NEW IRENE DUNN MAKES BOW AS COMEDIEENNE IN
"THEODORE GOES WILD"

"Theodore Goes Wild," a rollicking Columbia production which serves to introduce Irene Dunn to motion picture fans in her first comedy assignment, will be shown locally for the first time at the Strand Theatre starting Sunday, December 13. Supported by an exceptionally strong cast, Miss Dunne is permitted to run fancy free through a sprightly tale of a small town girl who wins her biggest city man in a big city way. Melvyn Douglas appears opposite Miss Dunne in the leading male role, with Thomas Mitchell, Thurston Hall, Rosalind Keith, Spring Byington, Elisabeth Rirdon and Margaret McWade rounding out the cast.

For years Miss Dunne has been known as a dramatic star, portraying such roles as Sabra Cravet in "Cimarron," the forgotten woman in "Back Street," the blind widow of "The Magnificent Obsession" and the more recent Magnolia Ravenal in "Showboat." In "Theodore Goes Wild," as can be guessed from the title, Miss Dunne indulges in a will spree of sophisticated comedy which at once establishes her as one of the screen's finest comedienne.

The story unfolded in "Theodore tells of a small town girl who tries writing under a pen name for her own amusement. Her novels, of the ultra-sophisticated variety, land in the best-selling class overnight. Her publishers had urmised to protect the young author's identity, but it is discovered by the handsome young illustrator of her books, the carefree Douglas. Douglas follows her to her home town, manages to win a job there as gardener, and soon finds himself in love.

ALL REPORTS INDICATE
XMAS BUSINESS BETTER THAN ANY YEAR SINCE 1929

Business moved forward on many fronts to establish widespread gains over the corresponding period of last year, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 37 cities throughout the country for past week, just received by its Louisville District Office. Retail sales were stimulated by a mounting holiday demand everywhere which in some instances ran to such lengths that difficulty was beginning to appear in securing delivery of merchandise. Wholesale lines were stimulated by the same influences and the outlook gave further credence to predictions that the 1938 Christmas season will run close to that of 1929 in retail and wholesale turnover. Supplementing the exuberant merchandising outlook, there were widespread reports of added employment, wage increases and bonuses. Heavy good and industrial equipment brought an unexpectedly large flow of orders, considering the period of the year, according to the New York report.

Louisville reported that while unseasonable weather somewhat retarded winter buying, retail sales advanced 15 to 20 percent above last year. The wholesale demand for Christmas merchandise was very strong with gift goods, novelties, etc., moving briskly.

Bonuses to employees and salary increases featured the employment situation over this area, among the recent number being; increases of $360,000 annually to employees of a Newport, Ky., rolling mill; $11,000 in bonuses to 1,000 Louisville department store workers; 18 percent wage increase to employees of three Schenley distilleries; 10 to 15 percent increase to employees of leather tanning factory at Middlesboro.

National Reemployment Service placed 785 workers during the week.

Opening of tobacco auction markets at Lexington will provide employment for approximately 6,500 people with a payroll during the 3 months of the season of $1,500,000. Bank clearings were 9 percent above the 1935 week.

Dark tobacco growers in Western Kentucky pessimistic over prospects due to the loss of Spanish Monopoly market and other European conditions.

Kentucky's annual $2,000,000 strawberry crop menaced by crown borer pest.

With "farm prospects most encouraging" a Louisville fertilizer company is building new addition to its plant, to double capacity.

Garment factory at Paducah established year ago reports October best month in its history with payroll at peak now employing approximately 600 persons.

It Can Be Done
 ITS QUITE THE THING nowadays to take an automobile along—by rail—when going on a journey. But here's something else that tests the versatility of Illinois Central freight service.
 A Chicagoan who winters in the South decided to take his lake cruiser with him. He asked the Illinois Central, "Can it be done?"
 How it was done would make a long story involving measurements, equipment, transfer, protection and details outside of normal routine. But it was done.
 Immensely pleased, this patron now gives his boat an Illinois Central round-trip yearly, and he is selling the service to his friends.

"CAN IT BE DONE?" is a welcome question on the Illinois Central. We'd like to hear it oftener. For by solving new problems we find new ways to serve.

