NUMBER FORTY-FIVE.

CHAMBER COMMERCE IN NOVEMBER MEET

Fulton Chamber of Commerce met in regular monthly session Monday night at the Methodist Church, with President Ernest Fall presiding. No formal program was carried out, but several important business matters were discussed.

A. G. Baldridge and E. C. Hardesty discussed the lighting of the downtown business district with Christmas effect, as was done last year. These two men with Ernest Fall are to compose a committee to see that Yuletide lights are installed with effect in the next week. L. Kasnow, Bert Newhouse and Vodie Hardin were named to call upon all business places and urge them to decorate and light the front of their stores in connection with the program.

Bert Piques spoke on Christmas Seal Sale which is to start soon after Thanksgiving. He and Paul Hornbeak pointed out the great health work being done with funds raised by the annual sale of these seals, while Mr. Piques outlined the origin and growth of this noble work.

In the discussion about efforts now being made to obtain a factory for Fulton, Raymond Peoples announced that a manufacturing concern, employing 100 to 250 men, with annual payroll around $250,000 was seeking a location in Fulton. Inasmuch as no building large enough to accommodate this factory was available, one would have to be built, and ways and means of constructing this building were discussed at length. A committee from this company is expected to visit Fulton soon.

Mr. Goldsmith of the Kentucky Utilities Company, told of the possibility of obtaining a textile factory in Fulton. After round table discussion, the factory matter was referred to a committee which is to take up further negotiations.

A delightful dinner was served to about 50 members, and a very interesting meeting was enjoyed. No meeting will be held in December, due to holiday business rush.

They made bond for their appearance before January term of court. Officers are said to have found a quantity of liquor stored in the attic of one of the cabins.

From there the officers went to a road house about two miles from Fulton, on the Martin highway, where they raided a place operated by John Radford where a quantity of liquor was also seized. Radford was taken to Union City where he carried out for appearance before January term of court.

It was reported that he was facing east and that the noise made by the passing train prevented him from hearing the approaching freight, which at the time was delivering two cars to the Illinois Central north shed.

DEATHS

MAE ELIZABETH BALBACH

Besides her father, Charles Balbach of Wampun, Wis., who was engaged to his daughter's bedside when news of her death reached him at Chicago, she is survived by one sister, Miss Laura Balbach.

SOCIAL SECURITY SET-UP CONTINUES

Between 1,000 and 1,200 forms were mailed out by the Fulton post office Wednesday to employers of this community, which are to be filled in and returned to the post office no later than December 5, 1936, by employees. Along with the forms went a circular explaining in detail the operation of the Social Security Act, as set up by the Federal Government.

Recently blanks were sent out by the local postoffice to employers, which were filled out and returned, in connection with establishment of the Social Security program being set up by the federal government.

Now this week follows form SS-5 which are to be distributed by employers to employees, who are to fill out and return to the local post office on or before December 5, 1936. These returns may be addressed to the postmaster, and dropped in any mail box without postage.

THEY ALL ADVERTISE (By E. S. W., Publishers Auxiliary)

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. Yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact. The mule, the most despised of all, has a most persistent way of letting folks know he's around. By his insistent bray. The busy little bees they buzz. Bulls bellow and cows moo. The watchdogs bark, the gander quack. And doves and pigeons coo. The peacock spreads his tail and squawks. Pigs squeal and robins sing. And even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting. But man, the greatest masterpiece That Nature could devise, Will often stop and hesitate Before he'll advertise.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ANSWERS 16 ALARMS IN NOVEMBER

FULTON ANNOUNCES BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

The basketball season at Fulton high school opens Tuesday night, December 1, when the Bulldogs play Shiloh at the Science Hall here. Practice sessions have been going on this week, with only one man out who played with the team last year, James Robert Powers.

However, after January 22, Harold Peoples and Joe Bendles will be ineligible. It will be remembered that the scrappy Shiloh quintet only lacked one point defeating Fulton in the district tournament last season, and this club is said to have the same line-up again this year. So the game should be a good one.

Those out for practice and positions they seek: Bill Genung, center; W. L. Wrather, forward; Harold Peoples, forward; John Dunn, forward; Ray Hunter, forward; Eugene Cox, forward; Jack Parker, forward; John Ray Allison, forward; Joe Bendles, guard; J. T. Nanney, guard; Buzz Grogan, guard; Billie Williams, guard; Ellsworth Crawford, center.

