JEFFERSON SANDERS INSTANTLY KILLED BY BOILER EXPLOSION.

Was a Son of John S. Sanders, of New Concord, and Was Well Known Here.

Information was received here the first of the week giving a brief announcement of the death of Jefferson Sanders, a son of J. S. Sanders, of near New Concord, and which occurred in Oklahoma. Sanders left here about a year ago and was employed as a fireman on the Santa Fe railway. He was about 20 years of age and was a nephew of J. D. Rowlett, of this city.

The remains were brought to this place, arriving here Thursday night, and were taken to New Concord for burial.

The only particulars regarding the accident is contained in the following news item:

Woodward, Okla., Dec. 7.—W. H. Ellis, engineer, and Jefferson Sanders, fireman, in charge of a Santa Fe engine, were instantly killed near here yesterday, when the engine boiler exploded. The body of Ellis was thrown 450 feet high, evidently being driven through the roof of the cab, the head being crushed beyond recognition. He was thrown sixty yards. Ellis lived in Iowa, and Sanders in Kentucky. The cause of the explosion is believed to have been the failure of the injectors to work. The engine was a model.

DO YOU GIVE US?

It is the time of year when we expect those who are due us on subscription to pay the claims. We are going to ask our patrons to bear this in mind and come in and settle at the first opportunity. The individual claim is small but several thousand makes a big item. We have endeavored to print a paper, worth the price, and whether you regard it or not it cost us the $1 to print it and you owe it and the payment should be promptly made. Don't put it off. Help us to get in shape to do the Santa Claus act.

Christmas shopping is a pleasure to nearly everyone. In a town the size of Murray it does not necessarily mean a rush or jam or crowd, but regardless and in order that store keepers and clerks might wait upon all in a pleasing and satisfactory way, the sensible thing to do is to begin as early as possible. The townspeople should take advantage of the early morning and late afternoon and evening hours to do their trading, thereby permitting the country people to have more of the merchant's attention during the remaining trading hours.

LUTHER FARMER'S HOME AND CONTENTS BURNED.

The home of Luther Farmer, who lives about four miles southeast of Murray, was destroyed by fire Monday morning about five o'clock together with the entire contents. The fire originated from a flue in the kitchen and gained such headway, filling the entire building with dense smoke that it was impossible to save anything from the flames.

The building and contents were insured for $700, while Mr. Farmer's loss will be a much larger figure.

Alone in Saw Mill at Midnight

Unmindful of Dampness, drafts, storms or cold, W. J. Atkins worked as night watchman, at Banner Springs, Tenn. Such exposure gave him a severe cold that settled on his lungs. At last he had to give up work. He tried many remedies, but all failed till he used Dr. King's New Discovery. After using one bottle he writes, "I went back to work as well as ever." Severe colds, stubborn coughs, inflamed throats and sore lungs, hemorrhages, croup and whooping cough get quick relief and prompt cure from this glorious medicine. 50c and $1.00. S. HIGGINS, THE JEWELER, BEAUTIFUL HOLIDAY GOODS.

A look into S. Higgins' place of business is sufficient evidence that the holidays are at hand. His store building has been artistically repainted inside and outside, and the handsomest line of goods ever brought to Murray is now being opened for display. Mr. Higgins has always carried a splendid, artistic and tasty display of goods in the past, but his purchase this season exceeds by far lines before shown by him. The full line will be ready for inspection within a few days, and Christmas shoppers will be delighted and profited by visiting his store. The public is invited to examine his line and, of course the early buyers get the choice of selections.

When Clothing Caught Fire She Jumped Into Bed Smothering the Flames.

Benton, Ky., Dec. 7.—Jumping into a bed and covering herself with bed clothing, Mrs. Boone Reed saved her life yesterday when her dress caught fire from an open grate. Before the flames were smothered she received burns about the neck and back, but the injuries are not serious.

Mrs. Reed was at home with her children. While standing in front of the fire she turned and her dress was swept over the fire and caught. She ran into the hall and cried for help, but with presence of mind, she ran back into the room and jumped into the bed, drawing the cover up. After the flames were smothered Mrs. Reed telephoned for a physician.

