A GOOD RECORD
Neighbors of Mrs. D. J. Peales, route 2, report she has had a wonderful success this season with her fine flock of pure bred Rhode Island Reds. She has seven hens already off with good broods of chicks and some setting. Out of 105 eggs, 91 chicks were hatched. Of these two have died out of the brood and she now has some nice broilers. This is a splendid record for 45 hens. To say nothing about the large production of eggs gathered daily. Can you beat this record?

Club Meeting.

The Community Service Department of the Woman's Club met Friday at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Jess Nichols on Park Avenue. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a profusion of spring flowers and Shamrocks giving a festive appearance. The chairman, Mrs. Charles Binford, called the meeting to order and after hearing the minutes of last meeting, asked for discussion of old business. It was voted to co-operate with the Garden Club Department in a flower exchange on April 23d, the place to be named later.

The question of planting trees on our Highways was again discussed, and an agreement was reached that we ask the co-operation of the entire Woman's Club and other organizations in this project. A report of cook books sold by members of this department was made, and money turned over to the chairman, members were asked to remember the pledge for club week, April 2-7. A motion carried that we have a candy sale Saturday, March 24th. It was also voted that this department sponsor a drive for linen to be used in the city health department.

At the close of the business session, an interesting program arranged by Mrs. Binford was given, the subject being "What do Women's Clubs do?" After this discussion we were introduced to Mrs. Washburn, mother of the hostess, who talked to us in a very gracious and charming manner of the work being done by the Mothers Club of Paducah, of which she is president.

During the social hour we enjoyed an Irish contest, having our curiosity highly excited over the prizes concealed in the Shamrock packages. The refreshments were delicious and the favors were Shamrocks and green baskets filled with mints.

FULTON IS AFTER LIONS' CONVENTION FOR 1929

Plans are being made by the Lions Club to bring the state convention to Fulton or the districts of Kentucky and Tennessee for the year 1929. More than twenty-five delegates from the local organization will go to Frankfort for the state meeting to be held there and a fight will be made to secure the convention for Fulton. Promises have been made that other clubs in the surrounding towns will support the effort of the local club in their undertaking.

The citizens should give the Lions every encouragement in their efforts.

BELOVED WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Ellwood Brooks died at her home early Saturday morning on Church street, at the age of 34. She was a good Christian woman, loved and esteemed by a large circle of friends who regret her passing and sincerely sympathize with the bereaved husband and children. She is survived by her husband and three sons and daughters. Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p. m., at Chapel Hill church, conducted by the Rev. C. H. Warren, of the First Baptist church.

REMODELING SOUTHERN HOTEL BUILDING

Work of remodeling the Southern Hotel building started Monday morning with L. H. Howard in charge. J. Frazier Smith and H. M. Burnham, of Memphis, are the architects. We understand that the cost of remodeling and improvements will amount to around $35,000. This is a valuable business block facing Church street and extending from Main street to State Line Street.

FULTON AN IMPORTANT TRADE CENTER

The growing importance of Fulton as a trade center was fully demonstrated Saturday when the city was crowded with shoppers from all directions, many from neighboring towns as well as the rural districts. It was the largest crowd in town since the Christmas holidays. Some from the country had not been in town recently. They were in need of various articles and our merchants were splendidly prepared to fill their needs. Visitors revealed in the new springtime fashions revealed in the displays of the season's smartest and newest apparel. Spring coats flaunted new ideas, frocks expressed feminine charm, and the interesting displays of new spring hats, charming creations, won the admiration of women shoppers. Some were looking for odds and ends to spice out the cooler days yet to come and were happy in finding bargains galore in practically all lines. Others had in mind housecleaning time, near at hand, and invested in furniture, floor coverings and draperies, while the good, reliable farmer was visit-

Farm Notes

By H. A. McPherson, Co. Agent

Remember that my office days in Fulton are the second and fourth Saturday of each month and I would like to have everyone interested in the different phases of agriculture to call from time to time and if you have anything of unusual interest, I would like to know of it. If we want to make Fulton county the best agricultural county in the south we must all pull together.

Snap Beans. I would like to see around 25 acres of snap beans planted in and around Fulton. Snap beans has been a good crop through this section for the past several years. Beans should be planted at the rate of three pecks to one bushel per acre. Only good, rich, well-drained land should be planted in beans. They should be planted from the 10th to the 20th of April, depending on weather conditions. Should be ready for shipment within 60 to 65 days from planting.

