THE LISTENING POST

● Patriotism is a most peculiar thing, and war jitters constitute another strange characteristic of the human race. Things which would be passed over lightly in normal times excite strange emotions and lead to strange conduct in abnormal times. We saw this manifested in the first World War right here in Fulton, and we are seeing some of the same things coming to light nowadays. Take a recent case in Louisville for an example.

● A boy in Louisville, with a somewhat distorted sense of humor, let us say, owned an ancient automobile. All of us know the sort of car I am referring to—a thing which will barely run, and which is usually occupied by at least eight or ten boys and girls, and with supposedly funny signs written on the sides and engine hood. Every small town has at least one, and I imagine that a large city might possibly have several hundred. This Louisville boy, with his strange sense of humor, painted swastikas on his ancient car, and adjacent to the names of several of his girl friends, painted in a large "Hail Hitler." The car was parked downtown in Louisville, and when a policeman saw it he began to suffer from this patriotic urge referred to. He at once arrested the owner of the car and hauled him into court.

● One might think that, although a policeman erred in the matter, a judge would see that a mistake had been made. The judge might have given the youth a good lecture on his poor sense of humor, told him that he was using extremely poor taste at such a time and then ordered him to publicly erase the signs and the "Hail Hitler." Even in this he might not have had a great deal of law behind him, but at any rate he would have made an impression on the boy. But the judge, also suffering from a severe case of patriotism, fined the boy fifty dollars with a thirty day jail sentence. This judgment was appealed and now the boy has been ordered held for the grand jury under this charge of disorderly conduct. He will be heard by a jury, and if this wave of patriotism continues we may see a boy sent to jail and made to pay a fine simply because of this burst of war jitters and patriotism. Curiously, too, it would be difficult to stop a public meeting of the German Bund or of the Communist Party in any city where such a meeting might be attempted. Such meetings have been held within recent months under full police protection, and it is a known fact that Communists run men for political office openly and without hindrance.

● Even admitting for the moment that the Louisville boy may be a German sympathizer, I cannot see that he violated any law. The United States is not at war with Germany. Presumably this is a neutral nation, and while our sympathies run strongly against the Nazis, we are still at peace with them. Presumably also the due processes of the Constitution are still in operation, and presumably any person still enjoys the right of free speech and free opinion the United States. If so, the boy would be justified in hailing Hitler all he desired. It might be a dangerous thing for him personally, due to the fact that he would be in the minority, and I would not advise any person to adopt such a course in any American city, but he does have the right and in exercising that right does not violate any law. There was no question of any riot or danger to the public involved in this disorderly conduct charge. The car was parked for hours in downtown Louisville and a lot of folks looked at it and laughed. But when the policeman saw it he said and at once arrested the boy owner of the car.

● Such patriotism smacks more of Communist Russia or Nazi Germany than of the free United States.

Solons Expect To Ballot During Day

Opposition Attempts To Amend Measure Are Voted Down

Washington. —The Senate beat back a concentrated drive to strip the peace-time draft bill of its essential provision tonight, rejecting an amendment which would have made conscription operative only in time of war or after a Congressional declaration that the nation was in peril of war or of invasion. The roll call vote was 54 to 29.

The proposal was advanced by Senator Walsh (D.-Mass.), shortly after the dinner hour as the Senate headed into a long night session forced by administration leaders in an effort to expedite final passage.

For nearly eight hours an unforeseen outburst of oratory, to which both sides of the controversy contributed, had prevented any action on several amendments that awaited disposition before a final vote could be taken.

Debate Limited
Late in the evening, Democratic Leader Barkley succeeded in obtaining unanimous consent to a debate limitation which leaders of both sides believed would bring a final vote passing the legislation and sending it to the House tomorrow. Under its stipulations, no Senator may speak more than once nor longer than 30 minutes on the bill, or for more than an aggregate of 15 minutes on any amendment or substitute.

Then, just before recessing until 11 a. m., the Senate rejected, 55 to 22, a substitute by Senator Taft (D., Ohio), authorizing a voluntary Army training corps of 1,500,000 enlisted men and eliminating the conscription principle.

FDR Demands Action
In the late afternoon President Roosevelt emphatically reiterated his demand that talking be ended and action taken so that other important bills—a $5,000,000,000 appropriation measure for the Army and Navy, and the excess profits tax bill—might receive consideration.