Boone Reed is a son of Circuit Judge Reed and wife, and Mrs. Reed arrived last night to attend the bedside of her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Boone Reed is a daughter of Dr. T. M. Graves, of this city, and has many friends here who will be glad to learn that her injuries are not serious.

Accidents will happen, but the most regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It soothes the pain and heals the hurts.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabatani, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebur which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of the hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe, which when left to pursue its course causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebacous matter, which latter then usually dries up and scales off.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligation or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it in Murray only at our store,—The Rexall Store. Dale & Stubblefield.

Notice.

I have sold out to another man, but I still hold the notes and accounts and will do my own collecting hoping you will call and settle with me without my writing you a personal letter or coming to see you again. Hoping you will attend to this at once I am, yours truly B. F. JOHNSON. Murray, Ky. 40

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

The skin is composed of two distinct layers. One is known as the epidermis, or outer skin, which has no fibres, and serves principally as a covering to the body, and a protection from outward dangers to the delicate flesh beneath. The other layer is known as the derma, or true skin, and is composed of elastic fibres, fat tissue, glands, lymphatics, nerves, etc. The thousands of tiny veins and arteries with which it is interbed constantly supply every fibre and tissue with healthy properties from the circulation to keep the skin smooth and perfect.

This is changed, however, when the blood becomes infected with humors, acids or impurities. Instead of constantly supplying rich, nutritive properties to the skin, the circulation deposits the acid impurity with which it is contaminated, into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation and inflammation, which splits or breaks the thin outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate and discharge upon the surface in the form of Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, etc. There is likewise a dry form of skin diseases, such as Acne, Pimples, etc. In these varieties the humor in the blood diseases and inflames the glands, hair follicles, etc., causing them to swell and protrude to the outer surface. Pimples, rashes, eruptions and like troubles, are all dependent on imperfect blood, and no one can have a good complexion, free from humiliating blemishes, unless the skin is kept healthy by good blood.

S.S.S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. It cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to normal strength, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated, inflamed and diseased by acid impurities or fiery humors, is nourished, cooled and softened by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S.S.S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and therein lies its ability to cure skin diseases. Book on Skin Diseases and medical advice free.

REAL A RELIABLE PAPER—LEDGER

THREE GOOD IDEAS

RECIPES THAT ARE MORE OR LESS OF A NOVELTY.

Mint Jelly, Properly Prepared, something the Housewife Should Never Be Without—Liver and Pepper Is a New Dish.

Mint Jelly. Genuine mint jelly that is to the taste and the eye are most desirable. The mint jelly recipe cannot be surpassed by anyone who cannot be satisfied with anything. This is a capital recipe for mint jelly. Whole cook book will have a recipe for jelly. Add two bunches of fresh green mint, wash and cut up. Later, when making the jelly and sugar had, but add enough green vegetable coloring (which can be gotten from any drug store) to give the desired color. Use the tiny wine glasses in which each guest may have an individual mold, or on the most elaborate may be decorated effectively.

Liver and Pepper—Lay some strips of fat fresh pork in a shallow earthen water dish and place over the fire until they begin to brown, add half an onion sliced, two tips peppers, also sliced (rejecting the seeds), and two pounds of fresh pig's liver, deeply washed and laid on top with more strips of pork. Broil thickly with flour and fry slowly for ten minutes, turning the meat once. Remove half a dozen carrots and cut in strips lengthwise, place these around the liver with a handful of minced parsley or celery tops and salt and sweet herbs for seasoning. Lastly add one cup of boiling water and half a glass of currant jelly; cover closely and bake in a moderate oven for 2½ hours. This makes a most savory and satisfying dish from an inexpensive piece of meat.

Squabs Stuffed with Corn—Cut the kernels of six ears of green corn, separating out all the milk, but taking care to get in none of the cob. Put into a saucepan two tablespoons of butter, a half cupful of hot water, salt and pepper to season. Cook a few moments, add one beaten egg and cook until thickened. Stuff the birds, lay in a baking pan, with a thin slice of bacon, blanketing each fat little breast, put a cupful of hot water in the pan and roast, basting frequently. This makes a delectable dish. Tinned corn can be used instead of corn on the ear when the latter is not in season.