Club Work. We have a total of 173 boys and girls and we would like to increase this to 200 before we close our enrollment. Several good trips are going to be offered to the best club members in the County. Jars and jelly glasses will be furnished free to all canning club members.

Ton Litter Work. I would be glad to have as many farmers as would to enter the ton litter work. You can enter anytime up to April 15th. Every farmer in Kentucky who fed out a ton litter in 1927 made an average profit of $70.00 per litter. If you have a sow with from 7 to 12 pigs be sure and enter this contest. You will not only find this a profitable piece of work but it will also be very instructive.

Hog Meeting. Fourteen of our most progressive farmers attended the meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning. Mr. Sellards made a very interesting talk, stressing sanitation and discouraging the use of a lot of so-called worn cures for hogs. He also stressed feeding hogs full ration throughout the feeding period.

BEELERTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

On last Thursday night the Primary and Intermediate Grades, under the supervision of Mesdames Crisp and Vaughn presented the operetta, "Cinderella in Flowerland." It was a success in every way. The stage was beautifully decorated in woodland scenery, and with the children dressed in their beautiful crepe paper dresses on it, it seemed to be a veritable fairyland. The children acted their parts with real dramatic ability.

There was a large and appreciated audience present. The money, which was received from the operetta, will be spent to purchase a back curtain for our stage which is something that our school has been needing for a long time, and will greatly add to the looks of our stage.

A real interesting chapel program was rendered on last Friday morning, which consisted of a "Mock Faculty." The seniors dressed to represent each one. Alma Bushart represented Mrs. Crisp, Margaret Faye, Mrs. Vaughn; Obert Bushart, Mr. Noel Kendall; Nelle Wright, Miss Allison and Hugh Wright, Mr. Crisp. Willie Clare Bailey, our other senior girl, gave a real good reading. The program was very much enjoyed by everyone.

On the following Friday night was the eighth grade graduation exercise. The graduating class marched in while Mrs. Bennett played a beautiful march. Then Mr. E. J. Bennett chairman of the County Board of Education, presented to the audience, Miss Mayo Craig, a very noted violinist who plays in the orchestra of the Murray State Teachers' College. Miss Craig, accompanied by Miss Katherine Mobley, played "Spring Song." Mr. Bennett next introduced Mr. J. D. Via, our representative, who made a splendid talk, giving the class some excellent advice. The eight grade teacher, Mr. Kendall, made a talk and several other numbers were given. The diplomas were then presented by Mr. Kendall. The class was composed of four members from here and five from Pewitts. Mr. Kendall, the eighth grade teacher from Beelerton and Mrs. Gossam, the eighth grade teacher from Pewitts, say that these students are unusually strong and we are expecting a real freshman class next year as these are all going to attend here.

The best all around students and next best from each room were as follows: From the 8th grade room, Agnes Pharis, and next, Sarah Emma Best. From Intermediate room, Ruth Hancock, next, Maisy Pharis. The Primary room, Glen McAlister, next, Jean Hicks. Those making the highest grades received gold medals, and the students making next highest were given a prize by their teacher. The medals were presented by some of the interested patrons of the community, Mr. Auzie Phelps, Mr. Leonard Duke and Mr. Philip White.

The school days for the grades came to a close Friday, March 23, after a very successful and interesting term of seven months. This is the first year since we have had a high school that the grades have only had seven months. We regretted very much to see the grades out and hope that next year they may have a nine months' term.

Last Friday, after chapel, Mr. Kendall, Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Crisp, each took their room on a picnic. They all reported on returning that they had a splendid time.

POULTRY

FIRST WEEK IS CHICK'S CHANCE

The first seven days are the hardest a baby chick has to live. It is during this week that careful feeding and close attention to brooding and temperatures are especially important.

Many poultrymen feed their chicks too young. A few make the mistake of waiting too long to give them their first feed. The proper time is between 48 and 60 hours after hatching, says J. G. Huplin, poultry specialist at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. A chick ration, developed by poultry specialists at the college farm and used by thousands of poultrymen in Wisconsin and the Middle West, consists of 80 pounds ground yellow corn, 20 pounds wheat middlings, 5 pounds each of raw bone meal and chick-size oyster shell, and one pound of salt with skim milk to drink and plenty of sunlight.

