrom to bless our people with a new volume of health, wealth and commercial prosperity.

We use for a convenient illustration the Armour Packing Company, through their great laboratories of research efficiency we find that what was once the filth, garbage and waste matters are now transformed into millions of dollars worth of valuable and essential products, such as fine oils, lubricants, soaps and valuable chemicals. This is no doubt true in all of the great manufacturing institutions. The stumbling block finally became the head or corner stone. The by-products are daily being transformed into the most essential of commercial commodities. If this be true in the commercial world why should it not be true in the human channels of life.

Are You a By-Product?

No man would care to be asked the humiliating question, but just so sure as you are not serving your community to the extent of your capacity there is a certain portion of you that must be classed as waste matter and by-product. Are you not willing to be transformed into a valuable substance? If you are doing nothing but supporting yourself you are a complete mass of by-product and waste matter and an out and out debtor to the community in which you live. Awake the spirit which now sleepeth; join the Chamber of Commerce and help George hold the torch and carry the flag that leads onward and upward to a greater Fulton.

VERY EASY TO MEET ST. PETER

Use No Chains, Only One Headlight and Speed on Slippery Streets

The recipe for meeting Saint Peter? Here it is: Take any fool, add plain packass ignorance and a motor car; soak the fool well in his own ego, place in the car and let go. After due time remove and set in a satin-lined receptacle and garnish with flowers.

But the fool grins at advice and offers the following tips to those who wish to pass through the Pearly Gates:

Always drive fast and never sound your horn when leaving an alley. Race with locomotives when approaching a grade crossing. Engineers like it, as it breaks the monotony of their jobs. Take the shortest route around blind left-hand curves. Let the other fellow watch out for himself. Never look around when you back up, as there is never anyone behind you. Always speed. It distinguishes you as a driver of pep.

Drive fast on wet pavements and never use nonskid chains. There is always something to stop you—often a heavy truck or a strong curb. Drive just as if there weren't twenty million other cars in service. In wet weather always drive in trolley tracks. It's smooth going and out of the mud. Always lock your brakes and weed chains in the tool box when skidding. It makes the job more artistic.

In sloppy weather drive close to the curb and splash pedestrians. Dry cleaners appreciate it. Always use a cutout. Snappy drivers always do, and sick people love it. Never sound your horn on the road, but save it for late at night as a door bell. In this way you will be sure to get attention from mothers of sleeping children.

When driving at night make sure one of your headlights is out. This makes people think you are Dead Eye Dick, which greatly enhances your safety. When stopping for traffic signals, always inch onto the pedestrian's right of way, and ways make your "horseshoe" turns at intersections where the traffic is heaviest.

The fool grins. That same grin is on his face when, later, he is hurried to the morgue—only then the grin is more horrible.

WHIPPET PRICE CUT STARTLES INDUSTRY

John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Incorporated, made a characteristic move this week when he dropped the prices on the Whippet by a larger margin than has ever been made on a light car by any manufacturer in one move before. The new prices bring the Whippet into direct competition with the lowest-priced car on the market.

Willys announces that his organization is in a position to produce at as low a cost as any manufacturer in the industry. General opinion in the industry is that the light car market is now wide open to the strongest bidder and that quality and performance will set the lead in volume output.

The new Whippet shows a body design on the inclosed models which incorporates the latest cadet type of sun visor, contrasting window reveals which adds materially to the appearance of the body, remote door controls, following the latest developments in convenience in opening the doors, and entirely new pressed steel fenders, wider than hitherto used and of the full crown type.

The headlights have been raised and mounted on a new one-piece cross member, adding to the appearance of size.

New equipment includes an automatic windshield wiper, rear vision mirror and stop light at the rear in combination with the rear driving light.

STRAWBERRY MEN MEET

McCracken County Farmers Convene in Annual Session

Nearly 600 strawberry growers of McCracken and adjacent western Kentucky counties thronged the McCracken County courthouse Saturday for the annual meeting of the McCracken County Growers' Association. Not more than half the number could crowd their way into the circuit courtroom, where the meeting was held.

Election of three directors of the association and outlining of plans for the 1928 berry season marked the session. The retiring members of the board of directors all were re-elected. They were S. C. Magruder, F. D. Gipson and L. R. Wren.

Officers of the association were re-elected at a meeting of directors which followed immediately the general meeting of growers. Those selected were L. R. Wren, president; S. C. Magruder, vice-president, and E. S. Barger, secretary.

REOPENING OF HATCHERY

During the middle part of last spring a hatchery was put into operation here and advertised under the name of the Fulton Hatchery, under my management.

A competitive hatchery, a branch of one already operating in Mayfield, which is to open here soon under the management of Mr. Will Foster, of this city, has been advertising under the name of the Fulton Hatchery also. Taking the altruistic viewpoint on the matter, I have decided that they may use that name if they wish to do so, and until they have definitely decided I shall operate under the name of the Whitesell hatchery.

My place of business is the same as last year, the old Whitesell farm about one mile west of Fulton on the State Line road.

Two weeks ago our competitors advertised under our name to hatch eggs at 4c each, while last year and this year I understand they have been charging their customers at Mayfield, $3.50 for a tray of 98 eggs. My prices this year will be 3 1/2c per egg. For community and large hatches, a further reduction will be made.

This year I shall handle all breeds of baby chicks at low prices consistent with quality.

I start hatching January 16. Notify me as soon as possible for reservations. Cumberland telephone 259.

Associated with me this year will be a graduate of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture, the owner and operator of the first mammoth incubator in Western Kentucky, who has made extensive study of incubation and breeding problems, and who has also had much practical experience. Last year many calls came for advice from those who were having trouble in their flocks. Our policy is to make no charge for this service and it will be given you gladly regardless of where you trade.