JOHNSON IS FINED
Porter Johnson, who was tried Monday on a charge of being drunk in a public place, was fined $10 and costs before Police Judge Lon Adams.

Battle Of Rival Caves Is Now Being Fought Out In Courts

Glasgow, Ky. —A battle of the caves, brewing for years in the land of fantastic underground displays, broke surface Monday in Barren Circuit Court as operators of two of the State's most famous caverns urged legal restraint upon each other's competitive methods.

Management of world-famous Mammoth Cave—under a publicly owned part of Mammoth Cave National Park—and management of Great Onyx Cave—under a private tract encircled by the park—are the litigants. Each has filed a petition seeking to make the other quit trying to hog business.

In the informal hearing in Barren County courtroom the principals, their lawyers and a score of witnesses gathered around Judge L. B. Handley, who took off his coat and loosened his galluses while witnesses accused each other of telling "packs of lies" and posing as people they weren't to lure tourists into their caves.

Huge Lottery Sift Widened

Philadelphia. —Investigation of a huge lottery centered in Philadelphia spread today to half a dozen Eastern States and State Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams predicted "there probably will be 500 or 600 arrests."

City detectives and State police in two raids yesterday arrested seven men and seized a large number of lottery tickets, printing and binding machinery and paper stock.

Magistrate Edward Williams held the men in $3,500 bail for hearing September 4. Detectives sought two others named as "higher ups."

Assistant City Solicitor James Francis Ryan said the tickets were distributed from Philadelphia to nearby States and sold for 25 and 50 cents. The "payoff," he said, ranged as high as $500 daily, with a special weekly prize of $2,500.

Adams described the raids as the end of an eighteen-month chase of "the biggest lottery in the United States."

New Bishop Of M. E. Churches Calls Meeting

Bishop J. L. Decell, recently appointed to preside over the Memphis Annual Conference, has called a meeting of the pastors and officials of the Union City District to convene at Union City, Tenn., on Tuesday, September 17, at 10:30 a. m. He will preach in the morning and confer with the pastors and laymen in the afternoon. Plans for completing the Conference year will be discussed at this meeting.

All pastors and officials of every church in the district are expected to attend and extend the new Bishop a hearty welcome. An attendance of 200 is anticipated.

C. L. Pickle Dies Last Night

C. L. Pickle, brother of Louie Pickle of this city, passed away this morning about 2:30 at the Fulton Hospital, following a brief illness. Mr. Pickle, who lives at Latham, Tenn., had been critically ill for several days. He underwent a major operation recently and little hope has been held for his recovery.

He is survived by his wife, his father, Bud Pickle, who lives in St. Louis; two brothers, Louie of this city and Cortez of Columbus, Ind., and a sister, Mrs. Pauline Tague of Kansas.

This is the first time forceful sales methods—which some witnesses said were like shanghaiing tourists from the highways—have become a judge's problem.

This was Onyx Cave day in court since it took from 8:30 a. m. until 4:45 p. m. to take testimony from the Onyx witnesses. Mammoth's inning is tomorrow. Meanwhile the management of a third cave—the Mammoth Onyx—has an "observer" in the courtroom to see how its like-name competitors came through.

Onyx Manager Testifies
Mrs. W. F. Cox, manager of Onyx Cave and one, she said, of its three owners, was first to take the stand. She described how her cave lies off State Highway 70, about three-and-a-half miles on a gravel road past the last entrance to Mammoth Cave. To reach either cave, tourists must go to Cave City, then take Highway 70, and to reach Onyx must pass both the first and second entrances to Mammoth, which conducts an information in the town of Cave City.

She told how, since Mammoth had first crack at the customers in Cave City and then they reached Mammoth first, she leased a strip of land between Cave City and Mammoth, and set up an office where solicitors "pull in" the cars to a gravel parking space to give "cave information."

British "Little Ambassadors" Curious About American Life

New York. —Here are some of the questions British children keep asking as they journey across the Atlantic to safety from their bomb-battered homeland:

"Should we have left mummy and daddy?"

"Are Americans all rich like in the movies?"

"Will they like us?"

"What kind of things shall I tell them—about the bombs or not?"

Mrs. Evelyn Fayer Turner and Lady Priscilla Norman—both crossed on the liner Samaria with 138 children as volunteer escorts—described the questions today and said that the first night out there was a little sniffing under the bed-sheets.