The season's schedule follows: Dec. 1, Shiloh here; Dec. 4, Clinton here; Dec. 8, Football banquet; Dec. 11, Arlington here; Dec. 15, Sedalia, there; Dec. 18, open; Dec. 22, Pilot Oak here; Jan. 5, Water Valley there; Jan. 8, Mayfield there; Jan. 12, open; Jan. 15, Hickman; Jan. 22, Murray here; Jan. 26, Paducah there; Jan. 29, Barlow here; Feb. 2, Sedalia here; Feb. 5, Murray there; Feb. 9, Mayfield here; Feb. 12, open; Feb. 16, Paducah here; Feb. 19, Barlow there; Feb. 23, Kirksey here; Feb. 26, Hickman there. SOCIAL SECURITY PLANS TO PROTECT AGED

Cleveland, Ohio, November 23.—In order to make clear just where information regarding the Old-Age Benefits provisions of the Social Security Act may be secured, Benedict Chasch, Director for Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, gave out the following statement today:

"The Social Security Act," Mr. Chasch said, "is the sole source of information regarding the old-age benefits provisions of the Act, but questions regarding the collection of taxes who is an employer, who is a tax, and who is not subject to tax, should be addressed to the nearest Collector of Internal Revenue. Questions regarding the census to be made of all employees and employers should be made of your local Postmaster. This census being made by the Post Office Department, but beyond telling you that distribution of forms will commence on November 18 when Employer's Application for Identification Numbers will be distributed, and that no November 24 employees, through their employers, will receive forms known as 'Application for Social Security Account Number,' there is no information the Postmaster can give you. If within a day or so after the 24th you have not received the form, your local Postmaster will supply you upon application.

"These forms are very simple and can be filled in without trouble by any one. They are returned without cost by dropping in a mail box, by handing to a letter carrier or by any other method by which a letter can be mailed. Just address an envelope to 'Postmaster, Local,' put the form in the envelope and mail."

The largest locomotive tenders in use in this country have a capacity of 25,000 gallons of water and twenty-five tons of coal. When used on heavy freight runs they can travel 200 miles, or, in heavy passenger service, from 250 to 300 miles before replenishment of the fuel supply.

Too much energy is wasted fighting imaginary troubles.

American. Believing in taxes that the other man pays. A man, making $5,000 a year, often thinks of the good that he would do if he made a million dollars a year.

If you have anything left to do in 1936 you might as well get busy; you haven't got much longer.

Facts About the Telephone

Fifty years ago, New York City had 8,400 telephones. Today, it has over 1,500,000.

Last year there were about 20,000 overseas telephone calls, including those to and from ships at sea.

During the recent World Series in Detroit, daily local telephone calls increased nearly 10 per cent and toll calls increased 20 per cent.

Paraguay has a larger proportion of dial telephones than any other country in South America. Ecuador is the only country in South America without dial telephones.

INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE

The Fulton territory has made swift strides in agricultural development and diversification in recent years. That is progress is agriculture despite one of the most depressive periods in the history of American agriculture.

It is a recognized fact that dairying, livestock and produce sales are annually providing substantial incomes to farmers in this area. Fulton is fast growing to be a larger marketing center. We have livestock yards, cream stations, produce plant, and a number of poultry houses.

But we now come to the time when industries are seriously needed in our community.

As we have said before, in recent years the time has never been better for obtaining these manufacturing concerns, for many factories are seeking locations further South, away from the labor troubles of the North and East, and closer to the raw products obtained in the South.

Right now one factory in particular is considering locating in Fulton. This was discussed at length at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday night. Others are being sought. Slowly but surely the steam is rising in the boiler of civic pride, and if we keep after this business results are sure to follow.

Fulton needs industries paying out several hundred thousands in payroll each year. The city is ideally located, the climate fine, and workers are available.

THE RACE GOES ON AND ON

Nations of the world are engaged in a great race—the armament race. Where it will end nobody knows, except that eventually there is bound to be a terrible explosion somewhere.

The individual or nation looking for trouble can usually find it, and one of these days there is certain to be trouble in Europe which will more than likely spread to the United States. Nations of the world today are drawn so closely together by faster means of communication, international communications, and commerce, that war vitally affects every country.

An estimate recently made by the League of Nations indicates that expenditures for armaments in 1935 amounted to $9,295,000,000. This compares with $8,281,000,000 in 1934 and $7,436,000,000 in 1933. What a race, and what needless expense upon the taxpayers. If that amount were converted to a useful purpose to relieve suffering humanity, and relieve great economic stress throughout the world how much better off the human race would be.