To Save Elastic. In children's blouses which cost sometimes as much as the material of the blouse, take a piece of tape or selvy and cut a strip of the elastic one or two inches. Cut the tape in half, insert four inches of elastic, put the tape, with the elastic in the center of it, in the hem of the blouse. It will act the same as if it were all elastic and wear better. Therefore you can make six blouses with the same elastic which you would otherwise put in one blouse.

On Strips of Toast. Toast oblong strips of bread one side only. On the untoasted side of each put two large, fat, broiled oysters. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a sauce pan, add two tablespoons of grated cheese and stir until smooth. Turn this into the mixture the yolk of one egg beaten with a little cream. Season with salt and tabasco and stir until smooth. Remove from the fire and pour a little of the sauce over each oyster. Serve with rings of lemon.

Fish Left Over. Take what is left of broiled or baked fresh fish, remove the bones and skin, and warm it in hot milk enough to moisten. Turn it out on a platter. Poach three or four eggs, lay them on the fish. Mix one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a few grains of cayenne, a little salt, with two tablespoons of butter melted. Pour this evenly over the eggs, and serve at once and hot.

Collapsible Stoves. Recently one of our most fastidious young men bought a pair of overalls and found in them the name of the sewing girl who made them. The young man promptly wrote her a letter with all the effusiveness necessary in such a case and in due time received a reply, which, however, was void of the romance usual in such cases. Here it is: "I am a working girl. It is true, but I make a good living, and I do not care to support a boy, and as I would do if I married some silly soddie who gets washed on a girl he never saw. Permit me to say that I do not know how my card got in that pair of overalls, and that when I do marry, if ever, it will be some fellow who can afford something better than a seven-cent pair of breeches."—Muscatine Recorder.

His Industrious Family. The venerable Samuel L. Cooper of Yonkers, a robust laborer asked me for a job. I gave him work. The next week I asked me to give employment to his neighbor. He was a better man than I am," explained the workman, leaning on his shovel.

Engaged the brother. His services were satisfactory, but one day I was astonished when both men made a joint request that their father also should be employed. Our old man, one of them urged, can do more work than both of us together.

"Read," said I, "read him along. I will discharge both of you and let the old man take your places." And that is just what he says.

SAVED THEM BOTH

TWO PATIENTS BENEFITED BY MIXED LETTERS.

Effect of Imagination Shown by Ralph or Humorous Incident in the Experience of a Prominent Nerve Specialist.

Dr. Charles K. Mills, the nerve specialist, of Indianapolis, told an amusing story of the influence of the imagination on the health. "A young bank clerk," he said, "trailing long from the excessive heat of a burning summer, consulted a physician. The physician questioned him, ascertained his history, and then said, 'I will write you tomorrow.'"

"The next day the bank clerk received a letter from the doctor. It told him that his right lung was gone, and that he was seriously endangered, and advised him to lose no time in putting his affairs in order."

"Of course," the doctor wrote, "you must live two weeks, but you would do well to begin coughing of lung disease."

"Naturally," the young bank clerk was very much depressed by this and began coughing and his health began to fail. He did not, of course, go to work that morning, and before noon he was having trouble with his respiration, while severe pains shot rapidly through his heart. He did not get up all day, and when midnight had had a shudder, he called for the doctor to send post haste for the doctor.

"The doctor, on his arrival, was astonished. 'Why,' he cried, 'there were no symptoms of this sort yesterday. What on earth have you been doing to yourself?'

"The patient's face screwed up with pain, he presented his hand to his breast and said, 'forbly.'

"It is a heart, I suppose," declared the doctor. "The heart? The heart? There was nothing yesterday the matter with your heart."

"My lungs, then," the patient ground.

"What alls you?" the doctor shouted. "You don't seem to have been coughing."

"Your letter, doctor—you told me I had only a few weeks to live."

"Nonsense! Are you crazy? I told you to take a month's vacation at the seashore, and you'd be as good as new again."

"The patient drew the fearful letter from a drawer beside his bed. 'Well,' said the doctor, glancing at it, 'this is a pretty mean. This letter was intended for another man. My secretary mixed up the envelope.'