Mrs. Turner and Lady Norman are two of the hundreds of British women who have volunteered to shuttle across the Atlantic, without pay, to accompany British refugee children to the United States. Each of the escorts has 15 children in her charge. The actual care of the younger children is done by nurses and by the ship's stewards.

As Mrs. Turner sees the escort's task, "the ocean trip bridges the gap between the old world and the new. We should try to make that bridge as pleasant as possible."

Lady Norman felt that her personal task as an escort was "preparing their minds to equip themselves to hold up our point of view and honor, and to come back after the war to help rebuild the world."

"I called them my little ambassadors," said Lady Norman, a grandmother.

"My last words to my group were: 'Children, don't forget we must never let down England. Come back, and help reconstruct the world.'"

She said she had provided the children with books about Washington, "and how we lost America through our folly years ago."

Britain Reduces Nazi Sea Claim

London. —Thirteen British, Allied and neutral merchant ships totaling 52,899 tons were sunk by the enemy during the week ending August 18, the Admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty said "the enemy claims to have sunk 151,711 tons, or nearly three times the actual reported losses."

The total tonnage lost was slightly above the weekly average for the previous forty-nine weeks since the beginning of the war.

Axis losses to August 26 totaled approximately 1,184,000 tons, the Admiralty reported. German losses were 923,000 tons and Italian 264,000.

Neutral shipping seized by "the enemy" amounting to 32,000 tons also has been sunk, the Admiralty reported.

The German claim a British destroyer of the Viscount class had been sunk was authoritatively denied.

Britain To Aid French Lands Loyal To Allies

London. — Prime Minister Churchill Tuesday assured Gen. de Gaulle, leader of French in exile, that economic assistance comparable to that granted the British colonies would be extended to all French overseas territories loyal to the Allies.

This aid will be granted, Churchill declared, until an "independent and constitutional authority" has been re-established on French soil.

Chad Sides With Britain
The prime minister's statement followed an announcement by General de Gaulle that the governor and commander of Chad territory in French Equatorial Africa had decided to fight with Britain.

Negroes Taken To Paducah For Trial

Jasper Paschall, colored, Frank Alexander, colored and Lean Brewer, white, were taken to Paducah this morning for a hearing before E. Palmer James.

Paschall, Alexander and Brewer were arrested by local officers recently and charged with having illegal whisky in their possession.

LaGuardia Gives Hint Of U. S. And Canada Plan

Ottawa. —Deliberations of the Canada-United States Permanent Joint Board on Defense represent "the Monroe Doctrine translated into action," declared Fiorello LaGuardia, mayor of New York and chairman of the United States section, in an interview here last night. The board held its first session yesterday afternoon.

Asked if creation of the board represented a new approach to a Pan-American defense plan, Mayor LaGuardia said:

"You can use your own judgment. I think it is self-evident."

The short, stocky World War aviator said of the United States defense forces: "We haven't much to brag about but we will have in a few weeks."

The board, created last week after a conference at Ogdensburg, N. Y., between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, Aug. 17-18, opened its studies Monday of problems facing the two countries in defending the northern half of the Western Hemisphere from aggression.

EXAMINATIONS FOR STATE POSITIONS PROMISED BY NOV. 23

Frankfort, Ky. — Examinations for all classes of positions in the State Welfare Department and Unemployment Compensation Commission will be given "not later than Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving," J. P. Glasgow, superintendent of examinations, announced today.

Glasgow said there are no vacancies at present, but that the tests, required by federal law, would establish "a register of qualified workers for future use in filling vacancies as they may occur," and added:

"All persons now employed whose salaries are paid out of federal funds who have not passed open competitive examinations must take the examinations. To remain in their jobs they must make a mark of 70."

The tests will be held in Ashland, Bowling Green, Covington, Frankfort, Harlan, Louisville, Murray and Pikeville.

LIGHTNING HITS GLASSES BUT GOLFER IS UNHURT

New Orleans. —A bolt of lightning smashed the spectacles of Hyman Mandel, 44, Chicago department store executive, without injuring him. Mandel was golfing Sunday when the lightning flashed. He said he felt no ill effects.

Committee Approves 'Excess Profits' Tax

Washington. —Breaking a protracted deadlock, the House Ways and Means Committee approved yesterday a 20 to 50 per cent tax on corporation "excess profits" and a plant amortization plan designed to speed up the letting of defense contracts.