This ration may be used as the first feed and continued until the chicks are several weeks old, says the specialist, who emphasizes that all ingredients must be of the highest quality. Using musty or moldy feed invites disaster to the brood and the same is true of the litter on the brooder floor.

Close brooding and high temperatures also take their toll. The chicks will thrive better if given an opportunity to run about in the sun and kept at a slightly lower temperature during the day. He cautions against letting the temperature fall too low, which may cause crowding and smothering of the weaker chicks.

This attention should be carried through the following weeks, too. The chicks, after coming safely through the first week, must be kept growing every day if they are to return their owners the biggest profit.

Grains Are Essential in Any Feeding Plan

Farm-grown grains, corn, wheat and oats are good feeds and are essential in almost any feeding plan but unless a good mash is also fed, they will do little more than maintain the life of the bird. Most state experiment stations have worked out formulas for mashes that may be home mixed, also numerous concerns are manufacturing prepared mashes. Either the home-mixed or commercial mash will give good results when properly directed. They do not, however, that a "little" be fed today and some more next week, but tell you to keep it before the birds at all times. No one should expect one sack of mash to go very far in feeding 50 or 100 birds, any more than they would expect one feather to make a feather bed.

Give Chicks Chance

Taking the first hatched chicks away after they have become dry and fluffy may prevent the hen from leaving the nest with them before all the hatchable eggs are hatched. This is the chief advantage; they are not likely to be killed by the mother hen. Accidents in the nest do occur, of course, but, in consideration of possibilities, they are few. If chicks are taken away, they should be kept in a warm place in a covered basket and, when returned, given to the hen at night.

Poultry Hints

Comfort and contentment are necessary if hens are expected to lay well.

From the hen's standpoint, the house that is dry, wind-proof, light, bright, and clean is most satisfactory.

Milk and water are not interchangeable, and milk is a real food for protein building when hens require it most.

The newly hatched turkey is a weak little creature and must have the best of care. It is said that only about 50 per cent of the turkeys hatched ever grow to maturity.

Profit made on a flock of poultry depends not on the cost of the house in which they are kept but upon the kind of house.

The turkey hen can hover about 11 eggs. If more are given, she is liable to let them chill, as her body cannot keep them warm enough to incubate.

Water forms a large part of the ingredients of the egg, and if the hen has not everything that goes into the manufacture of an egg, her body will, of course, refuse to produce one.

When one gives baby chicks all the milk they will drink it is not advisable to put any meat scraps in the ration. If no milk is given to them, then a combination of meat scraps and dried milk would be all right.

Doctored corn is not very satisfactory. Probably the best treatment is a dose of epsom salts, one-half pound to 100 grown birds, in the drinking water. Afterwards put enough potassium permanganate in the drinking water to give it a wine color.

By the Side of the Road

By AD SCHUSTER

DOWN by the waterfront, not far from where the chamber of commerce literature says "all meets sail," more than one wanderer has met with Jacob Kerr. He is short and fat and he sits with chair tilted back against the unpainted front of his shanty, catching a part of the world go by on foot, in the pullmans and aboard ship. Old Jacob smokes his pipe and lets the sun "sink into his bones." He heaves a careless look on the big steamships and has scarce a glance for the passenger trains, but when a freight train passes he becomes alert, searching the rods, the roofs, flatcars and the spaces between cars. The hoboes who ride by against his interest. They are men who are young and carefree. They travel the world. Jacob is fat and he is getting old but there is a big pot on the stove in his kitchen and plenty of driftwood for fuel. He waves to the passing tramps and jerks a pudgy thumb toward his door. Some of them wave back and one or two swing off the moving cars to accept the invitation. The pullman of Jacob Kerr and his reputation for hospitality are known the country over where men meet beneath the water tanks or in the "jungles" by the streams.

This time it is a red-faced lad and a languid oldster who enter. "Hedge a few sticks on the fire," says Jacob, "and the stew will get to boiling. Going South for the winter?"

Inside is warmth, smoking tobacco and food. Jacob, a smiling host, is content to listen to the stories of the world. This red-faced lad is trying gravely to act as an old-timer. He uses the talk of the road awkwardly. Jacob sees that he is homesick. Before morning he will talk to the boy. It might be a word or two now will send him back to somebody who waits. The languid one yawns, and falls asleep. He is too old to quit. The life has him and he doesn't care. Jacob knows them all and they know him. Not a few, when they are in funds, drop a coin in the box by the door, a coin that will feed some other fellow. The languid man snores and Jacob nods toward him.