These nations are not spending all this money for fun with no idea of fighting in their mind. Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin are not merely enlarging their armies because everybody else is doing the same thing. Japan does not just want equality in naval tonnage in order to keep peace among the Chinese. Selfishness and greed are driving rulers of nations to prepare for war.

TIME TO CURE PORK

On Monday, November 16th, Grady Sellards of Lexington will conduct a meat cutting demonstration at the farm of Mr. Ed Thompson near Palestine.

Mr. Sellards will show those present how beef and hogs can be cut to produce the same type of meat as is bought at the butcher shops. There is a big difference in the quality and palatableness of meat produced by different farmers and most of this is due to the different method of curing the meat.

Mr. Sellards will explain and illustrate the way meat can be cured and make a product that is equal or superior in flavor to meat produced by packing houses.

A home-made box used in curing bacon will be on display that was constructed and has been used by a farmer in the county for three years.

Every farmer interested in improving next year's supply of meat is invited to come and bring his wife. Let's take a lunch and go.

DODGING THE COLD

The common cold is just that—common. And rare is the Fulton citizen who escapes one at this season of the year. Yet as common as the cold may be, most of them can be avoided, and should be avoided because it easily leads to more serious ailments. The resistance that the system determines how successfully the cold can be fought off. That in turn depends upon the general physical condition of the individual. Scientists classified a group of 100 persons and number of number of colds contracted over a seven-month period. Of those in good physical condition, 64 percent escaped without one cold. Among those who were in a "run-down" condition, 80 percent suffered from one to four colds within the seven months of observation. The findings merely confirm an old rule for health. One who keeps physically fit stands a better chance against the common cold—or any other disease germ.

FOR SAFETY SAKE

Those Fulton families who are accustomed to taking week-end trips to other points should pause a moment to consider the advice of a Cleveland safety expert who says they should make their plans to return early Monday morning instead of late Sunday afternoon. Main highways, he points out, carry a heavy traffic load Sunday afternoons and Sunday nights. On early Monday mornings roads are comparatively clear and the return trip can be made in much better time and with greatly increased safety. Another important fact is that the week-end vacationist usually is tired on Sunday night after a strenuous day of play and is far from being at his best for driving, despite the fact that the greatest efficiency is needed to cope with the crowded Sunday night traffic conditions. In the interest of safety, therefore, it would seem a wise idea to extend the return home from a week-end vacation until Monday morning.

DEPARTMENT STORES' COLLECTIONS BETTER

Payments on open-credit accounts receivable of department stores were made at a higher rate during September of this year than in both August this year and September a year ago, according to a report to the Louisville District office of the Department of Commerce. The collection rates on these accounts were 42.8 percent for September and 42.1 percent for August of this year, and 40.6 percent for September 1935. The data on retail collection conditions are based on the credit operations of a representative group of more than 400 department stores reporting on open accounts and over 250 reporting on installment accounts.

well distributed throughout the 12 districts of the Federal Reserve System.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE WEEKLY BUSINESS SURVEY

Reports to the Department of Commerce from key cities throughout the country indicated that business is moving forward on a broad front. More favorable weather was the chief factor in stimulating retail sales. Widespread announcement of wage increases, bonuses and extra dividends was also noted as a factor in laying the foundation for a continued upsurge in public buying. The reports gave evidence of improvement in employment and a widening of industrial activities.

There were continued indications of an especially heavy holiday trade in all parts of the country. Holiday gift items have begun to move into consumer channels and merchants were reported as stocking their shelves in preparation for sales that will eclipse in volume anything witnessed in recent years. As an example, New York reported that sales of leather goods accessories for the holiday trade are running close to 40% ahead of last year in dollar volume. Novelty jewelry also sold at a rate far in excess of the level of a year ago. The mid-season market at the American Furniture Mart, Chicago, brought forth the report that furniture sales are up 40% from the same period last year. Philadelphia reported that Christmas buying has started earlier this year with a good demand in evidence for gift confectionery, artificial trees, wearing apparel, dry goods and furniture. Cleveland wholesale houses were reporting gains of 15 or 20% above a year ago.