The Hands That Shape America
 By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

For many decades America has led the world in the development of new methods and new products that lighten the labors, enrich the lives and speed the progress of humanity.
 The motor-car, the motion-picture, the modern radio-set, the many uses of electricity in our daily lives—these are a few of the newer developments which American enterprise and ingenuity have made available to millions of men and women.
 Altrcraft, the newer plastic and metal products, modern farm methods and machinery, oil in its multiple uses—these are a few of its gifts to transportation and industry and production.
 Who is responsible for these achievements?
 The politician, operating through the slow hand of government? Or the American citizen, working free and unhampered to translate ideas into practical reality—as did Edison, for example.
 The answer is obvious.
 The story of American achievement is the story of many Edisons who, through their enterprise, their practicality and their success, have given higher standards of living and greater opportunities for employment to millions of fellow-workers.
 The story of politics and bureaucracy has been the reverse. Too often it has been a story of barriers planted in the path of the men who are laboring to carry American enterprise to its high-growth developments—to make ideas grow into generous production and long pay-rolls.
 For the politicians and the bureaucrats to assert that they, rather than the workers and earners, created our success is to jump the claims of the very men who made America and advanced the American people.
 America in the past was built not by its politicians, but by its people. America in the present—and in the future—will be shaped by the same work-hardened and capable hands.

CONSUMERS APPRECIATE SAVINGS

The consumers of the country are highly favorable to encouraging mass buying and selling methods as practiced by leading merchandisers that reduce overhead and pass the savings on to customers. This is brought out in a recent report of the Findings Committee of the Consumers' Institute, which recently met in connection with the Fifteenth Annual Women's National Exposition of Arts and Industries.
 Large scale merchandising, the report says, has been instrumental in causing both wholesalers and retailers to adopt more economic, efficient and sanitary methods. It has made possible great savings in overhead, which have been passed on to the consumer.
 Furthermore, the report continues, the conclusion that such methods of selling lead to monopoly is disproved by a Federal Trade Commission survey of chain stores, which finds no evidence of monopoly.
 It is safe to say that this report represents the opinion of American consumers, as well as of the many experts who have studied the question and sought to arrive at unprejudiced conclusions based on facts of the case. Over a long period of time our nation's retail merchandising system has developed under highly competitive conditions, and serves the American people amazingly well. In no other country is the consumer—whether he lives in a metropolis or a village—given such good service at so low a cost, or offered so wide a selection of goods.
 That system must be preserved in the interest of the consumer.

REAL INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS

The Union Pacific Railroad has announced that it will spend $8,000,000 for new engines, new passenger cars, an additional fleet of automobile freight cars, and the air-conditioning, re-equipment and modernization of other passenger cars. This supplements an extensive improvement program which has been carried on during 1936.
 Contracts have already been awarded for 20 high speed freight and passenger engines to cost $3,000,000. Bids are now being taken for 40 new passenger coaches and five new "coffee shop" type dining cars. Three hundred automobile cars of record capacity will be built at the system's shops in Omaha. The air conditioning and modernization phase of the project has started, and several hundred additional workers employed.

 Here is real industrial progress—the kind of progress that provides employment, stimulates a multitude of other industries through purchases, creates real productive wealth and taxable income, and, finally, improves the standards of a vital public service. It is emblematic of the kind of progress being made by other railroads as well.
 And this money is being spent in the face of the fact that the railroad industry has a long way to go before it can operate on a generally profitable basis. It is true that both passenger and freight traffic are increasing—it is also true that the lines as a whole are doing little better than breaking even, largely because of our inequitable transport policy that favors other carriers at their expense. Think of the millions that would be spent if we created a policy that gave the railroads a fair competitive break and placed them on an even regulatory basis with their competitors.

spirits rejoiced and they were filled with the love of mankind and the true spirit of joy.
 After all life is pretty much what we make it. True worth lives deep in the spirit of us. Real happiness is inside, not outside. Good fellowship and joy come from the heart and are not dependent on the things of this world.
 In this machine age, with our modern industrial civilization whirling around us at great speed, it is more important than ever to stop now and then and take stock of ourselves and see if we are enjoying the real things of life; if we are giving to our fellow man that realness of spirit that makes life worth living.
 At this particular Christmas time we can all make the world a better and happier place to live in by cutting through the crust of material things that surround each of us and allowing our true light to shine forth.
 Friendship—the extension of a helping hand—kindness, the joy of the true Christmas spirit—that of giving. The custom of Christmas gifts is a beautiful custom, when rightly used. It should not be forgotten at any time. The three wise men brought gifts to the infant Christ.
 So give what you can to those you love; give what you can to those in need; give them in the true Christmas spirit; for these things will bring you the lasting pleasure of the Christmas spirit.