"The patient laughed. He sat up in bed. His recovery was rapid. That night, in fact, he was well again."

"And what?" ended Dr. Mills, "what of the dying consumptive who was given his own letter?"

"He gave his own letter to the consumptive, delighted with the prediction that a month at the seashore would make a sound man of him, packed his trunk and took the first train for New England. That was ten years ago, and today he is in fair health."

Forty Years of Longing. A New England man tells of an old woman who had long been sufficiently in funds to purchase a new and complete dinner set.

"It seems a sinful waste of money," Sarah, observed a neighbor to whom the set was being shown. "You're getting along in years, and you won't need china long."

"I may not need it long," responded Sarah, "but I need it now, and have needed it for forty years. You don't know how cramped I've been."

"Yes, cramped! Look at the big tea parties I've been invited to! Have I ever given anything like as big a one? No! But now, thank goodness! I'm able to retortulate at last!"—Sunday Magazine.

Of course Lawrence was elected, but his own county did not help to do it, as the returns from Franklin were never sent to the secretary of state and of course could not be

WORTH KNOWING.

Simple Remedy That Anyone Can Prepare at Home.

Most people are more or less subject to coughs and colds. A simple remedy that will break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is troublesome is made by mixing two ounces of Olive Oil, a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky. You can get these in any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle. The mixture is highly recommended by The Leach Chemical Co. of Cincinnati, who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure for dispensing.

OOO MISTAKE.

Short-Sighted Old Gentleman—How your little boy has grown! But you shouldn't let him go out without a hat.

In a London Omnibus. A London bus driver was hailed by a clerical-looking old gentleman, and on the first opportunity he remarked to the conductor: "Do you know who you're not inside?" "It's Cardinal Manning," said the conductor. "I know 'im," they argued further, and finally bet a shilling over it. When collecting fares the conductor determined to see matters right by direct inquiry. "Excuse me, sir, but are you Cardinal Manning?" The venerable passenger looked him coldly and boldly in the eye, and answered: "What the devil has that got to do with you?" The conductor was satisfied, but even at the sacrifice of a bob he had to get even with the passenger. Putting his head out of the door he called up to the driver: "You was right, lili. It was 'olness."

Red Cross Christmas Stamps. The Red Cross Christmas Stamp campaign against tuberculosis promises this year to be broader in extent than ever before. While last year less than twenty million stamps were sold, the present indications point to a sale of nearly fifty million for this year.

The Red Cross Stamps are issued by the American National Red Cross, and are sold for one cent each. They are designed to be placed upon letters and mail matter during the holiday season. The money derived from the sale of these stamps will be devoted to tuberculosis work in the localities in which the stamps are sold. In this manner it is expected that about $400,000 will be realized for the campaign against tuberculosis in all parts of the United States.

There All the Time. It is told of Dr. Thorold that he was once asked to give away the prizes at a school belonging to the London school board.

In the course of his opening address he gravely asked the children: "Which was the largest island in the world before Australia was discovered?" "When the sunburnt gate it up, he said in the same grave way, which made them laugh all the more. "Why Australia, of course," it was there all the time."

A Decoy. The minister who had exchanged with Rev. Mr. Tolson was scandalized to see Deacon Snowball in the vestry, after service, deliberately taking a 50-cent piece out of the contribution-box and substituting a dime.

"Free Snowball," he exclaimed, in horror and amazement, "that's plain dishonest doing!"

Happy the man who finds a peculiar joy in undertaking a difficult and disagreeable task, and in achieving it—L. Lyman Abbott.

RESULTS OF FOOD.

Health and Natural Conditions Come From Right Feeding.

Man, physically, should be like a perfectly regulated machine, each part working easily in its appropriate place. A slight derangement causes undue friction and wear, and frequently ruins the entire system.

A well-known educator of Boston found a way to keep the brain and the body in that harmonious cooperation which makes a joy of living.

Two years ago," she writes, "being in a condition of nervous exhaustion, I resented my position as teacher, which I had held over 40 years. Since then entire rest has, of course, been a benefit, but the use of Grape-Nuts has removed one great cause of illness in the past, namely, constipation, and its attendant evils."