The sale of farm products stimulated retail and wholesale activities in many centers. Atlanta, for example, reported that the picking and ginning of Georgia's 1,100,000 bale cotton crop was practically completed with favorable prices assuring the greatest buying of holiday goods and general trade in many years. From Minneapolis came word that country merchants are buying heavily for the holidays and are preparing their holiday decorations and displays to start immediately following Thanksgiving. Kansas City wholesale merchants were in the midst of holiday distribution and substantial gains were reported in drugs, hardware and dry goods. They reported that there will be an exceptionally small carry-over in any line and that business without question is the best in years.

The adverse effects of the maritime strike was beginning to show in reports of trade losses along the Pacific Coast. However, wholesale business in San Francisco was brisk with substantial gains over the same period last year being registered in all lines. Particularly optimistic reports were received from each industrial centers as Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Birmingham. In most of the cities reporting to the Department of Commerce building permits issued in October were well ahead of the same month last year.

Wise men and women seek the arguments of those with whom they disagree.

Railway dining cars serve approximately twenty-five million meals a year—equivalent to serving every inhabitant of a city of nearly 23,000 population with three meals a day for an entire year.

One standard Pullman car generates for its own use enough electricity to supply approximately 4 ordinary homes.

A fire prevention sign that we like reads: "An ounce of precaution is worth a ton of water."

As November approaches we might make up our minds to inaugurate a new safety first campaign in 1937.

Farmers, if they are wise, will keep their farms on a self-supporting basis, regardless of all relief schemes.

Election polls may be interesting but there's nothing like the official count to tell what the voters do.

After very little thought on the matter, but after studying some human specimens, we are not so certain that Mr. Darwin was entirely wrong.

CHANCE TO ACQUIRE HISTORIC OLD HOUSE

The entrance to beautiful old Liberty Hall in Frankfort, declared to be the finest classic doorway in Kentucky. Funds are being raised by the Liberty Hall Association for purchase of the mansion and its conversion into a public shrine.

That Liberty Hall, the historic and beautiful Frankfort home of the descendants of Senator John Brown, might be converted into a public mansion-shrine, has long been an ambition of its present owner, John M. Scott, last of a distinguished Kentucky family.

The recent formation of the Liberty Hall Association for that purpose provided an opportunity for the realization of this ambition. Having no heirs, and anxious to protect the home and its valuable old furnishings for future generations, Mr. Scott has given an option on the property to the association, and the success of the present campaign will preserve one of the finest colonial mansions in Kentucky.

Designed by Thomas Jefferson and built in 1796, when the population of Frankfort numbered scarcely 300, the house has long been famous as one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in the Mississippi Valley.

Preserve Old Liberty Hall! Is Cry In State Campaign

This is the beautiful drawing-room fireplace in Liberty Hall, historic mansion of Frankfort, Ky., which is to be purchased and made a public shrine with funds now being raised in a campaign conducted by patriotic leaders. The portrait is by J. J. Jett, famous Kentucky painter of John Brown, who built the house 140 years ago. The brass fender and the mantel were transported from Virginia on mules.

Unless sufficient funds are raised by December 1, Liberty Hall, historic and beautiful old homestead at Frankfort, Kentucky, may be lost forever as a possible public shrine.

The Liberty Hall Association, organized by leaders of the state with the support of patriotic societies, is seeking to raise $50,000 to buy the house and preserve it for posterity in the same way that My Old Kentucky Home has been preserved.

Faced with the necessity of selling the house, John M. Scott, owner and great-great-grandson of John Brown, the builder, has given an option to the association on the house until December 1. Though he is anxious that it be converted into a shrine, an open auction is the only alternative to its purchase by public subscription, he said.

NEW GOAL HAS LIGHT TO INDICATE SCORES AS MADE

What is acclaimed to be a great innovation to the game of basketball will be seen for the first time in this city when the Fulton High School team plays Shiloh High at the local gymnasium on December 1, Tuesday evening.

Just perfected for the game of basketball is an electric goal called Bask-O-Lite which, from all reports is not only a boon to players but makes the game much more exciting for all spectators. It is said this new development makes obsolete the old-style iron ring hoop which years ago replaced the peach basket as a goal. When the ball goes through this new goal three lights flash on for a period of two seconds. One light behind the basket illuminates the ball as it goes through. Two other lights cylindrical in shape, suspended above the backboard, also flash when a score is made.

Dr. James A. Naismith, who in 1891 founded the game of basketball by hanging two peach baskets at opposite ends of a small rectangular playing field, says: "The new type goal meets the objection that I have found in the present use of the net and the requirements of the rule that specifies that the ball must be retarded as it passes through the goal. In addition it gives both players and officials assurance that a goal has actually been made. It is especially interesting to me as it somewhat resembles the original peach basket which I nailed to the gallery for the first game."