TIMELY TOPICS FOR POULTRY RAISERS BY SPECIALIST

Keep on the Alert for Birds With Cold—Moist nostrils is the first indication of a cold in chickens. Of straw and dirt adheres to the moist nostrils giving it a dirty appearance and if times clogging up the nostril. Sneezing is also another indication of a cold. Separate those with a cold from the others for a cold spreads very rapidly from one bird to the entire flock.

Find the Cause of the Cold and Remove It—It does little good to try to treat a cold unless you find what is causing the hens to take cold and remove the cause. A cold while not serious should be considered so for it will stop production in a flock and if allowed to go on unchecked will soon run into roup which is just an advanced case of a cold, and finally into canker.

Cause of Colds—In the past few weeks I have had a number of cases of colds brought to my attention and following are some of the conditions which caused the colds:

1. Too Little Roosting Space—This resulted in the hens crowding too closely together on the roosts causing them to overheat, sweat and chill. One who has never worked with chickens on the roost at night would be greatly surprised at the tremendous amount of body heat generated by a hen. Where they are permitted to crowd together too closely on the roost they get too hot and then toward morning when it gets cooler they tend to chill or, perhaps, they get moved to the outside where they cool off too rapidly.
2. Too Little Ventilation—There must be a change of air in a hen house to keep the air pure and dry. Hens give off considerable moisture and if the house is too tightly closed the air will catch cold. Muslin tacked over open spaces in the south side of the house without a draft. Air will not pass through glass cloth and if all open space is covered with glass cloth it will not result in proper ventilation.
3. Permitting Hens To Roost Too Near Open Space Will Result In Colds.
4. Leaky Water Fountains—I visited one of the best poultrymen in Western Kentucky this past week who reported to me that a leak in a five gallon water fountain resulted in giving his flock a cold before he discovered the cause. The water was leaking down and wetting the litter underneath leaving that on top dry.

In most cases where a cold has been found, however, it has been due on one hand to having the house completely closed and on the other cases to having too much open space on the south that a strong draft blew in on the chickens. Where open space of any size is left the house should be deep and the roosts located well back.

COUNTY AGENTS NOTES

Three hundred and thirty-five farmers have joined the Fulton County Farm Bureau. This is one hundred members more than 1936 and it is hoped that there will be 400 before the end of the year.

Fulton County has the largest membership of any of the Purchase counties as is indicated as follows: Graves 178, McCracken 168, Carlisle 143, Marshall 120, Hickman 105, Ballard 118, Calloway 72, Fulton 385. However, the membership drive has just been started in some of these counties and they have hopes of greatly increasing their list at 15c per pound in tionNum members.

Lespedeza seed are selling at 15c per pound in wholesale quantities and some of the county Farm Bureau organizations are pooling their orders now and buying seed before the rush season.

From all indications there will be a demand for turkey eggs by some hatchery men and I am being asked for names of farmers who will have eggs for sale and the number of birds they have, so those who have a flock and are interested in selling eggs should report to the office the size of their flocks.

The applications for payment under the agricultural conservation program are ready for the farmers. Notices and notices have been mailed to most of the men to go to certain places to sign. But if you haven't received a notice and there was a work sheet made for the farm you should come to the office at once since we hope to complete these forms in the next few days and send them to the state office.

Now is a good time to make a mineral mixture and keep it in a dry place for the sheep until after lambing time. A mixture of two parts of finely ground limestone, one part steamed bone meal and one part salt will save some of the ewes. But it will be too late after the sheep begin to die, to give the mineral mixture.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS URGED TO MAIL EARLY

During the holiday season the volume of mail increases approximately 200 percent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards and letters by Christmas Day the public should SHOP AND MAIL EARLY.

Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends, and loved ones at least a week or ten days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received before Christmas Day but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employees and enable them to spend the Christmas holiday with their families.

All parcels must be securely packed and wrapped. Use strong paper and heavy twine. Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, post-office box, or rural route number, typed or plainly written in ink. A return address should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. Articles easily broken or crushed must secretly packed and crated or boxed. All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "fragile." Parcels containing perishable articles shall be marked "perishable."

Do not mail Christmas greetings in red, green, or other dark colored envelopes, or in very small envelopes. No parcel may be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined nor exceed 70 pounds in weight.

Shop now and mail early for early delivery. There will be no mail delivery on Christmas Day, Friday, December 25. Post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the cooperation of the public.

THREE MEN CAME OUT OF THE EAST TO SEE SAVIOR

It is related in an old tale that out of the East came three men to pay splendid homage to the Savior. Some say these were three of the Magi, but another legend says these were mighty kings. The first of the three kings was Melchior, King of Nubia, whose gift was gold; the second, Balthazar, King of Chaldea, who offered incense; and the third was Jasper, King of Tarnishish, a man of giant stature and a "black Ethiop" whose gift was myrrh.

For the gift of gold was in testimony of His royalty as King of the Jews; the incense was a token of His divinity; but the offering of myrrh alluded to the sorrows which in the humiliating condition of a man the Redeemer vouchsafed to take upon Him.

The legend says these three kings rode before a gay-caparisoned train of mules, camels and horses loaded with rich treasure, and guarded by a mighty retinue of warriors, glittering with gold and gems, and armed with bright weapons of Damascus steel.

For they had heard that He was born who was to be Savior of the World and King of Kings. And each of these three kings left his throne that he might hasten to the tiny town of Bethlehem in Judea, there to lay gifts at his feet and worship. To them was given a bright star to guide them, and when they came to Bethlehem they sought out the place where He lay and knelt before Him.

And while the time-colored manuscripts are strangely silent on the point, theirs must have been an exaltation of spirit and a curious feeling of reverence as these grim rulers of many bowed their stiff necks in homage before the humble child.

Then when their mission was ended, back to Tarnishish and Chaldea and Nubia went the three, and each again ascended his throne there to meditate on what he had witnessed. For they had been privileged to see a wonder that was to encircle the

Is Your Employer
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Senators of the Republic

No business enterprise of any importance can depend for success on the knowledge and ability of its top executives alone.

It must rely also on the quality and training of the men in the ranks—whether they labor in office or shop or field.

Within recent weeks there has been some evidence a growing conviction that this is also true of government.

Both at Washington and elsewhere plans are being discussed for better training of the non-coms and privates who hold or look forward to jobs in the public service. A federal agency has recently recommended such training as a step towards economy and efficiency. Its proposals are supported by private research groups which have studied the problem independently; by colleges of high standing which offer courses leading to careers in the public service, and by various state and municipal governments which encourage special training for their own employees.

But the one who should be most deeply concerned is the average worker and taxpayer. Why?

Because he, in the last analysis, is the real employer. He—with millions of his fellow citizens—constitutes the government, whether federal, state or local. He doesn't merely share in its benefits; he meets all its bills—including the payroll. The higher the quality of the public service for which he pays, the more he gets for his money.

And the service is likely to be chosen in quality if his employees are higher and retained on the basis of whom they know. Not only that, but the field is likely to be less overcrowded—therefore less costly to the taxpayer who foots the bill.

If the American citizen would get his money's worth he must insist on ability not only in the top offices of government, but in the lesser jobs as well. This, too, becomes part of his responsibility as a shareholder in the most important business on earth.

The office-holder is his employer.

world, bringing to troubled mankind a new hope, and a spirit of charity and humility and fair dealing.

And perhaps they glimpsed dimly that we today would still follow the custom they established and that we would bear each other gifts in commemoration of their pilgrimage long ago. And that in so doing we would reawaken and rekindle within ourselves the loyalty they paid the Child at Bethlehem.