"I generally make my entire breakfast on a raw egg beaten into four spoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, with a little hot milk or hot water added. I like it extremely, my food assimilates, and my bowels take no longer to move. I find my brain power and physical condition much greater and I know that the use of the Grape-Nuts has contributed largely to this result."

"It is with feelings of gratitude that I write this testimonial, and it is not to be the means of aiding others in their search for health."

Look in place for the little book, "The Road to Well-Being—There's a Reason," and read the whole letter. It is a gem of wisdom from one who has known the regular, true, and full of health.

London, Dec. 7.—All estimates of the dead in the storm that swept the English channel and the North sea last week were increased when a restoration of telegraphic communication revealed the fact that the casualties were far greater than at first feared.

It is now believed there were 400 drownings along the British and continental coast and on the high seas.

Corpses are being washed upon the beach and many of the ships are reporting the picking up of survivors from wrecked vessels. Comparatively few of the crews of the wrecked boats were saved owing to the heavy seas.

ONE SMITH AS GOOD AS ANOTHER

Now want that a steady trial for the governor to play on his only son?

I grumbled in disappointment, for I am the only son and had just read, perhaps for the twentieth time, the sentences which my whimsical father had added to his last will and testament and which seemed most effectually to bar me from the inheritance of the money.

"The foregoing bequest of all my personal, real and personal, to my son, Herbert Franklin Vincent, is hereby conditioned on his marriage within two years after my death to Miss Mary Louise Smith. In the event such marriage is not made the said property shall be devoted to charitable purposes under the direction of my friend and executor, Charles J. Barton."

I had been almost two years and I now thought with regret, grieving my father by doing nothing worth while in the world. Out of respect to him and also prompted by natural curiosity, I had called on Miss Smith a few days after my arrival home and to my chagrin found that she was absolutely unimpressed by the bequest.

She was not "fat and 40," worse, she was lean and 15—ten years my senior and a confirmed spinster. I was very much mystified, too, to find that she did not know my father.

As my bride and I were leaving the office he called to me:

"Here's a letter your father and you were to have immediately upon your marriage."

I appended it to me, as I found it not uninteresting:

"If you have married the only Mary Louise Smith I have been able to find in this city my money has fallen into the hands of a fool. If, however, you have found a loving wife from among the many Mary Louise Smiths who live in this big land of ours you have vindicated the confidence I had in you when I wrote the condition which doubtless put you to thinking for one time in your hitherto thoughtless career. In the latter event please accept my congratulations and let Barton know; he never believed you had any sense."—Boston Globe.

PROBABLE TRUTH.

Sir Robert Paston's belief that every man has a certain quantity of drink forwarded to him after consuming which he must die, implies in one sense that everybody must drink himself to death.

The outcome of a number of soft men (small land owners), according to a favorite story of the late Sir Wilfrid Lawson, held that doctrine in another sense. He had remarked to a neighbor who told him of the death of one of them: "Well, I suppose he died of drinking." "Yes," was the reply; "leastwise I never heard anything to the contrary."—London Chronicle.

OLDEST INNS IN ENGLAND.

The Fighting Cocks inn, on the River Ver, St. Albans, and to be over 1,100 years old, claims to be the oldest inhabited house in the United Kingdom; but the Saracen's Head, Newark, memorable in the history of Jeanne D'Arc, can actually, it seems, show title deeds dating back to 1311. The oldest (and last) extant is that of Richard de Insula, bishop of Durham, at Aberg inn, Blyth, Nottinghamshire, since 1271.

ONE THING LEADS TO ANOTHER.

"I tell you," cried Mrs. Vote-hunter, "we will never stop until we have a woman president."

"If you would only stop there," said her husband, "we would be satisfied, but you won't. Some of you will want to be speaker of the house and that will necessitate a cigar in the corner of your mouth."—Boston Herald.

COTTON'S BRIGHT DAYS.

"Every dog has his day." Cotton was a long long time in getting its—coming into its own. But its "day" has already dawned; and it is doubtful if it can ever get back into the darkness—surely not to black-night period of its count's account—New York Commercial.

The weeks that followed were exciting, absorbing, I put for my photograph and had it reproduced, not in dozen, but in hundred fold. Every week the list grew smaller as the intelligible were eliminated, but finally there were left 28 in as many cities and towns with whom I had arranged for a personal acquaintance.