How Inflation Hits Your Savings

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"The very man who has the deepest interest in sound currency is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil."

Daniel Webster said that nearly a century ago. His statement was true in his time, it was true years earlier, and it is true today.

France proved its verity as early as 1793, when currency inflation forced workers and wage-earners to pay the equivalent of $9 for a pound of bread and of $40 for a bushel of potatoes.

Germany proved it shortly after the World War when inflation wiped out utterly the average worker's savings, and sky-rocketed the prices of everything save the barest necessities of life far beyond his reach.

Russia proved it when her revolutionary leaders used inflation to help drag every worker down to a state of regimented and dependent penury.

In every instance currency inflation hurt the worker and helped the speculator. Always it crushes the thrifty and exalts the gambler. How?

It achieves this effect not by reducing the number of dollars in the earner's pay-envelope or savings account or insurance estate, but by reducing the actual purchasing power of those dollars.

It means that out of the same income—or savings—he must pay far more for food and clothes and shelter and everything else he buys.

That's fine for the well-heeled speculator who profits by buying in a low market and selling at inflated prices. But it's hard on the worker—or on his widow and children if he has entrusted their future to insurance or savings funds accounts, as most American wage-earners do.

How can the average worker and citizen escape this menace?

Well, as history has proved, the blight of inflation descends on a nation in one of two ways. It may be adopted deliberately as a method of raising prices. But more often it comes as a result of straining government resources through extravagance and debt.

Force the politicians to eliminate waste and the piling up of public debt—and you remove this threat at the earnings, the savings and the security of every worker and his family.

Famous Old Liberty Hall To Be Kentucky Shrine

Here is a view of Liberty Hall, the beautiful and historic Brown mansion at Frankfort, Ky., which is to be preserved as a public shrine. Funds for its purchase are being raised by the Liberty Hall Association in a campaign ending December 1.

Liberty Hall, the beautiful and historic Frankfort mansion built in 1796 by John Brown, Kentucky's first United States senator, is to be preserved as a public shrine, according to plans announced by the Liberty Hall Association as they opened a campaign to raise funds during November for its purchase and maintenance.

Designed by Thomas Jefferson and long famous as a fine example of Georgian architecture, the house, with its furnishings, will provide Kentucky with a memorial comparing favorably with My Old Kentucky Home and Virginia's mansion-shrine. Among the treasures to be included in the sale are family portraits, one of them by Gilbert Stuart, America's foremost colonial painter, and a splendid collection of early American furniture, most of it dating from 1833 or earlier. Such nationally famous men as Lafayette, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, General James Wilkinson, Aaron Burr, Jackson, Zachary Taylor and Theodore Roosevelt visited Liberty Hall, and the nation as well as the state will benefit by its preservation.

Thanksgiving— An American Day

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Thanksgiving is recognized as one of the most characteristic and appropriate of all our American National Holidays.

Why? Probably because the American people, through the period of their nation's existence, have had more to be thankful for than the people of any other land.

Not in the material sense alone! The pioneers who celebrated our first Thanksgiving Day expressed gratitude not only for bountiful harvests, but also for the freedom with which Divine Providence had rewarded their courage and labors.

That spirit endures. Every Presidential proclamation of a Day of National Thanksgiving has sounded the same note of reverence.

Thus, through the years, Thanksgiving Day has become not only a national expression of gratitude, but a re-dedication to the spirit which lived in its strong and valiant founders.

The seeds of freedom sown by them have borne a harvest more bountiful than their own crops. Our reasons for national gratitude have grown—not diminished.

They gave thanks for fruitful harvests, we for a bountiful supply not only of the necessities of life, but of comforts far beyond their modest aspirations.

They gave thanks for liberty to worship as they chose. We give thanks for freedom of religion, but for freedom of speech and of action and of opportunity as well.

Many nations cannot do this today. The iron hand of Dictatorship or the red blight of Communism; the terrors of war, from without or within—all have robbed them of the security and the liberties which our fathers established as an American birthright.

Our duty is not limited to appreciation, however grateful, of these blessings. It involves their preservation as well.

HAVE GUESTS EAT TURKEY DINNER SUGGESTS EXPERT

As soon as Thanksgiving is over, the homemaker has a problem as to what to do with left-overs, commonly made into hash. Miss Laura Deephouse of the University of Kentucky home economics department suggests that guests be invited and that among other things broiled tomatoes and scalloped oysters and a turkey loaf be served.