Now the origins of this story are lost in the mists of time, and we shall never know the three who came out of the East were the Magi or the three Kings. But today in Cologne Cathedral occasionally the heavy doors of a chapel are opened, the lamps are lighted illuminating a dazzling wealth of gilded and jeweled sculpture and a magnificent reliquary encrusted with gems and enamels where sleep the three Kings, whom many believe once looked upon the Savior.

KENTUCKY'S SOYBEAN CROP 150,000 ACRES

The College of Agriculture at Lexington estimates Kentucky's soybean crop this year at approximately 150,000 acres. Nearly 5,000,000 acres were grown in the United States.

Soybeans have many things to commend them. An annual legume they fit well with crop rotation, make excellent hay, furnish good silage, have few diseases and pests, are resistant to the chinch bug, and are heavy producers of seed and of value for meal and oil. Of all known vegetables, soybeans rank among the first in protein content.

Not the least of the soybean's virtues is its ostrich-like conduct when confronted with a drought. During July and August when moisture is short the plants may cease to grow, apparently waiting for more favorable weather, and following fall rains they shoot up into maturity with an excellent crop of beans.

The crop requires a good seed bed; the ground should be plowed in the early spring, and the soil worked down previous to seeding time in order to kill many weeds as possible. Planted as an emergency drought crop in this State, many farmers have found that it makes good silage.

Soybeans leave the ground in such excellent condition for erosion that serious losses from that source are almost sure to occur unless a cover crop is sown immediately following harvesting of the beans. It is largely because of the danger of soil erosion following soybeans that the crop should be considered primarily an emergency crop in Kentucky.

KENTUCKY JOINS IN

Cooperating in nation-wide plans to develop dairying, Kentucky herd improvement associations will have their cows ear-tagged and production recorded by the United States Bureau of Dairy Industry, it is announced.

nounced from the College of Agriculture at Lexington. The purpose of the work is to secure accurate records of production and to prove sire.

Kentucky has 150 herds containing 3,000 cows in dairy herd improvement associations. Testers will do the ear-tagging and production recording in connection with their work. Records will be kept in the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Census figures indicate an increase of 100,000 dairy cows in Kentucky in the past five years. Greatest increases have been in Western counties. Graves having 2,500 more cows than it had in 1930. Ohio county has 2,300 more cows, Hopkins county 1,700 more, Warren county 1,700 more, and other parts of the state, all western counties as well as many Todd county 1,400 more; and nearly show increased numbers of milk cows.

1937 CONSERVATION
PROGRAM MUCH LIKE
ONE NOW IN FORCE

J. B. Hutson, assistant administrator of the Agricultural Conservation program, told county agents at their recent meeting at the Experiment Station at Lexington that the 1937 program probably would be similar to the present one.

It now seems likely, he said, that there will be somewhat less emphasis placed on the diversion of food and feed crops and somewhat more stress put on soil building and soil conserving practices. It is probably that the 1937 program will specifically provide for payments for tobacco diversion, as in 1936.

Mr. Hutson expressed satisfaction with the way farmers participated in this year's conservation program, and indicated that he anticipated even greater cooperation next year.

According to reports at Washington, farmers of Kentucky participated in this year's program to a larger percentage than did farmers in most of the other states in the east central region.

A total of about 125,000 Kentucky farms came under the provisions of the Agricultural Conservation program, with nearly 240,000 producers benefiting. These farms represent more than 50 percent of the productive capacity of the crop land in the state.

In the case of burley tobacco, considerably more than 90 percent of the tobacco farmers will receive payments for diverting tobacco acreage to soil conserving crops.

Kentucky farmers will receive approximately $10,500,000 in benefit payments in this year's program.

Nations Prosper
As They Are Free

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"Countries are well cultivated, not as they are fertile, but as they are free."

That axiom, pronounced many years ago, remains true today. Now, as then, it applies not only to the soil, but to every form of productive activity—whether at the farm, the factory, the store, the office or the laboratory.

It was through the freedom of her workers—not political liberty alone, but the freedom of unfettered energy—that America became great.

It was largely because of this freedom that the standard of living for all Americans became the highest in history, while the workers of Europe—hampered by government edicts and restrictions—lagged far behind.