My secretary and I spent many days endeavoring to perfect an itinerary, and at length my unique courting tour began.

I need not give a particular account of my travels, though every day was packed with interest and excitement. I went south, as the most promising letters were from that land of warm-hearted and (it seemed to me) matrimonially inclined maidens. But I got no farther than New Orleans.

Three months later I walked into Barton's office and introduced my bride. He grinned, as if it were a good joke which he enjoyed that I had abandoned hope of securing the paternal estate and married for love.

But the grin quickly vanished from his countenance and was replaced by one of wide-eyed astonishment when I led him into his private office and showed him the newspaper account of my recent marriage to the charming and wealthy Miss Mary Louise Smith of New Orleans.

Without a word he took my father's will from the safe and read what I thought was an unaccountably long time studying it. I knew he was looking only at the codicil, every word of which I knew by heart, and was not surprised, of course, when he wrung my hand in a second effort at congratulation.

As my bride and I were leaving the office he called to me:

"Here's a letter your father and you were to have immediately upon your marriage."

I appended it to me, as I found it not uninteresting:

"If you have married the only Mary Louise Smith I have been able to find in this city my money has fallen into the hands of a fool. If, however, you have found a loving wife from among the many Mary Louise Smiths who live in this big land of ours you have vindicated the confidence I had in you when I wrote the condition which doubtless put you to thinking for one time in your hitherto thoughtless career. In the latter event please accept my congratulations and let Barton know; he never believed you had any sense."—Boston Globe.

The weeks that followed were exciting, absorbing, I put for my photograph and had it reproduced, not in dozen, but in hundred fold. Every week the list grew smaller as the intelligible were eliminated, but finally there were left 28 in as many cities and towns with whom I had arranged for a personal acquaintance.

My secretary and I spent many days endeavoring to perfect an itinerary, and at length my unique courting tour began.

I need not give a particular account of my travels, though every day was packed with interest and excitement. I went south, as the most promising letters were from that land of warm-hearted and (it seemed to me) matrimonially inclined maidens. But I got no farther than New Orleans.

Three months later I walked into Barton's office and introduced my bride. He grinned, as if it were a good joke which he enjoyed that I had abandoned hope of securing the paternal estate and married for love.

But the grin quickly vanished from his countenance and was replaced by one of wide-eyed astonishment when I led him into his private office and showed him the newspaper account of my recent marriage to the charming and wealthy Miss Mary Louise Smith of New Orleans.

Without a word he took my father's will from the safe and read what I thought was an unaccountably long time studying it. I knew he was looking only at the codicil, every word of which I knew by heart, and was not surprised, of course, when he wrung my hand in a second effort at congratulation.

As my bride and I were leaving the office he called to me:

There in a Thanksgiving story about Henry K. Tuxey, the comedian, that his friends at the Lamba never tire of telling.

Mr. Tuxey, while visiting Philadelphia one autumn, attended a very aristocratic Thanksgiving ball in Mitchellhouse square.

While supper was being served Mr. Tuxey raised himself behind the supper table with the 12 or 14 waiters busy there. None a little maddened old gentleman with white hair approached the actor, glass in hand.

"Would you mind filling my glass with champagne, please?" he said.

Mr. Tuxey started, drew himself up and said with a look of horror: "Certainly not, sir; certainly not. You have already had more than is good for you."

It was married men's night at the revival meeting.

"Let all you husbands who have troubles on your minds stand up!" shouted the spiritual preacher at the height of his passion.

Instantly every man in the church rose to his feet except one.

"Ah!" exclaimed the preacher peering out at this lone sufferer, who stood with a chair near the door and apart from the others. "You are one in a million."

"It ain't that," piped back this one helplessly, as the rest of the congregation turned to gaze suspiciously at him. "I can't get up; I'm paralyzed!"

Not Even Sandy. Wilford was sitting upon his father's knee watching his mother arranging her hair.

"Papa hasn't any Marcel waves like that," said the father, laughing.

Wilford, looking up at his father's bald pate, replied: "Nope, no waves; it's all beach!"—Columbia Jester.