Cut tomatoes in three-fourth inch slices, saute' in butter and top with scalloped oysters. Arrange on a large tray on curly endive and garnish them with stuffed olives. To make scalloped oysters, first clean them by allowing cold water to run over them and removing any particles of shell. Place a layer of cracker crumbs in a buttered casserole, then a layer of oysters, unseasoned, then two or three layers. Season each layer with butter, salt and pepper. Cover with milk so that all dry crumbs are absorbed, and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. The top should be a golden brown.

The turkey loaf ingredients are as follows:

3 cups cold chopped left-over turkey
1 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk or stock
1 teaspoon chopped turkey
1-2 teaspoon onion juice
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
Mix seasonings and crumbs with turkey. Mix thoroughly with the heated milk and butter. Place in a well-oiled mold; set in a pan of hot water and bake about 45 minutes. Turn out on a chop plate and garnish with parsley. The outer edge may be surrounded with glazed whole carrots and buttered peas, if desired.

It would seem that politicians would get sore always sitting on the fence waiting to see which way the wind is going to blow.

If our government officials are really our servants, they are certainly not setting a good example for other servants.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR POULTRYMEN

(Herbert C. Helm, President of Illinois Poultry Improvement Ass'n.)

MANY MAKE MONEY FROM THEIR POULTRY—However they buy good chicks that have been improved for heavy laying, keep them in a good warm house and feed and care for them as they should. It takes work and thought to make a success of anything and keeping chickens is no different.

There are those who feel that there is no money in keeping chickens and there isn't the way they keep them. The big trouble with a lot of people is that they are not raising chickens but trying to let the chickens raise themselves and they won't do that with much profit. You can't starve a chicken or any other animal and expect it to make you a profit.

To those who feel that there is no money in chickens I would suggest that you look around and see how your neighbors are doing. Go watch their chicks, how they feed them and how they are making a profit. Then try to follow their system and you too will find that chickens are profitable.

CLEAN GROUND—is the first rule for raising chicks. On too many farms chickens have been raised on the same ground around the house and in the back yard until the ground has become so badly infested with disease germs that it is hard to get chicks to live and grow like they should. Often moving the brooder house or coops just a few hundred feet will make the difference between success and failure. Stunted, unthrifty uneven chickens are usually the result of unclean ground. You cannot expect even the healthiest chicks in the world to live and grow off uniformly and develop as they should if they are raised on ground which has been over run with chickens for generations.

RAISE YOUR CHICKS RIGHT—A little extra care in raising your chicks will mean a big difference in your profits. For chicks to grow fast and develop into healthy heavy layers of good sized eggs they must be raised right. It is possible to get chicks to live without providing them with the things they should have but they will never develop into profitable producers if they are stunted by improper brooding.

Most of the troubles arising in the laying house are the direct result of failure to handle them correctly as baby chicks. For instance, cannibalism in pullets is often the result of over-crowding in the brooder. Low egg production and colds, croup and other diseases are directly traceable to failure to grow and develop the pullets so that they have the vigor and strength to stand up under the strain of heavy egg production and also to resist disease.

HICKMAN, Ky., Nov. 25.—The movement of several carloads of clay from Henry McMullins' farm at the east edge of Hickman this week may be the beginning of a new industry for this community. The leases have been obtained by the Haughland & Hardy Clay Company of Evansville, Ind., and the first shipments of clay have been sent to the plant in Camden, Tenn., to be given rigid tests on its quality.

CONSIDERS THE FARM OUTLOOK OPTIMISTIC

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 18.—Returning from Washington, where they assisted the department of agriculture in writing an outlook report, E. A. Johnson and Miss Ida C. Hagman of the Kentucky College of Agriculture were optimistic regarding farm prospects for 1937.

The anticipated 19 percent increase in the national income for 1937, as compared to 1936, following about a 13 percent increase in 1936 over 1935, offers encouragement, Mr. Johnson said. This is the basis for the strong market situation which is expected to continue through the coming year.

He went on to say that improved demand and short supplies of most farm products will serve to hold prices up during the first half of

In the latter half of next year, prices will be readjusted in line with supplies from the new crops, but Mr. Johnson believed the desire to rebuild depleted stocks of feed supplies will tend to hold prices steady throughout the year. Farmers Debate New Tariffs And Effect on Agriculture

Discussion of the widely publicized Roosevelt advocacy of reciprocal trade agreements has brought a surprising flood of endorsements from farm leaders to Democratic campaign headquarters.