The measure, asked by the Administration, is designed to prevent the creation of "war millionaires" while not discouraging manufacturing companies from making plant expansions needed for the national defense. Small corporations, making no more than $5,000 a year, are exempted from the tax.

The committee made a number of changes in the proposals of its tax subcommittee, headed by Representative Cooper (D., Tenn.). Generally speaking, these changes were designed to make the tax stiffer on corporations with high earnings and lower on concerns earning small profits.

The committee approved the resignations in resolutions expressing its reluctance and then named Circuit Judge W. B. Ardery of Paris to manage the fall campaign. Robert Humphreys of Mayfield was elected committee secretary.

Roosevelt Provides Money For Housing Plant Amortization

Washington. —President Roosevelt has allocated $10,000,000 from special funds to expedite a start on a housing program for defense workers for which Congress was asked today to provide $150,000,000.

Budget Director Harold D. Smith disclosed the allocation after the Defense Commission had asked the appropriation for government housing construction in areas where the President found an acute shortage of living quarters would impede defense work.

The $10,000,000 was set aside from the $200,000,000 of "black check" funds which Congress gave Mr. Roosevelt for defense purposes. Smith said it had not been allocated among localities.

The budget director said that the President had now earmarked $54,668,844 of the special fund.

Shortage Of Labor Now Appears Probable As Defense Work Starts

New York. —Present trends, with the talk of universal military training and quickened production of implements for defense, are changing the emphasis from a chronic alleged surplus of human labor to discussions of shortages in specialized and skilled crafts.

Thus, the major depression illusion that the Nation "had too many workers is tending to disappear, and there is a growing recognition that leadership in the modern world is closely related to the capacity to produce."

As the enlarged defense program was getting under way, I queried Dr. Isador Lubin, Commissioner of Labor Statistics and former staff member of the Brookings Institution at Washington, concerning prospective basic changes in the market place for human services.

"It is a little difficult to say," Dr. Lubin responded, "what the effects of the enlargement of the national defense program will be on job possibilities because we do not know at this time in what industries the defense program will be concentrated."

"It is obvious that the defense program will involve a substantial increase in employment in aircraft manufacture and in shipbuilding. Both of these are industries operating at a high level of capacity, as will be indicated by their employment figures. The requirements for aircraft are going to involve considerable expenditures."

"To the best of our knowledge, such individuals actually have been found for existing production requirements, though a number of firms have standing orders with employment services for additional tool and die makers, largely in contemplation of their enlargement."

Donaldson Quits Political Post; U'wood Named

Talbot Also Resigns; Judge Ardery Will Manage Campaign

Frankfort, Ky. —Thomas R. Underwood, Lexington editor was elected chairman of the Democratic state central executive committee today, succeeding J. Lyter Donaldson of Carrollton who resigned because of the Hatch Act.

State Finance Commissioner J. Dan Talbot resigned from the committee, giving the same reason Donaldson did, and announced that the women members, employed in the State Welfare Department's public assistance division, also had given up their committee memberships.

The state committee approved the resignations in resolutions expressing its reluctance and then named Circuit Judge W. B. Ardery of Paris to manage the fall campaign. Robert Humphreys of Mayfield was elected committee secretary.

Talbot's Successor
Talbot announced the Fourth Congressional District committee had chosen Ballard Jewell of Bardonia to succeed him and Mrs. Marguerite Richardson of Elizabethtown to succeed Mrs. Mary A. Rhodes of Hardinsburg. Talbot and Mrs. Rhodes were district members. On his motion the state committee named Mrs. Mary Hayes of Campbellsburg to succeed Mrs. Louise Morancy of Lebanon as a state committee member at large from the Fourth District.

Donaldson, who was elected committee chairman last June, said he had "diligently sought" advice from Washington as to whether his position as state highway commissioner prevented his engaging in political activity, but had been unable to get a "conclusive opinion from the officials who are to enforce the act."

OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE

There is a widely held belief among American people that President Roosevelt has been practically martyred by the press of the United States, and that he cherishes a deep and abiding hatred for the press. As to the latter, we cannot say, and although it is true that a majority of newspapers are opposed to the President and many parts of the New Deal, this fact is of little importance. According to figures which cannot be questioned, Willkie has sixty-six per cent of American dailies supporting him. Roosevelt has twenty per cent and the balance profess to be neutral. It is likely that in the ranks of the so called neutrals one would find more against Roosevelt than for him.