"Been partners long?" "Naw. Him and me just looked up the other day. My pard, my real pard, he was caught underneath. I rolled down a bank. That was a regular guy. He had me all smoked up to heat it home to start where I left off, but now I don't know."

The old man puffs hard on his pipe. "Had some sorta row at home, I expect, and ran away. Said you were going to make your fortune. That's the way with a lot of 'em but sooner or later they are stopping in to see me and go floating on." Jacob eyed the other almost fiercely. "Look here, lad, have you never learned anything from their eyes? Hopeless, they are, the spark's gone." He nods again to the sleeping tramp.

"When you get that way you are fixed, fixed for life, for the roads and the beams, and all the time you are growing older. Some day a tramp will be found and taken to a pauper's grave, and that's the end. Nobody knows how he suffered in his last illness, nobody there to take his last word. I tell you, kid, go back while you have the chance. Forget you know more than your dad. Give your mother a chance to be happy again."

The kid grins and shifts his feet uneasily. He isn't going to let any old man get his goat. Nobody can tell him what to do. "Aw, this old fellow, take just like the kid who said—just like dad had talked."

"I guess it's too late with me, too." "Listen now," Jacob says, "I'm telling you something I never spilled before. I had a kid, he looked something like you, and he was wiser than his father. We had a little argument about schooling before he started into business and he ran away. Too proud to come back, he was, until he had proved he could make more money than I. So he stayed away. I found out he was a tramp, have heard of him once in a while, and it is because I may find him that I have sold out my business. His mother had died and he doesn't know it. They all come here sooner or later. I'm waiting."

"I wonder," the kid speaks slowly. "If dad feels that way."

"I'll bet he does. Say, you haven't seen Ned have you? I ask them all." And Jacob displays a photograph.

In the dim light the kid's face shows white. He turns to speak, then checks himself.

"Old man," he says, "I'll go back. Honest I will. I—I wanted to all the time." He rises, brushes his arm across his eyes and makes his way outside.

"Gosh," he says, "My pard, my real old pard was his kid. I couldn't tell him Ned was dead, but I can go back."

Engineering Defined

Last year the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America appointed a committee to draft a definition of engineering which would embrace the various branches. Many suggestions were received and after a careful study of the replies Col. P. E. Barbour, the secretary of the society, evolved the following: "Engineering is the judicious application of the technical sciences to the human solution of inanimate mechanical problems."

A FARM WAGON THAT IS GUARANTEED

The amount of satisfactory service that a wagon will give depends entirely upon the material and skill the manufacturer puts into it. We want to show you a wagon that is built of the best materials by men who know how.

THE JOHN DEERE WAGON

The Wagon That is Guaranteed

A special machine automatically measures the inside of the skien of the John Deere farm wagon and shapes the axle to fit accurately. The skien is set in red lead under high pressure. It has exactly the right pitch, and the axle has the right gather to make the John Deere wagon run lighter than other wagons. With the John Deere sand- and dust-proof skien there is no wearing of bearing surfaces—the oil stays in—the wagon is always smooth-running and light-pulling.

Only carefully-selected oak and hickory are used in the loads. And don't forget this other big feature—the heavy malleable fifth-wheel with corrugated coupling—no bending or breaking of kind—better does not get out of line and rock—no danger of tipping when handling large, top-heavy loads.

Come in and see this wagon—read the guarantee on the tool box—let us explain the many fine points embodied in it.

RED CROSS AIDS FLOOD FARMERS

$5,000 Appropriated to Buy
Seed and Feed in Hickman District

Hickman, Ky. — The Red Cross has appropriated $5,000 to aid farmers and others who suffered as a result of the flood a year ago. This money is available immediately and will be largely spent on feed and seed to aid those injured by seep water in the bottoms below Hickman as well as those damaged by the flood in the upper bottoms. Madrid Pen and No. 8 Island.

Some of the money will be available to aid certain families in Hickman who have been cared for by the community for one reason or another since the flood.

The money is for the relief of the small farmers and tenants who failed to make a feed crop the past year due to the lateness of the water subsiding or to seepwater, and cannot afford to buy seed to make a new crop.