Gov. Landon has seen fit, in recent speeches, to attack the Roosevelt plan. "The reciprocal trade program," he says, "has delayed recovery for our farmers. It has sold the American farmer down the river."

Farm leaders, thus challenged, have gone intensively into the record. Here, for example, is the verdict as set down by the All-Party Agricultural Committee:

"In 1930 a Republican administration gave us the Smoot-Hawley tariff. In 1932 it gave us 12-cent corn with a tariff of 25 cents, and 25-cent wheat with a tariff of 42 cents. That was the year of 3-cent hogs, 3-cent cattle, and 5-cent cotton."

"Competing farm imports in 1932 hit the lowest point in more than 25 years. If exclusion of imports is the cure, why weren't farmers prosperous then?"

"During the years from 1920 to 1930, before farm prices hit the great depression, the country imported far more competing farm products than in 1935."

Official Figures

Figures of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that there has been no injury to American farmers from the reciprocal trade agreements advocated by President Roosevelt.

"Reciprocal trade treaties," it is stated, "have helped to increase farm exports. In the year ending June, 1935, farm exports were nearly 200 million dollars greater than in 1932-3, in spite of the effect of the drought."

The simple fact about the reciprocal tariff law is that it empowers the President to reduce cautiously and moderately the existing rates of duty by not more than 50 per cent, thereby giving to the Executive for the first time in history an effective means of seeking through mutual and reciprocal concessions, reductions in the trade barriers of other countries which restrict their importation of American goods.

From the Corn Belt

A widely quoted editorial by a corn belt editor says: "The trick of the high tariff advocates is something like this: (1) Get farmers excited about a trickle of farm imports, even though farm imports are considerably smaller now than in 1929-32. (2) Propose raising tariffs on a few farm products. (3) Meanwhile quietly arrange for raising tariffs in a big way on things farmers and other plain folks buy, the things that foreign nations might sell in exchange for American farm exports. (4) Raise prices on what farmers buy, cut down farm exports, make food cheaper, and give farmers the horse laugh for being fooled again."

Doubled Values

The improved values of the farmer during the past four years is clearly indicated by the prices he is receiving for his product today, as compared with 1933 prices. Wheat has risen from 48 cents to $1.18; corn from 27 cents to $1.13; lamb from 40 cents to $1.15; hogs from 37 cents to $1; calves from 50 cents to $1.15; oats from 17 cents to 42 cents. Eggs and butter have doubled; potatoes have tripled; cheese has increased from 8 cents to 17 cents. (The figures are for March, 1933, and September, 1935.)

Campaign Boner

By BOAKE CARTER
Radio Commentator

Charges by Frank Knox that bank accounts are unsafe and insurance policies to danger, have caused more of an uproar than almost anything in the political campaign.

Col. Knox himself ducked to cover immediately by revising his remarks and saying he meant the banks were sound, but the money is not. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is sued figures showing an increase in assets of insured banks.

Many business men and Landon backers are resentful at the Knox efforts to stir up a panic. Most insurance company officials feel the same way but are keeping silent for political reasons. Which is a pity, for the longer insurance bigwigs remain silent, the easier it is to conclude that they prefer to pay lip service to politics to the detriment of their business.

When Col. Knox steps up to say that today no bank account is safe, and no insurance policy is secure, he is guilty of a type of reprehensible scare mongering. And gentlemen who attempt to harm their own nation so that they can ride into public office for their own satisfaction deserve no public office. Political campaigns surely can be conducted without resorting to promoting false panics.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR POULTRYMEN

DON'T OVERCROWD YOUR LAYING HOUSE—Having too many hens in a house is one of the most common causes of colds and roup. Four square feet should be allowed per hen. With leghorns you might get by with 3 sq. feet. That would mean that 100 hens is an many as should be housed in a house 20 feet square. In the case of Leghorns it might be safe to house 130 but if more than 150 hens are put in a house 20 feet square, which means 400 sq. feet there is a big chance that colds and roup as well as chicken pox and other diseases will result. Neither will the hens lay as well when crowded.