This is of little importance, however, in the light of recent elections. Four years ago, when Roosevelt swept Landon into obscurity, the latter had more than sixty per cent of the newspaper support, while Roosevelt had no more than thirty per cent at best. These figures have been completed by Editor and Publisher, and gathered in a strictly non-partisan manner. They cannot be denied or questioned.

Newspaper support for various candidates is really not as valuable as many people suppose. The cause for this is somewhat uncertain, but regrettable as it is for newspaper men to confess it, there is a deep and abiding suspicion against newspapers when they wage an active editorial fight in support of any certain candidate. Perhaps in a majority of cases this suspicion is unjustified, but just the same it is there, and as long as this suspicion continues newspaper support cannot be of material value to any person. The writer has noticed this on the infrequent occasions when he saw fit to support a certain candidate. The first reaction is that a newspaper has been paid, either in cash or in promises of valuable things, and there is little that can be done about this belief. This feeling may start among a small number of people, but as the newspaper redoubles its support the feeling grows that the editor is really getting something big out of the campaign. Such a feeling will not enhance the value of newspaper support, and there is little than can be done about it.

Another thing which decreases the value of newspaper support in chain ownership. Right now one can see how this is working with one of the great dailies of the South. That newspaper has announced its support of the Republican candidate, and its opposition to the third term idea. Perhaps the newspaper is honest in this stand—no one can say—but it happens to be owned by a chain, and it is getting hundreds of letters of criticism for this position. Few of those letters fail to mention the chain ownership of the newspaper in question, and it is understood that plans have been made for launching a new newspaper in that particular city.

Working newspaper men have no illusions about the value of newspaper support for candidates. They frankly tell any inquirer that it is of doubtful value, and many believe that an ag-

WARRING IN AFRICA

The vaulting ambition of Benito Mussolini now leads him to intensify the war in Africa. The Italians claim their troops are on Egyptian soil and also in British Somaliland. London minimizes the importance of the advance into Somaliland and has not officially admitted that Egypt has been invaded.

Experts are wondering whether these attacks on the part of Il Duce forecast a major offensive or are intended merely to divert Britain's main strength from the defense of her own immediate shores as Hitler prepares the "total war"—the mass invasion—which has been threatened so long.

Reasons for believing that the Nazis are finding the invasion of the British Isles too dangerous have already been cited and it is quite possible that the developing war in Africa, which is Mussolini's contribution to the Axis, is intended to be a major action.

Whether success will be more certain in that quarter than around the English Channel remains to be seen, but if Mussolini is inspired by a desire to revive the Roman Empire of the days of Augustus, he had better read the history of that rise, reign and fall with a great deal of care.

Many reasons have been given for the decline and fall of the Roman Empire, but it is certain that its very extension was one of the most important causes of its collapse. Conquered peoples were brought under the domination of Rome, but they were not trained to increase the wealth of the empire by productive processes. On the contrary, there were just that many more to be kept quiet with "bread and circuses." They were bribed by the largesse of the central government and grew flabby.

Surveying the more immediate situation, it must be remembered that the British have been cultivating the good will of the Arabs for generations. Mussolini proclaims himself as the "defender of Islam," but the Arabs do not take him very seriously. On the whole, his war in desert sands may be as difficult as that of Hitler against the island fortress known as Britain. Exchange.

WITH ENOUGH PLANES, BRITISH CAN GIVE BERLIN ALL THAT HITLER CAN GIVE LONDON

What civilization needs is a thoroughly smashed Berlin. That was what civilization needed in 1918 and should have had.

The Times, its files during the period of softness toward Germany and diplomatic and financial aid of Germany in the United States and Great Britain, held that the Allies should have gone into Berlin after the Hindenburg. Lile was smashed.

Instead they gave Germany an Armistice, followed by paper punishment, and then loaned her money and coddled her while she created the most devastating armament the world has seen.

Now if the British can get planes fast enough, they can go to Berlin by air and do as much there as Germans can do in London.

The tit-for-tat of Brobdingnagian air armadas is not a pleasant thing to contemplate. But Germany has for almost a generation planned doing—to civilization—what she is now trying to do.