It was this freedom of enterprise that converted our central plains into earth's greatest granary, that released our hidden mineral wealth for world-wide utility; that transformed the experiments of the scientific laboratory into the realities of every-day life and use.

It was this freedom that gave the American workers more and better farms, more and better homes, more and better food, more automobiles, more telephones, more radios, more comforts of all kinds, than any people on earth.

Let's remember these things through the months immediately ahead. Let's remind those in whose hands we have placed the reins of government that it was freedom of opportunity and of labor that made America what it is.

Let's ask them—with our help—to sweep away all the barriers that block the road to recovery, and to let the American people press forward as they did during the period of their greatest development, free from the handicap of bureaucratic edicts, whether past or present, or future.

Let's impress on them anew that countries are well cultivated, not as they are fertile, but as they are free.

And that means freedom of our intelligence, our energies, and our spirit, as well as of our persons.

FEDERAL REVENUES SHOW SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

Washington, Dec. 7.—Substantial revenue increases during the first five months of this fiscal year raised administration hopes that the seven-year gap between income and outgo may be closed next year.

Administration leaders have forecast that improving business will boost receipts to the level of expenditures if the present tax structure is maintained.

There has been no definite statement, however, that the budget will be balanced next year.

Surveying income from last July 1 through November 27, fiscal experts said that continuance of the present upward, plus some reduction in expenditures, would balance receipts and spending next year.

Receipts for this period totaled $1,623,043,000, an increase of $171,981,000 over a year ago, an average monthly increase of $34,396,200. In the forefront of individual tax increases were income levies, which at $418,598,000 gained $91,496,000.

Questioned at his press conference last week, Secretary Morgenthau said March tax receipts would be "very large" and "up to expectations." This was taken to mean that revenues for this year will reach the $5,642,760,000 estimate or $1,526,904,000 over last year.

Besides pouring more cash into Federal coffers, fiscal experts pointed out that a continued business upswing will reduce the relief load.

Thus far, the Roosevelt administration's deficits have about matched the sums expended for "recovery and relief." Through November 27, this year's deficit stood at $1,230,000,000 and emergency expenditure at $1,146,000,000.

Authoritative treasury sources said that reductions in expenditures next year can be accomplished only by restricting emergency activities.

Slightly higher budget estimates are anticipated for "regular" government activities, they explained, because national defense, social security and other long range programs already under way anticipate increased outlays in 1937-38.

HEAVY DEMAND UPS RABBIT SKIN PRICES

Foreign demand for rabbit skins has been so heavy this year that it has practically exhausted the New Zealand supply, according to a report to the Louisville district office of the Commerce Department. New Zealand's export trade in rabbit skins has sharply expanded in the last four years. Shipments abroad in 1935 totaled 13,536,745 skins, compared with 6,660,140 in 1932. An increase of 60 percent are consigned to the United States. The appreciation in the value of rabbit skins in New Zealand has been marked. In 1932, the average price per skin was approximately 3 cents while in 1935 it had risen to 11 1/2 cents. This year, due to the unprecedented demand the price has advanced to 18 cents per skin.

RETAIL SALES OF NEW CARS UP THIS OCTOBER

The value of retail sales of new passenger automobiles shows a slight increase from September to October, according to a report to the Louisville District office of the Department of Commerce. Sales in October were a little more than 4 percent higher than in October, 1935, and about 17.5 percent greater than in October, 1934.

The dollar volume of retail financing of new passenger automobiles shows an increase of 32 percent for the month of October as compared with October 1935, and an increase of 33 percent compared with October 1934.

GERMANS PERFECT PLAN TO USE NEWS PAPER AGAIN

A chemical means of removing inks from old newspapers and periodicals so that the paper might be used again has been the subject of research in Germany for many years. Being unsuccessful in finding a process that would remove lamp-black inks, attention was turned to the preparation of an ink which could be easily bleached. Reports to the Louisville District office of the Department of Commerce indicate such an ink has now been developed and it may be adopted by the entire German printing industry.

Seven percent of the world's population is in the United States. This seven percent consumes half of the world's coffee, three-fourths of the world's silk, two-thirds of the world's crude oil and has more purchasing power than all the people of Europe. And yet our citizens are continually told that the American system has broken down. Strange breakdown!