Last week a poultryman came in to ask what to do for colds in his hens. He had had such good luck last year. Upon questioning him, I found that he had 400 hens in a house which was only 20 x 30 feet, which would have been ideal for 150 hens but was too crowded for 400. The overcrowding caused the cold and could not be cured without culling the flock down to about one-

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. half. Hens breathe off more moisture per 100 lbs. of weight than any other animal. This means that if too many are housed together of if the house is not properly ventilated the house becomes damp very quickly. It is dampness and also drafts which cause colds even more than cold weather. It is remarkable how much cold a chicken can stand just as long as the house is dry and not drafty.

CULL CONSTANTLY—The cull bird should be removed from the flock as soon as seen. With higher feed it will pay to remove the culls as soon as possible. Especially should the birds that get too fat be removed for they are the ones most likely to die suddenly.

BE ON THE ALERT FOR DISEASED BIRDS—Remove promptly any bird out of condition before she has time to infect the others.

KEEP HENS IN ON COLD WET RAINY DAYS—Also on extra windy days.

HEAT THE HOUSE IN EXTRA COLD WEATHER—Corn cobs are cheaper than corn as a means of keeping hens warm. It often happens that a flock is laying at a good rate when we have just two or three days of extra cold weather. As a result production drops in many cases and often it takes weeks to bring the hens back to their former rate of laying. Whereas if you had some means of supplying heat just for those 3 or 4 days it would prevent the drop in egg production and the hens would continue laying at their usual high rate. Often just two or three days heating the house would mean heavier egg production not only for those three days but for weeks later.

Supplying this heat would cost practically nothing. At the Kentucky Experiment Station they use a brick or barrel brooder for this purpose. Free plans will be sent by them.

Banking System

Security of bank deposits struck an all-time high this month, with the official announcement that during the past year not a single National Bank has failed. This is a 55-year record.

Since the establishment of the national banking system in 1863, there have been only three years out of the entire period that have equalled the present record, and those three perfect years were so far back in banking history that the present generation has well-nigh forgotten them. They were 1870, 1871 and 1881.

Since Federal Deposit Insurance went into effect, on January 1, 1934, there have been only 66 insured bank failures. In every case the insured deposits were paid off at once.

Today more than 98 percent of all the depositors in insured banks are protected by insurance. American banking has become the safest and soundest in the world.

The benefit of the Roosevelt administration's banking insurance is twofold—it helps the bank as well as the depositor. The man who has worked the Commodity Credit Corporation and other agencies met the emergency, stopped the tidal wave of deflation and depression, and brought about the march toward recovery instead of chaos.

No part of this whole program was more important than the creation of a sound banking system, in which the depositor could have complete confidence.

BANK SUSPENSIONS, 1921-1931. There are 8923 dots on the map and each dot stands for a bank failure.

BANK SUSPENSIONS, 1934-1936. There are only 66 dots on this map. Insured deposits in these banks were paid at once.

hard to attain security and who deposits his money in a bank where it can be used, instead of letting it lie idle, is no longer jeopardizing his substance, or gambling that the bank he chooses will be safe. He is no longer risking his savings on human fallibility.

Operations of the deposit insurance system are clearly shown in the reports of the 66 banks which have closed since Jan. 1, 1934. Depositors promptly received their deposits up to $5,000 for each depositor.

And the current statement of the government's Deposit Insurance Corporation shows that the income received from its investments has been more than sufficient to pay off operating expenses and losses, leaving its insurance funds intact.

Deposit Insurance was an essential part of the Roosevelt Recovery Program. During the previous administration, 8,450 banks failed. When President Roosevelt took office the banking situation had become a national calamity. Prompt and courageous action by the President averted complete ruin.

One of the first acts of President Roosevelt, upon assuming office, was to declare a nationwide bank holiday. He promised that banks would be reopened as rapidly as possible, and that when they reopened, the money of the depositors would be safe. As he expressed it, the "fear of fear" had to be banished.

The Farm Credit Administration went to the rescue of mortgaged farms. The Home Owners Loan Corporation went to the rescue of individuals and corporations in many fields. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration,

Bank depositors throughout the country are sincerely interested in the re-election of President Roosevelt because they want the present system continued. The attitude of his opponents is not entirely clear, but some doubt is shed upon their willingness to support the system of deposit insurance by the statement which Governor Landon made to the American Bankers Association in 1933, when he said:

"In my judgment the guarantee of bank deposits, if carried out in this country to its logical conclusion, will completely destroy the entire banking system."

President Roosevelt believes that the days of unregulated, free-booting banking have gone forever.

A national association of bank depositors has declared that President Roosevelt's staunch and courageous advocacy of deposit insurance is one of the outstanding contributions of the century to the well-being of the American people.