It is only fair that the British, who were not prepared when the war began be aided as much and as quickly as Americans may aid them with war materials, machines and supplies.—Louisville Time.

aggressive advertising campaign, well written and well timed, will do far more good than editorial support. A vigorous editor can accomplish many things, but there are few instances of editorial support really electing men to high political office. On the contrary, many men have beaten the united opposition of newspapers to win these high offices.

Nature's Danger Signal

How much easier it is to keep well than to get well. In these strenuous times so many people have faced out "feeling." They are tired all the time. ## Kentucky May Gain One Seat In 1942 House

Washington.—Preliminary census estimates indicate that Kentucky may gain one seat in the United States House of Representatives in 1942.

Along with most other southern states, Kentucky showed a larger proportionate gain in population during the last ten years than did the nation as a whole.

While not official, census bureau preliminary statistics list Kentucky's 1940 population at 2,839,927, a gain of 225,336, or 8 1-3 per cent, over the 2,614,589 shown in the 1930 census.

Preliminary figures show an average population gain for the entire nation of about 1-3 per cent.

Reapportionment of the House will not be made until after this year's Presidential election, since the final figures will not be available for several months and Congress has the right to dictate how, if at all, the apportionment will be made.

No one expects, however, that the membership of the House will be changed. Since 1910 there have been 435 seats in the House, the only changes being that with each decennial census each representative has represented a larger number of people. The present apportionment is based on one representative for each 279,712 persons, and under it Kentucky has nine representatives.

NAZI YOUTH TOLD TO TREAT POLES AS SERVANT PEOPLE

Berlin.—Arthur Greiser, Nazi leader of the Danzig and Warthe River districts, told the Hitler Youth Organization today in a nation-wide radioaddress that German settlers in the newly-acquired eastern regions should consider Poles as servant people.

Soliciting the youth's support for Germanization of the conquered regions, Greiser said:

"The Pole is the servant of the German and will remain so forever." He described "the blood-soaked soil of the German East" as "the land of our destiny for thousands of years in the past and future."

Harry Sprute Pitches Brilliantly In Relief Role But Loses 8 To 7

A one run margin again proved sufficient for the Oilers in the last of a three game series and the Wisemen moved out of town after taking three straight games here, the final being an 8 to 7 victory. The others were 5-4 and 4-3, and in every game the Tigers frequently tied the score but never took the lead.

Harry Sprute, the big left hander who has had a tough season here this year, was the shining star as a relief pitcher, and but for an unfortunate error in execution and another in strategy, the big southpaw might have been still pitching or might have won. The big lad traveled five and a third innings, giving three hits and three passes, and whiffed four during this time. He also contributed a double which started a two run rally. In the ninth, however, Quackenbush dropped a fly ball to base the first man, Pawelek then attempted to out-guess the hitter and had Sprute waste a couple of pitches. Harry doesn't have the necessary control to waste pitches and finally walked the man, Gentry was called in to put out the fire, and a passed ball brought McElyea in with what proved the winning run.

Harry started for the Tigers and was soundly for seven runs in the first three innings. In strict justice, however, four of these runs came after the side should have been out. Ray threw badly to the plate and missed the third out, and a double at once scored two more runs. Gallo dropped a thrown ball at second which would have been the third out, and Hugh Wise then tried to score two more runs.

The Tigers has seventeen men left on bases and when the game ended the bases were loaded and Bud Sly was called in to extinguish the flames. Peterson grounded to him for the third out.

Bowling Green, which has just lost the lead to Paducah, is here today for a series of four games, and a double header will be worked in somewhere along the line.

"Jesse James was shot in the back. That's murder and somebody's going to pay—or my name's not Frank James!"

The speaker, of course, is identified in the words above. And it is with this thought that "The Return of Frank James," new 20th Century Fox picture opening at the Fulton Theatre, begins today through Saturday.

Filed in spectacular Technicolor, the production is the colorful climax to the daring exploits of the

role in the earlier production, is again cast as Frank James. Featured are Gene Tierney, Jackie Cooper

and Henry Hull, while the cast also includes John Carradine, J. Ed-

U. S. TO PROBE SENATE CHARGE AGAINST FAISH

Washington — A Justice Department official said Tuesday an investigation would be made of charges voiced in the Senate that George Faish, 72-year-old British economist, came here to try to get the United States into the war.

If the investigation reveals that Sir George was here for such a purpose and failed to disclose it in his application for a visitor's permit, this official said, that could be made the grounds for revoking his permit.