Marion Rust, Red Cross field representative, the man who moved Columbus, Ky., came to Hickman a few days ago in regard to this. After an inspection of the bottom lands, the local Red Cross chapter started work to gather the necessary information and distribute the seed and feed that will be made available. Roscoe Stone, Henry Sanger, and Walter J. McMurry, of Hickman, were appointed a committee to handle the distribution and they started work Tuesday making a survey of conditions and checking up on reports on families needing aid.

The Red Cross is also carrying on the work across the river from Hickman in Missouri, where the Dorena levee went out. The sum of $20,000 has been granted the Mississippi county chapter for similar work, most of which will be used in the Dorena section. Some 200 families will be given feed and seed, and part of them groceries, to make this year's crop. The Red Cross has finished its program in that county of permanent relief, in the way of repairing houses, providing household goods, equipment and tools, for the people who lost heavily by the break in the levee last April. This amounted to many thousands of dollars.

in appearance. Knot can't slip, yet it "gives"
but slips back into position after each heavy shock and strain.

MONARCH Field, Hog, Poultry Fence

is made by the patented "Galvanneal" process which means 2 to 3 times heavier zinc coating than on ordinary galvanized fence. This, plus copper-bearing steel, resists rust to the core and makes Monarch far outlast any other hinge-joint fence.

RED STRAND (Top Wire)

We highly recommend Monarch to you. See it. The top strand is painted red so that you can be sure you are getting genuine Monarch. There is no extra price for this guar-

HOBOS KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR CLINTON

One unidentified hobo was killed and two others injured when twelve cars of a north-bound Illinois Central freight train were derailed at Clinton about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The dead man was crushed beneath an oil tank car on which he was riding, and it is thought that another man, who was known to have been on the train, is also beneath the car. The dead man was removed to an undertaking establishment where efforts were made to identify him. Medical aid was given the two injured men.

The accident, which was said to have been caused by a broken brake beam on one of the cars, occurred within one hundred feet of the depot. Wreck trains were rushed to Clinton from Paducah and Fulton. Quick work of clearing and repairing the track was made, which was torn up for several hundred feet. Meanwhile, trains were routed over the M. and O., and through Paducah. None of the train crew was injured. The only items found on the dead man's body were some clippings from the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

There are two very necessary essentials that are right-fully required of every undertaker.

FIRST IS SERVICE

We have so arranged every detail of our business that our service is equal to that of any of the larger cities and far beyond many of them. Our motor equipment is of the latest design, and built for the greatest comfort and service. Our funeral home is arranged for the utmost comfort of the family of the deceased, should they need it, without any additional charge whatever.

SECOND IS THE CHARACTER OF THE PROFESSIONAL WORK DONE BY THE EMBALMER

As much care should be exercised in selecting the embalmer to render professional service after death as is used in selecting the physician during the illness. Our embalming is done by Paul Hornbeak with Mrs. Yates as his assistant, and we believe there are none better prepared for this work than they are.

Teaching You Thrift

Practice makes perfect. Schoolmasters of today as well as yesterday constantly repeat that truth. Pupils learn by applying it.

Application of that principle to our everyday habits proves its practical help. We learn by practicing, whether it be a good habit or a bad habit.

This bank teaches you thrift by leading you to practice it. The lesson is easily learned once it is begun. To become perfect in it requires constant practice. A savings account is the most consistent method of practicing thrift.

O. K. LAUNDRY HAS COMPLETE SERVICE

The modern laundry of today is an expression of complete service for the whole family. Laundering has become the approximation of an exact science. Laundrymen of today are specialists and have learned the secret of improved cleaning in the most sanitary way, and the way that will have the least wear on linens is taught every employe in the modern laundry.

This class of laundry cleans more thoroughly, makes garments look whiter, with less wear and tear than the washer-woman in the own home. Different clothes need different methods.

The laundryman sorts the family bundle and each article goes thru the process of cleansing that will give the owner the best result, both in wear and cleansing. The O. K. Steam Laundry is modern in every department and has kept abreast of the progress made in improved cleansing for every garment. They give every article you send to them a special care, which is part of the routine of their work.

They have the most up-to-date equipment to handle laundry for the whole family and teach every employe to be a specialist in cleansing, neatness and carefulness. The family bundle will receive expert laundering in their hands as well as promptness in delivery.

Now is the time to send your curtains, draperies and rugs to the O. K. Laundry for cleaning. Just telephone No. 130 and your troubles are over. The O. K. will do the rest.
